SHOCKED BY LIGHTNING

Severe Electric Storms In the Ohio Valley.

Car Load of Passengers Made Unconscious.

Cincinnati, May 22.—Reports today show that much damage was done last night in different parts of the Ohio valley by cloud bursts and lightning. No lives were lost and none were seriously injured, but many people were shocked by lightning that struck houses, barns and telegraph poles. The interurban electric lines are still badly disabled. A car on the Mill Creek Valley line was struck by lightning and set on fire at Carthage and the passengers narrowly escaped death, all being unconscious for a short time. Another car was sent for their relief. Much damage was done at Delhi, Home City and Fenbank. Many telegraph, telephone and trolley poles are down.

SENSATIONAL MURDER OCCURS AT BREVATOR

Quarrel Over Breakfast Results In Death of Railroad Workman.

Desperate Attempts Were Made By the Men to Lynch the Murderer.

A sensational murder that almost resulted in a lynching occurred this morning at Brevator.

A cook in a boarding car became involved in a dispute with two laboring men about the way breakfast was being served.

Words were exchanged and the laboring men sprang toward the cook, one flourishing a knife and the other a fork. Thecook picked up a large butcher knife and a fierce free for all fight followed.

The cook was gradually forced back toward the supply car, stabbing and slashing with his long knife. At the supply car door he sprang inside, bolted the door, went to his grip, secured a revolver and then returned to the boarding car.

The two men that started the fight came at him again and he fired. The bullet hit one of his assailants, known only as "Pete," and he dropped to the floor, dying almost instantly. Other men dragged his body from the car, the cook keeping them well covered with his gun.

About ninety men surrounded the car within a few minutes after the murder, a rope was secured and the mob set out to lynch the murderer. He quickly barricaded the door and kept guard with his revolver, until Deputy Sheriff Newton Randall, from this city, reached the scene.

Before the arrival of the deputy sheriff, the mob of would-be lynchers were threatening to burn the car in order to get the murderer out, but the cook warned them that the first man that approached would suffer the fate of the man he killed earlier in the day.

When Deputy Sheriff Randall approached, the mob closed in, evidently expecting a chance to take the prisoner away from the officer, but Mr. Randall prevented anything of that kind by coupling the barricaded boarding car to an engine and running it to Cloquet.

The would-be lynchers jeered and threw rocks as the car containing their intended victim pulled out, but that ended the trouble. The cook was taken from the car at Cloquet and placed in the lockup and will be brought to this city some time this evening.

The cook gives the name of Thomas Denny. He had been working at Brevator but one day and did not know either of the men that precipitated the quarrel. He says he was just in from Colorado and hired out as cook for the Brevator crew of laborers in Duluth a few days ago.

The scene of this shocking murder is a little station on the Great Northern road fifty-three miles from Duluth and eleven miles from Cloquet, just over the line in St. Louis county.

The fight took place in a boarding car belonging to Knudsen & Ferguson, of this city, and the mob that sought to lynch Denny was composed entirely of laborers that were resurfacing the Great Northern roadbed between Cloquet and Stony Brook Junction.

The murdered man's name could not be learned, he being known by his fellow-workingmen as "Pete," and it is said he was very popular.

He is supposed to be from Duluth and will probably be identified when his body is brought here some time tonight or tomorrow morning.

Immediately after the murder the Great Northern officers notified the sheriff's office to send a deputy sheriff to Brevator immediately. Deputy Randall evidently reached the place just in time to save other lives, for the mob was becoming more clamorous for a speedy application of lynch law every moment, and Denny says he was determined to shoot the first man that should either break through his barricade or burn the car.

Coroner Boyer went to Brevator this afternoon to investigate the murder and arrange for an inquest. He was accompanied by a representative of Flood & Horgan's undertaking establishment, who will bring the dead man's body here for a post-mortem examination, possible identification and burial.

THE JURY HAS NOT AGREED

And Tanko Murder Case May Be Tried Again.

Apparently Hung Up on the Degree of Crime.

After eighteen hours' deliberation the jury that went out yesterday afternoon in the Tanko murder case, asked further instructions of the court this morning, and was again sent out to deliberate. From the nature of the questions asked the court, it was evident that the jurors were a long way from an agreement. It was said that not more than five were agreed at one time on a verdict since the jury went out yesterday. The impression is that the jury is not hung up on the question of whether Tanko is guilty or not guilty, but over which degree to return him guilty.

Judge Dibell explained at some length and in detail the different degrees of murder and the distinction between each and of first degree manslaughter. He talked to the jury about twenty minutes and said that, while the jurors seemed to think they were as far from agreement as when they first started, he could not feel justified in discharging them until they had deliberated longer on the subject, that some jury must try Tanko and arrive at a verdict, and new trials mean a great deal of trouble and expense, which it is wise to avoid if possible. The court did not think it would be an imposition on the jurymen to send them back for further deliberation.

Neither the county attorney nor the counsel for the defendant was in the court when the jury came back for instructions this morning. Tanko was brought in, but as he does not understand English, he did not comprehend the situation and maintained the same stolid composure that marked him during his trial.

The arguments to the jury were completed late yesterday afternoon, the county attorney urging that the evidence showed Tanko to have been thirsting for revenge and to have gone back to Bollich's house with his gun, and with murder in his heart.

R. J. Dowdal, for the defense, urged that Tanko had no intent to kill Bollich, but after he was put out of Bollich's house went for his coat at Harnek's and remembering that he was going to the woods the next day, also took along his gun.

The court's charge was comprehensive and fair to the state and the defense. Judge Dibell explained the distinction between the degrees of murder, manslaughter and homicide, and said that if Tanko was guilty at all he was guilty of one of these charges, but if the jury found the discharge of the gun was accidental, the defendant could not be found guilty of any crime.

In case the jury cannot come to an agreement and the jurors are discharged, arrangements will be made to have an immediate retrial of the case.

RUSSIA HAS NO DESIRE TO CLOSE MANCHURIA TO THE U. S.

Ambassador McCormick States That the Czar's Government Was Most Emphatic In Declaring Its Policies With Relation to China.

London, May 22.—Ambassador McCormick is here for a few days on his way from St. Petersburg to America. He sails on the steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm Wednesday next, with his wife and Miss Patterson. The St. James' Gazette today prints an interview with Mr. McCormick, in which he is quoted as saying.

"One of my last official acts before leaving Russia was to interrogate the Russian government on its policy towards Manchuria. I was assured that Russia had no desire to see the Manchurian ports closed to the United States or to have its consuls excluded. The Russian government was emphatic in declaring that it was at one with America in the open-door policy in China, and what applies to the United States must apply to every other power. Your government also received and accepted similar assurance. I know M. Witte is a firm advocate of the open door, and I have every reason to believe that Russia is quite sincere in the matter. She points out that it is to her own interests to support that policy, and I think that is the case. The Russian statesmen are very anxious that the Siberian railroad should be a success, and to be so it must get freight, and freight in large quantities. Russia cannot of herself supply sufficient to make the railroad the desired success."

"You do not consider, then, that the situation in the far East is in any way serious on account of Russia's policy in Manchuria?" queried the reporter.

"I do not," replied Mr. McCormick. "I can see nothing at present which need alarm the United States or any other country."

Mr. McCormick added that the relations between the United States and Russia at the present time were of a most friendly character.

"Do you think the United States will view Mr. Chamberlain's policy in regard to protection with disfavor?" was the reporter's next question.

"I do not see why it should," answered Mr. McCormick. "We have set you the example. The suggestion that you give preferential treatment to the colonies is your own affair. Canada may one day be able to give you all the wheat you want, but not for some time. In the United States, too, we are a growing nation and we are consuming most of our own products. I believe the United States will not always send their raw material in cotton to England, but will offer you the finished article."

O'NEIL CALLED BACK TO MONTREAL

Montreal, May 22.—It is feared that unless the steamship men immediately come to terms another longshoremen's strike will be started. One of the conditions of the settlement of the recent strike was that the independent labor bureau would be abolished. The longshoremen have learned that the labor bureau is still engaging non-union men for wharf work by the dozen, and they sent for J. G. O'Neil, of Duluth, who engineered the last strike. He is here and has attended several conferences with representatives of the steamship men and the stevedores. The situation, so far as can be ascertained, is critical.

LOCUSTS AND SNOW IN SAME STATE

Bozeman, Mont., May 22.—One section of Montana is eaten up by locusts, while another is under three feet of snow. Professor A. C. Collier of the agricultural college has received word that a district forty miles square, situated east of Forsythe, is pestered by the Rocky mountain grasshopper, which has eaten up everything. Cattle have to be removed from the infected sections as there is nothing for them to feed on.

NEGRO VALET POSES AS A CONSUL

New York, May 22.—A negro valet named A. L. Allen, in the service of an Antwerp family, was allowed a vacation some time ago in order to go to Washington to see his family, according to an Antwerp dispatch to the Herald. On his return from New York he allowed himself to be booked on the steamer Kronland's list as "United States consul at Antwerp," and was thus placed at the head of the first class passenger list. Much attention was paid him by the personnel of the ship. Several New York papers announced the departure of "A. L. Allen, United States consul general at Antwerp on the Kronland." On arriving at Antwerp the valet resumed his duties as bootblack, doortender and general utility man at his former master's.

ARE TURKEY'S PLANS SPOILED?

Constantinople, May 22.—The suppression of news from Albania engenders the belief that the government plans for the pacification of that part of Turkey are miscarrying. The Albanians were known to have been planning to attack the Servian monastery at Deehani, near Ipek, containing Russian monks, and on the Russian embassy's representations the police authorities have promised to send troops to protect the monks. The warlike sentiments against Bulgaria is increasing in military circles and great activity is displayed by the war ministry. A division of reserves at Kalsariyeh is about to be called out for active service. Apart, however, from the probable intervention of the powers, the sultan will not permit a conflict with Bulgaria. It is reported that a Servian revolutionary band is assembling on the frontier with the object of invading Ottoman territory at Kossovo and exciting the Servians to rise against the government.

LORIMER GAINED ON THE RECOUNT

Chicago, May 22.—Congressman William Lorimer has a majority of 1001 over A. C. Durborow, according to the figures of the recount of the ballots, which was completed last night, after thirty days of work. His majority, according to the official canvas, was 985. The recount gives him sixteen more. The original returns from the congresional election, as shown by the official canvass, gave Lorimer 16,540 and Durborow 16,555 votes—Lorimer's majority being 985. The recount gave Lorimer 16,497 and Durborow 15,946—Lorimer's majority being 1001.

DECISION IS IMPORTANT

Postmasters Must Make Good Amount Taken By Burglars.

Bowling Green, Ky., May 22.—Judge Walter Evans, in the United States court here, has ruled that men in charge of postoffices must pay to the government any amount or amounts burglars may steal from the offices. The decision is considered important as establishing the liability of postmasters for funds and supplies which are lost by reason of burglary or other cause.

JAPANESE BOYCOTTED

The Korean Government Has No Time For Them.

Tokio, May 6, via San Francisco, May 22.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The Korean government of Queipart recently issued a proclamation "boycotting" Japanese residents as not entitled to reside on the island, and declaring that any Korean attending a Japanese school should be beheaded. The Japanese consul at Mokpo was reinforced by police, and a Japanese warship went over and is said to have arranged matters satisfactorily. The governor is said to have acted under French influence.

Discontent was manifested in diplomatic circles here by the announcement that the Korean emperor had appointed a Belgian, Mr. Bohm, special adviser, a post held by Mr. Kato, a Japanese. Japanese Minister Hashi has demanded that seniority of position be assured Mr. Kato.

The most serious trouble in Korea centers around a timber cutting contract held by the Russians on the Yalu river, on the border of Korea. This has formed a pretext for Russia importing troops nominally to protect the workmen. Japan has claimed a similar concession, and negotiations are pending.

FIRST HANGING

In Porto Rico Will Have Diaz For Victim.

San Juan, P. R., May 22.—In the Humacao district court of first degree today, Pedro Diaz was convicted of murder during a political riot at Humacao last August, in killing a boy named Octavio Reyes. Diaz will be sentenced tomorrow to be hanged sixty days later. This is the first conviction under the new code and the hanging will be the first to occur in Porto Rico. It is certain the governor will not interfere.

WAS ALL SHOT TO PIECES.

Ufa, European Russia, May 22.—The murderers of Governor Bogdanovitch, who was shot and killed here on Tuesday, have not yet been arrested. The post mortem examination of the governor's body showed there were two bullet holes in his heart, four in his lungs, two in his liver and one through his head.

ANTI-ADULTERATION LAW MAY CAUSE RETALIATION

Washington, May 22.—The state department is co-operating with the agricultural and treasury departments to carry out the terms of the anti-adulteration clause of agricultural appropriation act passed by the last congress, and it will not be surprising if the results are of exceeding importance and involve something akin to retaliation on the part of European countries. The test case, the foundation for which has been laid in the agricultural and treasury departments, will be based upon importations of adulterated German Rhine wines. The state department has received from the agricultural department a request for a copy of the record of proceedings in the case of Dr. Schnape Von Hope, one of the largest wine makers in Nierstein, who has been tried in Germany for adulterating wine. A great deal of this wine come to America and the agricultural and treasury departments wish to secure the legal evidence upon which it may be excluded. The state department therefore transmitted to the United States consul at Mayence a request for a copy of the records. It has been alleged by the champions of the anti-adulteration act that the German law does not prevent indiscriminate and wholesale adulteration of foods and wines, provided they are not to be consumed in Germany, and very careful inquiry is to be made into the proof of this statement, though it must be said that officials here place little credence in it. If, however, it should be well founded, based upon the consul's report, considerable additions will be made to the list of forbidden imports.

NEW YORK SYNDICATE WILL UNDERWRITE PENN. STOCK

New York, May 22.—Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. announce that they have formed a syndicate to underwrite the new stock issue recently authorized by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The syndicate will underwirte all the stock not taken by shareholders. Terms and other details are not yet obtainable, but it is believed that a large block of the stock will be placed abroad.

Philadelphia, May 22.—President Cassatt said today that Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co., of New York, had agreed to take and pay for, at $60 per share, all Pennsylvania railroad stock not taken by shareholders. This arrangement, he said, had commended itself to the management of the company and ensures the steady prosecution of the improvements and additions now being made to enable the company to take care of its increasing traffic.

The total amount of stock to be issued is $75,000,000, which is half of the amount authorized by the directors last March. The stock is offered to shareholders at 120, which gives the stock a cash value of $90,000,000. Payment for the new stock is to be made in three installments, the first of 50 per cent, between June 15 and 27; the second, of 25 per cent, between Oct. 15 and 26, and the third, between June 15 and 25, 1904.

Pennsylvania shares advanced 2 points over last night's closing price soon after news of the syndicate became known.

FROM PENITENTIARY TO ASYLUM

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—James McNally, released from the state prison yesterday, after serving two years for larceny, today occupies a cell in the insane ward at the county jail. McNally appeared before Governor Van Sant yesterday and demands exorbitant damages from the state for alleged mistreatment at the prison.

"They cut my head open and took out my stomach," said McNally, "and I want damages from the state."

The governor summoned State Afent Gates and the man was taken to the state board of control, where Deputy Sheriff Miller took him in charge. He will be examined in the probate court this afternoon.

NEGRO MURDERER DIES OF FRIGHT

Chicago, May 22.—I. Simms was arrested last night, charged with the murder of Joseph Dabney, colored, and died of fright on the way to the county jail hospital. Dabney was found dead May 18 at the foot of the stairs leading to his room. His neck had been broken. After an investigation detectives arrested Simms last night, charged with killing Dabney. He was taken to a police station, questioned and locked up. An hour later he was found on the floor of his cell trembling and groaning as though in great fear. He was taken to the county jail hospital at once, but died before the ambulance reached the jail.

PROMINENT MAN KILLS A FARMER

Jasper, Tenn., May 22.—Gen. W. E. Donaldson, former attorney general of this state, shot and killed Thomas Choate, a farmer residing in Marion county, Tenn., late yesterday. Choate came to the house of John Graham in an intoxicated state and began to use violent language. Gen. Donaldson and Mr. Graham tried to quiet him, and failing, Donaldson retreated into the house and procuring a revolver, fired three times. Choate died almost instantly. Gen. Donaldson is 65 years old and a prominent man in this section.

THE WILL OF CAPT. W. F. NORTON IS FILED AT LOUISVILLE

Louisville, Ky., May 22.—The will of the late Capt. W. F. Norton, Louisville's eccentric capitalist and landed proprietor, who died recently at Coronado Beach, Cal., was filed for probate today. The estate is conservatively valued at $1,000,000. Bequests to friends here amount to $71,000, and the residue, which will probably be $900,000, is left to the Baptist Orphans' home of Louisville. Capt. Norton was not a member of any church. Dr. Joseph A. Sweeney, who attended Capt. Norton, is left $13,000, the family servants are remembered in sums ranging from $1000 to $2000, and the Coronado Beach property and $3000 is left to Douglas W. Robinson, of Indiana, "a friend." A bequest of $10,000 previously made to Miss Augusta Savage, of North Madison, Me., is annulled. The executors would place no definite value upon the estate, as Capt. Norton owned property in Duluth and other places in addition to his Kentucky holdings.

A COLOSSAL MONUMENT WILL BE DESIGNED BY RUCKSTUHL

Will Be Seven Hundred Feet High and Erected on the Hudson and Will Be a Grand Emblem of Peace, With No Suggestion of War.

New York, May 22.—F. Wellington Ruckstuhl, vice president of the Municipal Art society of New York and ex-chief of sculpture of the St. Louis exposition, will sail for Europe next week and will remain abroad until the fall of 1904. His studio will be located a dozen miles from Paris, and there he will be busily engaged on models for several monuments. One of the models will be for a McKinley monument which will be erected in Washington by private subscription. Another model will eb for a colossal national peace monument, which will be 700 feet high and will be erected on the Hudson. The undertaking was outlined at a meeting of the National Sculpture society three years ago. Since then plans have been perfected, and Mr. Ruckstuhl has recently received such assurances that the $2,500,000 necessary will be raised by private subscription that he will devote himself to work on the model as cicsely as possible. The monument will be in the shape of an immense Ionic column, about 600 feet high, resting on a platform about 300 feet square. There will be elevators running to the top and a glass globe on top, about forty feet in diameter, to serve as a light house. In front of the column will be a figure of victorious peace, 100 feet high. Around the base there will be sixteen large groups of sculpture and about forty heroic portrait statues of men distinguished in literature and science. All suggestions of war will be eliminated.

The two stories in the 100-foot cube will be used as a library and as a lecture, music and concert hall.

GALLATIN ROUTE MUST BE CARRIED

Washington, May 22.—Postmaster General Payne has ordered the immediate resumption of service on the suspended rural free delivery mail route at Gallatin, Tenn. The resignation of John C. Algood, the negro carrier, who was intimidated and who refused to resume work, has been accepted, and the civil service commission has been called upon to certify a carrier to fill his place. The postmaster general, in a statement regarding the case, said he believed that Algood could with safety to himself resume delivering mail on his route, and cites the fact that a colored carrier serves an adjoining route. The postmaster general says he is not disposed to hold the people on Algood's route responsible for the act of the two men who warned Algood to cease delivering mail.

PALEONTOLOGISTS ARE SUCCESSFUL

Berkeley, Cal., May 22.—The paleontologists of the university of California sent to delve into the Potter caves in Shasta county have met with very great success in their researches. The first report from the exploration party has just reached the university. It shows that the caves are a rich field for investigation, for in the brief time the party has been there many valuable specimens of bones of extinct animals have been unearthed. Altogether 4000 specimens were unearthed, most of them in a good state of preservation. Seventeen of the specimens of animals found are of the extinct kind. The most interesting discoveries were traces of pre-historic man. They consist of a number of polished bone and stone implements which might have served early mankind as utensils or weapons.

SELL HOT STUFF

Some Country Stores Carry Fiery Red Liquor Labeled "Bitters."

Is Put Out By Drug Houses Under That Name.

The indictment by the last grand jury in the district court, of a general merchant in one of the outlying towns of the county, who was charged with selling intoxicating liquors without a license, and who entered a plea of guilty may, in the near future, lead to a closer investigation of the fluids that are being furnished to the small stores scattered over the county that are dealing in drugs.

The merchant who pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100, admitted selling beer in bottles labled ginger ale. It is claimed that even stronger intoxicating mixtures are being sold in the country stores under the name of "bitters." Not long since a bottle of some of these "bitters" fell into the hands of people who are interested in keeping down the illegal traffic of liquor in the county and the observation was made that the so-called "bitters" tasted very much like whisky. The bottle containing the mixture bore the name of a well known drug firm at the head of the lakes.

It was admitted that the "bitters" might contain a small portion of ingredient, but the indications were that the main constituent was the real thing. Numerous reports have been made that persons residing in the outlying towns have been known to drink a quantity of "bitters" and become very much intoxicated. While the proper authorities have as yet taken no definite steps toward investigating this new phase of the drug business their attention has been called to it by the frequency in localities of drunkenness from drinking "bitters" and similarly labeled mixtures, which are sent out in quantity to the country stores where the proprietor does not carry a liquor license.

Persons selling intoxicating liquors under any other name, without the proper license are liable to arrest and indictment, on the proper evidence, not only by the county authorities but by the federal authorities, and the penalty in such cases may be quite severe, either a fine or term of imprisonment, or both.

The supposition is that some of the country merchants have a demand at times for liquor and not having procured the proper license dare not openly sell it, so have arranged with drug manufacturers to obtain a preparation which under any innocent name will answer the purpose of their customers.

A prominent local attorney whose attention was recently called to the matter, said that while he had not investigated it to any great extent, his opinion was that the people who sent out intoxicating liquors under any other name, and with the firm label on the bottle, unless they could prove that the mixture they originally sent out had been replaced by another while in the hands of the second party, would be liable to prosecution and, on conviction, subject to a heavy fine or imprisonment.

It is understood that the "bitters" and other mixtures disposed of to the country trade find no place in the list furnished the drug trade in the larger towns or in the cities, indicating that the special brand of "bitters" is made to suit the demand of the particular localities.

MAKING MONEY TOO RAPIDLY

Harry Furniss, of Panton & White Store, Under Arrest.

A Duluth clerk working on a salary of $15 a week managed to save $39.21 in four days, but instead of becoming a domestic economy writer for the Ladies' Home Journal and telling how an industrious young man might build a modest modern $20,000 mansion for himself and prospective bride in eighteen months on a salary of $250 a year, this remarkable clerk was arrested.

Harry W. Furniss is the name of the prisoner. He is rather good looking, well educated and stylishly dressed. Five weeks ago he came from St. Paul and secured a position in the boys' suit department of the Panton & White store.

Notwithstanding the strong recommendations from St. Paul merchants, Mr. Panton decided to watch the young man carefully to see that he was courteous and accommodating to customers, and in this way he discovered the irregularities of Furniss.

Yesterday afternoon a woman that had purchased three suits of boys' clothing returned to the store to exchange them. Furniss opened the package, secured the sizes desired and then was in the act of wrapping the clothing up again when Mr. Panton stepped up to see if the customer had been properly waited upon. Incidentally the proprietor noticed that there was no "refund check," such as required by the firm, and the clerk failed to make a satisfactory explanation. Mr. Panton suspected that his patron had been overcharged for the clothing and immediately looked up the original sale check. Then he discovered that while Furniss had sold three suits he only sent the record and cash of one to the office, pocketing $4.95 that should have gone to the firm, and then overcharging the customer $1.

Mr. Panton summoned the clerk to his office, and after mixing his statements badly Furniss admitted the charge and said he had also "knocked down" $12 on the other sales. He offered to return the money, but when a police officer was called in and took him to the central station he refused to renew the offer to make good his thefts.

In his pocket Furniss had $19.21, and since Monday he had deposited $20 in a local bank.

RATE STILL LOWER

Wheat Charge to Buffalo Less Than When Millers Kicked.

The discrimination between wheat and flour rates to Buffalo in favor of wheat, about which the Twin City and Duluth millers complained some time ago, and which induced them to close up their mills, is now about as bad as it was before the railroads made a concession.

Based on a 2-cent wheat rate, the rate on wheat was 9 cents for four and a half bushels, enough to make a barrel of flour, while the rate on flour was 20 cents per barrel, not including a charge of 6 cents a barrel for handling. This was a discrimination of 11 cents a barrel against flour, giving an advantage to Eastern millers of which the Northwestern millers complained bitterly.

The railroads granted the millers a concession of 3 cents per 100 pounds, or 6 cents a barrel, and while at first it was not considered sufficient, it was finally accepted.

Now, however, the wheat rate has gone off to 1¼ cents a bushel, and it is likely to continue at that all summer, as there is very little wheat pressing for shipment, there being only about 3,000,000 bushels in store, and therefore nothing to bring the rate up. The reduction in the wheat rate amounts to more than one-third.

Another interesting feature of the situation is that the package freight or line boats, which carry the flour, are the ones that have brought the wheat rate down to what it now is, while they hold the flour rate steady.

MEMORIAL SERMON.

G. A. R. Posts Will Attend First Presbyterian Church.

The annual Memorial day sermon will be preached Sunday in the First Presbyterian church by the pastor, Dr. T. H. Cleland. The two local posts of the Grand Army, J. B. Culver post and Willis A. Gorman post, and the two auxiliary orders, the Women's Relief corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R., will attend in a body.

ANOTHER DEPUTY.

The creation of an additional United States court judgeship in the district of Minnesota is likely to create another position for which there may possibly be some competition.

It is likely that it will necessitate the appointment of another deputy United States marshal. There is already one deputy marshal here, George J. Mallory, but his present duties take up his time, and if separate courts are to be held here by Judge Morris, it will probably be necessary to have another.

United States Marshal Grimshaw makes the appointment, and it will probably be made within a few weeks if it is found to be necessary.

REDUCTION IN RATES

In Near Future on the Hill Roads Is Predicted.

New York, May 22.—In an editorial on the Northern Securities and the policy underlying amendments of tariffs the Wall Street Journal makes some interesting comment upon the Hill methods. It says:

"The amendments to the freight tariffs of Great Northern and Northern Pacific are not, in themselves, important. The articles affected are such as constitute at present the smallest proportion of the freight of the two roads.

"It is the policy that underlies the reductions that is of importance. The northern roads have always found their eastbound tonnage heavier than their westbound. The empty mileage west-bound offends Mr. Hill, the fundamental principle of whose railroad policy is that all cars must be full all the time when they are in transit. He has now advocated the reduction of rates on products of the southwest, with the ultimate intention of making it worth while for shippers southwest of St. Louis to route their traffic northwest to the ports of the north Pacific coast rather than the ports of the southern Pacific slope.

"The reduction of all freight rates between Chicago and the ports of the north Pacific slope is the ultimate purpose of J. J. Hill. His theory is that when the stocks of the companies engaged in that traffic are able to pay as high as 7 per cent they are paying as much as they should, and that further profits belong of right to the shippers and producers. He considers that efficiency of operation has not yet reached its limit, and that therefore great room remains for the reduction of rate tariffs. In conversation about Northern Securities this is the point that he emphasizes more than others, namely that the operation of the corporation permits economies that cannot be put in force without it.

"Within two years Mr. Hill will have placed on the north Pacific route an additional tonnage equal to that now employed in the trans-Pacific trade from the ports served by his lines. This fact, taken in connection with the other obvious fact that the steamer lines on the Pacific, with the possible exception of Canadian Pacific steamers out of Vancouver, are falling off in their current earnings as compared with previous years, is worthy of much attention. Mr. Hill says that he is doing it because he has faith in the opening up of the orient, both as a producer of tonnage for shipment this way and as a field for American commerce west-bound. The one without the other would not pay interest on Mr. Hill's investment in Pacific ships.

"This reduction in the rates on southwest product is merely a step in the policy that is to provide freight for these new ships out of American ports on Puget Sound. Mr. Hill intends to make it worth the while of shippers in all parts of the Union except California to ship their goods to the Orient through the northern ports, and over the lines of Northern Securities. This present step is but a beginning. Mr. Hill expects to secure 90 per cent of the cotton goods exports to the Orient within the next few years. He expects also to secure the tonnage of raw cotton, which is not of nearly so much importance as that of manufactured goods. He is going to bid for every kind of tonnage that will fill a car, fit in the hold of the biggest ship afloat, and pay rates that will show even the smallest fraction of a cent profit to the transportation companies that secure it.

"The Northwest may consequently look for other reductions in rates in the near future. The future annual reports of Great Northern and Northern Pacific are likely to show decreases in ton-mile revenue, balanced by increases in volume of tonnage transported."

WOULD GET JIMMY

Duluth After Hart, Crack First Baseman of Columbus.

Volz Is Expected to Report at Fargo or Winnipeg.

Duluth is strong after "Jimmy" Hart, of the Columbus American association team, to play first base for the Cardinals.

It is not known definitely whether the current negotiations will be successful, but the fact that Hart played here several seasons ago, liked the town and was popular with the fans is taken as an indication that he will favorably consider the offer that is being made.

Duluth needs him in the place of Kennally, who deserted to play with Rockford. If Hart is secured, Kennally's double-dealing will be a sort of blessing in disguise.

In the American association last year Hart had a batting average of .305, making 144 hits for a total of 178 bases and 77 runs in 123 games. With such a record in the American association he would be a great strength to Duluth's infield.

The local management is also keeping wires warm between here and St. Paul to have Volz report for duty either in tomorrow's final game at Fargo or at Winnipeg, where the Cardinals play four games in two days, opening up on Monday—with a double-header celebrating Queen's birthday.

Unofficial information from St. Paul is to the effect that Volz will join the Duluth team immediately, and also to the effect that he is in excellent pitching form.

Kennally has written Manager Van Praagh that he is getting good money playing first for Rockford, and if Duluth has him expelled from the National association of professional baseball clubs, he will join the outlaw league of Pacific coast cities.

Manager Van Praagh says that Kennally's violation of the Duluth contract will not be overlooked, and advices from President Laxdal of the Northern league are also to that effect.

If Hart and Volz are secured the Cardinal aggregation will be strengthened greatly.

BIDS ACCEPTED

For Carrying Government Freight to the Philippines.

Washington, May 22.—Col. Patten, acting quartermaster general of the army, today decided to accept two bids for carrying freight from the Pacific coast to the Philippines. The bids were the same on miscellaneous freight and passengers. The contracts will be made with the Pacific Mail Steamship company for San Francisco freight and with the Boston Steamship company for freight from Seattle. The action today does not mean that the transport service of the government will be discontinued, but the contracts are made for such freight as may not be carried by the transports.

Secured New Trial For a Convicted Murderer.

Indianapolis, May 22.—Because the trial judge, in his instructions to the jury, said "consistent," while meaning "inconsistent," Charles Hampton, convicted of murder, was granted a new trial by the supreme court. The case comes from the circuit court of Hendricks county.

Hampton was employed in a drug store in Coatesville, the store having a blind tiger in the rear. Wilson Haynes, a patron, and Hampton engaged in a controversy. Haynes was shot and killed. There were no witnesses.

The trial judge, in charging the jury, said: "The proof must not only coincide with the hypothesis of guilt, but must be consistent with every other contention." The supreme court decided that the judge certainly meant to say "inconsistent," and held that there new trial.

HOWE EXONERATED.

Chicago, May 22.—An investigation of the charges made against Thaddeus H. Howe, president of the Cigar Dealers' association of America, has resulted in a finding in favor of Mr. Howe. The charges were that Mr. Howe's own tobacco company had for stockholders a number of men who are closely identified with the so-called trust, but the association's executive committee, which conducted the inquiry, reported that such was not the case.

CONDUCTOR KILLED.

Chicago, May 22.—Charles Babbitt, of Hammond, Ind., was instantly killed early today in a collision between a Pennsylvania railroad train and the street car of which he was conductor. The motorman, William K. Nobsy, was badly cut about the head and face, but his injuries are not serious. Babbitt was riding on the fender of the car when the crash came, having signalled the car ahead, believing the track to be clear.

TO CLOSE YARDS.

New York, May 22.—In return for a boycott of the labor unions on a lumber yard in Brooklyn, the Lumber Trades' association has decided to close all the yards in Brooklyn and Queens, which, with those now closed in this city, will practically tie up the lumber market. As a far greater business is done at the yards in Brooklyn than in this city, this latest move shows the intention of the dealers to defeat the material drivers' union, even at great pecuniary loss.

TO WELCOME PRESIDENT.

Tacoma, May 22.—The day is fine and the city is in gala attire to welcome the president, who will arrive at 4 o'clock. He will be escorted from the depot by a troop of cavalry, a guard of honor of G. A. R. and Spanish-American war veterans and citizens in carriages.

BURIED UNDER COAL.

New Haven, Conn., May 22.—By the collapse of a bulkhead on a coal scow today four shovelers were buried under an avalanche of coal. One man was killed, and three others injured, one of them fatally it is believed.

NEW JUDGE FOR POWERS.

Frankfort, Ky., May 22.—The court of appeals this morning sustained the motion made by Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin, that Circuit Judge Cantrill vacate the bench in the trial of the case of the commonwealth against Caleb Powers, charged with being an accessory to the murder of William Goebel. Governor Beckham is expected to appoint a special trial judge.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Milwaukee, May 22.—Joseph Gutsch, residing on the Fond Du Lac road several miles from this city, stabbed his wife to death today, then fatally shot himself. It is said the woman was nearly disemboweled. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause of the tragedy.

ASSEMBLY LISTENS

To Reading of Reports on Work of the Church.

Annual Meeting of Womens Board of Home Missions.

Los Angeles, May 22.—Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning the commissioners of the Presbyterian general assembly gathered in Emmanuel church for a business session. Simultaneously the annual meeting of the Women's Board of Home Mission was held at 10 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. The general assembly was called to order by Moderator Coyle, and business was immediately begun with the reading of the report of Rev. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the assembly, on revision of creed overtures. The report was adopted without dissent.

The assembly then turned its attention to the long list of reports of special committees submitted for approval. Reading of the reports consumed the remainder of the morning session.

The special committee on a ministry for Hungarians and other immigrants, contained the following:

The great importance of enlarged attention to the spiritual needs of the foreign-born populations, is emphasized in part by the statistics of immigration as contained in the reports of the commissioner general of immigration to the secretary of the United States treasury. These reports show that the inflow of immigrants is increasingly great, but that its race character has decidedly changed. The immigration of the earlier years of the second half of the nineteenth century came largely from northern Europe, but for the past decade the greater portion has come from the southern and eastern portions of that continent.

The larger proportion of the new immigration is of different origin from that of our people and foreign to our institutions. They are also prevailingly of the Roman Catholic faith. The Protestant element among them, while important, is not large, but merits not only our deep sympathy but most earnest effort for its spiritual welfare. It is our duty, whatever our views may be as to the christian character of the Roman Catholic church, to recognize that, equally with our celestial progenitors we are under obligation to bring the gospel in its purity to those masses from southern Europe, who are, to a large extent, both ignorant and superstitious. We owe this duty both as Christians and as Americans, both for the church and the Republic.

As in the past, so in the present, the widespread work for the foreign immigrant demands the attention of the church as a whole.

The special committee on the Presbyterian building, New York city, reported that it had collected $151,088 since the last report, without one dollar of expenses to the general assembly, and with less than $1000 of expense to the treasury of the committee. The total amount of moneys paid in from all sources and the subscriptions that are considered good and collectable, together reached the sum of $857,315. The actual mortgage debt unpaid at the present time is $250,000. To provide for this there is in the possession of the committee cash and good subscriptions, that will be paid when all the balance has been subscribed, amounting to $167,315. The total loss on the property during the years when it was a source of expense to the boards, was $56,000. The amount that must still be secured in cash and subscriptions to extinguish every vestage of debt is therefore, for the mortgage $142,684, and for operating deficit $56,690—a total of $198,775.

The special committee on statistics recommended the passage of a resolution authorizing them to co-operate with the director of the United States census so far as feasible, in the gathering of the statistics of the church, the use of the facilities of the office of the stated clerk of the general assembly to be used for this purpose.

The special committee on Sabbath observance reported in part as follows:

Notwithstanding the tendency of so many thousands of American citizens to treat the claims of the Christian Sabbath with indifference, if not with contempt, and to denominate all efforts to maintain the sacred character of this day as attempts to perpetuate 'blue laws' and to interfere with personal liberty, and with the carelessness of so large a percentage of professed Christians, there are indications of a quickened appreciation and a more comprehensive apprehension in the minds of our people of the value of this divinely appointed rest day, as shown by the larger discussion of the Sabbath questions in both the religious and secular press, and by the prompt and strong opposition manifested against all attempts to destroy the legal safeguards which the penal code of nearly all the states of our Union have thrown around this day.

The committee recommended the passage of the following resolutions:

Resolved—That the General Assembly hereby expresses its strong conviction that the sacred character of the Sabbath must be carefully and strenuously maintained, at whatever sacrifice of personal desire and material or secular interests that may be necessary in order to secure such results. To this end, we enjoin all ministers, officers and members of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America to exercise special care and faithfulness.

Resolved—That the General Assembly hereby expresses its strong and emphatic disapproval of all secular uses of the day, all games and sports, all social functions, all traveling for pleasure, all excursions by land and water, all uses of this day as a day of convenience to do that which has been left undone during the past week, or to promote the secular interests of the coming week, both at home and abroad.

Resolved—That, while we are persuaded that obedience to the Fourth commandment by the suspension of business will increase rather than decrease the profits of any and all commercial enterprises, the General Assembly does hereby earnestly urge all officers and boards of directors of corporate industry, and all employers of labor, to subordinate, if need be, the matter of dividends, to the demands of this divine law.

Resolved—That the General Assembly hereby expresses its emphatic condemnation of seven-day journalism, which, in our opinion, is doing as much or more than any other one influence in the United States of America to wipe out the distinction of days and to secularize the Christian Sabbath. Seven-day journalism voices the intense commercial spirit of our age, that would rob both God and man of the rest day for financial ends. Seven-day journalism causes a vast amount of Sunday labor. Seven-day journalism is a most efficient enemy of the church of Christ. Seven-day journalism prevents untold thousands of our citizens from attending divine service on the Lord's day, and unfits many thousands of others for receiving the benefits of such service.

Resolved—That, as the United States congress has recently pronounced legislation on Sunday to be illegal, we do therefore deprecate the practice of turning the clock backward in order to legalize the passage of bills on Sunday.

Resolved—That we most respectfully call the attention of all public officials to the potent influence of their position, pro or con, on all moral questions, and the necessity of greater care on their part, proportioned to the exalted nature of the office which they occupy, that they may strengthen rather than weaken, by their influence, public and private observance of the Lord's day.

The special committee on young people's societies said in their report:

While the Christian Endeavor societies with their 500,000 members in our Presbyterian churches, will constitute a large and important element to be conserved by whatever agency the assembly may see fit to establish, yet it must constantly be borne in mind that there are great numbers of other young people in kindred and missionary organizations, and probably as many more unorganized also deserving our consideration.

They offered the following recommendations for adoption:

First. That under the designation 'Young People's societies' be included all organizations of young men, young women and children existing in a congregation, by whatever name known, except the Sabbath school.

Second. That pastors and sessions be and hereby are reminded that upon them, first of all, and most responsibly, devolves the duty of constant, sympathetic and energetic leadership of their young people in Christian culture and science, and of hearty co-operation with the agencies established in Presbyteries, synods and general assembly for this end.

Third. That each presbytery appoint a committee, to be called 'a committee on Young People's societies' whose duty it shall be to aid all young people's societies within the presbytery, to stimulate them to active service, and to organize them into Presbyterial unions where practicable, and to report a summary of their work to the presbytery.

Following the adoption of these reports the Rev. Dr. Saxe, of Brooklyn, presented the report of the American Bible society, which was unanimously adopted by the assembly.

PASSWORD POTENT

John S. Sells Girdled the Globe on Bottle of Whisky.

"Have a Drink" Was Ticket That Carried Him.

Houston, Texas, May 22.—Starting from New Orleans April 22, 1902, John S. Sells has acomplished a trip around the world in a manner that has demonstrated the potency of a "treat." By the aid of a flask, kept continually filled with "good red liquor," he has accomplished 30,000 miles of his long journey and returned to his starting place, as he says, to take the Keeley cure.

"Have a drink," was his cordial greeting always.

Railway conductors, steamship officials, stage drivers, rickshaw boys and men of every nationality have bowed before their thirst and carried an adventurer to the far corners of the earth and back again.

Sells arrived in Houston riding in the caboose of the through freight train made up on the Pacific coast. From here he journeyed in the same manner.

Aside from the expense of continually keeping the bottle filled, he had spent exactly $3.25 since leaving San Francisco.

The entire expense of the trip was close to $600, of which nearly all was spent for whisky. The remainder went for several contingencies largely encountered in strange countries.

During most all the trip Sells fared about as well as those who pay the regulation prices for travel. He never went hungry, and, of course, was never dry. Sleeping was a little difficult, but after a few days out he grew accustomed to take whatever came his way. Aboard ship and aboard trains he shared whatever the crew happened to possess.

The traveler is of German extraction and has resided in many different portions of this country. His parents died in Lincoln, Neb., ten years ago, and he was left with a comfortable competency. By trade he is a barber, talkative, jolly and always ready with a story. His trip just completed was arranged on a wager of expenses up to $750, the limit placed by H. W. Sherman, lately of Houston.

Starting at New Orleans, Sells sauntered down on the docks. Among the many vessels in port he picked out one, an English tramp, about to sail for Gibraltar. Luck was with him.

Sells followed a party of sightseers on board. At an opportune moment something snapped. There was a whirr and a report like that of a pistol. The cable had snapped, and the loose end whipped over the deck, striking a sailor. He fell as though dead.

Sells was at his side in a moment. Out came the bottle. Soon the man revived and was taken to his bunk. Sells assisted. Tearing his handkerchief into strips he soaked the pieces with whisky and bound them over the injured spot. Instead of placing the flask back in his pocket he handed it to the captain, who stood close at hand.

"Have a drink," inquired the wiley ex-barber, not stopping in his work. When he turned around the much-used flask was almost empty.

Sells was invited to the captain's cabin. Another bottle was produced from his roomy pockets in spite of the officer's protestation of standing treat himself. The two men sat down and spent the afternoon together. The visitor made himself so agreeable that he was remembered when he was later found stowed away on the ship, then at sea.

Talking, laughing and telling stories over the flask, Sells worked his way from Gibraltar to Genoa. Singing and dancing and drinking he made friends. In time he was a chum with a ship captain bound for Greece. Away they sailed. The ship was lost, but the crew and the jolly rover were picked up by a tramp bound for India. More whisky was purchased. All the old stories were told over again, and all the entertaining qualities of Sells were put to the test. He succeeded. An invitation was extended to him to continue his trip through Ceylon instead of being put ashore at Suez, as were the others.

Three months from the day he had started from New Orleans, the traveler found himself in India. From thence on, by easy stages and mostly by slow vessels, Sells made his way.

At Singapore the fact that he was an American and spoke English made him a favorite with the class of men necessary to the pursuance of his journey. At Manila he found himself among Americans and the taste of the good old rye, liberally dispensed, won him the friendship of the master of a sailing vessel bound for Japan.

Rickshaw boys yielded to the sight of a bottle and Tokio was visited. Good fellowship and liberal treats won to Sells the heart of a Yankee captain and the long journey across the Pacific ocean was accomplished. Once in San Francisco Sells' stories, new and old, still stood, and the supply of "old Kentucky" was still unexhausted. Train crew after train crew bowed down to the bottle, and finally the trip through to Houston was accomplished.

Wild eyed, red faced and staring, Sells wiped off his thirsty lips and climbed to the ground. His newly-made friends introduced him to the train crew taking the through cars on to New Orleans.

Now he is back in the city from which he started. In the year of travel he bought 379 quarts of whisky and consumed almost half of it himself. According to his story he was never intoxicated, never sick and never without friends wherever he stopped. But the strain told upon his physical condition until now he is little more than a wreck.

"I went around the word treating people and the answers they get from my references will prove it. Sometimes it was hard, but I have left a string of friends wherever I have been. When I started out I was always asking some one to have a drink with me. Lately I have discovered that I am always asking myself to take one with any old tramp. When I get back to New Orleans I'm going to take the Keeley cure."

The statement was made by Mr. Sells on the day he passed through Houston. The evidence of his hard trip is written on his face.

Sweethearts

Every girl is in love either with a real man or an ideal lover, for love is the first sentiment awakened in the young girl's heart; it is the sweetest dream of her life. There is another quality, however, so closely akin to love that they are inseparable all through life, and one is impossible without the other.

BEAUTY

The girl without beauty feels her helplessness in love affairs; she realizes how fastidious is Cupid in his choice, how fickle and inconstant, unless chained by the power of beauty.

THE TRACK MEN

High School Athletes to Compete Saturday at Driving Park.

List of Entries For the Several Events—Free Exhibition.

High school track athletes will hold their preliminary field day at Oneota park tomorrow afternoon. The object of the affair is to try out all of the track material possessed by the high school and select the best to compete against other schools.

A long list of entries is in the hands of Capt. Whipple. Most of the men are in excellent condition and the sport is expected to be very good for high school track men.

It has been customary in the past for the high school men to solicit prizes from the business men of the city to award to the winners in the preliminary contests, but that has not been done this year. No admission will be charged and the try-out will be an informal affair in every way.

On June 6 a three-cornered meet will be held here between Duluth, Cloquet and the Nelson-Dewey high school of Superior. The men who are selected in tomorrow's contests to represent the Duluth school will do some hard work between now and that time, and a fast meet is expected.

Most of the high school's old-time track men have graduated, and the boys who will represent the institution on field and cinder track this season are mostly of a new generation of athletes.

Last year's preliminary was the first which has been held for a long time in which no records made by former track men of the school were demolished. Some of the young athletes who will take part this year have shown up unusually well in practice, and something more out of the ordinary is expected.

The entries for tomorrow's meet are as follows: 100, 120 and 220-yard dashes—Carol Steele, Bob Smith, Wymen Miller, Joe Lonegrin, Frank Summers, Frank Winters, Al Cummings, James Manley, Grover Fitzgerald, and Lucius Whipple.

120-yard hurdle and 220-yard hurdle—Frank Scobie, Lawrence Bowman, Oscar Ejorge.

One-mile, two-mile and 440-yard bicycle races—Allen Nelson, Worth Andrews, Earl Arsenal, Harry Potter.

High jump—Henry Mace, Frank Scobie, Lucius Whipple, M. Crandall, Simon Clark and Fred Ober.

Running broad jump—Jack Bush, Jim Manly, Henry Mace, Lucius Whipple.

Shot put—Orren Safford, Allen Nelson, Lucius Whipple and Ernest Granzow.

Discus throw—Frank Scobie, Harry Potter, Al Cummings, Lucius Whipple and Orren Safford.

One-mile run—Jack Bush, Salisbury Adams, Charles Campbell, Albert Evans, Henry Mace.

Hammer throw — Orren Safford, Ernest Granzow, Carver Richards, Lucius Whipple.

The event on the program which will be watched with most interest is the mile relay race by four students from each class. The senior class team will run as follows: Jim Manly, Lucius Whipple, Al Cummings and Harry Davis; juniors, Carol Steele, Carver Richards, Harold St. Claire, Albert Evans; sophomores, Miller, Bob Smith, Harrison; freshmen, Earl Arsenal, Simon Clark, Charles McLennan, Fred Ober.

Statistics compiled by President T. C. Power of the Montana state board of sheep commissioners, places the total number of sheep lost in the recent blizzard at 80,000. Up to the time of the storm 600,000 had frozen in the snow of previous blizzards, making the grand total 1,500,000 lost in Montana since December. At an average of $2.50, this means a monetary loss of $3,750,000.

POLES FELL RAPIDLY

Pennsylvania Road Begins Dropping the Western Union Wires.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 22.—Immediately after the decision of Judge Buffington, hundreds of men, acting on orders from the Pennsylvania railroad general offices at Philadelphia began work of cutting Western Union poles on railroad property in this division. In a very short time miles of poles, holding hundreds of miles of telegraph, telephone and electric light wires, went down with a crash between Pittsburg and East Pittsburg. Telegrams last night show that the action in Pittsburg was general along the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad between Pittsburg and Philadelphia and as a consequence many smaller towns were without telegraphic connection, while in the immediate vicinity of Pittsburg there were a number of boroughs that were without electric light or telephone service.

Between Pittsburg and East Pittsburg, on the main line, the poles carried not only the wires of the Western Union company, but also the wires of the Monongahela Light and Power company, which supplies the lighting services for Wilkinsburg, Edgewood, Swissdale and other boroughs on the road. The consequence of this was that when darkness came the light company, which is owned by the Philadelphia company, discovered that it was without a line of current to these points, no notice it is claimed, had been sent to the Philadelphia company of the intended action of the railroad officials, either by the Western Union or Pennsylvania officials.

The downfall of the poles, the local Western Union officials say, affects that company but little. There were fifteen old iron wires on the railroad that always worked poorly and they were cut off at the local offices of the company. In place the company at once started in service three new routes to New York, all of copper wires and in perfect condition, to take care of the service thus removed.

MARROQUIN HAS NOT RESIGNED.

Panama, May 22.—It is learned from an official source that there is no truth in the report recently circulated that President Marroquin had resigned.

SUCCESSFUL ASCENSION.

Paris, May 21.—Santos Dumont made a successful ascent in his steerable balloon at Neuilly yesterday afternoon in the presence of 3000 spectators, including the minister of finance, M. Bouvier. The first attempt failed, owing to the guide rope becoming entangled in the balloon's propeller and the gas escaped from the balloon which had to be taken to the shed and refilled. A successful ascent was then made and the balloon proceeded to the Boise De Bologne, where a number of evolutions were gone through, amid the applause of the spectators. After maneuvering for half an hour at a height of 600 feet above the Polo grounds, Santos Dumont returned to Neuilly.

THEIR THROATS CUT.

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—Fred Letty, a laborer, and his wife, were found in their home at Independence, near here, early yesterday with their throats cut. The woman was dead and Letty was in a dying condition and so weak from loss of blood that he could not talk. A bloody razor lay on the floor. Mrs. Letty had threatened suicide and it is supposed that after she killed herself Letty tried to end his life. The couple were found by one of their children, three of whom had slept through the tragedy in an adjoining room.

TAMMANY'S COUP

New York, May 21.—Tammany, with the help of some of the fusion aldermen, turned Alderman Parsons (Republican) out of the sinking fund commission and put in his place John T. McCall, the Tammany leader in the board. The board, that is, voted to do this. Its power to do it is disputed.

The chairman of the finance committee of the aldermen is a member of the sinking fund commission. Just after the board had gone into session Aldermen Sullivan, McCall and Gaffney asked Chairman Parsons to call a special meeting of the finance committee. They said they had an important matter to lay before the committee. Calling together the committee Mr. Parsons took them into the ante room.

The whole nine members were present. The fusion men knew what was coming and when a motion was made to remove Chairman Parsons and put McCall in his place they voted in the affirmative and it was carried. Parsons was the most surprised man seen in the city hall in a long time.

As to the motive for the procedure, it is the wish of Tammany to be in a position to hold up as many as possible of the improvements contemplated by the mayor. With McCall in the sinking fund commission and Presidents Cassidy, of Queens, and Haffen, of he Bronx, in the board of estimates things can be made very embarassing for the mayor. Tammany expects to win next fall and its leaders do not want the mayor to have all the spending of the $140,000,000 which can be borrowed after next July.

Like cut. A ladies' hand-made chiffon hat. The crown is artistically made of a plateau of tucked, all-silk chiffon, laid on in artistic folds. The under and outer rims are covered with imported straw cloth. The side trimming consists of an imported spray of pure silk and velvet roses. An imported cut steel or jet buckle ornaments the front. A drape of pure silk taffeta on the bandeau and a knot of the same material at the back give the finishing touch to this truly artistic creation—$2.69.

Like cut. A ladies' hand-made, tucked. all-silk chiffon hat. The crown is formed of a plateau of tucked, all-silk chiffon, laid on in graceful folds. The under and outer rims are covered with imported straw cloth. On the right side of the crown is placed a spray of six imported pure silk and velvet roses, with natural foliage. The left side of the rim is ornamented with a large rosette of pure silk taffeta, held in place by two novel hat pins—$2.69.

JUDGMENT POOR

Said to Be the Reason For Francis Clergue's Suspension.

Story of How His Estimate of Mine Turned Out.

The retiring of Francis H. Clergue from the Soo companies has been a subject of interested discussion among mining men of Duluth today and last evening.

It is generally felt among the men who knew Mr. Clergue and of him, in this city, that he was not and never had been gifted with particular genius as a Napoleon of mining coups.

The story is going around, and is told on good authority, second-hand, in fact, from Amos Shepherd, of Hibbing, of one of Clergue's erroneous estimates made to his company or companies regarding Michipicoten mines.

The break in the faith of the directors of the mining company in Mr. Clergue's good judgment is said to have originated in a report made to the Consolidated Lake Superior company on the Helen and Josephine mines at Michipicoten by Amos Shepherd.

As the story is told here by mining men who have heard the circumstances, Clergue made a report to his company that the Helen mine would produce 500,000 tons of hard ore, and the amount could be gotten out in a year at a certain figure. The report was exhaustive and went into details of the work, but some of the directors entertained doubts and a meeting was held.

At the meeting of the directors it was unanimously decided that Amos Shepherd, who is now in charge of the Corrigan-McKinney mines at Hibbing, be employed to make an expert report on the mine, its possibilities, and something as to the cost and time required to work it.

Mr. Shepherd put in a great deal of time on the report and investigation, and upon looking over the property, made an estimate that the mine contained less than 130,000 tons of ore, as against the 500,000 tons claimed by Clergue in his report.

His attention was then directed to the mining offices, which were in poor condition, and the cost of operation was found to be far above what had been estimated in the first report.

However, Mr. Shepherd detailed a plan or system of operation by virtue of which large savings could be made, and included it in his report.

When the report was submitted Mr. Shepherd rendered a bill of expense and services rendered. This fell into the hands of Mr. Clergue, it is said, who cut the bill to the barest kind of an expense account and remitted that with no further explanations.

The peculiar part about the affair was that the report carried weight with the directors, and the system of operation and mining was put into effect, and is still being used, though to no benefit to Mr. Shepherd.

It is claimed that the shaking in faith of Mr. Clergue at that time became more violent, until it finally resulted in his removal from control of the Soo companies, included in the once famous Clergue syndicate.

There is some doubt as to the removal of Mr. Clergue from the directorate, expressed by mining men, and they claim that while he has been reduced, he will not be dropped entirely. The press dispatches say, however, that his retirement is complete from the Soo companies' combination.

COMMUNICATION RE-ESTABLISHED

Lines Between Duluth and Superior Are Working Again.

Communication was re-established between Duluth and Superior by the Duluth Telephone company at noon today. It was necessary to secure calls through the long distance department, however.

The Zenith Telephone company lines were not repaired at noon, but it was said at the office that men were working on them, and communication was expected to be re-established at almost any time.

The big packet freighter Buffalo ran into the telephone cables while entering the Wisconsin draw of the Northern Pacific yesterday evening, and took the cable with it, breaking the wires, and cutting off telephonic connections between the cities at the head of the lakes. The companies have some emergency lines strung at other points, and it is possible to be in touch with Superior in extreme cases.

NEW PAPER HOUSE.

Bennis Bros.. of St. Louis, Looking For Location.

F. A. Bemis, of Bemis Bros., paper dealers in St. Louis, is in the city and is said to be negotiating for the establishment of a new wholesale paper and stationery house in Duluth.

Mr. Bemis has been consulting with J. A. Stephenson, of this city, on the question of a location for such an institution, but no decision has been arrived at.

Mr. Bemis is at the head of the company which has large interests at the head of the lakes, owning the Lake Superior Bag works in West Superior, which manufactures heavy paper bags for flour shipments. The company has other similar plants in different parts of the country.

APPEAL TO EMPEROR

To Prevent Further Bloodshed Throughout Dalmatia.

Vienna, May 22.—The local bodies throughout Dalmatia have telegraphically petitioned Emperor Francis Joseph to intervene and prevent further bloodshed in Croatia and the Dalmatian deputies are on their way to Vienna to seek an audience of the emperor with the same object.

About 150 peasants, including many women, were arrested during the riots yesterday in the district of Kreutz. The position of the prisoners is extremely perilous. As the district is under martial law, the captured rioters are liable to be setnenced to death.

At Agram the hospitals are crowded with persons who were injured during the street fighting there. In spite of the disorders the unpopular Ban of Croatia, Count Khuen Hedervary, takes daily walks, but he is surrounded by a bodyguard.

YOUNG CLERK ADMITS GUILT

Harry Furniss Must Pay a Fine or Go to Jail.

Petty larceny was the charge preferred against Harry Furniss, the good looking and stylishly dressed clerk arrested for irregularities yesterday in the Panton & White company's store.

He was arraigned before Judge Windom in the municipal court shortly before noon today and when the warrant was read to him he entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 or go to the county jail for sixty days.

When asked if he had anything to say, the young man said he stole from his employers as a result of living beyond his means. He began "knocking down" on sales about ten days ago and expressed himself as being perfectly willing to make good the amounts he had taken.

The judge informed him that it was only within the province of the court to deal with the crime that had been committed and as for the settling he could take that up with those from whom he stole.

Subsequently young Furniss told an officer that with him it was simply a case of getting caught and that the trick that he had practiced, that of over-charging customers and short-changing the cashier was a very common practice.

He said that he did not know of this practice being in vogue here, but knew it was in St. Paul and other cities where he had been clerking.

The prisoner then asked for writing paper, saying he would send a letter to his wife in St. Paul to get sufficient money to pay the fine.

FUNERAL OF JONES.

The Late Iron Master Is Laid to Rest.

Pittsburg, May 22.—Funeral services over the Hon. Benjamin Franklin Jones were held at 10 o'clock today at his late residence on Irwin avenue, Allegheny. They were largely attended, and the handsome parlors of the mansion were crowded. The Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor of the Presbyterian church, conducted the services, which were short and simple.

The Rev. John G. Brown, a life-long friend of Mr. Jones and at one time his pastor, also participated in the services briefly, reciting a short prayer.

Despite the family request that there be no flowers, quite a number of them had been sent, and they were very handsome. One of the most notable was a large broken column which came from the men in the mills. The musical portion of the services was excellently rendered by the choir of the First Presbyterian church. The interment was in Allegheny cemetery.

TOO SEVERE IN MACEDONIA.

Sofia, May 22.—The new ministry has made representations to the Porte on the severities practiced in Macedonia urging their cessation as a means of bringing about more cordial relations between Turkey and Bulgaria. The Bulgarian government will also appeal to the powers to rtheir meditation.

MAP OF RIO GRANDE.

El Paso, Texas, May 22.—Thomas M. Perry, engineer of the sanitary district of Chicago, is in El Paso to finish a map which, when completed, is to be sent to Washington to file, showing the Rio Grande in all its sinuosities, the channel of the old river being shown since 1852. The map will be used by the government in settling disputes which arise in the future regarding title to lands on the Rio Grande, temporarily changed from one country to another by a change in the channel.

FIRE AT LEAD MINE.

Canon City, Col., May 22.—News is received of the destruction by fire of the mill and mine buildings at the Terrible Lead mine, half way between here and Silver Cliff. The loss is $50,000, well insured.

MINERS ASK BOUNTY.

Vancouver, B. C., May 22.—British Columbia miners are asking the Dominion government for a bounty of $15 per ton on lead product to assist the miners. There is now a bounty of $5 per ton on refined lead which goes to the smelters. The mines are now closed, and it is claimed that a bounty of $15 is required to enable the mines to be worked.

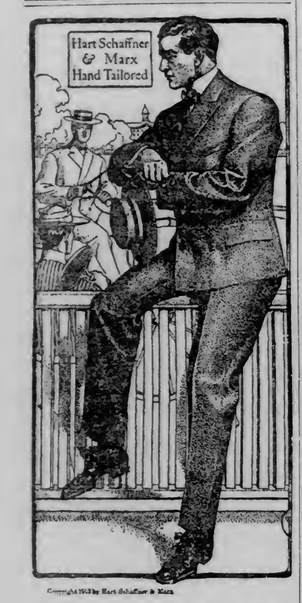
WILL NOT SELL ISLANDS.

The Hague, May 22.—The decision of the government of the Netherlands to station a warship permanently in the Dutch West Indies is regarded here as disposing of the rumors of the intended sale of the islands of Curacoa to the United States.



There is something about Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes by which you may identify them even more certainly than the "small-thing-to-look-for" label; it goes into them before the label.

It is a style, a quality, a tailored-by-hand touch to them; a harmony of fabrics, trimmings, etc.; a "thoroughbred" look about them almost never found in other ready-made clothes.

The fact that we can't define it doesn't make it any less real; you can see it, without fully realizing what it is; we can't show it or tell you fully about it until you wear the clothes—then we won't need to; it's one of the things that make the label "a big thing to find." Sold exclusively

TOO EARLY TO TALK

So Says Frank M. Eddy of Next Gubernatorial Nomination.

Ex-Congressman Visiting In Duluth Upon Private Business.

Frank M. Eddy, of Glenwood, Minn., former congressman from the old Seventh district, but at present a private citizen of considerable acquaintanceship and renown, was in the city this morning, arriving yesterday and stopping at the Spalding.

He disclaimed the existence of any political significance about his visit, but he visited Judge Morris, and when located by The Herald was chatting with Judge Morris and L. M. Willcuts, in the former's chambers in the federal building.

In response to a question along political lines, he said that he had been attending pretty strictly to business since his return from Washington in March, and was not therefore in touch with the political situation, if there is any such thing.

"What can you say about the reports that you may be a candiate for the Republican nomination for governor next year?" was asked.

"I have made no decision on that point yet," he replied, "and all I can say is that I am in the hands of my friends, and it would be a pretty mean man that would not uphold the hands of his friends if they called upon him to do so." And Mr. Eddy laughed at his little joke.

"Seriously," he continued, "it is altogether too early to begin a political campaign. The people are not bothering much about politics just now. It is the interval between campaigns, and they feel, rightfully enough, that they are entitled to a rest from political discussion. I have heard very little political talk, and I have found nobody that is much interested in politics at this time.

"I have not been in Washington since March. At that time I was called to the state of Washington by the news of my mother's death, and since my return from there I have been attending to business. My family is still in Washington, the children attending school there, and I expect to go down there June 11 to bring them home, the schools closing at that time."

SURPRISED BY RELIANCE.

Lamlash, Island of Arran, Scotland, May 22.—The leading Clyde yachtamen, who are now cruising in this vicinity, were somewhat staggered by the cabled report of the Reliance's fine performance against the Columbia yesterday. They expressed the opinion that the new American boat is a more formidable antagonist than previous reports indicated.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

Hancock—The historic old Cliff copper mine in Keweenaw county is to be stripped of its machinery, which will be taken from among the ruins of the shift houses, engine houses and stamp mill and transported to the Portage Lake foundries, where it will be broken up and sold for old iron. It was over half a century ago when the first machinery was taken by boat to Eagle river and hauled to the mine by teams. The Cliff, in 1849, paid the first dividend in the Lake Superior copper region, the amount being $60,000. The mine produced many large masses of native copper. In 1854 one was found in the seventh level that measured eighty feet long and twenty wide. After it had been exposed, a blast of several kegs of powder failed to move it. When a depth of 1000 feet had been attained by the mine, the vein became poor. Work has been suspended for many years, but old miners insist there is much copper to be found in the property and that it would pay to work the mine with the improved methods now prevailing. Wonderful stories are told of the richness of the mine also in silver. The white metal commanded a high price in those early days, and while the most the company ever received from this source in one month was $5300, it is said the miners themselves reaped the most benefit from the silver encountered in the copper rock.

Ishpeming—A novel feature of the semi-centennial celebration of the Lake Superior Iron company, on June 24, will be an exhibition of log rolling. Many of the best woodsmen in the peninsula will be entered. Another feature will be a drilling contest for miners. The program of sports will be a long one, and will close with a grand barbecue.

Steel trust officials from New York and Duluth, the latter the mining headquarters of the big corporation, will participate in the celebration and the day in general will be observed as a holiday, practically all work and business being suspended.

Calumet—Matti Juwika, of British Columbia, is in the copper country interesting Finnish residents in a colonization scheme. He represents "the Kalevnu Kansa Colonization company," which has purchased Malcolm island, twenty miles from Vancouver.

The island comprises 28,000 acres. Money is not required to purchase lots. Labor is the only perquisite required of the prospective settlers. The plan is socialistic in nature.

Menominee—Lindsley Bros., cedar leaders, are erecting a double block shingle mill at Alfred, a village just started on the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Boy Thieves Store Plunder In Cave at Jamestown.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown—The police are making a great effort to break up a gang of youthful thieves, who have been causing a great deal of trouble. The boys have been stealing from stores and other places. One was arrested yesterday also admitted that the boys were organized into a gang that held meetings in a cave in a hill west of the city. Gerald Monroe, the 15-year-old leader, fled from the city when he learned that a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

George Barth, of Buffton, Minn., had his left foot crushed under a Northern Pacific train in this city, and it was amputated above the ankle shortly after the accident. Barth had been stealing a ride on the train and in jumping off fell between the station platform and the main track.

Harvey Severin of this city, has secured a verdict against the Omaha railroad contractors for $1,000 for injuries received while in their employ. An embankment fell upon him and also crushed a fellow workman to death. Severin was obliged to have one of his legs amputated.

Grafton—Rev. Father La Londe, the priest in charge of Sacred Heart church at Oakwood, six miles east of this city, met with a serious accident. While returning from a sick call, his horse became unmanageable. The priest jumped from the buggy, and broke both his legs at the ankle. Aputation of at least one foot may be found necessary, as the bones and tendons are crushed.

The board of trustees of the state institute for the feeble minded met in this city Tuesday and awarded the contract for the completion of the building to Nollman & Lewis, a local firm, their bid being $21,000. The contract for ventilating, heating and plumbing was awarded to E. J. Harrington, of Fargo, for $11,846. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy early next fall. When completed it will be one of the handsomest state buildings in North Dakota.

A $10,000 Deaconess hospital will be erected in Grafton this summer, the contract for which will be let in the near future. The funds were raised by private subscription.

Grand Forks—Chief Inspector Duddleston, in charge of the United States immigration inspection agency at Winnipeg who has been here several days holding a party of nineteen Russians who entered the country at Negie in defiance of regulations, was instructed by wire last night by the commissioner at Montreal to have the whole party deported. He left with his charges for Winnipeg this morning. The Russians were brought across the boundary by Louis Feigler of Neche, who is under $10,000 bonds, and instructions have been sent by Secretary Shaw, who is under $10,000 bonds, and cuted. The maximum penalty in this case is forty years' imprisonment, if a separate case is made of each person smuggled in.

Edmore—The Great Northern railway is making many improvements at this point. Since the road was opened last fall the water supply has been difficult to solve. Now the company is building a large reservoir about a mile from town, and sinking a well.

Minot—Jourgen Olson, a land and loan man, was shot in the right leg near Bowbells by Erick Mattheson. A shotgun was used. Mattheson, his father and L. O. Story are under arrest. Olson will likely die.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Custer—George F. Harris, a photographer, is instituting suit against John L. Sanford, formerly a Congregational minister of the Hills, to recover certain photographic plates. Mr. Sanford was engaged early in the summer to prepare a souvenir booklet of Black Hills scenes, to be illustrated with half-tone views. Sanford took Harris out with him for the purpose of getting the views. Sanford afterwards had the half-tone cuts made of the views, printed the booklet under a copyright, and has since sold a great many of them independent of the Black Hills Mining Men's association, by whom he had been engaged. Harris now wants his plates, to print other photographs from, and Sanford refuses to surrender them.

Deadwood—The Garden City Mining company's property, adjoining the ground of the Penobscot Mining company, has been purchased by the Minnesota Mines company, recently organized by Minneapolis and St. Paul men. The Garden City company was owned largely by J. B. LeBeau and others of Central City and vicinity. The same persons have turned two fractions into the transaction, which gives the Minnesota company approximately 100 acres of ground in one tract.

Rapid City—The Congregational church society has extended a call to Rev. Stephen Butcher, of Ocean Grove, Fla., and it has been accepted.

There have been heavy storms in the central and eastern portions of the Hills the last few days. Reports from Mystic are that eleven inches of hail fell at that place, being swept into drifts and heaps that remained over twenty-four hours. At the Price-Baker sawmill on Box Elder creek there was the heaviest rainstorm experienced in years, and on Elk creek the precipitation amounted almost to a cloudburst.

Salem—J. P. Marks, died after a five days' illness of pneumonia.

Teamsters working on the new grading for the waterworks plant struck for higher wages.

BAD FIRE IN BROOKLYN.

New York, May 22.—A building in Brooklyn occupied by Frank Jenner & Co., manufacturers of fire-proof flooring, and eight other buildings, chiefly apartment houses, were destroyed by fire today. The loss is $100,000.

BOILER PLATE MILL

Of Central Iron Company Destroyed By Fire.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 22.—The original boiler plate mills of the Central Iron and Steel company, were destroyed by fire early today, entailing a loss of $200,000 and throwing a large number of men out of work. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire started in the roof of the eighty-nine-inch mill and spread with great rapidity, the timbers of the old mill and the grease-soaked material about the place burning so fast that the men had barely given the alarm before the roof of the mill was in flames from end to end. The two mills had recently been rebuilt and were among the most up-to-date in boiler and other plate making of any in this part of the country. Not long ago the machinery was practically renewed and new boilers of large capacity added and electrical apparatus put in.

The machinery is ruined and the structure wrecked.

AUTO TANK EXPLODED.

Several New Yorkers Severely Burned By Gasoline.

New York, May 22.—A score or more persons were injured by the explosion of the gasoline tank of an automobile, owned by Thomas D. Dewett, a wholesale coal dealer yesterday. All the injured, among whom were a policeman with three firemen, were burned by the shower of blazing gasoline which followed the explosion. While several were taken to the hospital none was fatally hurt.

The automobile was in charge of a chauffeur, who was taking it to a repair shop as the gasoline tank leaked badly. At Forty-seventh street near Third avenue he found the machine on fire from leakage from the gasoline tank and brought it to a halt. An alarm was sent in and after vainly attempting to extinguish the flames with hand grenades the firemen turned a stream on the blazing vehicle.

By that time three or four people had gathered close to the machine. The water had scarcely been turned on when the gasoline tank exploded. The burning fluid from the tank scattered in all directions and those in the front rank of the crowd caught the full force of it. A score of men rolled on the ground and shrieked with pain, women fainted and the fire for a moment was forgotten. The firemen dropped the hose and running for their rubber coats and blankets extinguished the burning clothing of many.

Of the injured about a dozen had their burns dressed by ambulance surgeons and at the hospitals. As many more received attention in the neighboring drug stores.

Duluth Defeats Fargo In Well Played Game, Gehring Twirling.

Batting Rally In Seventh Does It—Superior Again Loses.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Winnipeg	2	0	1.000
Grand Forks	2	0	1.000
Duluth	1	1	.500
Fargo	1	1	.500
Crookston	0	2	.000
Superior	0	2	.000

Mr. Burns' gasoline gave out in the seventh and Duluth won yesterday with a peppery batting rally.

Although thumped with considerable vehemence, Gehring twirled and played a great game for the Cardinals, keeping hits scattered in the face of discouraging support, striking out nine men and batting out a home run and a single.

For a pitcher, Gehring seems to have the home run habit in its most acute form. Yesterday's makes his second four-bagger in three games, and the beauty of it is that his hits always come when most needed.

All the way through the reflected hue of the dandelions sprouting in the Fargo ball park imparted a saffron tint to the deeds of fielders but still the game was replete with strenuous excitement.

That Duluth scored six runs with only six hits shows an improvement in team work over the previous day when eight hits netted but one run.

"Doole" Kline is catching one of the prettiest games in the league but he has not struck his batting speed yet. Neither has McCoy, Lambert, or Whealon, for that matter, and when these heavy hitters get going Duluth should work up toward the top of the percentage column.

Hunt, the new outfielder, made his first appearance in the cardinal and green togs yesterday and made a fairly favorable impression.

Lambert continues to play an unusually good game at first and is hitting out singles when they count for runs. He drove in the first run yesterday with a neat single after McCoy had broken off a double. The score:

Superior lost another poorly played game to Winnipeg. Tim Keefe's scraping propensities did not adu any to the brilliancy of the occasion and it now begins to look as if Winnipeg would get a nice lead in the league race in its opening series. The score:

Winnipeg	9 9 2

Pitchers: Bremiss and O'Connor; Gordon.

In a scrappy, hard hitting game Grand Forks again won from Crookston yesterday. Siette and Collette were bumped hard. In the ninth Crookston came very near winning with a garrison finish, hitting safely six times and scoring five runs. Capt. Quigley, of Crookston, was fined for disputing a decision of Umpire Cusack. The score:

Grand Forks .....1 4 2 0 1 0 4 1 x—13

Pitchers: Siette and Collette.

Fargo fans say Duluth is the best ordered team on the field of any visiting aggregation ever seen in that city. The men tend to business and play ball. Yesterday's game was played in an hour and a half while the Grand Forks and Winnipeg games took over two hours each.

Big Jake Volz is badly needed in a Duluth uniform on the present trip.

Randall, the Duluth boy, had two hits in the first game at Winnipeg. He is playing a fast game in right for the Canadians.

Blair, second baseman for Superior, who tried for the Duluth team, but was found wanting is still found wanting. Superior could do lots worse than get Andy Porter back from the Chippewa Falls team.

Solon and Gillen, said to be fast infielders, have been signed by Superior.

The opening day attendance at Winnipeg was 3216. How is that for a Northern league town, Can Duluth beat it?

Speaking of the opening game of the season the Fargo Forum says:

"Duluth got the hot end of two decisions by Umpire Forde. In the third Shepard hit safely by third and scored Olmstead, but Forde, who was behind the pitcher, thought the drive was a foul. It was fair by at least eighteen inches and robbed Shepard of a hit and Duluth a run.

"In the fourth Forde called Lambert out at second on an attempted steal. The ball was thrown to McGuire, who missed Lambert on the first stab and went after him the second time. Lambert was the first man up and with no one out there may have been a score. The umpirical fractures were disheartening to the Cardinals."

A report from St. Paul today says that on Wednesday the American association passed a resolution cutting all teams down to thirteen players, which means that Pitcher Volz will report to Duluth and Marcan will go to Toledo to play short.

VON PLEHME BLAMES JEWS

Massacre at Kishineff Was Due to Their Defense.

St. Petersburg, May 22.—The circular of Interior Minister Von Plehwe, issued on May 17, ascribed the massacre of the Jews at Kishineff largely to acts of self-defense on the part of the Jews and continued:

"The events at Kishineff have alarmed the Jewish portion of the population in many regions of the empire and have occasioned rumors among the Christians about impending Jewish persecutions. In some of the cities the Jews began forming self-defense associations. After I reported to his majesty about the disorders, his majesty commanded me to impress upon the commanders in the provinces and towns that they are obligated and are held personally responsible to take all the necessary measures to prevent violence and calm the populace in order to remove the occasion of fears for life and violation.

"After informing your excellency of these facts, I feel it necessary to state for your guidance that no sort of association for self defense can not be tolerated.

"The Jews are not inclined to depend solely upon the police and have armed themselves in spite of the circular throughout the Jewish belt. Undoubtedly their action prevented a repetition of the massacres at Kiev, Odessa, Minsk and elsewhere. The Minsk Jews are so alarmed that the slightest outbreak causes a general closing and barricading of their shops."

Answering a private letter asking for his opinion of the Kishineff massacre, Count Tolstoi writes:

"My relations to the Jews and the terrible Kishineff affair must be clear to everybody interested in my beliefs. My relation to the Jews can only be as that to brothers whom I love not, because they are Jews, but because they and everybody are the sons of one father, God. That love does me no violence, because I have met and known Jews who are very good people. My relation to the Kishineff crime is also defined in my religious beliefs. Before knowing all the frightful details, I understand the horror and felt intense pity for the innocent victims of mob savagery, mingled with perplexity at the bestiality of these so-called Christians and a version and disgust for the so-called educated people who instigated the mob and sympathized with its deeds. Above all I was horrified at the real culprit, namely, the government with its foolish, fanatical priesthood and gang of robber officials. The Kishineff crime was a consequence of preaching lies and violence, which the government carries on with such stubborn energy. The government's relation to the affair is new proof of its rude egotism, hesitating at no atrocity when it is a question of crushing movements regarded as dangerous, and is proof of its complete equanimity, which is like that of the Turkish government toward the Armenian massacre and most horrible atrocities, if only it interest remain untouched.

OF MUCH BENEFIT.

There is much satisfaction in Northern Minnesota with the announcement by the general land commissioner that the sale of pine lands on the Leech Lake Indian reservation will be so conducted that active logging operations will be possible next winter. The pine, which is estimated at nearly 23,000,000 feet, will be placed on the market at once, and the bids will be opened at the newly-created Cass Lake land office on Dec. 5. Under the ordinary procedure this would be too late to permit logging to begin next winter, on account of the delay in awarding the tracts to the successful bidders and having their bonds approved. This point was explained to Commissioner Richards on his recent visit to Duluth and Cass Lake, and he has improved upon the original instructions. It is now provided that when the bids are opened in December the highest bidders will be notified by wire, and told to get their bonds ready and the bonds will be approved by a special agent detailed to the Cass Lake land office.

The logging of this timber will give employment to many men and will be of great direct benefit to Cass Lake and other towns in that vicinity and, indirectly, to Duluth.

A JUVENILE VILLAGE.

A model village for juveniles will become a reality in the near future. The New York Juvenile asylum has decided finally to go ahead with this project and will build at Echo Hills, on the Hudson, near Dobbs' Ferry. The asylum is one of the largest institutions of its kind in the world. During the fifty-one years of its activity it has cared for nearly 38,000 children, coming for the most part from the foreign quarters of New York city. Hitherto the children have been housed in large barrack-like buildings, located in the city. The approaching removal to Echo Hills means a radical departure in the plan of management. The new colony will be conducted on the "cottage system." The children will live in small cottages, each accommodating from fifteen to twenty boys or girls. Each cottage will contain a dining-room; some will be of the dormitory type, others of the individual room type. The cottage plan will make possible for the first time a proper classification and promotion of the inmates.

One of the great advantages of the individual room plan, will be to allow some of the boys in the institution some seclusion. Today the boy never has an hour to himself. The cottages with rooms will be known as "honor cottages" and open to only those who have proved themselves worthy. If an occupant is a member of the printing, painting or polytechnic departments, he may adorn the walls of his room with the products of his own handicraft. It is argued that such a cottage would afford opportunities for dangerous practices, but if a boy is infirm of purpose—has not retained or regained his moral fibre—he would not be eligible to quarters in an "honor cottage." Honor boys should be those approaching the time of discharge to society. When they go into the world, there will be no human being to exercise surveillance for privacy. They should be given a foretaste of freedom and independence. This consideration seems of vital consequence to the adolescents. The village will consist, when completed, of about eighty buildings, including places of worship, schools, libraries, workshops, gymnasiums, administration building, and living cottages, artistically grouped amid attractive scenery. The nucleus of the colony will be a cluster of fifteen cottages, surrounding a knoll, known as Round Top, and extending to the athletic field, which will be flanked by the school and administration buildings.

There is no doubt that this institution will prove of great benefit to the young in every way and will make excellent citizens of the majority of them.

The extreme demands of labor unionism have received a check in Illinois. That state maintains free employment agencies which have been widely made use of. Some time ago the unions secured from the legislature an addition to the law creating the agencies, providing that they should not furnish help on application to employers whose men were out on strike or a lockout. Because of this addition the supreme court of Illinois has judged the whole enactment to be unconstitutional. If state employment agencies are to be maintained, the old law must be re-enacted without the strike addition. The power of the state cannot be used on behalf of strikers.

In order to maintain the efficiency of its civil service staff in the Philippines the government appears to be driven to offer greater inducements, while at the same time insisting on a reasonable length of service. Appointees must hereafter sign a contract to serve at least two years, and, if they do, they will get free transportation one way. If they serve three years they will get free transportation both ways. Two years is enough for most of them, and home they come to "God's country."

The insanity plea in criminal cases is being overworked. Out in Salt Lake City the defense in a murder trial has been making the claim for the accused, a street car conductor, and one of the considerations urged by a witness for the defense was that the defendant sometimes forgot to ring in the fares.

WHAT ADVERTISING DID.

If there are any doubters as to the efficacy of judicious advertising, as well as its necessity for the proper conduct of a business, they should ponder carefully on the statements of Col. A. A. Pope, who has done more to develop the bicycle business than any other man in the country. He did it by advertising and distinctly states that it was by advertising, and persistent advertising at that. When the big bicycle combine was formed, a different policy was inaugurated, and the result is well known. According to some facts recently given out by Col. Pope, "starting with a capital of less than $5000, and an output of fifty home-made bicycles in the year 1878, the business of the Pope Manufacturing company was pushed irresistibly over every discouragement and obstacles in the way of an imperfect device and an undeveloped demand until it was employing over $5,000,000 of capital, running five big factories at high pressure, enlisting a legion of expert mechanics and distributing its output through thousands of selling agents over the face of the globe." The result was that Col. Pope's business paid him more than $1,000,000 net, annually.

In 1898 the principal bicycle manufacturing concerns of the country, including that of Col. Pope, were taken over by the American Bicycle company. Of this, Col. Pope says:

"Its capitalization was $40,000,000. The net yearly income of its component concerns was reckoned for its underwriters at over $3,000,000 in 1897 and 1898, and estimated at $3,500,000 for the year 1899. It was not a proscribed 'trust'—not a squeezing monopoly, but a magnificent leader in the eye of its promoters. It was to set the pace and standard in bicycle production, and outsiders must be content to lag behind. It controlled an extraordinary range of standard and popular designs and could challenge, at will, the price-cutting of the cheapest machine makers. With this dominating organization, capital and facilities, it was expected to distance competition and reap enormous profits. In the first year of its triumphal march it began to salt away money for its stockholders by cutting down its advertising—using what one of its officials likes to call 'the condensing method.' Next year it gave some more wringing twists to the compress of its condenser. During the year just closing it compressed its advertising almost to the vanishing point, and in all these years its business shrunk in direct proportion to the shrinkage of its advertising, until in September last, just three years from the month of its sanguine start, it defaulted the payment of its fixed charges and went into the hands of receivers. It never paid a dividend and the fifty operating plants have shrunk two-thirds."

There is only one moral to this: Advertising pays, and failure to advertise destroys. Col. Pope has secured the assets of the defunct company and a future is assured the bicycle enterprise.

POVERTY IN PORTO RICO.

But few people have any real idea of the conditions of the poorer classes of natives of Porto Rico, as they now exist. There is probably more real poverty in Porto Rico according to its population, than any state, territory or dependency of the United States. According to Edward T. Devine in an article in Charities, the poverty of the Porto Ricans is the poverty of a low standard, and the absence of comforts and conventional decencies, rather than that of a harsh and unresponsive physical environment. It is characterized by an irresponsible indifference, arising from a lack of industrial and social organization, rather than the kind of distress which in more developed societies may be occasioned by industrial prices and hard times. Wages are extremely low, and so also is the cost of labor, in spite of the low normal wages. The shacks in which people live in the country are of the cheapest possible construction, and are almost entirely without furniture. Beds, and even cots, are very rare, and chimneys are considered quite superfluous.

The poverty and the illiteracy which have prevailed during nearly the whole of the four centuries since Columbus landed on the island in the course of his second voyage, appear to have been accentuated, if not caused, by the existence of slavery, which was abolished in 1870, by the oppressive laws and policies of the mother country, and by the unnatural economic and political dependence upon a country which did not desire to receive the natural products of Porto Rico, and was unwilling that they should be developed for exportation elsewhere. In San Juan there is a housing problem not unlike that of Edinburgh or New York city. Owing to the fact that the capital is built upon an island, and that there is a stretch of unoccupied land over which it is difficult for the city to pass, there is a congested population, although the total population is only some 30,000. Around the paved oblong courts the house is built, witha number of rooms opening from the court on each of two stories. A room 10 feet square, but with a lofty ceiling, containing no windows but with a little open grill work above the door, accommodates an entire family. Anaemia and tuberculosis are the more fatal diseases, the former leading by a wide margin.

However, it is pleasing to know that conditions are improving. The old indifference on the part of the well-to-do toward the education of the peons is passing away and from that one change great improvement will follow, slowly, but nevertheless surely.

There is said to be a law against betting in New York, and yet the Sun has just publicly wagered a year's subscription against a barrel of bluefish to be caught by Capt. Al. Robbins of Absecom light, who bets that the Reliance, so far from being a sure winner, does not even defend the cup.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (central time), May 22.—A storm of great strength is central over the Dakotas, causing high winds in most districts north of Oklahoma and Kansas and light to heavy rains throughout the central valleys, the West and the Northwest. The barometer is high over Lake Superior, south Atlantic and Pacific coast states and relatively low over New England. Temperatures are high in the Red River valley, central valleys and south, and cool in Rocky Mountain districts. The winds in the lake region are fresh northeasterly except brisk and high on western Superior. Storm northeast warnings were hoisted in the Duluth section at 7 o'clock this morning.

Local forecast for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m., (local time), Saturday: Duluth, West Superior and vicinity: Showers or thunder-storms tonight and probably Saturday. Cooler this afternoon. Brisk and high northeast winds today, tonight and Saturday.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, May 22.—Forecast till 7 p. m., Saturday: Wisconsin—Threatening with local thunder-storms tonight and probably Saturday.

Minnesota—Threatening with local thunder-storms and severe squalls this afternoon, tonight and probably Saturday. Cooler in west portion.

The Dakotas—Thunder-storms and probably squalls and cooler tonight and Saturday.

Lakes Michigan and Superior—Brisk and high northeast winds.

Have Name Selected.

The residents of Old Superior, which is to become a sub-station of the West Superior postoffice department July 2, are taking steps to have the department at Washington designate the sub-station as "Court house station," The contention is that this name would be more agreeable than to call the station by some letter in the alphabet, which is the usual custom of the department.

SELIGMAN UNDER BONDS.

New York, May 22.—Washington Seligman, the broker, who was taken from the Rossmore hotel Wednesday night with his neck badly cut, has been held in $1000 bail on the charge of attempting suicide. Magistrate Mayo went to the hospital where Seligman lay and the legal proceedings were held there. Bail was furnished. Seligman denies that he tried to kill himself.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Charles E. Coe, who registers from Boston, Mass., is shy one oblong piece of leather from his traveling bag. Nobody knows where that piece is, and what is left of the grip was taken to the police station this morning at a little after 3 o'clock.

It is believed that the act was done by a baggage room thief, though where the piece was stolen from cannot be learned. Mr. Coe registered at the Spalding, but did not put in an appearance at the house again, and was forgotten and checked off.

The next heard that reminded the night force that there was such a person was a noise on the Michigan street side of the house, and when one of the bell boys went out on the balcony to look, he found the grip and papers scattered around on the walk near it.

The letters had the address, Charles E. Coe, and the search for his identity resulted in finding his name on the register, but no man in the house.

The police have the bag, and an effort will be made to land the culprits who committed the destructive act.

This is one of several cases of baggage theft which have occurred at the hotel and railway baggage departments within the past two or three weeks, and it is supposed a systematic raid is being made by an organized band.

LUNDEN ON TRIAL

Charged With Killing Mrs. John Matson at a Charivari.

Robert Fitzgerald Arraigned For Assault In First Degree.

A jury is being drawn in Judge Dibell's room in district court this afternoon in the trial of Oscar Lunden, who was indicted for manslaughter in the second degree.

Lunden is the person who, during a charivari party on Garfield avenue some weeks ago, fired several shots from a rifle, outside the home of John Matson, one of the bullets passing through the side of the house and killing Mrs. Matson, who was sitting on the side of the bed, holding her child. The defendant claims the shot to have been entirely accidental and that the gun, being defective, was prematurely discharged.

Robert Fitzgerald, who was indicted by the grand jury for assault in the first degree, was arraigned this morning and given until next Monday morning to secure counsel and make his plea. Fitzgerald is the man who, while in a state of intoxication some days ago, is alleged to have entered the bar room of the Saratoga hotel on Michigan street, and with a revolver attempted to clean out the place. He was set upon by the attendants and when the melee ended Fitzgerald was found to have a broken leg with sundry bruises, which laid him up in the hospital for some time. This morning was the first time that he has been able to appear in court. He came on crutches, his broken limb still in bandages. One eye is still discolored and his face still shows marks of the strenuous reception accorded him.

The charge against Fitzgerald is that he pointed a loaded firearm at H. H. Bonstead and threatened to kill him.

NOT VERY GOOD FISHING YET

Streams Are Mostly Reported Too High For Trout.

Fishing had another setback this week, owing to the rains, and those who have been out during the latter part of the week say the streams are still too high for the best results. The fish are beginning to exhibit some interest in things, however, and very few of those that have been out and have been to the right places have come back without anything at all.

The streams are running down all the time, and while each rain sets them back a little, they are getting lower all the time. It will only be a matter of a few days after the weather settles before the streams will be low enough to show their possibilities.

A large number of Duluth people go to Island lake and the Cloquet river every year, and some have been out this week. They report that the river is getting down so that fishing will be as good as usual within a few days.

Good bass fishing is hard to find near Duluth, but one man tells a story that shows that it is still to be found in St. Louis county if the fisherman has the pluck to get to it. Though the season is not yet open, there was a string of seventeen black bass in town the other day weighing fifty pounds. The fish were caught in a large lake forty miles from Duluth and about six miles from a railroad. The roads are not good part of the distance, and as there are no boats on the lake the fish there are comparatively safe for some time yet.

Generally speaking, there is not much fishing close to Duluth. From time to time trout are caught in the numerous small streams running through the long stretch of the city, but seldom in large numbers. Occasionally one of these streams gets an unearned reputation on the strength of somebody's exceptionally good luck, but most of the brooks are fished so much that they are not very densely populated with brook trout.

DEFENDANTS ARE MISSING

Four Defendants In Land Cases Are Out of City.

Joseph Couture, who was indicted by the grand jury along with a number of other Duluth men on a charge of conspiracy, and who was being held at the county jail on a charge of threatening to kill his wife, has been released from custody, having secured bonds for his appearance to answer to both charges when required.

The bonds required were for $1500 in all and were furnished by Richard H. Fagan and Edward Lynch.

Robert Lounden, who is included in the indictment, is supposed to be in Portland, Ore. The whereabouts of James J. O'Brien, another explorer under indictment, have not been made public if known. E. F. Krelwitz is in Canada.

The remaining six men who are under indictment for conspiracy to defraud or for subornation of perjury in connection with the alleged land frauds have been arraigned and furnished bonds for their appearance at the fall term of the district court with the exception of Sven Olson, who is supposed to be in Florida.

No further indictments were made public today, and it is now believed that all those returned by the grand jury at its recent sitting have been made public.

ONLY LEGAL ROADS.

County Board Give No Others Money.

The road committee of the board of county commissioners is holding a meeting today with a view of fixing up the county road book. The commissioners are proceeding with caution relative to making appropriations of county funds for roads in the county which are not legally qualified roads for the reason that if any appropriation be made for a road, which is not a legal county road, and action is brought the commissioners would be liable for a judgment. The matter was discussed at the last meeting of the board and it was decided that the road committee should go over the road book carefully and cut out all roads which are not legally entitled to funds from the county.

SHE WANTS DAMAGES.

Eliza Brahaney Suing the Village of Hibbing.

The personal injury case of Eliza Brahaney against the village of Hibbing is on trial today in Judge Cant's room. This is the second time the case has been up for trial. The plaintiff sustained injuries by falling through an alleged defective sidewalk in Hibbing last year, and brought action in the November term of court, securing a verdict of $1000. The defendant secured a new trial, which is now in progress. The plaintiff is represented by Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer and the defendant by W. B. Phelps.

SWITCHMEN'S UNION.

Indianapolis, May 22.—The revision of the constitution of the grand lodge is occupying the time of the meeting of the Switchmen's Union of North America. The work is being done in a methodical way that requires much time. It is probable that among the changes made will be a reduction of the number of vice grand masters from five to three. Their places will be taken by district presidents, who will have direct charge over the lodges in their districts. Such was the suggestion of the grand lodge.

Labor Commissioner Is Making Arrangements For the Work.

Additional Help and Funds Will Make It Thorough.

State Labor Commissioner John O'Donnell, of St. Paul, arrived here from Eveleth this morning to make arrangements for the inspection and statistical work to be done among laborers on the ranges this year.

The work will commence in a few days—just as soon as the inspection in Duluth is closed by Deputy J. W. Allen, who is nearly through.

"We expect to find a large increase in the numbers of workmen on the ranges," said Mr. O'Donnell this morning at the St. Louis hotel. "We will be able to cover the whole of the field this time.

"The work of our bureau will be done in a more thorough and complete manner than ever before, for we have now two additional inspectors and funds to carry out the work.

"It is probable that in the past the work of gathering statistics was not done as thoroughly as it might have been, owing to the lack of time for one man to do it in. This year all the helps that is necessary will be available, and besides the immense increase in the number of men employed on the ranges through the wonderful development of the mining industry, there will be many places which were overlooked before, on the books of our bureau this time.

"I cannot state with any degree of accuracy, nor make an intelligent estimate upon the number of men employed on the two ranges, as the growth has been so great since the last figures were compiled.

"The sanitary conditions of mining properties, factories and other institutions have been improved since former statistics were made up, and all this will be included in the report to be compiled this summer.

"The cause of my trip was simply to arrange for the work, to start and it may begin any day now. I will map out the details and Mr. Allen will see to carrying them out.

I have just been at Eveleth looking over conditions there and making arrangements for the work there. I was not there for any particular investigation.

"There has not been a case of sensational violation of the law governing labor in Minnesota recently, and we find all the regulations regarding child labor, safeguards for machinery, fire escapes and sanitary conditions, generally observed.

"I cannot tell when the inspection of the city of Duluth will close, but it will be within a few days, I am told."

NOT A WIRE

Of Western Union Working on Pennsylvania Road.

Philadelphia, May 22.—The Western Union Telegraph company today has not a wire working on the lines of the Pennsylvania road in this state. Officials of the Western Union say, however, that the company is keeping up its business by using wires along the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central roads. The work of removing the Western Union poles and wires from the lines of the road was continued today.

Announcement was made today at the office of the Pennsylvania that the company would not permit the Postal Telegraph company or any other corporation to own the poles for telegraph service, which are to be erected along the lines of the road. According to an official of the company, it is the intention to replace the poles of the Western Union by others which will be owned by the Pennsylvania railroad.

TO BE TRIED AT MEMPHIS

Cincinnati Warrant For Mrs. McCormick Is Dismissed.

Memphis, May 22.—In the habeas corpus case of Mrs. Lizzie McCormick, charged with sending poisoned whisky to a Cincinnati woman, thereby causing the death of one person and the serious illness of others, Judge Galloway today dismissed the Cincinnati warrant charging her with murder, and held the woman on a charge of murder preferred by a local citizen. This means that Mrs. McCormick will not be taken to Ohio, but will stand trial here.

The Ohio officers will return to Cincinnati tonight to collect evidence.

A STABLE DOLLAR.

Mexican Coins Will Soon Have Fixed Value.

El Paso, May 22.—It is certain that Mexico will soon have a stable dollar fixed at a non-fluctuating value of 50 cents. This news comes to El Paso from official sources. It is said Mexico's financiers will never permit silver to be secondary in the republic. They will allow it to be the coin of the realm, however, only on a fixed ratio. Within six months Enrique Creel, who, in conjunction with Secretary of Finance Limantour, controls the finances of Mexico, is expected to bring this about.

Of all the silver produced in Mexico, 98 per cent is now in Asia, and the total amount of silver now in the republic will not exceed $100,000,000. Silver is being hoarded in Mexico today as was gold in the days of the gold standard. As a result of assurance of a stable currency for Mexico, more foreign capital is being invested there, and more will be placed there within the next fe wmonths.

MUST SERVE THEIR TERMS.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court today handed down a decision in the cases of Max Grozowski, the keeper of a local Turkish bath, and Tom Ireton, now serving sentences in the workhouse for maintaining disorderly houses. The court holds that they have been rightfully sentenced and must serve out their terms. The claim urged on the appeal was that, under the indictment, a workhouse sentence could not be given.

RELEASED PRISONER

Promptly Elected to Parliament From North Galway.

Dublin, May 22.—Denis Kilbride, formerly Nationalist member of parliament for North Galway, and who was recently released from prison, where he had been sent for inciting the murder of a lanlord, Maj. Gen. Mears, has been elected without opposition as member of parliament for South Kildare, in succession to Matthew J. Minch, Nationalist, who resigned May 9. The local branch of the United Irish league had invited Mr. Kilbride as "being the latest victim of jury packing" to contest the seat as 'a protest against this iniquitous system."

DEFIED LAW

To Find a Home For Her Boy.

Indianapolis, May 22.—Mrs. Charles S. Bronson defied the law and took a long chance on being severely punished by Judge Leathers, of the superior court, all for the sake of her child, a boy 8 years old.

Mrs. Bronson, who was formerly Mrs. Oliver M. Barnecio, was divorced several weeks ago. The decree restricted her from marrying again within two years. Within three days she married, and was cited by Judge Leathers for contempt.

When the case came up for hearing, Mrs. Bronson told the judge that she had a chance to procure a good home for her child by remarrying, and had dared to violate his instructions for the sake of her child. The judge assessed a fine of $5.

MUCH OF THE ROMANTIC

In Hasty Marriage of an Oklahoma Girl.

Guthrie, O. T., May 22.—Much of the romance entered into the wedding of Miss Ruby Butcher, the pretty daughter of a big Oklahoma cattleman, and Attorney T. W. Jones, the nephew of Maj. Gen. Shafter, U. S. A.

The ceremony took place in the center of a big pasture, near Weatherford, O. T., underneath the spreading branches of a cottonwood tree, ample enough to shield safely the entire wedding party, consisting of the bride and groom, several couples of their young friends and the minister.

Neither of the contracting parties had the consent of their respective parents, and there was something of anxiety in the faces of both when their minds reverted possibly to angry fathers and mothers, especially as rumor states her parents had forbidden the wedding. This was the cause of the elopement and of the ceremony being undertaken in such a romantic manner.

The young couple went immediately to the home of her parents, and, like in all good love stories, the parental blessing followed. He must wait several weeks to gain the consent, or rather the blessing, of his father, who is Col. Jones, U. S. A., at present in the Philippines.

MONEY FOR NEGRO.

"Well Wisher" Sends William Pickens Gold Certificates.

New Haven, Conn., May 22.—William Pickens, a negro student in the junior class of Yale, who recently won the Henry James Ten Eyck oration prize, has received three $50 gold certificates from a "well wisher."

George Williamson Crawford, a negro of Birmingham, Ala., who recently won one of the Maryland debate prizes at Yale, has been selected as one of the four seniors in the law school who will speak in competition for the Townsend prize of $100 at commencement.

THE STAGE

"The Man From Mexico," which was offered by the Ferris Comedians at the Metropolitan last evening with Dick Ferris in the title role, is a genuine laugh maker. The role of "the man" or Benjamin Fitzhew admirably fits Mr. Ferris and his interpreation of that character last night was a most clever one. Gus. Forbes as Majors, gave an excellent portrayal of Fitzhew's friend and "fixer." Harry Langdon gave a good characterization of Cook; Fred Clarke was good as Warden Loveall; William Lang as the wronged Dutchman was very clever; Albert Dorris as Farrar and J. MacDonald as Daunton, the two rivals, did good work. Miss O'Neil appeared to advantage as Clementina Fitzhew; Miss Baito was a charming Nettie Majors; Miss Haines was good as Miranda and Miss Harcourt pleasing as Sallie.

The specialties of the Travis Sisters were well received and Geo. Fiske made another hit in his songs. This play will continue the remainder of the week and Saturday matinee.

The Flints are continuing their success at the Lyceum in the hypnotic entertainment and had a good audience last evening that was immensely pleased with the program offered if their manifestations of amusement were any criterion. The engagement will continue tonight and tomorrow night and new features are offered nightly.

TAX ON ELEVATOR.

Superior Seeking to Collect From the Omaha Road.

The city of West Superior has filed its answer to the suit brought by the Omaha railway company to restrain the county from collecting taxes on the Itasca elevator, owned by the company on Allouez bay. The city alleges that the elevator is used for purposes other than the actual conduct of railroad business and should be classed as a private concern.

The railroad company contends that the elevator is part of the actual working property of the company and as such its taxation comes under the gross earnings tax of the state, that if the county is permitted to collect a tax imposed, the company would be compelled to pay its taxes twice on the same property.

As no taxes have been paid the county since the completion of the elevator in 1901, the amount now claimed against the company is a little more than $7000. The action was brought by the company against the county, but the city by making the assessment becomes a party thereto.

STEAMERS ARE ADMITTED.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 22.—The British steamers Taboga and Manul, from Panma, have been admitted to this port after several days' quarantine, because they have quantities of rice and flour on board destined for Guayaquil. The American minister has requested the authorities to admit steamers from San Francisco, as there are no cases of the plague there. Nothing, however, has yet been decided. The port continues closed to vessels from Peru, Mexico, India and San Francisco.

AT WEST DULUTH

"John Demento" is the name which has been applied to one who has been a resident of the West Duluth police station for the past two days. The man, who is supposed to be demented, was arrested by Patrolman Butchart in the West End Wednesday afternoon. Residents of that locality telephoned to West Duluth police headquarters that an unknown man was wading about in the creek which flows through that portion of the city. Patrolman Butchart was detailed to look into the matter and he brought the man to West Duluth.

When examined at the police station, the man was unable to understand or answer the questions that were put to him. It is thought that he is either an Austrian or a Turk and he is believed to be demented. It was learned that he had been in this country only four weeks.

The first action taken by the West Duluth police was to strip him and turn the hose on him for about ten minutes. It is said that the manner in which his size decreased was nothing short of marvelous. It was feared by the police for a time that they would never reach the man himself, but finally the shrinkage stopped and clean clothes were provided for him.

The police have turned him over to the county authorities and he will probably be sent to the insane asylum or be deported back to his own country.

"I cannot understand," said Lieut. Briggs this morning, "how such a man escaped the immigration officials. He arrived in this country less than two months ago and he is certainly a fit subject for the asylum to say nothing of his physical condition."

RICHARDS IS MISSING.

Samuel Richards, a resident of West Duluth, is missing from his accustomed haunts. He heard rumors of a warrant which is out for his arrest and fled, forgetting to leave his address with the police.

Mrs. Daley, who keeps a restaurant on Raleigh street, appeared in Justice Stone's court during the early part of the week and swore out a warrant for Richards' arrest on a charge of calling her abusive names. Richards, who is an employe of the Merrill & Ring mill, is believed to have heard of the warrant and fled. He was an experienced mill man and held a responsible position with the company.

TAKES OUT PERMIT.

The Allis-Chambers company has secured a permit for the erection of the plant of the Duluth Crushed Stone works. The cost of the plant, as stated in the permit, is $7300. It is to be erected on Medina street. The Allis-Chambers company have the contract for the erection of all the buildings to be used by the company. Excavations have already been made and a commencement made at the foundations of the buildings and of the immense stack which is to be erected.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

RICH LANDS IN HAWAII

Commissioner Sargent Is Much Pleased With New Territory.

Honolulu, May 5.—(Corrrespondence of the Associated Press.)—United States Immigration Commissioner F. P. Sargent addressed the Honolulu chamber of commerce last Wednesday morning. He said in the course of his remarks that his investigations here had satisfied him that in the Hawaiian islands the United States has the richest land within the borders of the country. The commissioner also said:

"I have been out on some of your plantations and have seen something of your labor and its conditions. Was much impressed with the arrangements for the comfort, care and health of your laborers. Of course I recognize that some of these arrangements may not be fully appreciated or utilized to their fullest extent by the laborers, but you have provided them."

The territorial board of health has reorganized under the law passed by the present legislature providing for only two medical members on the board, and at its first meeting several reports on leper settlement matters were received. J. D. McVeigh, superintendent of the settlement, reported on an investigation he was instructed to make into immorality at the settlement.

The superintendent recommends that the attorney general of the territory take steps to secure divorces, free of charge, for those confined to the settlements who have husbands or wives outside, as a number of persons at the settlement desire to marry but cannot do so on account of having wives or husbands outside.

A legislative deadlock is threatened on account of the failure of the senate to pass the house bill appropriating $20,000 for house expenses of the special session.

The senate bill appropriating $50,000 for salaries and expenses is held up in the house.

A legislative scandal has broken out in connection with the report of the house committee on accounts. The vouchers showing the items of expenditures have been suppressed and access to them is refused by officers of the house. The amount represented by the vouchers is over $38,000, being the expenses of the regular session of the house.

FIRES AGAIN RAGING.

Saratoga, N. Y., May 22.—Reports from North Creek, Gore Mountain, Garnett, Silver Bay, Stony Creek, Thuman and places in the lower Adirondacks say the forest fires are again raging, and in several places are beyond control.

INVESTIGATING OFFICE.

Pueblo, Col., May 22.—Inspectors Dornan and Smithers, of the postoffice department, are here investigating alleged violations of the postal laws. Several persons here have received circulars advertising a lottery in Hamburg, Germany. The report of the inspectors will be sent to Washington, and the matter will be taken up with the German government.

ORDER FOR HEARING PROOF OF WILL—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis, —ss. In Probate Court, Special Term, May 7, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of Sophie Lachmund, deceased:

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Sophie Lachmund, deceased, late of said county, has been delivered to this court;

And whereas, Otto Lachmund has filed therewith his petition, representing, among other things, that said Sophie Lachmund died in said county, on the eighth day of January, 1902, testate, and that the executors named in said last will and testament, have declined to petition for the probate of said will and that he is a son and a devisee in the will of Sophie Lachmund, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters of administration with the will annexed be issued thereon to said Otto Lachmund;

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this court, at the probate office in the court house, Duluth, in said county, on Monday, the first day of June, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear for or contest the probate of said instrument;

And it is further ordered, that notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Duluth Evening Herald, a daily newspaper printed and published at Duluth in said county.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., the 7th day of May, A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.

(Seal Probate Court, St. Louis Co., Minn.)
Duluth Evening Herald—May 8-15-22, 1903.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed by Effie L. Church, Mortgagor, to Zephirin Berneche, Mortgagee, dated May 10, 1902, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May 12, 1902, at one o'clock P. M., in Book 114 of Mortgages on Page 99 thereof; That the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at this date is the sum of $22 without interest; and the sum of $100 with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the 10th day of May, 1902.

That the premises described in and covered by said mortgage are the South half of the Southeast quarter (S½ of SE¼) and the Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter (SE¼ of SW¼) of Section eighteen (18), Township fifty-one (51), North of Range seventeen (17) West of the fourth principal meridian situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota; That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the Statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale of said premises at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on Monday the 6th day of July, 1903, at two o'clock P. M. to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage together with the costs of such sale, and $25 attorneys fees stipulated in said mortgage.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, this 15th day of May, 1903.

RELIANCE DOES WELL

Gives Columbia Severe Defeat In Twenty-Five Mile Race.

New York, May 22.—By a combination of good luck and splendid sailing qualities, the new cup wacht, Reliance, yesterday inflicted such a defeat upon the former cup defender, Columbia, as she never had suffered, leading her over the finish line of a twenty-five mile course off Glen Cove, by fourteen minutes and forty-three seconds, official time. Not all of the glory of the victory was fairly won by the new boat. If it had been there would have been no doubt that the Reliance would be the next cup defender. But despite the Columbia's ill luck, the Reliance convincingly shows herself to be the better boat. She had beaten the Columbia nearly eight minutes in a broad reach of eleven miles in fluky zephyrs, beaten her one minute and fifteen seconds running free for three miles in a steady twelve-knot breeze, and beaten her four minutes and fifteen seconds in an eleven-mile thresh to windward close hauled in a fifteen-knot southwester. This timing is unofficial and allows for Reliance's fifty-five seconds advantage at the start.

The first leg of yesterday's race was not a fair test of the merits of the two boats, but it sufficed to develop surprising drifting qualities in the Reliance, supposed to be a heavy weather boat.

The Columbia missed the favoring zephyrs that had helped the Reliance to beat her eight minutes in a drift of three hours in the first eleven miles and in the windward work had been hampered by an accident to her jib topsail. Only once in the whole race did she gain on the new boat.

FIRE AT ST. PAUL.

Watrous Engine Works Destroyed By the Flames.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Waterous Engine works at the south end of the Robert street bridge was destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning, causing a loss estimated at $75,000, partially covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known. It is claimed that there were two explosions in the front end of the building, and a few moments later the flames had spread through the entire length of the machine shop. The watchman, W. E. Ecklin, attempted to put out the fire and was severely burned before he could escape from the building. He was taken to the city hospital by the police. It is not believed that his injuries are fatal. The south end of the Robert street bridge was also damaged considerably by the fire.

DETECTIVE ROBBED.

Detroit, May 21.—Detective F. G. Kerlin, of Philadelphia, was robbed while asleep last night in his room at the Hotel Cadillac, of money and valuables aggregating $60). A traveling man in an adjoining room was also robbed during the night of a gold watch and chain and $25 in money. Detective Kerlin believes that the thief was secreted in his room when he retired and chloroformed him while he was asleep.

BUTTER IS LOWER

Further Drop In the Price In Michigan Street Market.

Lively Week Among Produce Dealers—Strawberries Move Freely.

The past week has been a very lively one among the produce dealers and commission merchants. The shipments have been coming in freely and the retailers, both on the ranges and in the city, have been heavy buyers. The weather has been very favorable and the week as a whole has been one of the busiest of the present year.

Butter is weaker and the price has taken a further drop of a cent. The creamery is now selling at 23 cents per pound and the fancy dairies at 18 and 20 cents. The grass butter is commencing to come in more freely and the price is expected to go somewhat lower before June 1.

Cheese is somewhat weaker and a slight drop from the high prices which have been maintained throughout the winter is reported. Full cream twins are now selling at 14 and 14½ cents.

Eggs remain stationary at 15 and 16 cents per dozen. The shipments have been very heavy during the past week, but an equally heavy demand has kept the price up.

The apple season is drawing to a close and the price is much higher. The small stock which remains is selling at $5 per barrel.

Strawberries are plentiful and are moving very freely. The price is low and the demand good.

Green stuff, radishes, lettuce, green onions, cucumbers and other fresh vegetables are being received in large quantities.

Poultry shipments have been heavier than usual during the past week. The demand has been brisk and prices stationary. Dressed turkeys are selling for 18 and 19 cents, hens for 15 and ducks for 15.

The wholesale meat dealers have also enjoyed a very busy week. Prices are about the same as last week, with a slight drop in veal to 7½ and 8 cents. Mutton is quoted at 11 cents and lamb at 15 cents. An expected strengthening in the price of lard did not take place and it is still quoted at the low price to which it dropped two weeks ago, 9½ cents per pound.

HISTORIC ELM FALLS.

Springfield, Ill., May 22.—The historic elm tree, planted by Abraham Lincoln in front of the old Lincoln homestead fell yesterday during a heavy wind and rain storm which tore down a number of trees in the city. It was the last tree planted here by the hand of the martyred president. It was planted shortly after the election of Mr. Lincoln to the presidency. It will be put away.

QUICK ARREST.

J. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctoring and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at all druggists.

ADAM AND EVE RELIGION.

Yorktown, N. W. T., May 22.—Twenty-six male Dukhobors were arrested and brought here for practicing their "Adam and Eve" religion in their villages. Other Dukhobors objected to this sort of thing and drove them out. When near the village the men disrobed and were marching into the town stark naked. A company of mounted police were near at hand and quickly captured the fanatics and brought them to Yorktown, where they are held under arrest.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula From Infancy to Age

Speedily Cured by Cuticura When All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in Eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), Ointment, 50c., Soap, 25c. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors.

DEATH IN WIND

Several People In Kansas Killed By Terrific Tornadoes.

Large Amount of Property Laid Waste In Various Localities.

Salina, Kan., May 22.—The third tornado in Salina county within the past 24 hours struck Assaria last night. Two persons were killed and a dozen or more injured.

The dead:
WILLIAM OLSON, 12 years of age.
PETER OLSON.

Of the injured none are fatally hurt. The house in which the Olsons lived was demolished completely and the body of the boy was found 40 rods from where the house had stood.

The wind carried the house occupied by Nels Olsonburg, a distance of five rods. Miss Christen Olsonburg saw the storm coming and escaped from the house a half minute before it was carried away. A terrific rain storm followed the tornado. At Bridgeport in this county hail fell continuously for 20 minutes doing considerable damage to wheat.

Ashland, Kan., May 22.—This place and a large portion of the county were laid waste yesterday afternoon by a tornado. The damage will be immense. So far as is known nobody was killed and none in Ashland injured severely.

It is reported from the country districts that several were injured. The indications are that the storm was worst in the country than in the town. This county is sparsely settled, however, and no particulars are obtained tonight of the extent of the damage done. The business section of Ashland was not damaged to any great extent. The residence portion suffered most. The homes of J. P. Campbell, M. G. Stevenson, N. G. Munnemacher, J. A. Van Orsdell, W. L. Ainsworth and F. R. Kerns were completely wrecked. As many as 20 houses are partially demolished. Campbell, Stevenson and Ainsworth were injured when their houses went down.

The fine fruit farm of F. R. Kerns was swept clean of trees and buildings. A ranch house was destroyed and threes and windmills are down in all directions. A large number of cattle were killed. It is reported here tonight that other villages in this vicinity suffered, but nothing definite can be learned.

Wrights, Kan., May 22.—A tornado visited this place last night, demolishing a number of houses and unroofing some others. So far as known nobody was fatally injured. Crops were damaged greatly and stock killed.

Chickasaw, I. T., May 22. A tornado passed over the town of Lone Wolfe today. Four houses were blown down and their contents scattered. Mrs. Hargon, wife of a farmer, was blown against a barb wire fence and killed. The tornado wrecked telephone and telegraph wires, destroyed trees, fences and outhouses and killed stock.

Amarillo, Tex., May 22.—The Pan Handle county was visited by a severe storm Wednesday night. The home of R. M. Yilson, near Hereford, was blown to pieces, killing Mrs. Yilson and fatally injuring Mr. Yilson. Considerable damage was done in the vicinity of Amarillo.

Ord, Neb., May 22.—Word has reached here that a small tornado visited the farming country ten miles east of here last evening. The house on the ranch of Henry Hughes was wrecked and outbuildings leveled. There were no fatalities. Telephone wires leading to town are down in all directions, and full particulars cannot be learned. There have been unusually heavy rains for three days and many washouts.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 22.—A heavy storm swept over Indianapolis yesterday afternoon. Wire service was almost paralyzed and the damage done will reach many thousands.

Buildings were struck by lightning and burned and there were some narrow escapes by fleeing occupants. The principal damage was done by lightning at Lebanon, Ind. Trees were blown down, out-buildings destroyed, the wire service paralyzed and no communication can be had with the surrounding country to ascertain the extent of the damage.

The dome of the Perkins hotel, the largest in Lebanon, was torn off and there were several narrow escapes from death. The Cowe street car barns were blown down and there was destruction everywhere.

At Ellwood, Ind., the storm did damage to the extent of $20,000. Three barns were struck by lightning and burned.

The new car barns being built by the Union Traction company were destroyed by fire caused by lightning and the barns of George Abbott were burned. Two miles south of the city the barn of Anthony Chambese, with all its valuable contents, was destroyed by fire after being hit by a lightning bolt. At Crawfordsville, there was a high wind, but no damage except to shade trees. No lives have been reported lost.

Hereford, Texas, May 21.—A local storm resembling a tornado struck and demolished the house of D. Wilson, near Summerfield, seven miles west of here. Mrs. Wilson and her infant child were killed. Mr. Wilson and a 15-year-old daughter were injured.

Kinsley, Kas., May 22.—A tornado passed over Hedgman county, fifteen miles northwest of Kinsley yesterday afternoon, destroying Daniel Gleason's house and killing Mabel Tuttle. Later another tornado could be seen from Kinsley, covering about the same territory, but no reports of damage have yet been received.

SCHOOL BOYS MAY STRIKE.

Demand a Single Session, to Close Early.

New Haven, Conn., May 21.—The New Haven schoolboys' union has been formed in this city and a demand made on Superintendent Beede, of the public schools, for better hours Thirty boys from the Webster public school joined the union. In their petition the boys stated they wished the hours changed so there will be but one session—from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m.—instead of the present schedule of two sessions—from 9 a. m. to 12 m. and from 2 to 4 p. m. Superintendent Beede refused the demands. A meeting has been called to consider the advisability of a strike.

GROWTH IS STEADY

In Our Trade Relations With Russia, Austria and Germany.

Likely to Be Larger Than Ever This Fiscal Year.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU

Washington, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The alarms which have been sounded during the past two years regarding the trade relations between the United States and certain other countries of the world find no justification in the figures of our commerce up to this time. The three countries which have been mentioned from time to time as likely to decrease their importations from the United States are Russia, Austria-Hungary, and Germany. A study of the latest figures of the treasury bureau of statistics regarding our imports and exports shows a steady growth in the trade relations with all of these countries, and indicates that our commerce with each of them is likely to be larger in the present fiscal year than in any previous year in the history of our commerce. This is true both of the imports and exports. To each of these three countries our exports are steadily and rapidly increasing, and from each of them our imports are also steadily and rapidly increasing.

This is especially marked in the figures of our trade relations with Russia in the present fiscal year. The latest figures of the bureau of statistics are for the nine months ending with March. They show that our exports to Russia in that period were nearly double those of the corresponding period in any year of the last decade, and that our imports from Russia are also steadily and rapidly increasing, being double those of 1899 and three times those of 1894. In both imports and exports the figures of our trade with Russia are about three times as large, in the nine months ending with March of this year, as in the nine months ending with March, 1894. In the exports the increase has been especially marked in the past year, our total exports to Russia in the nine months ending with March, 1903, being $13,584,575, against $7,441,014 in the corresponding months of last year, in imports from Russia the figures of the present year also show a marked increase over last year, and it is quite apparent that our imports from Russia in the present fiscal year will be the largest in the history of our commerce with that country. Our principal imports from Russia are hides and skins, wool, licorice root, and fibers; for all of which there is a constantly increasing demand among manufacturers. Our principal exports to Russia are cotton, of which the United States produces three-fourths of the world's supply; copper, of which we produce one-half of the world's supply; agricultural implements and machinery.

In the case of Austria-Hungary the growth is in both imports and exports. Our imports from Austria-Hungary in the nine months ending with March were larger than in any corresponding period of our commerce with that country, and double those of the same period in 1895, 1898 and 1899. Our own figures of our commerce with Austria-Hungary show imports from that country much larger than exports to it, and this has been the case in our entire record of commerce with that country; though the fact that the official reports of Austria-Hungary show much larger imports of products of the United States than our own figures of exports to it, indicates that considerable quantities of merchandise reported to our custom houses as exports to other countries ultimately reach Austria-Hungary. Our principal imports from Austria-Hungary are sugar, chemicals, glassware and fibers; and the principal articles shown by our own reports of exports to that country are rotton, copper and mineral oil.

In our commerce with Germany the record of the nine months ending with March shows larger imports and exports than in the same period of any preceding year. The imports from Germany for the nine months are $91,246,816, against $54,858,440 in the same period of 1894; and it is apparent that for the fiscal year 1903 they will be the largest in the history of our trade with that country. Our exports to Germany in the nine months are $158,742,047, and for the twelve months will also exceed the figures of any earlier year in the history of our commerce with that country. Our largest exports to Germany are cotton, breadstuffs, provisions and copper. Our largest imports from that country are chemicals, manufactures of cotton, silk, wool, leather, and iron and steel.

The following table shows our commerce with Russia, Austria-Hungary and Germany in the nine months ending with March in each year from 1894 to 1903, as shown by the reports of the bureau of statistics:

Chronic Sores Eating Ulcers, A Constant Drain Upon the System.

Nothing is a source of so much trouble as an old sore or ulcer, particularly when located upon the lower extremities where the circulation is weak and sluggish. A gangrenous eating ulcer upon the leg is a frightful sight, and as the poison burrows deeper and deeper into the tissue beneath and the sore continues to spread, one can almost see the flesh melting away and feel the strength going out with the sickening discharges. Great running sores and deep offensive ulcers often develop from a simple boil, swollen gland, bruise or pimple, and are a threatening danger always, because, while all such sores are not cancerous, a great many are, and this should make you suspicious of all chronic, slow-healing ulcers and sores, particularly if cancer runs in your family. Face sores are common and cause the greatest annoyance because they are so persistent and unsightly and detract so much from one's personal appearance.

Middle aged and old people and those whose blood is contaminated and tainted with the germs and poison of malaria or some previous sickness, are the chief sufferers from chronic sores and ulcers. While the blood remains in an unhealthy, polluted condition healing is impossible, and the sore will continue to grow and spread in spite of washes and salves or any superficial or surface treatment, for the sore is but the outward sign of some constitutional disorder, a bad condition of the blood and system which local remedies cannot cure. A blood purifier and tonic is what you need. Something to cleanse the blood, restore its lost properties, quicken the circulation and invigorate the constitution, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy.

S. S. S. reaches these old chronic sores through the blood. It goes to the very root of the trouble and counteracts and removes from the blood all the impurities and poisons, and gradually builds up the entire system and strengthens the sluggish circulation, and when the blood has been purified and the system purged of all morbid, unhealthy matter the healing process begins, and the ulcer or sore is soon entirely gone.

SSS

S. S. S. contains no mineral or poisonous drugs of any description, but is guaranteed a purely vegetable remedy, a blood purifier and tonic combined and a safe and permanent cure for chronic sores and ulcers. If you have a slow-healing sore of any kind, external or internal, write us about it, and our physicians will advise you without charge. Book on "The Blood and Its Diseases" free.

SORES ON BOTH ANKLES.

Gentlemen: About ten years ago a small sore came on each of my ankles. Dew got into the places and they became large, eating ulcers, and I suffered intensely for nearly ten years. I had spent more than $500.00 trying to get well when I chanced to see S. S. S. advertised in a Memphis paper. I began to take it and was cured. My limbs have never been sore or given me any pain at all since. I have recommended S. S. S. to a great many people, and am now giving it to my nine-year-old son for Eczema. During my long sickness I was living near Memphis, Tenn., but have since removed to Kansas City, and am now residing at No. 614 East Sixteenth Street.

SPIRE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

When Steeple Jack Was Working But He Held Place.

Fitchburg, Mass., May 22.—Charles Taylor, the well-known Steeple Jack, of New England, came nearer to death in this city than ever before in his adventurous career. It was a modern miracle that he is alive.

Apparently struck by a blinding bolt of lightning, which hit the steeple, he managed somehow to retain his hold, when it seemed certain that his body must be thrown out and down to the earth far below.

Somehow, although it looked as if the shock of the bolt had thrown him completely away from the Rollston church steeple, he managed to regain his clutch, when onlookers had shut their eyes to hide the sickening sight of his expected fate. Aside from a slight nervousness he is all right.

AN ELABORATE BOOK.

America's Records In Alaskan Boundary Dispute.

Washington, May 21.—If handsome printing and binding have any weight with the Alaskan arbitration tribunal, the United States will win its suit. According to an amiable custom which also prevails in some of the higher courts, the representatives of either side of this controversy have submitted to each other copies of their contentions or their "case," as it is called. The "case" of the United States which consists of a volume of about 900 pages of ordinary printed matter and an atlas of maps, was sent to England about ten days ago, and the British case, which was due the 10th of April, arrived by Saturday's steamer and reached Washington.

The British have made a much more elaborate display of typographical work, but their printed volume and atlas are large and cumbersome compared with those of the United States. Our atlas is only about one-third as large and has flexible covers, so that it can be easily handled, while the British atlas is so large and heavy that you cannot examine it without the aid of a table or some other support. Their evidence is printed in a volume three times as large as that of the United States, and, is bound in red cloth, while our volumes are bound in black Russia leather.

The volumes, which have just been exchanged, contained the evidence upon which the claims of each nation to the disputed territory in Alaska are based, and the attorneys will have two months to study them. Then on the 10th of July, they will exchange arguments in printed form, which will be based upon the facts presented in the case."

Two months later, about the 2nd of September—a few days will not make any difference—the tribunal is excpted to meet, the facts and arguments will be submitted and an opportunity will be offered both sides to make explanations and additional arguments if they desire to do so.

Mme. Ratozzi, the noted beauty and singer, says: "My face is much fairer, the rose deepens in my cheeks, my eyes grow brighter since taking Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents."

IN HANDS OF LAW

Cesario Manchaca Arrested In Mexico For Killing John Green.

Son Pursues Slayer of His Father For Thirty Years.

San Antonio, Texas, May 22.—After thirty years of freedom, Cesairo Manchaca is in the clutches of the law, charged with a murder committed during July, 1873. He was arrested at Sabinas, Mexico, by a friend of his alleged victim, and an eye-witness to the murder, Capt. James M. Van Riper, until recently city marshal of San Antonio.

Capt. Van Riper is now here procuring evidence to present at the extradition hearing to be held at C. P. Diaz, Mexico.

Thirty years ago San Antonio was on the frontier and the inhabitants of Bexar county were much annoyed by the depredations of a band of Indians. These savages stole everything they could lay their hands on, including little children, whom they held for ransom.

With the view of breaking up this band of marauders, a company of minute men was formed, composed of the hardy farmers and stockmen of the county. Among these were John Green and Capt. Van Riper. It was the custom of the minute men to scout three or four days before and after each full moon, this being the season usually selected by the Indians for their expeditions of pillage. In July, 1873, two little children were stolen by the Indians, and the minute men were summoned, and started in pursuit, under the leadership of John Green.

In the company was a Mexican named Cesario Manchaca. Eighteen miles northwest of San Antonio the company camped for the night, but at 9 o'clock they received word that the Indians were nearby. Green called his men to saddle and mount. As he was arranging his saddle a shot rang out, and Green fell. The others ran to him, and he said: "I'm a dead man, boys," and expired.

The others at first thought the fatal shot had been dired by an Indian, but they soon had evidence that this was not the case, for they found that Manchaca was missing. They pursued him, but he eluded them, and he was never seen again in these parts.

John Green left a son, W. F. Green, who swore a solemn oath that he would never rest until the murderer of his father was brought to justice. He made many trips to Mexico, where he felt sure Manchaca had taken refuge, but until three years ago he found no clew to Manchaca's whereabouts. Then it was learned that a Cacario Manchaca had sold a smal business at Santa Rosa Musquiz, Mexico, and moved to Sbinas. An indictment was returned, all the witnesses save one were alive and the prospect of bringing Manchaca to justice seemed bright.

But an obstacle presented itself. There were two Scenio Manchaeas in Sabinas and it was doubtful whether the right man could be identified. Capt. Van Riper was then city marshal here and could not go to Sabinas.

Capt. Van Riper retired from office recently and was at once commissioned to go to Sabinas and arrest Manchaca if he could be found. The captain executed his commission, being able to positively identify his man, notwithstanding the lapse of thirty years. Indeed, when confronted by Capt. Van Riper, Manchaca did not hesitate to admit his identity. But he fought extradition on the ground that he had killed Green in self-defense. He applied to the Mexican court for a writ of habeas corpus. This made it necessary for Capt. Van Riper to procure evidence as to the crime. Manchaca is in custody at Santa Rosa and Capt. Van Riper is here gathering the evidence.

NEW YORK PRINCIPALS

Want Permission to Chastise the Youngsters.

New York, May 21.—The principals of New York schools want to return to corporal punishment for unruly pupils. In a set of resolutions drawn u to be handed to the school board the male principals' association asks permission to chastise bad boys and advises that all magisterial powers in cases of truancy be lodged with the district superintendent.

If this recommendation is accepted by the school board the superintendents will have the power "to commit children, after a hearing on truancy, with or without parental consent," and "to fine parents who neglect their duties to their children under the law."

STUDIES IN ACTS

PAUL BEFORE AGRIPPA

International Sunday School Lesson For May 24, 1903.

Acts 26:19-29. "Wherefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision: but declared unto them at Damascus first, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the country of Judea, and also to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, doing works worthy of repentance. For this cause the Jews seized me in the temple, and assayed to kill me. Having therefore obtained the help that is from God, I stand unto this day testifying both to small and great, saying nothing but what the prophets and Moses did say should come; how that the Christ must suffer, and how that he first by the resurrection of the dead should proclaim light both to the people and to the Gentiles.

"And as he thus made his defense, Festus saith with a loud voice, Paul, thou art mad; thy much learning hath turned thee to madness. But Paul said, I am not mad, most excellent Festus; but speak forth words of truth and soberness. For the king knoweth of these things, unto whom also I speak freely; for I am persuaded that none of these things is hidden from him; for this hath not been done in a corner. King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest. And Agrippa said unto Paul, with but little persuasion thou wouldst fain make me a Christian. And Paul said, I would to God, that whether with little or with much, not thou only, but also all that hear me this day, might become such as I am, except these bonds."

Golden text: "Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day." Acts 26:22.

Festus, the new procurator at Judea, was a better man than Felix had been, although he did not succeed much better than had his predecessor in suppressing the robbers and other disorderly persons in his dominion. He appears, however, to have been more honest and less corruptible than Felix, not susceptible to bribery and consequently more just. His rule was brief, for in A. D. 62, less than two years after his accession, he was succeeded by Albinus.

Three days after he assumed his new duties Festus went from Caesarea, the Roman capital, to Jerusalem the center of Jewish national and religious life, to confer upon matters of state. Although two years had elapsed since Paul had been seized by the frenzied mob in the temple, their memory and hatred of him were still fresh. The rule of Felix had been terminated because of a terrible fight in the streets of Caesarea between Jews and Syrian Greeks. Perhaps this fight had in some way served to revive every phase of animosity that lay dormant in the mind of the Jews, ready to rise to expression against the Roman authority or to perplex the Roman rulers. Every riot or disorder helped to discredit the reigning procurator and so to make the rule of the Romans a burden to the imperial state. Festus probably saw that to remove Paul to Jerusalem for trial would likely precipitate a tumult there, and it was his purpose to quell all disorders with a strong hand, or, when possible, to cautiously prevent them. Accordingly he promptly refused the request of Ismael, the high priest, to have Paul sent to the Sanhedrin for trial.

The plot which Ismael was trying to forward was a most wicked one. Including a second plot to assassinate Paul as he was being brought to court. But Festus stood on the dignity of Roman law and procedure, and bade Ismael bring to Caesarea any who desired to accuse Paul, stating that it was not the custom of the Romans to subject anyone to a peril of death until that man's accusers had made their complaint to his face before a proper tribunal and he had had opportunity to answer.

In accordance with the mandate of Festus a number of Jews went down to Caesarea when the procurator left Jerusalem after a ten days' stay. They did not take with them a trained orator, as they had done on a former occasion, but contented themselves with laying "many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove." Even if they had proven them, the charges would have availed nothing against Paul in the eyes of Roman law, as Festus afterwards stated to Agrippa; they were all questions of Jewish theology which in no degree whatever entailed crime before Roman law. But Festus seems to have thought that the questions involved might be accounted criminal in Jewish law. He wished to please the Jews. So he asked Paul if he would go to Jerusalem under his protection for trial before the Sanhedrin. According to Roman law Festus had no right to send Paul to the Sanhedrin without his consent, for nothing criminal had been proved against him. So Paul refused the request and appealed to the throne of Rome—"Caesarem appello."

Festus delayed justice and defrauded Paul of his liberty by his failure to decide the case on the spot. He was much embarrassed by Paul's appeal, for he had no charge to make against the prisoner, and to send him to Rome without any reason to give for his apprehension and detention would reflect seriously on his own justice and might imperil his position. Paul had a good conscience before God and his position fulfilled the counsel Peter gave to the scattered believers who were subjected to persecution (1 Peter 4:15-16): For let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or an evil doer, or as a meddler in other men's matters; but if a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name."

It was not long after Paul made his appeal to Caesar before Festus was favored with visitors of royal degree—Herod Agrippa II and his beautiful sister, Bernice, whose relations constituted the greatest scandal of their day. They came to congratulate Fetsus on his entrance to the procuratorship. This Herod was the great-grandson of Herod the Great and the son of Agrippa the Great. He was also a descendant through Mariamne of the Maccabees. He was thus the last of the Herods and of the Maccabees. He was not, like his father, the king of the Jews. He could be aptly called a brevet-king. At the death of his father, Herod Agrippa I, Claudius gave him the principality of Chalcis, afterwards the tetrarchy of Philip, with the title of king; to which territory other cities were later added. Among other distinctions, he was made guardian of the temple, with its sacred robes, and was endowed with the right to nominate the high priest. His Jewish blood and training and his position of influence among the Jews fitted him to be a valuable counsellor to Festus in the case against Paul.

Festus accorded his visitors a splendid welcome; but as soon as the formal festivities were over he proceeded to utilize Agrippa's presence to assist in the promotion of business. He laid Paul's case before him, and at Agrippa's request appointed a hearing for the next day; when with royal splendor the court sat amid an assembly of military officials and civilian dignitaries and commanded Paul to be brought. With a brief statement of the history of Paul's case and of his desire to formulate some definite charge against him, since he had to send him to Rome, Festus requested Agrippa to examine the case for himself.

It was not the Roman governors that protected Paul all through the trying period between his arrest in Jerusalem and his departure for Rome; it was the constitution. Both Felix and Festus treated him with the greatest injustice and would have delivered him to the fury of the Jews, if they had dared. But Paul had right on his side and there was sufficient publicity about the case to render impossible any effort to suppress the injustice that might have otherwise been done him. The Roman constitution surrounded him, a Roman citizen, with ample safeguards to protect his life during this trying period. God's providence had supplied a great state, whose laws were a benefaction in the protection of the greatest herald of the cross.

Agrippa thought that he was the great central figure of that occasion, and he was, in the eyes of the people there assembled. But today his chief claim to fame is that his name is linked with that of his prisoner, whom he deigned to permit to speak for himself, but did speak for himself, but much more for the Christ whom he sought to glorify. He was not forgetful of the customary amenities of the day, but began his address with a felicitious self-congratulation on the fact that he had the opportunity to state his case before a judge so learned in the questions on which he was accused.

As in the trial before Felix, Paul's defense was a narration of his conduct from youth up, which conduct had been among his own nation and was familiar to all the Jews, who could testify that he had been reared and had spent his early life as a strict Pharisee. In the face of his reputation he was humiliated by being tried for alleged violation of the promises of God. The only thing they could charge against him was that he accepted the fulfillment of one of the greatest promises God had given the nation, viz., the Messiah, suffering, dead and risen. This involved the implied charge that the Jewish religious leaders had been guilty of murdering the promised national Messiah, which, of course, infuriated them. The whole nation had hoped to see the day of the Messiah and all but a very few had rejected him when he came.

They had been particularly angered by Paul's claim that Jesus had arisen from the dead and had appeared to him. Yet the Pharisees believed in the resurrection. The difference started with the disbelief of the Jews in the idea of a suffering Messiah. They had not in the least grasped the ideas of the great evangelical chapters of Isaiah. Paul had at one time vigorously supported the belief of the Pharisees with respect to Jesus. His belief had been changed and his life transformed by a series of divine manifestations from whose power he had not been able to escape. True, he had, while a Pharisee, believed in the resurrection as an abstract question, and could have them with sincerity put abstractly the question he now puts concretely to Agrippa, "Why is it judged incredible with you, if God doth raise the dead?" As put to Agrippa, the question's significance is, Why should it be thought incredible that God has raised a specific man from the dead since you believe the doctrine of resurrection? It was a question that tested the sincerity of a primary article in the creed of Pharisaism.

All Paul's doubts as to the credibility of the doctrine of the resurrection and of the particular resurrection of Jesus had been removed by his personal experience. The direct voice of God had squarely contradicted his opinions and rebuked his deeds; had revealed himself as the very Jesus whom he was persecuting, appointing him a minister and a witness of the things thereby revealed to him. As a witness Paul sought to tell the "truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" of Jesus, as he saw it. As a minister he was faithful and zealous in performing every possible service, proving himself an apt scholar of the teaching, "Let him that would be greatest among you be minister of all."

Paul was given a revelation of certain things at the time of his conversion and call; but he was then told that still fuller revelation of divine truth would be given to him, and his ministry was ordered to compass both the past and future revelations made to him. It would be a very poor minister, indeed, whose life had to be spent in ministering only the truth he knew when commissioned. Whether by special visions or through the processes of the normal mind, God's spirit will give his ministers fresh views and reaches of truth as they need it, if they keep heart and mind open toward heaven.

"Arise and stand upon thy feet" was the first significant order Jesus gave to the stricken Saul. Manly erectness is significant of human kinship to God, who does not want his ministers to be cringing before him, but desires the devotion of upright, manly lives. It is especially necessary that one whose life is to be spent in the effort to draw others to accept the gospel should maintain the bearing of a strong, vigorous man. If a man has not previously cultivated such an attitude, sufficient reason is given him to do so when he hears the call of God, commissioning him to a duty of so much dignity. There is no place for effeminacy here. Time was when three orders of humanity were reckoned: men, women and ministers. But a male person is a very poor minister of Christ unless he is first and foremost a true man.

Paul declared to Agrippa that he had not been disobedient to the heavenly vision. This was not so very long before this great apostle wrote, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course." He had preached at Damascus where he had previously intended to stamp out the church of Christ. He had preached at Jerusalem. This is the only place that tells us that he preached "throughout all the country of Judea;" but we know that he wanted to spend his life there. God tore him away from his own people and sent him away to the Gentiles, whose apostle he was. His fiery spirit could never have worked peaceably and effectively with the Jews, for their implacable hatred of Jesus would have torn him to pieces before his work had fairly begun.

His gospel of repentance and of faith in Jesus Christ had been preached to a diversity of peoples, despite the opposition of the Jews, whose enmity had ventured to the extreme of seizing him in the temple and assaying to kill him. He learned to be "pressed on every side, yet not straitened; perplexed, yet not unto despair; pursued, yet not forsaken; smitten down, yet not destroyed; always bearing about in the body the dying of Jesus, that the life also of Jesus may be manifested in our body." Before Agrippa Paul devoutly acknowledged the protection God had given him as he had gone about testifying to people in high and lowly positions of the wondrous grace revealed in Jesus who had suffered even to death and who rose from the dead that light might be proclaimed to the Gentiles. Despite the claims of his detractors, he had not gone beyond the promises of the law of Moses and of the prophets in doing this. Had not Isaiah said, "I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee and will give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light to the Gentiles." (Compare Isaiah 42:6, 49:9, 60:1-3.)

The ardor of Paul, that swept him along in a veritable whirlwind of eloquence, provoked a sneer from the lips of Festus and a bit of ironical rebuke from Agrippa, who said, "With but little persuasion thou wouldst fain make me a Christian." The apostle's reply was characteristic of him, as it is also of every true worker for Christ. It was a devout wish that no difference in what degree the persuasion had been made, it might avail to lead Agrippa and all others present to sincere Christian faith and life. Nothing could overcome Paul's courage. He had the utmost faith in the power of the cross. Before pagan Gentile or loyal Jew, before docile hearer or violent antagonist, before humblest peasant or mightiest potentate, Paul declared unflinchingly the same gospel of redemption which called on all alike to repent and have faith, implicitly demanding humble acceptance from those of every station.

TRY TO SAVE A MURDERER

Prominent Men Plead the Cause of William Klein.

Lincoln, Neb., May 22.—The friends of William Rhea, condemned for murder and sentenced to be hanged July 15, will make a last effort to save him from the gallows within the next few days, when Mayor George Adams of Lincoln and Judge George Loomis of Fremont, two of the most prominent jurists of the state, will appear before Governor Mickey to plead for clemency in behalf of their youthful client.

The friends of Rhea have asked the governor to accord the attorneys a hearing, and he has consented to do so, but there is little prospect that the governor's mind will be changed.

It is a strange coincidence that Judge George Loomis, who is to make the last plea for the life of the condemned man, and who has fought his case through the courts for him, is the author of the bill which passed at the 1901 session of the legislature providing that all executions of the death sentence should take place within the confines of the penitentiary, and that his client is the first man sentenced to death under the new law.

William Rhea is a man of youthful appearance and apparent good education. His true name is William Klein, and he comes of a well-to-do and respected family of the state of Indiana.

It was entirely owing to the prominence of his connections in the East that Senator Beveridge interfered last summer and got Governor Savage to grant a stay of execution of the death sentence. Since that time his friends have used every effort to get his sentence commuted to life imprisonment or to a 25-year sentence at hard labor.

William Rhea was convicted of the murder of Hermann Zahn, a Dodge county saloonkeeper, in the spring of 1901.

Rhea and two others, it was alleged, at the time, entered the saloon and while attempting to rob the place killed Zahn. Rhea is said to have kicked the murdered man as he lay upon the floor and the crime was a particularly brutal one. Rhea and his companions were captured after a hard chase.

The other two got sentences for burglary, but Rhea was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. While at the penitentiary he has at different times been employed in the broom factory and about the yard with the other convicts, but his ferocious temper and uncontrollable desire to kill, when the fury was upon him, resulted in his being placed in solitary confinement several months ago, it being feared that he might kill some of the guards or other convicts with the instruments he was permitted to use in the broom shop.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be the twenty-fifth day of May, A. D. 1903, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty years (30).

ARTICLE III.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be five millions five hundred thousand dollars, three million five hundred thousand dollars of which shall be preferred stock, and two millions of dollars of which shall be common stock, but the said company may commence business whenever one million of dollars of the capital stock thereof, of either or both classes, has been subscribed for.

Certain moneys having already been invested in the business to be conducted by this corporation, by those intending to become holders of the preferred stock therein, and preliminary to and in anticipation of the organization of this corporation, the certificates of preferred stock to be issued by this corporation shall show on the face thereof the date when the moneys represented by such stock were first invested in the business of this corporation.

The preferred stock in this corporation shall have the following benefits and preferences:

1st. The same shall draw cumulative dividends at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable out of the surplus or profits of said corporation annually, on or before June 1st of each year, beginning with the year 1904, unless the board of directors determine in any year to pass the payment for want of available funds applicable to such payment.

2nd. The said preferred stock shall be subject to retirement at par and accrued dividends, pro rata on dividend dates, as fast as the corporation realizes from its investment and he has at different times been employed in the broom factory and about the yard with the other convicts, but his ferocious temper and uncontrollable desire to kill, when the fury was upon him, resulted in his being placed in solitary confinement several months ago, it being feared that he might kill some of the guards or other convicts with the instruments he was permitted to use in the broom shop.

The beginning of baldness is dandruff.
Dandruff is a disease and can be cured.

Cure the disease that causes dandruff,
And the dandruff will disappear for good.

Use only some old established remedy.
We know one tested for more than 50 years—

Ayer's Hair Vigor

It cures dandruff, checks falling, makes the hair grow, always restores color to gray hair.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor has cured my scalp of a bad case of dandruff. It is a delightful preparation to use."
Mrs. L. H. Budd, Lebanon Springs, N. Y.

J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

3rd. Upon the winding up of the affairs of the corporation, such stock shall be paid off in full at par and accrued dividends, in preference to the holders of the common stock, and the holders of such stock shall likewise, in addition thereto, be entitled to participate in the distribution of one-half of the surplus or net profits of the corporation to be distributed on the basis of the time and money represented by such stock shall have been invested in the business of the corporation.

4th. Upon the said stock being retired by the payment of the same at par, with accrued dividends, and the business of the company not being wound up, the holders of said stock shall be entitled to a debenture or certificate or writing obligatory of the company to the effect that one-half of all of the net profits of the company shall be set apart as a special fund and from time to time distributed to the holders of such certificates in the proportion which the money shown by such certificates bears to the whole amount of the preferred stock which had been issued, but also in proportion to the length of time such money was invested in the business of said corporation, so that the distribution of such funds shall be made to such certificate holders on the basis of percentage of earnings upon each dollar for the time the same was so employed, and said stock shall have no other preferences or special benefits, all of the rest of the net profits or earnings of the corporation to be distributed to the holders of the common stock, and all of the residue of the property of the corporation to be distributed to the holders of the common stock upon the winding up of the affairs of the corporation.

The common stock shall not draw any dividends, save and except through and by means of the distribution to the holders thereof of one-half of the net profits after the retirement of the preferred stock at par, and accrued dividends, and one-half of the residue of the property of the corporation, at the time of the winding up of its affairs, after the payment to the holders of the preferred stock of the amount of such preferred stock outstanding, and accrued dividends.

The stock in this corporation, of both classes, issued and outstanding, shall be entitled to representation and vote in all of the affairs of the corporation.

The stock of this corporation shall be sold only at par, either for cash or for property and things of value deemed by the board of directors to be equivalent in value thereto, such determination by the board of directors to be deemed final and binding upon all parties in interest.

ARTICLE IV.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time be subject is the sum of three million five hundred thousand dollars ($3,500,000.00).

ARTICLE V.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this association for the purposes of incorporation, are as follows:

Charles F. Ruggles, residing at Virginia, Minnesota.

Mitchell J. Smiley, residing at Chicago, Illinois.

Robert E. Parcher, residing at Wausau, Wisconsin.

E. Golden Filer, residing at Manistee, Michigan.

Wirt H. Cook, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

Hansen Smith, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

David O. Anderson, residing at Virginia, Minnesota.

The government of this corporation and the conduct and management of its affairs is hereby vested in a board of seven directors who shall all be stockholders, and, except as herein provided, shall be elected by the stockholders, at their annual meeting on the first Tuesday after the first day of January of each year, and who shall, within ten days thereafter, elect from their own number the following officers: A president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer.

The first annual meeting of this corporation shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first day of January, 1904, and until such time and until such directors have been elected and qualified, the following persons shall be and constitute the board of directors of this corporation: Charles F. Ruggles, Wirt H. Cook, David O. Anderson, Robert E. Parcher, E. Golden Filer, Mitchell J. Smiley and Hansen Smith; and until such annual meeting is held and the directors thereat chosen shall elect officers, as hereinbefore provided, and until such officers shall have been duly elected and qualified, the general officers of this corporation shall be as follows: Charles F. Ruggles, president; Wirt H. Cook, vice president; Hansen Smith, secretary; and Charles F. Ruggles, treasurer.

The office of treasurer may be held by any other officer of this corporation and the holders of the offices of secretary and treasurer may or may not be members of the board of directors.

The officers and directors of this corporation, except those herein designated to act as such in the first instance, shall hold office for the period of one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and in case any vacancy occurs in any of the offices or in the membership of the board of directors of this corporation, the same shall be filled by the board of directors until the next annual meeting and until such vacancies shall be filled by election held in accordance with these articles and such by-laws as may be adopted providing for elections.

The board of directors of this corporation shall adopt and is hereby authorized to adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for the corporation and the management of its business, not inconsistent with these articles or with the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota, as it may deem needful for the government of the officers and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and may create such other offices in addition to those herein provided, as may from time to time be deemed necessary for the advantageous conduct of the business of the corporation, and may fill such offices as it may so create, and may abolish and discontinue such offices so created at will. The board of directors may also, whenever it deems the same advisable, create and appoint an executive committee, consisting of at least three members of the board, for the purposes of transacting the business and exercising the ordinary powers of the board when the board is not in session.

The board of directors may also fix the compensation to be paid to any officers or employees of this corporation, and cause the same to be paid from the funds of the corporation applicable thereto, in accordance with such regulations and by-laws as may be adopted by the board.

The board of directors shall also have the power, when in its judgment reasonable cause exists, to remove any officers of this corporation from their positions and to declare the offices vacant.

ARTICLE VII.

The capital stock of this corporation is divided into fifty-five thousand (55,000) shares of one hundred dollars each.

In testimony whereof, the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands and seals this seventh day of May, A. D. 1903.

WHEAT IS HIGHER

Good Demand and Modern Miller Report Make Firm Market.

Continent Offering to Resell—Flax Is Active and Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 22.—The wheat market opened with a slight decline this morning, the easy tone being due to heavy rains and favorable reports on the growing crops, but after the first hour the market became firmer and advanced under a good demand and during the remainder of the morning ruled quite steady. The closing prices were almost at the top for the day. The Modern Miller was moderately bullish, and this gave some support to the market. The foreign situation is not at all inclined to the bull side. Continental houses were offering to resell wheat bought some time ago at a considerable price under what shippers here can sell for now. The United Kingdom was not in the market for any wheat. Chicago reported California houses as less bullish.

The Liverpool market closed ½d lower, Paris 1½ to 2c lower, Berlin ¾c lower and Budapest ½c lower.

Argentine shipments this week were 2,256,000 bushels, somewhat larger than Broomhall estimated, against 2,104,000 bushels last week and 1,104,000 bushels last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 1,800,000 bushels; last year 188,000 bushels. Shipments, 652,000 bushels; last year 158,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour were 25,000 bushels.

Stocks of wheat at Duluth are estimated to decrease from 500,000 to 600,000 bushels this week. Minneapolis estimated a decrease of 1,250,000 bushels there.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis 344 cars, and at Chicago, 27 cars, a total of 141 cars, against 136 last week and 116 last year.

Corn at the Liverpool market closed ½d lower. July corn in the Chicago market closed ¼c higher and July oats ⅛@¼c higher. Primary receipts of corn were 476,000 bushels; last year 190,000 bushels. Shipments, 349,000 bushels; last year 169,000 bushels. Clearances were 325,000 bushels. Argentine shipments this week were 985,000 bushels; last year 672,000 bushels; last year 1,453,000 bushels.

The Duluth market was fairly active and the price generally firm. July opened with a decline of ⅛@¼c in the bid price, but the lowest trade was at 78c. It sold up to 78⅝c within an hour, reacted to 78-⅜c about 11 o'clock and rallied again to 78¾c, closing at that price. This was an advance of ¼c. May advanced ⅜c and September the same. In Chicago the May price was very weak, the close being 5c off and the market at one time selling 2c lower than that. July advanced ⅜-½c. In Minneapolis July ½-⅝c and May ⅛c. New York May was unchanged and July ⅝c higher.

Cash sales were limited to a few cars and prices continued at May price for No. 1 northern and 2c under for No. 2.

Flax trading was fairly active and the market very strong, July making a new high point, selling up to $1.17. It fell off slightly from that, closing at $1.16¾, which was an advance of ¼c. September advanced the same. Flax in store moved up to the to arrive and on track price, which was a gain of ¼c. Receipts of flax were somewhat better. Minneapolis reporting 9 cars and Duluth 18. Argentine shipments of flax this week were 322,000 bushels; last week 680,000 bushels; last year 412,000 bushels.

Oats had an advance of ½c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat to arrive, No. 1 hard, 80¾c; No. 1 northern, 78¾c; No. 2 northern, 76¾c; May, No. 1 northern, 78¾c; July, 78¼c; September, 71¾c. Flax, in store, $1.16; to arrive, $1.16; on track, $1.16; May, $1.16; July, $1.16¾; September, $1.18¼; October, $1.17½; November, $1.16¾. Oats, to arrive, 34½-35c; on track, 34½-35c; May, 34c. Rye, to arrive, 50c; on track, 50c; May, 50c. Barley 50@54c.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 34; last year, 7; oats, 4; rye, 1; flax, 18; last year, 6.

Receipts: Wheat, 17,772; rye, 1138; barley, 1757; flax, 6658.

Shipments: Wheat, 62,917; oats, 100,660; flax, 8543.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Easy on Rains and Favorable Crops.

Chicago, May 22.—Wheat opened easy on heavy rains and favorable reports on the growing crops, together with weak cables, with July ½@¾c lower at 73⅛@73¼c. Brokers, supposed to represent the leading long, sold May at the opening and caused a little flurry in that option, the initial sales ranging from 76c to 78⅛c. It was soon bid up again to 78c by the same interest, although little was taken on. Provision interests were good buyers of the late months and under this influence July sold up to 73½@¾c. Shorts were also good buyers. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 114 cars, which with local receipts of 27 cars, none of contract grade, made total receipts of 141 cars, against 136 last week and 116 a year ago.

Considerable strength developed later on liberal clearances for the week—3,393,000 bushels—and dearth of offerings. Good buying by pit traders, most of whom were short, caused an advance, July selling up to 7⅞c and closing steady at 73¾@⅞c, a gain of 5@⅝c.

Corn opened quiet but steady, with July unchanged to ⅛c lower at 44½@¾c. There were some heavy sales of cash early on country orders, and under their influence the July option weakened a trifle, selling down to 44⅛@44¼c. Some of the local traders also took profits, selling on the increased movement and good weather. Cables were about steady. Local receipts were 379 cars with 19 of contract grade.

In spite of the favorable weather offerings were freely taken and resulted in a stronger tone, July advancing to 44⅝c, and closing at the top with a gain of ⅝c.

Oats were a little easier on crop conditions and in sympathy with wheat. Although there was great improvement in crop prospects in some sections, there was little tendency to weakness and on fair buying by local horts July advanced to 33⅜c.

Provisions were steady with some demand for lard and ribs, apparently from packing houses. The market was inactive and featureless. July pork was unchanged at $16.70, lard unchanged to 2½c up at $8.92½@8.95 with ribs unchanged at $6.55.

Close: Wheat—May, 78c; July, 73¾@⅞c, September, 70⅞@71c; December, 71⅛c. Corn—May, 44⅝c; July, 44¼c; September, 40¾@⅞c. Oats—May, 36⅝c; July, 33⅜c; September, 30⅝@31c; December, 29½@⅝c. Pork—May $18.90; July $17.55; September $16.85. Lard—May, $8.95; July, $9.02½; September, $9.02½. Ribs—May, $9.42½; July, $9.50; September, $9.32½. Rye—May, 50c; July, 50c. Flax—Cash, N. Oats—2, 36c; 3, 32@½c.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Duluth Commercial Record: Some miscalculations must have been made in last year's Manitoba flax crop, or else there's going to be a tremendous increase in the flax area up there this year. The crop was variously estimated at 40,000 to 60,000 bushels, and Eastern Canadian crushers, who generally buy at Duluth, took seed very moderately last fall, expecting to get seed from their own Northwestern provinces, but they were disappointed. So far this spring, Canadian crushers have tagen 250,000 bushels from Duluth, and estimating Duluth will get shipments to them at 100,000 bushels, they have taken 650,000 bushels on the crop. From Manitoba they have 'rd 107,000 bushels, giving a total of 750,000 bushels, practically their requirements. The small mill at Winnipeg will use about 100,000 bushels yearly, which, with the amount shipped, will leave 225,000 to 250,000 bushels to be accounted for at the very lowest crop estimate. This would seed four to five hundred thousand acres, compared with 400 acres last year. It is not conceivable that there can be any such increase as this. Still, a very large increase is certain.

Chicago Record-Herald: "This present alarm over the wheat crop," says Edward L. Glaser of Rosenbaum Brothers, whose lines cover the wheat territory east of here quite thoroughly, "is a sort of hysteria. There are a good many reports of trouble, and there may possibly some occasion for nervousness. But rains within the next week or ten days will, I believe, quite completely relieve the situation. It is well to remember in all such scares wheat is no hothouse plant, that it can stand a good many trials and that not one crop scare in ten realize the popuair fears."

PASSING OF OLD BUILDING

Was Erected In 1712 In Boston and Now Destroyed.

Boston, May 22.—A wave of materialism is sweeping away the historic landmarks of Boston. First came the East Boston tunnel, which burrowed under the old state house and made it necessary to knock out the lower end of the historic structure to provide an entrance to an underground waiting room.

Agitated Boston has hardly recovered her breath and adjusted her spectacles before contractors began demolishing the Hancock Tavern, for a time the home of the man whose bold signature appears on the declaration of independence. Next came the news that the Boston museum was to be razed in June. And now it is the old corner bookstore, the oldest building in Boston and one of the oldest in America, that is to be swept away.

A protest is heard from the members of the Bostonian Society. Curtis Guild, the president, father of Governor-Governor Guild, call it "the work of vandals," and is striving to arouse public opinion to preserve the relics. His protests are falling upon deaf ears.

The Hancock Tavern stood upon valuable ground where an addition to a skyscraper is to be built. The Boston Museum is to give place to a big business block. The old corner book store, standing at the corner of Washington and School streets, is on very valuable land, and a new building will bring higher rents than the interesting but antiquated and inconvenient relic.

This building was erected in 1712, 30 years before the original Faneuil Hall, by Dr. Thomas Crease. He kept a small apothecary shop in one room on the ground floor. The building was used for different purposes until 1828, when Carter & Hendee started a small book store there.

In 1832 William C. Ticknor, the famous bookseller and publisher, came into the firm, and from that time on the fame of the old store grew apace. James T. Fields entered the firm in 1845, the firm becoming Ticknor & Fields.

From the very first the store was the rendezvous of the ministers, authors and readers of the city. There was a sunny backyard where the clergy of the city used to meet every week and where Emerson, Hawthorne, Holmes and Longfellow used to meet frequently. The shy and eccentric Thoreau was often seen here.

Hawthorne corrected the proofs of "The Scarlet Letter" at an old desk still in the store. Thackeray, Dickens, Matthew Arnold, Paul Bourget and many other European celebrities lolled amongst the books. Mary Larcom, Louise May Alcott, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mrs. Mary Livermore and other clever women shed their bright presence amongst the dusty book shelves.

The "Old Corner Book Store" corporation, which now runs the book store, will remove on July 1, as its lease expires on that date. Bostonians have observed with regret that the centennial celebration of Ralph Waldo Emerson's birthday will occur just at the time when this historic book store, where he spent so many hours, ceases to be the meeting place of scribes and bookworms.

WAS DRESSED AS A BEGGAR

How Society Woman Raised Money For Church Society.

Omaha, May 22.—A few days ago the pity of many people passing a certain prominent street corner in Lincoln, was excited by an old beggar woman playing a zither and singing hymns. Nickles, dimes, quarters and even dollars were dropped generously into the battered tin cup that she held in her lap. When night came she had a snug sum of money to take to her lodgings. The next day passers-by looked for the old woman again, but she did not appear. Nobody knew where she had come from or whither she had gone.

It came to light at a meeting of the Ladies' society of All Souls Episcopal church that the old beggar woman was none other than Mrs. W. C. Frampton, an active member, and one of the best known society ladies of the city.

Mrs. Frampton explained to her coworkers that she had promised to raise a certain sum of money for the society, and that she had adopted this novel method of doing it. When her story was told the other ladies applauded.

Many of her contributors were members of the old society and her most intimate friends, who had failed to recognize her, so skillfully had she disguised herself.

STRENGTH SHOWN

In the Stock Market and Reaction Followed Decline.

Spasmodic Bursts of Activity and the Undertone Good.

New York, May 22.—London again advanced the prices of Americans this morning and opening quotations were responded to on active and distributed dealings. There were running sales of 3500 shares of Pennsylvania at 128 to 128¾, compared with 127½ last night. Southern Pacific and National of Mexico advanced a point and General Electric 1¾. Western Union declined a point on account of the action of the Pennsylvania company in removing its poles from along the lines of that road.

Selling orders appeared in abundance after the opening, room traders hastening to take profits on the advance. The absence of yesterday's strong buying stimulated the selling movement. St. Paul lost a point from last night and Missouri Pacific and National of Mexico ran off a point from the best prices,and there were sharp declines in some of the Goulds. Erie second preferred lost a point and a rise of as much in Northwestern was followed by a reaction of 2½. North American, Tennessee Coal, Colorado Fuel, Pullman, Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and Des Moines & Fort Dodge gained 1 to 1½. Minneapolis & St. Louis dropped 4 points. Pennsylvania after losing its opening rise, advanced firmly 2 points over last night on heavy buying and carried the whole list upwards with it. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Sugar rose a point over last night.

The report that a bankers' syndicate had underwritten the new issue of Pennsylvania stock explained the jump in its price. It fell back a point and became quiet and steady on about 12 o'clock. The rest of the market settled back slightly in sympathy, but held firm at a higher level. A rally of 2 in Northwestern, a rise of 2¼ in Colorado Southern, 3 in American Express and of 1 to 2 in various minor stocks followed the advance in the leaders. Chicago Union Traction preferred dropped 3. Rates steady at noon.

Fresh selling of St. Paul carried it down to 153¾ again and a number of others fell back to about the lowest in sympathy. Pennsylvania was heavy and declined sagged to 128⅝. Renewed buying of St. Paul rallied the stock a point and when Sugar was suddenly lighted 2 points, prices all around hardened.

There was spasmodic bursts of activity in the market, which were generally attended by higher prices. At other times the market was pretty much at a standstill but displayed a fairly good undertone. Amalgamated became more prominent in the dealing and moved up a point as did also Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central and Wabash preferred. Wheeling & Lake Erie second preferred rose 3 in all, the common 2½ and the first preferred 1½. By 2 o'clock most of the western stocks were rallying at their top prices. Pennsylvania was much quieter but held well around 129. Minneapolis and St. Louis extended its loss to 6 points and Des Moines & Fort Dodge 4 points.

The promise of a better bank statement than had been expected was the cause of the later strength in the market, but profit taking made some inroads in prices in the last hour. St. Paul reacted a point. Among active ville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, New York C. & St. L., United Railway Investment pfd and Detroit United Railway. Snuff pfd lost. Prices at the last showstocks there were gains of 2 to 3 in Nashed small net changes both ways. The close was dull and heavy.

COPPER GOSSIP.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The tone of the general market was decidedly firmer today. Liquidation appears to be pretty well over for the present and it seems that a good rally must be overdue. As soon as improvement began to show in the general list the buying demand for coppers increased and they showed more strength than any other stocks on the list. Utah was bought heavily here for New York account and advanced nearly three points. It was stated the United Metal Selling company had advanced the price of lake copper to 15½ cents and that sales had been made at that price.

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: The New York United Metal Selling company has been offering no lake copper below 15¾c for two months. The price has been advanced today to 15½ cents for lake and 15⅝ cents for electro. Sales have been made at these figures. The Calumet and Hecla recently made sales of small lots at 15¾ cents. The United Metal Selling is sold up to the middle of July at 15⅞ cents.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 22.—At the start today, cotton prices at Liverpool were not far from expectations, then they shot up and at 12:30 were from 8 to 23 points higher than expected, with the near positions showing the greatest strength. Later they became weaker and declines were reported, but at the time of the local opning they were still about 8 points higher. At the opening here the volume of covering was enormous while fresh buying orders came pouring in on the cable news. Prices opened on the New York exchange at an advance of 9 to 20 points with July selling from 10.85 to 10.87 on the call. The advance at Liverpool was attributed by many to buying orders from this side and those who were yesterday proclaiming the collapse of the bull movement, again professed their confidence in the bull leaders ability to dontrol the market. After the initial rush of buying, the bears attacked the market vigorously, and being favored by the continued heavy movement, with favorable weather and the break abroad, were successful in causing a loss from the best of about 10 points on the active months. Then speculation became less active although fluctuations were frequent and nervous.

Cotton spot closed quiet; mid ups 12.05; mid gulf 12.30. Sales 7000 bales. Cotton futures closed steady. May 11.60; June 10.98; July 10.97; August 10.67; September, 9.75; October 9.37; November 9.20; December 9.19; January 9.19.

WHITE GIRL PROTECTED

By the United States From Her Indian Wooer.

Guthrie, O. T., May 22.—The United States has been forced to step in and protect Mary Truegiver, a white girl of 17, from Chief Prettyhair, an Osage Indian warrior, who has been persistently and threateningly attempting to marry her.

Mary Truegiver is thought to be an orphan, at least there is no clew to her parents. The Osago Indians remember that fully seventeen years ago a white man, with his wife, came to the reservation, lived there a considerable time and then suddenly and mysteriously disappeared, leaving in the log hut a pretty 8-months-old baby daughter. Near the hut of the white people lived old "Aunt" Phebe Truegiver, a squaw of the Osage tribe, in whose bosom the true instinct of motherhood rested. Not seeing anything living about the hut for several days, she went to investigate and found the baby girl, more dead than alive, gave it sustenance, adopted it and gave it the best home that was possible in the Indian country.

Mary Truegiver grew up a pretty girl, always wearing the Indian moccasins, blanket and feathered headdress and was more of a daughter to the old squaw than even her Indian children. Numerous times the white girl has refused to leave her Indian foster mother to go to people of her own color. She was educated in the government schools built for the Indians, and thus her English education became fairly good.

After adopting the white girl "Aunt Phoebe" lost her husband, and later married old Chief Prettyhair, a full blood warrior, now nearly 70 years old.

After the death of "Aunt Phoebe" the white girl decided to adopt the ways of her own people, and accordingly made application to Mrs. Julia Dell Orier, residing near Pawhuska, the capital of the Osage Nation, and was given an excellent home. Around her were thrown all the comforts her new white mother could furnish, and the girl is evidently happy.

Old Chief Prettyhair soon became lonely in his wigwam and decided to secure another wife. His first thoughts were of the white girl, now grown to young womanhood. He determined to marry her.

Donning all his war paraphernalia Prettyhair started out to see Miss Truegiver. In the Indian home the husband's wish is law; the chief's least desire is granted, and in this instance the chief looked for no opposition to his plans. He camped near the new home of Mary Truegiver and immediately commenced his suit, threatening the girl with death unless she listened and returned home with him. With his full equipment of war paint and knives he looked the typical warrior. The girl, having spent her life among the Indians, knew that Prettyhair meant business. The result was that she did return to his home, but refused always to be his wife.

The persistence of the girl in refusing to marry him so angered the old chief that he began a system of cruel treatment, attempting in this way to coerce her to marry him. Still did she refuse, and the cruelties were continued until telephone communications notified United States Attorney Horace Speed, in this city, of the facts. Immediately he ordered Deputy United States Marshals A. B. Hutchinson and Seng, of Bonca City, to rescue the girl from the Indian's home.

Steamer Suit Returns From Isle Royale Treasure Hunting Trip.

New Passenger Steamer Tionesta to Be In Duluth Soon.

The steamer Joseph C. Suit has returned from her treasure hunting trip to Isle Royale.

The Suit was after the wreckage of the steamer Algoma, which was wrecked at Moat island, Isle Royale. The Algoma went ashore in a blinding snow storm, running at full speed before a northeaster nineteen years ago next November. Her wreckage has been lying at the place where she struck since that time and no attempt made to recover it. She was loaded with a quantity of railroad iron. Her bow is resting above water on shore, but the stern is sunk about thirty feet below the level of the lake.

The Suit carried a diver and a steam crane with which to hoist the wreckage. About eighty tons of iron plates, fish plates and railroad iron have been recovered. Dynamite was used to break the wreckage into pieces that could be easily handled by the crew.

In addition to the iron that was secured, Capt. Ryan succeeded in getting about half of a ton of brass castings. The iron is badly corroded from its long exposure to the water of the lake, but is still of considerable value.

"The limited power of our crane was a handicap to us," said Capt. Ryan. "Three tons is the heaviest load we could hoist with it, and we were compelled to take only the small pieces.

"We have been absent almost thirty days. Had our crane been more powerful we could have secured a load in much shorter time."

This is the second trip of the Suit. Her owners expect to keep her in the business of dismantling wrecks for the remainder of the season if it is found profitable.

NEW BOATS COMING.

Passenger Boat Tionesta and Freighter Sinatoa.

Two new vessels will arrive in Duluth on their maiden trips before the end of the week.

The new steamer Tionesta, which has recently been completed, left Detroit the early part of the week for the head of the lakes. She was reported at the Sault last evening and will probably arrive in Duluth early Saturday morning.

The Tionesta is one of the finest passenger steamers on the lakes and will be a notable addition to the fleet of the Anchor line. She will be placed on the Duluth-Buffalo run together with the China, India and other vessels of the same line. The Tionesta is reported to be a very speedy boat.

At Detroit and at Sault Ste Marie, Mich., she was opened to the public for exhibition and at both cities a large number of people inspected her.

The big freighter Sinatoa which has been building at Bay City for the Duluth Transportation company has been completed and received her papers and is expected to arrive in Duluth today or tomorrow light for a load of ore.

TIONESTA IS COMING.

Houghton, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wild screeching of whistles along Portage Lake this forenoon created great commotion among the people on shore until it was learned that the whistles were saluting the new steamer Tionesta, of the Anchor line now on an inspection trip to Lake Superior. Later in the day the new ship was visited by thousands. From here, the Tionesta goes to Duluth.

GRAIN RATE DROPS.

The grain rate to Buffalo is down to 1 cent a bushel. It was posted by shippers some days ago that it would go to that price, but the boats seem to have been responsible for it rather than the shippers. They needed to fill out cargoes and made the rate to get the stuff. About 200,000 bushels is understood to have been chartered at the one cent rate. Shippers do not anticipate that the rate will break through one cent.

GRAIN TRADE DULL

Chicago, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grain trade was so dull that vessel agents found it practically impossible to get cargoes to ship. Rates, however, were without change.

BROTHERS UNITED

Strangely Brought Together After Half a Century's Separation.

For Ten Days They Had Worked Side By Side.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—Separated through poverty in early childhood and kept apart for nearly half a century through the changing of a name, Henry and Charles Lierman, brothers, have been reunited at the Soldiers' home through an idle remark of Chief Cook William Bradt.

The Lierman family lived in Wiasmar, Germany. There were many children and little money for their support, so when a relative in Columbus, Wis., offered to care for little Henry the proffer was accepted, not eagerly, because it was hard to part with the little fellow, but with gratitude, because of the lightening of the family burden.

Charles was a lad of 6 years of age when Henry sailed away and, though he had searched the country over for the lost brother, spending hundreds of dollars in the quest, it was not until accident brought them together that they had seen each other for forty-nine years.

When Henry began living with his uncle he occasionally wrote to his parents and he continued the practice until the beginning of the civil war, when he enlisted in the Seventh Wisconsin infantry and served until the close of the war.

Through the error of the recruiting officer his name appeared upon the rolls as Henry Lehman, instead of Henry Lierman. Believing that one name was as good as another he adopted the one given to him, and has since been known to the world as Henry Lehman.

He served in many engagements and still bears, in the form of scars, evidence of the excellence of Confederate marksmanship. At the close of the war he was unable to accumulate sufficient money to support him in his declining years, and, becoming ill, he entered the Soldiers' home about eleven years ago.

Charles continued his prosaic life on the farm in Germany until 1862, when he came to this country and soon enlisted in the navy, serving on the famous ships Minnesota, Constellation and Miami of the North Atlantic squadron, under command of the immortal Admiral Farragut.

At the close of the war the love of the sea was so strong within him that he decided to enter the merchant marine service and he has spent the greater part of his life on the water, sometimes on the sea and at other times on the great lakes.

He often came to Milwaukee, within two miles of the long, long lost brother whom he would have given many years of his life to see, and whom he had long mourned as dead. He wandered over a great part of the globe, and when the Boers began their fight for liberty he went to South Africa, enlisted in the Boer army, and fought against the British until he was captured and thrown into prison, where he remained until peace was declared.

A few weeks ago he suffered an injury to one of his legs and underwent treatment at Mercy hospital. Being eligible to the advantages of the Soldiers' home, about ten days ago he applied for admission as a temporary inmate, intending to remain only a short time, when hee xpected to resume his place as cook on one of the lake steamers.

Henry Lierman has long been a waiter in the home dining room. By a lucky coincidence Charles was assigned to a similar duty, else the reunion of the brothers probably would not have taken place. One day the brothers were standing close together in the kitchen when Chief Cook Brandt said to Charles:

"I'll bet you're a German."

"Yes, I am," was the reply.

"And I believe you fellows came from the same part of the country because both of you are so big."

Charles said he came from Wiasmar. Henry, who had appeared to take little interest in the conversation, suddenly looked up and remarked that Wiasmar was his former home. Question after question was exchanged, until Henry, satisfied of their relationship, clasped the new arrival in his arms and excitedly exclaimed:

"Charlie, you are my brother, whom I left fifty years ago and have never seen since."

Then the brothers embraced, tears streaming down their grizzled cheeks. Suddenly they noticed a crowd of veterans collecting about them, and they disappeared into the basement, where they apprised each other of the many incidents of their lives during the last half century. Neither can say enough in praise of the inquisitiveness of Cook Brandt.

Charles Lierman tells this story of his search:

"The meeting between myself and brother is so strange that I can hardly realize it to be true, and when I think that we had worked side by side for ten days without a sign of recognition, I realize that we could have been there for years without knowing of our relationship had it not been for the cook's remark.

"Many, many times I have been within a few miles of my brother, but after I had traversed the country, inquiring at every home and army post for Henry Lierman I felt certain he was dead. A sailor is a poor writer, and when I thought I would never see Henry again I lost interest in my other relatives in Wisconsin and did not write to them. Now that we are united, I shall search out my uncles and cousins. When father died there was a little property left which mother wished to dispose of, but it was necessary to have Henry's signature. The property, therefore, was not sold for many years until the German courts were satisfied that he was dead. I feel like a new man since I met Henry, and I shall take good care that we are never widely separated again. Neither of us is old, Henry being 59 and I 57, and there ought to be several years left for us to enjoy one another's companionship.

THOSE WHO HAVE DIED

St. Paul, May 22.—A Mitchell, S. D., special to the Dispatch says: Word was received from Smithfield, N. C., of the sudden death of Everett Smith of this city. He went there early in October for the winter. Mr. Smith was the candidate for governor on the state Democratic ticket last fall, but took no active part in the campaign.

Philadelphia, May 22.—Israel P. Black, widely known for his work in the junior Sunday school department of the Presbyterian church, died at his home here today of typhoid fever. He was 65 years old. Mr. Black wrote the Weekly Westminster International Sunday School lesson. He was secretary of the International Presbyterian Sunday School Teachers' union.

G. H. Craig Sued For $5000 For Death of His Son.

The jury in the case of George H. Craig, administrator of the estate of his son, Leslie Craig, against the Benedictine Sisters' Hospital association, this morning returned a verdict of $1 for the plaintiff. The agreement was reached at a late hour last evening and the sealed verdict was opened in district court this morning.

The plaintiff brought action to recover $5000 damages for the death of his son, who was killed some time ago in an elevator accident at St. Mary's hospital in this city. At the first trial of the case the jury returned a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff appealed to the supreme court and the case was ordered retried with the result stated above. The verdict throws the costs of the trial and appeal on the defendant.

It was rumored this morning that the plaintiff would ask to have the verdict set aside and a new trial granted, but J. A. Keyes, attorney for the plaintiff stated this noon that he has not yet had time to confer with his client and does not know what action he will take until he learns Mr. Craig's wishes in the matter. The defendant association was represented by Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer.

DEFENSE OF UNION PACIFIC

Says Road Is Not Violating The Interstate Commerce Law.

Washington, May 22.—The Union Pacific railroad today filed with the interstate commerce commission its answer to the order of the commission instituting an investigation of the alleged rebates of the Union Pacific to elevators. The Union Pacific admits that it has an agreement with the Midland Elevator company, at Kansas City and the Omaha Elevator company at Council Bluffs, both companies being representatives of Peavey & Co., under the terms of which agreements the Union Pacific pays 1¼ cents per 100 pounds for receiving, transferring and handling all grain which passes through those elevators. The Union Pacific says that these elevators are absolutely necessary to the economical and profitable handling of its grain business, and that instead of building and operating the elevators it arranged with the Peavey company to construct and operate and furnish the necessary facilities for handling all grain shipped over and consigned to the Union Pacific lines. The road denies that the allowance so paids is excessive or greater than similar charges generally imposed for like services, nor that it subjects other grain shippers to unjust discrimination, nor that it discriminates in favor of the Peavey company, nor enables the latter to obtain transportation of its grain at net rates, or charges less than the regular tariffs. The road says the interstate commerce law is not being violated and asks that the proceedings be dismissed.

BRIEF CITY NEWS

Union label shoes. Ehle. Torrey Bldg.

Deputy Collector Spurbeck, of the local customs office, will leave for Two Harbors this afternoon on the government launch Lurline. This will be the first trip of the little launch on Lake Superior. At her trial trip last Saturday on the St. Louis river she proved to be a very fast and serviceable boat. She was built for the use of the local customs office by the Pearson Boat Construction company. The motive power is gasoline.

Christiana Mitchell has begun in district court an action for a divorce from Ferdinand Mitchell, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. They were married at Ada, Minn., Aug. 15, 1901, and the plaintiff claims the defendant left her in October of the same year after treating her in cruelty. The plaintiff claims that she has been supporting herself by working as a domestic in this city.

Collyville was wiped out last night by a mass meeting of citizens. They voted unanimously to change the suburb's name to Riverside Park, and will urge the board of education to change the name of the school house.

Parlor Theater, Ollo of star specialties.

Satchel snatchers are the latest class of petty criminal to attract the attention of the police. As evening a handsome leather bag belonging to Charles Coe, a traveling man, was stolen from the baggage room of the Omaha depot and later found in the rear of the Spalding hotel, the thief having cut out the lock. Mr. Coe is in St. Paul today and it is not known whether or not anything of value was lost.

C. A. McLean, representing the Dr. Reed cushion shoes, is in the city today. The Wieland Shoe company are sole agents for this now famous make of shoes in this city.

Parlor Theater, fine program tonight.

PURELY PERSONAL

James Cogswell, of Two Harbors, passed through the city today on his way to St. Paul. He will accompany the state editorial association on its trip to Washington.

Joseph Caldwell, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, is in the city.

Thomas Simpson will leave this evening over the Northern Pacific for San Francisco.

W. G. Crosby will leave over the Omaha this afternoon for Chicago.

H. P. Carron and E. N. White will leave over the Northern Pacific for Deerwood this afternoon.

W. H. Singer went to Chicago this afternoon by way of the Omaha road.

V. J. Mullory was a passenger on the Northern Pacific train to St. Paul this afternoon.

C. d'Autremont left for New York this afternoon over the Omaha.

H. A. King and Edward King left over the Great Northern last evening for Seattle.

Charles Purdon has returned from a week's absence in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Miss Kate W. Stevenson has returned to the city after wintering in Des Moines, Ia.

Chris Murphy and C. H. Johnson, of Grand Marais and John Redfern, of Hibbing, were guests of the Commercial club today.

W. W. Billson is back from the Pacific coast after an absence of nine months. He returns much improved in health and much delighted with his sojourn in the West.

William Harrison, who has been on the Pacific coast for several weeks, returned yesterday.

Rev. Alexander Milne will leave next Monday for Scotland to remain for two months. Mrs. Milne is now visiting in Columbus, O., their former home and will remain there during his absence. Dr. Milne's pulpit at the Pilgrim Congregational church will be supplied during his absence.

Mrs. Helen C. Wetmore and Miss Josephine Goodman, of Cody, Wyoming, are visiting Mrs. R. B. Allen, of Bay View Heights.

COMMISSIONERS GUILTY.

Denver, Col., May 22.—Thomas Phillipps, Frank Bishop and Fred P. Watts, members of the old board of county commissioners of Arapahoe county, were found guilty of malfeasance on eleven counts by a jury in the district court today. Their alleged misconduct consisted in allowing excessive bills for printing and supplies. Sentence was suspended for ten days.

DECISIONS BY COURT

The Supreme Body Files Twelve, Four Being Reversals.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court today filed twelve decisions, four of which are reversals of the lower court.

In the case of Emma Humphreys against George Shellenbarger, the Ramsey county court is upheld in a decision by Justice Lovely.

A verdict for $200 against the Backus-Brooks company, of Minneapolis, in favor of John Spoonick, an 18-year-old boy, is upheld by the court. Spoonick was injured while working in defendant company's sawmill.

In the case of Cornish & Co. against John K. West et al, appellants, Justice Lovely affirms the decision of the district court of Becker county.

Justice Lewis affirms the Hennepin county court in the case of Anna Catherine Phelps, appellant, against the Western Realty company.

The court, by Chief Justice Start, upholds the ruling of Judge Hine of the St. Paul municipal court in the case of Adolphus Poore, appellant, against Harry Martin, involving a question of jurisdiction in justice court.

In the case of Thomas H. Caley vs. John Thornquist, appellant, the supreme court reverses the lower court.

In the case of Bradshaw Bros., appellants, against Fire Insurance company of the county of Philadelphia, the supreme court today reversed Judge Lewis of the Ramsey county district court.

Judge Jaggard, of the Ramsey county district court, was turned down by the supreme court, reversing an order in the cast of A. Pitger & Co., appellants, vs. Archibald Guthrie & Co.

Justice Lewis, of the state supreme court, filed the decision reversing Judge Giddings, of Wright county.

The county commissioners of that county, in response to a petition by freeholders, organized school district 134, of that county. Quirin Gerber objected and appealed to the district court, and Judge Giddings held that the board had exceeded its authority, and had no jurisdiction and annulled the order.

Gerber proved at the time he objected a majority of the freeholders had not signed the petition.

The supreme court holds that jurisdiction was not lost by reason of the fact that after the petition was signed new freeholders moved in.

LONDON BUSSES

And an American Food.

There is probably no food on earth that could sustain a woman 60 years old under the following circumstances except Grape-Nuts.

For 4 months she laid ill from partial paralysis, brought on by the wrong king of food, ruining stomach and then affecting the nervous system. During the time she was getting well the physicians fed her on Grape-Nuts.

She says: "My diet consisted of two teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and some cream each meal for two months. Then increased to two desert spoonfuls and to show how it sustains nature, I never lost 5 lbs. in the whole 4 months. I got well slowly and am now in prime health and in the last 3 months have been in 10 foreign countries. I carry Grape-Nuts everywhere with me.

"In London I saw the big Grape-Nuts signs on the "busses" all about. Considering how near death I was and how well I am now through good food alone, and that I am 60 years old, my friends look upon my recovery as marvelous." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE RELIANCE PROVES HERSELF A WONDER

Sails Two Miles to the Columbia's One.

Reliance, Columbia and Constitution Race.

Matinecock Point, L. I., May 23.—Although the victory of the Reliance over the Columbia on Thursday is sufficient in the minds of many to stamp her the ultimate defender of the America's cup against the Shamrock III, a large number of yachting enthusiasts came down to the sound today to see her match her sailing ability against the Columbia and the Constitution. Many desired another chance to watch the old Columbia against the new boat in a good steady breeze. The early arrivals on the scene of action appeared satisfied that such conditions would exist in today's contest. With the dawn there sprang up a fine breeze from the northeast, the first from that quarter for several weeks, and as it held steady and strong as the morning advanced, it looked, two or three hours before the time set for the start, as if the yachts would have a good honest chance to test their strength. Coming diagonally across from the Connecticut shore, the breeze had but little chance to kick up any sea at all, so that the sound was comparatively smooth and particularly favorable for the new boat. The air was cool and invigorating, affording decided relief from the last ten days of torrid weather.

The same program of courses which obtained on Thursday held good today, and with the breeze from the northeast, it looked, early in the day, as if the committee would select the reverse of the one sailed on Thursday, and sent the yachts off on a long eleven-miles' beat to windward to Green's Lodge light, off Stamford, with a broad reach to Eaton's Point and a free running almost before the wind, or at least with booms well out to port to the finish, twenty-five miles around the triangle. Very few of the yachtsmen seemed eager to see the boats sail the small triangular course of fifteen miles round, as it appeared to be more of a test for sail-handling than of the relative merits of the boats, so that it was generally hoped this morning that the committee would decide on one of the larger triangles.

It seemed to be a general desire that the yachts should have a good thrash to the windward, as there was very little of that sort of work on Thursday.

The narrow confines of the sound, as a rule, prevent long legs except in two directions, but this morning it looked as if the wind had a variable slant in the right direction. The Constitution arrived in the cove last night from Brooklyn, and her crew was on deck b.

TREMENDOUS MOVEMENT OF EMPLOYES AGAINST LABOR

Will Act as a Unit In Opposition to Unions.

Have Best of Feeling For the Laboring Men.

New York, May 23.—A meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers has been held in this city, but beyond the announcement of the selection of committees to arrange for the furtherance of the objects of the association in its fight against labor, no formal statement has been made of what was done. It is known, however, that subcommittees representing widely diversified industries were appointed to go to work systematically all over the country to unionize employers; that special steps are to be taken to engage eminent legal counsel in the several stats to protect themselves against boycotts, injunctions and the activity of walking delegates, while at the same time none but cordial good will was expressed for the laboringmen themselves.

One result of the New Orleans convention, which was furthered at this meeting, was the systematization of the work of the special committee, which is to devise and put into effect practical plans for bringing about the co-operation of the many state employes' associations. Along that line this resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that the secretary of this association be empowered to develop sources of information by which he shall be enabled to keep in the closest touch with all proposed legislation affecting the interests of manufacturers in the several states and that he be given discretionary power to call this to the attention of employers and manufacturers in any state, if in his judgment the rights and interests of such employers and manufacturers shall be affected by such proposed legislation.

This was understood to signify that the sharpest sort of watch is to be maintained at the national capitol at Washington, as well as at the different state capitols.

A year ago the organization comprised 978 firms. Today the secretary announces it numbers 2264 employers and manufacturers, representing every state in the Union.

In addition to the president, D. M. Parry, of Indianapolis, those present included A. B. Farquhar, president of the Farquhar Manufacturing company, of York, Pa.; J. A. Jeffrey, of the Jeffrey Manufacturing company, of Columbus, O.; James Inglies, of the American Blower company, Detroit; H. S. Smith, of the Menasha Woodenware company, of Wisconsin; C. N. Fay, of the Fay-Sholes company, of Chicago; W. A. Van Cleave, of the Bucks Stove company, of St. Louis, and H. S. Chambers, of Chattanooga.

Besides these firms the executive committee at large was represented through tnees concerns among others: The United States Glass company, of Pittsburg, by Daniel C. Ripley; the Fay & Eagen company, of Cincinnati, by Col. Thomas Eagen; the Nunemacher company, of Louisville, by F. C. Nunemacher, and the Tompkins Manufacturing company, of Charlotte, N. C., by Daniel A. Tompkins.

D. M. Parry, president of the association, after the meeting adjourned, said: "Neither the labor agitators, the "proletariats," the ecclesiastic, those who are seeking to arrange arbitration meetings, nor the press have any idea of the tremendous movement that is underway among all classes of employers all over this country. Without regard to politics, religions or petty rivalry the men who have their money and their interests centered in manufactures of every description have reached the conclusion that they must act as a unit in a great national movement, insuring them the control of their own capital, they have granted shorter hours and cheerfully higher wages, but they will not yield the right to decide how they are to conduct their own business."

HE IS JUST WAKING UP.

WESTERN UNION WAS BOUND BY CONTRACT TO REMOVE WIRES

It Declined to Do So, or to Sell to the Pennsylvania and the Latter Cut Down the Poles to Secure Right of Way.

Philadelphia, May 23.—Charles M. Schaeffer, superintendent of telegraph on the Pennsylvania railroad, in speaking of the removal of the Western Union wires and poles from the Pennsylvania line, said:

"The Western Union, under its contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad company, bound itself, upon six months notice after the termination of the contract, to remove its poles and wires from the property of the railroad company, and upon failure to do so the contract provided that the Pennsylvania company had the right to remove the poles and wires at the expense of the telegraph company. The Pennsylvania company, in order to save the telegraph company the expense and loss incident to the removal of the poles and wires, offered to purchase the lines at a fair valuation, but the Western Union company evidently preferred to allow the Pennsylvania company to tear them down and remove them at its expense. The Pennsylvania company having entered into a contract with the Postal company to provide them with facilities on its lines, was compelled to remove the poles and wires of the Western Union company, in order to put themselves in a position to carry out their agreement with the postal company as the right of way occupied by the Western Union company was necessary for that purpose."

New York, May 23.—Inquiries at the main offices of the Western Union in this city elicited the information today that their business was moving without interruption and that any reports to the contrary are grossly exaggerated. The legal questions involved in the action of the Pennsylvania road are in the hands of Judge Dillon, counsel for the company, which will take the necessary steps to protect the Western Union's interests.

VALIDITY OF ALL HAWAIIAN LEGISLATION IS QUESTIONED

The County Government Act Is Declared Unconstitutional on the Ground That the Hawaiian Language Was Used In the Legislature.

Honolulu, May 23.—A serious question, involving the validity of all legislation enacted in the Hawaiian islands has been brought to light by Superintendent of Public Works Henry E. Cooper, who refuses to act under the regulations of the recently adopted county government act on the ground that the act was unconstitutional. Cooper claims that the act is invalid by the fact that the legislature permitted the use of the Hawaiian language during its deliberations, which Cooper holds was prohibited by things in the territorial government act. During the recent session of the legislature the question of allowing the Hawaiian language to be spoken was bitterly fought and it was only after the threat of the natives to block all legislation that the white contingent in the legislature agreed to permit the native tongue to be spoken.

Private parties have demanded that the government sue the Brewer company for $140,000 for an alleged violation of the United States contract labor law. It is alleged that the company induced 140 Koreans to emigrate to the Hawaiian islands under contract to work on various plantations. The federal officers have learned that the agent sent to Korea last year to engage laborers was supplied with the treasury instructions issued under an old law, which has since been abrogated. The government, therefore, has decided that the Brewer company is not liable for an infraction of the law.

LAD GROUND BENEATH CAR WHEELS

St. Paul, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Willie Wilson, 6 years old, was run down by a street car on Payne avenue at 10 o'clock this morning and instantly killed. The lad was standing in the street on the car track and did not notice the approaching car. The motorman put on the brakes, but the car was not stopped until the lad was ground beneath the wheels. One leg and arm were torn off. The boy was the oldest son of Mrs. W. W. Wilson, who arrived in St. Paul a few days ago to make arrangements for the burial of her husband, who formerly kept a saloon in the city. Wilson committed suicide last January.

PLANS FOR THE NEW BOER COLONY

Quebec, May 23.—The steamship Coban, of the Black Diamond line, from Sydney for Montreal, which passed inward off Matane light yesterday, signalled that an explosion had occurred on board, which completely destroyed the saloon and blew up the poop deck. Three iron beams were also broken in the lower deck. A waiter was killed and two steerage passengers are missing, and it is thought they were thrown overboard by the force of the explosion.

STEEL TRUST STOCK BREAKS

Due to Rumor of Shut-Down of Chief Plants.

New York, May 23.—Shares of the United States Steel corporation broke abruptly in the local market today on rumors of a probable shut down of some of the company's plants in Chicago. Nothing about this rumor could be learned at the main office of the company. Judge Gary, chairman of the executive committee, said he had heard nothing of such reports.

Concerning the report that the corporation had closed a contract to purchase a large amount of pig iron for delivery the last half of the current year, Judge Gary said:

"I do not think any purchases of pig iron have been made by any of the subsidiary companies during the last few weeks. Some has been bought within sixty or seventy days. Considerable outside iron could be used at the present time, and probably would be purchased if it could be secured at a fair price. Inasmuch as the prices of finished materials have been kept down to the prices which prevailed when pig iron was selling at $16.50 or lower it has seemed to me the price of iron should be restored, in a measure at least, and that the price now demanded is high by comparison, notwithstanding it costs something more to produce it. However, the matter is now in the hands of our Mr. Dickson, and he will deal fairly with outside producers."

BIG BULL MOOSE CALLS AT VILLAGE IN CLOSE SEASON

Giant Monster of the Forest Visits Sangerville, Maine, and the Town Looks as Though a Cyclone Had Struck It During the Night.

Sangerville, Me., May 23.—The big bull moose which has been prowling around this neighborhood has made a call in this village. Fences were knocked down, lawns torn up and henroops were waded through in a way which looked as if a cyclone had struck town. Bunches of moose hair were found which he left behind, which now are retained as souvenirs by nimrods for future use. The moose made his first appearance on Thursday afternoon in the field of G. W. Morgan, near the main traveled road from Gilford to Foxcroft, where he was seen by persons driving by, their appearance giving him no concern. It is the closed season and he seemed to know it, for he stared them out of countenance. Some think the forest fires in the upper part of the counrty drove him this way.

SHAMROCK I WILL BE RACED AGAINST AMERICAN YACHTS

Sir Thomas Lipton Has a Double Purpose In Bringing the Old Challenger Across the Ocean—Will Appear In Regattas.

New York, May 23.—American yachtsmen and the members of the New York Yacht club in particular, will probably be surprised to hear that Sir Thomas Lipton had a double purpose in sending both Shamrocks across the ocean at this time and that the old Shamrock is not sent over simply to act as a trial boat for Shamrock III, cables the American's London correspondent.

It is said that not only will Shamrock I be used for a trial boat for the new boat, but that it is Sir Thomas' purpose to enter Shamrock I in the New York Yacht club's cruise and any races and regattas to which she may be eligible against the Columbia, Constitution and Reliance.

It is not Sir Thomas' idea to enter her in the trial and cup races, as they would, of course, be confined to American designed boats exclusively, but he thinks the American people would like to see what the old Shamrock could do against the American boats, and believes that it would add an international flavor to the preliminary races that would interest the English and American people almost as much as the cup races.

Sir Thomas and Designer Fife believe that the old Shamrock never had a fair chance against the Columbia in ..., owing to Mr. Fife's illness, and that had her designer been on board she would have made a much better showing.

NEGRO PICKENS A POPULAR FAD

New Haven, Conn., May 23.—William Pickens, the Yale negro student, who won the Ten Eyck prize in the leading oratorical contest of the year, has received an offer of financial assistance from Mrs. Douglas Robinson, of New York city, sister of President Roosevelt. Pickens went to Newport to speak last week and after his oration Miss Lucy Giles, a millionaire's daughter, was so deeply affected that she stuck a diamond pin in his coat. Pickens has been invited to go to Boston next week to speak at Harvard university on "Hayti." He has declined the offer to acept the presidency of Hayti after the conquest of the island by an army of American negroes, who have been planning to attack.

FOUR KILLED OUTRIGHT AND SEVENTEEN WERE INJURED

Awful Results of the Frightful Elevator Accident at a Dancing Party In Pittsburg—One Woman Still Remains at Morgue Unidentified.

Pittsburg, May 23.—It was almost daybreak this morning before any of the victims of last night's frightful elevator accident at the Donnelly building, during the Electro-Mechanical institute ball last night were identified, and at 10 o'clock the crushed and mutilated remains of a woman were still lying at the morgue, unknown and unclaimed. Large crowds surrounded the entrance of the morgue all night, awaiting information as to the identification of the four bodies that had been taken there from the scene of the accident. The bodies were so badly disfigured and distorted that thorough identification was only possible through marks on the clothing warn, and as some had no marks on their clothing, identification was impossible until friends inquired for them because missed from their homes. The unknown woman is thought to have come from some of the suburban towns, and the remains will likely be identified during the day.

The casualty list as furnished by the coroner and obtained from the hospitals is:

The dead:

MISS MAMIE CURTIN, 18 years old, of Hazelwood, Pa.

MISS SUIE FLANNIGAN, 19 years old, of 427 Woodland avenue, Allegheny.

WOMAN, about 19 years old.

The njured: Albert Meyers, 23 years old, laceration of right hip and compound fracture of right leg; Harry Lipson, 22 years old, scalp wound; Miss Katie Flannigan, 27 years old; Mrs. Lulu Postelwaite, 46 years old; Miss Margaret Postelwaite, 17 years old, daughter of Mrs. Lulu Postelwaite, suffering from nervous shock; Charles Blonde, 18 years old; Fannie Simond, 20 years old; John Morrison, 35 years old; Frank S. Amrock, 28 years old; L. N. Gillis, 40 years old; Mrs. L. N. Gillis, Paul Gillis, 3 years old; unknown man, about 24 years old, bruised and cut, is unconscious, at the Mercy hospital.

The injured are all suffering from severe cuts and bruises, but with the exception of the unknown man, it is thought all will recover.

Coroner McGeary and his assistants were kept busy throughout the night answering telephone calls from friends and others anxious to ascertain particulars. The coroner at the earliest time possible sent out summonses for a jury to inquire into the cause of the accident and to fix responsibility. This jury met in the court room of the Morgue building at 10 o'clock this morning and a rigid investigation was at once started. After the jury had been sworn and had viewed the remains of the victims, friends were given permission to remove their bodies to their homes.

Just how the accident happened, or how many people were in the cage when it dropped has not been determined. John Morrison, one of the survivors, says the car was packed so that he was unable to move. It was the weights and not the drop of five stories that killed and maimed the most of the people on the elevator.

Continuing, he said: "They seemed to strike a little before we hit the floor, as if they had been cut loose an instant after we started down."

Professor Gillis, who was operating the elevator when the accident happened, was arrested today and later Coroner McGeary formally charged him, with murder. Willis is a mechanical engineer and was instructor at the institute.

Superintendent McTighe, Director of Public Safety Moore and Building Inspector Dies made a thorough inspection of the building and elevator shaft during the day. The castings which came down weighed 100 pounds each, and they were arranged on a groove, eight on each side. The inspectors have not been able to decide what caused the weights to leave the groove. The elevator is a complete wreck, and it is regarded as a miracle that more were not killed.

WILD EXCITEMENT IN BUCKET SHOP

Chicago, May 23.—The offices of George T. Sullivan, 259 La Salle street, was raided by the police and fifty men who were speculating were placed under arrest. Sullivan is charged with operating a bucket ship and swindling his patrons. A wild rush for doors and windows ensued when the police entered the place, but precautions had been taken to prevent this and every exit was guarded. Sullivan was in his private office and the door had to be forced. He was among those taken by the officers. Sullivan protested that he had an injunction against the raid and was allowed to produce the court papers, but was compelled to go to the station with the other prisoners. The raid caused wild excitement on the board of trade.

Thousands of persons all over the country are believed to have been induced to invest their money in grain, cotton, coffee and provision futures. The concern occupies an entire lower floor and forty young women are employed as bookkeepers and stenographers. The police claim that within two weeks Sullivan has secured $50,000. The concern has leased wires to many cities, the main offices being in Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Council Bluffs, Altoona, Pa., Akron, Ohio, and Burlington, Iowa. The police confiscated all the books and instruments, cut the wire sand placed men in charge of the place.

BREVATOR KILLING

Thomas Denny Arraigned and Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Coroner's Inquest Held—Strong Testimony Given Against Him.

Calm and confident, Thomas Denny discussed yesterday's tragedy at Brevator, in which he shot and killed Peter Callahan.

Such an insignificant little thing as a dirty plate caused the quarrel which resulted in Callahan's death and came very near ending the career of Denny by lynch law.

The murderer is in the county jail and his victim is in the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan, on East First street, where an inquest was held late this afternoon.

Denny was taken into the municipal court this morning and it is safe to say that no man charged with murder has made so favorable an impression at the time of his arraignment. He said:

"I shot him. I understand that the justification of my action does not concern this court, and it is therefore useless for me to take up the time of the court with an explanation of the shooting and its cause. I will waive an examination."

He was then bound over to the grand jury and later appeared in the district court to have bonds fixed for his release. This bail was fixed at $5000, and Denny said that, while he had a relative living in Colorado amply able to make good such a bond, he did not think he would care to ask him to do so, and was willing to go to the county jail until the meeting of the grand jury in September.

At the coroner's inquest this afternoon very strong testimony was given against Denny by nine witnesses that saw the fight in the boarding car at Brevator.

Briefly, this testimony was that Callahan, entering the boarding car, sat down and complained that his plate was dirty. He spoke to Denny about it rather gruffly, and got up to go to another place at the table, when Denny struck him and they clinched. Later he got up from the table to go into the supply car to ascertain why Denny hit him, and was shot down. This testimony was given by John Smith, Peter Doyle, James Barrett, James Keily, James O'Neil, James O'Brien and Pat Gathay.

The testimony was still under consideration by the coroner's jury at a late hour, but there was little question but that the verdict of the jurymen would be to the effect that Callahan was killed by Denny.

The bullet passed entirely through Callahan's body, going in on the left side, passing below the seventh rib, passed through both lungs and entirely severed the descending aorta which distributes the blood supply direct from the heart through the body.

REVERT TO GOVERNMENT

If Frauds Are Proven, Lands May Be Open For Entry.

The titles to certain lands which may be of considerable value as mineral claims will be received back by the government, it is said, should the cases against the ten men who were indicted by the grand jury for alleged land frauds be proven. If the men are found guilty of the next term of the United States district court the title to the land will probably revert to the government and it will again be thrown open for settlement. In such case the person making the first application for land could receive it under either the stone and timber law or the homestead act, under the same conditions which apply to any other unoccupied government lands.

The lands which are affected are chiefly in sections 64-14 and 65-11, which lie north and northeast of Ely.

The value of these lands from a mineral standpoint is largely speculative. As yet no extensive mineral deposits have been shown on them and no mining operations have been conducted, but they are believed to lie in a favorable location. Considerable prospecting has been done in the vicinity during the past year and it is not improbable that the lands should be proved to contain valuable deposits.

THEY REPLY TO TULLOCH

Auditor Castle and Comptroller Tracewell Make General Denials.

Washington, May 23.—The replies of Auditor Castle, of the postoffice department, and Comptroller of the Currency Tracewell to the Tulloch charges concerning the administration of postoffice affairs, were received by Postmaster General Payne today. Both replies are exhaustive. The former says the net result of the investigation of the $30,000 of payments made during the Spanish war, in connection with military postal service, alleged by Mr. Tulloch to have been disallowed by the comptroller, after having been approved by the auditor, was that only $165 was disallowed and of that sum but $1 was incorrectly audited.

Concerning the charge that Expert Gilmore, of the treasury, was called off from an investigation of postoffices as he was making important discoveries, Comptroller Tracewell says his letter authorizing Mr. Gilmore to examine postmasters' accounts, except those of Washington and New York, was prepared by Mr. Gilmore without suggestion from him; that Mr. Gilmore spent four months examining the Washington office without discovering any fraud, though correcting some irregularities and that Mr. Gilmore abstracted the letter of instructions and other papers from the office, subsequently returning them upon demand.

ATHLETIC CONTEST.

Twelfth Annual Meet Between Harvard and Yale.

New Haven, Conn., May 23.—The twelfth annual dual meet of the Yale and Harvard track and athletic teams is to take place at Yale field this afternoon. Thirteen events are to be contested. Eight of these are track events and five are field events. Points are scored as follows: First, 5; second, 2; third, 1.

Mile run—First, Walsh, Harvard; second, Caldwell, Harvard; third, W. J. Hall, Yale. Time, 4:34 1-5. Score: Yale, 1; Harvard, 7.

220-yard dash—First, Haigh, of Harvard; second, Clark, of Harvard; third, Davis, of Harvard. Time, 49 seconds. Score: Yale, 1; Harvard, 15.

In the 440-yard dash the Yale-Harvard record was broken by 3-5 seconds.

120-yard hurdles—First, Clapp, of Yale; second, Bird, of Harvard.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Cripple Creek, Colo., May 23.—The town of Altman on top of Bull Hill was almost totally destroyed by fire today. It is believed that the fire was of incendiary origin.

THEIR SIDE OF CASE

Wholesale Druggist Tells of Sale of Medicines Containing Liquor.

Care Taken to Conform to Internal Revenue Regulations.

The article in yesterday's Herald relative to the practice of wholesale druggists in stocking up the country merchants in Northern Minnesota with mixtures which are retailed out by the latter as intoxicating beverages, attracted the attention of one of the prominent wholesale druggists at the head of the lakes.

He says that the drug manufacturers and jobbers have always exercised the greatest care to conform with the rules and regulation of the treasury department in the matter of drugs which contain, in part, spirituous liquors, and that they would not attempt to evade those regulations in any way.

A circular from the treasury department concerning the exemption of druggists from the special tax as liquor dealers by the provisions of section 3246, revised statutes, referring to the sale of malt extracts, bitters and tonics, says, in part:

"As to compounds called 'bitters,' 'tonics' and the like, the rule is, that if they are composed of spirits in combination with drugs, herbs, roots, etc., and are held out as remedies for diseases stated on the labels on the bottles, they are to be regarded as medicines until the facts ascertained as to the purposes for which they are sold or used show them to be beverages; and, until such facts are obtained, druggists and merchants who sell the compounds in good faith as medicines only are not to be called upon to pay a special liquor tax as liquor dealers on account of such sales."

Whenever the wholesale druggist sends a consignment of drugs to an outside customer containing drugs which come under the head of the bitters or tonics, referred to, he encloses a printed slip stating in large print the latter part of the clause quoted, and signed by the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, D. C.

The wholesale druggists claim to sell their goods in good faith as medicines and not as beverages and they hold if the retailer so far violates the letter of the law and sells the bitters or tonics for beverages, then he alone is responsible to the law.

CANFIELD RETURNS.

Well Known Gambler Surrenders And Is Paroled.

New York, May 23.—Richard A. Canfield, who sailed for Europe shortly after the raid on his house in Forty-fourth street by the police some months ago, returned today on the Campania.

Later, Canfield surrendered himself to Judge McMahon and was paroled until Monday. Assistant District Attorney Gans, who appeared, said he did not know whether there was any indictments against Canfield, having just been called into the case.

Saluting the School Ma'ams.

Atchison Globe: The town is full of school teachers, and they are daisies. A school teacher knows things; she has been through the mill of angry mothers and incorrigible children. She has had to go through the mill of preparation for teaching; she has been compelled to dip into diplomacy and capture a board of education of a committee of school trustees. No wonder that school teachers are very popular as wives.

AFTER RUNAWAYS

THE TRUANCY OFFICER IS A BUSY MAN THESE DAYS.

Out-of-Door Sports Offer Unusual Attractions for Young America—An Officer's Experience.

With the first warm days there is a large increase in the number of absentees from the public schools and just now the truancy officers have their hands full looking after the youngsters who have yielded to the superior attractions of out-of-door sports and have deserted the school room. Mr. Jesse L. Heefner, who lives at No. 111 East Pike street, Goshen, Ind., is truant officer of Elkhart county and can relate many interesting experiences. One of them should be of value to every reader of this paper. He says: "Last year I was so much run down in health that I was hardly able to keep on my feet and it was not until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People that I began to feel like myself again. All my strength seemed to have left me. I was languid and without ambition, my appetite failed, my kidneys became affected and my stomach got out of order. Doctors did not do me any good and I kept failing in health and strength until I despaired of ever getting well again. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They helped me very quickly and, after taking them faithfully a short time, I became well and strong again. I am out in all sorts of weather, but have not experienced any return of the symptoms of my old trouble since Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me."

The best tonic medicine in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mr. Heefner is only one out of thousands all over the world who have found this out by personal experience. This medicine, unlike any other acts both on the blood and nerves, builds up the system and cures where ordinary medicines fail. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not only a tonic, but have cured such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of the grip, pale and sallow complexions, and all forms of weakness in either male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents a box, or six boxes for two dollars and fifty cents, by addressing Dr. Williams Medicine company, Schenectady, N. Y. They are never sold in bulk, by the dozen or hundred. Avoid imitations. Substitutes never cured anybody.

BOARD OF RELIEF.

Report Presented to Presbyterian Assembly.

Los Angeles, May 23.—The report of the Presbyterian board of ministerial relief was presented to the general assembly today. It says:

We have had upon our roll for the year 905 names—370 ministers, 361 widows, 34 orphan families, one medical missionary; and one widow of a medical missionary; 4 women missionaries and 14 guests in the Presbyterian home at Perth Amboy. The average amount paid to the ministers on the honorably retired roll was $288.12. During the year 8 new names were added to the roll of annuitants. The deaths were 54. The receipts were $222,315, the largest since the work was organized. Collections were received from 4389 churches, 3127 failing to send any contribution.

The board is greatly gratified to be able to report that there are unmistakable evidences that the church is waking up to a better realization of the imperative obligation she is under to the aged men who constitute the old guard of the king's army, who have fought her battles so bravely and faithfully, through so many difficulties and self-sacrifices and who, through no fault of their own are now in the sun-set of their ministry without salary and without income. The treasury of the board has steadily increasing demands made upon it, and there must therefore necessarily be steadily increasing contributions from the churches to enable the board to meet the demands the Presbyterians are making for those upon their care.

GO TO THE NEWSPAPER.

Joe Howard in Boston Globe: There is but one "best" way to catch the public eye in an inoffensive and purely legitimate manner. The greatest merchants long since found out that way. Look at the amazing amount of spread "ads," plain, displayed and small "ads," published in all the really successful papers of the land. In each city there are favorite media used by the chief traders, and also for the humbler seekers for help in time of need. Arrayed attractively and classified expertly, these columns of announcement tell, even to the ordinary reader a story of human interest that few romances can equal. Every phase of existence has its photograph, suggestion or plea. The classification of announcements is a comparatively new and certainly a helpful aid to the student of modern life. Old Mr. Bennet justified the personals in his paper on the ground that everything of human interest was entitled to a chance. The desire to know the news makes people buy a newspaper. Every advertiser is interested to see his appeal. You are not likely to look from your paper to the posters on the fences, and as you are in a car the freaks on the street don't catch your eye. "Printers' ink" made Bonner and Barnum, two busy bees, who gathered much of the public's honey.

Moral—If you really care to catch the public eye, advertise in what the public reads.

Called Up and Called Down.

Brooklyn Times: A former city official who is well known in many sections of the borough had occasion to attend a concert given in a large hall the other evening. His wife and many friends were among those present. During an intermission every one was somewhat startled to hear a stentorian voice ring out from the gallery.

"Is the Hon. Mr. Blank present?" the voice said.

Slowly and majestically the aforesaid erstwhile official rose from his place in a prominent part of the house and faced the gallery in a dignified manner, as suited his station in society.

"I am Mr. Blank," he replied, as he drew his rather stocky figure to its full height.

"Sit down, you lobster!" called the voice, with an emphasis that was as great as it was embarrassing.

The dull thud that was heard immediately after the above sally was only the noise caused by the ex-official's anatomy as it came in contact with his rather hard seat. During the laughter and confusion that followed the guilty one escaped.

DEATH IN WINDS

Two Persons Killed and Twelve Injured at Bala, Kas.

Several Minnesota Towns Are Visited By Heavy Winds.

Kansas City, May 23.—A special to the Star from Manhattan, Kan., says a tornado passed over the Western part of Riley county last evening, traveling in a northwesterly direction. At Bala, on the Rock Island road, two people were killed and twelve injured, several, it is thought, fatally. Railroad traffic was blocked for some time on account of great trees and debris being blown on the track. The storm was accompanied by a heavy rain and hail storm. Many dwellings and outbuildings were wrecked.

St. Paul, May 23.—A Glencoe, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: Glencoe and vicinity was visited by a violent wind storm this afternoon that wrecked barns and outbuildings, tore down windmills and demolished shade trees. The storm was preceded by a violent electrical display. Storms from the southeast and northwest seemed to meet right over Glencoe. The greatest damage was reported from the outlying country districts. Among the barns and windmills destroyed are those on the farms of J. J. Johnson, Herman and Henry Bergman, Fred Ghering, J. Anderlie, J. Maple, William Doesteren and James Depring. So far as can be learned there were no fatalities.

St. Paul, May 23.—A Clarion, Iowa, special to the Dispatch says: Four stock cars were thrown off the track and several head of cattle belonging to P. H. Goslin of this place were killed as a result of last night's storm. The barn in which the cattle were quartered was entirely demolished, the cattle stayed out on the Rock Island track and were struck by the through freight. The track was badly torn up and traffic was delayed until noon.

St. Paul, May 23.—A Luverne, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: A heavy wind and rain storm visited this section last night. Incomplete reports indicate a heavy loss to farm buildings throughout the country. In this city the heaviest loss is to shade trees, many of the finest in town being broken off close to the ground, while the streets are litered with branches. Telegraphic and electric light plants suffered severely from downed wires, outhouses were blown down, chimneys demolished and a large number of windows broken.

St. Paul, May 23.—An Etherville, Iowa, special to the Dispatch says: A severe storm passed over this place last night doing much damage. The house of Mr. Hensinger was blown down and Mrs. Hensinger badly hurt. A. A. Johnson's barn was blown down and several buildings and barns unroofed.

St. Paul, May 23.—A Sioux City, Iowa, special to the Dispatch says: Reports from Onawa, Washta, Sibley and a dozen other places in Northwest Iowa tell of widespread damage done by the wind of last night. Windmills, trees and barns and several houses were levelled. Some live stock was killed, another inch of rain fell and reports are of impassable roads, a serious interference with business in smaller towns and much damage from high water and destroyed crops. Some farmers have planted their corn as many as three times already and today have found it washed out again. The wind has left Sioux City practically without telegraph connection east and south and the telephone service is badly crippled. This morning little Pearl Godfrey came in contact with a live wire, prostrated by the wind, and Harvey Scott, a lineman was killed while rescuing her. The girl was badly burned.

She Knew Patrick.

New York Tribune: Chaplain Edward Vattman, U. S. A., recently returned to Washington from the Philippines and relates with considerable humor his experiences with an elderly Irish woman whose son is numbered among the missing. The young man, Patrick by name, a private by rank and a Washingtonian, was captured some time ago by ladrones, and when last seen was being taken into the mountains strapped to a fierce looking Filipino. Father Vattman learned the particulars and when he returned to Washington called upon the bereaved mother to break the news. Her intuition assisted him, for she said immediately:

"You've come to tell me of Pathrick, father."

"Yes," said the priest; "and my good woman, you must remember that 'Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth.' 'In the midst of life we are in death, but the Lord comforts the afflicted——'."

"Yes, yes, father," interrupted Patrick's mother; "but tell me the news, father, dear."

"Well, my poor woman," said the priest, sorrowfully, "the last we heard of poor Patrick, he was strapped to a Filipino and being taken into the mountains."

"My! my!" exclaimed the sorrowful mother; "God have mercy upon the poor Filipino that's sthrapped to my Pathrick!"

A PREDATORY FIB

By Sara Elizabeth Burnham.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The Louisville & Nashville express, consisting of a locomotive, one passenger coach and an empty flatcar, which was being pushed ahead to test the roadbed, had stopped on the submerged track, waiting for a flatboat to transfer its passengers to another train in waiting somewhere across the apparently interminable waste of waters caused by the annual overflow of the Tennessee river.

The only woman on this train was Mrs. Thomas Abercombie, a pretty bride of three months standing, who had been married at her home in northern Wisconsin during illness and was now on her way to Thomasville, Ga., to join the newly acquired husband, who had preceded her by a few weeks.

There existed an understanding between the two that in order to reduce to its minimum the danger of her being slung over the shoulder and carried off to the cave of some visionary primal male she would avoid making the acquaintance of any man whatsoever during the entire length of her route. Up to the time her hat fell out of the window into the water and was promptly fished in again by the crook on the end of the handsome umbrella of a very personable man, Mrs. Abercombie had most religiously observed her compact.

"Let me see," she cogitated (after rendering thanks for the graceful service in a freezing manner and observing that her behavior had irritated the Personable Man), "the time has come for me to give this matter grave consideration. The flatboat will soon be here and how can I, a lady born and bred, refuse the assistance of either or both of my fellow passengers. What have I to fear from friendly intercourse with these strangers, one of whom is ridiculously inoffensive in appearance—from the point of view given me by poor Tom, that is—and the other is a cultivated gentleman—evidently an aristocratic Englishman," she added, taking note of the handsome Gladstone bag, high silk hat and silver-trimmed umbrella with name plate which had been placed in the rack above the traveler's seat. "Not a provincial Englishman with his indispensible valet," she ruminated, "but a citizen of the world, who can do without a body servant in a country where they are mostly dispensed with by his associates. . . . Just the man I would like to know. . . . He is probably going on a visit to that aristocratic English colony in the Tennessee mountains founded by that son of that Lady Somebody or other, although the man's own title is merely 'honorable,' being a younger son only."

Now, while the lady was thus agreeably engaged in sizing up the Personable Man he had as evidently been reciprocating the attention, a fact which did not strike her until she had encountered his eyes and each had hastily carried the gaze on to some other object a number of different times.

She forced herself motionless while she collected her thoughts and decided what to do next.

"I begin to see where the trouble lies and must reason a way out," she went on. "To become a Mrs. Abercombie, of Georgia, is tantamount—in the state of Georgia—to becoming a princess, is it? It has either given me what they call the 'big head' down there or it has soured me into imbecility—like the timid child, bid show himself off. . . . Ah, I have a practical idea at last. . . . Perhaps if I throw away my man of the sea I may be able to rise to the occasion. . . . A 'princess' travels incognito. I will do the same."

No sooner said than done. With a gracious air all her own, the young woman got up and requested the Personable Man to turn the seat.

He did so with alacrity.

Then she found herself saying:

"My name is Mrs. Wilfred Percy" (apparently the name said itself). "Perhaps an exchange of cards would facilitate—"

She got on further, for she suddenly recollected that the visiting cards of Mrs. Thomas Abercombie could scarcely be rendered available for the use of a Mrs. Wilfred Percy. Moreover, the sight of the effect upon the Personable Man of what she had already said would have arrested her in her wild career, anyway; for in the moment before he could pull himself together she had detected upon his speaking countenance mild contempt, following unbounded amazement, to be immediately displaced by an ill-concealed smile of amusement, as he pretended to be making a vigorous search for his card to avoid looking at her until he had regained composure.

"Oh, I have used the name of some one he knows. He despises me for a fraud; he is laughing in his sleeve all the time. The horrid thing!" she reflected miserably. "Where did I get that name, anyway? I never heard it in my known to this man."

By this time her vis-a-vis had both himself and card in hand.

In a voice from which all objectionable features had been carefully eliminated, and without a gleam of the amusement which he might have been actually scarce able to conceal, he began tentatively watching the effect as he proceeded:

"I fear, my dear Mrs.—a—er—Percy, that I have greatly discomposed you by not—er—ill-concealed astonishment—my—ah—I may say, rather surprising demeanor. Before you condemn me—by conduct—utterly—you must listen to my explanation of it. Actually"—he broke off with an attempt at a laugh—"I am half afraid to give you my card until I have shown you the name plates on my traveling things. Really, I am at a loss whether to believe that—ah! I beg your pardon!—I see by your expression that I must prepare you for a revelation which will surprise you as much as it did me." He laid down the card and reached up for the Gladstone bag, silk hat, and handsome umbrella.

The eyes of the wretched woman had falleon on the bit of pasteboard on the seat, and, having done so, she saw nothing, heard nothing further.

She recalled a peculiar pricking sensation of a few moments before—like Peradic electricity—and realized that it was a case of telepathic sympathy. The two had been thinking the same thoughts—the name was on the end of the man's tongue, so to speak, but it was not possible to explain this. And meanwhile she was open to a serious misinterpretation which froze the blood in her veins and rendered her eyes as immovable in their sockets as if they had been in the head of a china image—or better, a corpse. She felt like a corpse, and she fervently wished she were a corpse. Then she heard herself saying, in an unnatural voice:

"Ah, a remarkable co-incidence!"

"It certainly was "a remarkable coincidence"; for a bit of bristol board—and no doubt the silver name plates—(she had noticed at them)—bore this legend:

BYRON T. HERRICK, SAID TO BE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S CHOICE AS A RUNNING MATE IN 1904.

Myron T. Herrick, who is said to be President Roosevelt's choice for the vice presidential nomination next year and also has the backing of many prominent politicians, is a banker of Cleveland. Mr. Herrick is in his forty-ninth year. He studied law, but after his admission to the bar concluded that banking was more to his liking. At any rate, he has made a great deal of money at it.

Renewed Nervous Energy, Pure Blood, Freedom from Pain.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

THE ONE REMEDY THAT WILL REALLY MAKE YOU WELL.

Years ago when a great public demand arose for a remedy for nervous ailments as well as reliable blood purifier, Dr. Edward E. Phelps, professor of Dartmouth Medical college, gave to diseased and suffering men and women, of materia medica and medical botany, his great discovery, Paine's Celery Compound. The success of this wonderful prescription has been phenomenal. No other remedy known to medical science enjoys such a widespread reputation today.

In this month of May, when so many are sick, Paine's Celery Compound makes people well. It is the only true specific prescribed by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system; it is a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, and all blood diseases. Mr. J. H. Lewis, of Denver, Col., one of the most prominent life insurance men in the United States, writes us follows:

"After an attack of grip I found myself broken in nervous vigor, and with bowels and kidneys seriously deranged. As time brought no improvement, but rather an increased nervous prostration, I was induced to make use of Paine's Celery Compound. Before the first bottle had been used I found a marked improvement, and its use was discontinued after I had finished the second bottle. After doing without the Compound for over a month, I find myself with the same springy step and usual vigor as before my illness, all the former lassitude and nervous disarrangement having disappeared, and difficulty with bowels and kidneys have been corrected."

ELEVATOR FALLS

Four People Killed In Accident at Dancing Academy.

Pleasure Seekers' Lives Crushed Out Without Slightest Warning.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 23.—One man and three women were killed and five or six injured last night in a building occupied by a dancing academy. The cause of the fatalities was the snapping of the elevator cables, allowing the cage to drop fifty feet.

The dead are so badly mangled that identification has been impossible. The only one whose name may be correct is Catherine Curtin. On her body was found a railroad ticket with the name on it.

Among the injured are: Harry Lipson, Miss Kate Flanagan, Albert Myers and Mrs. Lulu Postlwaite.

A banquet and ball was being held in the building by the Pennsylvania Electro-Mechanical institute and every available portion of the fifth and sixth floors were crowded by members of the institute and their friends.

At about 10 o'clock the elevator, with a load of thirteen passengers, started for the banquet room on the sixth floor. When that floor was reached it was found that every place was crowded and the passengers decided to go to the fifth floor, where the dancing was in progress. When between the sixth and fifth floors the steel cable snapped and with a resounding crash that was heard blocks away, the carriage dropped with its load of human freight.

It smashed through the floor above the cellar of the building and was stopped by a braced post three feet below the first floor. In this inaccessible position the passengers were jammed under broken timbers and twisted steel, and then the heavy iron balance weights, weighing over a ton, came crashing down upon them. Miraculously all but four were able to scramble out. The others were pinioned under the heavy weight. Four were smashed almost beyond recognition.

Albert Myers was held a prisoner for more than an hour.

While firemen and volunteer rescuers were preparing rigging to lift the machine so as to be accessible, he lay pinioned under the wreckage. Whisky and water were passed to him, with words of encouragement. A fireman endangered his life by dropping into the mass of wreckage and holding the injured man's hand.

When the accident occurred more than 400 men, women and children were on the dancing floor. As the elevator struck the bottom a cloud of dust blew into the room from the open elevator door. Quickly Harry Gilson closed the entrance and cried: "Take your partners for a two-step."

Scores of policemen were present and ordered all persons in the building to remain quiet. In this way the people were allowed to pass from the building by relays, avoiding a panic that might have resulted in many more fatalities.

Superintendent of Police McTighe ordered the arrest of Professor L. N. Giles, a mechanical engineer and instructor of the Pennsylvania Electro-Mechanical institute, who at the time of the accident was running the elevator. It is alleged that he allowed the elevator to be overcrowded, and that he had not experience in running an elevator, and was partly responsible for the accident.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The engagement is announced of Monroe Palmer, eldest son of Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, to Miss Grace Greenway Brown, daughter of the late George Brown, of Baltimore.

A tornado struck Vermillion, Kan., Friday evening. The Missouri Pacific depot was entirely demolished, many business houses were unroofed and the Presbyterian church almost ruined. Many residences were lifted off their foundations and others torn to pieces. Nobody was seriously injured.

The interior department has let the contract for timber on the newly allotted lands on the Bad River Indian reservation in Wisconsin to Julius Stearns, of Ludington, Mich. Mr. Stearns already has contracts for the timber on other allotments in this reservation, but the price under the new contract entered into is about double that paid under the old contract.

Lulu Hadley, the chambermaid who refused to make Booker Washington's bed, was chloroformed and robbed at Indianapolis early Friday. Forty-three dollars was taken. The entire household was chloroformed and the rooms searched in the night.

E. H. Branch, secretary of the Business Men's association, which has been conducting the strike in the Omaha district for the employers, was cited for contempt of the district court for an alleged violation of Judge Dickinson's injunction against the association. Branch refused to produce the books and the papers of the association as evidence in depositions taken before referees.

Col. Robert A. Amman, who has been out on $5000 bail for two years on a charge of receiving stolen goods in connection with the 520 per cent Miller case, was rearrested and his bail increased to $20,000. The rearrest was made at the instance of District Attorney Jerome, who says he has facts in his possession that show Ammon received $24,000 from Miller a few days before Miller was arrested.

PERMANENT TREATY SIGNED

Cuban Official and United States Minister Execute Document.

Havana, May 23.—The permanent treaty between the United States and Cuba, in which is incorporated all the provisions of the Platt amendment, was signed yesterday afternoon.

The act of signing the treaty occurred at 4:30 at the office of the secretary of state. The signers were Secretary of State Zaldo and United States Minister Squires, who were constituted special plenipotentiaries for that purpose. Senor Zaldo and Mr. Squires simply met, accompanied by their secretaries, and the signing was accomplished and copies of the treaty exchanged within a few minutes.

It simply incorporates the entire Platt amendment into the form of a treaty. The length of time consumed by the negotiations was principally due to the fact that the Cuban government wished to include in the treaty certain conditions, especially that there should be no intervention in Cuba afterwards by the United States. All these conditions were rejected.

The Associated Press correspondent saw a number of senators with reference to the ratification of both the permanent and naval stations treaties by congress this session, but they remain uncommunicative. It is believed that an urgent measure from President Palma which will accompany the sending of yesterday's treaty to the senate will have a strong influence in the direction of ratification. Senor Sanguilly, the most active opponent of the treaties with the United States, said he would oppose the permanent treaty because under it the United States, being the strongest power, could itself decide when intervention was desirable, regardless of the wishes of Cuba. Other senators say that the passage relating to the Isle of Pines should have been eliminated.

It is now expected that an agreement covering the details of the United States naval stations will be reached by President Palma and United States Minister Squires within three weeks.

THREE WEEKS OF SCHOOL YEAR REMAIN

Graduation Is But Short Time Distant and Weighs on Senior Minds—Baseball Season Is at an End—Track Athletes Contesting Today.

Three weeks of school remain before the graduation exercises. There are only eight days before the senior examinations, which are held one week before the rest of the school tries to decipher the critical questions.

Graduation dresses for the senior girls are now actualities and not mere plans on paper and conglomerate ideas in pretty heads. Most of the girls have their dresses finished and laid away waiting the great occasion.

They have almost ceased to talk of them. The young men are slower, and the tailors are just beginning to find out that there is to be a graduation, and then some will wear ready made suits, which they can buy the day they need them, if the ydesire.

At least the burning question of clothes is settled in most cases and the graduating students have settled down to the last few days of the regular routine before they leave the high school to return no more.

Members of the class will be widely separated after commencement, and they are making the best of their present companionship. Picnics and other amusements are planned in plenty for the next few weeks.

SEASON AT AN END.

Baseball Team Has Shortest Career on Record.

High school baseball for this year is at an end. It was the shortest season the team has ever played.

The bunch which Captain Cummings gathered under his standard this season is easily the best that has ever worn high school uniforms for many years past. They did not have a chance to try their metal against another scholastic aggregation.

They defeated the professional team which represents Duluth in the Northern league and they would have done likewise to the Superior team if they had played up to their usual standard. As it was they played the white garbed Superior team so hard that the score was 9 to 10 in the last inning.

The work of the infield in the Duluth game was perfect, almost entirely free from errors. The battery constituted by Cummings and Potter has no equal among the high schools of this section of the country. While the outfield was not so strong as the rest of the team it acquitted itself well.

The only regret felt by the students interested in the team is that through financial difficulty they were not able to meet the best teams in the Twin Cities. Every high school in St. Paul and Minneapolis was anxious to play a game with the Duluth school, but every one desired the struggle to take place at Duluth. Hamline university was also among the supplicants for a game to be played at this end of the line.

At the beginning of the baseball season the High School Athletic association was $300 in debt, and it was impossible because of that to bring any outside teams here.

There is little doubt but that after their great showing against the two league teams the local boys would have been able to defeat any high school bunch in the state.

The sudden termination of the season was brought about by the fact that a couple of the fastest players on the team planned to leave, and at this late date it would be impossible to fill their places satisfactorily.

Some of the baseball men were needed on the track team, and they were to be engaged in that sort of sport this week and on June 6. The only other Saturday is Memorial day, on which occasion the team intended to go to Brainerd. Brainerd cancelled its game, and it is impossible to play a game in Duluth on that day.

There was no choice but to close the season without meeting any high school teams, and after having played only two regular games in all.

In spite of the fact that the team played the shortest season that it ever has since it was established at the local school it has done more financially than any other team for years, clearing about $85 for the Athletic association. This was due entirely to the liberality of Manager Van Praagh of the Duluth team in giving all of the proceeds of the game which was played with the high school to help the boys out of their difficulty.

Unless material unexpectedly develops there is slight chance of their being a fast baseball team at the local school next year. A large portion of the aggregation will go out of the school with the class which graduates. Among the number the star battery is the most important.

There is some good baseball material in the lower classes, however, and it is probable that with a little more age and experience will make good stuff from which to build a team.

TRACK ATHLETES

At the Driving Park Today In Preliminary Contest.

Track athletes from the high school are furiously going through their stunts this afternoon at Oneota park.

Owing to Manager Kane's plans for a three-cornered meet between Cloquet, Nelson-Dewey of Superior and the Duluth school, more interest is felt in the outcome of this afternoon's preliminary than has been evinced for years.

Some of the men have been hard at work already preparing themselves for their parts in the contests today. With others it is more of an impromptu performance.

The winning men in the events of today will have two weeks in which to work themselves into shape to stack up against the outside teams in the struggle for points.

The track department has been weak in the Duluth school since the graduation of the class of 1901, and the awakened interest in the sports this year is timely and may lead to the production of a thoroughly competent track squad for the next few years.

Capt. Whipple has been doing his best to get the men out to work, and he has been sucessful, considering the state of stagnation in which track enthusiasm was at the beginning of the season.

Although telling advances have been made toward the right side of the financial situation, the athletic association is still in debt to a considerable extent. To get enough people out to the field day to make it a paying venture is the object of the high school athletes.

The exhibition this afternoon is held merely to select the most able track men to take part in the meet on June 6, and no admission is being charged.

All of the events which were on the program last year, and for several years back, will be contested this year. Runs, dashes, hurdles, bicycle races and jumping races, all have a large number of entries.

If the team this year is more efficient in any department than it usually is the weight events—hammer throw, shot put and discus throw—should be that particular division. Ernest Granozw, the 200-pound midget, who whipped the hammer around his head formerly, will be in the game again. Orren Safford, another big man and center of the football team, will also enter these events. He has had some experience with the weights and can boost them a few.

After two years spent in the shadowy depths of a jeweler's vault, the cup trophy, which goes to the class which is successful in the relay race, has been disentombed and placed in a cabinet in the corridor of the high school.

The trophy was presented by the baseball team of two years ago to the winning class. The numerals of the class of 1901 were first to be engraved on the trophy, and last year the present senior class placed its trade mark there.

To become the permanent possession of any class organization the cup must be won three times in succession. This is very difficult and probably will not be accomplished for many years, if ever, so the chances seem good for a continual change of hands for years to come. There is a large amount of surface on the cup, which is suitable for the engraving of class numerals. The trophy has a future before it.

Class Events.

The freshman spread and dance was held last evening at the high school building. The crowd attending thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Charles McLennan, president of the class of '06, was a pleasing toastmaster. Several toasts were responded to by the different members of the class.

The few remaining days of the present school year are crowded with social events. The seniors intend to give their last spread at Oatka beach on June 5.

The junior-senior reception on June 10 will be held at the Spalding, and is eagerly looked for. The junior committee is making very active preparations for the crowning social event of the year.

FULLERTON EXCORIATED

Ward Pays His Respects to the State Game Agent.

Beecher H. Ward, of Fairmont, the member of the game and fish commission, who was not reappointed by Governor Van Sant, has written a caustic two-column letter to S. F. Fullerton, the executive agent of the commission, in which he makes some sharp comments relative to the charges of the agent that Mr. Ward has made excessive charges for services and has presented vouchers for bills which the commission did not authorize him to incur. In regard to the suggestion that he should refund certain amounts he says:

"I wish to state that at any time you or Governor Van Sant wish a refund of any money that I have received on vouchers, I am abundantly able to make the refund; but I shall want to know on what account the refund is asked. I have not received one penny that I was not entitled to, and, in fact, expended more for actual railroad fare and other necessary expenses that I put in bills for, and you can at all times be assured that I shall take no dirty, sneaking methods, through the press or otherwise, to prevent a thorough investigation of my acounts or official conduct."

In regard to the $8500 appropriation for three cottages at the fish hatchery, Mr. Ward observes:

"Now, while I was a 'new member' of the commission, and may not have known as much about the game laws and what becomes of confiscated goods as yourself, and may not know as much about political scheming and political press scandals as yourself, I do know something about the cost of buildings, as I am now, and for many years last past have been engaged exclusively in the sale of lumber and building materials, and would have been glad to have taken the contract for the erection of these cottages for $2000 less than you wanted an appropriation for.

"Perhaps as a 'new member' I ought not to have offended you by opposing it, but I had in view the saving to the state the sum of $2000 in the erection of these cottages, should an appropriation be made for that purpose, while you raise your hands with an outburst of virtuous horror at what you imagine is a terrible extravagance in my putting in a voucher for what you think to be an overcharge of $2.60, and then parade your honesty before the people of the state in every paper that you could induce to print your vile and malicious statements."

Mr. Ward touches up the famous dinner in St. Paul, where a number of the legislators were entertained about the time the game commission sought to secure an appropriation and intimates the source of some of the viands. On this point he says:

"This bill was contracted, as you remember, unless it suits your convenience at this time to forget, at your instance and suggestion; and at your suggestion we went over to the Cold Storage company, where you keep confiscated goods, and you ordered down to Carling's for this banquet six ducks and six white grouse, confiscated game.

"You will also remember, unless as above stated, that before this banquet was given, I asked you by whom the bill would be paid, as I did not feel that I could afford to pay it myself, and you told me I should put in a voucher for it and that you would see that it was allowed; and you will further remember, unless as above stated, that when this bill was handed you, that you put your 'O. K.' on it, but you said you would 'hold it up for a while until the legislative investigating committee had finished its work, etc.'

"You will also remember, unless as above stated, that I informed you that I had paid the bill at Carling's out of my own pocket and that the commission need not pay it if there should be any question about it, and you will also remember, unless as above stated, that afterwards I asked you to return the bill to me, which you declined to do, presumably for the reason that it contained your 'O. K.' and it would not suit your purpose to have your 'O. K.' appear in print.

"You will also remember, unless as above stated, that you informed me that it had been customary for you to allow bills of that kind, and that you further informed me that the banquet given on Feb. 11 to the 'League of American Sportsmen' by the commission, would be paid by the commission, including the livery hire.

"It may be possible that it makes a difference who and at what time these bills are put in, whether by yourself or by some new member of the commission after an investigation."

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT.

Stratton's Independence Mine Regaining Its Prestige.

Colorado Springs, Col., May 23.—The celebrated Stratton's Independence mine is regaining its former prestige, judging by the official record of its production. A monster cash reserve is being accumulated from the profits, and it is now understood to be close to $1,000,000. Good reports are constantly being received, and the management is arranging to operate at great depth. English experts reported several years ago that the mine had played out. Since that time, however, it has produced millions of dollars of ore, is still producing, and the stock is slowly creeping up to its former price. So far as the depth is concerned, local people have no doubts, although it is possible that the veins may pass beyond the boundary lines of the property. This, of course, is no reflection on the district, and it is by no means certain that this result will follow, although it is credited by some.

The frequent strikes made on the west slope of Beacon Hill are attracting the attention of mining men. The showing on the Old Gold property is steadily improving as the drift is being driven down the hill. There are fully eighteen inches of high-grade sylvanite showing in the breast of the drift, and from this picked samples assay as high as $1000 to the ton. This will add another shipper to the camp's list.

Two feet of ore ranging in value from $35 to $78 per ton in gold has been discovered on block 7 of the Vindicator. Operations are being conducted at a depth of 200 feet. The ore was opened early this week, and as it lies in the same course as the general system of Vindicator veins, it is assumed that the vein is permanent.

The residents of the camp view with great pleasure an important shipment of ore from one of the well-known mines on Copper mountain. They may well feel encouraged by every indication of activity in that quarter, because it seems that the best prospect for an extension of the producing area is toward the north. It is possible that much valuable mineral ground will be opened up in that section.

ASSAULTED BY NEGRO.

Father and Daughter Attacked Near Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 23.—Posses with bloodhounds are scouring the country around Manchester for a negro who waylaid and assaulted Martin Kaiser and his daughter, Rose, aged 17 years, near Manchester. Kaiser was found near the Big Four tracks, early yesterday morning, in an unconscious condition. After regaining consciousness, Kaiser said that a negro had assaulted him with a club and carried his daughter into the woods nearby. The girl's hat and umbrella was found near Tanner's creek, and it is believed her body was thrown into the creek by the negro after he had assaulted and killed her. Kaiser, who is 70 years of age, is in a critical condition and not expected to live. Kaiser and his daughter had been at the Catholic church at Yorkville to attend Ascension day services.

"HALF A LIFETIME I WAS SICK."

"I Will Never Be Without Pe-ru-na"

Writes Mrs. Sarah Frye, of New Jersey.

Mary Gray, Walkerville, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"Pen and ink can never tell of the good Peruna has done for me after severe suffering from congestive catarrhal troubles in my stomach and bowels. I realized the cause had to be removed, as I had your medicine recommended to me by a friend who had used it, I concluded to try it, and found it to fill all the requirements in my case, for a few bottles of it restored me to good health."—Mary Gray.

Tired Women, Run Down, Weary and Weak, Morning, Noon and Night.

If one were to ask all the nervous, fretted, jaded, fagged-out women who work day after day, hardly able to keep on their feet—if a person were to ask them what their trouble was, one would say dyspepsia, another nervous prostration, another female weakness, and so on.

The fact is, however, that nearly all have the same disease, and that disease catarrh.

Thousands of people have chronic catarrh and do not know it.

They realize that they are sick, but they do not suspect their disease is chronic catarrh.

If they have catarrh of the stomach, they call it dyspepsia; if they have general catarrhal debility, they call it nervous prostration; if they have catarrh of the liver or kidneys, they say they have bilious or have kidney disease; and if they have catarrh of the pelvic organs they name it female weakness.

The truth is, all these organs are subject to catarrh, and the land is full of toiling women, half invalids, who have chronic catarrh in some stage or form of some of these organs.

Women from all parts of the United States bear testimony to the fact that Peruna cures catarrhal diseases.

A Letter From Mrs. Colonel Gresham.

Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham, treasurer Daughters of the Confederacy, and president Herndon Village Improvement society, writes the following letter from Herndon, Fairfax county, Va.:

Herndon, Va.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

"I cannot speak too highly of the value of Peruna. I believe that I owe my life to its wonderful merits. I suffered with catarrh of the head and lungs in its worst form, until the doctors fairly gave me up, and I despaired of ever getting well again.

"I noticed your advertisement and the splendid testimonials given by people who had been cured by Peruna, and determined to try it. After I felt but little better, but used a second and a third bottle and kept on improving slowly.

"It took six bottles to cure me, but they were worth a king's ransom to me. I talk Peruna to all my friends and am a true believer in its worth."

Mrs. Sallie H. Newsom, Decatur, Ala., writes:

"For nearly eight years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, and at various times it was all I could do to live from the excessive accumulation of sour water and gas on my stomach. I finally got past going, and got to be a confirmed invalid. After trying several physicians with no good at all my husband put me on Peruna. I have taken six bottles and now I feel perfectly well. I do all my house duties with ease, and never do I feel any inconvenience. Peruna is a specific in my case. I certainly recommend it to everybody suffering with catarrh. A good many call it dyspepsia, but catarrh is right. My husband says Peruna is the best medicine on earth. He recommends it to all sufferers from catarrh wherever located."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

A Grateful Woman's Letter to Dr. Hartman.

Mrs. Sarah Frye, 204 Sylvan Ave., West Asbury Park, N. J., writes:

"I have not words to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure that Peruna has done for me.. It is a God-send to all suffering women. Peruna has done wonderful work for me.. I was sick over half of my life with systemic catarrh. I want this letter published far and wide as I was a great sufferer, but today I feel as well as anybody can feel. Nearly all my life I have spent nearly all I could make and scrape for doctors, but none of them did me any good, but since I started on your Peruna one year ago I have at last found relief in your wonderful Peruna.. I had begun to think that I was not going to get well, but, thank God, I am all well today. I hope and pray you may live long to help others as you have helped me.. Instead of being a walking drug-store I am growing fat and doing well. I will never be without Peruna."—Mrs. Sarah Frye.

Dr. Mitchell's

Magnetic Treatment

A Marvel of the 20th Century.

The magnetic treatment as given by Dr. Mitchell is believed to be the only cure for all of those who have been pronounced incurable or given up to die by other methods. Dr. Mitchell certainly has a peculiar power. When applied to any part of the human body it causes an active and energetic magnetic action to be set up in the part to which it is applied. The wonderful potency of this peculiar healing power, electric magnetic force or animal magnetism, or whatever it may be termed, in curing all diseases that the human flesh is heir to, has been demonstrated beyond the possibility of a doubt.

If you are sick and suffering and not getting along all right under your present treatment, go to Healer Mitchell and get his advice in regard to your case.

Mrs. Ward of Lake Nebagamon, Wis., returns home today able to walk and use her arm and talk. A few weeks ago she could not talk and her arm was paralyzed, she could not use it at all, and she was barely able to move. She returns home and her friends hardly know her.

Also another case is that of a man who was paralyzed and unable to walk two weeks ago, unable to move a leg or arm, was made to walk after the sixth treatment. This man lives in Duluth and his name and address can be had at Dr. Mitchell's office.

The doctor is making new cures every day. What he has done for others he can do for you. If you cannot call write. Office at 17 East Superior street. Zenith 'phone 570. Office hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily; Sundays 10 to 12. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, 7 to 8:30.

FRAUDULENTLY ISSUED,

Were Certificates of Asphalt Company, Says Spinks.

Trenton, N. J., May 23.—Henry C. Spinks today filed in the United States circuit court a bill to have set aside and cancelled $3,760,000 worth of collateral gold certificates of the Asphalt Company of America, which he claims were fraudulently issued to A. L. Barber, Francis V. Greene and George W. Elkins, promoters of the company, and which Spinks also charges were afterwards transferred without compensation, to Henry W. Biddle, Rudolph Ellis, A. W. Krick, E. B. Morris and C. S. W. Packard. Spinks, after the confirmation of the sale of the Asphalt company's assets, made an application to Receiver Tatnall for the cancellation of the certificates, but his application was refused. Spinks claims that these certificates are not protected by the agreement under which the Land Title & Trust company, of Philadelphia was made trustee for the Asphalt company's gold certificate holders.

FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS.

Indianapolis, May 23.—The national convention of the Federation of Musicians adjourned today. New York was selected as the next place for meeting. The federation adopted a rule forbidding its members to play at any function, public or private, where government musicians appear. It was also decided to ask congress to pass a law materially increasing the pay of members of military government bands.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and strengthen it against their return.

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. G. Hines, Franks, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time; and Miss Alvina Wolter, Box 212, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of this great medicine than can be published.

ST. CROIX AVENUE

Will Not Get $1000 Voted For Its Improvement.

Mayor Hugo Will Not Approve, Refusing on Two Grounds.

One thousand dollars appropriated by the council for the improving of St. Croix avenue will not be available.

Mayor Hugo refused to sign the resolution for the reason that the council lacked authority in making such an appropriation, and also for the reason that the resolution was not properly passed.

Alderman Trevillion, instrumental in securing the adoption of of the resolution, has consented to withdraw it at the next meeting, and this is all that saves the appropriation from a direct veto.

Had the resolution gone through, the sum of $1000 would have been appropriated from the general fund on the strength of an affirmative vote of ten, where such an appropriation usually requires eleven affirmative votes.

Several of the aldermen who have been watching drafts on the general fund with considerable apprehension and anxiety were opposed to such an appropriation, claiming that if the owners of property on St. Croix avenue desired the street improved, they should do as property owners elsewhere do and petition for it, indicating their willingness to pay for benefits rendered.

Mayor Hugo held a conference with the board of public works this morning, and it was agreed that the bad spots in St. Croix avenue should be repaired at once without the necessity of a regular appropriation by the council.

CANADIAN DROWNED

Said to be Son of A. J. Belch of Winnipeg.

New York, May 23.—C. A. Belch son of A. J. Belch, of Winnipeg, and a member of the Canadian volunteer contingent in the South African campaign, has been found drowned in Newtown creek, in Long Island city.

Mrs. Fiske, in whose house Belch lodged for a time, says he often spoke of his father, a judge in Winnipeg, and formerly editor and proprietor of a paper there. He said his mother was an invalid in California and that his younger brother was a lumber merchant. Belch said that his father was a man of wealth and that his own inheritance would be about $100,000. While returning from South Africa with about $800 back pay, Belch stopped in London and there was robbed. He evidently did not inform his parents of his poverty, as their letters showed they thought him in comfortable circumstances. Two weeks after Belch left the house, Mrs. Fiske says, the police told her that he was dying in a Brooklyn hospital, and had given her name as a friend. She did not go to the hospital and did not hear of the man until she learned of the finding of his body.

ROSA KAISER'S BODY FOUND.

Guilford, Ind., May 22.—The body of Miss Rosa Kaiser, of Manchester, was found in Tanner's creek today, her skull having been crushed and her face bruised and gashed, showing the terrible struggle she had made in defense. It is supposed she was attacked on Thursday evening, where her father, who was close behind her, returning home, was knocked down and left unconscious until the next morning. He is still in a critical condition.

TWO MORE DEATHS

Additional Fatal Cases of Smallpox at Hibbing Are Reported.

More Drastic Treatment Desired By Residents in Nearby Towns.

Two more deaths at Hibbing were reported here this morning as having occurred, and it was stated that the smallpox had broken out in the family of one prominent citizen, at least.

The Hibbing people are not exploiting the epidemic, and one citizen of that place, at the Spalding hotel this morning, said it would not be judicious on his part to stand for a statement of the conditions.

Reports to the effect that the epidemic is practically stamped out have reached the offices of the Missabe road, though the company is still fumigating its trains and taking every possible precaution against the spread of the disease.

Residents of the surrounding towns are anxiously awaiting the outcome, and have let their hopes extend to the length that some drastic measure might be taken by the authorities to quell the ravages of the disease by regulations.

Up to the president nothing has been done which the people living in the vicinity of the visited town believe to be of sufficient violence for the occasion.

George W. Myers, of Chrisholm, superintendetn for the Mashek Lumber company, said this morning that if something were not done right soon, he would communicate with state officials, who would take the matter in their hands.

Mr. Myers said that it was not the present that bothered him regarding his men at work, but for the conditions sure to exist as soon as cold weather comes in this winter. He believes the range will be one howling mass of smallpox patients, unless the most careful and thorough precautions are taken now.

Dr. Rood, of Hibbing, who has had charge of the caring for the sick and esthablishing quarantines, claims that the disease is not as bad as reported, nor as numerously found as has been said.

Six deaths, however, within so short a time indicate a more serious condition than has been prevalent anywhere in this region.

HAD TO GRANT APPLICATION

London Chancellor Defends Insurance of Vanderbilt-Rutherford License.

London, May 23.—In a letter to the Times, occupying three columns, Dr. Tristram, chancellor of the London diocese, today defends his action in granting the Vanderbilt-Rutherford marriage license by law and custom. Dr. Tristram contends that he was obliged to grant Mr. Vanderbilt's application. The chancellor's answer to the bishop of London's severe criticism forms the text for a lengthy editorial in the Times, which says Dr. Tristram's argument opens up an important controversy between church and state. The Times maintains that the Rev. R. H. Hadden's act in marrying Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Rutherford was due solely to an error of judgment, which it hopes will not be copied by others of the English clergy and deprecates the "heavy moral censure which seemed to be implied by the bishop of London's language."

The Times upholds Dr. Tristram's contention that he has no right to interfere in a matter so dubious, whereupon the house of lords and the house of commons had themselves legislated in direct contradiction of each other and "to the general moral sense of the public." The editorial continues: "It would seem a great hardship that by a sole fault of the guilty party an innocent person should be placed during the lifetime of that partner under one of the greatest and most trying disabilities that can be inflicted, a disability which may invoke the greatest temptation and where Christian opinion has been and is clearly divided. Even clergymen owe some deference to the laws of their country, and still more to the moral sense of justice in the community."

MARK TWAIN SICK.

All Members of Humorist's Family Also Ill.

New York, May 23.—Two physicians and trained nurses have been for several weeks in constant attendance on Mark Twain, (Samuel L. Clemens), his wife and their two daughters, Clara and Jean, at the humorist's home at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson. It is more than six months since Mrs. Clemens has left the house. She was stricken with nervous prostration last August and since then her condition has several times caused her husband the keenest anxiety. The strain resulted in his complete collapse five weeks ago, when a slight cold developed into a severe attack of bronchitis. Miss Jean Clemens, who is 20 years old, was taken ill five weeks ago with measles. When the critical stage of her illness was reached, her father was very weak and the physicians had to hide from him how serious her condition was. While taking care of her sister Miss Clara caught the measles. The crisis is yet to be reached in her case.

FIRE AT CARLISLE, KY.

Carlisle, Ky., May 23.—Fire which was beyond control at noon destroyed the city school. The west wall of the building in falling injured a number of people among them being Rev. T. M. Tinder, Chief of Police Dunn, Edward Ewing, E. O. Dorsey, Thos. George, Ed. Moore and Peter Allen. The only fire engine in town turned over when it reached the fire and Paris was wired for help.

And all sufferers who call on him will receive a free examination, and, if curable, will be treated at a low price. No high fees are asked the sick and helpless and no incurable case accepted.

There is no question of the Doctor's sincerity in his claim that disease can be cured, and one can not doubt his ability to carry out his claim after having talked with people whom he has cured quickly and safely of all kidney and liver disease, lung and stomach or heart trouble, constipation, rheumatism, neuralgia, blood and skin diseases, catarrh, bronchitis, paralysis, diabetis, lost vitality, nervous debility, insomnia, blood poison, anaemia, female weakness, eczema, headaches, backache, nervousness, coughs, asthma and any disease or weakness of the vital organs. It matters not what the disease nor of how long standing, nor how many doctors or remedies have failed; he has repeatedly renewed the youth of old men and women—has often instilled into jaded men and women new vitality, health and strength. To weak, weary women he has brought the light and happiness of health. For worn-out men he has relighted the sparkling vitality of youth. He has cured the crippled and healed the sick, and he has gone about this quietly, unostentatiously, but, nevertheless, with the unbounded success that is winning the gratitude of all sick and helpless men and women.

ORDER TO EXAMINE ACCOUNTS, ETC.—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss. In Probate Court, Special Term, May 15th, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of Walter M. Wells, deceased:

On reading and filing the petition of Elisha Wells, executor of the estate of Walter M. Wells, deceased, representing, among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of his administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court on Monday, the 15th day of June, A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock a. m., at the Probate office, in the Court House, in the city of Duluth, in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Duluth Evening Herald, a daily newspaper printed and published at Duluth in said county.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., the 15th day of May, 1903.

WOODLAND GETS IT

Will Have Free Mail Delivery In the Near Future.

Duluth Heights to Also Have It—Six New Carriers.

Woodland and Hunter's Park citizens are to have a free mail delivery in the near future.

Official notice has been received by Postmaster Fisher that the six extra carriers are to be allowed the Duluth office and he has decided to place one of these carriers on the Woodland Park route, thus relieving the residents of that locality of the necessity of journeying to the branch office situated there, for their mail.

"I will recommend, however," said Mr. Fisher today, "that the branch office be continued there for the convenience of the residents of Woodland Park in purchasing stamps, posting letters, buying postal orders and conducting other business connected with the postoffice, aside from the mere receiving of their mail."

The branch office at Duluth Heights, however, will probably be abolished. After the new carriers have been added to the force the residents of that section of the city will receive their mail from a carrier sent directly from the central office. One of the new men will probably be detailed to this route. This will give them the advantage of a free delivery of their mail, although they will be deprived of the advantages and conveniences of a branch postoffice.

The remaining four carriers which are allowed the Duluth office will be used on work in the business part of the city and in the East End, although one may be detailed to West Duluth. The present routes of the carriers will be made over and a little taken from each to make work for the new men. This will relieve the carriers in these districts who have had more work than they could properly handle during the past few months.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Whole Family Has Glanders and Father Has Died.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Grand Forks—Physicians were summoned to investigate a case of contagious disease on the farm of John Peterson, west of Northwood. The doctors found a terrible condition of affairs. The disease is button farcy, a type of glanders. All the horses on the place are affected and will have to be killed. Peterson had contracted the disease and was dead. His wife is so ill that little hope of her recovery is entertained and there are eight or ten children in the family all of whom have been exposed. The place has been quarantined and all means available are being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Fargo—C. L. Everett, of Independence, Iowa, is dead as a result of a fall from a rig in a runaway at Glyndon a week ago. He was driving across the county to inspect some land, when the runaway occurred. He attempted to jump and broke an ankle, forcing the bone into the earth. At the hospital here Dickshaw set in and nothing could be done to save his life. He was a well known lawyer.

James Berry, who says Minneapolis is his home, has been bound over on the charge of robbing a friend. He became acquainted with a Fargoan in Moorhead. The latter became badly intoxicated and they returned to the Fargo man's room. Berry is charged with taking a watch and some money. He was arrested in Moorhead and the watch traced to him.

Valley City—Three men have been arrested who are said to be wanted in Minnesota. It is said they have been making school chart canvass. Two of the men, T. A. Wilson and E. A. Clark, have gone through the county canvassing and displaying the charts and were followed a few days later by S. L. Davis, who is charged with inducing members of the school board to sign an alleged indorsement, which it is asserted turned out to be a cleverly worded note. Davis was held and the others discharged.

Dickinson—The Dickinson school district has issued $15,000 worth of bonds with which to build an annex to the high school building. The board is advertising for bids, the bonds being sold to the state at par and 4 per cent interest.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Chamberlain—David Horse Ring was brought before United States Commissioner Tedrick in this city charged with horse stealing, and was held to answer to the next United States grand jury. Horse Ring is a Rosebud Indian and is 19 years of age. He conceived the idea that he was destined to become a very bad man. Consequently when the spirit had sufficiently moved him he acquired a formidable array of implements of warfare, sallied forth and confiscated a horse, and then announced that the world was at his feet.

Deadwood—The United States court has declared void the franchise of the Black Hills & Wyoming Railroad company, a corporation organized under the laws of South Dakota previous to the building of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad into Deadwood. The suit has been instigated by the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley company, on the ground that the other company had not prosecuted work on its right of way, as required by the provisions of the federal law.

Pierre—The contest case of Everett Brown vs. the heirs of Richard Rodd, was before the land office in this city again yesterday for the fifth time. The tract in question is an ordinary quarter section of Sully county land, but the contest has been dragging for several reasons, the principal one being on account of deaths and the appearance of new heirs.

Hot Springs—Captain Lucas, commandant of the soldiers' home, has just had the rebel flag returned to him which his company captured during the rebellion. The flag was used at each re-union of the company, but during one of the re-unions was stolen. The captain finally secured a clue to its whereabouts and now has it in his possession and also a sash taken from a rebel general at the same time.

Farmer Cured of Rheumatism.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely, and if not satisfied after using it, he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Rayder, of Pattens Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar, saying, 'Give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time, for it cured me.'" For sale by all druggists.

POLITICAL TRIP

Frank M. Eddy's Duluth Visit Believed to Have Been That.

Is Sounding State Sentiment—Candidate For Deputy Marshal.

In spite of the modest disclaimer of ex-Congressman Frank M. Eddy, which was not so much of a disclaimer after all, he can be set down as a potential candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

It will be noticed that in his intervew in The Herald yesterday he did not deny that he had thought of the subject. "I am in the hands of my friends," he said, "and it would be a pretty mean man that would not uphold the hands of his friends. Anyway, it is a little early to start a campaign, because the people are not interested in politics just now."

Mr. Eddy is not a candidate in the sense that he is out after delegates to the Republican state convention which will meet in a little more than a year. But he is a candidate in that he is going about looking the field over and sounding the sentiment aroused by the announcement that he may be a candidate.

It is a difficult task to contradict so pleasant and nice a gentleman as Mr. Eddy when he says that his visit to Duluth is not of a political nature, but it is almost necessary to do so. The nature and habits of the different men he called upon in the city almost force the conclusion that he was here to see what they thought of his chances.

Mr. Eddy is a popular man in his home section, and, indeed, he is well known and liked throughout the state. Whether he has done it studiedly or not, he has made a great hit with "the people" by the atmosphere of carelessness in dress and appearance with which he has surrounded himself. He makes no boasts of his personal beauty, for it is a well known fact that he is an extremely plain man, to put it mildly. This plainness of countenance he exaggerates by plainness of dress and manner, so that the people of the rural districts swear by him as a man about whom there is no nonsense. Such a man, in an agricultural state, might make a formidable candidate for governor.

It is said that the appointment of a deputy United States marshal, should the creation of a new judgeship bring it about as noted by The Herald yesterday, is practically settled, and that the appointee will be Victor Johnson, the well known salesman in M. S. Burrows' Great Eastern clothing house, and member of the board of fire commissioners of the city of Duluth. Mr. Johnson is a popular man, prominent in the ranks of organized labor and active in Republican politics, and the appointment will meet with favor.

FIRE AT BEAR LAKE, PA.

Corry, Pa., May 23.—Fire early this morning swept the west side of Main street at Bear Lake, burning a dozen buildings. Loss, $25,000.

Why Pay as Much

for an inferior beer?

Schlitz beer costs twice what common beer costs in the brewing. One-half pays for the product; the other half for its purity.

One-half is spent in cleanliness, in filtering even the air that touches it, in filtering the beer, in sterilizing every bottle. And it pays the cost of aging the beer for months before we deliver it.

If you ask for Schlitz you get purity and age, you pay no more than beer costs without them.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.

THE LABOR WORLD

C. E. James of St. Paul For State Federation Secretary.

Great Interest Is Being Taken In the Coming Convention.

A new and highly commended candidate for the office of secretary and treasurer of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor is in the field in the shape of C. E. James, the present president of the St. Paul Trades and Labor assembly.

He is strongly endorsed all over the state and seems eminently fitted for the office. Duluth union labor men that have met Mr. James at former conventions say he is an admirable candidate, clean-cut and highly respected.

For the office of president of the federation, Henry Geotzinger, of St. Paul, is talked of, but if the secretary-treasurership goes to Mr. James it is likely that the presidency will be awarded to Minneapolis or Duluth. Harry Dix, president of the Trades and Labor council of Minneapolis, is a candidate, as is A. G. Bainbridge, business agent of the Minneapolis Painters' union. Henry Perrault, president of the local Trades' assembly, would make a good president and is being talked of.

Greater interest is being manifested locally in the coming session of the federation than for many years, and it is predicted on all sides that more real benefit will accrue to organized labor as a result than has been accomplished in any previous convention, especially if the current office-holding political clique is turned out for men who are willing to work for the benefit of organized labor for the good of the cause instead of political office. In this connection the following amendments will be offered and supported by a strongly organized movement in Minneapolis and St. Paul, which also has the moral backing of many union labor men in Duluth:

Strike out section 4 in article 4 and substitute the following section: Section 4, article 4, as amended: No member of an affiliated union shall hold office in the Minnesota State Federation of Labor who holds a political office, either appointive or elective, outside of the trade he represents.

Change number of section 2 of article 5 to number 3 and add a new section 2 to article 5. Section 2, article 5, as a new section: The president, secretary-treasurer and the secretary of the Federation council shall attend the convention with full privilege of the floor and the right to vote. Their expenses shall be paid by the State Federation; but only delegates sected in convention on credentials from their respective unions shall be eligible as candidates for office.

Section 3, article 5, changed to section 4, article 5, as amended: It shall be the duty of the secretary-treasurer to make and keep a complete record of the transactions of the convention of this federation, and, within sixty days after each convention, he shall have the proceedings printed in full, in pamphlet form, and forward no less than one copy to every five members of all affiliated unions. He shall attend to such other matters as may come into his hands during his term of office; he shall report quarterly to the unions, showing the financial condition, number of unions in good standing, number of unions in arrears, and he must make an annual report to the convention. He shall be the custodian of the funds of the federation, and will disburse the same only on orders signed by the president, after being allowed by a majority of the Federation council. He shall be required to furnish a surety bond of $1000, or as much more as may be presumed to be in the treasury during his term of office. Failing to do so within thirty days after election, the office shall be declared vacant and the Federation council shall proceed to the election of a secretary-treasurer. The premium of said bond shall be paid by the federation. He shall receive such salary as may be decided upon at the convention prior to his election.

Section 4, article 5, changed to section 5, article 5, as amended: It shall be the duty of the Federation Council to pass judgment upon all strikes, lockouts and other matters that may be referred to them, always having due respect for the higher authority of national or international law. When strikes or lockout have been approved, they may direct the secretary to issue and distribute to all the unions in the state a circular setting forth the facts and calling upon them for such assistance as may seem wisest and best. The Federation Council shall hold regular monthly meetings, consider all matters of interest to the federation, make a true copy of the proceedings of each meeting and mail a copy of their proceedings to every central body within the state within seven days after the meeting. They shall be authorized and must declare any office of this federation vacant when it comes to their attention that an officer is holding a political office outside of the trade he represents. They shall devise ways and means of raising funds for the proper carrying out of the work of this federation.

The first section of the proposed amendment may be changed so as to read no officer of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor shall hold any political office. It is held that the state organization desires officers only to advance the cause of organized labor and not use their office for individual ambitions in seeking political preferment.

Three delegates of the Federated Trades' assembly refused to subscribe to the new constitution, which requires members to patronize the product of union labor exclusively.

One of the delegates was S. M. Keilley, president of the Carpenters' union and vice president of the assembly. The other delegates were Ole Larson, of the Steamfitters' union, and Otto Strum, of the Plumbers' union. The other delegates voted unanimously against obligating Messrs. Larson and Strum, who were just about to be sworn in as representatives of their respective unions. Mr. Keilley was already a member and an officer and when the vote barring Larson and Strum was announced, he resigned and the resignation was unanimously accepted.

The amendment declaring for a strict observance of the union label was adopted by a strong affirmative referendum vote of all the affiliated unions and the fact that Messrs. Kielley, Strum and Larson should bolt it at the last moment was a great surprise.

The Painters' and Decorators' union has elected B. J. Elde, T. G. Freshney and E. Maere delegates to the Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

Three unusually strong delegates will represent the Building Trades' council at Little Falls. They are: Smith, of Plumbers' union; James H. Powers, of the Painters 'union, and E. Parrott, of the Plasterers' union.

C. E. Brown has been chosen by the local Typographical union as delegate to the international convention to be held in Washington in August. Henry Dworschak was elected alternate.

The Cigarmakers' union held a big meeting on Wednesday evening.

The Building Trades' council has voted in favor of one-half of the proceeds of the Labor day picnic instead of one-third as heretofore.

The Native Labor association in the Transvaal, South Africa, is endeavoring to obtain 75,000 men from the Portuguese territories, and failing in this, will apply for permits for the immigration of thousands of Finns.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei Cures This Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane, enters the blood with the oxygen and kills the germs present there, effectually driving this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

offensive breath
dryness of the nose pain across the eyes pain in back of the head pain in front of the head tendency to take cold burning pain in the throat hawking to clear the throat pain in the chest a cough stitch in side
losing of flesh variable appetite
low spirited at times raising of frothy mucous expectorating yellow matter difficulty in breathing frequent sneezing hoarseness of voice discharge from the nose stoppage of the nose at night aching of the body droppings in the throat mouth open while sleeping tickling back of the palate formation of crusts in the nose dryness of the throat in the morning loss of strength spasms of coughing cough short and hacking cough worse nights and mornings loss in vital force
a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest

Hyomei will cure the disease, destroy activity of all germ life in the respiratory organs, enrich and purify the blood with additional ozone, and after a few days' use of this treatment the majority of these symptoms will have disappeared. In a few weeks the cure will be complete.

Catarrh or catarrhal colds cannot exist when Hyomei is used. This is a strong statement, but S. F. Boyce emphasizes it by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.

WILL SUSPEND THE NEW LAW

Strong Objection to Venezuelan Measure Concerning Foreigners.

Willemstad, Island of Curacac, May 25.—The president of the state of Maracaibo, Vez., and the governor of Caracas have tried to enforce the new law against foreigners obliging them to recognize only the Venezuelan tribunals for the adjustment of their claims and compelling them to waive their rights to claim damages for robbery or pillage perpetrated by government of revolutionary troops and enforcing other measures under penalty of immediate expulsion. These measures were enforced against British, German, Italian, Dutch, Spanish and French citizens. When their respective legations learned of the fact they sent orders to their consuls not to comply with the demands of the local authorities, as the new law was contrary to existing treaties. The ministers of the powers also called on Senor Urbaneja, the minister of foreign affairs, and protested against the action taken. Senor Urbaneja promised that orders would be issued to suspend the enforcement of the new law. United States citizens were not molested. If the law is enforced later complications with the powers will arise, and it is believed that more than 40,000 of the 60,000 foreigners actually residing in Venezuela will leave the country.

FLAG DAY.

A general and patriotic celebration is urged of Flag day, which this year falls on Sunday, and hence will be celebrated on Monday, June 15, as in case of all anniversaries falling on Sunday. On June 14, 1777, congress enacted. "That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." Later it was enacted that the thirteen stripes remain unchangeable and one star be added on the admission of a new state into the Union. There are now forty-five stars. New meaning was given to the flag by the civil war. While it had reverence before, for the sake of revolutionary memories, since the struggle of 1861-65 it has become the symbol of a mighty nation. Later yet, the Spanish-American war carried it to the uttermost parts of the earth, and Americans cannot fail to have a feeling of pride and satisfaction, nor restrain the swelling of patriotism in their breasts, when they contrast the meaning, in far distant lands, of ours and other flags displayed together.

Citizens everywhere should join in making Flag day a great event. On June 15 next the stars and stripes should greet the rising and salute the setting sun, float all day long from every church edifice, school and building, public and private and however humble, throughout the entire land. In many of the schools, exercises will be conducted in celebration of Flag day, and this practice should be extended—teaching the story of the flag and what it represents and having the young people pledge their fealty and loyalty to it.

ITALIAN IMMIGRATION.

The numerous murders by Italians in various cities in this country in connection with the rapidly increasing number of immigrants from Italy is giving the immigration officials of the country some concern. The lawless character of the aliens seems apparent, but there are no real grounds on which they may be rejected or deported. The stream of immigrants from Italy is larger than ever before. One-third of the total number of immigrants that landed in the United States last month came from Italy, and seven-eighths of them arrived at New York. Out of a total of 126,286 for the entire country for the month, 41,204 were Italians. In April last year the Italian immigrants numbered 26,618, representing a gain for April of this year of over 14,000. The number of immigrants received at New York in the month of April of this year was 101,572, and of this total 36,249 were Italians. In April of 1902 the number of Italians arriving at New York was 23,891.

The inspectors at New York received quiet tips to go the limit in excluding Italians who promise to be undesirable residents. But the law governing the exclusion of aliens is far from elastic, and more than one squabble has already been had with officers at the Italian embassy on the rejection of Italians on what was alleged to be insufficient ground. It is difficult to prove that a tough-looking man with a bandanna about his head has been convicted of a felony in his native land. Most of the Italians now bring certificates with them, showing that they have never served a term for a crime involving moral turpitude. Most of the rejections that the authorities order are based on the claim that the alien is likely to become a public charge. But the officials complain that in a great many instances, as soon as they order a deportation for this cause, political influence is brought to bear to have the fellow admitted. No Italian seems to be so low in station but what he can produce a friend who can induce some politician to enter a plea for him. Some six or eight weeks ago the treasury department sent Special Agent Braun to Italy to make an investigation into the heavy emigration from that place to the United States. He was also instructed to gather all information he could about the Mafia and the other secret organizations of the Italians. One or two preliminary reports have been received from Mr. Braun, but the department officials decline to make them public at this time. There is a strong suspicion in the minds of the authorities here that Italians are being sent to the United States under contract.

It is evident that something must be done to check this influx of Italians. It is certain that the majority of them are not desirable, and a way must be found to exclude them.

A New York magistrate has ruled that a man's carriage is his castle, and that he may stick his feet out of the windows and whoop as loudly as he pleases without interference by the police. There will be no question about the Tenderloin vote going solid to that eminent jurist.

The Boston Globe says: "Western editors who are making comments on corruption in the Massachusetts legislature will do just as well to wait till the investigation is all over." Why? Is the whitewash to be applied?

Governor's vetoes sometimes have a good effect. Yates' vetoes this year saved $1,000,000 to Illinois, and Odell's vetoes have saved $2,000,000 to New York. How much did Van Sant save to Minnesota?

THE GULLIBLE PUBLIC.

In view of the prosperity of the powers that prey, one is often tempted to wonder what is needed to teach the people caution and to make a crooked game so well known that it cannot find victims on which to fatten the man with oblique morals that works it.

Within a short time a number of people in Duluth and in other towns near-by have been successfully worked by the mail-box game, giving up money to plausible strangers who promised to send them mail boxes, which the government required them to have, they said. The shell game is still worked, and there is money in working it. Gold bricks are sold still, and the market for them seems to show no signs of lessening. Three-card monte still puzzles the rural mind and charms hard-earned bills out of the rural purse. All of these games and others are ancient and moss-grown. They have been exploited in the newspapers until with many well-informed people they are simply jokes. Yet they still continue to find their victims, and not always among a class as ignorant as might be expected.

If a course of exploitation in the newspapers and comic weeklies running over many years is not enough to warn the public against these games, what can possibly be done to protect the victims? Or is it possible that if a man is once a sucker he is always a sucker, and that the ill is incurable? It would certainly look that way, when cheap, paltry games with long histories are still fruitful sources of income to enterprising gentlemen who believe the world owes them a living and who are not a bit particular how they collect it.

There is just one grain of consolation in hearing of these cases, and that is that if one man has lost money in a foolish effort to get something for nothing, his loss will be an example to others that will perhaps preserve the integrity of their pocketbooks and self-respect. But if these ancient tricks are to have a career as long as that of a retired opera singer, even that consolation vanishes.

In the case of those who purchase green goods or gold bricks, or who seek to locate the little pea under the proper shell or pick a designated card out of three in the hands of a nimble-fingered rascal, it is difficult to muster up sympathy for the victims. This is not only because there is something wrong with their mentality if they have not already heard of these devices, but because they have been beaten in an attempt to beat somebody else. Generally speaking, whether it is wheat, gold bricks, stocks, walnut shells or a simple wager, the man that bravely bucks another's game possesses more brass than brains, and what he gets out of it he has coming to him.

Generally, the use of a little horse sense or even deliberation will save prospective victims. Those who part with their money without using either must expect to lose it, and they ought to lose it.

UNCLE SAM'S MONEY.

Some idea of the vast amount of money held by Uncle Sam may be gained by the knowledge that it took twenty-two expert clerks from the treasury department nearly eight weeks to count the money in the New York sub-treasury, preparatory to turning the cash over to Hamilton Fish, who was recently appointed to the place made vacant by the death of Conrad Jordan. The count developed the fact that Mr. Jordan's accounts balanced to a penny. It was necessary to count $276,000,000, of which about $200,000,000 was in gold coin, $60,000,000 in silver dollars and the remaining $16,000,000 in money of other forms.

The total amount in the New York office is about one-fourth of that in possession of the government. The remainder is held in Washington and at the sub-treasuries in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. The sub-treasuries named hold considerably more than the Washington vaults.

In round figures the amounts at the different sub-treasuries outside of New York are as follows: Baltimore, $10,500,000; Philadelphia, $20,000,000; Boston, $27,000,000; Cincinnati, $6,000,000; Chicago, $30,000,000; New Orleans, $41,000,000; San Francisco, $60,000,000. Next to New York the most important sub-treasuries are those at San Francisco and New Orleans.

The bulk of the gold coin of the United States is kept in New York and the bulk of the silver in Washington. The reserve fund of $150,000,000 is not a material fund, separated from other money belonging to the government. It is merely a matter of bookkeeping. In the vaults in Washington, however, are held all the United States bonds that are deposited as security for the circulating notes of national banks and as security for deposits of government money held by national banks of the country.

The national banks of the United States have about $154,000,000 of government money, much of it gold, subject to the call of the secretary of the treasury. As security for this the treasurer of the United States holds in trust about $154,000,000 of government bonds of all classes. As securities for the circulating notes of national banks there are also on deposit $357,548,470 of United States bonds. The vaults of the treasury, therefore, hold $511,548,470 of securities of all kinds belonging to the national banks of the country.

ENGLISH DETERIORATION.

Of late a number of writers have asserted that the physical condition of the English people has for some time been deteriorating. George F. Shee is one of these, and in the Nineteenth Century he produces facts and figures to substantiate his assertions. The reports of the army inspection and medical bureaus show a falling off in the height, the weight and the chest-capacity of the recruits. Here are some of the more striking indications of physical deterioration: In 1845 the standard of height was 5 feet 6 inches. In 1872 it was 1 inch less, in 1883 it was 3 inches less, and in 1901 permission was given to enlist men as low as 5 feet, the lowest record in the history of the British army. In 1845, out of 1000, only 105 were under 5 feet 6 inches; in 1887, the proportionate number had risen to 528, and in 1900 to 565. In 1883 the chest measurement was reduced from 34 to 33 inches, yet in 1898 the proportion of men serving in the army with a measurement under 33 inches was 23 per 1000, as against only 17 in 1889. In 1871, out of 1000 recruits accepted, 159.4 weighed only 120 pounds; in 1900 the proportionate number was 301.

The cause of this deterioration, Mr. Shee finds, is the unfavorable influence of urban life. More than 77 per cent of the population of England is now living in cities. The result is that the invigorating out-of-door recreations of past generations have been "largely replaced by the unnatural and, in part, vicious pleasures afforded to the tired workers in our big cities." The injurious effect of urban life on the English people is shown by the fact that in Manchester, in 1899, out of about 11,000 men presenting themselves for military service, 8000 had to be rejected, and of the accepted, only 1000 could be put into the regular army, the remainder being placed in the militia. As a remedy for the alarming condition which he describes, Mr. Shee proposes "manhood service" and "national training," after the fashion of the German system of military drill.

It is possible that such a remedy would be effective, but it is doubtful. Life in the overcrowded city seems to be the primary cause of the trouble and the scattering of the people into suburban localities would appear to be the best method to effect a lasting benefit. People crowded together in cities certainly do not thrive as well as those who have more room.

AMERICAN SEAMEN.

The idea that the merchant marine of the United States is manned very largely by foreigners is erroneous, although it is true that lads of American birth have of late years ceased to evince any decided inclination for a life on the ocean. No other maritime nation compares favorably with the United States as regards the wages, the food and the accommodation afforded to seamen in carrying craft. Moreover, despite the statements of foreign nautical novelists to the contrary, the treatment of sailors by the officers of deep-water sailing ships under the American flag is quite as merciful and considerate, to say the least, as is vouchsafed to them under any other flag. As a rule there is no ship afloat so well paid, well fed and so comfortable as the American ship. All the officers of an American ship who have charge of a watch must be citizens; and somewhat similar restrictions hold as to the crews of our contract mail steamers. It may be taken that, under present conditions, at least one-half the men and all the watch-keeping officers of a United States contract mail steamer, under the act of 1864, as amended in 1896, owe allegiance to the flag under which they gladly sail.

In 1901 the percentage of Americans in American ships was 35; but, owing to an impetus given to naturalization, this percentage had increased to 46 in 1902. Taking 654 sea-going vessels, the commissioner of navigation found last year that, out of 13,879 men employed on board of them, not fewer than 4378 were born Americans, 1077 were naturalized Americans, 2347 were Britishers and the remainder were a cosmopolitan crowd of every color, of every race and of every religion. Of 40,000 men, exclusive of masters, employed in American vessels over 100 tons trading on salt water, about 21,000 are Americans, either born or naturalized, and the remaining 19,000 are foreigners. Owing to the fact that every officer must be an American, it naturally follows that men of English-speaking races take out naturalization papers more readily than perhaps they otherwise would; and citizenship, either actual or intended, is required of members by the seamen's unions on both the Atlantic and the Pacific coast. Sweden, Norway and Denmark help with about 4800 men toward the crews of American vessels, mostly as sailors in sailing ships; Germans number 2000; Spaniards, principally as firemen and trimmers, number about 1000; Russians come to the same total; there are apparently 800 Italians, in nearly every capacity, for they have been a maritime nation for many centuries; about 700 Portuguese, who principally confine their services to whaling and fishing vessels of New Bedford and of Gloucester; there are a few Chinese and Japs; and the acquisition of the Philippines has opened out another source of supply of seamen for American ships.

While foreigners are absolutely necessary at present to man our ships, it is well to induce the most respectable ones to become naturalized as soon as they have the right.

They say that both the halliards and the sheets of the Reliance will be handled below decks, so that in the most exciting parts of the great international race a good part of the crew will be out of sight, like stokers and gunners on a battleship.

As the imports under the high Dingley tariff are 40 per cent more than they were under the low Wilson tariff, the high protectionists will probably be demanding that the tariff be made still higher.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Complaint made. Style bad in Gossip column. Too loquacious. Lacks ginger. Complaint right. We'll save space. Here's new style. Something bing, bing— to the point.

General gossip condensed:

Ed F. Little. Registers Chicago; lives Wayzata. Good fellow and all that. Has no towns named after him. Little Falls, Little Rock, Little Big Horn, Tinyville and Smalltown. He would have to look on map to locate those. Except Little Big Horn.

Several sayings about him. "Little is better than nothing." "Man wants but Little here below; nor wants that Little long." "Twinkle, twinkle, Little star." Useful name.

Ex-song-and-dance man. Sells millinery now. Tries to sing and dance occasionally yet. Failure. Fine business man.

Big hearted; sorry for homless felines. All he sees takes home. Has a big collection. Costly charity. Figures how to get rid of cats. Sees neighbor.

Neighbor says:

"Lots of cats. Why keep them?"

Little says:

"Belong to old showman. Worth $150 apiece. Trained cats. I'm keeping cats in summer till season opens."

Neighbor looks enviously at cats.

"How much?"

"Can't sell. Not mine."

Neighbor longs.

"I'll let you keep cats till owner comes. Me personally responsible, so take good care."

Cats now have home and neighbor is tickled to death.

Oscar Hanson. Old time drummer. Knows hundreds in Duluth. Careful man. Methodical. Tells good stories. All round good fellow. At the St. Louis hotel lately. Out again later.

Trip to Wausau, Wis. Hotels crowded there. Has to stay over night. No room. Given cot in hall.

In clothes, $85.

Places trousers under pillow. Sleeps soundly. Wakes up. Hurry to catch train. Feels in pocket to buy ticket. Not a cent. Can't buy.

Back to hotel. Borrows car fare. Thinks joke of brother traveling men. Gets to St. Paul. Don't hear about joke. Still out $85.

Matter of fact no joke.

Hanson still has faith in joke. Will be badly fooled. Due here soon.

"It depends on the man. Sometimes it's his head and sometimes his feet."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Yes," said his wife's mother, "I see it was a mistake for my daughter to marry you at all. She is just as different from you in every respect as she can be."

"Well, well," replied the great brute, "how you flatter me."

Baltimore News: "The money question," declared the campaign orator, "is no longer regarded as an issue." There was a stir in the back of the hall as half a dozen patriots strode majestically out into the night air. "Dey don't git our franchises f'r nuttin'," muttered the disgusted chorus.

Chicago Post: "I really think you ought to go to church with me once in a while," she urged.

"My dear," replied the wily man, "my good fortune makes that entirely unnecessary. I have a wife who is good enough for two."

Philadelphia Press: "Wordley tells me he has been working on his family tree of late."

The Doctor's Advice.

Tit-Bits: The doctor looked serious.

"You should be very careful for at least a month," he said.

"Is it as bad as all that?" asked the patient, anxiously.

"If the result is to be satisfactory as I would like to have it, you cannot follow the rules that I lay down too carefully."

"I will do exactly as you say," said the now thoroughly alarmed patient. "A—am I eating too heartily?"

"Much too heartily. You should eat simpler food and not so much of it. If you follow my advice you'll cut your butcher's and grocer's bills just about in half."

"I'll do it, doctor."

"You ought to take more exercise, too," continued the physician. "How do you go to your office now?"

"By 'bus."

"Stop it at once. You must walk to and from your office every day, rain or shine. Do you ever go to the theater?"

"Quite often."

"You mustn't do it while you're under my care. How about smoking?"

"I smoke, of course, but only in moderation."

"Don't smoke at all," instructed the physician. "Throw away all your cigars, and don't buy another for thirty days at least, or I'll give up the case."

"I'll do it, doctor; but—but——"

"Do you drink?"

"Occasionally, but I——"

"Stop it entirely."

"A little claret on the table now and then ought not to——"

"Not a drop at any time."

"All right, doctor. What next?"

"Nothing. Follow these instructions closely for thirty days, and by that time——"

"Yes?" said the patient, eagerly. "By that time what?"

"By that time," repeated the doctor, "you ought to have saved enough to pay me the balance due on that little bill you have owed me for a matter of about eighteen months. Good day."

In the Dim Future.

Judge: It is the year 1999. The fond young husband — husbands have not changed—sits at the breakfast table. His helpful young wife—wives have changed—comes in from the kitchen, bearing a plate heaped high with biscuits of her own making. The fond husband bites into one, then munches the bite with an air of critical study. Nervously she awaits the verdict.

"They are my first effort," she murmurs. "How do you like them?"

Then is corroborated all that scientists have written concerning the eternal influences of heredity.

"Fairly good," concedes the fond young husband; "fairly good. But there are not so good as my father used to say his father said he had heard his father claim that his father's grandmother used to make."

What Col. Watterson Thinks.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Briefly, the scheme is this: to force Mr. Cleveland's nomination by the arts of the blackmailing mugwump and the money of the syndicate, and, having him nominated, to buy New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and the one additional vote necessary to elect, relying upon the solid South, reduced to a choice between Cleveland and Roosevelt, to take Cleveland. That is all. And it is great because it is so simple. If it works, so much gain. If it appears faulty as the final trial approaches Mr. Cleveland has only to draw out, as he did from the goldbug Indianapolis convention, declaring that no one was authorized to put him in nomination. But in the meantime, though Mr. Bryan speculate and Mr. Vilas deny, Mr. Cleveland cannot be induced to utter the decisive word, which would at once stop the chatter.

Who tamed your lawless Tartar blood?
What David bearded in her den,
The Russian bear in ages, when
You strode your black, unbridled stud,
A skin-clad savage of your steppes?
Why, one who now wails out to you—
The Jew, the Jew, the homeless Jew.

Who girt the thews of your young prime
And bound your fierce, divided force?
Why, who but Moses shaped your course,
United down the grooves of time?
Your mighty millions all today,
The hated, homeless Jew obey,
Who taught all poetry to you?
The Jew, the Jew, the hated Jew.

Who taught your tender Bible tales
Of honey-lands, of milk, and wine?
Of happy, peaceful Palestine?
Of Jordan's holy harvest vales?
Who gave the patient Christ? I say,
Who gave your Christian creed? Yea, yea,
Who gave your very God to you?

MR. JUSTICE FINNEMORE

Judge of the Natal Supreme Court Sends the Following Remarkable Testimonial for the Cuticura Remedies.

THE WORLD IS CUTICURA'S FIELD.

"I desire to give my voluntary testimony to the beneficial effects of your Cuticura Remedies. I have suffered for some time from an excess of uric acid in the blood; and since the middle of last year, from a severe attack of Eczema, chiefly on the scalp, face, ears and neck and on one limb. I was for several months under professional treatment, but the remedies prescribed were of no avail and I was gradually becoming worse, my face was dreadfully disfigured and I lost nearly all my hair. At last, my wife prevailed upon me to try the Cuticura Remedies and I gave them a thorough trial with the most satisfactory results. The disease soon began to disappear and my hair commenced to grow again. A fresh growth of hair is covering my head, and my limb (although not yet quite cured) is gradually improving. My wife thinks so highly of your remedies that she has been purchasing them in order to make presents to other persons suffering from similar complaints, and, as President of the Bible Women's Society, has told the Bible women to report if any case should come under her notice when a poor person is so afflicted, so that your remedies may be resorted to."

St. Paul Story of State Auditor's Range Visit Denied.

Incorrect Reports on State Land Outputs Are Impossible.

The St. Paul Globe has concocted and published what appears to be one of the wildest and woolliest pipe dreams that has been produced in the Northwest in a long time.

Yesterday morning it published a story to the effect that the recent visit to this section of State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson was designed to discover whether or not the state is getting a square deal out of its royalties on state leases of iron mines, and that he had found out that the mining companies holding state leases had not been turning in anywhere near the amounts of ore they had actually mined.

Iron men say this is pure "pipe," and all the evidence goes to bear out this theory. In the first place, the article was published before Mr. Iverson had returned to St. Paul, and when the Globe could have had no opportunity of conferring with him. In the second place the article was written as though the auditor's visit was some time ago, when as a matter of fact it had not been completed when the article was written. In the third place, it would be practically impossible for the mining companies, if they were so minded, to make short reports on their output from state lands, because the actual shipments from all the mines are known and published all over the country, and because, last, but not least, the state has a man that measures the output of properties mined under leases from the state.

Mr. Iverson's visit here was in connection with an entirely different matter. He came here to look over Longyear lake, with a view to determining whether the state has the mineral rights under the lake, or the owners of abutting property. The attorney general, it is understood, has advised him that the state may legally issue mineral rights to the lands under the lake. Mr. Iverson came up to look the ground over on this point, and he is not convinced that the attorney general is correct in his views. The Chisholm Townsite company owns the land on one side of the lake, and M. H. Alworth and others own the land on the other side. These owners claim mineral rights under the lake themselves.

County Auditor Halden talked with Mr. Iverson while he was here, and he denies most emphatically that the story published by the Globe had anything to do with the state auditor's visit, either directly or indirectly. There has been an application for a state lease to mine under Longyear lake, and it was this that he was investigating.

Joseph B. Cotton, counsel for the mines and railroads, when asked about the story this morning, said: "It appears to be a pure and unadulterated fabrication. The state has a man that measures the output from state lands, and is in the same position as any other fee owner."

W. A. McGonagle, vice president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, said that the state is furnished with a full record of every ton of ore put out from state properties, and with a complete total of all ore hauled. The reports are published all over the country. All fee owners, including the state, have their own system of keeping a check on ore mined and shipped from the properties in which they are interested.

THE JURY IS DISCHARGED

Agreement Not Reached In the Tanko Murder Case.

The jury that tried John Tanko for the murder of George Bollich was unable to reach an agreement after twenty-two hours deliberation, and was discharged by Judge Dibell, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At the time the jurors were discharged the court warned them about talking of the case to others for the reason that it might make it a difficult matter to get a new unprejudiced jury when the case comes up for a new trial at the present term of court.

Different rumors have been current as to how the jury stood, one being that no more than five were agreed at any time, and another that nine stood out for conviction of murder in the first degree and three for acquittal. The impression given by the questions asked the court when the jury came back for instructions yesterday morning was that the opinion of the jurors was divided on the different degrees of murder and that of manslaughter.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Chicago Post: An Indianapolis pastor advocates the Saturday half-holiday in order to insure a proper keeping of the Sabbath. He probably argues that when Sunday comes the person who had his fun the day before will be too tired to do anything but go to church.

Baltimore American: Iowa ministers are agitating for a state marriage board to regulate the heart affairs of the youths and maidens of the state. When they have succeeded in subjecting Cupid to the demands of reason and science, they ought next to turn their attention to the regulation of winds, the suppression of tornadoes, the regularity of the rainfall and other little details within the management of human ingenuity.

Philadelphia Record: The proposition to change the name of the Protestant Episcopal church was voted down by large majorities of both clergy and laity in this diocese. In New Jersey there was a large majority against it in the laity and a small majority against it in the clergy. In Washington the convention voted nearly four to one against a change. In Florida there was a small majority for adopting the name "American Catholic." Louisiana voted against any action now. In Mississippi the laity were almost unanimously against the change, but a majority of the clergy favored it.

Cleveland Leader: The movement for an agreement among the clergy of the various denominations not to remarry divorced persons gives promise of doing much to elevate the moral tone of the people of the United States in one very important respect. While divorce is sometimes justifiable, and while there are many divorces in which no stigma is cast upon the character of the innocent party to the proceedings, it is a fact, nevertheless, that divorce is a great and growing evil, which is doing more than anything else to deprive the home of its sacred character. If divorce were only granted upon the scriptural ground, and the innocent party were then permitted to remarry, the problem might not be so difficult of solution, but the causes for which divorce may be granted are so numerous and so varied under the laws of the different states that nothing short of an agreement among the churches not to remarry divorced persons can be depended upon to check the growth of the evil.

A Common Error

It's a common error to plaster the back—to rub with liniment the rheumatic joints—and then to wonder why relief doesn't come.

The aching back—the rheumatic joints come from sick kidneys—and plasters and liniments won't cure sick kidneys. You've got to get at the kidneys from the inside—You've got to make them well. Well kidneys keep the blood rich and pure—Leave no excuse for backache and rheumatic pains.

Doan's Kidney Pills

make well kidneys. They are endorsed by Duluth citizens. Your own friends and neighbors have used them, and testify to their merit. You couldn't have more positive proof than

DULUTH PROOF.

Mrs. Letitie Cole, living at 513 Second avenue east, says: "During five or six years I suffered a great deal with my kidneys, and at times was very bad, especially if I caught cold or over-exerted myself. My health was generally run down and I felt used up. There was a constant, heavy, dull, aching pain across the small of my back and in the kidneys. The secretions from these organs were unnatural and deposited a heavy sediment. I tried different remedies at different times, but did not succeed in getting anything that would help me. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended I procured a box at the Duluth Drug company's and began to use them. They helped me at once and I rapidly grew better and stronger. I cannot speak too highly of Doan's kidney Pills and I unhesitatingly recommend them to others."

SECRET IS TOLD

How Mississippi River Steamboat Sultana Was Blown Up.

Was Revenge Upon the Part of an Old Farmer.

Wheelign, W. Va., May 23.—For nearly thirty-three years the secret of the causes of the Sultana disaster has remained locked in the bosoms of three men. One of the trio is dead; the second, a distinguished citizen of the West Virginia Panhandle, gave the following interview, in which he tells circumstantially how the Sultana came to her awful end. The disaster is so familiar to the reading public that its retelling now is unnecessary, further than to recall that the Sultana, a fine, large Mississippi river sidewheeler, coming up the Mississippi, took on board 2400 Union soldiers at Vicksburg, who were en route home after the surrender of Lee.

A short distance below Memphis the boat's boilers exploded and 1300 persons were killed or drowned. It has always been supposed that the explosion was due to the carelessness of the engineer, who was killed.

The West Virginian alluded to makes this statement:

"As the cause of the fearful explosion of the boilers of the Sultana has remained a mystery, I have concluded to give the real facts in the case, as, so far as I know, there is but one other person living to whom this story was told by the perpetrator of the deed, thirty-eight years ago. The engineer who lost his life has no doubt been severely and unjustly censured for carelessness, when, as a known fact, engineers are always more careful and watchful, measuring the water in the boilers often, when the boat is loaded with such a vast multitude of human freight.

"Of the over 800 steamboats of different rivers plying to and from the port of New Orleans prior to 1861, I may say all used wood for making steam. Many wood yards were kept on the river bank from Memphis down, and planters sold cordwood to the steamboats.

"An old farmer living some distance below Vicksburg, and who kept a wood yard for many years, was greatly annoyed by the Union gunboats and transports taking his wood without compensation. He had taken no part in the war, though a strong sympathizer with the Confederates, and had taken the oath of allegiance to the United States government, removed his family from the plantation and determined to remain on the place and manage it himself.

"He was regarded as a 'rebel' by the officers and marines of the gunboats that often lay in the river in front of his place. Frequent raids were made on his plantation and all kinds of property confiscated; cattle, hogs, goats and cordwood were taken both by gunboats and transports. He was frequently arrested and charged with disloyalty, called a rebel, traitor, etc.

"He was greatly attached to an old and faithful negro servant, who had grown up with him from a boy, and to whom he had granted many privileges, by which the servant had accumulated nearly $3000 dollars. This old servant was loyal to his master and had many Confederate friends. He made frequent visits to Natchez and purchased medicine and dry goods and smuggled them through the lines for his friends. In some way he was detected by the guards and cast into prison, put into a sweat box for nine days and severely whipped. Finally, when released, he came home very much emaciated and suffered from his ill treatment till his death. His master felt keenly this harsh treatment of his old and faithful servant.

"While brooding over this injury his hatred of the Union troops was further inflamed by the following circumstance: One afternoon, about 4 o'clock, three young Confederate scouts, whom he had known from infancy, and who were his fiends, came across from Black river in a boat and asked for something to eat. Dinner was ordered, and while at table one of them happened to look through a side window and saw the yard full of marines from the gunboats. The three made a rush for the back door and for their boat, which was tied to the garden fence at the rear of the garden, which was not overflowed. The marines opened fire on them as they ran and killed one of them as he crossed the garden. The other two reached their dugout and made their escape to the woods.

"The planter remained in his house, fearing if he went out he would be killed on the spot. Some of the officers entered the house, when he explained how these Confederates happened to be there. The officers were humane men and said they could not see how he could well refuse to give his friends something to eat. He did not venture out of his house till after dark, when the two young men returned to search for their comrade, whose fate they did not know. They found him dead in the garden, where he had been shot, placed his body in their boat and carried him to Black river, where they laid him on the top of the ground and built a mound of earth over him, as the country was all under water except a narrow strip on the bank of the river, and there it remains to this day.

"This final addition to his list of wrongs determined the planter on a scheme of revenge on at least one of the gunboats, which he regarded as the immediate cause of all his troubles. Knowing the scarcity of fuel and that the officers were sure to levy on all his wood soon for themselves and other boats, he had a considerable amount corded on the bank. Selecting a large round stick of ash, he split it with an ax, hollowed it out and carefully put two pounds of gunpowder in a strong bottle, which he wrapped with copper wire, put a fuse in it, placed it in the hollowed-out ash log, put the pieces together and wrapped with copper wire, drawing it tight that the bark might hide the wire as much as possible, then mudded the whole stick well to conceal everything, and placed it in the middle of one of the cords of wood.

"That night the Sultana steamed up the river and 'wooded' at his landing. That particular stick was not heaved under the boiler till the Sultana reached Cat island, twelve miles above Memphis, where such awful havoc was made of human life.

"The old planter has been dead fifteen years. He never expressed a regret, though considered a kind-hearted man. He seemed rather satisfied that he had 'gotten even' for all the indignities that had been heaped on him and many others."

Output of Gold and Silver.

It is asserted that more gold and silver is taken out of our mines now in one year than was known to be in the entire world a century ago. During the past year the United States was credited with one-third of the output of the whole world, and while this country is so rich in minerals and metals, it is also the possessor of the best family medicine. We refer to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The fact that it has been before the public for fifty years proves its value. Try it for flatulency, indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, constipation, biliousness, nervousness or malaria. It cannot help but do you good. HANNA IN FIGHT

For His Political Life and His Enemies Are Active.

Foraker Will Oppose Him, But Not In the Open.

Chicago, May 23.—Walter Wellman, in a Washington special to the Record-Herald, says:

Mark Hanna is engaged in what may be termed a struggle for his political life. This year he is to wage a campaign for re-election to the senate and his enemies, chief among whom is Senator Foraker, are trying to defeat him. As is usually the case, Mr. Foraker does not come out into the open, but is fighting under cover. So far as all outward appearances go the two senators from Ohio are on friendly footing. But actually they hate one another like poison. Most of the hatred is on Foraker's side because he is jealous of Hanna's success in the senate.

Mr. Foraker is a man of great ability. As a public speaker he easily outshines his colleague. Judging from the attainments and character of the two men most observers were willing to predict that Foraker would easily be the leading senator from Ohio. But it has not turned out that way. The senate is a body in which the greatest influence is acquired in the cloak rooms and not on the floor. It is in the cloak room—that is to say, in council—that Hanna is strong. Probably nine out of ten good judges of the relative standing of men in the senate if asked who is the most influential man in that body, would reply: "Aldrich, of Rhode Island," and probably seven of the ten, if asked who is next to him, would say: "Hanna, of Ohio."

Mr. Foraker is disappointed because his colleague is a bigger man in the the senate than he is. It was largely his pique and the fact that he has never been admitted to the inner council of leading and managing Republican senators which induced him to join hands with Quay last winter in an effort to establish a new controlling junta in the senate. Foraker is exceedingly adroit and clever and a most capable debater. If he could keep his temper under better control and suppress his animosities and jealousy he would be a great man.

Of course, Foraker had no show at the White House as long as McKinley was alive, though both McKinley and Hanna tried to treat him with justice and consideration. Mr. McKinley broke one of the rules of the president's social life in order to attend Senator Foraker's house warming and give the affair unusual eclat but Foraker's blood has plenty of iron in it and he hated McKinley to the end, as he now hates Mark Hanna. When Mr. Roosevelt came in Foraker made great efforts to get "next to the throne," and it has kept the president quite busy maintaining an even balance between the rivals.

Senator Hanna realizes that he has a lively fight on his hands, but he tells his friends that he will win it. He knows Foraker is against him more or less furtively and that the senior senator will do everything in his power to stir up trouble and drive Hanna out of the field and out of public life. But "Uncle Mark" is determined to win. It will be his last political battle. He will never manage another political campaign after this one is over. As he says: "I intend to whip 'em even if I resign my seat the next day." But, of course, he has no intention to resign. That is only his way of putting it.

MITCHELL IS OPTIMISTIC

He Says That the Labor Troubles Are Exaggerated.

New York, May 23.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, says he does not think the labor difficulties at present disturbing the country from ocean to ocean would continue after the end of this month.

"The strikes and differences in general between employes and employers are but temporary, in my opinion," said he. "They are no greater this year than they have been in former times. Throughout the month of April and the first of May, in fact, is the time for the renewal of contracts and the adjustment of whatever differences have grown up during the year. It is a sort of summer house cleaning. As I have said before, the difficulties presented this year are no greater than they have been in the past.

"The reason that labor is attracting so much attention at present is on account of the growth of trades' unionism. That organized labor has become a factor in the world's system of economy is evident and society must figure on it in all its evolutions.

"On the other hand, the formation of trusts, the policy of merging and forming great combines of capital are developments of the past two or three years, and where capital never met with public attention before its smallest move now is observed. As labor organizations affect capital more than any other thing in the universe, they also come into the glare of the limelight.

"There is no more trouble now between employer and employe than there has been in the past, nor are conditions any more serious, but the people are up with the times, and that is why they watch every move."

THE TWO G. A. R. POSTS

In Duluth will attend Sunday memorial services at the First Presbyterian church, on Sunday, May 24, 1903, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. All comrades of the G. A. R., all veterans of the civil war, both army and navy; all Sons of Veterans, or Spanish-American war veterans. The ladies of the G. A. R. Circle and members of the Women's Relief Corps are most cordially and earnestly invited to attend. Comrades will assemble at their post halls at 9:30 a. m. and march from there to the church. The ladies of the G. A. R. Circle and Women's Relief Corps are requested to attend in a body.

HENDERSON COMING BACK.

Will Probably Meet the President at Dubuque.

Dubuque, Iowa, May 23.—Word has been received that former Speaker Henderson and family will arrive in Dubuque next week. Whether it is their intention to remain here any length of time is not known, but it is believed to be the intention of the former speaker to be in Dubuque when President Roosevelt visits the city. Later he will go to Clermont to be present at the dedication of the monument erected there in his honor by e-Governor Larrabee.

Col. Henderson was in Los Angeles last week when the president visited there and took a prominent part in the reception.

MEMORIAL DAY

G. A. R. Posts Issue a Joint Request For General Observance.

Will Ask Mayor to Issue Proclamation and Close Saloons.

Veterans of the Grand Army are urging a more general and dignified observance of Memorial day.

They will ask Mayor Hugo to issue a proclamation for the closing of all saloons, and ask business men to shut at least from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon while the regular Memorial day exercises are in progress in the High School Assembly hall.

Dr. S. P. Long, pastor of the First Methodist church, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal Memorial address and other arrangements for the day are being made.

Yesterday afternoon a joint committee from the Culver and Gorman posts decided to issue the following request for the public, asking a more general observance of the day and tribute to the memory of the men that gave up their lives fighting for the Union:

1863—1903.

The forty years thus represented are wonderful years in the history of this country. 1863 was one of the civil war. In the East the battles of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg were the notable ones. In the West Grant's campaign for opening the Mississippi river begun in the fall of 1862, resulted in the surrender of Vicksburg, July 4. The battle of Chickamauga in September and Chattanooga in November—all favorable to the Union army—were great events in that year. What memories they recall.

Soon after the close of the war, a desire to perpetuate the memory of the heroic dead resulted in the observance of Decoration day, in which the graves of the Union dead were decorated with flowers. As time passed this day took on a larger scope and became what its name truly signifies—a Memorial day.

Saturday, May 30, will be the annual observance of that day. How shall this be done? As members of the Grand Army of the Republic, we desire to call the attention of the patriotic citizens of Duluth to this day, and ask their cooperation in making it truly memorial in character; a tribute to the memory of the heroes who gave their lives to preserve the Union, and made it possible for us to become the great nation we are today.

Since 1863, more than the average life of a generation has passed, and while many of the active participants in the stirring events of that year are still with us, to many of our citizens it is simply a matter of history. It is the desire of the Grand Army of the Republic to make Memorial day all that the term signifies—a day not given over to recreation, but one to commemorate the sacrifices of those engaged in that heroic struggle to preserve our institutions and our Union.

We have three national holidays—Memorial day being one. Is it asking too much of the citizens of Duluth for a time to lay aside their business and close down, that these three days have a fitting and a spirit of true patriotism devote a short time to the observance of these memorial exercises, and foster a spirit of loyalty to our national government?

At present the Grand Army takes the initiative in the observance of this day, but the time is coming when they will be too few in number to do this, and we desire to educate the people—to instill into them a desire to perpetuate this day, so that when the Grand Army as an institution shall be no more, all that Memorial day stands for will still be dear to the hearts of all loyal citizens.

The plans for the observance of Memorial day this year are simple. While we would like to do much more, we have not the means, and earnestly request the co-operation of all in aiding us in making it a success. Sunday, May 24, in the morning, the Grand Army, in its post organizations, and the Ladies of the G. A. R. Circle and the Women's Relief Corps will attend memorial services at the First Presbyterian church. All comrades and veterans of all wars of the United States are cordially invited to attend. On Friday, the 29th, details of veterans will visit the schools of the city; and on Memorial day, in the forenoon, services will be held at the various cemeteries, where the graves of our Union soldiers and sailors will be decorated and the memorial service will be performed. In the afternoon, at Assembly hall in the High School building, at 2 o'clock, will be public exercises in charge of Willis A. Gorman post No. 13, department of Minnesota. Dr. S. P. Long of the First M. E. church will deliver the address. We cordially urge everyone to attend these services.

At the close of service in Assembly hall the ladies of the Relief corps will go to the ship canal to strew flowers upon the water in memory of our naval heroes.

We earnestly appeal to the business men of our community to close their stores and places of business from 2 to 4 o'clock on Memorial day, to give all an opportunity to join with us in the service at Assembly hall. We believe this is not asking too much, and we make this request with the hope that it will meet with a hearty response.

SAYS STORY IS A MYTH

State Auditor Iverson Denies the St. Paul Globe's Canard.

State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson was as much surprised as anybody when he read the St. Paul Globe's story of how he had discovered enormous discrepancies in the returns of iron ore mined from state lands. He at once denied the story in toto, branding it as a myth. He said he had made no such discoveries and was not engaged in investigating the matter.

One of the duties of his office, he said, was to keep cases on state land and to see that the state got its proper royalties. This had been attended to in the past and he expected to continue to attend to it in the future. While he looked over the mines on his recent trip, it was merely out of curiosity and with no idea of collecting back royalties.

MARION BUTLER

Says Populists Will Have Presidential Candidate.

Washington, May 23.—Former Senator Marion Butler, chairman of the national Populist executive committee, does not believe that Populists generally will support President Roosevelt in the campaign next year.

"There may be individual cases," said Mr. Butler, "where Populists or members of the People's party will support Mr. Roosevelt for the presidency, but members of the party generally will not follow the lead of the candidate of either the Republican or Democratic party.

"The Democrats are going to nominate a man of the Cleveland type, and that will make the Populists throughout the country more loyal than ever to their principles and will cause their numbers to grow. The present situation makes it certain that the Populist party will put a candidate in the field for the presidency."

THE IOWA PLATFORM.

Senators and Congressman Cousins In Conference.

Dubuque, Iowa, May 23.—Senator Allison has been in conference in Dubuque with Senator Dolliver and Congressman Cousins. It is understood the conference was in regard to the coming state convention and the platform which is to be written by Senator Allison.

From these conferences and others that have been held it is known that the Republicans of the state have determined there will be a slight modification in the tariff plank which will be worded in such a way that Governor Cummins will not object to it. In this regard the platform will be a compromise and will satisfy the leaders, the idea being to do away with anything which will bring about disruption.

BRYAN ON CLEVELAND.

Says Latter's Nomination Would Disgrace the Party.

Lincoln, Neb., May 23.—Demoralization and disgrace will be the portion of the Democratic party if Mr. Cleveland should be nominated, is the opinion vouchsafed by Mr. Bryan in a page editorial in which he analyzes "The Lesson of 1904." He said:

"The reorganizers assert that to win is the important thing, but upon this low plane of discussion the Commoner is prepared to show that the Clevelandizing of the Democratic party would mean complete disaster rather than victory. A victory that would betray the people as they were betrayed by the victory of 1892 would be more disastrous than defeat, because it would weaken it for future contests.'

Mr. Bryan proved by figures that the congressional elections of 1894 showed a Republican popular majority twice as large as in 1896, pointing out that New York and New England were most emphatic in repudiating Clevelandism. He says:

"How can Cleveland's helping the Republicans in 1898 help him in reference to a Republican who agrees with them on that point? Would Democrats feel more kindly to him?

"Mr. Cleveland left the party demoralized and disgraced by his record. Even as a matter of expediency, the party cannot afford to travel again the road between 1892 and 1896."

PUPILS IN REVOLT

Because Teacher Tries to Suppress Gum Chewing.

Victor, Col., May 23.—A revolt has arisen in Washington school that threatens to involve the entire town in a factional fight. With the consent of Miss Howard, the principal, George Reeder, a teacher, has been trying to cure children of the gum habit by making them chew the stuff mixed with quinine. Miss Urquhart was punished this way, and her brother Clarence complained to Miss Howard, demanding that she stop the practice. He even went so far as to threaten the principal, who promptly called in Reeder, who grasped Urquhart and threw him out of the room with great violence. His body struck the door casing and his shoulder was severely bruised. The boys organized and mobbed the teachers with rotten eggs and stones as they left the school. The school board refuses to interere, and the parents say they will take the punishment of the teachers into their own hands.

Delicately formed and gently reared, women will find, in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives, or mothers, that the one simple, wholesome remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally, and which may be used with truly beneficial effects, under any conditions, when the system needs a laxative, is—Syrup of Figs. It is well known to be a simple combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants with pleasant, aromatic liquids, which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system when its gentle cleansing is desired.

Many of the ills from which women suffer are of a transient nature and do not come from any organic trouble and it is pleasant to know that they yield so promptly to the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs, but when anything more than a laxative is needed it is best to consult the family physician and to avoid the old-time cathartics and loudly advertised nostrums of the present day. When one needs only to remove the strain, the torpor, the congestion, or similar ills, which attend upon a constipated condition of the system, use the true and gentle remedy—Syrup of Figs—and enjoy freedom from the depression, the aches and pains, colds and headaches, which are due to inactivity of the bowels.

Only those who buy the genuine Syrup of Figs can hope to get its beneficial effects and as a guarantee of the excellence of the remedy the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package and without it any preparation offered as Syrup of Figs is fraudulent and should be declined. To those who know the quality of this excellent laxative, the offer of any substitute, when Syrup of Figs is called for, is always resented by a transfer of patronage to some first-class drug establishment, where they do not recommend, nor sell false brands, nor imitation remedies. The genuine article may be bought of all reliable druggists everywhere at 50 cents per bottle.

AT WEST DULUTH

The length of the school year was the principal subject under discussion at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening.

The majority of the members endorsed the action of the schoolboard in declaring for a school year of nine and one-half months with ten months' pay, although a few objected to allowing the teachers pay for the two weeks in which they did not work. The matter will be brought up again at the next meeting of the club and definite action taken either endorsing or condemning the action of the board.

It was decided to request E. W. Green to give another talk on street paving at the next meeting of the club. The members expressed regret that the paving of Central avenue was not to be commenced during the present season, but as the street will probably be torn up during the greater part of the summer by the Zenith Furnace company in order to lay the gas mains, it was agreed that little would be gained by having the work done this year.

Emil Zauft, W. B. Getchell and J. J. Frey were appointed a committee to call on the officials of the water and light department in an endeavor to induce the department to place the hydrants on Fifty-fifth avenue west on a line with the curb, and also to urge them to have all water connections with the buildings along the avenue made before the proposed new pavement is laid.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Go to Nygren's for wall paper.

John Flynn, of Grand Forks, is in the city on a business trip.

R. P. Conway, of Sioux City, Ia., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Julia Drummond, of Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Miss Amelia Garner is visiting friends in Virginia.

The roof of the tool house of the National Iron works was damaged by fire last evening. The blaze is supposed to have been started by a defective electric light wire.

A. L. Anton, of St. Paul, is in West Duluth today. He is arranging to move his family to West Duluth in the near futre.

Mrs. Andrew Hanson, of Fifty-seventh avenue west, was called to Eau Claire last evening by the serious illness of her mother.

Mrs. E. F. Johnson, of Eveleth, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. C. Clarke, of Fifty-eight avenue west.

Miss Mabel Barrett left last evening for a week's visit with friends in Minneapolis.

Fresh milch cows for sale. Lewis Mark, Sixty-first avenue.

The game between the West Duluth baseball team and the Cloquet team, which was to have been played tomorrow, has been cancelled on account of the condition of the grounds at Cloquet. Five of the Duluth team found impossible to get away tomorrow, and the postponement was not unwelcome to the West Duluth boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Murphy and Miss Gertrude Miller, of Grand Marais, arrived in West Duluth yesterday afternoon. They left last evening for St. Paul, where they will join the Minnesota Editorial association in its trip to Washington.

Mrs. Anna Hammer, of Fifty-sixth avenue west, died yesterday afternoon at her residence. The cause of her death was cancer, from which she had been suffering for a number of weeks. Four children survive her, John Hammer and Mrs. Robert Mitchell, of West Duluth, a son living in Duluth and a daughter in St. Paul. The funeral will take place Sunday, at 2 p. m., from the house.

Arthur Carter returned from Ashland yesterday.

George Jackson will leave during the early part of the week for the Pacific coast, where he intends to make his home in future.

J. A. Hempton has leased the Phillips hotel and is thoroughly refitting it. The house will be cleaned throughout, repapered and painted. Transients are requested to give the house a trial.

Peter Carey and W. A. Wadleigh left for the Pacific coast this week over the Northern Pacific. They intend to take up claims in that country and also locate a favorable site to establish a business house.

The Merrill & Ring mill will commence running with two shifts next week. Hitherto the mill has been running with a day shift only, but the night shift will be put on Monday night. About 200 men are employed on each shift. The St. Louis mill will also be running Monday.

Robert McClaren was arraigned before Justice Stone this morning on a charge of jumping his board bill. Joseph Cochran was the complaining witness. McClaren pleaded guilty and was fined $5, including the costs. He also settled with Mr. Cochran for the amount duo him.

The Zamona club gave the last of its monthly dances for the present season last evening in the Wieland and Wade hall. The dance was one of the most successful of the year, over forty couples being present. Bluett's orchestra furnished the music, and punch was served. A large delegation from Duluth and Superior were present. The party broke up about 12 o'clock, in order that the Duluth people might catch the last car home.

ORE STOCKS ON THE DOCKS

Amount on Lake Erie Docks Is Less Than Expected.

It was expected in vessel circles, as well as among the ore shippers, that stocks of iron ore on Lake Erie docks May 1 would exceed 4,000,000 gross tons, first on account of the great output from the Lake Superior region last season—27,571,121 tons—and again because of the inability of the furnaces to work to the full capacity during the long period in which they could not get all the coke that was needed. The ore was evidently moved to the furnaces in very large quantities during April, as reports from all the Lake Erie dock managers to the Marine Review show a total of only 3,592,367 tons on dock May 1, compared with 2,848,194 tons on the same date a year ago and 3,650,183 tons on May 1 two years ago. The total of more than three and a half millions now on dock is large, of course, but not large compared with what was expected. No account is taken in these figures of furnace stocks. Neither do they include ore placed on dock in April of this year, but that item was very small, only 85,785 tons. Practically all the ore brought down in April was shipped direct to furnaces.

A striking feature of these statistics is the amount of ore moved over Lake Erie docks to furnaces in the full year ended May 1, namely, 21,905,251 tons, as against 17,216,055 tons for the year ended May 1, 1902, or an increase of 4,689,183 tons. Shipments to furnaces over Lake Erie docks during the year just ended are more than double what they were in 1898, five years ago.

Figures showing the total ore passing to furnaces over Lake Erie docks in the year ended with the first of the present month are found in this way: We know that on Dec. 1, 1902, Lake Erie docks contained 7,074,254 tons of ore. If we deduct from this 3,592,367 tons, the amount now on dock, we find that shipments to furnaces from Lake Erie ports during the winter period (Dec. 1 to May 1) amounted to 3,481,887 tons, which, added to 18,423,364 tons, the amount shipped to furnaces during the navigation season of 1901, gives 21,905,251 tons as the entire consumption of ore from Lake Erie ports during the year ended May 1, 1903, against 17,216,065 tons in the year ended May 1, 1902, 15,882,881 tons in the year ended May 1, 1900; 12,122,982 tons in the year ended May 1, 1899, and 10,209,488 tons in the year ended May 1, 1898.

THE GRAIN MARKETS

Wheat Started Easy But Reacted and Ruled Firm.

Flax Trading Was Dull and the Market Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 23.—The wheat market started out weak and slightly lower this morning but later developed a steady tone and ruled fairly firm throughout the remainder of the session, closing with a small net decline. The opening easy condition was due to weak cables and rains in the West and Northwest, but a fair demand checked the decline.

The Liverpool market closed ½d lower to ½d higher and Paris ½c higher to ½c lower.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis, 153 cars, and at Chicago 35, a total of 188 cars, against 157 last week and 132 last year.

The visible supply is expected to show a decrease of 2,500,000 bushels this week. World's shipments are estimated at 11,000,000 bushels. Exports from America this week were 5,200,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of wheat were 360,000 bus., last year 359,000 bus. Shipments 524,000 bus., last year 322,000. Clearances of wheat and flour were 448,000 bus.

Corn in the Liverpool market closed ¾d higher. In the Chicago market July corn closed unchanged and July oats ⅛n higher. Primary receipts of corn were 940,000 bus., last year 248,000 bus. Shipments 369,000 bus., last year 246,000 bus. Clearances were 104,000 bus. Exports for the week were 1,834,000 bus.

The Duluth market was quiet and firm most of the morning, in spite of a weak opening.

July opened ¼c off at 78c, sold up to 78¾c at 10:37, reacted to 78¼c at 10:33 and continued its downward course, closing at 78¼c, a decline of ½c. May was unchanged and September ¼c off. In Chicago May declined 1c and sold 1c lower than that. July declined ⅝-¾c. In Minneapolis July advanced ⅝c and May ⅜c. New York May was off ¾ and July up ⅛c. Cash sales were 7600 bushels at May price for No. 1 northern and 2c under for No. 2.

Flax was dull and steady. July sold ½c up to $1.17, reacted to $1.16¾ and closed at that price. September fell ½c.

Following were the closing prices on the Duluth board:

Wheat—To arrive—No. 1 hard, 80¾c; No. 1 northern, 78¾c; No. 2 northern, 76¾c; May—No. 1 northern, 78¾c; July, 78¾c; September, 76¾c. Flax—In store, $1.15¾; September, $1.15¾; on track, $1.15¾; May, $1.15¾; July, $1.16¾; September, $1.18; October, $1.17½; November, $1.16. Oats—To arrive, 34¾-35c; on track, 34½-35c; May, 34c. Rye—To arrive, 50c; on track, 50c; May, 50c. Barley, 35@51c.

Receipts—Wheat, 17,260; oats, 3855; flax, 14,400. Shipments—Wheat, 260,533; oats, 49,400.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Steady With Little Desire to Sell.

Chicago, May 23.—Wheat opened a little easier on weak cables and generous rains West and Northwest, with July a shade to ½@¾c lower at 73⅝c to 73¾c. There was some selling by local traders soon after the opening, but on yesterday's bullish sentiment, there was little appearance of desire to unload much, and offerings were well taken, the demand being scattered. The market showed a steady tone later on and buying by shorts, July advanced to 74¼c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 153 cars, which with local receipts of 35 cars, made a total for the three points of 188 cars, against 157 last week and 132 a year ago.

Bearish crop advices, however, caused selling by local traders and some of the advance was lost, the close being easy for July at ⅛@¾c lower.

Slightly better cables and but small offerings gave a steady tone to corn at slightly lower prices, the opening in July being a shade lower at 44½@⅝c. Trading was small and with no features. The cash demand shows some improvement while local receipts are much larger—445 cars, with 25 of contract grade. Trade was fair. Crop reports indicate still further improvement, but bad little perceptible effect on the early market.

The steadiness was well maintained throughout the session and July after advancing on fair buying to 44⅝@⅞c, closed unchanged at 44⅝c.

Oats showed strength on very small offerings and crop situation, with July unchanged at 32⅝c. There was some covering by shorts early and commission houses were also buyers. Local receipts were 82 cars.

Provisions were about steady at the opening, but quiet and uninteresting. The light receipts of hogs caused prices to advance a trifle. September pork and lard being up 2½ to 5c, $16.82½ and $9.00, while ribs were 5c higher at $9.35.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Minneapolis Journal: The fight is on for control of July wheat in Minneapolis. Last year one of the "big three" milling firms, the Pillsbury-Washburn company, secured control of July early in the season, and the result was the memorable July corner, which put prices in that option to a high level and resulted in the highest premium ever known here for cash wheat. The spectacular finish of the July deal of last year when at the close prices fluctuated widely over a 5-cent range and touched the top and bottom figures four times in two minutes, is still fresh in the minds of local traders. This year the Washburn-Crosby company has appeared in the field and the two big firms are now running neck and neck. Every trader is debating with himself as to which is likely to win out. Meanwhile the trades in the pit are watched with the greatest interest and special significance is attached to every move of any broker thought to represent either of the big firms. To date there is not one man in the local pit who has been able to figure out to his own satisfaction the exact status of the contest. But the opinion prevails that the Washburn-Crosby company holds contracts for some millions of bushels of July wheat and if purchases of their pit representative yesterday and today would indicate that they have acquired more.

It is obvious that with stocks of wheat here on last Saturday only 9,247,838 bushels and a decrease of 1,250,000 so far this week, the available supply is melting away rapidly. To-morrow's report will show about 8,000,000 bushels of wheat here. Fourteen weeks must pass before any quantity of new spring wheat can come on the market. If the mills grind at only half capacity for this period, they will consume the entire stock, and will have to depend upon the receipts from the country for the balance of requirements, or at least 6,000,000. These are minimum figures. Hence the Northwest is in just the same position as when Henry Little got control of July last year, with this important difference, that stocks of wheat in country elevators, according to the report of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, are likely to run for eight or nine years, and stocks of old wheat still in farmers' hands are much below the average at this date. Hence the desire of the millers to get all the wheat they can.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago: Wheat—Broom hall estimates the world's shipments 12,000 bus, and little change on passage. The market here was irregular and operations entirely of a scalping character. The Southwest continues to send favorable crop reports, but not to a sufficiet degree to materially enlarge investment buying. The weather is generally favorable throughout the belt, but there were advices today of some damage by heavy rains in the Red River valley. The visible supply on Monday will show a fair decrease. It looks like a scalping market, and with the crop conditions in doubt, think wheat may be bought on sharp breaks. Stocks are light and there is not much pressure from that cause. Estimated cars for Monday, 35.

Corn—The market here was quiet. There is enough cash demand to make the local spot situation a fairly firm one. Speculative operations are not large, but the tendency of the local feeling is bearish, on the prospect of a large movement the next thirty days. The weather conditions are generally favorable for the crop. Estimated cars, 490.

Oats—The market here was very quiet and the spot situation still continues slow and the weather on the whole favorable for the growing crop. Whatever the conditions at the moment are, with favorable weather they are likely to improve and we think we would rather sell oats on the hard spots. Estimated cars, 245.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Free Selling of the United States Steel Shares.

Violent Break in St. Paul —Closing Active And Weak.

New York, May 23.—The opening stock market was dull and hesitating in tone. The principal active stocks showed slight declines, but there was a sprinkling of grains. Pennsylvania and New York Central opened down a shade and then rallied to a shade over last night.

Professional operators promptly sold the market freely on the news of further gold shipments to Argentina on Monday increasing the outgo to that point to $2,250,000. The selling was very general and the rapid decline in the U. S. Steel stocks had a depressing effect on the general trading. U. S. Steel preferred dropped 1¾. Losses of 1 to 1¾ were scored by St. Paul, Atchison, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Wheeling & Lake Erie, D. & H., Reading, Erie first and second preferred, U. S. Steel, Smelting, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Chicago Terminal preferred and Tennessee Coal. Lackawanna lost 1⅞ and Minneapolis & St. Louis 2¼.

A steady stream of liquidation continued to pour upon the market. A violent decline in St. Paul and the free selling of United States Steel stocks on rumors of closing down of the Chicago plants overcame the resistance at the few firm points, notably Pennsylvania. That stock yielded 2. St. Paul's extreme decline was 3¼. The list generally was 1 to 2 points lower than last night. Covering by shorts on the bank statement caused a momentary check to the decline, but later prices were lower. Minneapolis & St. Louis dorpped 5⅝. In the late dealings losses reached 2 points or over in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atchison, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Copper and other less prominent stocks. The close was active and weak at about the lowest.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf to Coe Commission Co.: The market sentiment is somewhat dampened by the strained relations between the Pennsylvania people and George J. Gould, a condition to which attention has been directed by the action of the Pennsylvania in cutting down hundreds of miles of Western Union poles and wire, the best opinions continue to favor the purchase of active stocks on the recessions. It is estimated by the Gould-Cassitt controversy is an ugly factor and the impression is quite general that the Pennsylvania is retaliating upon the Goulds for extending the Wabash into Pittsburg. Behind Gould, it is said, quietly pushing him on in the policy of aggression, is John D. Rockefeller. All this of course gives fear of a factional fight that might end disastrously to the stock market. It is considered highly important that crop conditions in both the winter wheat and corn belt have recently improved by general rains. The settlement of the strike troubles on the Union Pacific and the Great Northern also help to restore confidence. The statement of the C. & N. W. for April showing an increase of over $700,000 is regarded as additional proof of the satisfactory progress of earnings. As to the monetary situation, lower discounts abroad and weakness in exchange at home are the encouraging factors. More over the banks have gained from the interior this week so largely that the bank statement may prove better than expected.

Walker Bros. to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market opened quiet, but a selling movement developed early in the day, which continued throughout the entire session and stocks yielded. There was especial weakness in St. Paul, which was sold down in large blocks and there was every evidence of heavy liquidation in this stock. While the success of the new Pennsylvania stock underwriting seems to be assured, the fact of necessity existing for such underwriting was construed by not a few to mean an unsatisfactory financial consideration, and one not indicative of higher prices for the present. There was evidence towards the close of short selling by large speculators. The lagor question is the most important at this time and fear that further troubles are preventing much money from going into investments. The market closed weak at about the lowest prices of the day.

W. H. Laidley & Co.: The stock market turned weak today on rather free liquidation and renewed attacks closing quite faterially lower than yesterday. The bank statement was good and should have been discounted. Conditions generally with the exception of labor troubles are favorable, but sentiment was rather bearish. We feel, however, that prices should be seen to improve next week and advise the purchase of stocks upon the breaks.

J. S. Bache to Paine, Webber & Co.: The unexpected break in Steel at the opening this morning destroyed what little bullish feeling had been caused by the advance in prices yesterday. This was followed by attacks on St. Paul and Union Pacific, which yielded easy, the former selling at the lowest price seen for a long time. The concert of action against the leading stocks indicated a well planned raid by the bears. After the selling pressure was removed the market became lifeless and showed little rallying power. The bank statement came as expected. The market responded, but feebly at first after the bank statement was received and then declined rapidly, closing weak at lowest prices of the day.

New York to W. H. Laidley & Co.: It is rumored grangers will advance a point or two by the help of well known operators, who will try to bring about a decline. The talk on Brooklyn Rapid Transit is very bullish. The bank statement hinges on the question of loans. If there is a decided increase the market will probably advance or at least hold its own.

F. M. Dick to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market has been extremely weak today, suffering from heavy selling for both accounts, growing fear of serious consequences as to the outcome of the Pennsylvania, Western Union fight has much to do with the new bearishness. Rallies were feeble and at the close stocks showed a weak tone. Two hundred thousand dollars additional gold was taken for shipment to South America, otherwise there was no news.

Harris, Gates & Co.: During the last week there has been some rather heavy buying of investment stocks by insurance companies. Two insurance companies are known to have invested slightly over $1,000,000 in Pennsylvania and Louisville & Nashville, and there is reason for believing that several other insurance companies have also been buying stocks during the last few days. These purchases have been made in the open market and without violating any confidence, it can be said that the brokers who issued the orders expect that this investment buying by insurance companies will continue for some while.

F. M. Dick to Paine, Webber & Co.: The Pennsylvania underwriters will receive 2½ per cent. This operation while a confession of weakness on the part of the company, removes a great menace in the market, though it is not improbable that the stock may sag as a number of underwriters will undoubtedly sell as a hedge against their commitments. It is unlikely that the stock will decline much. The general market, with the exception of St. Paul looks pretty well. In this latter stock people who were buying it above 190 are selling it around present prices. Barring unfavorable developments, we think the market a purchase on all declines.

Chicago Record-Herald: There is a general disinclination to buy wheat at this time of the year," says William T. Baker, "and I have the popular hesitancy about owning grain as June approaches. I have believed from the outset, though, that the stimates on this crop were exaggerated. I have thought that the crop was impaired in the fall by Hessian fly, and I am convinced now that prospect was reduced by the freeze of early May. Cold weather never discloses its effect on a wheat crop until harvest. It does not injure the blade, but it does occasionally kill the germ. I am convinced we are to have this year a good foreign demand and possibly the best we have ever had. I am disposed to agree with some very good men in the trade that the consumption of wheat has overtaken and perhaps passed the supply. We have had a period of almost thirty years since the breaking of the land in the Northwest, during which wheat supplies have been increasing and short sellers have been almost interrupted money makers, but the signs are there is to be a period of the other sort, brought about by increased speculation, by wheat land abandonment and by other causes. If this is true it is really the most important feature of the price making, and ought to be borne in mind in the forming of price theories."

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was again heavy and lower. While some of the pressure is due to bear operations, yet there is a steady liquidation of stocks and apparently a good deal of it comes from inside sources. There is no doubt that the labor situation is largely responsible. The outlook for the summer in this respect is decidedly bad. With these conditions general all over the country, the public is not in the market to any extent and is not likely to come in. The bank statement was neutral and the financial situation at the moment is not much of a factor. We still think stocks are a sale on the rallies and that ultimately lower prices are likely.

COPPER GOSSIP.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market broke on the report of a cut in price of steel billets, which indicates that consumptive demand for iron products was decreasing. The bank statement was also considered unfavorable. On the decline, coppers showed as good buying as anything. Trading sentiment bearish and the short interest in stocks is increasing.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 3.—The subsiding tendency of speculation in the cotton market noted here yesterday, was reflected in Liverpool this morning, where price changes were narrow that market closing unchanged to 2 lower. The market opened at a decline of 3@6 points on the bat generally, while May still dominated by its speculative position, was 6 points higher.

Trading was quiet and there seemed little disposition to sell at the decline. After a brief interval of irregularity the bull leaders bought moderately and rallied prices to about last night's finals.

Cotton futures closed steady. May 11.50; June 11.19; July 11.09; August 10.70; Sept. 9.79; Oct. 9.45; Nov. 9.27; Dec., 9.25; Jan. 9.25. Spot closed quiet; 5 points lower. Mid ups 12.00; Mid gulf 12.25. Sales 185 bales.

TREASURY BALANCES.

Washington, May 22.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption shows: Gold, $105,265,513; silver, $22,924,908; United States notes, $3,208,297; treasury notes of 1890, $91,545; national bank notes, $9,731,995; total receipts this day, $1,842,247; total receipts this month, $34,058,216; total receipts this year, $501,087,718; total expenditures this day, $1,501,000; total expenditures this month, $33,120,000; total expenditures this year, $464,119,800; deposits in national banks, $155,092,771.

BANK STATEMENT.

New York, May 23.—The statement of averages of the clearing house banks of this city for the week shows: Loans $925,403,100; decrease $5,376,100; deposits $914,611,100, decrease $4,224,400; circulation $44,204,000, decrease $65,900; legal tenders $71,572,500, increase $1,428,400; specie $166,095,000, increase $2,744,400; reserve $237,675,500, decrease $1,326,000; reserve required $228,652,775, decrease $1,556,100; surplus $9,222,725, increase $230,100. Ex U. S. deposits $18,555,975, increase $229,350.

REGRETS!

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen
The saddest are these: It might have been."

THE Quaker poet's words have come true, over and over again in every person's experience. Don't let these words come true again, because you failed to get Northern Homestake Mining Company Stock when you could buy it at 20 cents on the dollar. Recollect that when it goes to par, the profit to those who buy now will be 500 per cent. This is NOT offered as a mere stock deal. On the contrary, the managers will only offer stock until a certain stage of development is reached, when the company can get all the money it needs, and then when it becomes a dividend payer, stock cannot be had except at VERY high prices.

RECOLLECT THESE POINTS:

1st—The property almost adjoins the great Treadwell Mines.
2nd—It has more than half a mile of the same lode and the same length of a much larger and richer vein.
3d—That it is on navigable water and has abundant water power and every advantage for cheap and profitable mining and milling.
4th—It is as attractive as anything in mining or any business enterprise.
5th—Stock will not remain at the present low price a great while.
Write or call and talk it over, and get a prospectus.

Steamer Tionesta Arrives In Duluth on Maiden Trip.

Saluted By Whistles From All Craft In the Harbor.

To the accompaniment of salutes from nearly every craft in the harbor, the new steamer Tionesta of the Anchor line, drew in between the piers at 8:30 this morning.

The beautiful new steamer presented a very pretty sight as she came up the lake before a strong northeaster with flags flying from every mast.

The trip of the Tionesta up the lakes has been one of continuous ovation. Every craft that has passed her has saluted the new steamer. At Detroit the depature of the vessel on her maiden trip was the occasion for a salute from nearly every steam whistle in the harbor and at Sault Ste Marie and Houghton her arrival caused similar outbursts. Crowds visited the new steamer at each of the three cities to inspect her interior arrangements and fittings. The Duluth public will have an opportunity of visiting the Tionesta from 2 until 6 tomorrow afternoon.

The dimensons of the Tionesta are as follows: Length, 360 feet; beam 45 feet; depth 28 feet.

She is one of the largest and fastest passenger steamers on the lakes, having a maximum espeed of from 20 to 21 miles per hour.

ACTIVITY IN SMALL SALES IN REALTY

Condition of Market Fairly Satisfactory For That Reason—Building Propositions Abandoned a Short Time Ago Are Again Coming Into Life.

"Conditions are fairly satisfactory," said a prominent real estate broker yesterday afternoon. "True, the local market has not been particularly active as regards large sales, but what is better yet, there have been plenty of small sales right along this month, and there is a strong tendency toward buying for improvement. I firmly believe that matters are shaping themselves for a stronger market later on in the summer. Inquiry continues very good; in fact, about all our spare time is being taken up in showing properties to people who are looking for homes or who intend to build if they can get a location at satisfactory prices. Improved property prices have strengthened materially in this city since last year, and it requires no little planning and ingenuity on the part of the broker to get the buyer and seller together. One of the hardest things to contend with is the feeling on the part of some buyers that prices are too high. Perhaps some of those same people made inquiries on the same property last year, and when they learn that the owners have put the price still higher this year, it is no easy matter to get the parties together."

The building propositions which fell off considerably a month or six weeks ago are said to be picking up again. The local architects are very busy these days getting out new plans for moderate-prices houses. While it is generally understood that not all the people who are getting out plans will build homes this summer, still there are some of the number who are pretty sure to let contracts after the bids are called for, and others will postpone the matter another year, with the hope of getting cheaper building material. A prominent contractor says there is not so much work in sight at the present time for the contractors as a little earlier in the spring. At that time there was a lot of new work planned for completion in May and June. Some of the May work, owing to unavoidable delays, will run a couple of weeks into June, but on the whole the new work is pretty well up to date. Bids that will be called for very soon on new work will be for houses and flats to be completed by the first of next September or before snow flies."

The loan business seems to be fairly active. Several loan agencies report the placing of building loans during the past week. It is claimed that money is not quite as easy as it was a few weeks ago, and the tendency is more toward 6 than 5 per cent money.

George H. Crosby says: "We have had a busy week making loans, renting houses, and have sold five properties, aggregating $8850. Oscar Dittman has purchased the east half of lot 67, block 121, Duluth proper, Third division, for $775. We have sold a lot on Helm street for $575, a cottage in the West End for $1400. John H. Grothiem has purchased a residence on lots 11, 12 and 13, block 56, Portland division, for $4000. The residence is known as 1021 East Second street, and Mr. Grothiem will take up his future residence there instead of Virginia, Minn., Lots 15 and 16, block 73, Portland division, or the upper corner of Eighth avenue east and Third street, have been sold to Blake Lucius for $2100. It is the owner's intention to have three modern flat buildings erected on the property.

Mr. Lyons, of W. M. Prindle & Co., reports a very busy week, the firm's sales including the following: Two lots at the East End for $5000; a property on Piedmont avenue for $2400, two lots on Garfield avenue for $400, a West Duluth property for $1500, and another for $3200, a West End house and lot for $1365, centrally located residence properties for $2750, $2600, $2450 and $3000 respectively, a house and lot on East Fifth street for $3000, three East End houses for $2650, $2200 and $5500 respectively and a lot on Fourth avenue east for $3200.

Building operations are quite noticeable in the new residence district that has developed near the normal school within the past year. Properties for residence sites are finding a ready sale, and a good inquiry is being noted for them. The indications point to more residence building in this one district the coming year than in any other part of the city, within similar area. Mr. Richardson, of Richardson & Day, reports the sale of two lots on East Fifth street, in Highland Park, a lot on Sixth street, near the same location, two lots on Twenty-fifth avenue east, not far from the normal school, two lots on East Second street, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth avenues, a lot on Third street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues east and a lot in West Duluth.

Mr. Pulford, of Pulford & How, says that the realty business has not been quite so active with the firm the past week, but it has been placing a number of building loans.

Young & Nystrom, architects, report a large amount of prospective work. Among other things they are preparing plans for a modern thirteen-room residence to be built on the range for George E. Scott; a modern brick four-flat building, of five rooms each, to be built at 1927 West Third street, for A. J. Ledingham, a block of modern brick houses for P. H. McGraw at Fourth avenue east and Fifth street, and the remodeling of the Warner residence at Eighteenth avenue east and Fourth street.

The bids for the new East End exchange building for the Zenith Telephone company will be opened today. Hill & Bray are the architects.

Several good sales of range properties have been reported this past week, among them several lots in Virginia, from M. L. Fay to the Virginia Improvement company, for $25,000, a lot in Hibbing from John Kleffman to the Minneapolis Brewing company for $2300.

The deed has been filed transferring from the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company to William McBean title to property in blocks 4 and 20, Portland division, the consideration being $7000.

Celina Martel has purchased from J. Shoults part of lot 60, block 51, Duluth proper, Third division, for $3000.

P. R. Haley has sold a West Duluth lot to R. O. Kindy for $2000.

Lela Daggett has sold to H. C. Fulton lot 5 and part of lot 5, in block 8, Hunter's park, First division, for $3750.

IS BOUND OVER

Mareau Padgorski Must Answer For Killing Paezkietzage Child.

Charge of Manslaughter In Second Degree Against Him.

Intentional infanticide was strongly intimated by several witnesses in the examination of Mareau Padgorski in the municipal court this morning.

However, the persons indirectly accusing Padgorski of willfully shooting the head off 2-year-old Stens Paekietzage were unable to produce anything definite in the way of incriminating evidence, and the child slayer was bound over to the September grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree.

The case was rehearsed in court. Witness told how the little baby playing in the Padgorski home on West Ninth street had pointed a piece of pipe at Padgorski and prattled something about shooting him. Also how Padgorski picked up a shot gun, pointing it at the baby, the discharge of the gun which was not thought to be loaded, and the terrible death of the child.

An eleven-year-old brother of the dead child says that sometime before the shooting Padgorski called the baby a vile name, and another Polish resident of the Ninth street settlement intimated that Padgorski did not like the Paczkietzage children and that there was bad feeling between him and the father of little Stens because Padgorski owed $5 for the child's keeping while he was in the hospital.

All these charges are denied by the Padgorskis and the wife of the man now in jail for the killing says that both she and her husband had become much attached to the child and treated him with the greatest consideration.

Mrs. Padgorski also says that she is sure her husband did not know the gun was loaded when he pointed it at the baby. It plays, she says, that the eleven-year-old brother had placed the charge in it without their knowledge.

THEY DESCRIBE THE SHOOTING

Witness Tell of the Tragic Killing of Mrs. Mattson.

The trial of Oscar Lunden for manslaughter for the shooting of Mrs. Mattson, which was started in Judge Dibell's room yesterday was continued over from last evening until Monday morning. Several witnesses have already been called by the state. One of them, Erick Erickson, was an eyewitness to the death of Mrs. Mattson. He said he heard the shot fired, and saw Mrs. Mattson reel and fall. He testified that when she fell on the bed he took her child from her arms and summoned help, but she died before the physician arrived.

Isaac Wicks, a brother-in-law of the defendant, testified that he was home when Lunden came in after the shooting, that the defendant told him of the affair and the witness assisted him in hiding the gun under the house, where it was found by the officers.

Charles Norgood and John Carlson, who were guests of the wedding party that Lunden and others were giving a charivari testified to hearing the shots fired and said they saw Lunden fire one of them.

Chief Troyer and Detective Schulte testified to Lunden's arrest and Dr. S. C. Stocker told of the results of the autopsy on the remains of Mrs. Mattson.

The defendant will probably go on the stand in his own behalf Monday morning. He makes no denial to the firing of the shots, one of which killed Mrs. Mattson, but claims the killing was wholly accidental.

The Lunden trial may be finished by Monday evening. The retrial of Tanko on the murder charge will occur as soon as the Lund case goes to the jury.

Owing to a deficiency of jurors at the May term of court, Judge Dibell, this morning, ordered a special venire issued for forty jurors. It is returnable Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The first special venire for eighteen jurors was issued early this week.

Elects Officers.

The stockholders of the McLeod Iron company met last night at the office of John P. Morrow and completed its organization. M. D. Ambelec, of Two Harbors, was elected president, J. C. McGreevy, vice president and John Morgan secretary and treasurer. The company is capitalized at $50,000. It began drilling on its property at Highland a few days ago.

Action For Divorce.

Girta Snider, of this city, has begun an action in district court for a divorce from Frank Snider. In the bill of complaint which was filed this morning, the plaintiff sets forth that they were married in Saginaw, Mich., Jan. 7, 1896, and that, Feb. 4, 1902, the defendant willfully and without reasonable cause deserted her, leaving her with four children from 6 to 2 years of age to support and care for. Plaintiff is 20 and Defendant 45 years of age. Defendant prays for a decree and the custody of her children.

The Beginning of Trouble.

A disordered stomach may cause no end of trouble. When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged and the liver and kidneys congested, causing numerous diseases, the most fatal of which are painless, therefore the more to be dreaded. The important thing is to restore the stomach and liver to a healthy condition, and for this purpose no better preparation can be used than Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

AUTO BLEW UP.

New York, May 23.—A special automobile carrying European mail from Basse Terre to this port, blew up just after its arrival here, says a dispatch from Point-a-Pitrie, Guadeloupe, to the Herald, its gasoline fuel having in some manner caught fire. The vehicle was totally destroyed and the mail burned. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

MONTREAL MEN AGAIN ON A STRIKE

Montreal, May 23.—The employes of the Montreal street railway went on strike again at an early hour today and the road is completely tied up. When a ballot on the question was taken at 2:30 a. m. only half a dozen out of some 1500 men voted against striking. A few cars were started out durin gthe forenoon. They were not molested. A number of members of the Montreal Amateur Athletic association have offered their services as conductors until after Monday, Victoria day, and a number of students of the McGill university now on vacation, have offered their services as motormen. The electrical workers have also voted to go out on strike.

RESUME WORK ON OREGON'S FAIR

Portland, Ore., May 23.—Work will be resumed at once on the Lewis and Clarke exposition grounds, the time for invoking the referendum on the appropriation bill passed by the last legislature having now epired. A month ago, when the Federated Trades' council of this city denounced the exposition and called upon union labor to invoke the referendum and defeat the appropriations, all work on the grounds and buildings was stopped. The necessary number of signatures to invoke the referendum was not secured.

STEAMER DAMAGED BY EXPLOSION

El Paso, Texas, May 23.—Gen. G. D. Joubert and Capt. W. S. O'Donnell, promoters of the Boer colony at Tamaulipas, Mexico, are here after closing the contract with a syndicate that will furnish the finances for the colony. This is the second Boer colony to be planted in Mexico. The Boers will occupy 83,000 acres. The syndicate in Mexico will bring people from Africa, let them have implements, live stock and give them credit at their stores. The settlers pay for land at the rate of 15 chillings per acre each year for a number of years. The land, 100 miles north of Victoria, Mexico, has a frontage on a navigable river. A railroad will be built through the tract.

CHANGE IN PLEAS

Striking Freight Handlers Plead Guilty to Unlawful Assemblage.

Misdemeanor While Original Charge of Rioting Is a Felony.

David Wright, Frank Callahan, Thomas Doran, H. E. Pomeroy, Frank Bodine and Michael Morrison, the six striking freight handlers who were indicted by the grand jury of rioting in connection with the alleged attempt to overturn a Northern Pacific car containing non-union men, near Garfield avenue, appeared in district court this morning and changed their pleas of not guilty of rioting to pleas of guilty of unlawful assemblage.

The change of the pleas is a very important one, in that the men will now be sentenced by the court for a misdemeanor, whereas in the first case, had they stood trial and been found guilty, they would have been punished for a felony. The penalty that will be inflicted for misdemeanor will be a great deal lighter than that usually inflicted by the court in cases of conviction of felony.

All six men have been out on bail furnished by relatives and friends, and their bonds will hold until they receive their sentences a little later.

FOR WASHING SANDY ORE

Machinery Begining to Arrive For the Arcturus Mine.

Portions of the washing machinery which have been expected from Georgia by the company exploring the Arcturus mine have begun to arrive, and it is expected that all will be here and in place at the mine within the next few days.

The delivery of aparatus to the mine a week or so ago caused the impression to go abroad at Nashwauk that the washing plant had arrived at that time and had been set up, but Duluth men who are interested say it has just arrived.

It is probable that officials of the Great Northern road will visit the plant after it gets in working order.

$1000 If Not Absolutely Pure.

Smith & Smith, 101 West Superior street, have just received a large supply of Sylmar Olive Oil. This oil makes a peerless food and is guaranteed to be absolutely pure, $1000 being offered to any chemist who can detect the slightest adulteration or impurity. Its value as a medicine or for table use is unsurpassed.

Prices 35 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle or by bulk in any quantity desired.

NEW POSTMASTER.

daylight, getting her mainsail bent on her spars.

The two old rivals, the Constitution and the Columbia, looked trim and it as they lay side by side in the cove ready and eager for the new comer, then at anchor six miles across the sound.

The breeze which looked so encouraging in the early morning began to fall shortly after 10 o'clock, and about 10:30 there was a flat calm along the south side of the sound. It still held on the north side, however, and there was some hope of its again breezing up before the race started.

The Reliance swung away from her moorings at 10:20 and, under three lower sails and her large club topsail, headed towards Glenocve. The other two yachts were still at their moorings as the Reliance came lazily across the sound.

The tug with the turning mark arrived off Matthiecock Point at 10:45, and the sound regatta committee's steam yacht Privateer could be seen heading for the point.

By this time the breeze began to pipe up again and gave some encouragement.

The Constitution and the Columbia came out of Hempstead harbor under sail at 11:20.

The regatta committee steamer Privateer, which took up her position at the starting line at 11:45, signaled at 11:50 that the start was postponed until 12 o'clock. The wind at that time on the south side of the sound was from the southwest, while on the north side it was from the opposite direction. The Reliance was on hand and the Constitution was about a mile away. The Columbia, however, was becalmed just outside Glencove.

At 12:45 the wind still continued fickle and the yachts were waiting for it to settle down in one direction. Up the sound there was a northwest wind, which seemed to give some indication of working down. The postponement flag on the committee boat was still flying at 12:45.

The yachts have started, Reliance in the lead.

The Reliance has by far the best position and the first five minutes had gained 100 yards on the other two boats.

The official starting time was: Reliance, 1:50:20; Constitution, 1:50:29; Columbia, 1:52:00. The Columbia was handicapped about 35 seconds.

At 2:30 the Reliance was a mile ahead of the other two boats, having sailed two miles to their one.

LEGISLATIVE PLUNDER.

Madison, Wis., May 23.—The capitol police force is endeavoring to ascertain the identity of thieves who are working about the building.

Complaints have been coming in concerning the mysterious disappearance of articles from different rooms and yesterday a typewriter and half a dozen law books that had been loaned from the state law library were stolen from the senate judiciary room. The typewriter was the property of the committee clerk. It is the second one that has disappeared during the session.

The last of the plunder boxes of the members were shipped yesterday. While the state superintendent has been very chary in dealing out the supplies, the members seemingly had not the slightest difficulty in filing the boxes. In fact, some of them were unable to get all of the stuff they had accumulated in the regular plunder boxes, and some secured empty soap and cracker boxes and filled them. In consequence there is nothing of a movable nature left in or about the assembly or senate chamber except the desks, chairs and some of the cuspidors. One member is reported to have moved his chair out preparatory to shipment. Somewhat pertinent was the remark made by one of the capitol workmen to another as he watched a line of plunder boxes passing out: "Well," said he with a sigh, "they've left the dome, anyway."

ESCANABA POWER

Company Would Buy Negaunee's Municipal Plant.

Negaunee, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is rumored here that the company recently organized by Minneapolis capitalists to develop the water power at the cataract on the Escanaba river will offer the city of Negaunee $75,000 for the electric light plant and pumping station. It is the subject of a great deal of discussion, and the rumor is taken seriously by everyone. The city officials refuse to talk.

Herman Robertson, who, it is alleged, is wanted in Houghton county on a criminal charge, was arrested here yesterday by Marshal Gribble.

Articles of Incorporation —of— Rainy Lake Company.

Know all men by these presents, that we whose names are hereunto subscribed, have agreed to and do hereby associate ourselves together, under the constitution and general laws of the state of Minnesota and more particularly under the provisions of Title 2 of Chapter 34 of the General Statutes of said state, of the revision of 1878, and the laws amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, as a corporation, under the name and for the purposes hereinafter set forth, and to that end do hereby adopt the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be RAINY LAKE COMPANY, and the general nature of its business shall be to acquire timber and timber lands, to log the same and to manufacture lumber, shingles, lath and all other timber and lumber products; to purchase, construct, own and operate sawmills, planing mills, dry kilns, paper and pulp mills and any and all other mills, factories, machinery and equipment for or incident to the conduct of such manufacturing business; to sell and dispose of the same, or any thereof, and the products thereof, and to purchase, handle and dispose of lumber, timber and lumber products; to acquire, own and operate stone quarries, and to sell and dispose of the same and the product thereof; to establish, acquire, maintain and operate brick yards and to manufacture brick and tile and to sell and dispose of the same; to mine and smelt iron, copper and other minerals and to manufacture iron, steel, copper and other metals, and to sell and dispose of the same and any thereof; to acquire, own and hold stocks and bonds of any other corporation or corporations, which may be deemed for the advantage of this corporation in the conduct of its business and to sell and dispose of the same; to purchase, improve, lease, sell, dispose of and deal in lands, tenements and hereditaments, real, mixed and personal property; to colonize lands to sell lands to actual settlers, to plat lands into townsites, and to improve, sell, lease and dispose of the same, or parcels thereof; and, generally, to develope and improve the facilities and resources of the territory in which said corporation operates, and to do all things necessary or incident to any of said business, or advantageous in the conduct thereof; said business to be carried on in Northern Minnesota and elsewhere, but particularly in the counties of St. Louis, Itasca and Lake, in said state of Minnesota, and the principal place of transacting the business of said corporation shall be the city of Duluth, in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, with such branch offices at such other points and places, as may from time to time be determined by the management of said corporation.

ARTICLE II.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be the twenty-fifth day of May, A. D. 1903, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty years (30).

ARTICLE III.

The amount of the capital stock of this corporation shall be five millions five hundred thousand dollars, three million five hundred thousand dollars of which shall be preferred stock, and two millions of dollars of which shall be common stock, but the said company may commence business whenever one million of dollars of the capital stock thereof, of either or both classes, has been subscribed for.

Certain moneys having already been invested in the business to be conducted by this corporation, by those intending to become holders of the preferred stock therein, and preliminary to and in anticipation of the organization of this corporation, the certificates of preferred stock to be issued by this corporation shall show on the face thereof the date when the moneys represented by such stock were first invested in the business of this corporation.

1st. The same shall draw cumulative dividends at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable out of the surplus or profits of said corporation annually, on or before June 1st of each year, beginning with the year 1904, unless the board of directors determine in any year to pass the payment for want of available funds applicable to such payment.

2nd. The said preferred stock shall be subject to retirement at par and accrued dividends, pro rata on dividend dates, as fast as the corporation realizes from its investment and business funds not needed for the carrying on of the business of the corporation and which, in the judgment of the board of directors, can be safely applied to such purpose. A notice of such intention to retire the same to be given to the holders of such stock at least fifteen (15) days prior to the time fixed for the retirement thereof.

3rd. Upon the winding up of the affairs of the corporation, such stock shall be paid off in full at par and accrued dividends, in preference to the holders of the common stock, and the holders of such stock shall likewise, in addition thereto, be entitled to participate in the distribution of one-half of the surplus or net profits of the corporation to be distributed on the basis of the time and money represented by such stock shall have been invested in the business of the corporation.

4th. Upon the said stock being retired by the payment of the same at par, with accrued dividends, and the business of the company not being wound up, the holders of said stock shall be entitled to a debenture or certificate or writing obligatory of the company to the effect that one-half of all of the net profits of the company shall be set apart as a special fund and from time to time distributed to the holders of such certificates in the proportion which the money shown by such certificates bears to the whole amount of the preferred stock which had been issued, but also in proportion to the length of time such money was invested in the business of said corporation, so that the distribution of such funds shall be made to such certificate holders on the basis of percentage of earnings upon each dollar for the time the same was so employed, and said stock shall have no other preferences or special benefits, all of the rest of the net profits or earnings of the corporation to be distributed to the holders of the common stock, and all of the residue of the property of the corporation to be distributed to the holders of the common stock upon the winding up of the affairs of the corporation.

The common stock shall not draw any dividends, save and except through and by means of the distribution to the holders thereof of one-half of the net profits after the retirement of the preferred stock at par, and accrued dividends, and one-half of the residue of the property of the corporation at the time of the winding up of its affairs, after the payment to the holders of the preferred stock of the amount of such preferred stock outstanding, and accrued dividends.

The stock in this corporation, of both classes, issued and outstanding, shall be entitled to representation and vote in all of the affairs of the corporation.

The stock of this corparation shall be sold only at par, either for cash or for property and things of value deemed by the board of directors to be equivalent in value thereto, such determination by the board of directors to be deemed final and binding upon all parties in interest.

ARTICLE IV.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time be subject is the sum of three million five hundred thousand dollars ($3,500,000.00).

ARTICLE V.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this association for the purposes of incorporation, are as follows:

Charles F. Ruggles, residing at Virginia, Minnesota.

Mitchell J. Smiley, residing at Chicago, Illinois.

Robert E. Parcher, residing at Wausau, Wisconsin.

E. Golden Filer, residing at Manistee, Michigan.

Wirt H. Cook, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

Hansen Smith, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

David O. Anderson, residing at Virginia, Minnesota.

The government of this corporation and the conduct and management of its affairs is hereby vested in a board of seven directors who shall all be stockholders, and, except as herein provided, shall be elected by the stockholders, at their annual meeting on the first Tuesday after the first day of January of each year, and who shall, within ten days thereafter, elect from their own number the following officers: A president, a vice president, a secretary and a treasurer.

The first annual meeting of this corporation shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first day of January, 1904, and until such time and until such directors have been elected and qualified, the following persons shall be and constitute the board of directors of this corporation: Charles F. Ruggles, Wirt H. Cook, David O. Anderson, Robert E. Parcher, E. Golden-Filer, Mitchell J. Smiley and Hansen Smith; and until such annual meeting is held and the directors thereat chosen shall elect officers, as hereinbefore provided, and until such officers shall have been duly elected and qualified, the general officers of this corporation shall be as follows: Charles F. Ruggles, president; Wirt H. Cook, vice president; Hansen Smith, secretary; and Charles F. Ruggles, treasurer.

The office of treasurer may be held by any other officer of this corporation and the holders of the offices of secretary and treasurer may or may not be members of the board of directors.

The officers and directors of this corporation, except those herein designated to act as such in the first instance, shall hold office for the period of one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and in case any vacancy occurs in any of the offices or in the membership of the board of directors of this corporation, the same shall be filled by the board of directors until the next annual meeting and until such vacancies shall be filled by election held in accordance with these articles and such by-laws as may be adopted providing for elections.

The board of directors of this corporation shall adopt and is hereby authorized to adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for the corporation and the management of its business, not inconsistent with these articles or with the constitution and laws of the state of Minnesota, as it may deem needful for the government of the officers and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and may create such other offices in addition to those herein provided, as may from time to time be deemed necessary for the advantageous conduct of the business of the corporation, and may fill such offices as it may so create, and may abolish and discontinue such offices so created at will. The board of directors may also, whenever it deems the same advisable, create and appoint an executive committee, consisting of at least three members of the board, for the purposes of transacting the business and exercising the ordinary powers of the board when the board is not in session.

The board of directors may also fix the compensation to be paid to any officers or employees of this corporation, and cause the same to be paid from the funds of the corporation applicable thereto, in accordance with such regulations and by-laws as may be adopted by the board.

The board of directors shall also have the power, when in its judgment reasonable cause exists, to remove any officers of this corporation from their positions and to declare the offices vacant.

ARTICLE VII.

The capital stock of this corporation is divided into fifty-five thousand (55,000) shares of one hundred dollars each.

In testimony whereof, the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands and seals this seventh day of May, A. D. 1903.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE TRAVELERS

Of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana to Be Held In Duluth Next Month—Exercises at the Armory—The Program Arranged.

Preparations for the tenth annual convention of the United Commercial Travelers of America for the jurisdiction of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana, to be held here June 12 and 13, are progressing rapidly and successfully, and there is no question now that the convention will be the biggest thing of the kind ever held in Duluth. Local business men, particularly the jobbers, are responding handsomely, and the members of the Duluth council are taking hold with enthusiasm. The committee on arrangements, composed of Burt Holcomb, W. H. Wilson and C. W. Stutton, is doing noble work, and a very large part of the credit for the convention's success will be due to them.

The guests will begin to arrive Thursday evening, June 11, but the larger portion of them will come in Friday morning, when the exercises open with a parade to the Armory, where the opening exercises will be held. The members are expected to report at headquarters early and get their caps and badges.

The full program for the convention is as follows:

FRIDAY.

9 o'clock a. m.—Line of march will start from headquarters and proceed to Armory, where opening exercises will be held, as follows:

1. Music by Flaaten's Third Regiment band.
2. Address by H. G. Mooney, past grand counciler, chairman.
3. Address of welcome by His Honor Mayor T. W. Hugo.
4. Music by Third Regiment band.
5. Response by Terry McCosker, grand counciler, Grand Forks, N. D.
6. Address by F. A. Patrick.
7. Song, selected, by Male quartet.
8. Address by Robert F. Fitzgerald, our old constituent, one of the boys, and always with us.
9. Music by Flaaten's Third Regiment band.
10. Address, "Duluth," by E. L. Millar.
11. Presentation of banner won by Zenith council No. 40, at grand council meeting at Minnetonka, 1902, for largest attendance of members from any one council at the meeting. Presentation address by Terry McCosker, grand counciler, North Dakota.
12. Song, selected, by male quartet.

Meeting adjourned to Elks' hall for opening session of grand council.

1:30 p. m.—Grand council session at Elks' hall.

2 to 2:30 p. m.—Ladies' reception at Commercial club rooms, for which a program has been arranged, and our wives and best girls will be there to make you welcome.

3 p. m.—Ball game at Athletic park, Duluth vs. Crookston. If you have the price, you get in. If not, jump the fence.

8 p. m.—Dance at Armory hall. Gentlemen admitted must give pass word of the order or have door check on person. No lady or ladies will be permitted unless escorted by a gentleman.

SATURDAY.

9 a .m.—Grand council session at Elks' hall.

9:30 a. m.—Grand open-air concert by Flaaten's Third Regiment band. Ladies drive around the boulevard. The visiting ladies, wives and sweethearts of members of the order are expected to avail themselves of this beautiful drive, acknowledged by travelers to be one of the finest in the world. Carriages will start from headquarters, at which place those entitled to tickets can secure them by asking members of the committee.

1:30 p. m.—Grand industrial and civic parade. Line of march as follows: Parade forms at postoffice, Fifth avenue west and First street.

FIRST DIVISION.

Platoon of mounted police, platoon Third Regiment band, councils United Commercial Travelers as follows: Council 50, 63, 64, 65, 69, 85, 88, 98, 100, 111, 141 and 144. Visiting ladies in carriages, Zenith council No. 40, Duluth, guard of honor.

SECOND DIVISION.

Platoon of police, band, mayor, city council, fire commissioners, board of public works and other city officials in carriages, Chief John T. Black, Duluth fire department.

THIRD DIVISION.

Band, grand industrial parade, in which all the jobbing, building, mining, shipping, lumbering and manufacturing interests and retailers will be represented.

LINE OF MARCH.

Starts from Fifth avenue west and First street and falls in behind councils and civic authorities and proceeds east on first street to Third avenue east to Superior street, thence to Fifth avenue west, and south on Fifth avenue west to boat landing, where boats will be provided for excursion on Lake Superior. Only those with proper credentials allowed on board.

8:30 p. m.—Grand concert at Duluth Central High School Assembly hall.

FISH RANCHES ON THE BRULE

Bonanza Trout Farmer Who Fences In Best Fishing Places.

Signs like the one presented herewith are scattered all over a large area of the choicest fishing territory of the Brule, the south shore's famous trout stream.

Not only that, but there is a company of unbeknown men who are paid simply to see that the world at large heeds the warning.

The H. M. Pierce who signs the placard probably does not care much about whether the public loves him or not—at least that part of the public that visits the river and runs up against his signs, his barbed wire fences and his guards. But if he does not want to be loved he need not, for he is eminently and thoroughly independent of public regard or disregard.

He is one of the wealthiest men of the South, and he is undoubtedly the biggest fish-farmer of the North. His one fish ranch on the Brule entitles him to that title, and he has several others in other places. His home is at St. Louis.

That fish ranch is really quite an interesting place. Mr. Pierce owns about thirty forties of land along the Brule, about eighteen of which touch the Brule. One bunch of about ten of them, scattered along for a mile and a half, is the place where most of the independent fishermen would like to get, and it is here that he does not propose they shall get.

So he has surrounded a lot of the best spring pools on the river with high barbed wire fences, specially made for the purpose, and warranted to keep out all ordinary trespassers. Just to reinforce the barbed wire he has about thirty husky lads employed to keep around in good positions to see what is going on, and to hop astride the neck of anybody that fails to heed the warning signs and attempts to swipe one or two of his wealth of trout.

Mr. Pierce has probably spent $100,000 altogether on his place on the Brule, and he guards it as jealously as though it were his home, and as though anglers were unwarranted intruders who had walked in the front door and put their feet on his upholstered furniture. The wire alone is said to have cost $10,000.

He also has the largest trout fish hatchery in the country, where he breeds the finest brands of the Salmonidae family, Salvilinus genera, fontenalis species, otherwise brook trout.

NOTICE!

The undersigned owner of the hereinafter mentioned lands, on a part of which this signboard is posted, hereby notifies all persons not to trespass, nor to hunt or shoot, upon any of said lands, nor to fish in or from any of the lakes, ponds or sloughs thereof; which said waters are now used for propagating and raising trout, and are stocked with trout that are his private property. Said lands are described as follows:

H. C. PIERCE.

These are bred for Mr. Pierce and his friends, not for the hot polloi anglers who stray in, and a myriad of signs plaster every tree to loudly inform the intruder that his room is much preferable to his company in the eyes of Mr. Pierce.

An incident that probably illustrates the sentiment against Mr. Pierce occurred recently. It was reported that he had made the boast that he had trout in the Brule worth $40,000. Whereupon the tax officials of Douglas county put an assessment of nearly $20,000 on his fish. He has refused to pay the tax and is now fighting it.

This bonanza trout farmer, it is not surprising to discover, is an oil king. He was at the head of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, which is now an auxiliary of the Standard Oil company, and his income runs to the paltry sum of $300,000 a year—or maybe it is half a million.

So he can well afford to surround himself with luxuries like these. He has a handsome lodge on the river, where he comes once a year or so for his fishing trip, bringing usually a friend or two along to help him catch trout.

But he is good to his trout. He feeds them well, and one team is kept busy most of the time hauling food for them. They eat liver, and Mr. Pierce buys prodigious quantities of liver every year to keep them fat and good-natured. Yet while they are well-fed, liver gets monotonous, and they will take delight in jumping at a fly, even if there is a wicked hook hidden in its brilliant meshes.

It can easily be imagined that this plethorically wealthy trout farmer, who surrounds his best fishing places with 10-feet barbed wire fences, with the wires so closely together that it is difficult to see through them, is not particularly popular along the river. He is not popular, and undoubtedly, in spite of the power of money, would have a hard time being elected to the legislature from a district composed of the Brule river and its adjoining land.

Luckily he is the only one of his kind along the river, as there are one or two more that could tie up the whole stream by following his tactics. The suggestion has been made that some of the owners of property adjoining his could make quit a hit by putting up placards telling the public that it could fish all it wanted to, without let or hindrance.

"And yet," said an owner of land along the river the other day, "I don't know but maybe he is right and I am wrong. Of course he gets to be called names that are not pleasant to think upon, but he has put a lot of money in there, and he owns the property. Now I have seen instances where fishermen have abused the privilege of free access to some of the other lands, building fires and leaving them going in a manner that threatened the beauty of the place, and doing other careless things."

Mr. Pierce's place belngs about six miles from the place where the South Shore crosses the river and runs for a mile and a half. He has some lands along the river farther up, but his hatchery and houses are in the first section.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER HOME ON THE BRULE OF H. M. PIERCE, A ST. LOUIS MULTI-MILLIONAIRE.

VIEW OF ONE OF THE DRILLS ON SECTION 30.

The above picture represents one of the four drills that are working on the famous "Section 30" property near Ely. The explorations are being conducted by the Section Thirty company, but who they are being done for has never been given out, and it is therefore the subject of considerable speculation. Neither does the public know anything about what the explorations are showing, though it is generally believed that one of the largest deposits of the Minnesota ranges will be shown up there. There is little to be seen by a visitor to the property. The only visible evidence of the existence of a mine consists of the four drills and a number of testpits, near one of which is a considerable pile of iron ore.

GRAVES NUMBER SEVENTY-SEVEN

Veterans Whose Memory Will Be Honored By the Duluth Grand Army Posts Next Saturday—Forty-Five Duluth Veterans Are Buried Elsewhere.

Next Saturday, May 30, occurs the annual observance of the pretty custom of paying tribute to the memories of the dead heroes who fought for the preservation of the Union in the war of 1861-5.

The ceremony is touching, and it grows more touching year by year, as the ranks of the living shrink and the rows of mounds in Soldier's Rest at Forest Hill cemetery grow larger.

Thirty-two years ago Duluth had its first observance of Memorial day. There was then one grave to decorate. When the loving task is performed next Saturday flowers must be strewn on seventy-seven graves, and besides that many Duluth veterans have been buried in other places.

Doras Martin, of Company G, Thirteenth Wisconsin volunteers, was laid to rest in 1867 in the old cemetery on Minnesota Point, on the present site of the life saving station. It was his grave that was first decorated in 1871, and it has been decorated every year since. So have the graves that have been added as the roll of the dead grew larger.

Asa Dailey, of the county auditor's office, has a roster that is very valuable and interesting. He started three years ago to prepare it, putting into it the names of all the veterans of the civil war that he could find had ever been here, and filling it out with statistical information regarding each. He has enrolled 479 names, and he has information regarding 438 of them. Forty-one he has been unable to trace far enough to secure the facts called for by the roster. Of the total 479 there are 122 dead, of whom 77 are buried in Duluth and 45 in other places.

S. F. BOYCE.
Commander of Willis A. Gorman Post, G. A. R.

Mr. Dailey has prepared an interesting table showing the states from which the 438 veterans about whom he has been able to get the information he desired enlisted. Sixteen were in the navy, ten in the United States regular infantry and two belonged to the United States colored troops.

It will be noticed that there is one from Tennessee and one from Virginia. These were Confederates and fought for the lost cause. Yet it is a significant evidence of the passing of the old-time bitterness that the boys in blue, who once sought the lives of these boys in gray, now decorate their graves each year as lovingly and as carefully as they do those of their comrades that fought under the Stars and Stripes.

The list follows:

New York, 63; Wisconsin, 62; Michigan, 51; Minnesota, 50; Ohio, 43; Pennsylvania, 27; Indiana, 24; Illinois, 21; Maine, 17; United States navy, 16; Massachusetts, 11; regular infantry, 10; Iowa, 10; Connecticut, 5; Missouri, 5; New Hampshire, 4; Arkansas, California, Delaware, Vermont, New Jersey, colored troops, 2 each; District of Columbia, Maryland, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia.

There are representatives of twenty-five states and the District of Columbia.

The roster of the dead buried in Duluth cemetries is as follows, there being two unknown:

THE CHRISTIAN CEMETERY AT PEKIN IS RESTORED

Description By Former Duluth Woman Now Living In China—In Boxer Uprising of 1900, the Cemetery Was Totally Destroyed.

A description of the Christian cemetery of Pekin has been received in Duluth from Mrs. Burton St. John, who was formerly Miss Io Barnes, of this city. Mrs. St. John left late last summer with her husband for China, where they were sent as missionaries by the Methodist board. Mr. and Mrs. St. John have been at Pekin since reaching China, and their time for the first year is entirely devoted to the study of the language. During the hot weather they will be at Pei Tai Ho, as great danger exists in Pekin from disease during the hot spell. The account of the Christian cemetery in the midst of the Tartar city sent by Mrs. St. John is interesting and is as follows:

"Just outside the west wall of the city is a plot of ground owned by the British and known as the 'Foreign Cemetery.' In their hatred of the foreigner and their desire to annihilate everything pertaining to him, the Chinese in 1900 utterly destroyed this property. Tearing down the wall, they carried off the tombstones and ran the plowshare over the ground so that hardly a vestige remained to be seen. Seventeen on the bodies were exhumed and burned. One of these bodies was identified later by some buttons found among the ashes.

"When the restoration began a new survey had to be made, from the plan of the cemetery that was in the possession of the British. From this survey the walls were located and rebuilt, the position of each grave was determined and the plot was again laid out. Of the stones some were found a great distance away. One whole house had been built of them, and others were broken into bits and made into gravel walks. Only a few of the stones were in sufficiently good repair to use again, so that most of those stones now in place are new. A special indemnity was granted by the Chinese government for this purpose.

"In one corner of the ground is a space about 20 by 40 feet that is inclosed by a low fence. Here are buried about fifteen persons who died during the siege. These bodies were temporarily buried in the legation quarters till after the grounds here had been walled in and partially restored. Then a service was held here at the cemetery, when all these bodies were transferred and buried with military honors.

"Among those interred here are Capt. Strouts, commander of the British legation guard, who was instantly killed during the siege. Mr. Warren, a British student, on the same day had half his head shot away and was temporarily buried in the same grave with Capt. Strouts. David Oliphant, another student, volunteered to go out one day and cut down a tree that the Chinese were attempting to fire in hopes that it would ignite the buildings. A shot struck him and he fell. A British marine who was with him staid at the risk of his life until help came to Mr. Oliphant. In the present legation ground the tree still stands with the marks of an ax upon it. Three graves of children are here, one that of a little Swedish girl who had smallpox. As she was sick when her parents arrived at the legation, the family were quarantined out on a little porch of one of the buildings. Here, on less than 100 square feet of ground, the three lived and the child finally died.

The grounds have been nearly restored now, and no trace of the recent devastation is apparent. English, Americans, Germans, Dutch, Swedes, Hollanders and French are buried here. Some of the stones are dated back as far as forty years ago. Two of them have the names of officers who were killed when the British took Pekin in 1860. But a large majority of them are as recent as 1900. Seven of the French Fusiliers who died during the siege are buried here."

RECEIVER FOR TOWNE COMPANY.

New York, May 23.—Judge Gorman, in the supreme court yesterday, appointed James A. Tracey receiver for the Standard Acteyline Lighting company pending a suit brought by George R. Bond and Cheney D. Washburn against Charles A. Towne. Charles A. Towne Incorporated, Walter G. Hudson and others from interfering or disposing of any patents or property of the corporation. The property is to be held subject to the further order of the court.

THE SMITH FAMILY IS VERY NUMEROUS

Number In the Duluth Directory Is 248—All Varieties of Occupations, Enough To Start a Town, Are Represented—Thirteen John Smiths

Somebody with a lot more time than money, presumably, discovered and gave to the world the fact that there were 125,000 Smiths in the United States. Duluth is the dwelling place of 248 of them, according to the directory, and in addition to those chronicled there, just think of all the little Smiths. The variety of appearances and of occupations and of dispositions is interesting in the extreme, and all goes to show that under the same name may travel specimens as different in all things as is daylight from darkness.

The directory, of course, notices only those who are employed in a business of some sort or description, and that leaves out of the list the most interesting portion of the Smith family, for no one will doubt that the feminine portion will present a greater variety of those individualities that enable one to tell one Smith from another.

If the Smiths of Duluth so desired, they could go off and form a little colony by themselves and have everything they needed or wanted done, not only including the necessary things of life, but also a number of the beautiful things that make life more worth the living could be administered by some Smiths. The variety of occupations followed by Smiths as found in the directory are butcher and baker (but no candlestick maker), firemen and motormen and brakemen, and merchants and lab and a dairyman, clerks and tea and bookkeepers and an evang students and five teachers, moldr filer, a few blacksmiths, a prin' inmate of the poor farm, a cran shoe shiner, an hotel keeper, a cook, a waiter, an operator, three in the state employ, two or three manufacturers, a coal man, a domestic, an advertiser, cashiers and a few more clerks, sailors, stenographers, carpenters, a contractor, an engineer or two, a dressmaker, a milliner, a laundress, a porter, a missionary, a broker and a troubleman, whatever in the wide world that happens to be. In addition there is one dead Smith and six widow Smiths, and if your name is not Frank Smith, congratulate yourself, and if it is, here's sympathy, for there are eight more of you.

Then there is a Smith that can sing, and for all one can tell from the directory there may be a host of others that think they can, and they will be mortally offended at the classification. But it is just the few Smiths such as the sweet singer that keep the name from falling into forgetfulness or derision. The Smiths have not made a very wide mark in history. There has never been a Smith a president or vice president. The nearest they have ever come to it is President Taylor's wife, who was Miss Smith before she was married. And the only historical Smith one can think of off-hand is Capt. John, and about the only thing he did was to let Pocohantus save his life. It is evidently up to the Smiths to make good.

In thinking over your list of acquaintances among the Smiths try to remember the different ways in which you refer to them, because you know a good many and you have some designating title for each, unless he is particularly

PREPARING FOR JUNE WEDDINGS

The June Bridal Gown Has Changed With the Season—All Is New, Light, Airy and Transparent—The Plainer the Gown the Better.

New York, May 23.—The gown of the June bride will differ very materially from that of her sister who has traveled the same road before her.

The June bridal gown has changed with the season, and where all was once heavy and shimmering, all is now light, airy and transparent. The satin and the panne, the corded silks and the brocades of winter are succeeded by the thinner, silkier stuff of summer.

To the novice this change from satin to mull, and from panne velvet to crepe de chine, might seem like economy. But to the initiated, the change from one fabric to another means nothing but extravagance. For what the bride saves on her crepe de chine she makes up in buying its lining.

The white satin dress, which is the accepted bridal role of Easter, costs a great deal of money. But, when you had bought the satin you had paid the principal price. The linings were not necessarily large, nor did the trimming count up very much. Indeed, the plain satin was so handsome that you wanted nothing more. The plainer the gown the better and the prettier!

The same with the corded and grosgrain silks and with the Ottoman weaves and with the panne velvets. You needed no trimming to decorate the gorgeous fabric. And as for the lining, it was all a matter of conscience. The bride could use exquisitely finished silk, or she could use a little plain taffeta, or even a nice light white muslin lining.

Should the bride of June cling to the tradition of her ancestors and go in for satin, let her realize that she can take her choice of linings. She can use either a silk or a thin muslin, for both are pretty, and one is considered just as nice and just as good as the other.

But the bride of June will probably prefer to look like a June bride, and as such will want the fabrics of the season, and after looking over them all she will pick out the one that is lightest and softest and most in keeping with the opening of the summer. And of all fabrics, what so nicely comes up to the standard as crepe de chine?

There is a milk white crepe de chine that makes a lovely bridal gown. It is very clinging and very silky, and there is almost a luster upon it. It is not very heavy in texture, and so is not crushable, while to the fingers it is very light and pleasant.

A gown of this material can be made up with a train. But the train should not be the immensely long one of winter. The bride of early summer will want what is known as a half train. The half train lies upon the floor for more than half a yard, and its length from the waist down to the tip of the train is half as long again as the bride-elect. But it is not the very ponderous, cumbersome, helplessly inert train of the winter wedding dress.

The bride can line this crepe de chine throughout with silk, and for the selection of the silk she must consult her taste and her pocketbook. She can spend a great deal if it so pleases her, or she can invest in a pretty taffeta glace, which answers every purpose and which affords a nice rustle as the bride walks.

About the wedding dress there must positively be a rustle. The gown, if of satin, will give its own rustle. But if it be of some soft summer fabric the rustle must lie in the lineus. This must be of the kind of silk which has a "cry" and the tone must be a distinct one. Very many silks are now made without the "cry." But women of taste, the smart dressers, insist upon it as a necessity of line dressing.

The gown of crepe de chine can be made up in rather fancy fashion. The shirred hips are very good for the reason that the material shirrs so well and because it gives fullness to the skirt, taking away that clinging line around the hips, which is not always good in an altar gown.

As for the skirt it must be trimmed with lace and one of the prettiest fashions shows rows of lace insertion with rows of tucks set in between. Medallions of lace are used for panels and there are medallions at the top of the flounce.

A flounce is not a necessity, but it makes the skirt set very nicely around the foot. If the flounce is done away with, then the foot of the skirt can be treated to rows of lace and to tucking and to little fancy stitchings.

They have a way now of trimming pretty dresses by using rows of hemstitching upon them. The hemstitching is placed in such a way as to alternate with rows of tucks, and then with rows of lace.

Where there are so many rows of hemstitching, and so many rows of lace and little fancy shirrings and tuckings, the art of the dressmaker is given full opportunity to exert itself. The work of making the gown is a long and almost tedious one, and the stitches must be put in by hand from day to day as the gown goes on in its march toward completion.

The bride who wants to make her own gown can very easily do so, and if the wedding is set for late June or the middle of summer she has ample opportunity to get up something very nice. The materials from which she can choose are numerous, and from at least twenty she can make a choice, with a chance of hitting it right in any case.

The India and China silks and the new white silk of the Orient are very good. And even the little, old, plain China silk, so familiar to everyone, is now very popular for wedding wear.

Remember, in putting together the bride's dress that it is all a matter of handiwork after all and any material that is delicate, pretty and fashionable will make up well, so long as it be treated nicely.

And here is demonstrated the great utility of lace. Lace comes in all varieties and in all grades. You can get the precious laces and the semi-precious. You can get the real and the mock laces. And you can get fine filmy webby laces or laces that are coarse and heavy.

It is popularly supposed that the heavy laces are not as elegant as the fine ones. But such is not the case. There have been some recent examples of coarse lace, lace that is heavy and durable, which comes at a price as high as any that was ever made with filmy texture. And some of the new heavy laces are costly masses of interwoven threads.

So it is all a matter of choice and of taste; and the bride can select a fine lace, or one that shows off upon the gown, a thing which the rose point laces do not always do. Of one thing she may be sure, that the heavy laces do not bear the imprint of cheapness and that she can invest in a showy Italian, or a great heavy Russian lace without mediocrity.

The first laces are used upon wedding dresses and, really, they look very nice indeed. All of the darned laces show off well; and, if used for panelings, or as headings for flounces, the result is surprisingly good.

A French wedding dress had a very wide band of filet lace at the head of a flounce of Bruges lace. The contrast between the two laces was most conspicuous, but very good. The wide band of filet which was applied to the skirt perfectly flat and plain, only served to set off the other lace to good advantage.

And, so the bride can take her choice. She can select this lace or that lace and she can feel that, no matter what her selection may be, the result will be good providing she uses the lace with good taste.

One very ingenious bride there will be this June. This bride is a young woman who will walk to the altar dressed in a gown of peau de soie. The material while good is by no means elegant, but the gown will be characterized by a certain style which will recommend it to all beholders.

Its main feature will be its lace. The lace will be profusely displayed and the gown will be largely covered with it. But the noticeable feature in the lace is its confusion, if one may so describe it. It is a studied confusion, though, and the young woman has worked upon it many days, with the assistance of a seamstress.

The beginning of the lace was found in an old family chest, out of which was brought a Spanish lace flounce. Out of this flounce the figures were ruthlessly cut; and then they were applied to lengths of old net lace, which was also a family treasure. Finally there came some pieces of Valenciennes lace, out of which were made the trimmings for stock, neck, yoke and sleeves; and for flounces, ruffles and all the smaller parts of the dress.

Three kinds of lace, used judiciously, in combination upon one gown make a very pretty showing and this bride's gown is one of the handsomest of the spring.

There are always pieces of lace in every family chest, and the family closet can always display a skeleton or two in the shape of an old lace shawl or lace flounce, or a lace jabot, or a lace yoke, so the bride of the summer can always be sure of lace for her gown if nothing else.

The trouble in using odds and ends is that they do not look well before using, and the bride-to-be will throw them aside in discouragement, afraid to go on, lest she spoil her material and her gown. But, if the laces be cleaned in flour or in chalk or treated to soap bark and water, or if they be sent to a cleaner's, then they will turn out as good as new, and the result will be something to surprise the bride and all her friends.

The neck of a wedding gown is sure to afford a troublesome problem to the bride. She cannot go decollete to the altar, yet how can she make a high-necked gown that will be becoming? In the case of a noonday wedding the difficulty is obviated, for none of the guests wear low-necked gowns and all come in what might be called afternoon attire.

But with an evening wedding it is different; then the guests dress decollete; and the bride finds her gown looking awkward around the neck, and often positively unbecoming, just when she wants it to be graceful and pretty.

A French modiste solved the problem for one of her clients by making a wedding gown with a lace yoke and stock. The stock was so very fine that it showed the texture and shape of the throat, and the yoke was also of exceedingly delicate construction. Thus, a light, soft, pretty look was given to the stock and to the yoke, which would not have been obtained by using a heavier lace or a heavier material.

To make a lace stock for a bridal gown one requires only just sufficient lace to make a standing band around the throat. This band should be very tall and should be edged with scallops of lace. If possible, let it be cut out of lace which has a scalloped edge, and let the scallops come up under the chin and ears and up the back of the neck. Let it be very high, a regular choker of lace. But do not line it or stiffen it in any way. It should show the throat in all its delicacy.

In making her bridal gown, the bride should always bear in mind that it is a gown to be worn only once. And in this matter a great many modistes make a mistake. They build the gown substantially and with a finish and strength which would insure it for wear for a whole lifetime.

A gown of the durable description was delivered to a bride the other day. On examination it was found that the stock was wired and interlined; the bodice, which needed no lining, was boned and lined; the skirt was faced with white velvet and made strong in the seams, and around the belt and even the sleeves had certain durable qualities introduced into them. It looked as though the gown were to be worn evenings for a lifetime.

As a matter of fact, the bride seldom wears her wedding dress more than two or three times a season; and often she does not wear it a dozen times during its entire existence. Then it is ripped up and used in various and more useful ways. Even if preserved complete it is laid away in a cedar chest to await the time when it shall go to the altar again upon a younger and fairer generation.

In building a wedding dress let the bride remember that all should look light and delicate. The stock, which is made of lace, needs no wiring, and it needs no lining, for both of these things tend to make the throat look larger.

Nor does the wedding blouse, unless it be a princess, need a lining, for it is far better to have the soft straight folds of the material revealing at times the delicate texture of the laces beneath rather than the stiff and prosaic silk interlining which mars so many bridal gowns. And through all the making of the gown one should strive for effect rather than durability.

The London modistes have carried the delicacy of the bridal gown to an extreme, for over there they aim to make it as frail as possible; and when the daughter of Lord Rosebery was married a few weeks ago her gown was literally sewed upon her.

It was cut in princess shape and the modiste took stitch after stitch in it after it was put on the young woman. Panels of lace were stitched down the back of the gown from the back of the neck to the tip of the train; and there were lace medallions applied to the shoulders and to the hips. All were put in place while the bride was being arrayed for the altar. After the ceremony the gown was ripped off her while her traveling garb was put on.

It is a wise bride—and all brides are wise nowadays—who makes her sleeves so that they can be removed. She is wiser still if she can make the yoke adjustable. This means that when the reception days come the bride can take the yoke out of her gown and the sleeves out of her dress and have a decollete gown for an evening function.

A sleeve that lends itself very nicely to this is the fan sleeve. To make a fan sleeve one should first make an elbow sleeve, and should trim it at the elbow with a ruffle of lace. Below this ruffle of lace there can be set a big fan of silk. This fan can fall to the very wrist and can be "tacked" as to its plaits so that it does not leave the arm exposed.

A fan sleeve to be worn by a bride of June is made with a tight fitting upper part ending with a ruffle of lace at the elbow. Then comes a big fan of white taffeta laid in side plaits and extending all the way around the arm. The fan is only a side-plaited flounce set in the sleeve at the elbow, and deep enough to fall to the wrist. Inside of this there is a little undersleeve of white chiffon.

Such pretty sleeves as come for wedding dresses. One of these has a pillow-case bag at the wrist, which is gathered into a cuff of lace. The cuff is deep and falls over the hand. Then there is the sleeve which is tucked at the top, with the tucks released at the elbow and the whole finished with a deep funnel of lace which comes down over the knuckles.

In sleeves there are endless varieties, and one of these shows a big bag of lace, an immense bag, falling very long at the back of the arm. At the elbow this bag is shirred into a directoire cuff, while the top of the sleeve is perfectly plain.

The small things of a bride's costume keep her quite as busy as the larger ones. Fashion does not now sanction the wearing of gloves at the ceremony, though the bride can do so if she pleases. Nor does Dame Fashion insist that she wear mitts or any hand covering whatever.

The bare-handed June bride is at a great advantage over her sisters of the winter, for she can handle her bouquet or her prayer book and receive the ring with much more confidence than though she were hampered with gloves. Gloves, while pretty and becoming to the hands, must be ripped open as far as the ring finger is concerned, and the bride is subjected often to a not inconsiderable annoyance.

The bride's shoes may be of white satin, but it is very smart now to overlay the satin with applications of lace. There are some beautiful white slippers that are made of heavy lace interlined with satin, and these the bride wears with white silk stockings trimmed with lace medallions.

White lace slippers and white lace stockings look very smart worn together, and the bride can ornament them to suit herself. She can apply the lace to the slippers and can set lace medallions in her stockings, after which she can cut the material out underneath and finish the edges as she pleases. Sometimes the edges need no finishing, other times it is best to sew a bit of white silk around them so to buttonhole stitch the edge.

All bridal slippers have bows to them, and the newest ones are very large and are made of chiffon, so that they shall be fluffy. The big, soft, fluffy chiffon bow is a feature of the new bridal slippers; and some of these bows are so very large and so very fluffy as to resemble the chiffon bows which are worn at the back of the neck.

There come immense chiffon choux, which are attached at the back of the neck of the bride, and these same choux are worn upon the slippers. And, in fact, a bridal gown can be almost trimmed with them.

One dozen of the ordinary chiffon choux of different shapes were attached to a bridal dress recently. The material of the gown was a soft, clinging white crepe, made lovely with a profuse decoration of lace of three varieties—Bruges, filet and Valenciennes. The choux began with the slippers, where one ornamented the toe o feach. Then there were choux at the belt, at the bust, upon the stock and at the back of the gown.

As for her jewelry, the bride can wear it or not as she prefers. Agsolutely unqualified plainness is a desirable thing for a bride, for it is her last opportunity to assume simplicity. And she really needs no jewels at all.

The latest note, however, is that the bride shall wear pearls. And a charming bridal ornament is found in opals and pearls, while another is in turquoise and pearls. The ornament is worn suspended around the neck by a very narrow gold chain.

THE "FLORODORA" HAT.

Hat of black horsehair lace, with comet shaped jet fringe on under brim. Hat is flat, and raised on deep bandeau. Top trimmed with flat rosette bow of black velvet ribbon, with a white and a black feather coming from under, falling over the left side.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny—actual barrenness is rare — comforting words to childless women.

Many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of some curable derangement of the generative organs.

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is overcoming cases of supposed barrenness. Thousands of children owe their existence to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This great medicine is so well calculated to regulate every function of the generative organs that its efficiency in this respect is vouched for by multitudes of women.

Nine Years Without a Child.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—We had been married nine years and never had children, and now we have a little baby girl nineteen months old, the joy of our life. She owes her existence to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a constant sufferer. I had pains in my back and sides, especially before menstruation. I had doctored but received no benefit. Hearing so much about the Vegetable Compound I decided to try it, and after taking six bottles was cured."—MRS. T. H. GOULBEY, 1223 Nevada St., East Toledo, Ohio.

Portrait of a Baby Girl Who Owes her Existence to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wrote to you some time ago asking why I could not have a child. I explained that I had displacement of the womb and ovarian trouble, and suffered with backache and headache. You sent me a nice letter in reply giving me full instructions how to treat myself, and in accordance with your directions I took your Vegetable Compound, and followed your kind advice faithfully in every respect, and now I have a little girl, the joy of our home. I never would have had my baby if it had not been for your advice and medicine.

"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for me. I hope other childless women will see this letter."—MRS. JOHN UEBERLACKER, 1111 Broadway, Cleveland, Ohio.

Another Happy Case in Brooklyn.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wrote to you a year ago telling you of my troubles. I had pains in the ovaries, menses were painful, and I had never borne children.

"You answered my letter and I followed your advice. I was completely cured. Have just given birth to a fine, healthy babe, and during childbirth had a very easy time.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines are a God send to women who want to be mothers."—MRS. SCHULTZ, 12 Luzner St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Many women whose letters we print were utterly discouraged, and life lacked all joy to them when they wrote Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., without charge of any kind. They received advice which made them strong, useful women again.

Paris Fashions - Gowns of Linen and Lace

Linen is a material that has only recently—that is, within the last year or two—become popular for summer wear, but its popularity is now well established, and advisedly so, as there is no fabric cooler or pleasanter to wear or one that will stand such constant laundering. It is remarkable in this climate, where so often the heat verges on the tropical, that the virtue of linen as a summer fabric has not sooner become known. But with the exception of the linen dusters that were worn by both men and women, and the natural colored linen gowns with a lot of glaze to them that were in fashion a good many years ago, it has never met with success.

The old fashioned linens were very heavy, with the exception of the kind already referred to. Heavy crash was especially in demand for a little while, but soon proved valueless on account of its weight, which made it appear as though it were as warm as a wool gown. The many different weaves in fashion now are almost without exception light in weight. Some are more closely woven than others, some have more of a polished surface (these are not the most fashionable), others have a little figure or design through them and look almost like piqué. The majority are in white, but there are also colored linens that are very smart in plain effects or in white with colored lines, polka dots or some small embroidered pattern woven in the material.

There are two or three distinct styles in these linen gowns—one that is trimmed with lace, another that has heavy embroidery on the linen itself, and another that has so much lace and embroidery that very little of the linen itself is seen. The heavier laces are much more in keeping with the linen than are the lighter ones, but, as the heavier were fashionable last year, this season, in the rage for something different, the lighter patterns are coming into favor. A linen gown can be one of the most expensive in the entire wardrobe, provided the more costly lace is used, and made, as are many of them, with a long skirt trimmed with broad bands of lace around the foot and with stripes of lace let in on either side of the front breadth, with a lace yoke or with three straps of lace on the waist, and with a half sleeve of lace. It can be understood, even by an amateur of clothes, that the price asked is not out of proportion to the cost.

There are some smart linen costumes this year that are severely plain, made with the white, the tan, the gray or the colored linens with short skirt, plaited or gored, and with a long three-quarter coat. These are to be worn with the finest of linen lawn waists, made with entre deux of lace. Another style in sharp contrast is a short jacket of linen finished with a wide ruffle of lace, but with the skirt quite plain, so that it can be laundered as often as desired, while the jacket or coat would have to be sent to the cleaners.

The pattern robes that are to be had this year are most beautiful in the linens, in white, in pale blue or pink, in tan and in yellow. These have lace woven with the machine or put in by machine so cleverly as to appear all in one, or have disks or medallions of lace, from underneath which the linen is cut away or are embroidered with heavy linen thread in sergli or outline designs, all of which are most effective. On some of the newer pattern robes a thread of black is introduced, with a white embroidery or a black and white fine cord, but somehow these lack the daintiness and smartness of those all one color. The pale blue linens with the white lace, of course, have the contrast between the white and blue. It is a pale shade of blue, and the white is not too glaring in effect against it, while the pink is relieved by the contrast of white. In the all one color linen robes are to be seen laces of the same shade, and in the grass linens especially are medallions of the lace or outline embroidery and all in the one tone, very dainty and cool in appearance and essentially artistic in the harmony of coloring.

Under the head of linen gowns come the linen batistes that are so sheer and fine that they hardly seem heavier, if as heavy, as the fine lace or embroidery with which they are trimmed. Although the embroidery or the linen batistes exhibits some of the very finest work that has ever been seen, or at least seen for very many years, and is associated in one's mind with the embroidery on the finest lingerie or pocket handkerchiefs, this is an age of luxury that is evidenced in nothing more than dress, and consequently there is a craze for this fine and beautiful handwork.

Dark blue linen gowns have not been so fashionable the last two or three years, principally because the heavier qualities of denims were so much used for the cheapest kind of ready made golfing skirts. But the dark blue linens of today are bound to win their way into favor again, for the texture is so exquisitely fine and the color is so good. The more severe the design of these dark blue linens the better, and the real tailor finish is exceedingly smart with them. The short skirt, plaited or with many gores, and the three-quarter coat again are smart, but there are also extremely good gowns made with the short skirt and the blouse waist. On the waist the heavy embroidery in linen or cotton thread either of blue, black and white, or white, is effective. This is a very simple design, but a very smart one. Another good one is in the red linen, not the ox blood red that was fashionable last year, but the shade of this season which looks so well trimmed with either black or white. Black and white combined makes a good trimming for a red frock and is used in revers and collar, as well as in the band of the skirt, but often the end and aim of everything is to have the one color scheme and then a curious effect is given by the dyed lace to match the gown, and used in bands or in yoke, undersleeves and collar.

Odd colors of linen are among the fabrics, queer greens and dull blues, not always becoming, but without exception effective. They can be made becoming if plenty of white is used in the trimming of the waist, or, oddly enough, if there is a touch of black about them. A black taffeta belt or tie with any of these odd colors in linen adds marvelously to the smart appearance of the gown. There is nothing cooler in summer than green, either in the darker shades or the pale ones. Irish lace and expensive embroidery are used with these queer colored linens, and also embroidery of white and the light shades in the heavy stuffed hand embroidery, or there are inserted medallions of varied shapes. Anything to give distinctive appearance and at the same time make the gown look summery seems to be the end and aim of the dressmaker of today.

Vassar College Inn.

Vassar College has an inn. It has not yet had time to gather the traditions and associations that have stolen into song and story and into the hearts of the alumni of Yale and other older colleges, but it has its picturesque features, and every day it is becoming more and more strongly identified with the college life.

Many times persons have proposed establishing boardinghouses, hotels and various kinds of eatinghouses in the vicinity of Vassar College for the entertainment of the students' guests, friends of the faculty and for the serving of the numerous banquets given by the student organizations. All such propositions have heretofore been opposed by the faculty, it being said that the restaurant and the hotels of the town, two miles away, met the needs. It was feared that accommodations of this sort near the college would cause confusion.

Competition, it was said, would spring up and the college neighborhood would be overrun with nearby eatinghouses of various sorts, and would interfere with the exclusiveness of the college and its cottage homes provided for freshmen who are excluded from life on the campus for lack of room.

One by one the promoters of these schemes gave them up. It was left for Miss M. S. Wagner and Miss A. S. Lapham, two collegiates, to present the matter in a sufficiently attractive and mutually helpful way to gain college favor and patronage. Miss Wagner's home is in Minneapolis. She is a graduate of the university of that city, and later was a special student at Vassar, and is a woman of unusual business ability. Her partner, Miss Lapham, came from Canandaigua, N. Y., and was graduated from Vassar in the class of '96. The inn already has won faculty and students. The house stands only a few doors from the lower end of the hedge and from the gate leading through the pine walk to the college buildings. It is a two-story Queen Anne cottage, whose broad piazza is supported by cemented cobblestones. The foundation of the house also is made of these stones.

One passes up the steps and over the broad piazza to an old fashioned Dutch door leading into a large tea room, with immense open fireplace, whose cheery blaze of logs, supported by old time brass andirons, can be seen from without through the dozens of windows which let in the sunlight on both sides of the room.

The furnishings are in keeping with the artistically soft-toned walls. Flemish oak tables and chairs in mission style give an air of comfort and ease. On one side of the fireplace are double swinging doors leading to the kitchen. There are a comfortable reading and waiting room and a number of well appointed sleeping rooms. These at first were thought to be quite adequate, but already, in its third month, the accommodations are found to be insufficient. A contract is pending for an addition which will have sleeping accommodations for one hundred persons. It will be connected with the inn by a covered way. All available space is engaged for both this year and next by students of the college for their out-of-town friends for commencement and the holidays. Miss Wagner and Miss Lapman own the building. The Dickens Club, a student organization, held its fall meeting and banquet there. The Chicago Club, of 40 members, feasted there on October 17. The faculty has found it an agreeable place for private dinner parties and a rendezvous from the busy hum of college life and the necessarily noisy refractory, so that to all, from the principal down to the freshmen, the college inn is welcome.

The Healthful And Savory Onion.

Eat onions in May,
And all the year after physicians may play.

So runs the old couplet, whose truth has been crystallized from the experience of centuries.

Way back in Egypt land the value of the onion was held to be so great that the Egyptian priests deified it and used it in their worship of Isis, while the common folk showed their appreciation by devouring it in such vast quantities that one of the pyramids contained an inscription recording the enormous sum required to furnish the workmen with onions and garlic during its construction.

A salad of cucumber and sliced onion or of shaved cabbage and onion rings is delicious dressed with a plain French dressing or a mayonnaise, while an oriental bean and onion salad always calls forth a "come again." To make it, peel and slice 10 medium-sized white onions very fine. Pour cold water on them, let them stand an hour, then press hard with the hand to remove the strong taste. Drain well. Put into the salad bowl a pint and a half of cold boiled or baked beans. Add the sliced onion, a teaspoonful and a half of salt, a scant teaspoonful of pepper, three teaspoonfuls of olive oil, one teaspoonful of white sugar and a half cup of vinegar, part Tarragon. Toss and mix lightly, but thoroughly, with a fork, garnish with olives and hard boiled eggs sliced and serve on lettuce leaves. As a necessary adjunct to most soups and dressings the onion has no equal; the essential in this case being that "scarce suspected" it shall "animate the whole." For a salad, where just a suspicion of the flavor is desired, the bowl may be rubbed with a slice of onion or a clove of garlic. Do the same with the meat platter before transferring the steak to it. Slices of onion laid on fillets of fish for an hour before cooking impart a fine flavor, and a tiny bit of minced onion or onion juice is a great improvement to the dish of breakfast hash. To extract the onion juice press the cut sides of a raw onion against a grater, move it slowly and the juice will run off the corner of the grater. A few drops of the juice will go a long way in the flavoring. The grater may be cleansed afterward by using cold water and a little brush, while if the onion is held carefully, no odor will be left on the fingers.

Baked onions are often relished by invalids or convalescents, and are allowed in sanitariums when other forms of cookery are tabooed. Bake in their skins until thoroughly tender, the center being steamed in its own juices. When ready to serve remove the outer jacket, butter and season.

Stuffed onions furnish a delicious entree, or may serve as the supper hot dish. For this purpose get the Bermuda or large Spanish onion. Peel, cook in boiling salted water a few moments, but not long enough to lose their shape. Cut in halves, take out the heart and fill the cavity with a force meat made of bread crumbs, moistened, well seasoned and combined with bits of cold meat or grated cheese.

Pack all that you can get in and bake in a moderate oven, basting often with gravy or melted butter.

For scalloped onions peel, cut in halves, parboil, then cook in boiling salted water until tender but firm. Drain carefully, place in a shallow baking dish, well buttered, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter and cover with fine bread crumbs. Continue these layers until the dish is full, having the last layer of crumbs moistened with melted butter. Pour over them rich milk, with a teaspoonful of flour blended for each cup of milk, and place in the oven until a rich brown. Grated cheese may be added if desired.

Liver and onions a la Turk deserves to become well known in this country. Buy calf's liver and have the butcher cut it in pieces about an inch square. Slice about half the quantity of onions very thin; mix together, salt and pepper, and, having a good lump of butter in the frying pan, well browned, stir in the liver and onion, spreading it evenly and thinly over the bottom of the pan; slip a knife under to prevent scorching, turn over, so as to brown both sides, and when well cooked turn on a hot platter, garnish with parsley or cress, and serve hot.

Beefsteak and Onions (adapted from the Turk).—While the Turk uses a spit, the gridiron is the next best alternative. Prepare the steak the night before using, by pounding with a blunt, heavy carving knife, and rolling it up with three or four chopped onions inside, to impart the desired flavor. Put in the ice box over night, and in the morning broil quickly over a brisk fire, turning frequently. While broiling have a hot frying pan ready, with a little butter, and turn into it two or three onions sliced thin. Shake and stir rapidly until crisp and a delicate brown. Lay the meat on a hot platter, season with salt and pepper, add bits of butter and the sliced onion and serve.

In the old-fashioned list of household remedies the onion played an important part, and its efficacy remains unimpaired.

The high percentage of sulphur which it contains makes it most effectual as a blood purifier and a complexion tonic, but to attain these results it must be eaten daily. For earache, the heart of a roasted onion wrapped in a piece of thin muslin and laid in the ear, or a poultice made of boiled onion, meal and the water in which the onion was cooked, proves a sovereign remedy.

Our Day Growing Longer.

The earth revolves on its axis once in 24 hours at present, yet millions of years ago it completed a revolution in a day of about five hours. It could revolve no faster than this and remain a single, unbroken mass.

Now, when our day was about five hours long, the moon, so astronomers tell us, was in contact with the surface of the earth. It had just broken away from the parent mass, but as our length of the terrestrial day increased so did the distance of the moon.

Whenever the rotation time of a planet is shorter than the period of the revolution of its satellite the effect of their mutual action is to accelerate the motion of the satellite and to compel it to move in an increased orbit—to amplify its distance.

So now our day is shorter than the month—the period of revolution—of the moon. Our satellite, therefore, is slowly receding from us, and it has been moving away for thousands of centuries. But the day of the earth is growing longer.

So long as the terrestrial day is shorter than the lunar month the moon will continue to recede from us. In time, so many millions of years hence that they almost baffle computation, our day will be a month long and the moon will be lost in space.

A French postal clerk has evolved a simple apparatus for dispensing with the postage stamp and enabling any one to get his letter franked after office hours. The apparatus can be affixed to any pillar box. A coin is dropped into a slot, the corner of the letter is inserted and the machine stamps the envelope with the amount paid. All you have to do then is to drop the letter into the pillar box for collection.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY

The days of the pavilion dance have come, the craziest of the year. From early spring till late in the fall these pavilion dances at the parks are more popular than perhaps any other amusement of the season. They can be worked in so nicely, a supper on the lake shore and afterward the informal dance for a few minutes or a few hours, or in many cases ten seconds before the very last car. All this is perfectly delightful, and if they don't go down to supper, they can take a car along about 8 o'clock and go, and woe to the unsuspecting passenger who by some ill fortune boards the same car.

Six or eight persons bound for any one of these dances who are together on one car have possession, and anybody that wants to ride home in any peace of mind or with a corner of his mind reserved to let the conductor know when he wants to leave, well, let him get out and walk. What is in his mind, if he cannot even remember where he wants to get out? He sits blinking his eyes and wondering how it was that he had been set loose in this big world and was never warned against a certain kind of animal that seemed to do one no particular physical injury, but practiced such queer methods that it simply left one, from his mental confusion, physically unable to defend himself.

Youthful spirits are better than any other kind, but all things in moderation. What do they do? To begin with, they talk. Here's for the girls particularly. "Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman." Yes, that has been quoted before, but maybe Cordelia did not go to pavilion dances or use the telephone, but the principle is just the same. They giggle and gaggle and giggle, and when it seems that their frames will never stand that convulsive twitching they try screaming, and scream for a few miles or so. And what is worse than a screaming girl, unless it be two or three?

Now, the men are nearly as bad, with their inane jests and haw-hawing, but they do it in a lower key, which helps some. But they stand in one little bunch in the passage, making the way utterly impassable, and if a woman passenger wishes to get off, nothing but the sharp point of a hatpin will move them. You see, with all their noise they cannot hear a timid, "May I please pass?" but the hatpin works. Try it.

Now, all the girls who go to these jolly dances will, with pink cheeks and flashing eyes, exclaim, "It isn't so," because they are really nice girls and wouldn't act so for the world. If you are sure that goes, just ask somebody that has been on the car and get their opinion. It's so, you know, no matter how much you hate it.

Mrs. W. C. Hegardt's afternoon party yesterday was a beautiful affair. The decorations were pansies and the pretty little flowers appeared on the score cards also. The prizes carried out the flower idea too. Six-handed euchre was played and the prizes were won by Mrs. George Elder, Mrs. S. B. Allen and Mrs. Strong.

Mrs. W. H. Gray and family have taken a cottage at Deerwood for the summer.

But for two parties at the W. G. Hegardt home the week would have been utterly destitute of diversion for East End society. The first party was given Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Hegardt and was a most beautiful affair. The rooms of their new home were charmingly decorated with flowers and ferns. The reception room was in white lilacs and American beauties. The mantle was banked in the lilacs and an immense bowl in the room. In the dining room daffodils were used, combining beautifully with the old English finish of the room. The score cards were water colors of the spring flowers and were exceedingly dainty. Six-hand euchre was played and the prizes were won by Mrs. F. J. Pulford, Mrs. W. S. Bishop and Mrs. Mark Baldwin. The men's prizes were taken by W. Presentin, L. W. Powell and O. G. Brice.

Invitations are out for the third annual ball, to be given by the Young Ladies' club for the benefit of St. Luke's hospital. These parties have become popular in the past and a large sum is always realized for the hospital. It will be given Monday evening, June 1, at the Armory. Flaten's orchestra will play and the party this year will be looked forward to with eagerness because of the exceptional lack of affairs this spring.

Mrs. J. T. Armstead, of 217 West First street, entertained at two charming affairs this week. The first was an afternoon party and the rooms were prettily decorated. Cinch was played and the prizes were taken by Mrs. W. W. Butchart, Mrs. S. B. Owens and Mrs. J. T. Watson. The guests were:

Mesdames—
A. N. McGindley.	W. W. Butchart.
J. H. Crowley.	J. C. Sullivan.

AMONG THE PLANTS

This is May 23 and down in Ohio we called this the night time to plant corn and tender things, such as cucumbers, squash, etc., but we seldom planted out tender plants until Decoration day or the first week in June. Yet here in Duluth, only four rods from the North Pole, many have planted out all they can get their hands on. All the week it has been one grand rush, and I have scolded and remonstrated until I got tired and then let them have all they wanted, and it really was more against my good judgment than my inclination, for everything I have is for sale, except my dog.

Some of my oldest customers were willing to wait and their orders are put by and are sheltered from the bitter wind and are developing much faster than if out of doors, but how I pity some of the poor things that are shivering in some exposed window box. Besides the wind, there is serious danger of a frost yet. I hope there won't be one, but if there is, look out and cover with a sheet or paper all tender plants. If this storm swings around without a frost, next week asters and such things may go in. Plant lots of them. They are cheap, magnificent and give lots of comfort for a small amount of money. Also a few tomatoes may be risked, but don't put all your eggs in one basket. Some of you are so impatient to plant that you think I am old and slow. Perhaps I am, but better be slow and sure sometimes.

I was noticing some hardy plants I set out in the ground just after Easter. The frost was scarcely out, but I wanted the space and so stuck them out, and in a week they looked like an orphan asylum. The leaves froze and dried and the wind blew them off. In addition to their other troubles, the snow covered them, the people walked over them and my dog chased imaginary rabbits across the bed and they looked about gone. I thought for once I had missed it, but you should see them now. They have turned green again and are getting a nice top. In digging some of them up we find much more root than top, and they will give an immense crop of flowers in the near future, and be the best all summer. I merely quote this to show you what an advantage it is to treat hardy things as hardy and tender with care.

There are lots of things I wanted to write about, but it seems just now that I have forgotten every blessed thing I ever knew, so we will let it go this time.

BARBARITIES DENOUNCED.

San Francisco, May 23.—A mass meeting of citizens held here last evening was largely attended by people of all creeds. It was presided over by Mayor Schmitz and the speakers were men of all religious denominations. Resolutions denouncing the barbarities perpetrated on the Jews in Russia were passed. The executive committee of the relief fund has already forwarded $5000 to New York.

well known. Some few of them are well enough known to simply have their initials named before the last tantalizing vision-producing name, but as a general thing a whole phrase or sentence has to be employed to make clear the one you are referring to and not the one your friend thinks you are thinking about. It is usual—so usual, in fact, that people never stop to think about it—to hear Smiths modified so: "That dear little red-haired Smith girl," "The Smiths who live on First street," "That stunning Smith fellow," "The Mrs. Smith who has just moved here," etc., etc., etc., until the whole list of personal, physical peculiarities are used up. Now, just think and see if it is not so.

Of course, this does not begin to tell about the Smiths, for they are all interesting folks, and countless volumes could be written about any one of them. In most anybody's list of acquaintances can be thought of Smiths and Smiths. Now, think and see if you cant' think of a Smith that is engaged and one that is not, a Smith that is as pretty as a picture and one that is not, a Smith as sweet, if you stand by, as sugar two or three that are away at college and two or three that are not; a Smith that had the dearest daughter who married—but there it is again. If one ever begins to think of the Smiths that married and the people that married Smiths, where would one ever end? But, as a whole, the Smiths are a remarkably nice people to know, for one can hardly think of a single disagreeable Smith.

Nine Frank Smiths seemed bad enough, but the count says that in this town are eighteen George Smiths and, still more dreadful, thirteen John Smiths without a distinguishing middle initial and four more with the initial. There are lots of things in life to be thankful for.

Man Who Feared Death Underground Was Killed on Surface.

Marquette—To quit work underground because fearful of its danger, and then to meet death on the surface, where he believed his life would be secure, was the fate of Louis Carneau, a Frenchman, aged 25, at the Champion mine yesterday. He had long been afraid of being killed while toiling beneath the surface, and began work in the open air, his new task keeping him employed on a timber. Thursday he lost his balance and fell backward to the ground. The distance was only twelve feet, but Carneau landed on his head, fracturing his skull. He expired in a few minutes.

J. E. Leland, alias Brown, a safe cracker, convicted in circuit court of blowing up and robbing a safe in a store at Champion, has been sentenced to eight years in the Marquette penitentiary. He was also wanted at Memphis for burglary, Tennessee officers being on the way here with requisition papers.

The Dead river sawmill has begun operations for the season. The cut will be about 15,000,000 feet, mostly logs put in last winter by Kibby & White of Albany, N. Y., on Dead River.

Escanaba—George Young, who has been in the bakery business here for twenty years, has left for Zion City to assume charge of the bakery established by Dowie.

Calumet—The body of an infant was found by workmen in an outhouse at 2129 Log street at Calumet. It was badly decomposed, giving evidence of the fact the babe had been dead for some time. The authorities were notified and an investigation has been started. The family living at that number deny any knowledge of the case and expressed surprise when the discovery was made. The officers have no clue on which to work and the case is likely to remain a mystery.

Stephen Ahola, of Calumet, has been sentenced by Justice Jackola to thirty days in the county jail. Ahola was arrested for the non-support of his four children, particularly of his 17-year-old daughter, who is not in the best of health. The three other children are virtually supported by charity. He refused to furnish a bond to support his children, hence the sentence. If at the conclusion of his term in jail, his mind isn't made up to be more human in the future, it is likely he will be more severely punished.

Sault Ste. Marie—After an absence of nearly thirty years, the First United States intantry—or one batalion of it—is again garrisoning Fort Brady at the Soo, having just arrived from the Philippines. The First Infantry's former occupation of Fort Brady began in 1869 and continued until 1874 when it was transferred to Dakota.

Laurium—The street railway company, by Vice President W. O. Chapman, and the Laurium common council will, it is expected, soon reach an agreement whereby the company will be given permission to build the 300-foot stretch necessary to connect the Laurium end of the Lake Linden extension with the main line at Laurium. Mr. Chapman has agreed to present a petition making certain concessions in return for a franchise, and if the council is satisfied the company will be given the desired permission.

COMPLAINANT DISCHARGED.

Las Vegas, N. M., May 23.—The board which has been investigating the charges of mismanagement and cruelty to patients of the territorial insane asylum, made by Dr. D. A. Costa, assistant medical director, against Supt. George Ward, medical Director Dr. Tipton and others, has returned a report vindicating the latter and ordering the discharge of Dr. Costa.

FROM COAST TO COAST.

San Francisco, May 23.—Dr. Nelson Jackson, of Vermont, and S. K. Crocker, of Seattle, will undertake to make the trip from coast to coast in a twenty-horse power automobile, leaving here today.

$60,000 IN GOLD, OR THE FATAL HAND

By William A. Pinkerton, Head of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Train robberies on the Pacific coast roads had been frequent and the express companies, which were the greater sufferers, were using every means to catch and punish the offenders. The boldest of these adventures had been the holding up of a train on the Southern Pacific railroad near Sacramento. The bandits had entered the express car, murdered the express messenger, detached the car from the rest of the train and forced the engineer to pull them down the road a mile or two, where they opened the express safe and got away with about $60,000 in twenty-dollar gold pieces, the property of the Wells-Fargo Express company.

The only thing left by the robbers by which they might be traced was the imprint of a bloody hand upon a package of paper in the express car. This was turned over to Clem Maitland, a detective with a leaning toward the psychic.

"A wonderful hand," he exclaimed, as soon as his eyes fell upon it. "I have never seen another like it. Look at this third finger. It is longer than the second. The owner of that hand would take a chance if it stood only one in ten thousand to succeed. He has great will power, too, as the length of the first phalange of the thumb indicates. He had no moral nature. I could almost swear to the identity of the man whose hand left that impression if I were to meet him on the street."

Maitland had been successful in working up some hard cases, and he was given this one with permission to work it out as he pleased. That suited him exactly. He had peculiar theories and found it impossible to work with anyone else successfully.

For two months Maitland walked the streets of the coast cities, studying the hands of the people he met. He was determined to find the robbers through the lines of the bloody hand. He had built up from them the form and characteristics of the man who had left the impression and his whole theory depended on the solution of the problem through those means. He scanned the white hands of culture and refinement, the hands of sports, the coarse, rough hands of toil; everywhere and always he was looking for that peculiar hand with its long third finger and strongly marked characteristics.

One day on Market street in San Francisco he came upon a crowd greatly excited over a deed of heroism just performed. A gentleman had rescued a young girl from under the feet of a runaway team at the risk of his own life. His arm had been broken in the adventure, and he had been carried away, bleeding and insensible, to his lodgings near by. The girl, who was evidently from the country, had insisted on going with them to nurse the sufferer if needed. But what interested Maitland most was the story told of the man himself. He had appeared in the city several months before from no one knew where, set himself up in expensive lodgings, and had since been spending money lavishly, all in twenty-dollar gold pieces. He was known as Hugo Van Staal and posed as a German baron.

Here was a clue at last. The money taken from the express company had all been in twenty dollar gold pieces. The hand of the robber was the hand of the man who posed as a baron. Could there be as this man had taken in the rescue of the girl. Maitland got a boy to point out the location of the "baron's" lodgings, and then went home to study up a line of action.

A three days' investigation by Maitland developed a startling and almost incredible fact that Baron Van Staal was none other than John Bohm, a former tramp, who has long been a familiar figure on the coast, occasionally working for a short time and then with his scanty earnings going off with a dog and a tent to the woods, where he lived a gipsy life until his money was gone.

This transformation could be accounted for on no ordinary hypothesis. A hobo of yesterday living today the gilded life of a prosperous nobleman. Nothing was too good for the baron. He fell in with the game as one to the manner born; that he knew of better days before becoming an outcast was evident. With a retinue of lackeys ever at his heels, fawning sycophants to flatter, he did the swagger with the ease of a Beau Brummel. A rain of gold showered upon his friends. Carriages for drives, yachts for outings, everything responded to his beck. What jolly days and nights there were for the baron and his friends! The suppers with cart blanc to the chefs—there were none like them in town. "Wine, women, mirth and laughter," and the baron paid the freight are all responding indifference that caused the revellers to gasp in awe. But was he the kind of man were he tramp or cry exquisite to successfully plan and carry out a daring train robberies? Did he have a third phase of existence, that of the fearless highwayman?

Maitland determined on a bold venture. The next day he called on Baron Van Staal. As he was going up the stairs to his lodgings he met a slip of a girl. There were tears in her blue eyes, and her lips quivered with suppressed sobs.

"What is the matter, little girl? Can I be of service to you?" he inquired gently.

"No, sir. I have been bringing flowers every day for the gentleman who saved my life. They told me he was pleased to get them. But today a lady is with him and she threw my flowers out of the window and told me I must not bring any more, for they annoyed him."

"That is too bad. There may be some mistake."

"Oh, sir, do you think so?"

"I will try and find out for you. What is your name?"

"Mabel Davis, sir. I live with my aunt over on Telegraph Hill. We are too poor to buy flowers, but I gathered them for him."

"Well, don't worry. I am on my way to call on the baron and will make inquiries and let you know. Meet me here tomorrow at this hour."

The girl thanked him and Maitland went on. He rang the bell and sent in a card with the message that he was an Eastern tourist who had heard of the baron's heroism and called to pay his respects. A tall, dark woman received him. She was beautiful and dressed extravagantly, but there were lines of dissipation in her face, and the keen eyes of the detective discovered cigarette stains on her taper white fingers.

"I beg pardon for this seeming intrusion, baroness, but I did not wish to leave the city without paying my respects to your brave husband. I hope he has sufficiently recovered to receive me."

Flattered by the distinction of being taken not only for a wife but a baroness the woman ushered the visitor into the room where a man lay on a richly draped couch. His pale face was kindly and prepossessing, although certain lines about the mouth and chin betokened indolence and weakness of character. Not the face to match the hand of the robber, was Faitland's mental comment. The baron waved him a welcome with his free hand and he sat down. The right arm of the prodigal tramp was swathed in splints and concealed, but the left which lay upon bandages so that the hand was entirely the counterpane was slender and well-formed, with the second finger extending the usual length beyond the others. If only the other hand was visible. What mysteries did those bandages conceal. He longed to tear them away and satisfy himself. If this man was guilty he was fast spending the money of the express company. If he was not the detective was losing valuable time. But there was nothing to do but wait. A wrong accusation would disclose his plans to the world and bring down ridicule instead of praise. He mentioned meeting a girl on the stairs and saw a new light come into his eyes. But those of the woman flashed with hatred. "I sent her away," she said curtly. "She annoys the baron with her attentions. She is nothing but a street waif at the best and not worth one of the many pains he is suffering for his foolhardy adventure."

"I told you I would like to see her when she came again, Mollie," he said weakly. She frowned at the name and apologized for him.

"A pet name the Baron has given me. He forgets there is a stranger present."

The baron turned his head on the pillow and Maitland thought he saw the shadow of a smile flit across his features. Then he turned his attention to the woman and was successful in winning from her an invitation to call again the next day.

That night thieves entered the baron's lodgings and carried away some $1800 in gold that he had secreted under the floor. When Maitland heard of it he hastened to his new acquaintances to offer his sympathies. He was shown the place where the carpet had been ripped up to get at the hidden treasure. And there in the dust upon a board was the imprint of a hand, the hand with the long third finger.

"You were not very sharp," said the baron carelessly, or they might have found more." Then he sent for a clerk of a bank, had his man remove some bricks from the chimney and took out $20,000 in gold $20-pieces, which he had deposited to his credit.

That this was the money taken from the express car Maitland felt confident and yet he had no proof. If the man on the couch was the real bandit, how came the imprint of that hand in the dust. Had he robbed himself to create a sensation, or was he after all, innocent? That hand under the bandages! He must see that at any cost, and without delay. Mollie went out and left them sipping wine together. Maitland looked across the table at the arm lying stiff in its splints and bandages. Then he got up and went to the window, standing with his back to his companion. When he returned there was a look of stern determination on his face. "Let us drink to the health of the little flower girl," he cried. "What a little beauty she is."

"A strange creature, surely," replied the other with interest. "I had hoped to see her and thank her for the flowers she sends. But Mollie has frightened her so that she dare not come. When this cursed arm is out of the splints I shall be free and then—"

"And then you will find your little admirer ready to receive you. Gad, baron, you are a lucky fellow. And patient, too. If I were in your place I should be tempted to defy that old doctor and get out at once. Your arm must be well knit by this time."

"That's how it seems to me, but he is an obdurate old ass."

"I wish I might have a look at your bruised member," said Maitland, carelessly. "I studied surgery once and might finds reasons for disagreeing with this old sawbones. Spose we take a look at it, anyway?"

"Could you put it up again so that he wouldnt suspect?"

"Right and tight as a package of tea," said the detective, draining his glass.

The baron poured out some brandy and drained it at a gulp. "To it then before Mollie gets back. I half suspect she stands in with the doctor to keep me housed up here for fear I will see the little girl."

Maitland needed no second invitation. With his penknife he quickly cut the stitches and rapidly unrolled the bandages. His hand shook and his face flushed as fold after fold was wound away. The other watched him coolly without once winching. At last the splints lay bare. Maitland lifted them gently away, his gaze riveted on the fingers.

"What's the matter with you man? It's the arm that is broken, up here. The fingers are all right."

"The fingers are all right," repeated the detective, setting his teeth to hide his disappointment. It isn't the same at all."

"What isn't the same? They haven't changed hands on me, have they?"

"I could almost believe they had," Maitland rejoined under his breath. "But say, you don't need to be cooped up here any longer. That old doctor is a fraud. Your arm is in fine shape. I'll put on the bandages and we'll go out together for an airing. What do you say to a drive out to the hill to see Mabel?"

"I'm with you," cried the other. "Hurry up and we'll get off at once."

That night Maitland paced his room for hours, trying to find the end of the thread that would unravel this mystery. The deeper he had gone into it the more he was puzzled. The hand of the baron was not the hand of the robber. Of that he was certain. And yet the money he was spending lavishly was no doubt the very money taken at that time. Had the tramp been one of a company to commit the crime his accomplices would have shown up for their share of the plunder. Yet here he was spending it openly and in a manner to attract the greatest possible attention to himself. Then there was the imprint of the hand on the dust under the carpet. That was left by the real thief. Who was he and how did he learn of the secret hiding place? Could it be Mollie—yes, why not? The belief that the hand under the bandages was the guilty hand had blinded him. She was an accomplice of the real thief and was helping him to get the money that he had somehow lost to the tramp. It was through her that he must work to catch the real criminal.

With this end in view, Maitland visited daily with the baron and encouraged the latter's attentions to Mabel. This was not a difficult task. Mabel was such a sweet little body that the baron was soon head over heels in love with her. He showered her with presents, dressed her in silks and laces, took her to drive daily and gave out everywhere that they were to be married. Mollie was furious, but her hold on the baron was gone. He refused her entrance to his quarters, sent back her letters unopened and passed her on the street with scarcely a nod of recognition. Maitland kept Mollie informed as to their love affair. He wished to make the baron so hated by his former sweetheart that she would try to ruin him. At the same time he was gaining her confidence. After several weeks of this maneuvering he made an engagement with Mollie to meet him at dinner. She was also to bring her brother, who Maitland was very anxious to see. When this was all arranged Maitland invited the baron and Mabel to the same luncheon.

Mollie came first and her brother followed. Something in the man's face or figure seemed very familiar to Maitland and yet he did not remember to have seen him before. But as the brother raised a glass of wine the detective almost leaped from his chair. There clasped about the stem of the champagne glass were the fingers he had been so long seeking. There was no mistaking the hand. He would have known it among a million. How many hours he had poured over its outline, building up from the faint red lines a complete structure. He had often thought he could tell just the texture of the skin. And here it was just as he had pictured it. He knew now why the man had seemed familiar to him at the outset. The face and figure of the man corresponded with his speculations. It was stronger than emotion and saved him from betraying himself. The baron and Mabel, would they never come? He talked commonplaces while his brain was on fire. He ordered wine and forced it on his companions for fear that they might go before his plan was worked out. To arrest this man now was to bungle and Maitland was an artist.

At last they came; the baron tall and courtly, his companion fresh and pretty as a wildwood flower. For this night she had laid aside her new finery and wore a simple dress, no ornaments save a bunch of violets at her throat. At their entrance Mollie's eyes flashed fire and the man beside her grew livid. But before a word could be said Maitland sprang up, and grasping the baron's hand, cried: "My dear fellow, how glad I am to see you. Come and sit at our table. And you, Miss Mabel, how pretty you are tonight. Here are some old acquaintances. Now we shall have a jolly time."

"I decline to meet them," cried Mollie, rising.

"A tramp and a street waif!" sneered the brother.

"Take that back or by heaven you will never speak again," shouted Van Staal, advancing on the stranger.

"You are, you know you are," shrieked Mollie, beside herself with rage. "Where did you get the money with which to trick out this little minx? From the express company. All I need to do is to say the word and you go to the pen."

"And then," cried her companion, "your little pet there can go back to the streets—" A blow on the cheek cut the sentence off short. The brother staggered under the force of it, but drawing a revolver would have fired had not Maitland caught his hand and wrested the weapon from him. But he was now mad with rage, and springing at the baron's throat he cried: "Tramp! thief! devil! It is my money you have been spending; mine; mine; mine. You dug it up and there in the swamp and ran away with it. I will have your life."

"Not just yet," said Maitland, stepping between the two men and covering both with a revolver in each hand. "Your lives are too precious to be wasted in that way. For the present they belong to me." He blew upon a whistle and four officers entered.

"Take charge of these men," he said. "Handcuff them securely and see that they do not escape. This lady, too, may as well go along. This little girl is innocent. I will see that she is properly cared for."

At the trial the baron, with ingenious complacency, confessed his part in the affair. He smilingly acknowledged his identity that Baron Van Staal and John Bohm, the tramp, were one and the same person. His remarkable rise in the world he explained to be the sheerest accident. It happened a few weeks earlier when hoboing through a mountainous district out on the Southern Pacific. He had left the railway track intending to take a short cut through some timber to another near by. Tired, footsore and hungry, he had never before been to down on his luck. A few mouthfuls of food he must beg and if possible find a shed to protect him from the cold. Night was coming on but he struck out into the woods unmindful. On and on he wandered into the gloom until black night enveloped him. Lost, bewildered, almost fainting with fatigue, he tumbled over a hollow log and lay there in a state of coma until awakened the next morning by the warblings of the birds in the trees. Opening his eyes and in a dazed sort of way realizing he was chilled, he noticed the hollow log. Viewing it as a possible shelter he reached in his hand to discover its feasibility. His hand struck something. It was round and hard and cold. Withdrawing the object he found it to be a $20 gold piece. Half crazed with delight he made another dive and dragged out handfuls.

The rest of his story is easy. There was $60,000 in the log. It had been hidden there by the real robbers at the time of the crime, but before they returned the tramp had become a baron and their money was gone. And as the baron casually remarked on the witness stand he "certainly had a jolly time burning it up." Maitland had the satisfaction of demonstrating his hand theory, for Mollie turned state's evidence and the highwayman turned out to be Barkley, one of the most daring thieves and highwaymen in the country, and was shortly afterward executed in San Quentin.

Mabel Davis declared her belief in the man who had saved her life, gave up all the jewels and finery that Van Staal had presented to her, and pleaded so hard with the judge for his acquittal that he was discharged on the promise that he would give up his roving and settle down to earn an honest living. He and Mabel were married and are now living happily on a little farm in California.

And in Maitland's office hangs a frame in which is displayed the print of the hand that played such a part in establishing his theory of psychics applied to detective work.

The College Girl's Athletic Training

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE—ON THE LINKS.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON CAMPUS. SMITH COLLEGE

ANN ARBOR BASKET BALL TEAM.

A CORNELL UNIVERSITY CREW.

FENCING IN THE ANN ARBOR GYMNASIUM.

How does the college girl maintain her health? When she is not attending lectures is her time her own to spend poring over heavy tomes in the quiet library or at queer experiments in the physical and chemical laboratories? Does the faculty hold itself responsible for her physical as well as her mental training?

A few girls are to be met who prefer digging away at knotty mathematical problems and intricate researches to any kind of exercises arranged for their physical benefit. Fortunately, however, they are decidedly in the minority nowadays, for the typical college girl possesses moderately developed athletic tendencies.

The college girl of today knows too well the value of training her body to keep pace with her mind, and she isn't the one to neglect this work for any cause.

Take Bryn Mawr, for example. There, according to the gymnasium instructor, nearly every girl who enters the college might be said to be in splendid condition physically.

In the first place, these girls usually come from wealthy, or at least moderately well off, families, and there is every chance that they have been given all the advantages offered and recommended for active, growing young women. They have in nine cases out of ten, perhaps, been educated in a good "prep" school, where the physical training is made as important a feature as it is later on at college. In fact, the gymnasium work there is merely a preparation for that which is to follow.

Therefore, from this statement one might conclude that almost without a single exception the freshman at Bryn Mawr is not narrow chested, round shouldered or slovenly in her walk.

With all these points in her favor when she enters college, the matter becomes not one of developing the growing body, but of keeping this same excellent condition to which nature or careful training has brought it.

"Is it difficult to get the girls to exercise?" said the physical instructor at Bryn Mawr, repeating my question. "Not in the least. The girls all like it and frequently I am more worried as to how to prevent them from overdoing in physical work, some are so very enthusiastic over certain sports.

"You've no idea how much they think of this part of the college work, and how conscientious they are about it. We try to make the physical training as pleasant as possible, and this, no doubt, accounts for its general popularity. Every girl upon entering college must undergo a thorough physical examination, and very seldom do we find one who is incapable of doing ordinary gymnasium work.

"Those who are perfect physically may to a great extent follow their own inclinations with regard to the line of work in the 'gym' or outdoors. Girls who have certain weaknesses are given exercises according to their requirements. The only thing one need really fear is a weak heart, which, of course, bars a girl from taking part in the more violent games.

"At Bryn Mawr every girl is compelled to do a certain amount of 'gym' work or its equivalent each week unless she is ill, and in that case she must make it up later. When the weather is fine she may spend the time in any way she likes outdoors, and during the winter or on rainy days the gymnasium is the scene of her physical culture exercises.

"Though the morning is considered a better time for gymnasium work, nearly all of our classes are scheduled for the afternoon, on account of the many lectures which occur in the first part of the day. Physical work must always give way to mental, so we do the best we can in the afternoon.

"Laboratory hours sometimes conflict with the 'gym' work, but usually two or three afternoons each week can be arranged in some satisfactory way. We are very particular as to the class of work done in the gymnasium, and each year is a careful preparation for the succeeding one. In many cases freshmen come well advanced in this line, so we do not hold them back simply because they are entering the college.

"The progress of all the girls is critically observed from time to time, and where any student seems to have fallen behind the others and doesn't evince any promise of immediate improvement she is dropped from that class and put in the next lower. Though this rule may appear rather hard on the student who has been kept away on account of illness, we do not feel that the whole class should be kept back on her account. If she advances rapidly enough to warrant a promotion to her former class we are very glad to make the change.

"The students must keep up to a certain mark in their work. This we demand. The first year we teach the use of dumbbells, wands and light clubs; the next the class takes up the parallel bars, swinging rings and the other usual gymnasium apparatus. Fencing comes at the end of the third year, while the seniors, as a rule, devote all their time for physical training to basketball and outdoor sports.

"As I said before, every girl must do a certain amount of physical work each week, and the kind of work may vary to suit her own fancy. Some girls like to take long walks over the hills, but as this is a very easy way to exercise, they must walk for more than an hour to make the period equivalent to that devoted to some more violent pastime, such as basketball. Half an hour at this game equals twice as much time, or even more, given to walking or bicycling. Bicycling is another recreation enjoyed by a few, and a jolly spin over the country roads certainly doesn't seem like work, does it?"

I admitted that the delights of bicycling would certainly far outclass those of tossing clubs and dumbbells in a gymnasium, however well fitted up this might be.

"Golf is still popular at the college," continued the instructor, "though we have no links here, and the enthusiasts of this game have to go some distance to one of the country clubs. If it were not for this advantage golf would be played much more than it is.

"Hockey, however, has apparently taken the place of golf. It is extremely well liked here, and almost every day you will find a number of the girls out on the campus with their hockey sticks, making overtime in their physical culture periods for future use. We thoroughly approve of lawn hockey here, and encourage the girls to play. For one thing, several are required for each side in the game, and in this way the interest grows more general.

"In the autumn tennis becomes the popular game and we have many exciting tournaments soon after the college opens. Tennis is excellent exercise for girls; besides, it's pretty and promotes a friendly feeling among those just entering. When the nets, balls and racquets are brought out, the courts become a popular rendezvous for all classes, and sometimes friends from the city help to make the occasion a festive one.

"In the spring basketball enthusiasm begins to display itself and though during the winter teams are practised in the gymnasium, it is when the weather grows warm and grass and trees begin to shoot forth their fresh tendrils that the game really reigns supreme. We are very proud of our teams here and the tournaments between the classes are as full of interest to the college girls as are any of the big football games to their enthusiastic brothers.

"Almost any day you can see lively skirmishes in the field, but of course the most exciting time is when a tournament is being played, especially if it happens to be the final between the juniors and the class just going out. The teams are in charge of captains, and each 'man' has his own trainer, just as they do at men's colleges. The trainer sees that her charge keeps good hours, eats regularly and only certain foods prescribed by regulation.

"My personal supervision doesn't extend over these match games and their participants, though the practice each girl does counts toward the periods of physical culture requirements."

Even more stress is laid upon athletics and sports at some of the other colleges for women than at Bryn Mawr. Field day is a great institution at Vassar and girls do remarkable stunts in running, jumping and other vigorous forms of exercise to win the right to wear the V upon their sweaters. Cornell and Wellesley are favored in having bodies of water at the college doors on which they can become skilled in boating. Mount Holyoke and Smith colleges not only have well equipped gymnasiums, but the country round about is just of the sort to invite the girls to long tramps, to games and to every sort of outdoor recreation. Michigan University has a fine gymnasium and the fencing and basketball teams there are well trained and do excellent work.

THE TOOTHSOME EGG.

While the cooking manual of a well-known city chef contains five hundred recipes for the cooking of eggs, a smaller variety will suffice for the ordinary table, provided they are correctly prepared and daintily served. For reliable standbys the following recipes cannot be improved upon:

Omelette.

In making an omelette, cream, stock or water is better than milk, as the caseine of the milk tends to toughen the albumen. The secret of a light omelette lies in the beating of the eggs and the folding of the whites and yolks together. Allow to each egg one tablespoonful of liquid, a tiny speck of salt (too much salt toughens) and a dash of pepper. Add the salt to the whites of the eggs and beat stiff, but not so dry that it breaks. Put one teaspoonful of butter for each egg into the chafing dish, or a clean saucepan, and while it is heating whip the yolks of the eggs until lemon colored and stiff. Slip the beaten whites into the bowl with the yolks, pour in the liquid, then just cut through, lifting up and folding over, but not stirring or beating, which would break the air cells. The "trick" is to keep the mixture spongy. Pour into the saucepan, which should be hot enough to hiss as the egg runs over it. Spread the omelette evenly over the pan, using for this purpose a palette knife, or thin wooden spoon, that can be slipped under the omelette to prevent scorching. As soon as slightly browned underneath lift away from the blaze of the chafing dish flame, or the hottest part of the range. If you are using the chafing dish, put the omelette over the hot water pan, remembering that the more slowly it is cooked the more delicate it will be. If cooking on the range, take from the top of the stove and put on the top grate of the oven to rise and dry. When the whole centre seems done, run the knife around the edge, fold over to the right and slip off into a hot platter.

Variations in the omelette may be afforded by combining chicken, ham, tomato, parsley, cheese, or any fruit pulp with the eggs. If minced meats are used, allow one tablespoonful to an omelette made of two eggs; if parsley or mint, a half tablespoonful, and if orange or fruit pulp, two tablespoonfuls. Spread on top of the omelette after it is set.

French Omelette.

Beat four eggs slightly, just enough so that you can lift up a spoonful. Add four tablespoonfuls of cream, a teaspoonful of cold butter, a scant half teaspoonful of salt and a little paprika or white pepper. Put a teaspoonful of butter into a hot omelette pan and turn in the mixture. Then with a fork pick up the cooked egg from the center, allowing the uncooked to run under. Continue this until the whole is a soft, creamy consistency. Place over a hotter portion of the fire to set and brown, then fold and turn out on a hot platter.

Scrambled Eggs.

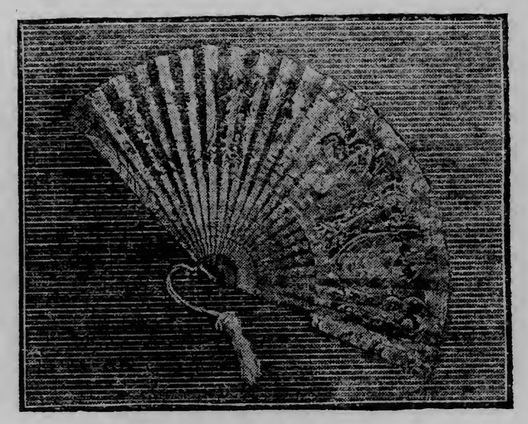
Scrambled eggs are cooked just the same as the French omelette, only they are taken up without browning or folding and are usually served on toast.

Scrambled Eggs With Green Peppers.

These make an excellent spring breakfast dish. Toast as many slices of bread as there are persons to be served, and lay on a platter to keep hot. Put a tablespoonful of butter in the frying pan and while it is heating break as many eggs as are needed into a bowl. Six eggs is a good number for four or five people. Allow a tablespoonful of cream or water to each egg. As soon as the butter is melted and begins to bubble turn the eggs in and as the whites begin to set lift and stir with a silver fork. Have ready two finely chopped sweet green peppers from which the seeds have been removed and after the egg has begun to cook stir the peppers through the mixture. Cook a half moment, then dish on to the hot toast, garnish with a little watercress or parsley and serve at once. If the toast is preferred soft, dip each slice for a moment in hot milk before covering with the egg.

Fried Eggs.

The best medium for frying eggs is sweet olive oil. Put into a small frying pan over a medium fire two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, or, if one prefers the flavor of ham, the same amount of clarified drippings. When smoking hot, break into it a strictly fresh egg. Turn with a knife, folding the right side of the egg over the yolk, and cook a few seconds longer. If one does not care to have the egg folded and turned, dip the hot fat with a spoon, pouring gently over the egg until the yolk is covered with a thin, pinky film. Lift out carefully, using a broad-bladed knife or pancake turner, and serve with bacon or ham.



A Dainty Fan for the Summer Girl.

LEMON PIE.

Three-quarters of a cup of sugar, one teaspoonful flour, yolks three eggs, white of one, half cup ice-water, juice and rind of one lemon. Meringues, whites two eggs, half cup powdered sugar.

The Fit Of The French Collar.

Mrs. ——'s trip to Europe has taught her how to make a collar! While in Paris she had a dress made, and at the second fitting asked the dressmaker to fit her collar. Madame's shoulders went up and her hands out. "Fit your neck! Ah, that is so Americaine. Always, always can I tell an American dress. Charmant! But those fitted collars! Long neck, short neck, slim neck, fat neck, all with fitted collars. If one's neck is very, very long, then it is well sometimes to fit, but the ordinaire neck, no, no!" and Madame proceeded to cut out the collar. The dress waist must be cut very high in the neck, both back and front.

A piece of the goods was cut on the straight, fastened round the neck, then hollowed out under the chin, gradually sloping up to a point under the lobe of the ear, and from there a slight downward slope to the middle of the back, resulting in an absolutely comfortable, easy and graceful collar, making the neck look smaller and adding apparent length to the waist. The change from the harness-like effect of the ordinary fitted collar, coming down below the neck proper, to the simple collar of the French is a pleasing one. Mrs. —— is a stout woman, and now presents a delightful appearance of comfort and style. Dressmakers are gradually adopting the French method.

Sew a very thin piece of whalebone from the point to the lower edge and one piece on the underside of the back. They will launder well with the whalebones in. The possibility of ornamentation lies entirely with the taste of the wearer, the foundation being always the same—a straight edge for the bottom of the collar. The sweet peas made of pink chiffon make a pretty decoration for a lace collar. Cut a piece of chiffon, doubled, about one and a half inches deep and four inches in length. Gather it around the cut edges, keeping it double; put a cord in the middle, then gather the thread tightly round the cord; turn one side to the right, the other to the left, and fasten securely. Cut the cord in lengths and put a sweet pea on each end. Then tie them together unevenly. Tie the cord in a small loop at the top of the sweet pea or just turn it round so that it will hide the stitches. Instead of cord, a narrow baby ribbon of gauze, the same color as the flowers, gives a pretty effect to the bunch of sweet peas.

His Philosophy.

I love you, I love you, to the maiden said the man,
I will love you forever if I can.
I can't foretell the future,
I can't reveal the past,
But though I doubt, I'll do my best
To love you to the last.

I love you, I love you, said the maiden to the man,
I will love you forever if I can.
He cried, "You doubt? Oh, no; oh, no;
It is not maidenly," said he;
Said he, "It is not maidenly."

Canning Strawberries.

Wiesbaden Process.—For this two lots of berries are required—one of all large, sound, dead-ripe berries and the other of perfectly sweet and fresh, but not necessarily large, berries. In looking them over put aside the fine ones, but do not hull until ready to use. To every pound of the smaller berries allow a pound of sugar and mix in layers in a stone crock. Cover and allow them to stand for several hours or over night, until they form their own juice. Drain off the syrup and boil down to two-thirds of the original quantity. Have well sterilized cans with fresh rubbers in readiness; fill with the nice whole berries, which have been hulled, and set on a thick, wet, hot cloth in a drippingpan on the back of the range to keep warm while being filled with the scalding syrup. Pour the syrup over them quickly, and seal air-tight. The Germans frequently use half honey in place of all sugars in this process. In this case cover the berries with the sugar, allowing only a half pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. After standing and draining add a quarter of a pound of honey for each pound of fruit and boil down to two-thirds of the original quantity. In using honey the syrup must be carefully skimmed before filling the jars.

FERRIS COMEDIANS AT METROPOLITAN

Will Present "At Valley Forge" and "Tennessee's Pardner" Next Week—Preparing For Wilbur Opera Company's Season, Beginning June 1st.

For the week beginning Monday evening the Ferris Comedians will offer two plays of national reputation and success, both secured only upon payment of heavy royalties.

The first three nights and Wednesday matinee the company will present the William L. Robert's great colonial comedy drama, "At Valley Forge," a play of the stirring revolutionary times, well written, as the reputation of its author will attest. Through the piece runs a beautiful love story of Virginia Preston for a young continental officer who, through his bravery and patriotism, finally succeeds in winning her as his bride. The costuming and mountings of this play are exceptionally fine.

Beginning Thursday evening, for three nights and Saturday matinee, the Ferris Comedians will present one of Western comedy dramas ever written, Bret Harte's romance, "Tennessee's Pardner." The plot of this play lies in and about Sand Hill, Nev., and the pure mountain air of the Sierras, which is breathed by staunch, honest miners and villains as well, gives to this piece an atmosphere pleasing and distinct. It is not a wild and woolly Western melodrama, but a story of how a poor orphan girl's life changed the rough miners' hearts and lives to different channels.

The play will have a full scenic equipment, effects, etc.

Beginning on Monday and Wednesday evenings the specialties will be entirely changed and a rare treat is promised in these.

THE WILBUR COMPANY.

The management of the Metropolitan Opera house promises that when the curtain goes up upon the engagement of the Wilbur Opera company, June 1, Duluth people will see a brilliant setting as to female beauty, costumes, etc. The company claims that it will bring more vaudeville features than the Wilburs have ever before shown Duluth. Miss Ethel Hunt is expected to create a great sensation. She is a young Australian beauty, but 22 years of age, who has been on the stage since childhood, and was pronounced the most beautiful woman on the stage in that country.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO.

O'Neill May Produce "Monte Cristo" In London.

New York, May 23.—James O'Neill was in a particularly happy mood when I met him on Broadway a few afternoons ago. He had just come to town from New London, Conn., where he forgets the affairs of the stage in looking after considerable of his property, which is located there. "I have rented every one of my cottages for the summer," he said, "and if I had a dozen more I could have let them. Now that this is off my hands I am going abroad for the first time in ten years. The family will, of course, go with me, and we all expect to have a long vacation, but chiefly my purpose in making the trip is to find a play for my next season. It seems almost impossible to get one on this side of the water, and I have abandoned all hope of finding one unless I cross the ocean myself. For some time past I have been thinking of the possibility of a London production of 'Monte Cristo,' and the only thing that has kept me from making the attempt has been the enormous expense that would be attached to transporting all the costumes, scenery and company I had in the big revival. Perhaps I have overestimated the cost, and if I can make suitable arrangements in London I may try it next season. London has never witnessed a production of 'Monte Cristo' on such a scale as it was given here. Only one actor, Charles Warner, ever played it, and he did it in quite a simple manner. By the way, I see that he is coming over here next fall with his version of Zola's novel, 'L'Assamoir.' Many years ago I played the same role in San Francisco, and the feature of the play then, as it is now, was the scene where I had to portray a man in delirium tremens. Before that the stage conception of such a part was to rave and tear around the stage as if in a madhouse. This was Charles Reade's idea when he translated the novel from the French and dramatized it. It did not appeal to me, and I went to the novel for a clearer idea of the author's meaning. In consequence when I played the part it was the very opposite of Reade's conception. I hardly raised my voice above a whisper, trusting to facial expression and to gestures to express the torment that was racking my very soul. While playing in San Francisco I had an offer to appear in the same part in Boston, but for several reasons was unable to leave the coast. Instead I suggested the name of Tom Keene as an actor eminently fitted for the role and he closed the contract with the Eastern managers. Before leaving Keene came to me with the manuscript that had been provided him and insisted that it was an entirely new version. To convince him I had to show him my own copy of the same manuscript interlined in lead pencil with the additions I had made from the French. I let him have my copy and he paid me the compliment of playing it in Boston just as I had done in the West."

Miss Viola Allen's determination to appear next season in "Twelfth Night" will in all probability result in her making the production on her own account. Her contract with Liebler & Co. expired on May 1, but she had a supplementary contract for one year calling for her appearance in "The Eternal City" or "In the Palace of the King" under that firm's management. Miss Allen, however, has made up her mind that if she could not play Viola she would not play anything else, and the Liebler people have, I understand, released her from her contract. Just what success awaits her is a serious problem. During the past five years Miss Allen has arisen from a comparatively meager salary under Charles Frohman to a weekly income of at least $15,000. In this time she has been able to save enough money until now her check is good for at least $150,000. Of course much of this was due to her own ability and her strong personal following, but equally much was due to the careful management that has always surrounded her. Miss Allen's relatives did not feel that she was getting as much return for her efforts as she was entitled to, and their constant advice has been to break away and manage herself. Her father and brother have been associated with her for several years, and if she pays for the production out of her own pocket it is quite probable that Frank Wilstach will accompany her as her business manager.

"Ned" Harrigan's determination to have Annie Yeamans appear with him in his new play next season has resulted in a rumpus in the Schubert camp. Mrs. Yeamans is now playing in "A Chinese Honeymoon," and the Shuberts are, naturally, very loath to lose her services. They have made every effort to keep her from signing a contract with Harrigan, but old associates seem to be stronger than their influence. She is very eager to support Harrigan again, and has openly expressed her determination to do so if she can get a contract that is in any way near to her liking.

Miss Cecelia Loftus has at last made up her mind to appear as a star under the management of Daniel Frohman. She has signed a contract with him for three years, which will not, however, go into effect until the season after next. Meanwhile she will remain with E. H. Sothern in "The Proud Prince," and will make her debut as a star at the new Lyceum theater in September, 1905. Her first play will be by E. H. Sothern, and will be a story of city and country life, in which she will have an opportunity of giving a new series of impersonations of noted actresses. One of the peculiar features of the plans arranged for her is that one of her plays is to be provided by Justin Huntly McCarthy, who was formerly her husband.

Henry E. Dixey is coming back to town in a most mysterious manner. When "Skipper & Cribbage" was produced at the Garrick last week it was expected that it would fill out the season at that theater, but New York apparently was not prepared to accept this offering, and it has departed after a two weeks' engagement. The announcement is made that Dixey will follow it at the Garrick in a play called "Facing the Music." All details as to its character and authorship are curiously lacking, and no one seems to have exact information as to who is the good angel who is giving Dixey a chance to star again.

The matinee performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" as given by Miss Elsie Leslie at the Manhattan last week is said to have been very much of a success. It was whispered that the money for the production was found by that veteran dramatic writer, William Winter, whose son, Jefferson Winter, is Miss Leslie's husband, and that the success of the venture has so encouraged both father and son that Miss Leslie will be given a road tour in Shakespearean plays next fall.

Senator and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew and a party of guests went to see "The Earl of Pawtucket" at the Manhattan theater last week. They were late in arriving, and the scene, which is laid in the breakfast room of the Waldorf-Astoria, was half over. Just as the party took their seats one of the actors, who represented a United States senator, and was discussing the subject of matrimony, said: "Why shouldn't I marry Harriet? I am 15 years younger than Chauncey Depew." Every eye in the house was turned to the box where the Depew party was located, but beyond a bland smile, the bridegroom senator was apparently unconscious of the author's fling. The management, however, were much upset by the incident, and a serious discussion was held in the lobby as to the advisability of tendering the senator an abject apology, but this scheme had to be abandoned, as no one could be found to undertake the task.

Henry W. Savage got back to town last week from the other side with a bunch of new productions which he will make as soon as he can find the time. Until two years ago he devoted his entire attention to directing his Castle Square company, which was giving grand opera in English. Next season he will have nine large companies on the road, and the business of his New York office has increased to such an extent that he has recently removed from his old quarters in the Knickerbocker theater building to West Forty-third street, where he has leased a four-story building, all of which will be occupied by his various subordinates.

Harrison Grey Fiske has mapped out a notable program for the Manhattan theater next season. Mrs. Fiske will begin with a limited engagement of "Mary of Magdala," and a special performance of Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," and John Luther Long's one-act play, "Voice." Miss Henrietta Crosman will follow in an elaborate revival of "As You Like It," and then Charles J. Relchman will make his debut as a star under the management of Weber and Fields in a play of the colonial period, by Victor Mapes. He will be followed by James K. Hackett, in a Mapes play, also a new historical drama, with a company of 150 persons. Mr. Fiske will also produce at that theater a play by Angel Guimere, in which Miss Corona Ricardo will have the leading role. Finally, Martin Harvey, who is to tour the country under the direction of Messrs. Fiske and Hackett, will play a brief engagement at the Manhattan.

"Jake" Rosenthal announces that his wife, Kathryn Osterman, will wear six stunning gowns in "Miss Petticoats." To this "Jake" adds, "She will not go to Paris, either, to have them made. Home talent is good enough for this clever actress."

Now that the theatrical season is getting toward its close, some managers are having considerable time on their hands and one of these devoted an afternoon recently to finding from his large collection of scrap books just what New York was doing in the theatrical business fifty years ago. He discovered that during this same week in 1853 the great Forrest was playing in Shakespeare at the Broadway theater, which was then below Houston street. He also gave one performance of "Richelieu" in the old Wallack's theater. The then very much worn "Lady of Lyons" was on the boards, with Lester Wallack as Claude and Miss Laura Keene as Pauline. Incidentally this manager recalled one peculiarity of Miss Keene, on that she insisted that every night the bill should be changed, so she could prove to the public that she did not depend upon her beauty for her success. It is hardly likely that Lillian Russell will follow her example. In Niblo's Garden the opera of "Lucretia Borgia" was on, but the management apparently did not think enough of the cast to mention any names. At the St. Charles' "The Lost Child of Silo" was advertised as a farce, and this, too, without any names. In addition there was Burton's theater, in Chambers street, which advertised "Civilization," and Barnum's Museum had as its attraction "The Willow Copse." In it Couldock was the star, but was not featured in the program. In addition there were some highly sensational spirit rappings at a hall in Broadway and Wood's Minstrels held forth a few doors above. Looking over the attractions now running to excellent business in this city the change is a far greater one than can be described.

John Kendrick Bangs, with Roderick Penfield, is at work on a comic opera which Mabelle Gilman is to bring out. It is to be called "Lady Teazle," and will be founded on Sheridan's "School for Scandal." A. Baldwin Sloane will furnish the score for the new work.

James T. Powers has gone to Europe in response to a hurried summons from Charles Frohman. It is reported as quite likely that the comedian will be seen in a forthcoming big production in the British metropolis.

Francis Wilson is still dreaming of going into the legitimate, but for next season his plans are thoroughly mapped out. He will revive "Erminie" and "The Little Corporal" next season and then may blossom forth in a straight comedy.

Kirke LaSelle is considering a proposition to send an American company over to South Africa next season to present "Arizona" there for the season.

Cheridah Simpson, the statuesque prima donna of "King Dodo," has begun an action for divorce in New York seeking a final separation from her husband, Josiah Van der Berg, who is also quite well known in the profession.

Ezra Kendall made a personal hit, but it looks as if he will hardly pull "The Vinegar Buyer" through a long run, as an early closing is predicted for the Savoy.

On the last night of "The Darling of the Gods" at the Belasco theater on May 30 there will be a celebration of the end of a very pleasant season. Mr. Belasco will preside and sing something and Mr. Roeder will entertain.

A very handsome volume of prints with an antique binding by Paul Ford, the artist, has been presented to Grace George.

Trixie Friganza anticipates joining the Weber and Fields forces in the fall.

Sam Bicahy, who has obtained the title to West's Minstrels from the widow of the late proprietor, is negotiating with both Willis P. Sweatnam and Burt Haverly for one of his end men. Both are anxious for the job.

Augustus Pitou has returned from Florida to arrange the details of Chauncey Olcott's next tour. Mr. Olcott ends his season on June 6, and goes direct to his new home in Saratoga for the summer vacation. On August 25, in St. Paul, he starts his next regular fall and winter tour with a new romantic play, which has been dramatized from a widely read novel. The drama is to be given a costly production, and many thousand dollars will be spent on scenery and costumes. Mr. Olcott has composed several new songs for his play.

Mrs. Langtry's departure for Europe will not be for long. She returns to us early in September to take part in "Mrs. Deering's Divorce," the comedy she tried so successfully in Providence about two weeks ago. She will discard all other plays during the coming season.

Mrs. Ariel Barney, whose husband at the time of his death was one of the best known theatrical managers in the country, is playing a small part in "The Runaways" in New York. Barney left nothing behind and his widow has pluckily gone to work to earn a living for herself and boy, and her friends say that her start in the big musical comedy presages a successful career in her new undertaking.

Hurtig and Seamon, two hustling ex-Cincinnatians, have just purchased ground for another theater, which they will build in New York city. It will be located on One Hundred and Forty-seventh street and will be made into a modern music hall.

Bronson Howard is to contest with Stuart Robson's heirs for the rights of "The Henrietta," his famous comedy, that was controlled during his lifetime by the late comedian. Mr. Howard maintains that under his contract the play reverted to him as soon as Mr. Robson was unable to use it. Robson is reported to have always feared that the play would fall into other hands and is said to have destroyed the manuscript in order to prevent it ever being used after his death. It is likely that the matter will be taken into the courts for final adjustment.

Frank Daniel's new opera will be written by Harry B. Smith and Clinton Crawford, and is to be called "The Jockey."

Dion Boucicault, who is the general stage manager of Charles Frohman's London theaters, is to stage "Iris" when Sara Bernhardt produces a French version of the Pinero play in Paris, and is also to appear in the cast. Mr. Boucicault will read the lines in French, which is viewed as quite a daring undertaking by his friends.

Paris has another Napoleonic play that is meeting with success at the Antoine. It is called "Ste. Helene," and pictures the fallen emperor in the last days of his exile on the island. It is the work of one of the famous female journalists, Severine, and is said to be a remarkable play.

It is now reported that Sam Bernard will be a co-star with Ethel Levey in the new musical comedy that George M. Cohan has written for her use.

Robert Drouet has purchased the dramatic rights to "Blennerhassett," which he will make into a play with a view of starring in it next season. Mr. Drouet will be a welcome addition to the ranks of the stars, and especially if he makes his play go.

W. A. Brady has made a sort of tentative offer to Forrest Robinson to play his original part in "Way Down East" in England. Brady will probably feel the ground for this remarkably successful piece when he himself goes over shortly. Our rural plays have not usually been successful on the other side.

Ada Gheen goes to London in a week to join Ethel Barrymore there, and they will travel along together. It is Miss Barrymore's intention to visit Japan on the way back, though she must arrive here in time to open her new season during the second week in September. Pheba Gheen, a sister of Ada, is to be in Maxine Elliott's company next season.

W. E. Butterfield, who is now with "Romeo and Juliet" on tour, will join the Frawley Stock company in San Francisco at the conclusion of the brief tour.

Robert Graham, of "Florodora" fame, is about to go into a vaudeville sketch for two this summer.

W. T. Ryley has cabled to his partner, John C. Fisher, that in the production here of "The Medal and the Maid," which he went over to see, he wanted Isadore Rush, Robert Graham and the two Carletons, father and son, and as a result they will be signed for a piece.

The Modern Fable of the Coming-Out Girl and a Few of Her Keen Guesses.

"My daughter, we start for the Country next week," said the elderly Society Bird to her little Chick. "Us to the Summer Hotel for a bang-up Suite at a Per Diem Rate that will put a large, deep Crimp into Papa's Income for 1903. You are now at the Pin-Feather period and Mother must teach you how to Fly. It behooves you to be Foxy, otherwise you will be engaged to so many at one time that you will get twisted in your Book-Keeping and overplay your System. You must not be chummy with any Gentleman until you have known him at least Two Days."

"No doubt I shall make many Miscues," said Isabelle, "and yet I am willing to Experiment."

"I suppose you understand that in order to be strong with the various Kinds that will be on your Trail, you must learn to be a Quick-Change Artist," said Mother. "For instance, there is the Spring Lamb with the Stingy little Coat and Big Shoes. He is just home from College and when he walks along the Veranda, it sounds like a Team going over a Bridge. If one of those Squabs should begin to pursue you, what would you do?"

"I am inexperienced, I hardly know what to say," replied little Isabelle. "I think, however, that I would tie a large Can to him, unless there was a horrible Shortage in Supply and I had to throw in a few Understudies. As a rule the pink-faced Collegian is a little shy on Collateral and more or less of a Dummy on any Topic except Himself. The way to make a Ten-Strike with him is to feel his Muscles and tell him how well his Clothes fit. If you jolly him up right or four days, you may get a nice Photograph of him and then he will bone you for one in Return, and nail it up in his Den and tell all the other Johnnies that you are crazy about him. The Trouble with the Glad College Youth is that he has been plucked a little too soon. Besides, I don't think a Man starts in to be Good Company until he is past 25."

"And some of them have a few Points to pick up after they pass 55," added Mother. "You seem to be wise to the very Young Kind. How about the Bachelor with the Tremolo Voice who wants to sit about six inches away from you all the time and look you straight in the Eye and tell you that Life was a Desert until he bumped into you?"

"That's the Time to hang out the Red Light," replied Daughter. "I've been out among 'em only two Seasons, but I've taken that Boy's Measure all right, all right. He's the kind that wants you to lean on his Shoulder and tell all your Troubles to a True Friend after he has known you about 20 Minutes, and if you

"YOU SEEM TO BE NEXT."

hang back he is Hurt and seems to think that you do him an Injustice. Then away with it so often that his Nerve is up and as for the Hufty-Dufty Talk that he has learned by Heart, it is the Kind calculated to make a Girl ashamed of herself unless she starts right in and loves him with her whole Soul. He is a pretty dangerous Proposition. You can say 'Scat!' to Perdie the Freshman, or else send him on an Errand, but Mr. Arthur Fresh, who is getting along toward 30, is so accustomed to the Throw-Down that he arises, dusts his Clothes and comes back with a Genial Smile and treats the whole Incident as a Joke. Then, if you Repent and try to Square yourself the Chances are that he will wait until you begin to act real Friendly and then he will give you the Toss and hike off after some new Geraldine. This kind likes to switch from a Blond to a Brunette about every third Day."

"THAT SETTLES IT."

"Merciful Mayonnaise!" exclaimed Mother. "I don't believe I am qualified to sit on the Side-Lines and do any Coaching for you. You seem to be Next. Did they teach you all this at Boarding School?"

"Don't give it away," said Isabelle, "but I'll tell you on the Q. T. that we have what is known as the Protective Order of Buds. The Trifler who goes up and down the Line springing the Gaff about Love at First Sight is spotted and tagged in a Hurry. There are two ways of handling this party. One is to spring his Record on him and kill him until he lets up. The other is to believe everything and String him along. The Second Method is the one usually employed by all True Artistes. The older the Bachelor the bigger the Cinch. Hold on to one of his Coat Buttons and look up at him and ask him a lot of feeble-minded Questions about the Wicked World and he will talk for Hours at a Time. But the Minute the Sun goes down, you want to yell for a Chaperone until you can be heard in the next Township. That will lead him to believe that he is a fascinating and dangerous Person. It is always a terrible Hit. I know two Girls who landed Good Things last Summer merely by sitting out in a Hammock and calling for Chaperones. They used to sit out until Midnight, begging somebody to go for a Chaperone, and the Gentlemen had to talk to them for hours in order to calm them and convince them that the Whole Proceeding was according to Hoyle; that is, as long as they were with Nice Fellows."

"I take off my Bonnet to you," said Mother. "You don't need to attend any Night School. There's just one other Variety. How about the Lonesome Married Man?"

"You mean the Kind that wants to tell you how sorry he is that he didn't find you before he hooked up with a Woman who never seems to Understand him? He is a Sad Affair. He is trying to sneak a return Trip on the Flirtation Route after he has lost his Ticket. As a Study he is fairly interesting, but the Pursuit of him is barred by the Game Laws. The best way to quiet him down is to get friendly with his Wife."

"That settles it," said the elderly Society Bird. "Any time that I want a Hunch I'll hunt up the Young Lady of Today."

POLICY KING ADAMS

Ill and Is Sent to State Hospital.

Ossining, N. Y., May 23.—Superintendent of Prisons Collins has decided to remove "Al" Adams, the former policy king, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing, to the state hospital at Dannemora. The hospital is connected with Clinton prison and all convicts who are seriously ill are sent there.

Dr. Irvine, physician of Sing Sing prison, after examining Adams on his arrival at the prison, reported that he was suffering from diabetes and consumption of the throat, and that his condition was such that he might have a stroke of paralysis at any time. Adams was assigned to the mat manufacturing shop, but he has not been able to do any hard work.

Odd jobs have been given to Adams to occupy his mind and keep him from brooding over his trouble. The date for his removal to the state hospital has not been fixed, but he will probably be taken away within a very few days.

Miller, of 529 per cent syndicate fame, is also to be removed to the state hospital. He has had several hemorrhages and is confined to his bed most of the time. He is not now in condition to be moved, but will be taken to Dannemora as soon as it is thought he can stand the journey.

TAKES HER FOURTH.

New York Divorcee Married In South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 23.—The belief that Mrs. Ralph L. Wilson, of New York city, for seven or eight months one of the most prominent members of the Sioux Falls divorce colony, had remarried before departing from South Dakota a short time ago, has been confirmed.

It has just been definitely learned that shortly following the granting of a divorce to her at Watertown, she was married at Canton, S. D., to William H. Bradford, also of New York city.

The couple left Canton soon after the ceremony was performed, with the intention of visiting a few Western cities while on their way to France, where they will remain for some time and perhaps indefinitely.

Bradford is the former Mrs. Wilson's fourth husband. While the widow of James H. Caril, of Babylon, she married Edward Cameron, a widower. A few years later he committed suicide at West Islip, L. I., under somewhat mysterious circumstances.

Cameron's widow soon afterwards married Ralph L. Wilson, of New York, by whom she had twin sons. Ultimately Wilson and his wife separated, and for two years she resided at Babylon. Last summer she disappeared and was supposed to have gone to Rhode Island, but instead came to Sioux Falls and joined the local divorce colony.

Bradford came to Sioux Falls with the present Mrs. Caril-Cameron-Wilson-Bradford, and they occupied adjoining apartments at the Cataract hotel during their stay in the city.

They were supposed to be brother and sister by some, but this alleged relationship was suspected by most to be simply a scheme to hoodwink their new-found acquaintances of the divorce colony.

BABY'S VOICE is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. Address

NORTHERN LEAGUE STARTS OUT WELL

Volz and Hart To Join the Duluth Team At Winnipeg—Fargo Won the Third Game By Davis' Poor Pitching.

NORTHERN LEAGUE.

Of all the lucky gangs that ever cavorted around in baseball togs, the Fargoites are the limitless illimitable and unlimited limit. They drew Davis yesterday and in one inning took a game from the Cardinals without any license.

After the unsuccessful left hander from Sioux Falls had been bumped for four runs in the first, Mueller the Great went in and twirled winning ball, but in the final records the game will be credited as a loss for Mueller simply on account of that one bad inning of Davis.

McCoy was the star performing Cardinal. With two on the paths in the first, he slammed out a terrific home run. McCoy made three of Duluth's five hits.

Gehring, Duluth's home run driving pitcher, replaced Hunt in center and in twice at the bat had a triple and would have had a home run but for a phenomenal catch of Treager, who pulled his drive down by climbing the left field fence. Gehring is one of the great fielders in the business as well as a steady reliable pitcher and he may be seen in an outfield position frequently from now on. Capt. Lambert continues to play a great game at first.

"Jimmy" Hart has accepted Duluth's terms and will join the Cardinals at Winnipeg, as will Volz and a new infielder named Irvine. This will strengthen the team wonderfully.

Hart will probably play first base and Capt. Lambert go back to center. The new man is an old favorite, having played here three or four seasons ago and is a great sticker. He has been playing with Columbus.

Manager Kelly informed Manager Van Praugh by telephone today that Volz would be released to Duluth immediately and was ready to go in the cardinal and green uniform in the Winnipeg series.

In a phenomenal pitchers' battle at Grand Forks yesterday Crookston lost the third straight game by a score of 1 to 0. Harris twirled for Grand Forks and held Crookston down to three scratch singles, while Martin, for Crookston, only allowed the winning team two scattered hits. It was one of the most interesting games ever seen in the Northern league. The score:

Pitchers: Harris and Martin.

The Champions made it three straight from Superior yesterday, having the game well in hand when "Scrappy Tim" Keefe sought to delay the game till a rain storm should come up. Umpire Owens ordered him to play ball, but he persisted in his disgusting tactics and the umpire ordered him off the grounds. He was fined $5, a minute later the fine was increased to $10 and then run up to $50. Keefe still refused to leave the grounds and the game was forfeited to Winnipeg, 9 to 0.

Later President Laxdal suspended Keefe, and every local fan that has seen the dirty ball playing of which Keefe has been guilty in the past is delighted with the prompt stand taken by the league president, and is hoping that Keefe will be barred from the Northern league for all time.

Olmstead, at third, had seven chances with one error yesterday, and Shepard at short missed one in four.

Duluth plays the final game at Fargo this afternoon and then goes to Winnipeg for four games, playing two with the Champions on Monday, that day being a Canadian legal holiday.

Crookston moves over to Fargo for a series of four games, and Superior goes to Grand Forks. It is safe betting that at the end of the series Grand Forks will be in first place.

Manager Barrow, of the Detroit Baseball club, has served a long apprenticeship in the minor leagues and has accumulated a fund of anecdote that would rival that of Ted Sullivan if compiled in similar form. To a bunch of fans the other day the Detroit manager unfolded a new one.

"It was while I was managing a team in Atlantic City some years ago," he said. "I found myself short of catchers. The one man who was my main reliance is now in big league company, and I am not going to give his name, but, perhaps, some of you can guess it.

"We were having a hot series with Newark when Deacon Ellis had that team, and this player was catching one day when an employe of the club rushed out to the bench and said there was a deputy sheriff from Ohio there with requisition papers for the arrest of my backstop on a charge of breach of promise. It was the fifth inning and the score was close. I hadn't anybody to put in his place, and consequently you may imagine I was at my wits' end.

"I went out to the gate and found the deputy sheriff all right, and with him was the girl. She came from Cleveland, I believe, and was determined to make it hot for the recreant ball player. They were for coming right in and yanking him out of the field to the jail. I went back inside to reason with the player.

"'Bill,' said I—we'll call him for the purposes of the story—'there's a girl out there from Cleveland that says you promised to marry her. Is that right?'

"The fellow turned pale and wanted to run for it.

"'What sort of a girl is she, anyway?' I continued.

"'Oh, she's the finest,' said he. 'I'd have married her last winter if I had had the money,' he added.

"'Well, why don't you marry her now?' I asked with a happy thought.

"He looked relieved immediately.

"'Just the thing,' said he.

"There was a justice of the peace right across the street from the ball ground, and I had all the arrangements made ahead of time. Then, while the team was batting in the seventh inning, we went over to the office, and with the deputy and myself as witnesses, the two were married in due form, the catcher getting back in time to buckle on his protector for the next inning, which, I believe, we won, 5 to 4.

"And I might add that the couple got along beautifully."

The Reliance, built by the Herreshoff Brothers for the express purpose of defending the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock III, may not find it easy sailing to dispose of the other aspirants for the honor.

Before being chosen to race against the English boat the Reliance will have to prove her superiority over the Columbia, which twice successfully defended the precious trophy, and the Constitution, which gave the Columbia such a close call for the honor two years ago.

To settle this much-mooted question the managing owners of the Reliance, Columbia and Constitution have arranged for a series of races outside to determine which boat shall be pitted against the new challenger.

It is generally conceded now that the Constitution's failure two years ago was due to her sails and not to the model of the hull, and in no respect was she more defective above deck than in the swing of the gaff.

In designing the sails of the Reliance Herreshoff has plainly kept the Constitution's defect of two years ago in mind and has entirely avoided it in the new boat.

With the peak of her mainsail well inboard the Reliance should point at least half a point higher than either of the old defenders and still retain her speed. A feature of the new boat is the ease with which she passes through the water. There is no wave under her bow, no hollow in the water abaft the rigging, and no wave under the counter to speak of, and in this respect she is much superior to the Columbia and Constitution.

As to her work in stays it is virtually admitted hat the Columbia is a trifle quicker, and very likely the Shamrock III is also a few seconds quicker in the windward work. The new boat has had one impromptu brush with the Constitution, off Glen Island, in which the old boat was given the hopeless task of a stern chase and was badly beaten.

In a subsequent sail alone the Columbia made better time over a course covered by the Reliance, but it is conceded that this is not a test of the relative merits of the two boats, as the weather conditions were not exactly the same, and to compare the work of the yachts upon the time question, according to yachtsmen, is manifestly unfair.

One of the series of four races with the Columbia and Constitution has been set for June 17, and will be held under the auspices of the Larchmont Yacht club, over the club's course on Long Island sound. The prize for which the yachts will sail is the Commodore Frederick T. Adams cup.

These races are expected to give some idea as to the merits of the three yachts, and in the subsequent trials which follow a cup defender will be selected.

Yachtsmen who have followed the doings of the Yankee boats as well as the reported trials of speed of the new challenger freely admit that Sir Thomas Liptons' new challenger, from all indications, is the best boat ever sent across the pond to lift the cup, and the defender must show wonderful speed to prevent the plucky sportsman from carrying off the prize.

Robert Barnard is the new athletic manager of the university of Minnesota.

At a meeting of the athletic board of control Monday afternoon the question was decided.

Barnard was at the head of baseball at Minnesota in 1900 and 1901, and is looked upon as a worthy successor to Manager Mike Luby, who recently resigned to give his attention to his business interests.

The duties of the new manager have been curtailed somewhat by the board. He will manage only the football team, his contract running three months, from Sept. 1 to Dec. 1, 1903.

William Deering, who was elected as an assistant athletic manager, will have charge of all the other athletic branches throughout the year.

Instead of awarding the customary "M" this year, the board decided to present the basketball players with watch fobs for the season's work and the members of the girls' basketball team with a letter M stick pin.

Mayor Johnson, of Cleveland, is determined baseball shall be played in public parks on Sunday by amateur clubs. A week ago three members of the board of public service, which has control of the parks, decided to issue permits for the playing of Sunday games.

Protests were made and City Solicitor Baker held that no such permits could be issued, because state law prohibited ball playing on Sunday, either with or without an admission fee. Then Mayor Johnson said he could see no objection to Sunday baseball, so long as nobody was disturbed by it. The board of public service, acting on the advice of the city solicitor, reconsidered its action and declined to issue permits.

Now, however, the city solicitor declares the state law was not intended to prevent playing by amateur clubs, and says the police cannot arrest players in parks without warrants, and that he will not issue warrants for such arrests. Therefore nothing stands in the way of Sunday games.

Mayor Johnson is in favor of a wide-open Sunday. He said in a public address the other day that he believed the laws should not be enforced which interfere with the individual liberty of the people, so long as the enjoyment of liberty did not interfere with anybody else.

CLUB HOUSE AND SHOOTING GROUNDS OF DULUTH CENTRAL GUN CLUB.

The accompanying cuts show two views of the grounds of the Duluth Central Gun club, which occupy a pretty tract of land belonging to East End Land company at the foot of Thirty-eighth avenue east, between London road and Lake Superior. The club has recently completed its commodious and comfortable new club house and has all the necessary equipment which belongs to a first-class organization of this nature. The traps are so arranged as to throw the clay pigeons in the direction of the lake, the trapping being done from a little box at the rear of the shooters.

One cut shows a squad of five prominent members of the club lined up ready to begin shooting for one of the class medals and the other shows them in action, shooting for the Consolidated Abstract company's A class medal. The picture was taken just as "Cap" was in the act of firing.

The Duluth Central Gun club is one of the strongest organizations of the kind in the Northwest. The membership is over eighty at the present time and new members are being added continually. The organization is on a fine financial basis and carries a substantial treasury account.

Over $300 worth of medals and trophies are hung up for the members of the club this season and regular tourneys in competition are held three times a week.

The officers of the gun club are: M. H. Alworth, president; Warren Mendenhall, vice president; A. A. Farrington, secretary; F. E. Berry, treasurer; J. W. Nelson, team captain; Frank Heimick, lieutenant. The executive board is comprised of A. A. Farrington, chairman, T. J. Storey and Philip Heimick.

SPIRIT OF THE CONFEDERACY

Lived Once More at Veterans' Reunion at New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., May 23.—To New Orleans was revealed yesterday what no man has seen for two score years or more.

For a brief hour she held close to her heart the incarnate spirit of the Confederacy, and for her it lived and breathed again.

The hour set for the great parade was 3 p. m. For an hour previous to that time, Canal street, on which the head of the march was formed, was a jumble that defied language. The people pushed here and there; they cheered and waved their flags; they stod in front of street cars and ran before horses.

Through all this press the various organizations, which were formed on Canal street, forced their way.

At 3 o'clock a bugle's shrill notes sounded "forward, march." There was a surge of the ranks, a cry of delight from the throng and then in close ranks the men of the South came on.

Up St. Charles the column turned, passing under the eyes of Gen. Gordon, too ill to take part in the parade, and marched away to the Lee monument, around one-half of which it circulated, and passed on south on St. Charles avenue to Felicity street, where the countermarch was begun on St. Charles avenue. The Lee monument was passed again on the opposite side and then the way was down Camp street to Canal, where the parade disbanded.

At the head of the column was Gen. J. B. Leverett, of New Orleans, the chief marshal, with his numerous staff.

A feature of the parade was a beautiful decorated float, upon which were seated the sixteen heralds of the reunion.

Following the young ladies were carriages in which rode ladies whose husbands had rendered distinguished services to the Confederacy. They were Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, Mrs. E. Kirby Smith, Mrs. Braxton Bragg, Mrs. Thomas J. Semmes, and Mrs. John H. Reagan.

At the head of the veterans rode Gen. C. I. Walker, commanding the department of the army of Northern Virginia.

Gen. S. D. Lee, of the army of the Tennessee department, rode with his staff just behind a carriage containing Mayor Capedeveille, Gen. A. P. Stewart and Gen. Joseph Wheeler.

Gen. Cabel, of the trans-Mississippi department, headed the last division of the old soldiers.

With each department was a carriage containing the sponsor and her maids of honor.

The Sons of Veterans were strongly represented and the parade was closed by a long line of carriages containing the ladies of various memorial and patriotic societies.

About 10,000 men were in line.

PRESIDENT AT TACOMA

Washington City Entertains Chief Executive In Royal Manner.

Tacoma, Wash., May 23.—Under a favorable blue sky the president's train rolled into the Northern Pacific depot promptly at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A multitude thronged the streets about the station and rent the air with cheers.

Little time was lost in the official reception. While the introductions to the reception committee were being made, the revenue cutter McCulloch, lying in the harbor, fired a salute of twenty-one guns.

As the president emerged from the canopy of flags at the station and entered the carriage, accompanied by Governor McBride, Mayor Campbell and Secretary Loeb, the crowd broke into cheers which the president promptly acknowledged.

Fifteen carriages swung into line, while an escort of mounted police and cavalry formed a guard.

At Division avenue the escort of G. A. R. and Spanish-American veterans dropped out of the parade and the president was taken through the residence section, passing many of the public school buildings where the children were grouped and gave him an enthusiastic reception. All the business and residence streets were profusely decorated with flags and festoons. Pictures of the president were to be seen on all sides. The streets were packed with people and the demonstrations kept the president busy bowing his acknowledgments.

Aside from the presidential party the distinguished guests in carriages included among others Senators Foster and Ankeney, of Washington; Mitchell, of Oregon; Congressmen Cushman, Jones and Humphrey, of Washington; Brig. Gen. Funston; Capt. Bleeker, commandant of the naval station at Bremerton; President C. S. Mellen of the Northern Pacific; Capt. Beestwick, U. S. N.; Capt. Coulson, commander of the revenue cutter McCulloch, and a number of mayors of neighboring cities.

While the drive about the city was progressing, the crowd thronged Wright park, where the president was to address the people. About the grand stand were massed the G. A. R. and Spanish-American veterans, while a cordon of police kept the way clear.

Cheering and college yells burst forth as the president stepped upon the platform and was introduced by Mayor Campbell. Looking down at the Spanish-American veterans the president said he understood a man who was in his regiment in Cuba was on the ground and he invited him to come on the platform. Mayor Campbell then presented Otto Winter, who was a Texas trooper in the Cuban campaign. The president shook his hand cordially and said:

"Were you with the Texans? Well, I'm awfully glad to see you. How are you getting along?"

The president's friendly remarks to the G. A. R. men and the Spanish-American veterans were particularly pleasing incidents at the park. He shook hands with the color bearer as he was leaving the stand.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Weather and Labor Dominant Issues In Business World.

New York, May 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Weather conditions and the labor situation are the dominant influences in the business world.

Unseasonably high temperature at many points, especially in the East, stimulated retail trade in wearing apparel and other summer merchandise to an unusual degree, but had a most unsatisfactory effect upon vegetation, which was promptly reflected in diminished orders for supplies, and in some cases there were cancellations.

More conservatism was also shown at the interior, where agricultural progress met with a check, and while no serious injury to the great crops is yet reported, the delay to planting induces caution among dealers.

On the whole, there are fewer wage earners voluntarily idle, yet the spirit of unrest has caused the abandonment of some new enterprises and postponement of others, which means less demand for structural materials and labor.

Payments are also less prompt, time often being asked where formerly cash transactions for a slight discount were the rule. Aside from these two adverse factors, the trade situation is favorable, and with average weather and industrial peace there is every prospect of continued prosperity throughout the country.

Manufacturing plants are generally well occupied, especially in foot wear, iron and steel. Traffic on the railways is heavy, earnings thus far reported for May exceeding last year's by 13.6 per cent and surpassing 1901 by 25.7 per cent.

Readjustment in prices of iron and steel continues, the market gradually resuming normal conditions. There is no evidence of diminished activity as yet, and in many cases prompt deliveries are urged, but as the increased capacity brings plants nearer their orders, buyers are naturally less eager to place contracts. The fact that some concessions have been made in quotations tends to postpone business, prospective buyers waiting for still more favorable terms.

Advances of about 5 per cent in wide sheetings indicate that the cotton goods market is beginning to respond to the higher raw material. A still more encouraging sign is the greater interest displayed by purchasers.

Warm weather stimulates activity in wash goods. Print cloths are firmer, and while there is no demand for regulars, order goods are sought freely. Reduced output of worsted has strengthened the tone, and the recent advances in the prices for carpets have not prevented large transactions.

There is no sign of reaction in the footwear industry. Leather is steady at recent advances. Late salted packed hides are active and higher, the general range of quotations at Chicago being materially higher. Foreign dry hides are steady, arrivals meeting with prompt absorption.

Failures this week are 191 in the United States against 192 last year, and 14 in Canada compared with 12 a year ago.

GONE TO ALASKA.

Girl Takes Six Weeks' Journey to Wed.

Sharon, Pa., May 23.—Miss Sarah Thompson, of Clarksville, will leave this week for Rampart City, Northern Alaska, where she will marry Rev. M. Edgbert Koonce, a missionary and vice president and general manager of the Rampart Gold Mining company.

Rev. Mr. Koonce was formerly pastor of the Jeannette Presbyterian church, but resigned to do missionary work in Alaska for the First Presbyterian church of Allegheny. He was first lieutenant and was in the Porto Rican campaign.

Miss Thompson will arrive at Rampart City in about six weeks, when the wedding will take place.

Blood Poison

Constitutional Blood Poison is a toxic or morbid condition of the blood from poisons introduced from without or generated within the body. When the poison is in the air in the form of microbes or bacilli, it is called contagion. When it requires actual contact it is called infection. When the poison is generated in the system it is called AUTO POISON (self poison). Syphilis is called SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON because it is a pre-eminent type and by far the more common and virulent of blood poisons. It is also called on account of its horrible ravages and great prevalence. It is stated on high authority that there is not a family free from Syphilitic Infection. If this be true then there is no such thing as Blue Blood. The so-called blue bloods are as vile as the rest of us, and the man or woman who marries takes chances. In the secondary and tertiary forms Syphilis

New Things Strange and Curious

WASHINGTON'S FACE IN THE ROCK.

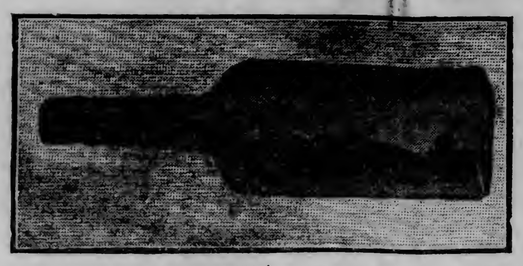
Many amateur photographers are visiting Mamaroneck, N. Y., to obtain snapshots of a remarkable likeness in stone of the face of George Washington, recently revealed near the old log house at the entrance to Orienta Point. Here Washington had his headquarters in the Revolution, and the place figures in Cooper's novel "The Spy" as the home of Harvey Birch.

The likeness was produced accidentally by some workmen who blasted out rock in order to widen the road. The property is situated on the Boston Post road, at the entrance to the millionaire colony at Orienta Point, and is now owned by the Perrin estate. The likeness is like a newspaper puzzle. It can be seen only at certain angles. It is almost impossible to notice it while standing directly in front of the rocks.

At the proper angle it is strikingly visible. The coloring of the stone helps to make the face. The mouth is outlined by a dark reddish streak. The eyes are formed by indentations and the nose by a protrusion. The neck and chin effect are almost perfect. Washington is said to have stopped at the spot and made the old house his headquarters in 1780, while he was on his way to Connecticut to meet Rochambeau for their great coup against the British. Later J. Fenimore Cooper visited the place while courting his bride, Miss Delancey, and made it famous by incorporating it in his novel.

One hundred and seven thousand tons of peanuts were bought at Marseilles in 1902 for use in making olive-oil soap.

ODD BOTTLE CAST UP BY THE SEA



Capt. John Ketcham, of Amityville, N. Y., while fishing off the beach at Long Island saw floating recently on the water a square whisky bottle. He caught it and brought it ashore, and on close inspection was surprised to see inside the bottle a complete picture of a beach scene. It was a marvelous piece of workmanship. Evidently the maker during some period of his life had learned the art of glassblowing.

According to the design it is summertime, for the doors of the tiny cottages are open and the curtains are flying to the breeze. The tall lighthouse looms up in the foreground, the lifeboat is manned, ready for action should a signal of distress be fired from over the surging waves. A flagstaff is set in the neck of the bottle, and from it floats the Stars and Stripes, while underneath the flag is a set of code signals. Pebbles and shells are strewed about the beach.

The cottages, boats, lighthouses, etc., are fastened to a groundwork of plaster of Paris, and every object used in the scene had first to be passed through the narrow neck of the bottle, which at its widest part measures but an inch in diameter. This fact alone shows what patience and skill were necessary in order to place the scene, complete as it is in each part, inside the bottle, and what a long time it would take to complete such a work of art. Captain Ketcham presented it to a lifelong friend of his—Mr. James Lush, of Amityville—who prizes it as one of his most cherished possessions.

Newspapers In Egypt

In no country has the spread of journalism during the last half century been more marked than in Egypt. One hundred and twenty periodicals are now published there, of which eighty-seven are printed in Arabic, among the latter being thirty political journals, seventeen story papers, ten religious magazines, seven legal journals, five medical journals, two agricultural papers, two women's papers, one journal devoted to Free Masonry and two comic journals. Many of these journals are very well printed and have a large circulation.

"Cuban" Newsboy.

Here is the newsboy of Havana. He is not very young nor very active. In fact, our newsboys will sell more in a day than he will in a month.

But why hurry to make money? A climate such as Havana has all the year round requires but little clothing, and a few pennies will keep body and soul together.

Why ask for money in life is the maxim in Spanish lands.

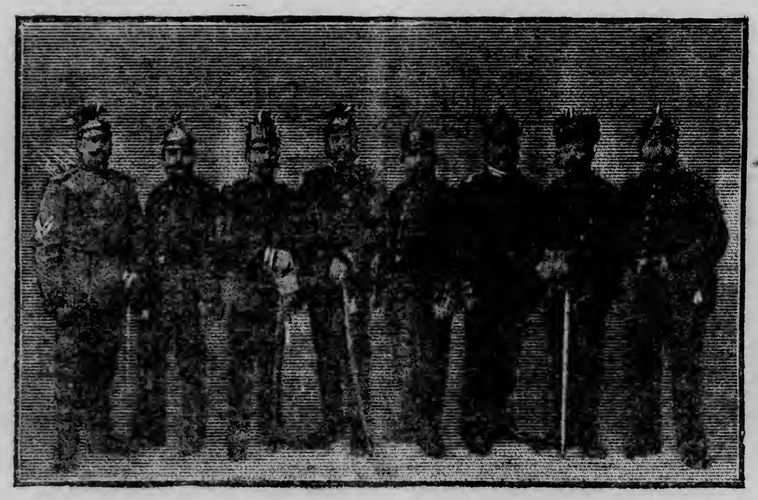
A French scientist has cheapened the production of liquid air by half, so that its use in the arts may now be profitable.

EIGHT BROTHERS IN THE ARMY.

Here are eight German brothers named Hennig, all of whom have served their time in the German Army. Happening to be assembled together not long ago, they put on their uniforms and had their photographs taken.

A copy was sent to the Kaiser, who, in return, sent the widowed mother of the eight defenders of the Fatherland a gift of 300 marks.

There is now a settlement containing 600 persons on the top of the Mount of Olives.



HONEY BEE'S WEAPON.

No one looking at a honey bee as it wings its way from flower to flower would imagine that it is equipped with such a powerful weapon as is portrayed in the accompanying picture, and yet the microscope shows that it is.

Thanks to the microscope, moreover, we now know clearly why the bee, as a rule, loses its sting whenever it inserts it into an object. Naturalists have explained that the reason why the sting generally is broken off and remains in the wound is because it is furnished with a barb, which prevents it from being drawn back to its original position. The exact location and strength of this barb, however, were not clearly known until the microscope revealed them.

From the picture we see that the sting bears a close resemblance to a large and strong saw, and is furnished not with one, but with several barbs, which effectually serve to retain it in any object into which it is driven.

Crude sugar of the new Cuban crop, which is a large one, is being sold at 2½ cents a pound.

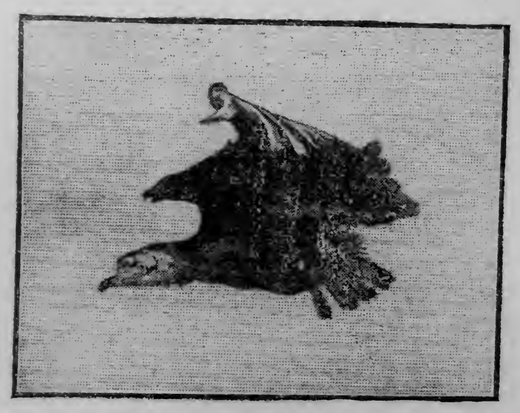
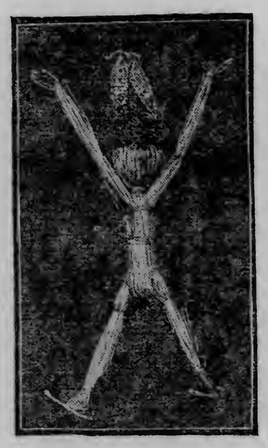
When an eagle is actually soaring in the air its appearance is far different from the pictures which the artist usually makes of him. When he first takes flight and starts upward he spreads his wings as the painter generally depicts him when high in the air, but after he has reached a sufficient elevation and wishes to travel in a horizontal direction he takes the position which is shown in the accompanying photograph, apparently forming himself into a bunch.

This picture was taken from the top of a high hill with a camera which operates in a thousandth part of a second. The shutter was snapped just as the bird was passing the photographer. As will be noted, its shape causes it to really resemble two birds, but this appearance is produced by the position of the left wing. The other photograph was taken of a bird just as it left the post on which it had been perched, the camera catching it at a height of about 10 feet in the air.

The newest cure for anemia is to take the sufferer up in a captive balloon and let him stay at a certain altitude for two hours. Half a dozen ascents of this kind during as many weeks will effect a marvelous cure, and are equal to a three-month sojourn at a health resort.





Fetish Doll.

Upon a certain day of the year the heads of households in South Africa who wish to bring good luck to their homes make an image of straw vaguely resembling a doll and throw it into the street. Within the body of the image a small coin is placed. The person who takes possession of this coin receives all the ill-luck of the household. The image is supposed to have the power of transferring it. The average small boy, however, is not troubled with superstitious fears and considers the finding of such coins a clear profit and extreme good luck.

And The Cock Crew.

A farmer recently entered a small hotel in Mainz with a handsome rooster under his arm, and in a few minutes a man approached and offered to buy it. They argued a good while about the price, and finally the men agreed to pay according to the number of times the cock crew, the amount of each crow being fixed at 50 cents. Thereupon the farmer imitated a clucking hen, and straightway the cock gallantly crew five times in succession. The purchaser at first refused to pay, on the ground that he had been tricked, but the spectators ridiculed him so unmercifully that he finally handed over the $2.50.

Two Strange Oaths.

A Chinaman was recently summoned as a witness to a court in London, and instead of being sworn in the usual manner a lighted candle was given to him, which he blew out and then said solemnly: "If I do not tell the whole truth in this case, may I be extinguished as this candle has just been extinguished." As there was no perceptible change in him after performing this ceremony it is reasonable to suppose that he did tell the truth.

A native of India, being recently summoned as a witness in an Australian court, informed the magistrate that he did not believe in the usual oath and that his testimony would be useless unless he could swear by the waters of the Ganges. The magistrate was nonplussed, but the interpreter, with a smile, left the court and returned in a few minutes with a glass full of water.

"Is that water from the Ganges?" asked the astonished judge.

"No," replied the interpreter, "but I'll tell him that it is, and he'll certainly believe me."

He was right. The Indian swore by the holy water, never dreaming that it had been obtained from a nearby pump.

A Difficult Problem.

Those long-suffering individuals who stand at the borders of Uncle Sam's dominions and look after the collecting of customs and duties between here and Mexico are "up against it," in schoolboy language. In order to find out the exact amount payable in Mexican money, according to the latest dictum of the Finance Minister, they must multiply one-half of the duty computed at the prevailing rate by 247¼, the rate of exchange for gold, and divide the product by 100.

This reduction of United States currency to Mexican money by so long and tortuous a route reminds one of childhood days of wrestling with "reduction to lowest terms" and all the wrinkles that grew in one's tired brain during that agitating, aggravating period of the school curriculum.

England spends five and a half millions yearly in foreign eggs.

An American has invented an envelope which records any attempt to tamper with its contents. The flap is imbued with some chemical composition which, when operated upon by a dampening process or any other means of penetrating to its inclosure, records the transaction by causing the words "Attempt to open" to appear. It is thought that the inquisitive will think twice before pursuing their researches in face of such an invention.

Candle Crowned.

In Sweden, on St. Lucia's Day, December 13, young ladies dressed in white and crowned with chaplets of lighted candles visit the houses of the poor, bringing food in wooden bowls.

This pretty and practical custom is of great antiquity, and, like other old customs, appears to be of mixed Christian and pagan origin. The name Lucia means luminous. St. Lucia was a Christian martyr, to whose head a Roman prefect ordered lighted candles to be fastened, but she was not injured by the flames, and so was put to the sword.

On the other hand, Lucia may be considered as a translation of Berchta, "the shining one," of old Germanic mythology. She is also called Holda, and is an incarnation of Freya, the sun goddess, the consort of Wotan.

OLD MEXICAN VASE.

Among the strange and valuable objects which have been recently installed in the Mexican Hall of the American Museum of Natural History, of which Mr. Marshall H. Saville is curator, is a wonderful terra cotta jar, designed and decorated in imitation of a turkey. This is considered the most magnificent specimen of ancient American ceramics so far discovered.

Besides the striking and artistic turkey head handle, the most extraordinary feature of the jar is its ornamentation of solid gold leaf, with which it was profusely decorated in former times, many layers of which still remain on the jar. It is considered to be a priceless example, illustrating the culture and workmanship of that mysterious civilization which flourished a thousand years ago in Mexico.

The jar is thought to have been a funeral or votive offering, which was one of the essential mortuary rites of the people of that time. Its age cannot be accurately stated, but it probably reaches back for 1,000 years or more. It was found by Carl Lumholtz during one of his exploring expeditions. It came to light while digging in a private garden in the City of Teple, which had evidently been in remote times the site of some temple or wealthy burial place.

Two skeletons were unearthed. Around the neck of one was found 28 balls of solid gold, also a large breastplate ornament of gold.

DULUTH'S NEIGHBORS

Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The concert given Wednesday evening at the Norden hall by C. H. Week's local chorus class proved one of the finest entertainments given here in a long time, thought the attendance was not what it should have been. Miss Laura Frankenfield, reader, and Miss Minnie Gregory, soprane, of Duluth, assisted much in making the program a success.

E. M. Owens who has been on the sick list the past few weeks is now able to be about again.

County commissioner F. W. Walker transacted business at Duluth on Tuesday.

The street force have been cleaning up and improving First avenue the past week.

The local schools will close next Friday for the summer vacation.

The weather and water in the streams is becoming just warm enough to make the trout active, the streams have plenty of water and from now for the next few weeks at least the fishing should be excellent.

The dance given Friday evening at the Norden hall by the Bachelors' club proved a very enjoyable and successful affair.

The steamers Prentiss and Sachem and barges Kalkaska, Pryor and Cormorant took on cargoes of lumber at the docks here the fore part of the week from the Ely Power for Chicago. There has been lumber boats loading here steady for the past month. There is room at the dock for but three boats and at times there has been five or six boats waiting. Some of them have been compelled to transfer their cargoes to Duluth.

G. A. Rock has returned from a two weeks' vacation and has resumed his duties as the Oregon station, and Mr. Pigelow has returned to the scale office at Highland.

E. St. George was up from Endion on Saturday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. W. Goldsworthy and daughter, Mrs. J. A. Graves of Ely, are visiting with Dr. Goldsworthy here for a few days.

The C. M. Hill Lumber company though they have removed their mill from Drummond station, still have about a million feet of lumber there, which they are now shipping, having loaded a cargo for the steamer Ida Keith from here this week.

The entertainment held at the Norden hall Saturday evening by the local Norwegians, the event of their national holiday, proved a success and very interesting, though John Jenswold, Jr., of Duluth who was to be the leading speaker of the evening, missed his train and was unable to be present.

Quite a number from here attended the Maccabee banquet at Duluth last Thursday evening.

The first diamond drill for the Highland Range was received from Hibbing this week and will be put to work on the McLeod property.

The boat captains report very foggy weather on Lake Superior this week and difficult navigating.

The Ames Restaurant on Poplar street has been reopened. Mr. W. R. Merritt being in charge.

Nick Cowling of Ely visited with relatives here a few days this week.

The Duluth Consignment company will open a store today at 225 Poplar street to dispose of a large stock of dry goods.

No business of a startling nature was transacted at the council meeting Monday evening. The matter of rock being left on the streets by contractors Ecklund Haugsten & Ranquist after completing their East addition contract, was taken up. The contractors claiming that the village had given them permission to leave same on the streets, as the village was to use it for street work. As no record could be found of any such permission being given the matter was referred to a committee to investigate and report at the next meeting.—The street commissioner reported that the foot bridge on Pine street between Fifth and Sixth avenues was settling and is in a dangerous condition.—Postmaster Rosen reported a total of $1 fines collected for the week in his department.—Liquor license applications of Adolph Nyberg of the Union saloon, nine of Adolph Peterson, whose saloon is at 301 First avenue, were taken up. The latter was granted a license, but Chief of Police Yernberg made a written communication to the council stating that during the past year while Nyberg has been proprietor of the Union saloon considerable trouble has been had with him; that he had repeatedly been guilty of infractions of the law governing such places, and that notwithstanding warnings, threats, arrests, fine and punishment, there had been no improvement, and stated that he thought it to the best interests of the village and of law and order that the license be not granted. Resolution was then offered and carried by unanimous vote refusing license to Mr. Nyberg.—In the matter of additional machinery for the light plant it was decided that the following is needed: One 150 H. P. alternator, approximate cost, $3000; one 240 H. P. engine, approximate cost, $3000, one 200 H. P. boiler, approximate cost, $2000, condenser and feed water heater, approximate cost, $1000; total, $9000. It was decided to employ Oscar Clausen, electrical engineer of St. Paul, to draw complete plans and specifications for the additions, improvements, etc., to the lighting plant and resolution passed accordingly.—Liquor license applications were received from the following: Gust Nelson, lot 1, block 1, No. 123 First avenue; Andrew Johnson and Fred Wickstrom, North Shore house, No. 106 Poplar street; August Lingren, lot 2, block 5, being No. 217 First avenue; Emery LeVack and David Jam, lot 11, block 5, being No. 221 First avenue; Andrew Olson, lot 1, block 3, being No. 200 First avenue; Fred Hagberg, lot 9, block 5, being No. 231 First avenue; Oscar Dahl, lot 8, block 3, being No. 215 First avenue; William Merrill, lot 13, block 5, being No. 215 First avenue; P. O. Peterson, lot 12, block 5, being No. 219 First avenue; John Swanstrom, lot 1, block 4, facing Cedar street; Hedman & Anderson, lot 15, block 5, being No. 206 First avenue; S. A. James, lot 2, block 3, being No 204 First avenue.

Frank Bury has recovered from his recent attack of scarlet feter and is now able to be about again.

The local Y. M. C. A. has decided to open a boys' department for boys 12 to 16 years of age; the membership to be $2.50 per year.

P. Drummond, secretary of the C. M. Hill Lumber company, was in town Thursday on business.

The steamer Walter Scranton discharged a cargo of coal at the docks here the latter part of the week. Over 50,000 tons of coal has been received at the docks so far this season.

Mrs. E. M Owens was called to Oshkosh, Wis., by the serious illness of her mother at that place.

A small show with a 5-legged calf as an attraction "done" the town for a few dimes this week.

The members of the local lodge, A. F. and A. M., will attend the services at the First M. E. church tomorrow morning. They will march from their hall to the church in a body.

The Alger-Smith company have discontinued shipping logs from off their line to their Duluth mill for a few weeks, owing to a shortage of logs.

Peter Thompson, employed on a train picking up logs with a derrick car along the tracks between here and Waldo Sunday, sustained a compound fracture of the leg. While coming into town the crane on the derrick was up and caught on some telegraph wires that crossed over the track, breaking one of the telegraph poles off and it falling, struck Thompson, who was sitting on a car of logs, with the above result.

Chief Engineer R. Angst, of the Duluth & Iron Range, was in town on business on Wednesday.

The ladies of the M. E. church gave a very pleasant and successful strawberry and ice cream social at the basement of the church last evening.

The Duluth Log company are shipping a large number of cedar posts from their spur near Drummond, to the Northern Pacific railway.

E. J. Steurward will open a jewelry store at 228 First avenue in a few days.

E. A. Daniels, F. Ebben, T. J. Brown, J. Cummings, Alex McDonald, E. J. Steurward and James McDonald, from this place, went to St. Paul Wednesday to attend the shrine meeting of the Osman Temple.

Redy and Anker finished their logging contract for the Alger-Smith company at Mile 3 this week. Contractor Landberg also expects to finish his shipments of ties from there in about another week.

Miss Tena Gabrielon, employed at the steam laundry, had one of her hands badly crushed Monday by getting it caught in a mangle; some bones were crushed, but it is thought the hand can be saved.

Mrs. John Shea was called to Binghamton, N. Y., this week by the serious illness of her mother at that place. Mr. Shea accompanied her.

The tug Gladiator with a raft of logs from the Merrill & Ring works at Split Rock, passed her on Thursday, bound for Duluth.

Charles E. Ecklund, an old resident of this place, has purchased a large farm move his family there shortly, where near Trade lake, Wis., and expects to they will reside in the future.

A large forest fire started in the Knife River valley, west of town Thursday, probably in some of the old timber cuttings.

The Two Harbors Improvement company have secured options on the lots on Second avenue, across from the postoffice and expect to purchase them as a location for the new $50,000 Opera house they are to build.

The county commissioners have advertised for bids on the new jail and sheriff's residence; said bids to be received up to 10 o'clock a. m. June 16, 1903, by County Auditor Paulson, and a sum of 5 per cent of the amount bid must accompany the tender. About $18,000 is to be spent for same.

Tower.

Tower, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Roy this week sold a one-fourth interest in the northwest quarter of section 6, 58-13 to John B. Dow of Denver, Colorado, for a consideration of $12,500. It is said that Mr. Dow represents an Eastern furnace company. The land is thought to be valuable for iron ore. Some exploration work was done thereon last fall by the Sharon Iron company and one hole was put down 300 feet with a diamond drill. Whether or not iron ore was found has of course been kept a secret but it is generally believed that a mine will soon be in operation there.

John Tanko was seriously injured, while at work in the eighth level in No. 7 shaft at the Minnesota mine last Monday night by a premature blast. He is at the Soudan hospital where he lingers between life and death and his physicians say he cannot recover. John Bruelle, another miner, was also injured by the blast but not seriously. This is the first fatal accident to occur at this mine for many months.

A severe wind and rain storm did considerable damage about town Tuesday afternoon. One of the large plate glass windows in N. J. Benson's drug store was blown out and broken. The brick veneered wall on the east side of the Williams' building was also blown so far out of place that it had to be torn down.

The Soudan Dramatic club are planning to give one of their delightful entertainments at the opera house here soon.

John Gagnon left Monday morning for Seattle, Washington, from which place he expects to leave about June 2 for a three years' sojourn in Alaska.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sherman are in the city this week from their Rice river homestead.

H. Segal, of Buhl, was in the city, a couple of days this week, having been called here by the serious illness of his brother, M. J. Segel.

Mrs. W. H. McQuade arrived home Friday evening from a week's visit in Duluth.

Mrs. Jane Sleggett and daughter, Miss Eliza, are expected home today after an extended visit with relatives at Bessemer, Alabama.

W. F. D. Long, of Virginia, is spending the week with his family here.

Charles Roland and young son returned home Thursday evening from a short visit in the Zenith city.

L. M. Linnell, of Embarrass, was a business caller in the city, Monday.

T. J. Walsh and John Veitch returned home Saturday evening from a couple of days' business visit in Duluth.

James Croke came up from Two Harbors Saturday and spent a few hours with friends.

Mrs. John L. Alman went to Ely Saturday evening for a short visit with friends before joining her husband, who has lately engaged in the bakery business in Duluth.

Albert Weinzierl, the jeweler, left Saturday morning for Minneapolis for a week's visit with his parents.

Mrs. and Mrs. E. E. Barnidge have returned home from their Duluth visit.

Fosston.

Fosston, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A celebration in honor of Norwegian independence day was held at Sheylin last Saturday. There was a large crowd present from the surrounding country, and a number from Fosston were also on hand to help along the good time, including the members of the baseball team. There was speechmaking and races and games, the main attraction being a game of ball between the Shevlin team and a nine picked up at the last moment from here. In spite of the fact that a very strong wind was blowing, the game was an exciting one and was very closely contested. The Fosston players lined up for the game in the following positions: Kingdom, catcher; A. Nicial, pitcher; Pohlman, first base; Phinney, second base; F. C. Nicial, third base; Neilson, shortstop; Hesthness, right field, Eaton, center field; Bindtner, left field. The battery for the Shevlin team was Andrews and Lyons. The Shevlin twirler pitched a fine game, striking out no less than twenty of the Fosston players, but he was so wild that he gave a large number of bases on balls which enabled the Fosston boys to win the game, by a score of 6 to 3. There is talk that a return game will be played in this city on Decoration day. The members of the local team speak very highly of the courteous treatment they received at the hands of the Shevlin players.

Walker.

Walker, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The partially decomposed body of an unknown man was found about a mile and a half south of Backus last Saturday, and Deputy Coroner J. S. Scribner summoned a jury to inquire into the circumstances of his death. There was nothing on the body by which identification could be made and the features were almost unrecognizable. The man was apparently about 35 years of age, and there were marks on the wrists and a displacement of the clothing that seemed to indicate that the body had been dragged for some distance. No marks of violence, however, were discovered. Some months ago a man named McGillivray disappeared after having a quarrel with others in the neighborhood, and it is possible that parties who knew him may be summoned as witnesses to see if they can identify the deceased. In the meantime the body was buried Sunday on the spot where found, but will be exhumed if it should be decided to proceed further with an investigation to settle the question as to whether there was foul play.

Mrs. Lovely, of St. Paul, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wilcox, left for home Monday morning. Fred La Favar, the druggist, is in the Twin Cities on business.

Mrs. Chapin has been very sick with measles this week but is recovering.

Rev. Woodcock, a graduate of Chicago Theological school, is here preaching for the congregational society in view of becoming the permanent pastor. His first two sermons made a good impression.

Preparations are being made to hold the Decoration day services in the M. E. church on May 31, instead of Saturday, and Attorney Stanton will give the oration. There will be excellent singing and the services will be of a union character. The local pastors being present.

Major G. L. Scott, Indian agent, was here on Tuesday and is greatly pleased with the outcome of his work against the selling of liquor to Indians. It is rumored that the official will now turn their attention to other offenders in towns on the reservation.

A. G. Bernard returned from a visit to St. Paul on Wednesday.

Proctorknott.

Proctorknott, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The young ladies of Proctor First Methodist church were the managers of a successful basket social, Friday evening, May 15. Though the baskets were not as numerous as expected, yet there was a goodly number. The young men of the town more than held up their end of the evening entertainment, baskets being sold at from $1 to $6.25. Rev. E. P. Stevenson was the auctioneer, and was largely responible for the prices the baskets brought. Several of the young men tried to form a basket trust, but could not succeed in their ambition, owing to the capital being so well divided amongst the bidders. One young man made a brilliant attempt to do the Pierpont Morgan act, and very nearly succeeded. His capital fell out, but the baskets didn't. Piano selections and songs were rendered during the evening. The party broke up at about 11:30.

Dr. Forbes delighted a large crowd in Proctor, Thursday evening, May 14, when he gave, in his usual forcible manner, a lecture in the First M. E. church. His subject was, "What is Man Worth." After the lecture was over, quite a number of the doctor's old friends took the opportunity of bidding him good-bye and wishing him a safe journey.

William McMurtie, general foreman of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, who has just recovered from a serious illness, will take a trip East shortly. His family will accompany him.

A number of the Proctor young people are interested in forming a tennis club, and a meeting will be held Tuesday evening of next week when arrangements will be made to procure suitable ground and attend to other details.

Miss Mayme Harvey, of West Duluth, and Miss Mae Bell, Duluth, were visiting friends in Proctor, Sunday.

E. Canane, M. A. Kemp, G. Trempe and W. Crawley, took in the M. W. dance at West Duluth, Thursday.

The ladies of the Catholic church will give an ice cream social Saturday evening, May 23, in the village hall.

M. A. Kemp and W. A. Edwards spent Wednesday and Thursday fishing at Stono lake.

Miss Slara Renand attended the Royal Neighbors' dance at West Duluth, Wednesday evening.

BAD BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Chicago, May 23.—After a terrific struggle, in which he was probably fatally wounded, E. H. Lucas, who has national notoriety as a professional burglar, was captured here yesterday. With his right arm shattered by a bullet and abdomen perforated by another bullet, he escaped from three officers and was captured only when he fell exhausted from loss of blood. He is said to be well known to the police of New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other large cities.

Deerwood and Return.

The Northern Pacific railway sells tickets to Deerwood and return as follows:

Leaving Friday or Saturday, returning Monday	$2 85
Leaving any day, returning thirty days	3 80
25-ride book ticket	25 00

Here is the place to enjoy good fishing for a few days.

For tickets and full information call at city office, 332 West Superior street, or Union depot.

Cadet Stories—A Lesson In Values.

BY W. W. WHITELOCK.

Young McChesney was so good that it was likely to hurt him.

At least that was the verdict on the stuck-up little red-headed prig by "Shorty" Carson and his particular "gang" at the Norwood Military Academy. They did not specify, though, by what means the hurt might come.

"Shorty" and Feaster had been caught by the officer of the day out of bounds, and in punishment therefore they had been placed on the fourth delinquency and given delinquent guard for two weeks. Suspicion was strong in their minds against McChesney as the informer, and they determined on revenge at the expiration of the period of punishment.

Twelve days later, on Saturday afternoon, as young McChesney was lounging against a tree near the drill hall, "Shorty" sauntered carelessly toward him.

"Why, hello, McChesney!" he cried. "I haven't seen you for a coon's age. Where have you been keeping yourself?"

"Oh, I've been working pretty hard lately," he replied. "I'm going to lead the class this year."

"Indeed?" exclaimed the older youth. "Then you're pretty apt next year to be sergeant major or first sergeant, ain't you?"

"Of course I am. Colonel Wells has already spoken to me about my mathematical recitations."

"Well, that's not so remarkable; he spoke to me, too, about mine. I don't imagine, though, he said quite the same thing to us."

"By the way," exclaimed "Shorty," suddenly, "I hear you're a great runner. How fast can you do a mile in?"

"Oh, something under six minutes."

"Six minutes?" cried "Shorty," evidently deeply impressed. "Now, I tell you what let's do—It's just a mile around the edge of the field here, so let's you and me take a turn round and see how long it takes us. I'm pretty good on runnin' myself, but, of course, I can't do a mile as fast as you.

"Well," said McChesney, doubtfully, "do you think we have time before two o'clock?"

"Sure!" cried "Shorty," drawing out his watch, which with wise forethought he had turned back ten minutes. "You see, it's only twenty minutes to two by my watch."

"Captain," said "Shorty," saluting Sams, "I have to report the capture of this spy and informer. He was taken red handed."

"Very well, sentry, he will be tried red handed. Prisoner, sit down."

Sams pointed to a heap of burrs at the trunk of the tree.

"What is the meaning of this outrage?" cried McChesney angrily. "I will report——"

But he got no further, for at a sign Sams Saunders and Lovejoy seized him, and with a dexterous twist they landed him directly on top of the burr heap.

"Ouch! Ouch!" cried the unfortunate youth, but as an attempt to rise was accompanied by a threatening movement on the part of his two guardians he thought better of the matter and continued to repose on his seat of torture, squirming in agony.

"Prisoner," said Sams gravely, "in future you will be even more of a 'stickler' for punctiliousness than ever. But to proceed with the trial. You have been taken red-handed in the crime of spying and informing. You are, therefore, to be tried, not by a drumhead, but by a chestnut burr court-martial. Are you guilty or not guilty of informing on Cadets Carson and Feaster?"

"I am not guilty—I swear I am not guilty. I never told on 'em, honest!"

"You never told on 'em 'honest.' Well, I never for a moment supposed it was honest. However, you say that as though you really believed it yourself, so we won't press that charge. There are others. Is it true, McChesney, that you are the cleverest boy in the third class? The prisoner will please stop wriggling. It disturbs the court."

"I didn't say I was the cleverest boy," replied McChesney. "Professor Perkins said so."

"And Professor Perkins teaches Sunday-school, too!" sighed Lovejoy tragically.

"Prisoner," continued the presiding judge, "did not 'Dutchy' Schmidt yesterday solve that problem in geometry you got stuck on?"

"Yes, but——"

"Never mind any buts. We'll do the butting when the time comes. Isn't Thistlewood's average in algebra higher than yours?"

"Yes," admitted McChesney reluctantly.

"I have to report the capture of the spy."

"Well, come on!" cried McChesney, with sudden determination, "we'll have a try, any how!"

"Shorty" could have leaped for joy, but not a word or look betrayed his triumph.

"Well, you lead off and set the pace," he said, and the next moment the two boys were running lightly over the soft grass toward the corner of the field nearest the chestnut tree where "Shorty" and Feaster had been caught out of bounds.

The instant that "Shorty" and his companion were under way four watchful boys behind the drill hall cleared at a leap the fence into the next field and went speeding across, by a short cut, toward the chestnut tree.

"Oh, my!" suddenly cried "Shorty," as they drew near the first turn. "Just wait a moment. Such—a—stitch—in—side!"

Instantly McChesney came to a halt, and violently panting, approached his companion, who was leaning on the fence as though in severe pain.

"What's—what's the matter?" he panted. "A stitch?"

But the sentence was never finished, for like a tiger "Shorty" turned and threw his arms about him.

"Let go o' me! What do you mean?" cried McChesney angrily, struggling as though in the grip of a devil fish. "I'll report you."

"Well, perhaps, later on, but not just yet," was the calm reply. "At present you just climb through that fence and come along with me; some friends of mine are waiting for you."

"This is an outrage," began McChesney angrily, but a sudden twist of his left arm caused his protest to end in a cry of pain.

McChesney realized the futility of resistance, so without further protest he crept through the fence with his jailer.

"Now, march, double time!" ordered "Shorty," and captor and captive broke into a sharp trot in the direction of the fatal chestnut tree. On passing the watch fiend the four other members of the band came in sight—Feaster, Saunders, "Monkey" Sams and a boy named Lovejoy—comfortably seated within its shade and awaiting their arrival.

"Battalion, halt!" cried "Shorty," and McChesney brought up with a sharp exclamation as a final twist was given to his wrist.

"Well, that is enough on that subject. I simply wanted to show you that there are others beside yourself, even in the unimportant branches of algebra and geometry. Now for the things that really count. How old are you?"

"Sixteen."

"Say, 'sir' when you speak to your superiors. You acknowledge, don't you, that Lovejoy can put you on your back five times in two minutes? Or shall I order him to do it? Speak!"

"Yes, he can do it," said McChesney sullenly.

"And jumping. Can't Saunders jump further backward than you can forward, hey? He won't answer, won't he? Well, just press him down more comfortably into his seat."

The two boys made a movement to obey.

"No, no! I'll answer!" cried the unfortunate lad. "Yes, Saunders can beat me jumping. I acknowledge he can."

"Prisoner," suddenly cried Sams, "is there anything you can do better than anybody else, even if it's only shooting marbles?"

"He's pretty good at reporting people," suggested Feaster, but Sams waved him aside.

"Stand up," continued the relentless judge. "No, you needn't bother about getting those stickers out till you get back to the academy. They'll keep. Cadet McChesney, we have given you a fair and square trial, and since you have sworn that you did not report your two classmates the court has graciously decided to acquit you of the charge. But don't try it again. One word more. We have wasted our valuable time in proving your inferiority to your schoolmates from algebra up to jumping, so just recall this pleasant half hour the next time you are tempted to turn up your nose at your superiors. Do you see that path? Well, march! And if you report us——"

The threat was lost on McChesney, who was already speeding like a kildare in the direction of the academy.

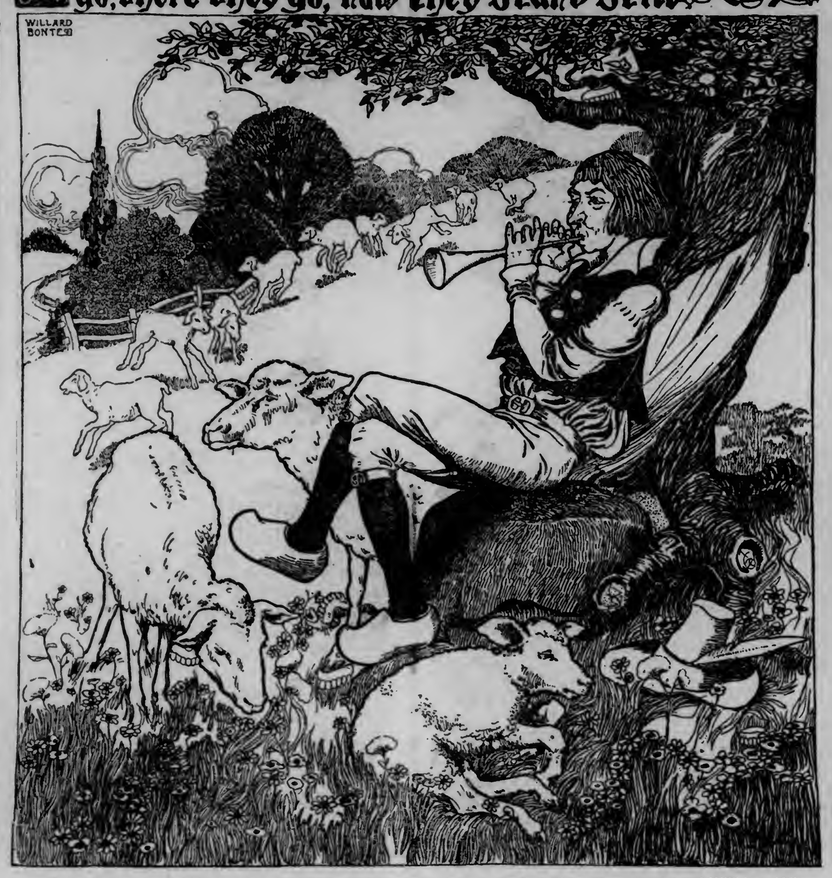
"S'pose he gives us away!" murmured Saunders weakly. "They'll fire us."

"Oh, but he won't," said Sams reassuringly; "those burrs will remind him not to for some time to come."

And Sams was right.

Dolly has lost her leg. Can you find it?

A flock of white sheep upon a red hill—There they go, there they go, now they stand still.



You will all see the white sheep in this picture plainly enough, but "A Flock of White Sheep Upon a Red Hill" is a riddle, too. The answer to it is hidden in six places. It is something you all have, unless you are very little babies. Can you find the six answers?

How The Steadfast Won An Exciting Race.

BY JOHN W. HARRINGTON.

Challenges had been exchanged between the Knickerbocker Yacht Club and the Ulster Squadron, and the day for the race had been set. By the lake, at times smooth as glass, at others stirred by a breeze which rippled its surface, stood the thickly-clad partisans of the Anemone III. Poised on the edge of that body of water which had made Central Park famed among all yachtsmen was the Steadfast, on which the Knickerbockers had pinned faith and sails. Elbert Gale, chief owner of the noble craft, stood on the shore near the starting point, swinging his cap and calling every few minutes that the yacht was as steady as a church.

"And as slow," added Robert Leech, the commodore of the Ulsters.

The day was bright and sunny and the news of the race had drawn to the lake a great throng. As everything was made ready for the contest of jibs and spinnakers and flaring sails the excitement grew to fever heat. The crews of the yachts were hastily placed on board. Jump Jack, veteran of a hundred squalls, stood at the wheel of the Steadfast. Hank Yarn, his suit of blue the worse for wear, was lashed to the tiller of the Anemone III. The slanting rays of the sun caused a smile to appear on the faded and worn face of Hank Yarn as he threw a ravelled sleeve carelessly over the steering gear and leered up at the interested spectators.

Old men who had been walking in the park went down to the edge of the lake by scores. The General was there, leaning on his stout cane. The Colonel, who said that he had sailed catboats in the Great South Bay when he was young, forgot his gout and hastened with all speed to see the start of the race.

"Go it," cried he, "and may the best yacht win," meaning that the Anemone will show as clean a pair of heels as ever churned the blue.

Owing to the overhanging wall and to the fact that the great gilded dome beyond cut off the wind the race was sailed in puffs and sudden squalls. With all sail set, the rival yachts crossed the line to the loud roar of the brass cannon on the shore fired by the Commodore of the Knickerbockers. The white-fronted buildings far beyond echoed with the report, more spectators were attracted to the spot and the presence of so many persons interfered at times with the jockeying of the two military advisers. The steering gear of the craft, which had been bound fast, made the race all the harder, and the General and the Colonel were obliged to lean far out at times in order to keep the vessels on their courses. Once a gust of wind caused the masts and cordage of the craft to creak and the topsail of the Steadfast was nearly carried away.

The course was from the angle in the wooden platform to the Whistling Buoy standing on the shore of the lake. Both vessels had glided away from the guidance of the walking sticks of the General and the Colonel and upon luck and the favoring breezes depended the finish of the contest.

The friends of Robert Leech, commodore of the Ulsters, and of Elbert Gale, of the Knickerbockers, made the park ring with their yells. Hank Yarn and Jump Jack, on board the rival yacht, seemed to have lost all interest, for, grinning and lazy, they bent over wheel and tiller and gazed into each other's faces, smiling in their own meaningless way.

It seemed for one brief moment as though the Anemone III. would win, for she reeled and spun, and heeling well over on her port side left the Steadfast six lengths behind. The breeze was too strong for her, however, and the straining of her top hamper sounded like the wail of an overloaded market basket.

"I told you the topsail was too heavy," cried the General.

He had hardly spoken than the Anemone III keeled completely over on her port side and dipped her sails in the rippling waves.

The Steadfast easily swept past her capsized rival.

"Look at that," cried the Colonel. "The Steadfast is skimming it with a chip on her hat. She's as steady as a church."

The Steadfast, strong and fit, was borne home in triumph and today she is hailed as the queen of all the craft which skim the waters of the great yachting lake of Central Park.

Dog And Adjective Game.

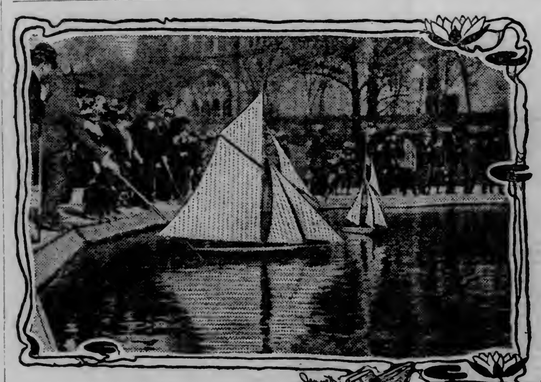
This is a very simple game, but it may readily be made a very helpful one to those who desire—as who does not?—to increase their knowledge of words. It may be played without preparation and will be played in that way, perhaps, as a rule; but to make it give the best service in a teaching way, arrange, if convenient, so that the players may know of it a day or so in advance. In that case they may have a chance to look over their textbooks, or the dictionary, to become familiar with as many adjectives as possible.

The players seat themselves in two rows, facing each other, and the first player on one side begins by saying:—"Our dear little dog is active."

Then the player opposite to him must take up the phrase, and before the first player can count ten must substitute some other adjective beginning with "a" for "active;" thus, "Our dear little dog is amiable." If he fails, he drops out of the game; but if he gives a correct answer, he then counts ten while the second player on the other side is getting an answer ready.

Thus the phrase passes from one side to the other, until all the players on one side are out.

The game may be continued for some time if desired, by using adjectives beginning with the other letters of the alphabet.



The spectators were deeply interested.

which was once and for all to decide whether Knickerbockers or Ulsters were to hold sway in the yachting world behind the great grey wall.

"It's a fine breeze," said the General; "a spanking breeze. Craving your pardon," he added, softly, "for recalling aught that might offend the very young."

He leaned on his cane, and when the Anemone III. was permitted to enter the waves he reached forth with his staff and turned the craft in such a manner that she headed straight across the shimmering expanse. She stood away on the starboard tack, with every sail full and drawing.

"That is a gentle," said the Colonel, "at which two can play."

He leaned leeward, and with a walking stick brought the Steadfast around, so that she, too, got the full benefit of the breeze, for she had been hanging in the wind waiting for her skipper to give her a chance.

No time was lost. The Ulsters and the Knickerbockers made the air ring with their shouts. The General, who had fought in three wars, leaped up and down and waved his cane, and once took off his broad-brimmed hat and tossed it high in the air.

The Strange Visit Of The Sea Swallow.

BY JOHN ERNEST McCANN.

"Now, how in the world did that little fellow get here?"

That was what Lieut. Robert Kittridge, of the United States cruiser Antelope, said to himself one day in the South Pacific Ocean as a beautiful sea swallow flew into the starboard rigging.

And no wonder that Lieutenant Kittredge made that ejaculation, for his ship, the Antelope, was over 500 miles from the Western Coast of South America, and no vessel had been sighted that day, and it was then 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

First, he would put his pretty head upon one side, then upon the other, and look at Lieutenant Kittredge in such an inquiring manner that Lieutenant Kittredge wished that his little boy and girl could see him. But, of course, that was impossible, for they lived away off in the State of Massachusetts, thousands of miles from the vast and lonely South Pacific, and Lieutenant Kittredge had not seen them for nearly three years. That thought made Lieutenant Kittredge sigh, and say, as he dropped into a steamer chair:

"I wish I were that little sea swallow! I would do some pretty swift flying in the direction of the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and of a little boy and girl I used to know pretty well once upon a time!"

And then a strange thing happened, for as Lieutenant Kittredge's head sank upon his breast his soul seemed to enter that of the swallow, and the swallow flew away toward the Coast of South America—up the coast—across Central America, over the Gulf of Mexico, up the Atlantic, through Massachusetts Bay, up Boston harbor, until it reached Minots Ledge, the most famous lighthouse on the Atlantic Coast! On the tip top of Minots Ledge it alighted and rested a little; and then, reinvigorated, away it flew, and never stopped flying until it landed on a lawn in West Newton.

About 6 o'clock that evening Lieutenant Kittredge's wife and children were sitting at the supper table (for in the country they have dinner at midday), when little Bobby Kittredge said, excitedly, to his mother and little sister, Mynny:

"Look at that strange little bird peering in at the window!"

The window was immediately raised by Mrs. Kittredge, and in flew the airy pilot of a longing soul with a triumphant chirp.

Around and around the supper table he delightedly circled, alighting first on one head and shoulder and then on another, until he finally rested right in the palm of Bobby Kittredge's hand, which, after a moment, he left to fly upon the breast of Mynny Kittredge. And then from palm to palm, and head to head, he flew and ate bits of cold trout with great relish, as if he had for a long time fasted. He would ing how he could possibly know, and when he told them little things about the bird that they had forgotten their wonder grew into Fourth of July excitement! Then he told them of a dream he had in the far-away South Pacific on that particular evening on which the bird came, and the dream was so exactly like the story of the bird's visit that they were speechless with suppressed wonder until Bobby cried in stentorian tones of incredulity:

"But how could you possibly be a bird, papa?"

"I don't say that I was the bird, little dears," answered Lieutenant Kittredge, with his arms very tight about Bobby and Mynny, "but I do say that away off there in the South Pacific I enjoyed your trout here, in West Newton, one night last September."

It's a pretty queer little yarn, isn't it?

A Fable

He swallowed a dozen tomato cans,
An old tin roof, a few dishpans,
Some pie plates that once had been used to bake
Such pies as grandma used to make.

But there was wrought a change so strange and queer,
The little pig began to fear
That he had made a weird and sad mistake,
And all his legs commenced to quake.

One-half of him was changed into a goat;
The other half remained a shoat;
On his right side grew two long, thin scratch goat's legs,
Making the others look like pegs.

And on his head a single horn did sprout,
While underneath his lovely snout
His whiskers grew with only half a bunch.
Oh, why did he ever eat tin lunch?

Never more does he walk on the level,
Since his legs form such a bevel,
And when he now essays to eat his fill
He stands upon a steep side hill.

MORAL:

Just try to be content, whate'er your lot;
Don't try to be what you are not.
For if you should—low, children, all take heed—
You'll never more than half succeed.

Do you know the fate of the little shoat
That longed to be a billy goat?
'Tis a strange, sad tale I once overheard
A cow tell to a humming bird.

Now, a pig, as a rule, has got no mind,
But this was a different kind;
For he made up his mind if tin he ate
He'd change to the billy goat state.

At any rate, he thought he would try it,
To see what there was in diet.
So he gave up all he had liked before—
Ate lots of tin and cried for more.

WITNESSES FEAR DEATH

Some Refuse to Testify In the Marcum Case.

Grand Jury Sits Guarded By State Militia.

Jackson, Ky., May 25.—With the state militia standing guard the grand jury of Breathitt county today began an investigation of the assassination of Lawyer James B. Marcum. The commanding officer of the militia has ordered that no letters be written home during the stay of the troops and another order instructing the men to refrain from conversation among themselves as to the case.

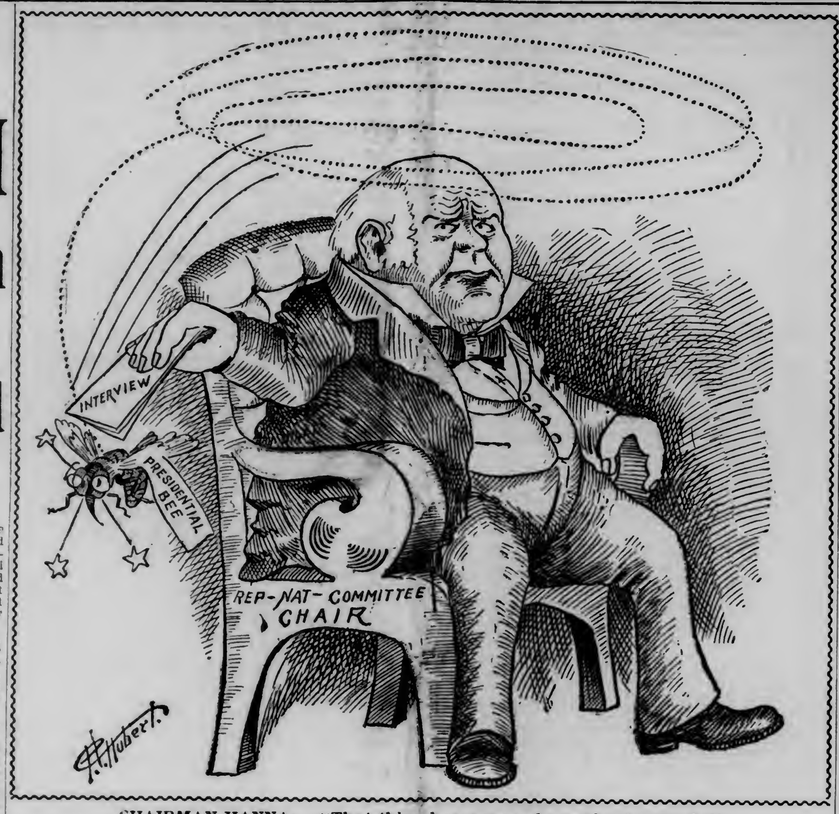
Judge Redwine convened court at 10 o'clock. Sheriff Callahan notified the court that he desired to be excused from duty and that he wished an elisor appointed to serve in his place. Judge Redwine assented, saying: "I had intended to appoint an elisor, of course," and the court named Charles Little as temporary sheriff. The eldest daughter of Mr. Marcum was in the court room when court opened. Among the first to be called before the grand jury was Curtis Jett, a relative of Curtis Jett, who is under arrest charged with the crime. Mr. Jett was examined.

The grand jury was sworn in at 10:30 and Judge Redwine instructed the jurors, calling attention to the lamentable conditions in Breathitt county, and urging that not only the actual murderers of James B. Marcum be convicted, but that all who were in any way connected with the murder be trented likewise.

While troops were picketed around the court house, everyone who entered the building was searched, and none were admitted who carried concealed weapons. The most important witnesses were not to be found. Tom Cockrill sent word from Winchester that he did not propose to answer a summons that would cost his life, and charged that his fear came from those in county offices.

He cited the case of Tom Baker, who was killed at Manchester by some one shooting from a window in the sheriff's residence while Baker was in the custody of the sheriff. Cockrill insisted that his life would be as safe at Jackson at Baker's was at Manchester. Another witness wanted is Capt. John Patrick, who said he recognized the assassin of Town Marshal James Cockrill when they fired from court house windows and that one was a deputy sheriff. Patrick was reported to be at Catlettsburg, but nothing could be learned of his whereabouts today. He is a nephew of John F. Patrick, who is assisting the prosecutor of Mrs. Marcum. Col. Williams, in command of the four companies of militia, summoned the visiting press men about him today and asked that sensational stories, which might bring the soldiers into disrepute, be not sent out.

The correspondents were given a tent to themselves, but, owing to it being within easy reach of the mountain across the river in the Pan Handle bend, from which any one might be shugled out and shot, there is some misgiving and the colonel was asked to change the location. Some of the correspondents are wearing soldiers' uniforms in the hope that this will serve them to good purpose.



CHAIRMAN HANNA: "That thing has annoyed me about enough."

THOUSANDS DYING OF HUNGER IN THE PROVINCE OF KWANG SI

Heartrending Stories of Suffering and Death Due to Three Successive Failures In the Crops—Many People Are Sold Into Slavery.

Victoria, B. C., May 25.—The steamer Indravelli brought news from the Orient last night of continued war preparations. Japanese correspondence at Pekin tells of large guns arriving over the Trans-Siberian railroad for New Chwang. The war feeling in Japan continues and war preparations are still going on.

Heartrending details of suffering and death of families as a result of the famine in Kwang Si were given in Hong Kong papers, received by the Indravelli. Mr. Hess, a missionary at Wu Chow, who has been investigating on behalf of the Hong Kong charities, says that owing to three successive failures of crops, people are starving and dying by hundreds. During March and April it is computed that 20,000 people were sold, men selling themselves for employment in the Straits Settlement and the women and children being sold into slavery on the coast.

Story after story of distress was told by the missionary. He told of famished people dying in the act of eating when food was brought to them. Of people reduced to skeletons being abandoned. Of mothers selling daughters into lives of shame for a mere bottle of rice. It was said by the missionary's report that thousands would perish unless speedy relif is given.

Hong Kong papers tell of the piracy of a fishing junk by armed Chinese just outside of Hong Kong harbor. The crew was overpowered and the vessel looted.

Manila papers publish details of the wreck of the Norwegian bark Prince George, which was on the overdue list some time ago. She went ashore on the south coast of Basilan on April 7. Her crew of three were picked up by the United States coast guard cutter Tablas and landed at Zamboagna.

STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS CAUSE TRADE PARALYSIS IN NEW YORK

New York, May 25.—There are 165,000 idle men in New York city, notwithstanding the fact that every line of business is booming in the city. These men, but for strikes, lockouts and dissensions among rival labor unions, would be earning a total of $660,000 a day, or $3,960,000 a week.

Not only is every penny of this stupendous sum lost to them, but industries and firms representing a total capitalization of $550,000,000 are at a standstill, with a consequent loss of profits. The trade paralysis here has reached a stage more extensive than any heretofore known, even during periods of great industrial depression.

Most of the workmen are idle not for any act of their individual unions, but for the act of other unions or because of the recent decision of the employers to stand together and fight the demands of one union by throwing the workmen of many unions into idleness.

EDISON PLANT MAY HAVE BIG STRIKE

Newark, N. J., May 25.—A strike which is likely to affect thousands of employes in the plant of the Edison General Electric company throughout the country, is on at the Harrison factory of that concern. About 2400 hands are employed there. There are only forty of the strikers, but they are machinists, and their absence from their posts has crippled the work of the factory. Because of the strike about 500 girl employes have been made idle, and others may be forced to quit because they have nothing to do. It is thought the strike may extend to the company's Fort Wayne factory, where there are about 500 employes; the Lynn plant, which employs 5000 hands, and the main works at Schenectady, where the total number of employes is about 12,000 and the machinists number 2000. The machinists in the Edison factories recently affiliated themselves with the International Association of Machinists.

A SOLDIER STABBED AT THE "SOO"

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 25.—George Engles, a private in Company A, First United States infantry, stationed at Fort Brady, is dead from a stab wound inflicted last night by Larry Oliver, a colored citizen of this city. Oliver, who has a white wife, was walking home with her, when several soldiers from the fort followed them, making remarks about the couple. Oliver claims that finally three of them jumped on him. In the fight that followed Oliver says he saw Engles put his hands in his pocket as if to draw a revolver, and he thereupon pulled out a knife and stabbed the soldier several times. He died during the night. Public sympathy is with Oliver, who has a good reputation.

CONTINUANCE OF ALIMONY

Is Asked By Divorced Wife of Edward Padelford.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Counsel representing Mrs. Folrence Padelford Cunard of 7 Portman Square, London, today filed a petition in one of the local courts asking for a citation upon Eli Kirk Price of Philadelphia, as trustee, to show cause why allimony of $6000 a year, heretofore paid to Mrs. Cunard by him as trustee for Edward M. Padelford, from whom Mrs. Cunard was divorced in 1889 by the New York supreme court, should not continue to be paid during Mr. Padelford's life time. Mrs. Cunard's maiden name was Florence McFeeters of Baltimore. Mr. Padelford comes of a prominent South Carolina family and Mrs. Cunard's present husband is one of the Cunard family of London, prominently identified with the shipping industry.

MIXED UP BUSINESS

Brokers' Agent at La Crosse Charged With Embezzlement.

La Crosse, May 25.—J. L. Van Wormer, who until a few months ago was representative here of Finley, Barrell & Co., the Chicago board of trade firm, was arraigned in circuit court this morning on the charge of embezzlement of nearly $10,000 of the firm's money.

It is alleged that Mr. Van Wormer was conducting "bucket shop" business in addition to doing legitimate commission business, that he got the two confused owing to heavy losses in his private commission business, and finally began calling upon the firm to pay losses of which there was no record on their books. The case is attracting widespread attention throughout the Northwest and there are many out-of-town brokers, traders and attorneys present.

ICE PLANT BURNED.

American Ice Company Meets With Heavy Loss.

Philadelphia, May 25.—The ice manufacturing plant of the American Ice company, at Eighth and Catherine streets was destroyed by fire of unknow origin today. The building was valued at $50,000 and the machinery is said to be worth $150,000, but the greater portion of the machinery was saved. During the progress of the fire, there were numerous explosions of ammonia tanks, but no one was injured. The children in the Thomas Florence public school opposite, and the house of industry and day nursery, adjoining the burned building, were gotten out in safety.

GREAT BRITAIN

Is Not Supporting Movement to Import Chinese.

London, May 25.—Replying to a question on Chinese labor in South Africa, in the house of commons today, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain said the government had not sanctioned and was not supporting the movement of the mine owners to import Chinese and other Asiatic labor into the Transvaal. His correspondence with Lord Milner, the British high commissioner in South Afric, on this subject followed the lines of his speech in March. In the speech referred to Mr. Chamberlain said he thought every source of supply in South Africa ought to be exhausted before Chinese were introduced. If, however, the Transvaal and other self-governing colonies concluded that they are required to import Asiatic labor, the imperial government had no power to prevent it.

MRS. BEDFORD CONFESSES THAT CHILD WAS NOT HERS

Pleads Guilty to Charge In Bow Street Court and Is Fined $50 For Offense—She Retains Child as Adopted Daughter.

London, May 25.—Mrs. Gunning S. Bedford, who was arrested at Queenstown May 1, charged with making a false declaration of a child's birth, was brought up on remand at the Bow street police court here today and pleaded guilty. She admitted that the child was not her own and said she had adopted it. Mrs. Bedford was fined $50.

Mrs. Bedford, when she appeared in the dock, was pale and agitated. A formidable array of counsel appeared for both sides. The prosecution showed that Mrs. Bedford came to England from Paris in December and that she had advertised as "Madame B, desirous of adopting a female child," with the result that the illegitimate baby of a working girl in Isleworth was transferred to Mrs. Bedford's keeping under the name of Margaret Carnett. Mrs. Bedford registered the child as her own and took it to Paris and thence to America. Counsel for the prosecution added that as the above facts had been established and the child could no longer be claimed as the heiress of the Bedford estate they were not desirous of severe measures and asked the magistrate to deal with the case as a technical offense and not send it to the higher courts, where a penalty of seven years' imprisonment could have been inflicted. After consultation with counsel, Mrs. Bedford admitted her guilt and the magistrate inflicted the heaviest fine the law allowed. Mrs. Bedford applied for her property held by the police and everything was returned to her, except a loaded revolver. This she excitedly demanded, saying: "Certainly, I want it. I have always carried one ever since my husband and myself were attacked." The lawyers quieted her, but Mrs. Bedford said: "It doesn't matter. I'll get another."

Mrs. Bedford retains the baby as her adopted daughter.

ANOTHER MYSTERIOUS CASE INVOLVING MEN, GIRL AND GUN

An Ardsley, N. Y., Man Was Probably Fatally Shot While In Company With a Girl—She Says a Stranger Did the Shooting.

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 25.—There was a mysterious affair involving the probable mortal shooting of a man near the Ardsley club, at Ardsley, last night. The wounded man is in the Debbs Ferry hospital in a precarious condition. A girl is being held pending the investigation of the authorities.

C. H. Hale, superintendent of the club, was standing at the railroad station, between 9 and 10 o'clock, when he heard a shot fired up the road and not far from the club house. While he stood wondering what had taken place a girl came running out of the darkness from the direction of the shot and tried to board a train as it started to move away. Mr. Hale restrained her.

The girl's story, which is partially corroborated, is that she went to meet John Hefferan. Hefferan met her at the Ardsley station and they started to make a call in Ardsley. They changed their minds and went and sat on a stone wall, near the tracks. While seated there, the girl says, a stranger came up suddenly and, speaking to Hefferan, said:

"Throw up your hands."

"What for?" asked Hefferan.

The reply was a shot, followed quickly by a second one. One bullet took effect in Hefferan's breast and the other in his stomach. The girl goes on to say that she, frightened, ran to the station without knowing really what she did.

She says the man who shot Hefferan ran up the tracks. One man, a guest of the club, whose name is refused at the club, asserted there was some sort of a struggle between the men before the shooting.

AUTO PARTY HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Chicago, May 25.—A dispatch to the Tribune from San Francisco says: Florence Blythe, who inherited a $4,000,000 estate from her father after a sensational suit in San Francisco, has narrowly escaped death with her husband, A. A. Moore, Jr., and his sister in an automobile accident near Oakland. The tire of one of the wheels blew up while the machine was going at a speed of 35 miles an hour. Mr. Moore threw on the brakes and shut off the power. The heavy machine swerved to the right, but righted itself for an instant and then upset. Mr. Moore and his wife and sister were pinned under the wreck of the automobile. The high seat backs prevented all three from being crushed.

BANKRUPT CARLEY IS DISCHARGED

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—Judge Kirkpatrick in the United States district court made an order discharging in bankruptcy Francis D. Carley, a New York stockbroker. Carley made an application about three years ago to be adjudged a bankrupt, stating his liabilities at the time to be slightly in excess of $1,000,000. Carley's discharge from bankruptcy has been fought by the Kentucky National bank and others. The bank recently sought to amend its specifications and charged that Carley through some of his stock transactions had been acting for William K. Vanderbilt and in this way sought to have brought in as assets certain stocks which stood in Mr. Vanderbilt's name. Mr. Vanderbilt denied that Carley had acted for him and Judge Kirkpatrick refused to permit the amending of the specifications. The case was carried to the United States circuit court of appeals which sustained Judge Kirkpatrick. Today's order is the result of that decision.

WILD WINDS BRING DEATH

Several Are Killed Near Norma, Nebraska.

Rochester, Minn., Visited By Severe Storm.

Lincoln, Neb., May 25.—A tornado that passed near Norman, and later struck Pauline and the intervening country early today, caused heavy damage and many lives are reported lost. At 11 o'clock it is believed the death list will number twenty-one, while many others are known to have been injured. Details are meagre, wires being down in all directions.

A partial list of the casualties at Pauline follows:

JAMES C. MUMAW, WIFE AND DAUGHER.
FRANK QUIGG.
LIZZIE PALMER.
JEANETTE PALMER.

St. Paul, May 25.—A Rochester, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: The worst storm in twenty years raged here last night from 11 to 4 o'clock. Scveral streets in the city were flooded. The Zombrota river raised five feet in three hours this morning and many houses and yards are under water. The storm was general in Olmstead county. A cloudburst is reported at Rockdell and some stock was drowned. The Chicago & Northwestern railroad track near Dover was washed out for 200 yards. The water came down in torrents for several hours without ceasing, causing bad damage to crops.

St. Paul, May 25.—An Austin, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: Southern Minnesota was visited by a heavy rain and electric storm yesterday and during the night. At 2 a. m. the citizens of this city were alarmed by long-continued blasts from the fire whistle, given to awaken those people who reside near the river on the lowlands. A sudden raise in the Cedar river had caused a number of houses to be surrounded with water. Boats were soon produced and a number of people were removed from their dwellings. It is reported that the dam at Ramsey had been taken out by the heavy volume of water. The damage in this city and vicinity will be heavy. Much damage is reported also in the country.

Minden, Neb., May 25.—A tornado struck fifteen miles south of Norman, a small town near here, early today, demolishing fifteen buildings, killing three persons and injuring a dozen others. The dead:

MRS. EARL BACON.
MRS. WELLIVER.
JOHN McCURDY.

Seriously injured: Mr. Welliver, hip broken.

From Norman, which is a town of about 100 inhabitants, situated on what is called the "high line" of the Burlington road, the path of the storm lay east to Pauline, a little station on the Prosser branch of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

From Pauline it proceeded in a southwesterly direction, finally losing its force southwest of Fairfield.

The entire town of Fairfield, which had about thirty-five houses, is reported wrecked and it is said that three persons were killed and others injured. The Missouri Pacific has sent a relief train to the scene.

Fairfield reports many farmhouses wrecked in Clay, Adams and Kearney counties, and eight persons are reported killed in the district near Fairfield.

Wires are down in many directions and details are meager.

Maryville, Mo., May 25.—A tornado struck the town of Elmo, near here, early today, uproofing stores and littering the town with debris of outhouses, barns and trees. No lives were lost.

Elmo is situated in the northwestern corner of Missouri, near the Nebraska line, and the storm probably is a continuation of that which struck near Norman, Neb.

Des Moines, May 25.—A tornado struck the town of Rolfe, seventy miles west of here last night, killing Fong Foo, a laundryman, fatally injuring a child and wrecking the State Bank building, Crayon's general store, the Hotel De Main and one other building. Several residences were damaged.

REQUIRED FIVE SHOCKS TO ELECTROCUTE WIRY ITALIAN

Sing Sing Electrician Says It Is Harder to Kill Thin Men Like Antonio Triola Than Fat Ones Whose Tissues Carry Current Quickly.

Ossining, N. Y., May 25.—Antonio Triola was put to death in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison today. Five shocks were necessary to cause death. State Electrician Davis said it was harder to kill a thin, wiry man like Triola by the electric current than a stout man, as in the case of a thin man there are not enough tissues to convey the fatal current quickly to a vital part. Mr. Davis also said that Triola had thick, greasy hair, which resisted the current. Triola received the first shock at 8:02 a. m. After four more shocks had been given at brief intervals, he was pronounced dead.

Antonio Triola shot and killed Mamie Cereli, a young Italian girl, who was a theatrical performer in a small Italian theater on the East Side, New York. The girl had refused to marry Triola. On the night of March 5, 1901, he lay in wait for her and fired three shots at her as she and her mother were on their way home from the theater. The girl died. Triola fled, but was captured. He was convicted on April 29, 1901.

TO HIRE SERVANTS BY THE HOUR

Boston, May 25.—Servants to hire by the hour is the latest idea of Boston society women, with a view of solving the servant girl problem. The experiment will be tried by the Women's Education association. A house in the Back Bay will be opened Aug. 1, where girls will be trained for a month or six weeks in various household duties, after which they will be hired out by the hour to householders. The house will be conducted by the Household Aid company, composed of many influential women of this city. About twenty "aids" can be accommodated in the building. They will be lodged in pleasant quarters. The price of meals will probably not exceed 10 or 12 cents each. Servants will receive a course of instruction in ironing, cleaning, cooking and sewing.

TOOK REVENGE ON FATHER-IN-LAW

Portland, Ore., May 25.—Maddened by the fact that his wife had obtained a divorce from him two weeks ago, M. V. Leasia wreaked a terrible vengeance upon his father-in-law, F. H. Drew, by sending two bullets through the old man's back, killing him instantly. Leasia's former wife witnessed the tragedy, and was later compelled to accompany Leasia to parts unknown. Before disappearing Leasia and his former wife appeared at the residence of a neighbor, whom the murderer asked to care for his babies for an hour or two. What has become of the couple is a mystery, but the police believe that the maddened man will kill his wife and then attempt to escape alone. The shooting occurred at the home of the murdered man near Peninsula station, a suburb of this city. Leasia alleged that Drew was instrumental in starting the divorce proceedings, and for this reason he shot him.

A STABLEMAN DIES OF GLANDERS

Newark N. J., May 25.—Glanders has caused the death of Simon Wilson, a colored stableman in this city. This is the second case recorded here in which this disease peculiar to horses, has attacked a human being. The other case is that of Alfred Meyer who is in the last stages of the disease. The doctor who attended Wilson says the man became ill last January with an affection which at the time was believed to be cancer of the nose. The ailment did not respond to the usual treatment. Within the last few days the disease spread rapidly through the tissues of the system particularly those of the nose and throat and the physician caused the patient to be sent to the hospital. Four hours after his admission to the hospital Wilson died. It was then learned that the case was one of glanders. Wilson was employed as hostler and general utility man in a stable in this city where an epidemic of glanders prevailed.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

MUST STOP DELAY

Municipal Bridge Commission Will Urge Immediate Action.

Will Ask Council to Declare the Present Contract Void.

Aerial bridge building delays must cease, according to Minnesota Point residents and the municipal bridge commission.

Tonight the council will be asked to formally declare the contract of the Duluth Canal Bridge company void, instruct the city attorney to bring suit for $25,000 on account of the company's failure to build the bridge within the contract time, and also to advertise for new proposals from responsible companies that care to submit plans.

The municipal bridge commission held a very interesting session Saturday morning, during which all features and conditions of the Duluth Canal Bridge company's contract were thoroughly gone over, and the commission decided on a secret report to the council tonight, in which it will probably urge very strenuous and immediate steps to declare the Duluth Canal Bridge company's contract a thing of the past and will urge prompt action in arranging matters so other responsible bidders can figure on building the unique structure during the current season of navigation.

The people of Park Point will have a long petition to the council urging the aldermen to back up the bridge commission and from appearances the trans-canal citizens are fighting mad over the delays.

All that the Duluth Canal Bridge company has accomplished in nearly two years has been the building of cement foundations for the bridge on government property on either side of the canal. The foundations exist by virtue of permission given by the government to the city. The bridge commission at its secret meeting Saturday was advised that the city could order these foundations out if the company that built them did not care to dispose of them to the city for a reasonable and just consideration.

The Park Point residents are much interested in plans and specifications prepared by C. A. P. Turner, of Minneapolis, for the building of a bridge similar to the stiff structure for which the city awarded the Duluth Canal Bridge company a contract two years ago. Mr. Turner's plans are now on exhibition at the office of the Pearson Boat Construction company.

Mr. Turner says he can erect his proposed aerial ferry during the present season of navigation without the slightest interference with the marine business of the port and proposes to use a cantilever system in doing this.

He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which the members of the bridge commission says entitles his plan to consideration, and in addition to this Mr. Turner has made an extraordinary study of the Duluth canal bridge problem, having prepared the original plans and specifications of the aerial ferry for the American Bridge company.

The present ferry boat service is costing the city about $10,000 a year and it is estimated that the bridge could be operated at an annual cost of not over $3300. The structure will cost $100,000 and the annual interest on that investment would be $4000, which still would show a saving of $2700 a year in favor of the aerial bridge as against the present ferry service.

C. A. Pearson, of the Pearson Boat Construction company, says: "If the city would only apply that saving of $2700 annually to the payment on the aerial bridge, and figuring the compound interest at 4 per cent, the bridge would pay for itself in about twenty-four years and at the end of that time would be in good condition, saving the taxpayers $6000 a year and giving a reasonable and satisfactory service. The growth of the point, aside from the saving in ferry hire, should be of no small interest to the business men of the city."

A SURE THING.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. Van Metre, of Shepherdtown, W. Va., says: "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottle free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

PLANS ARE READY

Bids For New Omaha Freight House Will Be Asked.

New Building Will Be Twice the Size of Old One.

Plans and specifications for the new freight warehouse of the Omaha road are in the hands of the local representatives, of the road, and bids for the construction will be opened May 28.

The new Omaha freight warehouse, the announcement of the building of which was published in The Herald several weeks ago, will be larger than the old one.

Local Freight Agent Glenny said this morning that the plans were in his hands and that invitations for proposals to build the structure had been issued and a number of bids were in which would be opened May 28.

The present building is 60 feet in length and of frame. This will be moved back from Fifth avenue West, and the new part will be 170 feet in length.

The new part will be constructed of brick, equipped with all modern improvements. The Fifth avenue front will be used for the local freight offices, and the clerks who have been cramped in the front of the old frame building will be given airy and comfortable quarters.

"As soon as the contracts are let," said Mr. Glenny this morning, "and they will be let to Duluth men, I believe, the building will be rushed to the limit.

"It is expected that the walls and roof will be up in two months or near that time. We hope to be all settled in the new quarters by early in August."

Besides the building of the new warehouse, the Omaha Railroad company will make extensive improvements in the railroad yards at that point. A large number of feet of extra team track will be built, and the house tracks will be rebuilt. There will be some new track laid, and the yards fixed up and put in much better shape than they are now.

The Omaha road is getting ready for heavy business out of Duluth in the future and is fixing itself to be in shape to handle it with the best possible accommodations.

IMPORTANCE INCREASED.

Milwaukee Local Office Given Wider Scope.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway have discovered that Duluth's advances as a commercial point for that company requires some attention.

This morning Commercial Agent C. L. Kennedy, in charge of the local office, issued a notice to the effect that a general change had taken place in the Duluth office.

In the future a traveling freight agent will be under the direction of the local office, and a general promotion has taken place in the office.

George W. Westcott, who has been a freight contracting agent in Duluth for some years, and has been in that position under Mr. Kennedy, since the latter's coming here, is promoted to the position of traveling freight agent.

Theodore H. Stoffel, who has been the chief clerk in the office of Mr. Kennedy, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Westcott as contracting agent for Duluth.

R. B. Long has been appointed as chief clerk. He was formerly with the Milwaukee road, but went with the Omaha, and has now returned to the old.

The territory of the office will include points as far east as Ashland, the range country back of Duluth and as far southwest as Hinckley. The territory has been covered by side trips by office men in the past, but it will be systematically worked in the future.

"The officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul are endeavoring to give Duluth all the attention possible," said Mr. Kennedy today. "They recognize it as a valuable commercial point and one of the heavy shipping points of the road in the Northwest, and will take care of her with all consideration for shippers.

"The rearrangement and readjustment of the Duluth office will give the company better facilities here than it ever had before, and will permit more thorough work and better care for this territory than it has heretofore received."

The changes in the local office advance Duluth to one of the most important points for original business over the Milwaukee road outside the commercial centers on its line. It means that the showing made in Duluth is receiving some recognition, and will probably receive more in other directions.

The changes in the office took effect today.

BAGGAGE CONTRACTS.

Stewart Transfer Company Gets Two of Them.

The Stewart Transfer company has been given the season contract by the Great Northern and Northern Steamship company for the transfer of baggage and passengers from the boat's wharfs and railway stations to transfer points desired.

The contract was let several days ago, and will extend through the summer.

The Northern Pacific railway made a contract with the same transfer company today for the transferring of its baggage and passengers to and from wharfs and railroad stations, the contract to run all summer.

Annual Spring Excursion to Detroit and Buffalo.

The annual spring excursion to Detroit and Buffalo via the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, connecting at St. Ignace with the palatial passenger steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation company, will leave Duluth June 14 and June 19. DEFENDANT WEEPS

Oscar Lunden Says He Intended to Hurt No One.

Shot That Killed Mrs. Mattson Was Wholly Accidental.

Oscar Lunden, who is now on trial for the shooting of Mrs. Mattson in John Alpe's home on Garfield avenue, on the evening of April 9, was the first witness to testify in his own behalf in district court this morning. The defense will have its testimony all in this afternoon, and the case will go to the jury probably before court adjourns this evening.

Lunden told his story, through an interpreter, in a straightforward manner, freely admitting that he fired the shot that killed Mrs. Mattson, but declaring that he did not intend to do so and that he never desired to harm anybody. At one time during his testimony, when he referred to his wife, Lunden began weeping, but quickly regained his self-control. That he fully realizes the seriousness of his position is shown by his anxious expression of countenance. His wife was in attendance at the trial this morning, and her careworn face indicated that she also is suffering from the strain of the trial.

Lunden said he was present with the party outside the house to help celebrate the wedding party inside, but he was not an invited guest. He said that after he had fired several shots in the air from a revolver borrowed from one of the other men, he went home and secured his rifle, believing that it would make more noise and do greater honor to the event. He said that he had fired a few shots in the air and was at the point of raising his gun to fire again, when the gun, from some unaccountable reason, was discharged and the bullet tore through the side of the house.

Lunden said he realized at once what the consequences might be, and he exclaimed: "God save me!" and left immediately for the Wicks' home on Garfield avenue, where he went in, placing the gun in a closet, and telling Mr. Wicks to take it later and put it in a place where the children could not find it, as the rifle magazine still contained several cartridges that were not discharged. Witness testified that when he was at Wicks' and the latter's son came in asking who fired the shot through the house, killing Mrs. Mattson, he replied:

"Oh, God, I'll have to answer for that! It's best I go to the police station and report there."

Lunden says that his wife was with him and began crying, so, instead of giving himself up to the police, he took her home and waited there for the police to come for him, stating, when they arrived, that he was ready to go with them.

Witness claimed that he knew Mrs. Mattson, but not very well, having met her but once or twice.

On cross-examination, Lunden stated that he came to this country from Finland three years ago, that he bought the gun last Christmas and had not fired it previous to the night of the tragedy. Witness admitted that he knew a bullet from the rifle would carry a long way, but he intended to have all the shots go in the air, and did not realize that there would be danger to anybody from the bullets when they fell back to the ground.

Hjalmar Ringdahl, a 12-year-old boy who was present at the charivari party and who claimed to have stood beside Lunden when the fatal shot was fired, said Lunden was in the act of raising the gun in the air when it was discharged. He said he heard Lunden exclaim "Oh, God!" and saw him go away. Hjalmar testified that there were four other men firing a revolver in the air about that time. When one shot, he handed the revolver to another until it made the rounds. He thought 150 shots in all were fired, judging from the empty cartridges that he picked up that evening.

Neils Johnson, one of Lunden's bondsmen, testified as to the good character of the witness since he has lived in Duluth, and John Alpe, at whose home the tragedy occurred, was called to testify just before court adjourned this noon.

AT WEST DULUTH

J. F. Hanson, a former resident of West Duluth, has returned from his old home in Sweden, where he spent the winter months. The object of Mr. Hanson's trip was merely to revisit his native village, but while there he spent some time in studying the famine conditions which have attracted so much attention in the United States.

He reports that the relief fund which was subscribed by the American people did an incalculable amount of good and undoubtedly saved hundreds of lives.

"While I am not aware of the conditions existing in the other parts of the country," said Mr. Hanson, "I know that in the country around my old home, which is in the northeastern part of Sweden, there is every promise of a good crop this season. The arrival of spring has put new courage into the farmers, and they are striving to make up for the effects of a bad year."

Mr. Hanson also reports that the famine has had the effect of stimulating emigration to the United States. Those who received aid from this country desire to come to a land where the people are able not only to care for their own needs, but to send from their savings aid to a foreign race which is famine-stricken.

"Two young men from the village in which I lived are now planning to come to America," said Mr. Hanson. "They hear such glowing reports from all who return from here that they want to come to this country where there are no famines."

MRS LEGG DEAD.

Mrs. Katherine Legg died yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lovelace, 303 Fifty-ninth avenue west, after an illness of over two years. The deceased was 84 years old and the cause of her death was old age.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Legg leaves a son, Capt. Campau, who is master on the steamer Queen City. The Queen City was on her way between Duluth and Ashland when the condition of Mrs. Legg became such that it was seen she could not live many hours. Capt. Campau was communicated with and he left the boat at Ashland, returning to Duluth by train in time to reach his mother's bedside before she died.

The funeral will be held from the residence of Mrs. Lovelace tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and interment will be made in Oneota cemetery.

ZAMONA CLUB OFFICERS.

The Zamona club, which has been giving a series of private dances throughout the winter months, has been reorganized. The new officers are as follows: President, Harry Smith; vice president, T. E. Kemp; secretary, F. B. Bolger; treasurer, I. F. Noyes; chairman of committees, Martin Meldahl.

The reorganized society will be a Bachelor's club, and has for its object the promotion of the social life of West Duluth. A number of picnics and launch parties will be given during the summer months. The club is also planning a "pink carnation dance," to be given in West Duluth, June 12.

REV. DUNNE TO LECTURE.

Rev. Father Arthur B. C. Dunne is to deliver three lectures in West Duluth, at Great Eastern hall, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week for the benefit of the building fund of St. James' Catholic church. That he is a fine speaker the following from an exchange estlies:

Father Dunne is admittedly one of the finest, if not the very finest, pulpit or platform lecturer in the Northwest. To an agreeable presence, an easy delivery, a well modulated voice and a wonderful charm of person and manner, he adds great literary attainments, earnestness, simplicity, charming diction and happy illustration. One does not tire listening to Father Dunne. You wish his lecture had been longer. He never utters a dull sentence. He holds his audience spellbound from first to last, and presents his subject in such a masterly manner as to command the closest attention of his listeners even to the most apathetic. He never fails to make an impression owing to his convincing style of argument, his clear presentation of his subject, his vigorous Angio-Saxon, his profound scholarship, his eloquence and his charming oratory.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Go to Nygren's for wall paper.

J. G. Robinson is suffering from a severe attack of cancer of the stomach. It is likely that an operation will be performed within a few days.

J. B. Dow, of St. Paul, and J. Nelson, of Two Harbors, are registered at the Philips hotel.

Rev. Dr. Forbes and Mrs. Forbes spent Sunday on the range, returning to Duluth this morning. Dr. Forbes has postponed his departure for Philadelphia for a few days.

E. E. Fisher, of St. Paul, is in West Duluth today on a business trip.

H. R. Patterson is planning to install an undertaking establishment in connection with his livery.

MADAME BARBETTE

By Wayne B. Carlock.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co).

It was about 10 a. m. I was out getting a little fresh air, strolling idly and aimlessly up Broadway, almost wishing something exciting would happen to puncture the morning's tiresome serenity and instill a little high life into my apathetic state.

Arriving near Thirty-fifth street my attention was attracted across the way to a rumpus on the front steps of the Herald building. A man, apparently in the throes of great excitement, was directing the eyes of several others toward an open car headed down Broadway. He was making violent gestures with his hands and evidently had discovered something about the vehicle which amounted to grave fear or importance.

I no sooner turned them in its direction than a gentleman ran awkwardly against me, nearly sprawling me headlong in the street. Glancing around as quickly as I could balance myself I noticed him point with a sweeping movement toward the fleeing car, has eyes glaring wildly with the fire of discovery.

I whirled and caught sight of the departing vehicle, all the time straining my ears to overhear what my neighbors were saying, but they were conversing so rapidly that it came to me as the merest jargon.

I scarcely knew what to do; in fact I had nothing to do, wanted something to do, so I made up my mind that I would run down this mystery if it took me all the way to Battery Place.

Just at this moment a second car rolled by me, and seeing my opportunity, I made a wild climb for it. My morning lethargy was fast disappearing. Strolling rapidly to the front I noticed the preceding car just opposite Smith, Gray & Co., where a mob of men who had been inspecting the windows were making various kinds of frantic gesticulations. They, too, had discovered something and were imparting the news to each other in the most nonplussing manner.

I now turned my attention to detail. That car was moving along as smoothly as possibly could be, so there could not have been anything wrong with the machinery or rolling stock. Both motorman and conductor were calm and collected, as likewise seemed the passengers. One thing, however, appeared quite singular as to the different passengers positions.

There were aboard just five men and one woman. These five men were bunsched together on the two rear seats. As they were not smoking I could hardly believe this incidental. The woman sat in the second seat from the front, was large and attractively dressed; that is, if you call a full suit of sable in the summertime attractive—and wore a black chepeau adorned across the front with a single large plume of brilliant green.

That she was the synosure in question I had no further doubt. We were keeping within an average of about thirty yards of the leading car, so I could easily see everything that transpired ahead.

As we emerged into Madison Square I detected the woman glancing sidewise toward the Hoffman house. At the entrance stood a group of men, whom her advent had thrown into a fluster, and as they were apperently gentlemen of time and money, the perplexity of the situation became more and more puzzling. What could there be about this woman which gave birth to such commotion among both class and commoner?

Then something else happened. The group of men sitting on the rear seats had placed their heads together, and I could tell they were consulting each other in a strange, enigmatical style. One gentleman in particular was assuming an explanotory attitude of the most startling and conspicuous nature. The car came to a halt at Twenty-third street and the entire party sneaked fearfully from the car, never looking once behind them.

My anxiety and curiosity at this turn of affairs simply became unbearable. Something had to be found out quick or I would probably fall in an unconscious, sweltering fit.

The fated car was now rolling into Union Square. From in front of Tiffany's a crowd of window inspectors had caught on, and if the hubbub they displayed could have been seen by a party at a distance, they would have believed someone was going through one of the plate glass windows in quest of sunburst.

A thought now came whirling through my fevered brain which greatly distressed me. I could not recall that a single policeman had so far appeared in any party of these perturbed discoverers. Why didn't somebody find a bluecoat and inform him? Surely it must be of importance to them!

In a blockade at Fourteenth street our car caught up with the one bearing the terrifying black and green. Alighting to the moment I dashed forward and caught it just as they started on. The conductor was in the extreme rear end and was looking calmly up the street in the opposite direction from which the car was traveling, so he was evidently unaware of the disturbances arising on the sidewalks. In my undue agitation I caught his arm with such force that we came near crashing into each other head-on.

"What in the Devil is the matter with this car? Who is that woman?"

"Why—why?"

"Look! Look out there at those excited men. Don't you see where they're pointing?"

He faced around and fastened his eyes on the only other passenger aboard. Then as the light of discovery seemed to break over his features he suddenly became white and purple as a corpse. He shrank back almost convulsively.

"What is the matter? Speak," I implored.

"Have—have you change for $5?" he stammered. "Quick!"

I jerked out what money I had.

"I just have a ten and four ones."

"They'll do," he said eagerly, almost savagely, thrusting the five into my hands.

"What! the ten and the ones?" I gasped.

"No—just the ones—here!"

A signal came from the lady and the man pulled the rope.

While I was trying to beat into my brain why this man had taken four ones for a five the woman had alighted from the car and was disappearing down East Ninth street.

Somebody shouted "Madame Barbette!"

Who in seven worlds could be Madame Barbette? I knew almost as much as I did before. However, I came to my senses again and rushed like a wild man down East Ninth street in search of the sinister, lugubrious, city-upsetting madam.

"As I tore along I remembered "the five dollar bill!'

The conductor must have had it from Madame Barbette in collecting her fare. Not having paid any particular attention to the passenger he had overlooked her identity until I aroused his especial interest. Then he thought of the bill! He was afraid of it! He would have gotten rid of it any sweet-ed! He had palmed it off on me—I had been duped—had probably sold my life for a dollar!

Or maybe it was counterfeit—perhaps the madame was the chief and queen of some notorious swindling gang.

I hurriedly pulled the thing from my pocket and held it up to the light—it appeared faultless in every detail, so I tried to think of some other reason.

The other reason, which was not long coming, sent cold chills all over me. Maybe she had some deadly contagion—some horrible, zymotic disease! The thought paralyzed me!

I stopped a policeman, quickly describing the madam; he hadn't seen her. I ran three blocks farther, looking into stores and buildings, stopped another bluecoat—if he had seen her we could approach her together. He knew nothing of her.

Then followed a futile search for hours. I haunted every street corner from Wanamaker's to Chatham square to no avail. Till late in the afternoon I hung around Mott and Pell stretes, thinking she might put in an appearance there, but she never came in sight.

Sick, tired and disgusted I made my way home that evening and threw myself recklessly on a couch. I had lost a day, worried myself ill and discovered nothing—nothing but a name—Madame Barbette.

A morning paper which I had not yet read lay beside me. I wearily picked it up and glanced over its pages. My eyes fell on a sensational article with scare headlines—it had been read that morning, no doubt, by every man and woman in New York but myself. My blood frooze in my veins!

IT IS BLACK DEATH!

Madame Barbette, Hopeless Victim of Leprosy and Fever, Banished by Decree of France, Believed to Have Escaped to Our Shores.

I slowly drew the five-dollar greenback from my pocket and stared at it feebly. Then solemnly striking a match, I watched it vanish in phantom plumes of greenish smoke.

A BODY IS FOUND

Corpse Found In Canal May Be One of Wilson's Crew.

Authorities Are Inclined to Doubt This Theory, However.

Having a fractured skull and broken thigh, the body of an unknown man was taken from the water inside the ship canal this morning.

A report is current to the effect that it is the body of one of the nine men drowned in the collision between the steamers Hadley and Wilson a year ago.

The authorities doubt this, however, and are of the opinion that the man was drowned inside the harbor apparently about a month ago, and that the fractured skull and broken thigh are the result of coming in contact with the propeller blades of some vessel.

Decomposition has reached an advanced stage, and it is said that a body from the wrecked whaleback Wilson would be in good state of preservation, for the reason that the vessel went down at a point where the waters of Lake Superior are sufficiently cool the year around to preserve the bodies for years.

The unknown man was dressed neatly after the manner of sailors, having a dark blue flannel shirt and trousers and good shoes. The face was clean shaven, the hair dark and the man apparently weighed about 180 pounds in his normal condition.

A man in a rowboat first saw the floater, and hitching a line to the body, towed it over to the dock of the White Line Transportation company, out of the course of vessels passing in and out of the entry.

Coroner Boyer was notified and after making an investigation, ordered the remains taken to Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, where the body will be held a short time pending efforts to establish the drowned man's identity.

DULUTH WAS DEFEATED

In Morning Game At Winnipeg By Superior Batting.

Winnipeg, Man., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winnipeg defeated the Duluth ball team this morning, the score being 8 to 3. Mueller was no puzzle to the home team, who registered sixteen hits off the big fellow in this morning's game. Bartos, the speedy Southpaw of the Winnipegs, had the visitors safe at all stages. Both infields played snappy ball, and the big crowd in attendance, fully 4000, were well pleased at the exhibition. Hank Gehring, who was with Winnipeg last year, was given an ovation when he came to bat for the first time. He pitches this afternoon against Corbett, the Maroons' new twirler from St. Paul. The score:

Winnipeg ..	3	0	0 0 1 3 0 1 x—8	16	2

Earned runs: Duluth 1, Winnipeg 4. Left on bases: Annis. Struck out: By Mueller, 3; by Bartos, 8. Bases on balls: Off Mueller, 1; off Bartos, 3. Hit by pitched ball: By Mueller, 1; by Bartos, 1. Two base hits: Randall, Lynch. Time of game, 1:45. Umpire, Owen. Batteries: Mueller and Kline; Bartos and Rogers.

ANOTHER CITY SUIT.

Second Case Involving Garfield Avenue Viaduct.

The civil action of Robert Smith against the City of Duluth was started for trial in Judge Ensign's room this morning. This is the second of the Garfield avenue viaduct cases where the plaintiffs seek to recover for alleged damage done to their property by the building of the viaduct. In the first case, brought by Lyman T. Wilie, the jury returned a verdict for the city.

The personal injury case of Eliza Brananey against the village of Hibbing is still on trial in Judge Cant's room.

Thirty-three of the jurors summoned by special venire appeared in court this morning. The venire was issued for forty, but four of those summoned could not be found and three were excused. Those appearing were as follows: W. S. Woodbridge, Andrew Andren, F. I. Salter, Nils Ecklund, David Evans, Edward Ehle, J. G. Ostby, Thomas Cameron, S. H. Rothermel, R. D. Haig, S. M. Kelley, Henry Folz, D. M. Paddock, Oscar Jacobson, August Halgren, Adolph Anderson, B. C. Church, L. A. Spear, E. H. Rogers, C. E. Brown, W. H. Doig, J. R. Puhiski, E. H. Lounsberry, A. T. BOOST THE PRICE

Cement Walk Contractors Raise Their First Bids to City.

Bids on Paving of Lake Avenue With Sandstone Opened.

Cement walk contractors have quietly boosted the price up since the city recently rejected a bid if 13½ cents a square foot.

There was a dispute over the original bids and many of the city officers were of the opinion that the figures were too high, so the board of public works was instructed to readvertise for the annual cement walk contract work.

On the readvertisement the lowest bid was 16 2-3 cents per square foot and now the board declines to make any award of contract, preferring to present the facts and figures to the council.

At the meeting of the board this morning bids were opened for the paving of East Michigan street from Lake to Second avenue with sandstone.

The lowest bid was submitted by J. W. Preston, who offered to do the work for $9214.35, but it is claimed that Mr. Preston did not fully comply with the plans and specifications as to the filler for this paving and consequently no award was made.

The next lowest bidder is P. McDonnell, who put in a proposal of $9,605.47 for the work.

It is understood that this contract will also be referred to the council for directions in its award instead of first making the award and asking the council's approval.

WATERS RECEDE.

G. C. SWALLOW WILL FIGHT

Milwaukee Paper Quotes Him With Reference To Indictment.

George C. Swallow, of Milwaukee, against whom one of the indictments was found in the timber land cases by the federal grand jury last week, is quoted as follows by a Milwaukee paper:

"I have not been to Duluth for three months and have heard nothing officially concerning the indictment which has been found against me. I have nothing to say for publication. If the United States marshal wants me he knows where I can be found. I am ready to leave for Duluth at any time, if my fare and board are paid. I will fight any case which is brought against me. If the newspaper accounts are true, I imagine the cases will come up for trial in the October term of the federal court. However, I have not been cited, and have nothing to say about the affair."

COLORADO DECLINES

To Pay Ratcliffe's Claim For Property Destroyed.

Washington, May 25.—Although the state department has not yet received the answer of the governor of Colorado to its request for reparation for the destruction of the property of the Englishman, Ratcliffe, the officials have taken note of the report of the governor's declination to entertain the claim. Nothing can be done by the department, therefore, except to appeal to congress for an appropriation to pay the claim, and this will probably be done at the next session. This claim has been pending for some time, and the department has practically satisfied itself that it is a just obligation, and that to refuse to pay it would be a violation of the rights conferred by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain upon the citizens of each of these countries resident in the other.

Ratcliffe was an English owner of a fish hatchery in Colorado, whose property was destroyed, and who was expelled from the state by mob violence, as the outcome of a bitter struggle to exclude trespassers on his property.

IS COMING HERE

Jones & Adams Coal Company Leases Coal Docks Here.

Has Been Operating Docks of Superior Side of Bay.

The Jones & Adams Coal company, which for several years has maintained docks at the foot of the Philadelphia & Reading docks at Superior, will come to Duluth this year and operate coal docks here.

William K. Link, agent of the company, was over from Superior this morning, looking over dockage on the Duluth side, and it is understood he has closed a contract for leases on the property already.

Mr. Link could not be found here this morning, and he was not at the office in Superior up to noon today, so the location of the Jones & Adams docks in Duluth could not be ascertained as yet.

It is understood the coal docks at this side of the bay will be operated after June 1.

The Jones & Adams Coal company is the largest independent coal wholesaling concern at the head of the lakes, and while the company will retain its present docks at Superior, the move looks as if it were a beginning of a transfer of all the business to this side of the bay.

The Superior office of the coal company this noon said that the docks there would be retained and a large amount of coal would be handled there this season, as in the past.

IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Postponed Field Day Events to Be Pulled Off Then.

The high school track field day which the students were unable to pull off on Saturday afternoon because of the weather, will take place on Wednesday afternoon of this week, unless again postponed.

Bad weather for the past few days has seriously interrupted the training of the track men. The preliminary Wednesday, however, is only a try-out in which the first two or three men to finish in each event will be selected to enter the triangular field day which is planned for June 6.

Some doubt has arisen as to whether Cloquet, which was to have had a team entered in the meet, will be able to do so. According to report, fraternity strife in the lumber town school has interfered with the work of their track team. Nelson-Dewey high school, of Superior, is ready to enter the meet on the 6th, however, and has signed an agreement to that effect.

SUICIDE IN PARIS.

Paris, May 25.—Dr. E. Charles Wendt, of New York, shot and killed himself with a pistol in his apartments here today, during temporary abberation of the mind.

PARTIALLY GONE

Level Lowered Three Feet —People Along the River Warned.

The left wing of the big dam on the Cloquet river, below Island lake, gave way yesterday morning and since that time the water has been running around one end, the level above the dam being lowered about three feet up to last evening. Rumors were current about the city yesterday that the dam had been blown up, and the different stories partook of a sensational character.

Thomas Mogan, the walking boss at the river, was in the city this morning and stated that the wing to the dam had given way. Mr. Mogan works for one of the Cloquet lumber companies, and gave warning yesterday to the lumber concerns and the people along the river to look out for their property in case the main dam gave way.

The dam is one of the largest, if not the largest, in Northern Minnesota, and was built about seventeen years ago by Andrew Gowan, of this city. It is something like 300 feet long and has five large gates in the main dam alone, besides the sluice gates in the two wings.

The Cloquet concerns operating along the river took active steps yesterday to strengthen their booms and prepare for a flood, but it is not thought that any damage has been done to them.

Just how the farmers along the river have fared, due to the sudden rise of the stream, is not yet known. No reports of serious damage have yet reached this city.

The Weyerhaeuser interests deliver their logs into the river at Isuand lake, and these are floated down the Cloquet and St. Louis rivers to the mills at Cloquet. Reports indicate that there are nearly 130,000,000 feet of logs in the lake and river, and fear has been expressed of a flood far above Cloquet if so large a quantity of timber is delivered at once and should block the river so as to cause it to back up.

SHOOTING AFFRAY

Creates Excitement In Streets Of Freedom, Pa.

Freedom, Pa., May 25.—In a shooting affray on the street last night, three men were shot, one fatally. They were: Leo Oranzo, shot above the heart, through the right shoulder and through the left arm, cannot recover; Tony Oranoz, shot in the right shoulder; Angelo Turelnzo, shot in the back.

The men, all Italians, were intoxicated and quarreled over some trivial matter. There were many narrow escapes of pedestrians.

TO BE HEARD JUNE 11.

Baltimore, May 25.—The application of the Western Union Telegraph company for an injunction restraining the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Ohio from removing its wires along the line of the latter between Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, has been set for hearing in the United States district court here on June 11. This arrangement was made today at a conference between counsel for the telegraph and railroad companies.

GATES CUT CABLE

Big Steamer Played Havoc With Park Point Electric Supply.

Street Cars Suspended Nearly All of Sunday—Anchor Dropped.

The big steamer John W. Gates carried away the cables crossing the ship canal at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and the flow of electricity across to the point ceased at once.

The result was that the Park Point street railway service was suspended during most of the day, and was not resumed until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Telephone service was also suspended, and there was a shortage of everything that depended upon the supply of electricity coming from the mainland.

The Gates was coming through the canal, bound for an ore dock, when some of its machinery got to acting improperly, and it bumped against the piers. An anchor was dropped, and it was this act that resulted in severing electric connections, as the anchor caught the cables.

The street railway company put in a temporary wire during the afternoon, and the street car service was resumed. The cables will be replaced as soon as possible. The accident will cost the companies concerned in the neighborhood of $150.

The Park Pointers were up against it during the morning, and a number of them who had to go to town did some tall walking. It was fortunate that the accident happened on Sunday, however, as all of them whose duties take them to town daily would have had to walk.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Russian Farmer Thrown From His Wagon and Killed.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown.—Leonto Weljnitcheno, a Russian farmer living fourteen miles from Kulm, met death while driving home. The sudden fall of the front wheels of his wagon into a hole in the road threw him from the seat and the wheels passed over his body.

A work train was sent from Jamestown to repair the damage to the tracks, resulting from the terrific rain and hail storm of Thursday night. A fill on the southwestern branch of the Northern Pacific 100 feet long and 50 feet deep was washed out. A temporary bridge was built, as it will take a week to fill the gap with earth.

The cases against William and Michael Higgins and Jacob Grossman, Medina men accused of selling liquor, were dismissed in Judge Pearson's court on motion of the state's attorney, there being insufficient evidence. This made eight cases which were dismissed this week. There is bitter feeling against Timothy Sullivan, the ex-blindpigger, who swore out the warrants.

Fargo.—Some months ago William Rae was arrested on a charge of attempting an assault on a small girl. Ten days ago the fellow was again arrested and had a little girl with him. There was no evidence to prove that an assault had been committed or attempted, but the authorities have filed a complaint against him charging kidnaping and will make an effort to have him sent to prison for a long term.

Langdon.—At a meeting of the county commissioners resolutions were passed engaging Frank Nye of Minneapolis to assist the prosecution in the Barry trial, the time of which has not yet been set, but will no doubt be before the present term of court adjourns.

An affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Knowshaw by the defendant, and it is likely that another judge will preside in another county. It is not known who the defendant's attorney will be, although Gordon & Lamb are acting for Barry at present. It is presumed that additional counsel will be secured.

Grand Forks.—John Adams at work at the bottom of an excavation was overpowered by gas. Will Hawk, went down and undertook to shut off the gas and rescue Adams, but before he could do so he, too, was unconscious. It was two hours before the men were able to walk.

Amenia—The Congregational church has invited Rev. N. W. Conkle of Buxton to be its pastor. He will enter upon the work June 1.

Melville—The Congregational church has called to its pastorate Rev. Thomas Dyke, recently of Wibaux, Mont.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Lisbon—Walter Curtis, the 11-year-old son of ex-State Attorney T. A. Curtis, has been very low for several days with lockjaw, caused from running a rusty spike into his foot. It is thought he will recover.

The Lisbon creamery is completed and in good running order. It will commence operations today.

The graduating class of the high school held class day exercises at the school building and presented an excellent program. The class has ten members.

Deadwood—Judge John H. Burns, who recently visited Pine Ridge Indian agency, says Agent Brennan has organized a court among the Indians. It is composed of four full-blood Indians, neither of whom can speak the English language, but deport themselves with exceeding dignity.

Redfield—Henry Kellar, aged 45, was found dead in bed. He was not feeling well last evening, but was not thought to be seriously ill. He had a wife and several children.

Sioux Falls—Capt. John Amerin, a veteran of the civil war and the military governor of Louisiana during the reconstruction period, has been granted a divorce as a sequel to one of the most romantic and interesting cases in the history of South Dakota divorce courts. Capt. Amerin married a second time, believing the first wife to be dead. On her reappearance he secured an annulment of the second marriage, so that he could obtain a divorce from his first wife. He will now remarry his second wife.

Deadwood—As a result of the packing house strike in Omaha the distributing depots at Deadwood, of Armour & Co., Hammond Packing Co., Swift & Co., and Cudahy, have received orders not to prepay on delivery of meats after Monday.

ABSURD, SAYS MRS. P. P.

Paris, May 25.—Mrs. Potter Palmer pronounces the story of her engagement to the prince of Monaco as absurd.

I paid out over $500, writes Mrs. S. P. Jones, Atlanta, for merchandise, but nothing did me any good until I used Rocky Mountain Tea. Made me entirely well. S. F. BOYCE.

SUSPICION GROWING

That China and Russia Are Playing a Deep Game.

End of Great Speculation Combining Business and Religion.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a growing suspicion in the minds of those most familiar with diplomatic affairs that China and Russia together are playing a deep game which is to result in concessions to the former country from both the United States and Great Britain. The extension of the Chinese exclusion act by the last congress and the present agitation of similar legislation for South Africa threatens to curtail still further the area open to Chinese "coolie" labor. On the other hand, American business men having large commercial interests in Hawaii and the Philippines are again agitating the proposition to open the doors of those two dependencies of the United States to Chinese labor in order that workmen may be secured to carry on the great enterprises in those islands which are seriously hampered today because of a lack of laboring men.

The United States and Great Britain have together insisted upon an "open door" policy for the entire Chinese empire. The introduction of railroads into Manchuria promises to result in a wonderful development of trade in that vast territory, and it is believed that China sees her opportunity to force this country at least to admit Chinese labor in return for trade concessions which are so persistently demanded. The commercial treaty between the United States and China will expire by limitation in about a year. Although Li Hung Chang, the greatest of all Chinese statesmen, has passed away, the empire is not without diplomats competent to cope with Americans and Europeans. Among them is Wu Ting Fang, who has a personal knowledge of the desires of American business men and capitalists to secure commercial arrangements with the Chinese empire, and he knows that these Americans are powerful enough in this country to force their views upon the senate. Mr. Wu carried back with him to China an enormous amount of data upon which to base the outline of a new treaty to take the place of that which will cease to be in operation within the next fifteen months. If, therefore, there is an understanding between Russia and China by which the czar is helping on the Chinese bluff, it may be that the forthcoming new treaty will provide at least for the admission of coolies under certain restrictions into the Hawaiian and Philippine islands in return for opening up the Chinese empire, including Manchuria, to American enterprise.

Perhaps the best posted man in the United States upon the subject of trade possibilities in Manchuria is Mr. Rockhill, formerly assistant secretary of state and at present chief of the bureau of American republics. Some years ago Mr. Rockhill spent many months in Manchuria and in portions of Thibet, and as a result of his observations he published an exceedingly interesting volume, under the auspices of the Smithsonian institution, entitled "The Diary of a Journey Through Thibet and Manchuria." This volume, while not written with the idea of producing a commercial text book upon the subject of trade possibilities of that region, is, nevertheless, replete with valuable information concerning the customs of the country, its products and possibilities. Mr. Rockhill's work has not obtained very wide circulation, for the reason that only a limited edition was published. But the demand for it has been so great of late that it is probable that congress will authorize its reprinting, and its general circulation will give American business men a far better opportunity to ascertain just what Manchuria is than they are able to do at the present time.

There are people in nearly every large city in the United States who will be interested in hearing the last chapter in a great speculation which combined business and religion, and in which capital from every state in the Union was invested. During the first days of the Harrison administration two capitalists from Philadelphia bought a large trace of land on the Upper Potomac, which they cut up into building lots and which they connected to the city with a trolley railroad. Twenty acres of this land was set apart as a "Chautauqua." Buildings and improvements costing nearly $200,000 were made and an association was formed for conducting religious services. Nearly 100 small cottages were erected, a magnificent pipe organ was installed in a vast auditorium building and for one season the "Chautauqua" flourished. But it never was attempted again to hold religious meetings on a large scale upon the property. Instead the place was turned into a summer resort and for a few seasons light opera was given by a syndicate of capitalists, but owing to the long distance from the city proper these ventures were not successful. For the past year or two "Glen Echo" has been conducted as a sort of park for the patrons of the trolley line. The other day the first mortgage on the property was closed and the twenty acres with their $300,000 worth of improvements were sold under the marshal's hammer for $13,000.

The remaining property of the suburb, which was originally designed to furnish suburban homes for Washington people has receded to its original wild state. The streets and avenues are grown up to timber and underbrush and every vestige of a village has vanished. The plat books are still on file in Montgomery county clerk's office and the Maryland real estate records continue to show the name of the first Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and scores of her relatives and friends as owners of lots for which they paid fancy prices and upon which beautiful villas were to be erected within a year from the date that the streets were cut through. Glen Echo is not even a "deserted village of the plain." It is simply a piece of wild non-arable land in which thousands of dollars were lost by people all over the United States.

It's folly to suffer from that horrible plague of the night, itching piles. Doan's Ointment cures quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50 cents.

Great Wash Goods Offering.

Not an old pattern in the lot, no remnants, no seconds, no clean-up of the accumulations of past seasons, but all fresh, selected patterns of the spring and summer styles of 1903. The greatest quantity and variety of full-piece wash goods ever purchased by us—bought at a loss to the largest jobbers in the Northwest, who unfortunately overestimated their spring trade and had to reduce their stock when the matter of price could not be considered—a trite reason, to be sure, but a fact which is for your gain.

At Less than Half of the Regular Selling Prices

You can have a carefully chosen stock of dainty summer dress goods. We regret their predicament—but we welcome the opportunity to give our customers beautiful fabrics at a less cost to them than we could have purchased the goods ourselves at the beginning of the season. Every line a saving—whether for serviceable children's dresses, comfort-permitting wrappers, simple dainty negligees, or sheer and cool shirt-waist suits. At so little cost you can now buy that we anticipate an enthusiastic response to our efforts to further your economies. No matter how large a woman's wardrobe may be, there are few who will not add to the summer outfit when handsome creations of the weavers' art can be had at such prices.

The Sale Continues Through the Week

If the goods last that long—but you must hurry if you want a share of them. Tuesday morning the selection of all the patterns is yours. You realize the great advantage in being first served, and just think of the prices—our lowest figures have been twice as much, yet our prices are always most reasonable—and there is a difference between passe patterns (not cheap at any price) and new merchandise—that goes without saying. You have never heard of such a sale of desirable wash goods as is going on at this store this week.

3½c for your choice of thousands of yards of dimities and lawns selling in the regular way from 6c to 8c. These are all full pieces. No remnants or mill ends—and all this season's patterns. Limit 30 yds to 1 person.

7½c for fine waist and dress fabrics selling regularly at 12½c. If you don't need them now, you can save money by buying for the future needs of yourself and children. Don't fail to see the assortment.

12½c Your summer dress—and a fine one at that—for just half price. In the lot are a superb line of 25c tissues, lenos, batistes and other popular cloths. You'll expect and find a big assortment.

5½c for dimities and lawns selling regularly at 10c. Outside of our store you would expect to pay 12½c for this quality. Come early for your choice of this assortment.

9½c secures your choice of an assortment of dainty wash fabrics, other stores would call a bargain at 15c. There is not a yard worth less than that and many are worth 19c the yard. This week at 9½c.

15c No matter how much better than 25c the fabrics in this assortment are worth, we will not ask you more than 15c for them. 29c would be a very reasonable figure—to sell quickly, price only 15c.

The choicest, most varied offering of wash goods made this season—we cannot duplicate it—it is your opportunity.

Gray-Tallant Co

Such a collection of desirable wash goods as every woman within shopping distance of this store will want to pick from.

Disaster Following Automobile Race Greater Than Reported.

Awful Ending of Start Has Caused Profound Sensation.

Paris, May 25.—The trail of death and disaster following the start Sunday morning from Versailles of the Paris-Madrid automobile race has caused a profound sensation. Reports from along the route of the first stage, to Bordeaux, continue to give details of the various accidents, and these are causing greater attention than the race, which has practically been abandoned owing to the interdiction of the government to its being continued in French territory.

The correspondent of the Associated Press has been privately informed from a trustworthy source that Messrs. Barrow and Marcel Renault are both dead, and the Francois and Libre Parole announce the death of Marcel Renault from his injuries, but the reports have not been confirmed. On the other hand, a dispatch from Poitiers forwarded at 6:40 this morning says Marcel Renault's condition was then grave but not desperate. The doctors there expect to amputate Barrow's leg at the thigh during the day.

Among the accidents not reported yesterday was that of George Richard, whose machine was overturned. Richard had several ribs broken.

At Bordeaux the news of the suppression of the race caused disappointment among the racers, although the government's action was foreseen on account of the accidents.

Public opinion, outside the automobilists, is strongly approving the step taken by the government. A dispatch from Poitiers during the day announced that "M. Werner," which was the name C. Gray Dinsmore, the only American left in the race, had entered under, broke down and withdrew at a small place outside of that town.

Madrid, May 25.—The news of the accidents to the contestants in the Paris-Madrid automobile race made a deep impression here. The Royal Automobile club is exhibiting bulletins on a large transparency, which the public is anxiously watching. The competitors in the tourist section of the race, who are arriving here, are received with great sympathy, and there was a great demand for tickets to the stands to witness the finish of the speed race.

The action of the French government in stopping the speed contest is generally approved. The Imparcial blames the Spanish government for not taking steps to obtain official bulletins of the accidents, and describes the men killed as "martyrs in the cause of commercial enterprise."

TRIBES ARE INSOLENT

Since Evacuation of Russian Troops From Southern Manchuria.

St. Petersburg, May 25.—The evacuation of Southern Manchuria by the Russian troops led to a display of ever-increasing insolence on the part of the disorderly tribes, whose numbers are rapidly augmenting, says a Vladivostock dispatch to the Novoye Vremya. The correspondence proceeds: "Many Chinese and Manchurians in the province of Mukden and Kirin are in terror of their lives and property. Unemployed Chinese laborers are congregating along the Eastern China railway. About 60,000 Chinese are gathered at Harben, some 50,000 are camping along the southern and northern sections of the Manchuria line and large numbers are moving into South Manchuria.

Referring to the Russian timber concession on the Yalu river, the dispatch says:

"A Russian company, with a capital of $1,500,000, has been formed in Corea to exploit the concession and several thousand workmen have already been engaged in Manchuria and sent to Corea. Russian workmen are also being dispatched thither in great numbers. The staff of the company is mostly composed of officers of the Chinese Eastern railroad. The company will maintain its own steamers."

MILL HANDS STRIKE.

Men at Baraga, Mich., Want Shorter Day.

Baraga, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Saturday morning the mill hands and lumber pilers in both the Baraga Lumber company and the Nestor mills, went on a strike. A demand was made for shorter hours. They have been working eleven hours per day and asked to have it reduced to ten hours a day, with the same pay as formerly. As a result 200 men are thrown out of employment. The average wages are $1.87. It is hard to say just how the strike will result.

Excursion to Eau Claire, Wis., $4.70 For Round Trip.

On June 1, 2 and 3 the C., St. P., M. & O. railway will sell tickets to Eau Claire, Wis., and return for one fare, good for return June 6, 1903.

SCHWAB LOOKING WELL.

New York, May 25.—Charles M. Schwab arrived here today and went to the office of the United States Steel corporation. He looked to be in excellent health.

PENSION INCREASED.

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pension of Orlando Brown, of Elk River, Minn., was today increased to $46 per month.

New York, May 25.—An unknown man sitting in an open car crossing Brooklyn bridge yesterday suddenly alighted when the car was in the middle of the center span and, running to the side of the bridge, jumped into the river. He threw his hat in the face of a fireman who tried to seize him as he stood poised on the edge of the trestle work, and then dived headfirst, holding a lighted cigar between his teeth. His body rose to the surface immediately after the plunge and was carried away by the current.

CENTENARY OF THE BIRTH OF RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Concord, Mass., May 25.—Concord today gave itself up to a general celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Seldom has the town stopped all business for a day out of respect for one man, but today not only was this done, so that her people might be unhindered in paying tribute to a distinguished citizen, but also that they might greet the great number of visitors who came to mingle their homage with that of those residing here. There were two parts to the day's program. The forenoon exercises were planned exclusively for the school children. The principal speaker of the morning was Le Barron Russell Briggs, of Harvard, and a feature of the program was the recitation by some of the pupils of selected poems of Emerson, in the afternoon President Charles Elliot of Harvard, Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Professor William James of Harvard and Senator George Frisbie Hoar were among the speakers.

Fargo Again Takes Duluth Into Camp With Comparative Ease.

Duluth Weak With the Stick—Scores of Amateur Games.

Fargo collected many timely swats Saturday, winning the final game of the opening series.

McCoy was brought in from right field to pitch for the Cardinals. He can pitch some and in view of the fact that he soaked out a home run the day before, great things were expected of him. But, alas! lightning and home runs are sadly uncertain.

Duluth dropped three of the four games to Fargo. Such luck is indeed depressing, but even at that it is safe to say the Cardinals will strike a pace in a few days that will open the eyes of the fans.

The primary cause of last week's three defeats was a lack of consecutive hitting, and failure to give Mueller a chance to pitch a full game.

While Fargo was batting at a .320 clip the Cardinals as a team did not hit over .190 and that was how it happened. The Saturday score by innings:

Duluth	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	1	5	4

Pitchers: Foulks and McCoy.

The event of the season was the defeat of Winnipeg by Superior. The best of it was Mrs. Tim Keefe was managing the team while her scrappy husband is under suspension. The result seems to indicate the truth of an old saying that women are better managers than men. The Winnipeg pitcher was hit safely fourteen times while the Champions could not touch a swift, straight ball used by Daniels. The score:

Superior	1 1 1 0 1 2 0 1 1	8	14	5
Winnipeg	0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 2	6	8	4

Pitchers: Daniels and O'Connor.

Crookston and Grand Forks did not play Saturday on account of wet grounds. Yesterday, however, Crookston played an exhibition game at Fargo and won by a score of 2 to 1. This game does not cut any figure in the league race. The score:

Crookston	0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0	2	7	3

Pitchers: Burns and Howell.

Twenty-one men were struck out by Thurmond the Fremuth pitcher at Hibbing yesterday. This is the strike-out record of the season and Hibbing was powerless before such twirling. Besides the new pitching record, features of the game were a triple by Joe Medley and a home run by Jacks, the Fremuth short stop. The Score.

Fremuths	1 0 0 1 1 7 0 1 x	11	14	1
Hibbing	0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 1	3	5	5

After accepting Duluth's terms Jimmie Hart signed with Minneapolis as a utility man. His error lost Saturday's game for the Millers.

Bridewell, an all-around player with the Columbus team, may join Duluth a little later in the season. He is a good man.

The local management is negotiating with two good third basemen—Murphy of Fort Wayne and Lyons of Omaha.

Sheehan of Montreal has been strongly recommended to Duluth. He is a short stop and played fairly fast ball in the Eastern league last season.

Grand Forks will try out a new pitcher against Superior today. His name is McCarthy and Manager Kearns secured him from Chicago.

Mueller is said to be the cleverest pitcher in the Northern league when it comes to fielding his position. In two games at Fargo he took thirteen hard fielding chances without an error.

The Fargo Forum says: "It looks like Davis, the Duluth pitcher, is playing for his release. It is understood that he either wishes to play in St. Paul or the East and is not putting forth his best efforts for the Cardinals."

Bill Lambert leads the team in batting and fielding. He has accepted fifty chances without an error and during the Fargo series had five singles.

Tom Wheaton is doing well at second. In the Fargo series he had three hits, thirteen put-outs, six assists, and two errors.

McCoy has had five fits including a home run and a double.

Duluth Heights has a ball club when makes claim to some excellence. The married men of the suburb determined to put a crimp in the pretensions of the organization and arranged a game of five innings. The result was a complete dismantlure of the regular players and the triumph of the married men by a score of 13 to 9. The married men now announce their readiness to play any team in Duluth that has a reputation. H. Fawcett is manager. The line-up was as follows:

Married Men—		Regulars.
E. Engreen	pitcher	C. Dennis
R. Harwood	catcher	G. Eaton
F. Schulty	first base	C. Wright
M. Brendas	second base	F. Coons
W. Stewart	third base	I. Coons
J. Reamer	short stop	R. Roy
J. Camm	center field	P. Ludlin
H. Fawcett	right field	F. Field
J. Hogan	left field	C. McEwen

The Stone-Ordean-Wells company's nine was victorious in the game Saturday against the F. A. Patrick & Co., team and continues at the head of the wholesale league. The score was 21 to 7.

The following is the schedule for the Jobbers' league:

May 16—F. A. Patrick Co. vs. Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co.

May 23—F. A. Patrick Co. vs. Stone-Ordean-Wells Co.

May 30—F. A. Patrick Co. vs. Leithhead Drug Co.

June 6—F. A. Patrick Co. vs. Kelly-How-Thomson Co.; Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co. vs. Stone-Ordean-Wells Co.; Leithhead Drug Co. vs. Marshall-Wells Co.

June 20—Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co. vs. Leithhead Drug Co.; Marshall-Wells Co. vs. Kelly-How-Thomson Co.

June 27.—F. A. Patrick Co. vs. Marshall-Wells Co.; Stone-Ordean-Wells Co. vs. Leithhead Drug Co.

July 11—Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co. vs. Kelly-How-Thomson Co.

July 18—Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co. vs. Kelly-How-Thomson Co.

July 18—Gowan-Peyton-Twohy Co. vs. Marshall-Wells Co.; Kelly-How-Thomson Co. vs. Stone-Ordean-Wells Co.

July 25—Leithhead Drug Co. vs. Kelly-How-Thomson Co.; Stone-Ordean-Wells Co. vs. Marshall-Wells Co.

CEDAR BLOCKS DO DAMAGE

New Paving Swells With Rain and Spreads Rails.

Superior is getting a little valuable experience with cedar block paving on Tower avenue north of Eighth street. The blocks that were recently put down were from cedar cut in the winter when the sap was down and classed as dry cedar. When the rain began to fall the blocks began to swell and havoc resulted.

The street railway company was the worst victim. The blocks swelled with such force that they forced the large steel rails apart several inches. The spread was so great that the cars lost the rails, dropping off between them, and the company had to begin repairs immediately. The pressure is being eased by taking out blocks, and this will be necessary as far north as Seventh street, at least.

There was some controversy as to whether dry or green cedar should be used when the paving was ordered, and now the advocates of green cedar are saying "I told you so."

WILL EXPLORE ITS LANDS

Northern Pacific Metallurgist In Charge of Highland Work.

The two drills reported by The Herald last week to have gone in on the Highland range for the Northern Pacific Railroad company, are being set up on the se¼ of the ne¼ and the e½ of the sw¼ of section 3, 51-11. This is a short distance south of the station at Highland. The Northern Pacific owns considerable land all over what is reputed to be the Highland iron range, and it is evidently its intention to find out what there is to the tales that have been told about the existenc of iron there. Mr. Myers, the company's metallurgist, is in charge of the work.

The drill on the McLeod property is down some distance, but every effort is being made to preserve secrecy on its findings, so it will probably not be known what the result is until the company chooses to let it out.

RESOLUTIONS ARE PASSED

Deploring Kishineff Massacre By Jewish Publication Society.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Resolutions have been adopted by the Jewish Publication society of America, deploring the Kishineff massacre, requesting President Roosevelt to use his good offices in preventing its recurrence and asking congress to insure equal rights to all citizens without regard to creed. The resolutions, which will be forwarded to President Roosevelt, the secretary of state, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, are in part, as follows:

"Resolved, that we deplore the brutal massacre of our co-religionists at Kishineff.

Resolved, that we respectfully ask the president of the United States to use his good offices in the name of humanity to prevent a recurrence of similar events.

Resolved, that we respectfully ask of the congress and the administration, the taking of such steps as will accord equal rights to all American citizens without distinction of creed, in all treaties hereafter entered into with foreign powers and the denunciation of all existing treaties in conflict with this principle.

Resolved, that we denounce the heartless attempt made by the Russian ambassador to spread among the American people by means of the public press as to the character of the Jews of Russia and other countries."

SNOW IN LOS ANGELES.

Capt. Wood Says It Made Great Fun For Children.

Capt. A. P. Wood is back from California, where he has been since last December. Capt. Wood started for Bisbee, Ariz., but was taken ill while in California, and was unable to proceed to his destination. So he spent a pleasant winter in California and returns almost entirely recovered. Most of his time was spent in Los Angeles, but he spent four weeks in San Diego and shorter periods in other places.

"I was amused in Los Angeles one day when there was a little snow," said Capt. Wood Saturday. "It was apparently quite an experience for the children, for they had all kinds of fun with it. It did not last long, and one enterprising youth got a corner on it by loading a small toy wagon full of snowballs before it disappeared. He was doing a thriving business when I saw him, selling the snowballs for a cent apiece."

16TH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Continues two days—Monday and Tuesday.

The first two days of this sale were record breakers. The crowds were fully up to our capacity for handling. Then came the dread northeaster, with its rain and winds and cold—and put a crimp into the sale. Friday and Saturday we did a big business—far ahead of last year, but only half of what we did on Wednesday and Thursday. So we have decided to make a full week of the sale as has been our custom in past years. Tomorrow, therefore, will positively be the last day of the phenomenal bargains which have made this sale, in spite of two days of bad weather, greater in amount of business than any week in previous years.

Bargain counter No. 1.

19c wash goods for 7½c.

Our three bargain counters will be made more than ever attractive during these two extra anniversary days.

SOME LIKE BRICK

Not All Lake Avenue Property Owners Want Sandstone Pavement.

Brick Would Be Cheaper and They Claim as Good.

The residents on Lake avenue are not all unanimous in the desire that sandstone be used for the pavement of that avenue. There are a number who oppose it and who suggest that a public meeting should be held to talk over the matter before it has gone too far to remedy.

When it is pointed out that a petition for sandstone has been prepared and signed by the required number of owners, they say that the petition circulated was for sandstone pavement, and that while it was possible to get 25 per cent of the owners to sign this, the majority will be found preferring brick, for the reason that it is cheaper.

The situation on Lake avenue, according to an owner, is different than with most of the property of the city. Most of the ground is leased by the owners of the buildings, but under the terms of their lease they must pay the cost of improvements. One of the oldest residents on the avenue says:

"Business is poorer on Lake avenue than on almost any other street in the city and the owners of buildings and property should be subjected to no greater cost for improvements than is absolutely necessary.

"In one of the local papers recently the statement was made that the property owners on Lake avenue prefer sandstone for pavement, because of the heavy hauling that is done on that avenue. Why is brick pavement not just as good? Anyone who knows where Lake avenue is located well knows that it has no other outlet than Superior street, so that all the heavy hauling done on Lake avenue has to go over Superior street, where there is brick pavement. Every wagon that drives on Lake avenue has to drive on Superior street. If the pavement on Superior street will stand all this, and hundreds of wagons more, why cannot Lake avenue have the same brick pavement as Superior street?

"It would be cheaper for each property owner, as the sandstone costs $3 per yard, and the brick pavement about $1.55 per yard.

"The article says that the property owners prefer the sandstone pavement. The fact is that there was only one petition in circulation, and it was made out in favor of sandstone. If the property owners knew the cost they would prefer the brick pavement. It would be well if the property owners of Lake avenue would get together and discuss the matter before it is too late."

Will Men at Menominee Strike For Higher Wages.

Menominee—The shingle weavers and knot sawyers on both sides of the river went out on a strike, and every shingle mill on the river, except those of Donovan & O'Connor and Burns & Hicks, is closed. About 350 men are affected by the strike. The men were getting from $2.25 to $3.50 a day, but asked an increase of 25 cents a day.

Samille Gagnon, aged 54 years, an old resident of Menominee, died suddenly yesterday.

Iron Mountain—The Iron Mountain Maccabees have accepted the challenge issued by Northern ten of Crystal Falls for a sixty-day membership contest. The ten securing the most members between May 1 and July 1 will dine at the expense of the other.

Munising—Commenting on the statement that the blast furnaces at Marquette, Gladstone, Manistique and Newberry will consume 400,000 cords of kiln wood annually, the Munising Republican says: Kiln wood cuts on an average thirty-five cords per acre. On this basis, to feed the stacks of the above named furnaces, it requires the wood from 11,429 acres, or eighteen square miles of solid timber land.

Sault Ste. Marie—The retail liquor liquor dealers of the Soo held an important meeting last week, at which the chief topic discussed was the price they are being charged by the brewers for beer. When the war revenue tax of $1 per barrel was put on the beverage, the brewers added that sum to their wholesale price, and since the revenue has been repealed have only reduced the price 75 cents. The rate now charged is $7.25 per barrel, but the dealers feel that $6 ought to be sufficient, as they understand that beer is delivered at other points in the upper peninsula at that price. A committee was appointed to wait upon the local agents and present a remonstrance.

Escanaba—While George Lawrence, baggageman at Powers for the Northwestern road, was checking box cars in the yard he noticed a somewhat peculiar object projecting from one of the cars. Investigation disclosed that it was the arm of a tramp. The car door was opened and two young men jumped out, calling for water the first thing. The two men entered the car at Escanaba en route for Green Bay, thinking that the car would not be locked, and that it would go straight through to their destination, but instead the box car remained in the yard at Powers for three days. Had not Lawrence discovered them, the two would undoubtedly have starved to death. They were obliged to lay down all this time, as the car was loaded with empty butter tubs within about eighteen inches from the top of the car. They succeeded in cutting a hole through the car about four inches square with a small pocket knife, through which the arm that gave the alarm was extended. They also tried to break the seal on the car with a wooden hoop, but were unsuccessful.

CAPT. JACK CRAWFORD

Denies Writing About "Wild Bill Held Up."

To the Editor of The Herald:

On my return from Georgia I found fifteen clippings in my mail from numerous newspapers, containing the story, "Wild Bill Held Up." All give the writer credit for the sensational stuff and nonsense that suggested it, beginning thus: "Capt. Jack Crawford, the veteran scout and writer of sensational literature, recently penned for a Chicago newspaper some highly laudatory stuff about the famous 'Wild Bill' Hickok."

I was called down at the Press club about that story, and was informed that it was copied from the Chicago Inter-Ocean and appeared in the New York Sunday Sun. I purchased a Sun and was thoroughly disgusted with the story before I had read a dozen sentences, and I immediately wrote to the editor that I was not the author, and the Sun published this fact. I sincerely trust that you will do as much, and I should be glad if you would say that Capt. Jack Crawford, the Poet Scout, has never penned a sensational line for publication in all his life, and furthermore, that in all of his stories, poems and songs, he has tried to point a moral and has, with pen and tongue, denounced the misleading, untruthful stories and dramas of the sensational order, and more than 1,000,000 men and boys will vouch for this who have listened to my talks from Y. M. C. A. rostrums, and from some of the pulpits of leading churches. On the 16th of last month I talked to a large audience in Beecher's old Plymouth church, and herewith enclose a letter just received from the assistant pastor. On the 17th I talked to over 1000 boys at the naval training school at Newport, from whence I went to Georgia to take the place of Gen. John B. Gordon at the Albany Chautauqua, and the enclosed testimonials from Governor Terrell and members of his staff, as well as from the mayor and the manager of the Chautauqua tell the story of my work.

Such stories are misleading and injurious to me, placing me in a false light and jeopardizing my business as a platform speaker and entertainer. My life has been an open book. I have tried to do my duty; always had faith in my fellowmen; tried to keep a sound and cheerful heart; to help somebody every day; to sprinkle sunshine along life's trail, inspired with a spirit of gratitude to the Great Spirit who gave me the power to come to the aid of a fellow man with trouble's flag unfurled, and so it shall be with me until death's tattoo.

The article referred to as mine was signed "Colonel (?) Jack Crawford," and was written by a fellow who is a promoter of bogus mining schemes, and who is evidently looking for some cheap notoriety. Very respectfully,

J. W. CRAWFORD, "Capt. Jack."

ANOTHER "FAKE" STORY.

The St. Paul Globe, which published a "fake story" a few days ago about the state auditor investigating a charge that the state was being cheated out of royalties on iron ore taken from state lands—a story which was promptly denied by the state auditor as without the slightest foundation—is now discussing the suggested new "state of Superior." Some people in the city of Superior recently renewed the agitation, and the Globe says "it is understood that the iron mining people are those chiefly interested in the movement." Then it proceeds to deconstrate to its own satisfaction that the United States Steel corporation desires the organization of the new state because "it would give this interest a stronger control of the Lake Superior iron ore district, with a more secure and exclusive hold upon the mining rights, royalties, taxation and government regulation of this iron-producing section," and that "from the standpoint of good government, civilization, desirability as a haven for homeseekers and general social progress, the movement is ill-advised."

There is just as little foundation for this yarn as the Globe's "fake" about the state being defrauded of royalties. The few people in Superior who recently agitated the new state idea met no encouragement in Duluth, or in the mining districts of St. Louis county. In this section, the scheme is regarded as impracticable. The movement is looked upon as an absurdity. If "it is understood that the iron mining people are those chiefly interested in the movement," it is not so understood in Duluth. The understanding in that respect is confined to the Globe office. Perhaps there may be a new state some time in the distant future, but it is hardly likely that the present generation will see it—and it may never be created. So far as The Herald can discover, no person connected with the Steel corporation or any other mining interest has given any encouragement to the scheme or is likely to do so. So this part of the Globe's story is as untrue as its old and baseless claim that the government of St. Louis county is controlled by the same corporation. The Globe is evidently ambitious to attain a position in the front rank of "fakers."

GERMAN BEER-DRINKING.

German scientists and others are raising a protest against the rapid increase in the consumption of beer in the domains of the kaiser. The consumption of this popular beverage has reached enormous proportions. Over 70,000,000 of hectoliters of beer are brewed annually in the German empire—i. e., about 220 pints per head of the population of 56,345,014! Compared with France, Russia, England and the United States, the consumption of spirits in Germany is just below that of France, and considerably more than in the other three countries mentioned. Up to comparatively recent years water was drunk by most persons in quite well-situated families in Germany, at table, and servants in general did not receive beer in service. This habit has been almost entirely abandoned. Even children are now allowed beer, and servants everywhere ask for it.

It is held that alcohol is to a large extent responsible for the increase in the police list of the country. A well-known government authority on prisons goes so far as to maintain not only that assaults and offenses against morality can almost all be constantly traced to alcohol, but that 70 per cent of all offenses and crimes stand more or less in casual connection with spirits. Further, it has been said that 30 per cent of the occupants of German lunatic asylums have been drunkards, and that 80 per cent of the idiots of Germany are the offspring of drunkards. Half the expense incurred by the state for domestic asylums, orphans' institutes, and the police would be saved for the German taxpayer if an efficacious check could be placed on alcoholism. The increase of the consumption of beer in South Germany, and especially in Bavaria, has caused the death-rate from heart, kidney and liver diseases to rise very considerably. The number of persons who died of heart trouble in Bavaria—the so-called beer-drinker's heart—has doubled within the space of ten years. The German nation seems now to be awakening to a sense of the fact that the continuous daily and often hourly consumption of alcohol is both excessive and deleterious. In the olden times the early Germans drank deeply over their feasts and on special occasions, but their daily potions were not of the same strength of modern spirits or modern beer. All authorities in Germany on social questions are agreed that the abuse of alcohol is casually connected in their country with crime, insanity, and the occurrence of accidents in factories. One of the state inspectors of Elbing, referring to this very cause, called it "the workman's greatest enemy." Details of the effect of drink on the frequency of accidents in German factories can be found in the reports of the imperial board of insurance. The important point insisted upon is that the mischief takes place when the men are only somewhat excited after the consumption of alcohol, when it is no question of drunkenness. It is therefore urged that the use of alcoholic drinks should be absolutely prohibited before and during the hours of work.

The lessons to be derived from the excesses of drinking in Germany are just as applicable to this country. Its continuation means ruination to many. Without doubt the drinking problem is the greatest of the day and how to successfully grapple with it yet remains an unsolved question.

The prince of Wales says he wants Great Britain to have a big display at the St. Louis exposition, and it is reported he will come over and help make it.

THE FIGHT IN OHIO.

There are prospects of a lively fight among the Ohio Republicans. Senator Foraker has given notice that he and his friends will endeavor at the coming state convention to have a resolution passed endorsing the administration of President Roosevelt and declaring in favor of his nomination in 1904. On the other hand, Senator Hanna says he sees no reason for bringing the question before the convention, and has intimated that he will use his influence in the convention against the adoption of any indorsement resolution. The reason he gives for taking this stand is that it is contrary to the usual custom and would do President Roosevelt no good at this time.

A friend of Senator Hanna has given another reason. He says: "Senator Hanna stated to me that he would oppose an indorsement of Roosevelt for the nomination. His reasons are these: Hanna is chairman of the national committee. It would not do for him to permit the state controlled by him to indorse a candidate for president at this time. To do so would be notice to the aspirants of all states that the national committee is opposed to anyone else entering the race. This would probably engender bad feelings, and destroy harmony in the national organization."

This would apparently confirm the report that Hanna would not be averse to securing the presidential nomination himself, and of course if he has aspirations in that direction it would not do to have the Ohio convention declare in favor of Roosevelt at this time. Hanna, however, says: "I am not now and will not be a candidate for the presidency." But while the senator says he will not be a candidate, some of his friends think differently. One of them said a few days ago: "Hanna thinks now he will never be a candidate for president himself, but I and other friends do not agree with him." The outlook is that the Hanna men will be in control of the state convention, but Foraker can stir up a lively row in the convention by demanding that President Roosevelt be endorsed, and he says he will do it. The attitude assumed by Hanna is certainly peculiar. He says he is not antagonistic to Roosevelt, that he favors his nomination, and yet he opposes a resolution pledging Ohio's support. The outcome of this fight between the Hanna and Foraker factions wil be awaited with interest by the entire country.

AN INTERESTING POINT.

The demand of Roland B. Molineux, acquitted in New York of the charge of the murder of Mrs. Katherine Adams, after two trials, that all photographs, Bertillon measurements and other personal records be returned to him, raises a most interesting question. He has appealed to the courts to enforce his demands and a hearing was had at Troy, N. Y., recently, upon the application of Molineux for a writ of mandamus requiring the prison superintendent to return them. In the hearing, it was maintained for Molineux that the reversal of conviction by the court of appeals and his subsequent acquittal made it as if he had never been accused. The state, on the other hand, holds that this application is merely the entering wedge for the destruction of an invaluable collection of public records, and that the photographs and measurements in Molineux's case are as much a part of the record of the case as the original indictment.

The point is certainly an interesting as well as a novel one, and it is not to be wondered that the justice reserved his decision. His verdict will be far-reaching in effect and probably will not be rendered until great consideration has been given the subject. In the eyes of the law Molineux is an innocent man and there seems no good reason why these pictures and penal measurements should remain exposed to public gaze, by the side of those of the most desperate men in the land. While the ends of justice should not be thwarted in any way, there is no more reason why Molineux should be subjected to such an indignity, than such records should be made of any innocent man or woman in the country. The vetoing of a bill introduced in the New York legislature bearing on this subject, by Governor Odell, may have some effect on the case. This bill required police officials to remove from "rogues galleries" the photographs of accused persons who have been acquitted or have died, and met with the approval of the legislature, but not of the governor. Such a law should be passed, and it is probable that it will be in the near future.

New York is celebrating this week. It is the 250th anniversary of the incorporation of the city of New Amsterdam, the progenitor of America's present metropolis. There have been great changes since that day back in 1653 when Governor Peter Stuyvesant of Holland's colony of New Netherland proclaimed to the people of the province that he had granted city privileges to the residents of New Amsterdam. The city of 100 persons of that day grew to 60,000 in 1800, to 123,000 in 1820, to 202,000 in 1830, after the completion of the Erie canal, to 805,000 in 1860, to 1,515,000 in 1890, and to about 3,500,000 in 1900, just after its limits had been enlarged.

Mark Hanna never loses an opportunity to make himself solid with the American people. The latest evidence of this is his request to his daughter to have her trousseau made in the United States instead of London or Paris. The senator has also made certain that the fact is advertised far and wide.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been restored to the list of books in the catalogue of the New York public schools, on account of the "clamor." It was displaced because of its alleged influence, when the truth is that is has no influence at all now.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A party made up of some traveling men, a railroad man or two and a gentleman, pulled their chairs together and started telling real old hotel lobby stories last night.

This is the way they were told:

"Thomas Lowry, head of the Twin Cities Traction company," said the traveling man, "told this story to me, and I think it's pretty good.

"You see, Mr. Lowry was on the first bond of Dr. A. A. Ames, of Minneapolis, when he was under indictment. Subsequently the bondsmen asked for release and were given it, and when the second bond was being circulated for signers, they went to Mr. Lowry again and asked him to become a surety, which he refused to do.

"It was a few days afterwards, while telling about the nerve some people had in asking him to continue as a bondsman, that he told a little story on himself, illustrative.

"He said he was at one time a member of the board of managers or directors of the state insane asylums, or whatever the controlling body is, having these state institutions under its charge. The board had been to some town where there was an asylum to make a casual investigation and to inspect the institution. Mr. Lowry started in to help investigate, but he got cold feet before it was fairly well under way, and told his fellow-members that he could not stand to observe his fellow-men in such distress of mind and body, and would retire to the lawn and gladly sign any report they saw fit to make.

"He went out on the lawn, and was standing around, when he spied a man wheeling a wheelbarrow back and forth. The wheelbarrow was turned upside down.

"Mr. Lowry watched the man curiously. He saw the man was not violently insane, so he ventured a remark.

"'Don't you know that the wheelbarrow is intended for operation in another position, and that it is much easier to wheel it right side up?' he asked. The patient eyed him a moment and walked on with his burden, a look of determination crossing his face.

"'Don't you know how a wheelbarrow should be wheeled?' asked Mr. Lowry. The man shook his head and plodded along.

"So Mr. Lowry went up to the man and gently took the handles of the wheelbarrow from his hands. He righted the barrow and wheeled it up and down the lawn a few times, and, with a smile of triumph and satisfaction, as he saw the man watching him intently, turned the barrow over to the patient.

"'There,' said Mr. Lowry, 'isn't that better? Don't you see how easy it is to run it this way?'

"'Oh, I knew that,' said the man. 'I wheeled it that way all day yesterday, and they went and put bricks in it.'

"The man turned the barrow over and kept on his walk, and Mr. Lowry thought

"He didn't go on the second Ames bond, however."

"That reminds me of one Governor Van Sant heard Booker Washington tell and has retained as a choice bit for the delectation of his friends. He tells it something like this:

"There was a contention in a negro church congregation at one time that the apostles were colored people, and the preacher had argued and shouted with fervor of the reasons that went to prove his theories. He said the fact they came from Southern climes and there were many references in the Bible which made him believe the apostles were all colored men.

"Many of the congregation were of the same belief. And the preacher was particularly certain that St. Peter was colored.

"'Bre'frn an' sistern,' he shouted, dah's no doubt in de wo' what Petah's a culled 'possle. 'Luzuns is made in mos' ev'ry p'listo'ic paht of de good book which foces conkluzhlons 'pon us, dat such am' an' is, an ever will be de case, so help us de Lo'd, amen.'

"As the old preacher finished and pounded the lectern with his firsts, an old colored "mammie" arose in the rear of the church, and standing with proudly erect head, arms folded and blazing eyes, shouted:

"'Yo' ol' fool niggah. W'at ah yo' all pesticating 'roun' heah wiff such eve'lastin' foolishness.

"'Mah goodngss, do' yo' s'pose dat If Salt Petah had been a culluhd man dat roostah would a crowed mo' dan once. An' de Bible sayes he done crowed mo'.'"

The Mercenary.

Go, Marigold, poor flower that caught
My lady's fancy for a day,
And ask her if in vain I've sought
To teach her love, as she has taught
A score of hearts to own her sway.

Tell her the passion of my thought;
Tell her that her "Yes" I pray;
Oh, bring not back unwelcome "Nay!"
Go Marigold.

She flings you by, since I have naught
But love wherewith for love to pay!
Ah, lady, if it must be bought—
Your heart so curiously wrought—
With Mammon's coin, I can but say;
"Go, marry gold!"

An Ohio Lawyer's Bill.

Washington Post: Here Is the story of an Ohio lawyer who did not become a politician, as he was not built on political lines. It is told by a Washington man, who was his clerk at one time. Lawyer B. was a gruff sort of personage and believed in making every one pay for every service. One of his clients was the president of a bank, who, during the pendency of his case, dropped into the lawyer's office very frequently and told stories. The lawyer was a good listener, and seemed to enjoy the stories very much, but after the banker went out Lawyer B. would say: "Here, charge Mr. ——— for an hour of my time. If I have got to listen to his stories he has got to pay me for it." Finally, the bill was made out and darted to the banker. It was an itemized account, stating the date of each call. He scanned it closely and remarked:

"He has never made me pay for it pretty well, hasn't he?"

"Pay for what?" asked the clerk.

"For listening to my stories."

And then he paid the bill.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Marrying for money is a very hazardous investment.

You could never make a woman believe that a hat which cost $15 was not becoming to her.

When a man pays back a personal loan it is a sign he is planning to borrow more from you.

A woman considers that she has no clothes at all if some other woman has more than she has.

Matchmakers who say that two can live as cheaply as one forget to mention that when the babies come along it is half a dozen who must live on the income of one.

Liability For Rotten Poles.

Philadelphia Ledger: A verdict for $5000 damages was recovered last week by a lineman against a telephone company in Baltimore. The lineman was injured by the breaking of the pole while he was descending it. The trial judge refused to take the case from the jury, as requested by the defendant's attorneys on the ground that the employe should have inspected the pole himself before he ascended it. The judge held that life is not so cheap that a corporation may erect poles on the streets and permit them to remain without inspection until they rot. The ruling is important, and if sustained by the court of appeals, to which the case will be taken, linemen will not be obliged to take the risks of defective telegraph and telephone poles without the right to recover from the companies in case of injury.

Joe Bailey as a Plutocrat.

Chicago Record Herald: Joe Bailey of Texas has become a corporation lawyer. He is said to have received a fee of $200,000 the other day. Mr. Bailey may now be expected to take a more liberal view concerning the rich.

What He Needed.

Brooklyn Eagle: A coal carrier in Yorkshire, England, was sent to deliver a ton of coal at a college. Meeting one of the professors in the grounds the coalman asked where he could put the coal. The professor came out of the brown study in which he was immersed and replied:

"Coal? Ah, yes! You must traverse the quadrangle at right angles and pass under the cinquefoil arch to the exterior curtilege of the building. There an orifice in the edifice will at once become evident to your ocular perception. There you may evacuate your vehicle of its amorphous substance."

The man scratched his head.

"That's all right, maister," he said. "but it's a coal hole ahm seekin'."

She Took It Off.

Brooklyn Eagle: He was only 5 years old, but he had already been warned of the consequences which might ensue did he persist in wearing his hat in and out of season. So one day when he came in with his sister from play he was heard to say in serious tones, "Take off your hat, Sissy. You know if you wear it in the house you may get bowlegged."

She Had a Sweet Tooth.

Willie fell in the molasses
Barrel, in the shed,
"Now I'll lick you, Willie,"
His angry mother said.

Pernicious Power of Money.

Philadelphia Record: Senator Joe Bailey, of Texas, who has just earned a $200,000 legal fee, will now be enabled to edge up a little closer to the vicinity of his millionaire compatriots from lesser states with larger bank accounts.

Legislative Distinction.

Philadelphia Press: Few of the legislatures are escaping distinction this year. The legislature of Missouri got away with a lot of $1000 bills; the legislature of Pennsylvania passed a press muzzler. Anybody can take his choice of the lot.

CECILIA

By Elizabeth K. Tarkington.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Paul Hurlburt arose impatiently from his seat beneath a gray old walnut tree and walked toward a stile which crossed from the neighboring meadow. He mounted the stile and looked with swift, ill-concealed longing in the direction of a white house which sat in stately silence bemind green interlacing leaves.

The young man was dressed for traveling and wore the brown linen duster of the period over his black clothes. There was a determined look about his dark blue eyes and strong, firm lips; so dark and determined they looked now that one could scarcely imagine how gentle the smile could become.

Over and over he had said, in impatient disappointment: "She will not come."

A she saw the stage coach roll with dusty importance, lumbering down the road, filled with inside passengers, hope left him and he turned his footsteps in the direction of the road. The coach stopped and he climbed to a seat beside the driver, then pulled his hat low upon his face. He gave a backward farewell glance at the little cemetery growing wild with honeysuckle and sweet brier and cool, glistening myrtle overshadowed by the dark evergreen foliage of the trees. As the stage passed he could catch a glimpse of the plain white marble slabs which marked the graves of the dead. The monument erected to his father, Col. Hurlburt, stood in the midst, where a regiment of graves stretched away, row by row, into the soft green silence.

In the white house a very young lady gazed listlessly out of the window and could not reply to the gay badinage of her lively cousin.

"You will not talk to me, Cecilia," he said, "will you ride?"

She replied: "It is lovely out of doors."

Then he gave an order for the horses and they were soon riding toward the village. As they approached a humble little negro cabin which stood by the roadside Cecilia stopped and talked to an old negress who sat under a spreading apple tree.

"How are you today, Aunt Milly?" inquired the young lady. The old woman raised her head with the helpless motion that is seen in the blind.

"Is dat you, honey?" she cried. "Marse Paul done gone. He tole me good-by las' night an' he done hollered good-by ergin when de stage passed."

Cecilia turned and said she would ride no further. Next morning she sent her cousin away and she wandered disconsolately about the old childish trysting places; beneath the walnut tree and down by Milly's cabin.

Often she said to herself, how could Paul leave me without one word? Was it jealousy of her cousin? She had been thoughtless and inclined to coquetry, but she could not believe that she deserved punishment like this.

As children Cecilia and Paul had often gone to the graveyard together and she had woven garlands, first of the yellow dandelions that peeped above the green, then of the violets that grew in such luxurlant profusion. Together they had decorated the soldiers' graves, always placing the choicest blossoms upon Col. Hurlburt's resting place. She often went afterward and adorned the graves in memory of the old days.

Years passed, old Milly died, and Cecilia learned that Paul was gaining fame in his profession of law. Afterward she knew that he was in congress, and she eagerly read the papers that she might follow his triumphs, step by step, until he was nominated for governor of his state.

There were suitors in plenty, for Cecilia was beautiful and the mistress of a large plantation, but they one by one departed, and she was given over to hardness of heart.

Once again came the national Decoration day, warm and smiling with its burden of flowers and soft sunshine falling upon the rows of federal and confederate dead.

And with this day came the memory of those other days when Cecilia and Paul had decked the graves with violets and as the years passed and he returned from college they had placed beautiful flowers upon the graves of the dead heroes and Paul had talked to her of his ambitions and she had listened with glad, trusting faith. And then that last gay summer, when other suitors had flattered the child just budding into womanhood, and Paul had gone without saying farewell. Today he would come back as a candidate for governor of his state and make an address to his townsmen upon the issues of the coming political race.

Cecilia turned the pages of the morning papers to finish a laudatory passage which referred to the expected visitor. Then the maid entered and said: "Miss Cecilia, Joe Crum is worse and has sent for you. The man says it is quite particular."

"Tell James to bring the carriage," said Cecilia. Joe Crum had been her father's overseer years before and for some time had been in failing health. Very soon she sat by the bedside of the sick man.

"Miss Cecilia," he said, "I haven't got long to stay here, and I want to tell you somethin', and I want you to promise me you won't feel hard after you hear it."

"Miss Cecilia, you wan't more nor a little girl and I was a young man workin' for your father. I was in town and the postmaster handed me a letter for you which he said he had overlooked when he sent out the mail the day before. I put it in my pocket and could never find it afterward. I said nothin' about it, and five years ago my wife cut up an old coat an' between the lining she found the letter, yellow and broken at the edges. We read it and found it was written to you by Mr. Hurlburt, him that is goin' to be governor of the state. That coat was my best and my wife kept it careful like. It got too small for me an' she cut it up to make a coat for little Tommy. Then she found that lost letter. I couldn't bring myself to say nothin' about it, for you'd stayed single all that time an' you might er took him if you'd know'd."

"Where is the letter?" said Cecilia, rising, tall and white and wraithlike beside the bed.

"Wife, give her the letter," groaned the sick man.

Mrs. Crum found the yellowed sheet of paper and put it in Cecilia's hand. She opened the letter and read:

"Dear Cecilia:

"I am about to leave for Baltimore: if you love me and will wait and be my dear little wife when I come back again meet me to say good-by tomorrow morning under the old walnut tree.

"Yours devotedly,

"PAUL."

Ah, if she had known this five years ago. She leaned back in her carriage and tears fell silently upon her cheek.

That evening Cecilia went to the cemetery. The graves were decorated and the crowd had gone home. How mournfully peaceful it was to be in this blossom-scented atmosphere. She stepped from beyond the shade to lay a beautiful wreath of white roses upon Col. Hurlburt's grave and saw a stranger bend over and place a mass of violets at the head. She sheetly placed the wreath at his feet

When she looked up she saw Paul Hurlburt.

"Cecilia," he said.

"It is Paul," she cried, and graciously gave him her hand. "I received a letter from you this morning which ought to have been delivered fifteen years ago," and she laid the yellow missive in his hand. She stood like a woman prepared to receive her wound, if the blow should fall; no telltale emotion sat upon her fair cheek; she was prepared to laugh with him at the folly of their youth.

He read the letter and turning asked: "What shall the answer be?" then clasped both her white hands and read the answer in her eyes.

The Postoffice Scandal.

Detroit Free Press: It is in keeping with the entire public record of President Roosevelt, if it be true that he is pushing an investigation of the postoffice scandals. If this policy sidetracks any head of a department or other high official it is because he lacks the right sort of nerve or is not willing to have the whole truth known. With the president to direct and Bristow to carry out orders, nothing discoverable will remain concealed.

Hot Run For His Money.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: General Baden Powell is about to undertake a tour of the world, in the hope that he may be able to overtake the rumor that he had made slighting remarks about the American cavalry.

A SMILE OR TWO.

Philadelphia Press: "Black crape, of course, is symbolic of a widow's grief."

"Of course; it's all put on."

Harvard Lampoon: Higgelty—Poor chap! he's walking on his uppers.

Piggelty—Dear, dear! Can't even call his sole his own!

Somerville Journal: It is dangerous for a young man to tell a girl that she is a peach. She never forgets it.

Cornell Widow: Peddler—Madam, I have here a fine complexion beautifier which——

Lady—No, you don't work any skin game on me.

Puck: Mrs. Gramercy—Do you think it was an intentional slight on the part of Mrs. Newrich?

Mrs. Park—Why, no, my dear. She hasn't been a lady long enough to know how to be rude.

Chicago Tribune: Employer—Young man, you have been just one hour eating your luncheon.

Employe—I beg your pardon, sir. I have been just five minutes eating my luncheon. The other fifty-five minutes I was fighting my way to the counter.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "So glad you've come, doctor. This is my husband."

"Suffering from hysteria, eh? That's a curious noise he makes. Sounds like neighing."

"It is neighing, doctor. You see he insists upon mixing his breakfast foods and this morning he got in too much oats."

Boston Transcript: Arthur—Millie may be a little peculiar at times, but she means all right.

Harry—Yes, I guess that's so, but what are you driving at?

Arthur—I called at her house, t'other night and today she said it was not until I had gone that she realized what a pleasant evening she was having.

IT IS NOT ALWAYS MAY.

The sun is bright—the air is clear,
The darting swallows soar and sing,
And from the stately elms I hear
The bluebird prophesying spring.

So blue yon winding river flows,
It seems an outlet from the sky,
Where, waiting till the west winds blows,
The frighted clouds at anchor lie.

All things are new—the buds, the leaves,
That gild the elm tree's nodding crest,
And even the nest beneath the eaves—
There are no birds in last year's nest!

All things rejoice in youth and love,
The fullness of their first delight!
And learn from the soft heavens above,
The melting tenderness of night.

Maiden, that read'st this simple rhyme,
Enjoy thy youth, it will not stay;
Enjoy the fragrance of thy prime,
For, oh, it is not always May!

Enjoy the spring of love and youth,
To some good angel leave the rest;
For time will teach thee soon the truth,
There are no birds in last year's nest.
—HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

A Skillful "Jollier."

Chicago Chronicle: Three years ago it was said—and with truth—that Col Roosevelt was no politician. It could not truthfully be said today. The suave and tactful manner in which his excellency flatters the vanity and conciliates the prejudices of every town he visits would do credit to any campaigner. The colonel has acquired a reputation for being an exponent of the bluff and strenuous in politics, whereas he is in reality a most skillful "jollier."

Strike Fever Attacks Royalty.

Philadelphia Record: The last striker for higher wages is Edward VII, king of England and emperor of India. He wants an advance of $150,000 in his yearly wage of $2,500,000. On the ground of onerous duties, expensive housekeeping and expanding sovereignty he can no doubt make a strong showing. Though monarchy is an expensive toy, King Edward can plead in his own behalf that the per capita cost of government in Great Britain is not so great as in the billion-dollar country across the seas.

The 'Gator Called a Halt.

Atlanta Constitution: As Brother Williams was preparing to baptize a convert in the mill pond the convert said:

"Br'er Williams, ain't dat a alligator on dat log yonder?"

"Hit sho is!" exclaimed Br'er Williams, "en a ten-foot one, at dat!"

"What we gwine do 'bout it?"

"Well," replied Br'er Williams, "de water mighty col' ter-day, end dey's lots er pneumony gwine 'roun'; en, 'sides dat, you ain't fittin' ter be baptized, nohow. Go 'long home en pray over yo' sins."

Lost All Save Clothes.

New York Tribune: The clans that went from Washington to the recent dedicatory ceremonies at St. Louis, embraced a goodly number of poker players. This was especially the case on the train that bore the Washington correspondent, for newspaper men are proverbially enthusiasts on the game. When the special neared the outskirts of Washington on the return trip a group got up from the card table for the first time since early the night before. There were some disconsolate ones among them, and one especially was blue, with a great big capital B. While he was gathering his effects together preliminary to quitting the train, a porter hurried to him. "Mr. ——," he said, "there's yo' cuffs, yo' done lef' at de table." "My cuffs, porter?" "Yes, sah, yo' cuffs." Gathering himself to his full height and with an austerity of expression that was vociferous, the newspaper man directed his index finger at the Senegambian and, to the amusement of his associates, exclaimed in stentorian tones: "Porter, I'll have you understand that I have lost no cuffs. I have lost nothing on this trip but my money, my conscience and my reputation!"

Protection of Birds.

Portland Oregonian: Intelligent effort is being made to encourage the multiplication of birds in Montana, and with such success that they are increasing in that state, though decreasing in most other sections of the United States. Bird lovers have shown conclusively that birds increase when properly protected, while horticulturists have learned that the increase in birds means a decrease in fruit pests. The conclusion is a simple and logical one.

Keeping Everlasting at It.

Brooklyn Union: Meantime Mr. Bryan must content himself with the thought that now is the time to subscribe.

CIVIL WAR HEROES

Dr. T. H. Cleland Addresses the Veterans of Great Conflict.

The War a Great Forward Step In Mankind's Progress.

In spite of the rather unfavorable weather the capacity of the First Presbyterian church was tested yesterday morning by the large audience which assembled to hear Dr. Cleland's sermon in memory of the heroes who fell on the battlefields of the '60s.

Members of the two local posts of the G. A. R. marched to the church in a body, taking seats assigned them in the central part of the church. The women of the Relief corps followed, sitting immediately behind the veterans.

The interior of the church was very prettily decorated with flags and hunting. Across the front of the choir gallery was stretched a large banner bearing the words, "Our Nation's Defenders."

A special musical program had been prepared for the choir in honor of the event. "The Star Spangled Banner" was played as a postlude.

Dr. Cleland's text was taken from John 1 c. 3. "Herein is that saying true that one soweth and another reapeth."

"We should inspire men of today to noble deeds by the promise of undying remembrance," said Dr. Cleland. "Granted that it is well to do right because it is right, but the noblest of us like to feel that our noble deeds will not be forgotten.

"We were a quiet, peace-loving people before the '60s, but we were the last nation on earth with which it were well to pick a quarrel. A calm, peace-loving man is a terrible foe for a braggart to tackle, and much more so when the peace-loving man is multiplied into a nation of 30,000,000 people and 1,000,000 soldiers, which was the strength of the United States in '6—.

"Then the farmer laid aside his plow to take up the gun, the blacksmith put down his hammer and untied his leather apron to gird on the sword, the student reluctantly abandoned his books, the lawyer his brief, the doctor left his patients, the minister his pulpit, rather than that one star should be plucked from the field on his country's flag.

"America today is so powerful in a commercial way that an European alliance has been broached against us. All this commercial supremacy would not have been possible had not the war of the '60s occurred. It is appalling to think what would have been our history today had there been left a dismembered nation with two rival peoples where we now have one harmonious whole.

"But what is the price we have paid for this union? They were costly victories which were won by our men and won at the expense of dreadful carnage and suffering. The men who fell on the field had a noble death, but the man who has had to fight life's battle with an empty sleeve or on crutches knows what the war cost. You cannot know what the union cost us unless each cemetery should open and allow the silent tenants to tell their stories, and each crippled soldier living today in our country could write the tale of his trials and struggles, and each prison wall should open and let the occupants relate their sufferings and each letter of every soldier in the great war to his people might be opened and the story of his privations read, and unless the widows and orphans might tell of their struggles for existence while their husbands and fathers were fighting their country's battles at the front. But however great the price it was worth all that it cost. It was worth more than it cost.

"The civil war was a great forward step in the progress of mankind. It was the solution of great problems which had been troubling the nation. Men should ever love a cause well enough to lay down their lives for it. War is ordinarily brutal and horrible but a war of convictions makes men. Heroism was developed to as great an extent in the homes as on the firing-line. No great moral endeavor can succeed without the sympathy and aid of women.

"Wars of the future must be wars of conviction. If the civil war had been waged for conquest it would have failed. Napoleon's victorious veterans would have melted before the attack of Stonewall Jackson's troops. Alexander's conquering cohorts would have gone down to defeat before Lee and his grim Southerners. The desire for conquest is not a motive to inspire men to noble deeds.

"And while we are enjoying our prosperity it is well to remember what it cost us. The brave heroes of the '60s laid the foundations. To them give the honor."

GOES TO ALASKA.

Capt. Gaillard Is Assigned to Duty There.

Capt. D. D. Gaillard, former United States engineer for the Lake Superior district, has been assigned to the Vancouver barracks, and will probably spend much of his time this summer in Alaska. James L. Owen, chief clerk in the local government engineer's office, has received a letter from Capt. Gaillard announcing his assignment as one of the staff officers. It is not known whether Capt. Gaillard's new assignment will affect his plans relative to a visit to Duluth to close up some business affairs here, as was announced in the Washington dispatches a few days ago.

Capt. Charles L. Potter, who was assigned to the Lake Superior district to succeed Capt. Gillard, is not likely to come to Duluth before the end of June, as he has not been recovering from his recent illness as rapidly as he expected.

THE MISTAKES OF SALISBURY

Former Premier of Great Britain Very Absent-Minded.

London, May 25.—Many stories have been told about Lord Salisbury's absent-mindedness and strange mistakes in identifying well-known people, combined with a supreme indifference for all persons with whom he finds himself in company.

The latest of these stories which has gone the rounds this week tells of an incident which occurred at the king's levee on Monday. Lord Salisbury was present and was standing, apparently wrapped in thought, with a crowd of distinguished men, when the bishop of London approached and greeted him. To the surprise and chagrin of the latter, Lord Salisbury failed utterly to recognize him, and the bishop was forced to explain who he was and to recall to the former prime minister the fact that he had appointed him bishop of London in 1901. Later on, when the bishop was conversing with the king, he expressed regret that Lord Salisbury was apparently unable to recognize his friends, and told his majesty what had happened. The king laughed heartily and said:

"He has treated me worse than that. Not long ago, while having an audience with me, he gave a beautiful example of thinking aloud. On a table close to his lordship stood a photograph of myself. Lord Salisbury, taking it up, gazed at it for a few moments and then remarked: 'Poor old duffer. I wonder if he is as stupid as he looks?'"

This is not the first time that Lord Salisbury has failed to recognize Bishop Ingram, who is one of the best-known and most popular divines in England. A few weeks after he had appointed him bishop Lord Salisbury met him at a great London house and had a long conversation with him. At the close of this talk the then prime minister of Great Britain went to the hostess and asked her who the intelligent young ecclesiastic was with whom he had been talking.

Last summer at a great annual garden party at his country estate, Hatfield house, Lord Salisbury was seen to approach an obscure country member of parliament and greet him warmly. He led him off by the arm and kept him in earnest conversation for a long time. The country member of the house finally rejoined his friends, beaming with pride, while Lord Salisbury was carried off by his daughter, Lady Gwendolin, to perform his duty as host. The premier explained to her that he had just been having a most important conversation with Lord ——, mentioning the name of a member of his own cabinet.

SCHOOL LAND SALES.

State Auditor Iverson Will Wait Until October.

St. Paul, May 25.—State Auditor S. G. Iverson announces that no school land will be sold until next October. Mr. Iverson believes that the land is a good investment and should not be forced on the people. His plan is to offer it for sale only where actual settlements are contemplated.

The law makes the state auditor ex-officio land commissioner and prohibits him from disposing of more than 100,000 acres a year. The state has about 1,250,000 acres of school land unsold, situated mainly in Itasca, Cass, Aitkin, Beltrami, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs, Hubbard and other northern counties.

Last year 100,000 acres were sold at an average price of $9.78 an acre, $3.54 above the average price which had obtained for the previous forty years.

The permanent school fund resulting from the sales amounts to about $15,500,000. Mr. Iverson estimates the value of the unsold school lands at $8,000,000.

CASE IS SETTLED.

Interesting Case of Breach of Promise Ended.

Redwood Falls, Minn., May 25.—The breach of promise case of Mary M. Blrun against Isaac Johnson, both old residents of this city, in which the jury returned a verdict of $750 for the plaintiff, and which verdict was sustained on an appeal to the supreme court, has been settled by the defendant paying to the plaintiff $600, and also paying all the costs, including the costs of the appeal to the supreme court. After the verdict was rendered, Johnson, who was a wealthy retired farmer, transferred his property and went to Canada. He remained there until last week, when through relatives the above settlement was affected. The supreme court costs were quite heavy.

IN LUMBER MARKET

Business as Good as Could Be Expected at This Time.

Condition of Eastern Market Not Quite Satisfactory—Some Sales.

The local lumber manufacturers are doing as much business as could be expected at this time of the year and under existing circumstances. A few important sales have been made during the past week or ten days, among them one of 1,500,000 of No. 3 and better stock sawed at the Red Cliff Lumber company's mill for the John O'Brien Lumber company, of Chicago. The prices obtained for this stock are said to have been about the highest paid for local stock thus far this season. Lath and shingles are still selling well.

The situation in the Eastern lumber market is not yet entirely satisfactory to the Northern pine lumber trade, but it is expected that it will clear up before the summer building season is well under way, and the demand for the head of the lakes stock will be as heavy if not heavier than in former years.

The country demand to the Southwest is not now so strong as a few weeks ago, for the reason that it is just the season when the farmers are busiest in the fields, and the agricultural trade being temporarily shut off, leaves only the town trade to be considered.

There is said to be a great deal of new building going on in certain localities, particularly the smaller towns. Interior milling points are feeling a good demand, and the Northern car shippers still claim they could do a larger business were the cars available. Assortments at the various mills are getting in better shape for the market as the season progresses and the stocks increase.

Freight rates are unchanged at $2.50 from Duluth to Chicago and the lower lake ports. A large portion of the season's cut has already been disposed of and is ready for lake shipment, and what is not yet disposed of does not worry the manufacturers.

A lumber fleet recently arrived at Saginaw from Duluth with 2,827,386 feet of lumber, and several other boats are now on the way down to the same point with as much more lumber. Handy Bros., of Saginaw, have several million feet on the docks here to go to Saginaw this summer. The firm handles something over 25,000,000 feet in the manufacture of box stock.

Lange Bros., of West Superior, have started a shingle mill and post cutter in their yards. They will have a shingle cut of about 40,000 per day. The firm has sold its shingle cut for the season in advance of the saws.

The Shell Lake Lumber company's mill at Shell Lake, in Bayfield county, Wis., is to be demolished, the company having completed its cut there.

That logging conditions in this state were quite favorable last winter is indicated by the report just made by the surveyor general of logs for the Second district, at Minneapolis, who estimates the log cut in his district for the winter of 1902-3 at 875,431,120 feet, as compared with 756,216,000 the previous winter.

W. C. McClure and T. E. Dow, of Saginaw, Mich., are interested in the purchase of some 300,000,000 feet of California redwood. Mr. McClure was a member of the Mitchell & McClure Lumber company, which operated in this part of the state for many years.

Lecture on Ireland.

Rev. Roderick J. Mooney's lecture on "Ireland" at the high school assembly hall next Wednesday evening will be of special interest just now when public attention is directed to the efforts of the United Irish league of America. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Duluth lodge of Elks, and will be profoundly illustrated by stereopticon views. The management also announces that Mrs. James McAuliffe will be heard in several vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Theresa Lynn.

Mr. Mooney is a graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, Ireland, and passed his youth and early manhood in Ireland. In his lecture he will touch not only upon the serious side of Irish national affairs, but also the natural buoyancy of this people. He will give special attention to the many romantic spots that occupy a prominent position in Irish literature.

FARSON FINDS IDEAL GIRL

She Is In the Cast of the "Chinese Honeymoon.

Chicago, May 25.—Millionaire John Farson has finally discovered the ideal housemaid on whom he is not only willing but anxious to bestow his recently offered prize of $1,000,000. What will native born American girls think when they learn that Farson has unpatriotically rejected all of them and picked a foreigner—a little mite of a Welsh girl—and not a really-truly housemaid at all but a make-believe one—Miss Kate Barry, at your service, the "slavey" in "A Chinese Honeymoon."

There is no doubt about this decision of Farson being final; he has given all the other contestants full credit for the excellent qualities of temperament and efficiency they possess, combined and severally, and then, after careful deliberation, has decided that Miss Barry is the one girl in America worth as much as $1,000,000 as a servant girl in the Farson mansion.

Miss Barry made a big mistake, says Farson—meaning no disrespect to Miss Barry—when she forsook the kitchen for the calcium.

However, there is an obstacle in the way of this presentation of a million dollars to Miss Barry—a contract that binds her to her employers, Shubert and Nixon and Zimmerman for the next six months—and who knows whether Miss Barry will be able to induce these theatrical folk to resign her services in favor of Farson?

Miss Barry did not make the introductory move toward securing the million dollars, it is stated. Last Monday Farson attended the performance of "A Chinese Honeymoon," and his interest was quickly aroused by the cleverness with which the little Welsh girl interpreted the role of "Fifi" the "slavey." Then and there Farson decided that Miss Barry could have the $1,000,000 if only she was as good a "slavey" off the stage as on it.

The next day Farson presented his card at the actress' apartments in the hotel and in the course of a few minutes that followed he ascertained that Miss Barry possessed a thoroughly knowledge of the culinary art, that she had spent considerable time as a nurse in a London hospital and had the best of recommendations and that her temperament off the stage was even better than when she was acting the role of "Fifi" the "slavey."

In the course of the interview Miss Barry revealed that when Farson's offer of $1,000,000 for an ideal servant girl was telegraphed all over the country she decided to wait until her arrival in Chicago, when she might investigate the genuineness of the offer. She added that she was on the point of writing to Farson just before he called on her.

So now, Miss Barry is in a quandary. If Schubert and Nixon and Zimmerman will release her from her contract, well and good, but suppose they won't? Would Miss Barry be justified in jumping the contract for $1,000,000? Who will help Miss Barry decide such a difficult question.

HE PLEADED FOR GRACE

Dying Criminal Moaned Her Name Until the Last.

Chicago, May 25.—"I know I am going to die. Won't you send some one for my Grace? She would come to me if she knew I was dying. Grace would not desert me at this time if she only knew."

In the agony of death Joseph Lucas, ex-convict and confirmed criminal, pleaded for some one to bring the woman he loved to his bedside. He called for Grace until death relieved his sufferings at the Illinois Medical college, where he had been taken after being shot by detectives in a desperate encounter Friday.

The pleadings of the dying man were pathetic, but the police could not find the woman. They only knew of her as Grace, and the dying man could not give them any clue to her whereabouts.

Lucas was shot by Detective Charles Norton, of the West Chicago avenue police station, at Halstead and Meridian streets. The shooting followed a spectacular struggle on a Halstead street car. The fatal bullet pierced Lucas' abdomen.

When Detective Norton learned that Lucas was dead he broke down, and it was all that Inspector Wheeler could do to console him.

"If he hadn't died!" exclaimed the detective. "I didn't mean to kill him. I only wanted to disable him. I thought he was going to live. I'm afraid I've lost my nerve. It is an awful thing to shoot a man, even if it is done to defend yourself."

"You made a good fight, lad," said Inspector Wheeler. "He would have got you. He was a desperate man and you did your duty."

Lucas was arrested after a burglary had been committed at 61 Huron street. The police hunted for Lucas, who boarded a southbound Halstead street car. Three officers encountered him at Halstead and Meridian streets. He knocked Lieut. Miller down and was about to attack Detectives Norton and Kubitzki when Norton drew his revolver and fired. The bullet entered the abdomen. Lucas kept up the fight, and was not overpowered until he received another bullet wound in the right arm as he was attempting to escape.

NEW CLUB ON BRULE RIVER

Superior, Duluth and Eastern Men Interested In It.

Duluth, Superior, Twin City and New York men to the number of thirty-five have formed the "Brule Club," and have purchased 650 acres of land along the Brule. They will build a large commodious and handsome log clubhouse, logs for which are now being cut on the Weyerhaeuser pine tract adjoining, and the grounds will be improved in a manner that will leave nature's work untouched while giving free access to all parts of the grounds. The house will be in the shape of an "L," and there will be porches almost entirely around the outside. On the ground floor there will be five small rooms, a pantry and kitchen, and the main reception room, which will be eighteen feet in width and will run thirty-five feet into each leg of the L. A large fire place, cosy corners and other comfortable furniture will be installed. There will be commodious sleeping rooms upstairs.

The house will be built on an eminence that overlooks the Brule at one of its most beautiful points. The river makes a double curve, forming a jutting of land that makes an ideal location for a clubhouse and grounds. The river is 75 feet wide and deep enough for small pleasure craft at this point. The club owns the river banks for a mile and a half on both sides. Small streams running in will be dammed to form trout pools. The grounds comprise the tract formerly owned by the Derival Copper Mining company, which some time ago sank a shaft on the copper range there. The Northern Pacific railroad is close, and Brule station is a short distance northward.

MUST NOT SELL IN WISCONSIN

Wisconsin sportsmen are jubilant over one action of the Wisconsin legislature, and that was in prohibiting the sale of game. While Minnesota has prohibited the sale of most kinds of game for a number of years, and has been constantly increasing the list of proscribed game, this is the first time Wisconsin has restricted the sale. This is very important legislation along the line of preserving game, and that is why the real sportsmen of that state are happy.

The legislature also prohibited spring shooting, another thing in which it follows the example of Minnesota. This is, in the opinion of sportsmen, also a move in the right direction, and gives Wisconsin a pretty good game law.

Ducks, brant and geese, which class of birds the spring shooting clause effects, are getting thinned out rapidly enough as it is, without having them slaughtered in breeding time, and the sale of game has been the one great factor working towards the total extermination of game all over the country. Market hunters killed off the buffalo, and they would do the same with all wild creatures if not prevented by proper legislation.

This is the first time that the sale of game in Wisconsin has been restricted. The law effects Superior more than any other city in the state, situated as it is in the best hunting section. Every fall heretofore the markets have been glutted with game of all sorts, venison in particular. All this is now changed. At no time during the year—summer, fall, winter or spring will the housewife be able to secure game of any sort at the markets. Strings of ducks, prairie chicken and ruffed grouse hanging dejectedly along Tower avenue will no longer greet the eyes of the passer-by. Neither will the carcasses of slaughtered deer invite the scrutiny of the curious. This will seem rather strange when autumn comes, but hunters agree that it is for the best.

Those who do not hunt, but whose palates are tickled by the gamey flavor, are heard to grumble some at the law, for if they want to eat anything in the line of meat outside that which daily feeds the civilized races, they will have to go out in the woods and on the waters and get it for themselves, or else make friends with their gun-owning neighbors.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand two hundred and ninety-eight dollars ($7298.00), which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Ronald M. Hunter and Josephine C. Hunter, his wife, mortgagors, to William E. Lucas, mortgagee, bearing date the seventh day of January, 1897, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 28th day of January, 1897, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 94 of mortgages, on page 112.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said William E. Lucas, mortgagee, to the undersigned D. A. Burke, by written assignment dated the 28th day of January, 1897, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds, on the 28th day of January, 1897, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 108 of mortgages, on page 475; and no action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, situated in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, viz:

An undivided one-half of lots numbered twenty-five (25) and sixty-six (66), St. Louis avenue; one hundred thirty-six (136) Minnesota avenue; one hundred twenty-five (125) and one hundred thirty-one (131), Lake avenue, Upper Duluth; also lots numbered two hundred seventy-one (271), one hundred sixty-nine (169), one hundred seventy (170), fifty-six (56), St. Louis avenue; three hundred and sixty-five (365), Minnesota avenue; fifty-three (53), sixty-four (64), one hundred thirty-eight (138), one hundred seventy-seven (177), two hundred twenty-six (226), two hundred forty-one (241), two hundred sixty-one (261), and three hundred and twenty-six (326), Lake avenue, Lower Duluth, according to the recorded plats thereof, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 16th day of June, 1903, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said mortgage debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50) dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

FATALITIES IN RACE

Paris-Madrid Automobile Contest Filled With Accidents.

Contestants Forbidden to Continue In France or Spain.

Paris, May 25.—The first stage in the Paris-Madrid automobile race, from Versailles to Bordeaux, 343 miles, was finished at noon yesterday when Louis Renault dashed at a furious pace into Bordeaux, having made a record run of eight hours and twenty-seven minutes. An hour later M. Gabriel arrived, with a still better record of eight hours and seven minutes.

Dispatches arriving from points along the course tell of many fatalities and accidents. The most terrible ocurred near Bonneval, nineteen miles from Chartres, where machine No. 243, driven by M. Porter, was overturned at a railroad crossing and took fire. The chauffeur was caught underneath the automobile and burned to death, while two soldiers and a child were killed.

Mr. Stead and his chaffeur, who were first reported to have been killed, are still alive. It seems that their automobile collided with another car, with which Mr. Stead had been racing for several kilometres, wheel to wheel, and was completely overturned in a ditch near Montguyon. Mr. Stead was caught under the machine, while his chaffeur was hurled to a distance of thirty feet and had his head and body badly cut. Mr. Stead was conscious when picked up, but complained of suffering great pain. He was conveyed to the nearest farm.

During the afternoon word of the accidents began to arrive and cast gloom over the event. A dispatch from Bordeaux announced that Mr. Barrows had met with a severe accident near Libourne, seventeen miles from Bordeaux.

It appears that Mr. Barrows had tried to avoid a dog which was crossing the track and his moster car struck a tree with terrific force. His chaffeur was killed outright. Barrows himself was picked up unconscious but still breathing, and was taken to a hospital, where his condition was declared to be critical. His car was dashed to pieces.

Shortly afterward news came that Marcel Renault had been overturned in a deep ditch beside the road, near Coupe, twenty-one miles from Poitoiers, and that he was dangerously injured. The automobile club of Bordeaux received a dispatch at 4 o'clock saying Renait was unconscious and it was feared dying. Louis Renault, Marcel's brother, was deeply affected by the news, and at once started back to his brother's assistance. Orders were given to withdraw all the Renault cars from the race.

Many lesser breakdowns and casualties are reported. An early report that one of the two brothers Farman had been injured is unconfirmed.

In view of the enormous number of accidents, many of them fatal, in the first stage of the race, Premier Combes has forbidden the continuance of the contest on French territory. The second stage of the race, which was to have been continued on Tuesday, included a run over French territory from Bordeaux to the Spanish frontier. Premier Combes' action will probably lead to the race being abandoned.

It is reported that the Spanish government has also forbidden the continuation of the race on Spanish territory.

The name of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., disappeared from the reports along the route after Rambouillet, where he passed eighth in order at 4:45 yesterday morning, going in fine form. The omission of his name from the dispatches from Chartres, the next town on the road, caused some anxiety and brought forth a number of inquiries. It was learned later that he, Henri Fournier and Baron De Forest withdrew from the race together before reaching Chartres. All of them suffered breakdowns and having lost three hours, they decided it was useless to continue.

Mr. Vanderbilt and Baron De Forest returned to the Hotel Rites at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. They laughed and made light of their withdrawal. Foxhall Keene, Tod Sloan and W. J. Dannat, the American artist, did not appear at the starting line when their turn was reached, and consequently did not take part in the race. C. Gray Dinsmore is thus the only American left in.

Versailles passed a night of wild excitement. It is estimated that 100,000 persons crowded into the little town to witness the start of the race. Soldiers with fixed bayonets lined the track for some distance from Versailles. A bomb was exploded at 3:55 a. m. as a signal to get ready, and immediately Charles Jarrott's car drew into place. Another bomb was fired at 3:45 o'clock for the start, and then the enormous machine shot forward amid the shouts of the thousands of spectators. The other cars followed in quick succession.

Mme. De Gast, the sole female competitor in last year's Paris-Berlin race, was again the only woman to participate in the present contest. Her machine was decked with flowers and her departure was the signal for a great ovation. She made a splendid run, passing five of her competitors before reaching Chartres. The crowd around Mr. Vanderbilt's machine prevented him from reaching the starting line in time, and he was further delayed by a controversy with the judges, finally starting two minutes late.

The reports along the route soon showed that Louis Renault was making a great race, and before Chartres was reached he had overtaken and passed Charles Jarrott and M. Rene De Knyff and gained a lead which he never lost afterward. Dispatches from Vendome, Tours and Poictiers told of his passing through ahead, and Bordeaux sent the announcement of his arrival first at 12:14:25. He had beaten Henri Fournier's record of 8 hours 44 minutes. Charles Jarrott finished second at 12:30, having covered the course in 8 hours 44 minutes. M. Gabriel arrived third at 1:08, his time being 8 hours 7 minutes. The other contestants who made fast time were J. Salleron, 8 hours 40 minutes; Baron De Crawher, 8 hours 53 minutes; J. B. Warden, 8 hours 50 minutes, and M. Voight, 8 hours 55 minutes.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS

Cloudburst Does Immense Damage About Enid, Oklahoma.

Enid, O. T., May 25.—Hundreds of persons are rendered homeless and property damaged to the estimated amount of $300,000 was done in the Enid bottoms alone by a cloud burst which struck west of this city at midnight Saturday night.

The aggregate will doubtless be raised much higher by losses sustained between Enid and the seat of the storm.

At 12 o'clock a bank of water three feet high and 200 feet wide swept down through the bottoms, carrying houses and everything before it. It came upon Enid without warning while most of its citizens were asleep. Within a few minutes a hundred houses were partly or completely submerged.

Rescuers were put to work and labored hard saving persons from perilous positions and aiding those driven from their homes. Yesterday it was found that several hundred were homeless.

Many pitiable scenes were witnessed as the people stood around waiting for the water to subside. Everybody has lost everything they possessed.

The citizens were soon busy relieving the distressed, but the means at hand are inadequate. The rainfall of the past ten days has been the heaviest in the history of Oklahoma and indications are that more will fall.

Reports of losses in the country west of Enid are meager, but it is expected that heavy damage was done.

Early yesterday morning Guthrie was visited by another deluge, making the twenty-fourth consecutive day of rain.

A tornado at Foss, Okla., in Washite county, has wrecked eighteen houses, killing Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Slagel and daughter, and injuring a number of others. No details have been received.

Foss is a town of two hundred on the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf railway, in Washite county.

Wires in many directions are down tonight, the result of the storm, and it has been impossible to confirm reports of damage by cloudbursts and tornado at Yukon and Marshall, Okla., or to secure details of the tornado that wrecked Carmen.

Yukon is a town of 1000 on the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf railway in Canadian county, while Marshall is a village off the roads in the northwestern corner of Logan county.

Carmen is only a few months old. It was on the line of the newly built Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad and had but imperfect telegraph facilities at best.

BULGARIA AND TURKEY

Begin Negotiations For Settlement of Their Troubles.

London, May 25.—The Sofia correspondent of the Times says negotiations between Bulgaria and Turkey have opened favorably in that city. It is evident, he adds, that there is a slackening in the struggle in Macedonia, but fighting is reported from the districts of Kitchevo and Nevrokop, where several villages are blockaded. Macedonian circles in Sofia are disposed to await the result of the recent pacific overtures.

Vienna, May 25.—It is reported that the Bulgarian government has presented a note to Russia, Austria and France announcing its intention of asking for their support towards the conclusion of an agreement with Turkey regarding Macedonia.

TO CLIMB MT. M'KINLEY

And Plant Class Flag the Object of Students' Trip.

New York, May 25.—To plant the flag of the "03" class of Columbia college at the top of the highest mountain in North America, Ralph Shainwald, Jr., a senior of Columbia will go with the Cook expedition into Alaska.

Primarily, the object of the expedition is to surmount Mount McKinley, which is 400 miles inland from the southern border of Alaska, and is 20,406 feet high, and though the perilous feat has been attempted many times, a human being has never yet succeeded in reaching its highest elevation.

Two young men, both students of Columbia, will be the only companions of Dr. Cook in this expedition. They are young Shainwald, who though scarcely out of his teens, is a skilled botanist and biologist, and Robert Dunn, a Harvard graduate, who has just completed a course of geology at Columbia college.

In addition to climbing Mount McKinley, the explorers will secure angles on the geological features to fill out a map of that region.

A minor feature of the trip will be to ascertain, if possible, whether Mount McKinley is of volcanic origin.

COLD IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Manchester, N. H., May 25.—Great damage has been done to vegetation in Manchester and vicinity by heavy frost. The mercury dropped to one and two degrees below freezing and frozen pails of water were found in places about town. Beans, peas, potatoes, etc., were cut down to the very ground by the frost.

A MYSTERY CLEARED

Missing Michigan Lad Is Found All Right In Chicago.

Parents Under Suspicion and Ostracised By Their Neighbors.

Chicago, May 25.—The great "murder mystery" of Breedsville, Mich., which has kept the villagers and farmers agog for more than eighteen months, and resulted in the "moral conviction" and practical ostracism of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Harrison, has been solved.

Within a few days Willie Harrison, the supposed victim, will return home to confront the accusers and persecutors of his parents. Young Harrison is now in Chicago and has informed his parents of his whereabouts.

Since his disappearance from home the youth has roved about the earth, seeking adventure, unwitting of the trouble into which his unexplained absence plunged his parents. During that time also the Breedsville farmer knew nothing of the whereabouts of the boy, and could make no satisfactory answer to his neighbors when they demanded an account of his son.

Young Harrison left home in November, 1901, but it was not until the following May that the excitement over his absence reached its height. The Harrison family had but recently moved to Breedsville from Chicago and Mr. Harrison did not make acquaintances readily among his neighbors. He was an invalid and his reticence and ill nature at times had not inspired confidence in him.

Thus it was that the community was ready to believe all that rumor had to say of the disappearance of the boy, and the wave of popular feeling finally compelled Deputy Sheriff Britton, of Van Buren county, to visit the farm armed with a warrant for Harrison's arrest.

The deputy sheriff could not find sufficient evidence to warrant him in serving the warrant and the farmers and villagers arose in protest. Events reached a crisis about the middle of May a year ago, when only the appearance in Breedsville of Edward C. Reichwald, a Chicago commission merchant, saved the Harrisons from mob violence.

When Reichwald, who had known Harrison in Chicago, reached Breedsville, he found the place in a turmoil. On the street the villagers and farmers had gathered in groups, talking of the prolonged and unexplained absence of the boy. Some were provided with spades with which to dig up the ground of the Harrison farm in quest of the body, which, rumor had it, was concealed there.

The declaration of a woman that on the night of the boys' disappearance she had heard cries of distress from the Harrison home helped to fire the indignation of the people, and a leader only was needed to bring the mob down on the farmer. Reichwald knew many of the more influential men of the village and of the farming district, and informed them that Harrison was to be trusted. All that day and night he went among the farmers and the townspeople pleading with them to be just, and so quieted the mob spirit.

Before Reichwald left the place at the end of a week the Harrisons were out of danger of violence, but among the farmers the feeling still remained that there was much to be explained in the absence of the boy.

The neighbors thereafter held aloof from the Harrisons, and the former found it impossible to sell his produce in Breedsville, and was compelled to seek a market in Bangor, several miles away, or in South Haven, seven miles distant.

In a letter just received by young Harrison from his mother the story of their trials is told.

"Sheriff Britton came to our home with a warrant in his pocket for your father's arrest," she wrote, "but he could find nothing. After awhile the clamor died down, but everywhere we went we knew that they looked down upon us. When I got your first letter I showed it to some neighbor women, and they all said it was a nice letter. Afterward people claimed that the letter was made up by Mr. Reichwald.

"I will be so happy when you get home and we can show them all that they were mistaken."

While his parents were thus struggling against unreasoning prejudice the boy was making his way about the world. After leaving home because of a quarrel with his father, he came to Chicago. Remaining here a short time, he stole a ride on a freight thain to New Orleans and then went into Texas.

Returning to New Orleans, he shipped for Cape Town and enlisted in the British army there. Later he returned to New Orleans and reshipped for South Africa.

On this voyage out he broke his ankle and remained on the ship without the attendance of a surgeon until the vessel, after touching at the Cape, went North along the west shore to the Cape Verde islands and thence to Quebec.

In Quebec he remained in a hospital for several months, and finally made his way back to Chicago last October. He found employment with the Chicago Typesetting company, and it was not until a month ago that he wrote home, and then the authenticity of his letter was doubted.

Other letters followed between the boy and his mother, and Mr. Reichwald also wrote a number of letters to friends in Breedsville assuring them of the genuineness of the boy's letters. Later he had a photgraph taken of himself and the boy and copies of the photograph have been sent to Breedsville.

"It's awful to think of the trouble my parents have been through," said young Harrison. "Suppose I had been killed while away. They could never have proved that the suspicions against my parents were false.

Young Harrison is now 18 years old and has no taste for life on a fruit farm. "Father was sick and, of course, cranky at times, and I was hotheaded and we quarreled," he said.

Before removing to the Michigan farm the Harrisons lived at Madison and Robey streets, where Harrison had a tailor shop. There they knew Reichwald, whose friendship stood them in such good stead.

OJIBWAYS

To Hold Celebration at White Earth Indian Agency.

Prominent Red and White Orators to Be Heard.

Fosston, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The thirty-fifth anniversary of the settlement of the Ojibway Chippewa Indians on the White Earth reservation, will be celebrated at the White Earth agency on June 15 and 16. The anniversary is June 14, but as that date falls on Sunday, those having the matter in charge have decided to observe the two following days, June 15 and 16. This anniversary has been celebrated each June for a number of years and has always been attended by a large number of both white and Indian people of note. The parties having in charge this year's exercises have issued a unique invitation, on behalf of the Indians, which is as follows:

"June 14—1862, 1903. Boo-zhoo, Umba. Thirty-fifth anniversary White Earth, Minn., June 15 and 16, 1903.—To our kindred and fellow neighbors we extend greeting: Once again the planting moon is in the ascendancy and the fresh youthful vigor of smiling spring and summer is with us. All nature awakens from the drowsy stupor of wintry slumber to revel in the sunny charms of summer dreams. Verily, the day of rejoicing is at hand. And it is with cheerful pleasure that we announce to you, kindred and fellow neighbors, that the thirty-fifth anniversary of June 14, 1903, will be celebrated at White Earth, Minn., on June 15 and 16, 1903. On this occasion, we most respectfully solicit the company of yourself, relations and friends to come and partake of this feast of good cheer, smoke the pipe of peace and quaff the blissful ecstacy of joy unconfined. The exercises of the day will consist of federal salute at sunrise, Sioux and Chippewa making peace, grand aboriginal parade, speeches by his excellency, the governor, and by Hon. Ray W. Jones, lieutenant governor of Minnesota, and Hon. Conde Hamlin, general manager of the Pioneer Press, and other prominent red and white orators; canoe races, games, dancing and a rendition of Longfellow's 'Hiawatha' by native men and women. Music by the White Earth boarding school band and the White Earth Cornet band. Here will be an opportunity to see nature's red children as they were yesterday, as they are today, in a word, to see them enjoying themselves in the fun and frolic and festivities as was their happy wont in the days of long ago and ere the erect form and agile steps were bent and lulled by the trying cares of a new civilization and before assuming their share of the white man's burden."

A large crowd will go from Fosston to attend the celebration, which is expected to by far eclipse any of its predecessors in the way of aboriginal grandeur.

John D. Rockefeller has offered to increase his donation to the student building fund of the University of Indiana from $30,000 to $50,000 on condition that a sum of $50,000 be raised from other sources before July 1. Subscriptions to the amount of $25,000 were obtained last year and the trustees will, at their next meeting, form plans to secure the required $15,000.

Amos Leedy, aged 60 years, postmaster at Leedyville, O. T., has pleaded guilty to the charge of detaining valuable letters in land contest cases. The case is peculiar in that the letters remained in the office uncalled for and Leedy, ignorant of what course to pursue, threw them into the waste basket. On account of his age he was let off with a fine and given permission to return home alone for the money to pay it with.

Mrs. Joseph Gutsch, who was fatally stabbed by her husband at the Five-Mile house on the Fond du Lac road at Milwaukee, Friday, died Sunday. Death was caused by peritonitis and blood poisoning, resulting from the exposure of the intestines for nearly an hour after the deed was committed. Mrs. Gutsch is survived by three daughters and one son.

One of the boilers of the Wilson & Cochrane sawmills at Wilcox near Maringo station, La., exploded Sunday killing six persons. Nine others are seriously injured and it is thought that two of them will die.

Five persons, Howard J. Lawler, a printer, his aged mother, his sister-in-law and the latter's two children were severely burned by an explosion of gas in Lawler's home at San Francisco. Lawler was trying to locate a leak in a gas range with a lighted match.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckway were fatally hurt and a dozen others including the three Buckway children, were seriously hurt at Dayton, O., Sunday night by a street car by being struck by the Erie express at a grade crossing.

NEW FINANCE BILL

Will Aim to Increase Currency Legislation.

Washington, May 25.—The main features of the new bill which Senator Aldrich will introduce nevt session for the reform of the currency as a result of the conferences of the senate subcommittee on finance will be a provision that surplus customs receipts may be deposited in national banks, and one that banks be allowed to issue circulation to the full market value of the government bonds they have on deposit at the treasury. If this last feature were now authorized the increased circulation on the bonds now held by the treasury for the banks, based on the current quotations, would amount to about $22,000,000, which in itself would be a great help in preventing financial stringency.

The principal feature of the old Aldrich bill was the granting of authority to deposit thes urplus customs receipts as well as those from internal revenue in the banks. Under the present law the customs receipts must be paid out again to meet current expenses. It is this constant accumulation of money in the trasury that has been held mainly responsible for the periodical stringencies in the money market which it is the purpose of the Aldrich bill to prevent.

AN ACTIVE YEAR

In Evangelistic Effort Reported By Home Mission Board.

Church's Hold on Workingmen Not What It Should Be.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 25.—The reports of the board of missions and the committee on evangelistic work were presented to the Presbyterian general assembly.

The board of home missions reported: This has been a year of unusual evangelistic effort. Through the labors of the Evangelistic committee, many churches have been quickened and many fields have had carefully planned services that could have had none but for the help of this committee.

Another significant fact is that two more synods—Wisconsin and Iowa—entered on the support of their own work. While this means for the present less than formerly for our treasury from those synods, yet, by releasing the fund hitherto contributed to them, additional work in newer sections of the country may be taken up.

The various plans of the self-supporting synods have their unity in equal loyalty to the general work of home missions, and their success along various lines is hailed by the board with the liveliest satisfaction. It will welcome the tidings that other synods are joining the same noble ranks and will co-operate with them to the full extent of its power.

Another fact of interest and value is the missionary campaign carried on in Eastern Presbyteries, in conferences, conventions and individual churches. The needs and opportunities of the great home mission work have been presented by men from the field. There have been immediate results of quickened interests, and we believe an impulse has come from deepened knowledge which will tell in the year to come. The missionary spirit waits only on missionary knowledge.

The hold of the church on workingmen—the large and important element of the population—is not what it should be. The past year has signally illustrated the power of the workingmen at any moment seriously to affect economic conditions. It is believed that only the gospel of Christ can solve the grave problem which is thus presented to the country. It is of the utmost consequence that the church should be aroused to the necessity of doing more than she has ever done to strengthen her hold upon the working classes.

The large reduction on the debt of the Presbyterian building calls for grateful recognition. The little that remains will, it is believed, soon disappear and that great building become a perennial and large source of income for home and foreign missions.

The literature department records with gratitude the most successful year of work in its history. The woman's board reports 450 missions and schools, with 492 missionaries and teachers and 19,638 pupils; 158 Sabbath schools with 10,178 scholars, and 96 Young People's societies with a membership of 2,668.

The spirit of fraternity is abroad in the home mission work and the federation of churches for united endeavors is a cause which is gaining in the West, as in other parts of the country.

An examination of the work of the Presbyterian church among the foreign populations of our country, makes it plain that we have scarcely begun to do our duty in this important respect. During the past year the claims of the foreigners have been thrust upon the attention of the church and the country at large as never before. We must evangelize them or their increasing coming to our shores will bode no good to the republic.

From all over the home mission field come earnest calls for men.

The board of foreign missions reported that the year both in the church at home and abroad has been marked by a deepening of the spiritual life. The additions on confession of faith to the mission churches indicate a great awakening. 5227 new members having been added to the roll. The previous year there were 5241, the largest number with a single exception in any year of the board's history.

The board has 127 stations, 1402 outstations, 761 schools, 27,370 pupils in school, 38,342 Sunday school scholars, 633 churches (312 of these are in Korea, and it is scarcely proper to call them churches; they are rather groups of believers) 122 students for the ministry, ten printing presses and 91 hospitals and dispensaries, which treated during the year 230,103 patients.

The women's boards and societies have during the year shown the same untiring industry, patient attention to detail, unselfish service and fine executive ability which have characterized their work for so many years past. Their total receipts including young people's societies, were $352,440.

One weak point in our foreign mission service is the work in the Sunday schools. The total number of Sunday schools in the Presbyterian church is 7748. Of this number only 1902 contributed directly to the board last year. How many contributed through women's boards and societies or directly through the offerings of the church the board has not been able to ascertain. Special efforts are now being made to reach the Sunday schools. We would call the attention of the assembly to the need of more thorough instruction in the Sunday schools regarding foreign missions.

The board sent out to the foreign field 142 missionaries, 66 of whom were returning to their fields and 76 were newly appointed. This is the largest number ever sent out in a single year. Even with the large reinforcements many fields are still needing workers. The board has under appointment for the new year 96 new missionaries. The missionaries asked for exceed 200.

For the six successive years the board reports no deficit. The result has been attained, however, only by reducing the requisitions of the mission to the level of the contribution of the church. The missions are asking for fifty per cent more for the present needs of the field than the church is providing.

The outlook for our mission work is bright. The heathen nations are being laid at our doors; opportunities for service are legion; the call from many fields for workers is importunate.

The special committee of evangelistic work reported expenditures of $65,641, of which $25,183 was contributed by 14 individuals. The committee had in its employ 51 evangelists, 10 of whom were singing evangelists. The committee asked that in all of the work of the coming year, special emphasis by pastors and sessions be laid upon the work among men. Statistics show that two-thirds of the men in the United States are not in connection with any Christian church, Protestant or Roman Catholic. There is therefore very great need for earnest, active effort for the winning of men to Christ. The committee recommended the appointment of a committee of 20, ten ministers and ten elders, to promote evangelistic work in the church.

GOOD BLOOD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

You know when rich, red blood is coursing through the veins, for it shows in the brightness of the eye, the beauty and clearness of the complexion, the smooth, fair skin, and robust, healthy constitution. It is good blood that imparts strength and energy to the body and keeps it in a state of healthfulness and vigor. Good blood is the foundation of good health, and to be physically and mentally sound it must be kept pure and untainted. People with good blood possess strong, steady nerves and are blest with good appetites and digestion, and enjoy sound, refreshing sleep. If we could always maintain the purity of the blood then we might enjoy perpetual health, but it becomes infected and poisoned and most of the ills that afflict humanity and undermine the constitution are caused by an impoverished or polluted condition of this vital fluid.

I was in wretched health; my blood was in bad order, my gums being very much ulcerated. I began the use of S. S. S., and in a remarkably short time was sound and well. My appetite increased wonderfully and my food agreed with me. I think it is a fine family medicine.

MRS. M. R. DAVIDSON.

Rockmart, Ga.

For three years I had Tetter on my hands. Part of the time the disease was in the form of running sores, very painful and causing me much discomfort. Four doctors said the Tetter had progressed too far to be cured, and they could do nothing for me. I took only three bottles of S.S.S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble.

MRS. L. B. JACKSON.

837 St. Paul St., Kansas City, Kas.

When the blood is diseased the skin loses its healthy appearance, and the complexion, its freshness and beauty and becomes red and rough and full of pimples and splotches. Itching, scaly eruptions, blackheads, boils and rashes break out upon the body when the blood is too poor or too thin and acid, and is not supplying proper nourishment to the system. Debility, poor appetite, bad digestion, restless sleep and nervousness more often come from sluggish, impure blood than any other cause. To build up the blood, restore its lost properties and make it rich and nutritious again is the only rational treatment, and the proper way to get rid of skin troubles. There is no remedy like S. S. S. to accomplish this and it does it promptly and thoroughly. S. S. S. antidotes and removes from the blood all poisons and humors, and restores it to a normal, healthy condition, and invigorates and tones up the general health. When rich, red blood is again flowing through your veins all skin eruptions disappear, the appetite improves, the complexion clears and you get rid of those miserable depressing feelings and nervousness, and enjoy once more the blessings of good health. S. S. S. is nature's remedy for all blood and skin diseases. It contains no minerals whatever, but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

TRADE OF CHINA

Imports From the United States Show a Large Increase.

Total For 1902 Largest In History of the Commerce.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chinese official returns show that the imports from the United States in 1902 amounted to 30,138,713 Haikwan taels, against 23,529,606 taels in 1901, 22,288,745 taels in 1899, 12,440,302 taels in 1897, and 5,093,182 taels in 1895. The total for 1902 is the largest in the history of commerce between China and the United States, and is six times as much as in 1895, two and a half times as much as in 1897, about 35 per cent larger than in 1899 and nearly 30 per cent larger than in 1901. Cotton goods, kerosene oil and flour continue to form the chief imports from the United States. The importations of American jeans in 1902 amounted to 529,492 Haikwan taels, against 244,328 taels in 1901; American drills, 6,024,443 taels, against 4,834,875 taels in 1901; American sheetings, 15,130,808 taels, against 7,636,714 taels in 1901; while American kerosene oil shows a reduction amounting to 45,287,807 gallons in 1902, against 57,759,677 gallons in 1901. The decrease in Chinese imports of oil, however, is general, the total having fallen from 130,000,000 gallons in 1901 to 90,000,000 in 1902. That from Russia fell from 22,000,000 gallons in 1901 to 10,000,000 gallons in 1902, and that from Sumatra from 40,500,000 gallons in 1901 to 38,750,000 gallons in 1902. Flour also showed a slight decrease, the total value imported in 1902 being 3,844,319 Haikwan taels, against 4,726,962 in 1901. Ginseng, which comes chiefly from the United States, shows an increase, being in 1902, 1,614,989 Haikwan taels, against 1,181,536 taels in 1901. The average value of the Haikwan tael in 1902 is given by the report at 65 cents. American gold.

Statistical Secretary Taylor, who presents the report, says in the preliminary statement: "The value of the imports of all kinds imported was estimated at 127,545,309 Haikwan taels, as compared with 99,651,999 taels during 1901. T-cloths of all kinds advanced, especially Indian, which rose from 15,320 to 126,485 pieces. There was a good demand for drills, and English loans made the astonishing advance from 41,083 to 360,858 pieces, while Dutch and American about doubled. Sheetings also found an increased inquiry, the American trade going ahead as usual. It is interesting to note, and is not without significance, that Japanese drills rose from 23 pieces to 21,620 pieces, and Japanese sheetings from 13,006 to 115,366 pieces. English cotton yarn continued is downward course and has now fallen to 22,351 piculs, while Indian has reached 1,887,086 piculs, and Japanese 522,408 piculs. Kerosene oil, with the exception of that from Borneo, shows decreases, Russian oil having fallen to 10,105,858 gallons from 32,486,070 gallons, thus losing the ground gained during the last ten years.'

Commenting upon the general condition of trade, Statistical Secretary Taylor says: "Three noteworthy events took place during the year, the negotiation of a new British commercial treaty, the revision of the import tariff and a heavy fall in exchange. Of these the last may prove imoprtant. The revised import tariff, owing to the fall in exchange and the rise in silver prices since the years 1897, 1898 and 1899, has left the incidence of taxation very much as before. But the collapse in exchange which will call for higher currency prices for new cargo, withe the uncertainty of its future movements, naturally disturbs the import trade, while, by augmenting the amount which the government has to find to pay its gold obligations, it has led to heavier internal taxation. The pessimistic views expressed in some quarters regarding the commercial solvency of the country, based upon the demand of the government to pay the indemnity in gold, are without any solid foundation. The foreign trade of is trifling when the size and potential resources of the country are considered and only a very small adjustment between imports and exports is necessary to cover the late increase of indebtedness. At the same time, it is disappointing to note that trade always seems to be the first victim when heavier taxation is decided upon. What the foreign trade of China migh be is shown by a comparison with Japan, which, with a population of less than one-seventh, spends almost exactly as much as China on foreign goods. But before such expansion can be looked for domestic trade must be relieved from the taxation of goods in transit, local industries must be assisted instead of being hampered by excise and by taxes of raw materials, and the enormous resources of the country must be developed. Meanwhile trade is slowly growing, and will continue to grow in spite of artificial obstructions. The commercial solvency of the country, however, is one thing and the financial solvency of the government another, and there is no doubt that great difficulty is experienced under the present defective fiscal system in collecting the additional revenue required in consequence of closer contact with Western nations. Reform in this direction is urgently needed. As obstructing the growth of commerce, any proposals to raise more revenue by methods tending to check the domestic trade, such as the imposition of a consumption tax on native goods, or to hinder the progress of local industries and the introduction of foreign capital by a heavy excise on machine-trade products, are to be deprecated as having a tendency to lower the purchasing power of the people by preventing the development of resources. China can obsorb no more imports unless she has more to give in exchange, a condition dependent upon the freedom of native goods from uncertain and heavy taxation."

A STARTLING TEST.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists.

AN ARGUMENT FOR $1 WHEAT

Farmers Urged to Demand That Price For Cereal.

Indianapolis, May 25.—The American Society of Equity has issued a bulletin to the farmers of the United States demanding an increase in the price of wheat, giving arguments why the minimum price of wheat should be $1, and urging the farmers of the United States not to sell for less than $1. The society has been organized, with this city as national headquarters, for the purpose of maintaining higher prices for farm products by co-operation of the farmers of the country, and this is the first formal demand for increase in prices as the result of the combination. The bulletin sets out the claim that this is an era of unequalled prosperity, demand for commodities is unprecedented, labor receiving higher wages than ever before and the demand for and consumption of wheat is greater than ever before, with a low visible supply. The bulletin then says:

"It is evident that the American farmer cannot produce over about twelve bushels per acre on an average, which at 88 cents per bushel represents $10.56 per acre to cover all the work, seed, twine, threshing, marketing, etc., an amount that scarcely equals the simplest machine that the farmer buys, yet which only represents a small fraction of the factory investment, capital and labor employed.

"Who dare 'say' in the face of these evidences, and considerlng the present higher range of values for nearly every other commodity produced in the country that wheat at this time and for the next crop is not equitably worth $1 per bushel on the basis of Chicago market, and that other farm crops should be on a corresponding basis?

"Farmers keep this matter in mind, keep $1 wheat ($) at Chicago) before you, and you will get it as sure as the sun rises in the East and sets in the West. Above all, however, we implore you, don't be fools. When you get the equitable price, let it go. Sell on the basis of $1, and no less, but don't hold for more, or you may raise up an unwieldly surplus which must eventually compel lower prices.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

Caused Death of Young Man at Gloversville, N. Y.

Gloversville, N. Y., May 25.—The police of this city, aided by the authorities of Fulton county, are investigating a mysterious explosion which occurred shortly after midnight Saturday morning, and the sudden death of the son of the proprietor of a large leather dressing establishment of this city. The explosion, which caused a fierce blaze, took place in an outbuilding in connection with the leather dressing plant of Mills Bros., containing dangerous explosives used in the preparation of certain kinds of leather.

Persons living near by heard the explosion and saw a man whose clothing was on fire hurry away from the burning building. Later a physician was hastily summoned to the residence of M. J. Kennedy, senior member of the firm of M. J. Kennedy & Co., leather manufacturers, and yesterday morning was announced the death of the former's son, John Kennedy. The family refuses to give out any information regarding Mr. Kennedy's death other than at an early hour Saturday morning he appeared at his father's home and said he had met with an accident. Another son, Daniel, is alleged to have accompanied his brother on his errand and is reported to have been injured also, but this statement is met with an emphatic denial by his family, who assert that he is out of the city. The supposition the police are working on is that John Kennedy entered the outbuilding where the explosion occurred with the intention of ascertaining what formula was used by their competitors in the manufacture of patent leather. While there the explosion occurred and he sustained injuries that caused his death. The body of the dead man was badly burned and mutilated, and the fact that his father's residence was situated only a short distance from the Mills Bros.' establishment, and further, that the person who was injured in the explosion was easily tracked toward the Kennedy residence, has led Coroner Palmer and Chief of Police Speer to make a rigid investigation which is now being carried on.

Fragments of burned flesh, portions of dismembered fingers and pieces of clothing have been found near the spot where the explosion occurred, and there is a rumor to the effect that a warrant will be issued for Daniel C. Kennedy, whose whereabouts are unknown.

The Kennedys are among the oldest families in Gloversville, prominent in business circles and reputed to be wealthy.

BOILER EXPLODED.

Fatal Accident on Erie Road Near Kane, Pa.

Erie, Pa., May 25.—While passing May's siding, on the hill about seven miles west of Kane yesterday, the boiler on one of the locomotives pushing a Philadelphia & Erie freight train exploded, killing one man and injuring four others, three, perhaps, fatally.

The disaster was an unusual one, insomuch as the train was running at the time, and also because the crown sheet of the exploded boiler was blown clear through the caboose, splitting it in two and completely wrecking it, so that it was set on fire and burned up as the quickest way to clear the tracks. The injured, except the engineer and fireman, were in the caboose.

The dead:

JOHN CRANE, brakeman.

The injured: Charles Owens, conductor of freight, will die; Henry Gardner, Ilaginan, Waterford, will die; W. J. Swartzfager, engineer, may die; Peter Crossen fireman.

Cold, Headache, Catarrh, relieved in ten minutes. -Rev. W. H. Main, pastor of the Baptist Emanuel church, Buffalo, gives strong testimony for and is a firm believer in Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. He has tried many kinds of remedies without avail. "After using Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder I was benefited at once," are his words. It is a wonderful remedy. One application relieves headache and cold. Sold by Max Wirth, 13 West Superior street.

MARKET IS HIGHER

Wheat Trading Is Active and Better Prices Are Made.

Statistics Both Bullish and Bearish—Flax Quiet and Unchanged.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 25.—The wheat market started out today with an easy tone although prices were about at the closing of Saturday and there was a decline soon after the opening, but the market turned stronger and closed at better prices. The cables were steady, the world's shipments large and receipts fairly liberal, but there was a decrease in the visible considerably beyond expectations; in fact, the guesses were more than a million bushels out of the way. St. Louis interests were rather aggressive, reporting continental markets strong and bids coming higher for wheat. Local exporters could do nothing, however, and found the foreign situation very dull. Weather conditions are generally good, although some sections are now complaining of too much rain. Armour continued the liquidation of May wheat in Chicago and the price sank to a lower level.

Stocks of wheat in Duluth are down to a little above 2,500,000—a level unusually and if not unprecedentedly low for this time of year. About a million bushels of this is said to be sold to go out, but it will move slowly, in all probability. The vessel rate is 1½ cent.

The Liverpool market closed unchanged, Paris ¾c to 1c higher, Berlin ⅝c higher, and Buda Pest ½c higher.

The visible supply was a surprise, showing a decrease of nearly a million bushels more than was predicted. The total was 3,463,000 bushels, and the total supply now is 27,392,000 bushels, against 30,629,000 bushels a year ago at this time.

World's shipments were also very large but about what had been estimated the latter part of last week. The amount was 12,213,000 bushels, against 10,882,000 bushels the previous week and 9,672,000 bushels last year. Of the total shipped America furnished 5,233,000 bushels, Russia 2,488,000 bushels, Argentine, 2,576,000 bushels, Danube 864,000 bushels, and India came into notice with 1,182,000 bushels. The amount on passage decreased 128,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of wheat were 435,000 bushels; last year 392,000 bushels. Shipments 394,000 bushels; last year 750,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour were 305,000 bushels.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis were 228 cars, and at Chicago 38, a total of 313 cars, against 203 last week and 252 last year.

Corn in the Liverpool market closed unchanged to ¼d higher. July corn in Chicago closed ⅛c higher and July oats unchanged. The world's shipments of corn were 3,572,000 bushels last week, against 2,182,000 bushels the previous week and 4,679,000 bushels last year. Of the total last week America shipped 1,814,000 bushels. The amount on passage decreased 140,000 bushels. The visible supply of corn decreased 836,000 bushels last week and is now 4,326,000 bushels, against 4,297,000 bushels last year. Primary receipts of corn were 690,000 bushels; last year 455,000 bushels. Shipments, 469,000 bushels; last year, 807,000 bushels. Clearances were 148,523 bushels.

Trading in the Duluth market was brisk. July opened ⅛c up at 78¼c, sold at 78⅝c at 9:36 and fell off to 78¼c at 10:50. From that point it rallied selling at 78⅝c at 11:05, and 78⅝c at 12:30, holding steady then and closing at that price, an advance of ⅛c for the day. September advanced ⅝c and May 1¼c lower. Minneapolis May fell ⅞c and July advanced ⅝c. New York May declined ⅝c and July advanced ½c.

Cash prices opened the week at May price for No 1 northern, or ⅞c over July. No. 2 sold at 2c under No. 1. Sales were 20,000 bushels.

Flax was quiet and steady. July sold all morning at Saturday's closing price, $1.10¾, except for a single sale at $1.11, and it closed at that price. September was also unchanged and October fell off ¼c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—To arrive, No. 1 hard, 3lc; No. 1 northern, 79c; No. 2 northern, 77c; May, No. 1 northern, 79c; July, 78¾c; September, 71⅝c. Flax—In store, $1.10; to arrive, $1.10; up track, $1.10; May, $1.10; July, $1.10¾; September, $1.18; October, $1.17; November, $1.17. Oats—To arrive, 34½-35c; on track, 34½-35c; May, 34c. Rye—To arrive, 56c, on track, 56c; May, 56c. Barley, 35@51c.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 14; last year, 14; oats, 8; flax, 10; last year 1.

Receipts: Wheat, 11,799; oats, 5084; rye, 2103; flax, 3613.

Shipments: Wheat, 35,822; oats, 1259; rye, 319; flax, 51,452.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Sufficient Demand For Wheat to Absorb Offerings.

Chicago, May 25.—Wheat opened slightly easier on large world's shipments and slightly lower cables, with July unchanged to ⅛c lower at 73½c to 73⅝c. There was a sufficient demand to absorb the offerings, and prices held steady at the small decline. Receipts were a little larger with weather reports fairly favorable. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 275 cars, which with local receipts of 38 cars, none of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 313 cars against 203 cars last week and 252 cars a year ago.

Free selling of May attributed to the leading long caused July to ease off to 73¼c later in the day but it soon rallied on the reports of a large decrease in the visible supply which were tardy in coming in. Under this influence the July option sold up to 74c, and the close was firm at 73⅞c, a gain of ¼c.

Corn was firm at the opening. Initial sales of July being at ⅛c lower to a shade higher at 44½c to 44¾c, on steady cables. Local longs unloaded some at the opening, but there was a good demand from commission houses and prices held steady during the first hour within the opening range. Local receipts were 479 cars with 61 of contract grade.

Small offerings and adverse crop reports from Nebraska caused a stronger feeling toward the close and July closed at the top figures for the day, 45¾c, ½c above Saturday's final figure.

Improved weather conditions induced some selling of oats by local long holders and the country was easier selling July down ⅛c to ¼c at 33⅝c to ⅜c. On light offerings prices showed some improvement early and the loss was partially recovered. There was a slow trade demand and small trade. Local receipts were 230 cars.

A large run of hogs at the yards, with prices lower caused an easier feeling in provisions. Sept. pork opened 7½c to 10c lower at $16.75 to $16.77½. Lard and ribs were off 5c at $9.00 and $9.25.

Close: Cash wheat—No. 1 red, 75½@76½c; No. 3 red, 71½@75c; No. 2 hard winter, 74@76c; No. 3 hard winter, 72@75c; No. 1 northern, 78@79c; No. 2 northern, 77@79c; No. 3 spring, 75@78c. Corn—No. 2, 45c; No. 3, 44½@44¾c. Oats—No. 2, 33c; No. 3, 32c.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Chicago Record Herald: The wheat market last week lost slightly. The close was unchanged to 2⅜ under the week previous but the only material decline was on the May. There was improved weather at home and in Europe. There was a slower export demand, but there were large clearances. The cash people generally both in wheat and flour had nothing to urge in favor of immediately higher prices. There was good deal of report from the southwest as to the crop losses which have been incurred. The news from the Northwest was of good weather. The Pacific coast was still without rain and it has been needing. The statisticians are estimating a decrease in the wheat condition of five per cent since May 1. That would leave the prospect for about 475,000,000 bushels of wheat. A year ago the same authorities were estimating 400,000,000 bus and the amount was around 360,000,000 bus. There is still the general belief that the winter wheat crop will be the largest ever grown. The present prospect is for a large area of spring wheat.

Harris, Gates & Co: Our Paris advices show an inclination toward lower markets. The French are trying to resell in this country wheat bought a week ago and are offering good inducements to our exporters to cancel sales. The present outlook taking lowest estimate of conditions makes promises 100,000,000 more winter wheat than we raised last year. Supplies of old wheat in sight are small and we think they are rather small in farmers' hands that July and Sept. wheat is likely to show more premium over Sept.

It is pretty well understood that a large individual short line of July wheat was covered Saturday.

Chicago Record-Herald: The ocean freight rates on grain continue at a minimum, and ocean freight people say it continues difficult to get enough tonnage even at the minimum rates. The prices of the securities of the big Morgan ocean combination, the International Mercantile Marine company, reflect the ocean shipping situation. The preferred stock of this combine is down to 30, after having sold at 75, and the common stock is at 10, after having sold at 20. Everybody who went into the combination and kept the stock has a loss in it. The ocean people are still feeling the lack of ships. They are suffering also from that overbuilding, which lasted from 1896 to 1900. The ocean freight people, however, are hoping that this year's crops in this country will turn their fortune.

Chicago Record-Herald: The country sales of corn to this market during the week, mainly from Illinois, probably aggregated 4,000,000 bus. The grain was sold for June shipment, some of it for the first half and some of it for the latter half. It was the freest country selling of the season, and was the result of the better weather and progress in planting. The July hovered around 45c most of the week. That permitted a 40c price to the Illinois farmer, and it seemed to satisfy him. While the country selling was freer, the Eastern purchases were also large. One concern, Counselman, sold about 1,-250,000 bus to the East, and sold about half of it in one day. This business with the seaboard was for the first half and second half of June. Charters were made for all of it with a Cleveland vessel man. So the present indications are the corn will be coming in here fast next month and going out fast. The speculative market has been firm in spite of improved weather in the West. The stocks here continue to decrease, and there will be a further reduction in the totals this week of around 400,000 bus. The immediate cash situation keeps strong because receipts so far have kept light. But the corn people all recognize the test of the market will come next month when the country movement swells. It will then develop whether the Eastern demand will increase in proportion with the western marketing. The Armour July holding is still supposed to be the large one. The Harris-Gates house continues a persistent buyer of July, and this is supposed to mean Ellwood and his party. It is figured the Wells party in the provision pit has about liquidated its July and taken September instead. The Patten party keeps bearish. Counselman, and with the exception of Armour, most of the cash interests are rather bearish.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago: Wheat—Our market showed some weakness early on cables and the fine weather, but no pressure developed except in short wheat and the closing was strong. Crop news is still the dominant influence. The tendency is rather worse in regard to crop damage and is increasing. It now extends from Indiana to Oklahoma, with an occasional complaint from Nebraska, the latter on account of too much rain. The southwest markets report more country buying orders induced by this deterioration in the crop. California is still without rain. Broomhall reports the weather in Europe perfect. Cash situation is rather slow, although exporters report bids more encouraging. We still thing we would rather take our chances on wheat on the soft spots considering the tendency of the crop news. Estimated cars 90.

Corn—Market here was rather firm. Nebraska and parts of Iowa are complaining of too much wet weather and delayed planting. This made local covering of shorts in this market. There seems also a little congestion in the May corn, in which tended to strengthen the feeling. No change in conditions of supply and demand, and the outlook is for a large amount in the near future. Estimated cars 445.

Oats—Market here was extremely dull and without change. There seems nothing in the cash situation to move prices and the futures are controlled by the crop situatin. Estimated cars 215.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 25.—The cotton market this morning showed but a small measure of its recent excitement. Prices in Liverpool were about in line with local expectations though the near months showed less strength while the late positions were firmer. In the local opening trading was of about the same ordinary volume. First prices were 3 points lower to 5 points higher and immediately following the call seemed rather bearish. The firmness at New Orleans, however, started short covering, and the the market became more active. The market became more active. The near months regained all their opening losses and the general list showed a net advance of from 9 to 18 points. The bull leader is reported to have returned to New Orleans and the strength there was attributed to his presence, while southern buying orders received here were thought to originate from that source.

Cotton spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; mide ups, 11.90; do gulf, 12.15. Sales, 14,240 bales. Cotton futures closed steady. May, 11.62; June, 11.17; July, 11.37; August, 10.75; September, 9.92; October, 9.52; November, 9.28; December, 9.26; January, 9.26.

A SLUMP IN STOCKS

Large Lots of Stock Thrown Over Amid Great Confusion.

A Short Feverish Rally Occurred But Prices Again Broke.

New York, May 25.—There were slight gains among some American stocks in London this morning which gave some hope of a recovery from Saturday's weakness but the opening of the market here showed heavy selling orders and little demand throughout the list. The first sale of St. Paul was of 100 shares at 150¾, but the next sale was 4000 shares at 150 and the stock subsequently broke through that figure. Saturday's price was 151¼. There were 3500 shares of United States Steel sold at 30⅞ and 30¾, compared with 31⅜ on Saturday and opening sales of Rock Island were of 6000 shares at 38¾ and 39, compared with 39⅛ on Saturday. Missouri Pacific lost nearly 2 points and declines of a point or over were shown by Wabash preferred, Canadian Pacific, Brooklyn Transit, Amalgamated and Tennessee Coal. Pennsylvania and United States Steel preferred fell ⅝ under heavy offerings. The precipitated declines in the leading stocks alarmed holders of the less important properties and there was general spilling out of holdings which lowered a number of them between 1 and 2 points. These included some high priced investment stocks as well as low priced non-dividend paying industrials. Exceptional losses were made by St. Paul preferred and 4½. United States Realty preferred 4½ and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 3. The general market was feverish and excited. Supporting orders, however, were plainly manifest all through the active list and by 10:30 the tide of prices had turned upwards. A number of active stocks recovered from 1 to 1¼, carrying a few above Saturday. Erie first preferred and second preferred sold 1½ and 2¼ respectively above Saturday's close. The trading became quieter at the rally.

The market reacted slightly on the announcement of an engagement of $300,000 in gold for export to Germany. Union Pacific was carried back to the lowest. Erie first preferred reacted a point. Northwestern lost 1⅞, Rock Island 2 and Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred 2¾. Effective support was again forthcoming and the selling was checked but the demand fell away at the higher level. Minneapolis & St. Louis was marked up 2 over Saturday and Metropolitan Street Railway and Cotton Oil preferred gained a point. Bonds were weak at noon.

Prices hardened here and there were but few changes of consequence during the midday hour. St. Paul rose to 151¼ and United States Steel preferred to 81 and the general list maintained a firm undertone. Towards 11 o'clock heavy selling of Rock Island forced it down to 37⅞ and the stock rallied quickly to 38¼. St. Paul reacting to 150½ and Union Pacific and Southern Pacific fell back to the lowest. Colorado & Southern preferred lost 2¾ and American Express 5, while Minneapolis & St. Louis recorded 3. A renewed supply of stock was poured upon the market and prices broke violently to the lowest of the day. St. Paul was hammered down 2¾ to 148¾ and round amounts of the Pacifics, Rock Island and Reading were unloaded. Losses approximated 2 points in Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Brooklyn Transit. Brooklyn Union Gas slumped 11¾ and Northwestern 3⅞. Some feverish rallies followed but prices were breaking again at 2 o'clock.

There were rallies of one point in a few stocks and 2 in others when room shorts covered. The close was unsettled. On the curb Northern Securities was the weak feature, declining to 91, a new low record for it.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Ridgley to W. H. Laidley & Co.: Sure enough, another setback came Saturday with St. Paul going to the lowest price for this movement. The rest of the market held better than might have been expected. I know of a good many people short of St. Paul who expect to cover at 150. So it may be that St. Paul will not get quite to that figure, though the tip is 149. Playing to charts the general list will be a purchase this morning around the low prices of last Thursday with close stop losses. I have nothing to advise, however from a speculative standpoint. From an investment standpoint the market is full of good things. No information obtainable is worth anything. Good judges think the market will be a purchase this morning, others say the market is going much lower, so it is a case of guessing. If I were gambling just now I would follow charts than anything else. People who are willing to take a chance should buy stocks today and either limit their losses to one point or put up a liberal margin and hold as an investment.

TRAIN RECORDS BROKEN.

Toledo, May 25.—Records were broken this morning when the Lake Shore's Twentieth Century limited, hauled by Engine 603, ran from Toledo to Elkhart, 133 miles, in 114 minutes. This is two minutes lower than any previous time. At intervals along the run the speed averaged 72, 80 and 90 miles an hour, the general average being 70 miles.

CANFIELD SAYS NOT GUILTY.

New York, May 25.—Richard A. Canfield today pleaded not guilty to an indictment on four counts among them being the "common gambler" charge, and was released under bonds of $1500.

UNSETTLED CONDITION

New York, May 25.—Henry Clews says in his weekly infancial review: Conflicting influences have kept the market in an unsettled condition and caused a moderate reaction in values; some shares displaying considerable weakness and others excellent resisting qualities. Towards the close of the week there was a satisafctory rally.

The conditions contributing to temporary lower prices were gold shipments, labor troubles, bank-note circulation, the important crops, distrust of the speculation in cotton, the absence or illness of a number of important operators and the spirit of caution which is still prevalent often running into pessimism, amongst a growing class who are predisposed to take sombre views of the affairs and who no doubt find more than usual hereforce in support of such opinions. On the other hand we have the well known fact that about six months of extensive liquidation have been produced without disaster; a most emphatic demonstration of general financial strength. Then monetary conditions have greatly improved; although there unquestionably remains some concern as to how the autumn requirements will be met. As to crop matters, corn, cotton, and other crops may be backward, but it is not too late by any means to secure good results, particularly if early frosts are escaped. Besides, we are practically assured of a bumper wheat crop, which means large trade and plenty of traffic for railroads traversing the wheat belt. The effect of an enormous immigration must also be considered. In April over 80,000 immigrants landed upon Unites shores seeking work and advancement. This was the highest month on record, and it seems quite likely that the current fiscal year in this respect will surpass all records, even that of 1882, when the arrivals were nearly 800,000. By this means we may partially relieve the scarcity of labor, as well as increase the demand for home products and delay the approach of overproduction. Whatever the political or social effect of this phenomenal influx may be, it is certainly an economic advantage; for there is plenty of work to be done, and the more individuals there are to feed, clothe and house the better for industry at large. The other drawbacks to this movement must be faced and solved as separate issues.

Another development of interest and encouragement is the foreign buying of American stocks. It is to be hoped this will prove genuine and permanent. Europe is practically bare of American stocks, while recent heavy subscriptions to the Transvaal loan demonstrate that now the war is over funds are accumulating and must be seeking investment. Nothing better can be found than the higher class of American railroads, which are better financed, better managed and in all respects stronger investments than in the earlier days, when English and Continental buyers took our securities without discrimination, much to their subsequent regret and loss. Now conditions have changed about; our best railroad securities are amongst the safest investments offered in the world's markets; and they bring larger returns than antiquated British railroad properties which will have to be partially reconstructed at enormous expense to bring them up to modern standards. American railroads were fortunate enough to pass through this physical reconstruction during prosperous times, when such improvements could be largely provided out of earnings without impairing dividends. British railroads will probably be obliged to curtail dividends for this purpose, at a time when American dividends are assured if not increased by the fact that these improvements have been paid for. For such reasons American securities ought to find renewed favor in the foreign markets; and international bankers are not likely to miss such an opportunity.

About $6,000,000 of gold has been shipped during the current month, when the efflux began, and more may follow. Some of this has gone to the Argentine, but the bulk went to Paris, presumably to settle American obligations there. In the present condition of the money market the gold movement is, of course, closely watched; likewise the loan account, which has shown a steady expansion for several weeks past in spite of general speculative and trade inactivity. It is stated that the expansion in loans is largely due to the transfer of credit from Europe to the New York banks. If this be true it is welcome evidence that we are reducing our foreign obligations, and to that extent the expansion is a satisfactory one, although the strengthening of local reserves is necessary and the time in which that can be done is rapidly diminishing.

Money conditions are not yet satisfactory, although much improved. Twenty-five per cent of the subscription to the new Pennsylvania stock is payable in June and fifty per cent more in the fall. Besides this, considerable sums will be needed at crop moving time, which may perhaps be an extended period, as it was last year, on account of the lateness of corn. As foundations for a future advance railroad prosperity continues unabated, and up to the present time crop prospects are excellent. Furthermore, relief is promised by the probable passage, at an early session of congress, of a good financial bill, amplified in its scope. In the meantime, especially in view of labor disturbances, good judgment must govern operations. The outlook seems to be for a fluctuating market with its many opportunities for profitable turns, and likely a gradual betterment, barring drop damage or some such depressing influence. But no pronounced bull movement is possible until financial resources are relieved thoroughly of the train of the past few months.

The week's fluctuations were chiefly due to the operations of traders who were temporarily bearish. In the absence of unfavorable developments they are just as likely to work for a reaction when the decline exhausts itself. There is still a spirit of caution in financial circles, and the big leaders continue indisposed to encourage activity. Apparently they are waiting for the outcome of the drops and the autumn money markets. While these conditions last, good stocks ought to be a purchase on sharp breaks and equally good sales on the rallies. One danger point is the cotton speculation; that should be closely watched.

In every city there is one paper favored by local advertisers. In Duluth it is The Herald.

IN MARINE CIRCLES

Freighter J. F. Keefe Arrives In Duluth on Maiden Trip.

Steamer Tionesta Inspected By Thousands at Her Dock.

The big freighter J. F. Keefe arrived in Duluth this morning on her maiden trip.

The Keefe is one of the fleet of ten vessels which is being built by the Great Lakes & St. Lawrence Transportation company for the grain and general merchandise trade between Duluth and Quebec. She is the second of the fleet to arrive in Duluth, the Parant being the first. The Keefe brought a load of coal from lake Erie.

The Keefe has been very unfortunate in starting out, having been twice disabled and compelled to put back into Detroit before she could succeed in making the passage up the lakes. The collision with the Steel company's barge 130 was the second and most serious accident.

The eight other vessels of the fleet will probably be in commission before many weeks have passed, several of them having already been launched.

TIONESTA DRAWS CROWD.

Thousands Inspect the New Passenger Steamer.

The new steamer Tionesta which is in Duluth on her maiden trip proved a great attraction to Duluthians yesterday afternoon. The boat was thrown open to inspection and over 5000 people visited her between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. at the Northern Pacific dock No. 4

The cold foggy weather did not deter the sightseers from venturing to the neighborhood of the docks, and the vessel and pier were crowded with visitors during the hours the vessel was open for inspection.

The Tionesta embodies all that is modern in her construction. She is a steel ship, 360 feet in length, 45 feet beam and 28 feet in depth, being thus slightly larger than the North West and North Land, whose measurements are 358, 44 and 23 feet.

She has a capacity for 350 passengers and 3500 tons of freight. Her engines are quadruple expansion of 2000 horse-power.

Many ideas which have hitherto been embodied only in ocean-going vessels are seen on the Tionesta. The dining-room, saloon, library, music room and social hall are all on the promenade deck. The dining-room, which is finished in mahogany, can accommodate 137 people.

The staterooms are fitted with two bertlis, a sofa, running water, lavatory, electric lights and screw ports.

The music room and library are also furnished in mahogany. The music room contains a grand piano and the library contains a well-selected list of books with the current numbers of the best magazines.

The total cost of the vessel was in excess of $200,000. A sister ship to the Tionesta will be built by the Anchor line should the new vessel meet with the patronage which is expected.

The Tionesta will clear for Buffalo at 10 o'clock this evening.

UNFOUNDED RUMOR.

A report that a new vessel had gone down circulated freely over Duluth and Superior this forenoon. No tidings of such a catastrophe appeared through regular news channels, and the assumption is that the rumor was one of the airy fabrications that often get wide circulation, coming from nobody knows where. There was nothing definite about the rumor, which did not fix time, place or any further particular about this sad affair.

LAUNCHING OF CLEMSON.

Arrangements for the launching of the second of the lake steamships for the season at Superior ship yards are under way and it is expected the D. M. Clemson will be let to slide down the ways the first of June or shortly thereafter. The boat is almost finished, and it is not expected that any delays in construction will cause the date for launching to be set along into the month. The ship yard management is arranging for another proper ceremonial for the occasion.

GRAIN STILL SHORT.

Chicago, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shippers succeeded in getting some grain into the elevators over Sunday, but it was far short of the amount required. Vessels, which went to elevators Saturday were still without their cargoes at noon today owing to the non-arrival of the grain. Rates were unchanged.

NOT THIS YEAR

No Extension to Diamond or Arcturus Mines to Be Built.

Great Northern Has Three Spurs In Course of Construction.

"You can safely state in your newspaper that there will not be a foot of the reported extension of our road to the Arcturus and Diamond mines constructed this year."

That was the assertion of Assistant General Superintendent D. M. Philbin of the Great Northern road this afternoon.

"The published reports that there was to be work commenced on that extension at once," said he, "are erroneous. So far as I know, the mines are not in shape to need any railroad into their properties at present.

"No arrangements have been made for building the extension this year, so far, and we have no information that could lead us to determine when it will be required.

"When they need railroad transportation facilities at those two mines, we will put in the line, but there is nothing doing regarding it now. Not even plans or proposals have been asked for, and material has not been thought of. Some surveying has been done, I understand, but that's all.

"The only construction going on now is of three spurs, one to the La Rue No. 1, one to the La Rue No. 2 and one to the Crosby mine, where stripping is well under way, and the shipping is expected to commence in a few weeks."

Mr. Philbin talked with J. E. Jopling, of the Cleveland Cliffs, this morning regarding the spur to the Crosby mine, which is the leased property of that company.

Mr. Philbin said he had been at Hibbing recently. He was not of the impression that the smallpox was a plague or epidemic there, but is aware that recent deaths have occurred, and there are cases of the disease in the city at present.

"I understand that of the fatal cases," he said, "the afflicted ones were, without exception, people who had never been vaccinated."

THOSE WHO HAVE DIED

Paul Blouet, Max O'Rell, Has Succumbed to Cancer.

New York, May 25.—A private dispatch from Paris says that Paul Blouet, (Max O'Rell), died of a cancerous formation following an operation for appendicitis. He was notified some days ago that there was no hope, but said he would continue his fight against death as bravely as ever. He was engaged in writing the story of his life, as well as an English history of France. He died at his home in the Rue Fregonnet at 2:15 p. m. yesterday. He was conscious to the last.

Madison, Neb., May 25.—Former Congressman John E. Robinson, of the third Nebraska district, died here early today of appendicitis. He was attacked Thursday, the third time within a few months. Physicians, after a consultation, decided that an operation was impossible, owing to the patient's extreme weakness. Mr. Robinson was elected to congress in 1898 on a Fusion ticket and served two terms. He was formerly a law partner of Senator Allen.

BEGINS AN ACTION

Dick Ferris Applies to Court For a Restraining Order.

Wants to Be Left Alone During Life of His Contract.

Dick Ferris does not propose to be put out of the Metropolitan theater, if he can help it. He has called upon the court for aid in assisting him to stay where he is.

Action was begun today against the Metropolitan Building company and John T. Condon, manager, on behalf of Mr. Ferris, Washburn & Bailey appearing as his attorneys.

The court is asked to issue a temporary restraining order preventing the plaintiffs from interfering with the carrying out of his contract with the company during the pendency of the action and the life of the contract, which extends to Sept. 1. He also asks that they be restrained from removing any of the properties, scenery, etc., which he uses in the opera house in connection with the business which he is authorized under the contract to perform.

Another prayer in his petition is that the defendants be restrained from entering into any contract that will permit any other company to enter the building and interfere with him during the life of his contract.

Judge Dibell has granted the temporary order and set the hearing for next Friday at 5 o'clock.

BUFFALO WILL BE SELECTED

As Place of Meeting of the Next General Assembly.

Los Angeles, May 25.—According to the commissioners from the Buffalo, N. Y., synod, that city will be selected by the committee on place of meeting of the next general assembly in 1904. The committee will not make its report public until near the close of the assembly. The general assembly resumed its session at 10 o'clock this morning at Immanuel church, the first business to come before the commissioners being the report of the board of missions for freedom. The Rev. Charles Payson Cheeseman, of Pittsburg, chairman of the board, presented the report, which showed an encouraging increase. The report of the board was as follows:

The year which has just closed has discovered some facts which are calculated to greatly encourage those interested in the missions of the freedmen. The increased public attention to the condition of the negro in our land the vigorous and serious public discussion of his needs, his capacities and his foundations must be productive of lasting good. We most sincerely hope that it shall be suggested to every pastor and elder, and that in every church the methods and needs of this work may be heartily presented and that every member of our churches may be given an opportunity to participate in this elevation and Christianizing of this people, who through no fault of theirs, are in our midst for good or ill.

We regret that we cannot report increased receipts over last year. We closed the year however without debt and with a small balance. The receipts were $182,864. The number of helping churches was 4905, a gain of 241 as compared with last year. The number of churches that helped by congregational collections was 4125, an increase of 12%. In our boarding schools 1954 young men and women have not only received instruction in the ordinary branches of education, but have enjoyed the training of a Christian home and the influence and association of earnest, refined and educated instructors. The number of ministers under our care is 211, having the pastoral care of 338 churches. That the year has been one of progress and encouragement will be seen by the number of additions on profession, 1846, and the total membership 20,746 is significant of great leavening and elevating power. The amount contributed by churches and schools for self-support was $94,720. The permanent investments are $104,350 and the total value of the property, mortgages, etc., is $866,840.

MISTAKEN FOR ROBBER.

One Farmer Shoots Another Near Pueblo, Col.

Pueblo, Col., May 25.—Shot through the groin, bleeding and lying by the railroad track for twelve hours without medical attention, with his blind wife and four-year-old son unable to assist him, was the night's experience of James Richardson, at a water station on the Missouri Pacific, sixteen miles east of Pueblo. The bullet was fired by F. L. Stevenson, who now is in jail on the charge of assault to kill. Stevenson says he mistook Richardson for a robber. Richardson is not expected to recover. Both men are farmers.

BAD WASHOUT

Caused Train Wreck Near Glen Ellen, Va.

Richmond, Va., May 25.—By the bursting of the dams of two lakes near Glen Ellen, a few miles above the city early this morning, the bank of the north track of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad was washed away. As a freight train of 20 cars was passing over the weakened track, twelve cars went down and most of these were totally wrecked. The engine passed safely over. Engineer C. M. Kellon, of Richmond, was injured but not seriously. The track was damaged for 1000 feet.

CITIZEN GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN, WHO IS ILL WITH SMALLPOX.

THE world famous Citizen George Francis Train is quarantined at the home of his sister in Stamford, Conn., suffering from smallpox. In his recent autobiography Mr. Train, who is seventy-four years old, characteristically says that he was the real founder of Irish immigration to this country, that he started the first street railway in Europe, that he organized the French commune while on a journey around the world in eighty days, that he has been in fifteen jails without having committed a crime and that he has been a legal lunatic for thirty years and cannot obtain millions which he owns.

LEATHER WORKERS STRIKE.

Milwaukee, May 25.—Members of the Amalgamated Leather Workers' union of America went on strike in nine of the tanneries in Milwaukee today. It is estimated that between 500 and 600 men are affected. The men demanded 53 hours work per week and the same pay which they were receiving for 60 hours' work. A conference between representatives of the employers and employes will be held Tuesday evening.

A SMUGGLERS PARADISE.

Entire Population In League With Customs Breakers.

Among the American, Canadian and Newfoundland preventive officers St. Pierre enjoys the unenviable repute of being the greatest smuggling center in North America, writes the St. Pierre Unquelon correspondent of the New York Tribune. Allen in speech and thought from the English communities which surround it the facilities for contraband traffic are greatly increased, and the place has become a positive pest hole. One of the most startling instances is that of a United States consular employe at St. Pierre, who was in league with the smugglers, and had a duplicate of the official seal made by means of which he gave bogus documents to them, and participated in a series of scandals, the disclosing of which, in due course, compelled him to flee the place to escape the wrath of the offended American and French governments, both of which had been victimized by him.

St. Pierre occupies a unique position in North America. It is the headquarters of the French codfishery on the Grand Banks. It is also a rendezvous for American, Canadian and Newfoundland fishermen, all of whom smuggle more or less. Its permanent population is 6500, which is doubled during the summer by fishermen from France, brought out for the banking fleet. It exacts only trifling duties on imports, being maintained chiefly by the bounties on the fishery outfits, so its traders find it profitable to procure opium and other drugs, perfumes, silks, gloves and Parisian fabrics, wines and liquors and many similar dainty and costly articles. These are systematically "run" into the American seaports by the United States fishing vessels homeward bound from the banks, which put into St. Pierre through stress of weather and to procure these commodities.

The heavy duties on these articles in the United States ports of entry make this contraband business profitable, and many are the tricks of the smugglers to deceive the customs authorities. Opium has been got through in lobster cans, silks by tying them up in the sails, liquors in trawl buoys and water casks. Going to Newfoundland, too, for bait or herring, the Yankee fishermen load quantities of more substantial materials for our coastfolk, and dispose of them illegally also.

The frauds with the United States consular seal were chiefly carried on over importations of alcohol from the middle states, to be made the basis of "doctored" brandy for the Quebec residents. A favorite theater for the St. Pierre smugglers is among their compatriots on the Quebec seaboard, who are inordinately fond of cheap, fiery liquors, easily contrived with alcohol, colorings and fusel oil. For this trade the St. Pierre men formed a "smuggling syndicate," suborned a United States consular employe, and also corrupted some Canadian coast guards. When the Canadian government "caught on" they subsidized a St. Pierre customs officer, and when he was detected through banking Canadian money, it took all the gendarmes in St. Pierre to protect him from the infuriated smugglers until a tug could be got to run him across the Newfoundland coast, while they burned him in effigy on the quay. American alcohol, rectified spirit, or "corn juice," from the middle states, forms the basis of this Quebec smuggling. Shipped through Boston in bond, it was carried to St. Pierre in large schooners, which, lay outside the port, and transferred their cargo to other craft, the consular clerk, with his bogus seal, now coming into play and giving the schooner's captain an apparently genuine certificate that the cargo was duly landed at St. Pierre, which enabled him to clear his bond on returning to Boston. The craft meanwhile that took off the alcohol were really floating distilleries. They each carried 500 or so of eighteen-gallon casks (easy packages to handle), and drugs, and intended to be filled with the alcohol. This would be done in some "French shore" harbor, the forty-gallon puncheons being sold to the French fishermen to hold cod liver oil. The schooners would then sail up the St. Lawrence, showing brown sails today and white tomorrow and mixed the next day to deceive the Canadian cruisers. The syndicate has agents all over the coast, with a code of signals, by flags in the day and lamps at night. If the cargo cannot be run into one port the craft is warned to go to another; if danger threatens they "sell the cargo to the government."

This is the most ingenious trick of all. A conniving coast guard is informed that the cargo is to be "run," and is on hand to seize it. The liquor is sold subject to a duty of $1.90 a gallon. It is usually 50 per cent over proof, and so is worth $2.85 a gallon as duty, or, say, $3 at auction. The Canadian law gives the informer, the seizer and the revenue a third each, so the first two, being allies, get $2 a gallon for the liquor. The loss to Canada's revenue through this smuggling is fully $400,000 a year. The cures and other leaders of thought are most vehement against this traffic, but still it flourishes. Canada now contemplates turning over all the confiscated liquor to the legitimate distillers at a certain figure, bearing the loss herself, believing this the cheaper policy in the end. The distillers sell almost no liquor in Quebec or the maritime provinces, these being supplied chiefly from St. Pierre, and sold in Quebec for purely nominal figures.

The publicity with which these frauds were conducted proved their undoing. The United States authorities were apprised, and the tricky consular employe had to make a hasty exit. But this did not cripple the traffic, it merely compelled the manufacture of the stuff at St. Pierre itself, involving only the paying of a small duty on the alcohol brought in. Pure alcohol, or rectified spirit, becomes "proof" spirit when mixed with an equal quantity of water, but the whisky or brandy of commerce is still further diluted. All grades of intoxicants are manufactured at St. Pierre, but they are vile compounds. On the French fishing vessels every man is allowed his "tot" of brandy at each meal. This "brandy" is simply alcohol and rainwater, flavored with tar and given a "tang" with fusel oil. It has no brandy taste, and the water used to make it is got by placing casks under the rain pipes of the St. Pierre stores, which also receive other undesirable additions. Casks of this concoction are shipped on every fishing craft for the men's use. A skipper on the banks last summer, being visited by some Newfoundland confreres, produced a bottle of cognac to "treat" them.

"Hello, John!" observed one, "this looks the real thing. I thought you chaps carried nothing but 'Peter's rum' (St. Pierre brandy)."

"So I do," replied John, "for ze crew, but not for mineself. I 'ave zeen that rum make."

The St. Pierre smugglers do a big trade in supplying contraband rum to the Newfoundland fisher folk. It is of two grades, "dollar rum" and "seven franc rum." The latter, too, is much used by themselves, and the average resident will leave church in the middle of a sermon to get a drink of this liquor at a cafe. High proof rum (40 sp. gr.) is the basis of this concotion, being imported from Jamaica and mixed with alcohol and drugs. One gallon of this rum, two of alcohol and three of rain water are thrown together, and chemicals added. The pure rum costs 50 cents a gallon and the alcohol 40 cents; the duty is 10 cents a gallon on each, so these constituents in a six-gallon keg cost $1.60, and it can be sold for $2 or 33 cents a gallon. The smugglers who run this stuff charge $1 for it, hence its title of "dollar rum." The "seven franc" variety is somewhat stronger. Gin is made in the same way, with high proof Hollands from Amsterdam as a base. The liquors, as may be seen from the above, have a higher alcoholic percentage than those used by the world generally, and, owing to the chemicals used, are much more injurious. The distribution of a cargo in a Quebec village will set the people nearly crazy. Even the harder headed Newfoundlanders get overcome. It is not uncommon for fishing crews on the Grand Banks to be demoralized by the stuff, and to it may be traced most of the fatalities (and they are many) that occur there. Last summer a French banker returned to St. Pierre with her captain in irons. He had gone crazy with this liquor, and, "running amuck," killed two of his crew and threatened the others until they overpowered and tied him up.

Fortunes have been made in St. Pierre from this smuggling business. Some of the largest fishery outfitters are also leading smugglers, and make great profits. More than one is worth 1,000,000 francs, and several have retired to Paris to enjoy the illicit wealth acquired on this barren rock.

SPANNING A GREAT GORGE.

The spanning of the Goktcik gorge, in Burmah, is considered one of the greatest engineering feats ever attempted by Americans outside of their own country, says Harper's Weekly. The Burmah railroad company officialsh let the contract to an American company only after the bridge builders of Great Britain and the continent had declined to take it, saying the bridge could not be completed in the time specified. An American company asserted that it could be completed, and offered to put up a forfeit if their word was not made good. As a result they were given the contract, and a little band of thirty-five Yankee workmen went to the other side of the world to execute it. In ten months from the time the first girders were put in place two locomotives met in the center if the structure.

The towers supporting the center of the railroad track are about 320 feet in height, and in some places the sides of the gorge are so steep that a plumb line may be dropped 150 feet without grazing the rock.

Five thousand tons of steel were riveted and bolted into place before the work was completed. In constructing the towers a temporary bridge about 100 feet high was built in the deepest part of the gorge. This was used for a tram-road, on which car loads of material were carried and elevated to the top of the viaduct.

The viaduct carried a gigantic arm which did the work of 1000 men. It contained a machine shop with tools and forges; a telephone exchange, where the men on it could talk to those at either end of the gorge; and a station where signals could be made to the valley below.

A comparison with what has already been done in bridge building gives an idea of the undertaking. The Kinzua viaduct on the Erie railway in Pennsylvania is 2053 feet long and 301 feet high, and contains 3350 tons of steel. The pecos viaduct in Texas is 2180 feet long and 321 feet high, and contains 1820 tons. The Lon bridge in the Andes mountains, South America, is 336 feet high, but only 800 feet long, and weighs 1115 tons. The Goktcik is 2260 feet long. It is heavier than all of its rivals, and longer and higher than all but one.

ORDER FOR HEARING PROOF OF WILL.—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss. In Probate Court, Special Term, May 22nd, 1903.

In the matter of the estate of Mary Bernache, deceased:

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of Mary Bernache deceased, late of said County, has been delivered to this Court:

And whereas, Zepherine Bernache has filed therewith his petition, representing, among other things, that said Mary Bernache died in said County on the 8th day of May 1903, testate, and that said petitioner is the husband and sole residuary legatee and devisee in said will and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters of administration with the will annexed be issued thereon to Zepherine Bernache.

It is ordered, that the proofs of said instrument, and the said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate office in the City of Duluth, in said County, on Monday the 22nd day of June A. D. 1903, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear for or contest the probate of said instrument.

And it is further ordered, that notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Duluth Evening Herald, a daily newspaper printed and published at Duluth, in said County.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., this 22nd day of May A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
M. T. HANNON,
Judge of Probate of Lake County, Minnesota, acting as Judge of Probate of St. Louis Co. Minn.

(Seal, Probate Court, Lake Co., Minn.)
(Seal Probate Court St. Louis Co., Minn.)

SERIOUS UPRISING IS FEARED BY THE PEOPLE OF JACKSON

Curtis Jett Said to Have Confessed Plot.

Many Prominent Men of City Implicated.

Jackson, Ky., May 26.—The situation in Jackson is regarded as critical today in view of the rumor that Curtis Jett has decided to confess and implicate prominent men in Breathitt county by exposing the entire plot. It is believed that if Jett does confess, there will be an uprising, as 500 men could be mustered in a short time, making it impossible for the soldiers to cope with them. The people as a rule want a strong show of state troops to avert any such possibility, but Col. Williams, after a council with the officials, has not made a further requisition on the governor. Military officers discredit the reports of any uprising.

Jackson, Ky., May 26.—While the special grand jury is still sitting in its effort to indict the assassins of Marcum, Cockrill and Cox, the members of the state militia sent here to preserve order are scouring the country in an attempt to get together the witnesses and bring here the men indicted yesterday evening. A squad of six men in charge of Lieut. Norton Craig, of Louisville, an officer of the artillery company accompanying the special elisor, Charles T. Little, left here for Winchester on the morning train to bring Curtis Jett, under arrest there and confined in the Clark county jail. The detail of soldiers under Capt. Bell and those who went after Tom White last night, have not yet returned. White was yesterday indicted jointly with Curtis Jett for the murder of J. B. Marcum. It is stated this morning that White has gone to the home of his mother, in Leslie county, some forty miles distant. Today the grand jury will ask for the enforced attendance of Capt. John Patrick, Moses Feltner and Tom Cockrill. Capt. Patrick is alleged to have witnessed the assassination of Town Marshal James Cockrill, and Feltner is have made an affidavit stating that certain officials had hired him and three other men to kill James B. Marcum. Tom Cockrill, who is the young leader of the Cockrill faction, is wanted to tell about the assassination of Dr. Cox, it being stated that he knows the men who were in the stable at the time.

The mountaineers last night attacked the soldiers, and there was a council of war today to ask for more troops. It is reported here today that Curtis Jett has made a confession that implicates prominent persons.

Commonwealth Attorney Byrd says he will call the cases against Jett Wednesday morning and try him not later than Friday. Extra precautions have been taken to protect Belbin J. Ewen. He is guarded constantly by a strong detail. His testimony before the grand jury caused the indictments of Jett and White. There was a hostile movement against him yesterday in the court house, but the officers and soldiers warned all not to give the details. Belvin Ewen has fears for his life, and his family is greatly alarmed.

INVESTIGATION OF SLAVERY SAID TO EXIST IN ALABAMA

It Is Alleged That Negro Laborers Are Brought Into Court and Then Bound Out to White Men Paying Their Fines.

Washington, May 26.—At the request of the department of justice the United States secret service has undertaken the work of investigating the charge of peonage, or holding another in servitude to work out a debt, which has been made against persons living in the vicinity of Montgomery, Ala. The punishment provided by the statute for this crime is a fine of not less than $1000 nor more than $5000, or imprisonment of not less than one year nor more than five. One man named Robert N. Franklin has already been indicted for keeping a negro in servitude for at least a year. Information in the hands of Chief Wilkie tends to show that a regular system has been practiced for a long time between certain magistrates and persons who want negro laborers. It is said that the plan is to bring a poor negro before a magistrate on a flimsy charge. He is convicted, and having no money to pay a fine, the white man offers to advance him the money, provided the negro will make a labor contract with him for a length of time sufficient to reimburse him for the money and trouble he has taken to keep the negro out of jail. He is thereupon taken away and begins what is frequently a long term of cruel servitude, being frequently whipped for failure to perform work to the satisfaction of his employer. An agent of the secret service who is now on the ground will make a thorough investigation of the whole alleged system and turn over to the United States attorney for that district all information he may secure, with a view to the prosecution of offenders.

AN UNSPORTSMANLIKE PROCEEDING

London, May 26.—The Pall Mall Gazette today joins in the protest against the use of Ratsey sails on the Reliance. It says: "This is a most unsportsmanlike proceeding. If the race is to be a real test of merit, each should be completely equipped in the country to which it belongs. If the defender wins by means of British canvas it would not be an American victory at all. The only consolation would be that the superiority of British workmanship received so fine a testimonial."

THE MAFIA PLOTS TO KILL BOSSES

Dunkirk, N. Y., May 26.—A plot formulated by an Italian Mafia secretly to do away with objectionable bosses and foremen in the large manufacturing industries throughout the country has been discovered, and as a result every Italian employed by a number of foreign concerns here have been summarily dismissed. The discharge of the men was caused by advices received from the officials of a large plant at Easton, Pa., where the murder of the superintendent by members of the organization was only prevented by information given by a friendly Italian who was aware of the plot. The Easton officials are said to have communicated with every big concern in this country employing Italians, informing them of the existence of the band, as the branches are believed to exist in all the larger cities.

CHICAGOANS MAY WEAR WHISKERS

Chicago, May 26.—Eight thousand barbers of Chicago will go on strike tonight if their demands are refused. They ask that $12 a week and half of all they earn over $18 be paid them; that shops open at 7 a. m. the year round, close at 8 p. m., except on Saturday, when they shall remain open until 10 p. m., and on Sunday, when they shall close at noon. In some cases the proprietors are against them, but last night three delegations appeared at the meeting of the union and pledged their support. The new regulations will not materially affect the all-night shops down town.

HEROIC WORK OF N. Y. POLICEMEN

New York, May 26.—Prompt and heroic work by two policemen, one of whom was so badly burned that he was crazed by the pain, saved the lives of several women and children, who had been caught in a burning building in Fulton street, Brooklyn, at an early hour today. When the police and firemen reached the scene, women and children were at the windows of the building calling for help. Policeman James Haren entered the building and on the top floor found Mrs. Howard Murray unconscious. He carried her to a window and then succumbed, having been burned about the face and hands. The pain from the burns crazed him and he had to be placed in a straight jacket at the hospital. In the meantime policemen and firemen had rescued the other women and children, who were asleep when the fire broke out.

"GET-RICH-QUICK" MAN TELLS OF HIS DEALS WITH OFFICIALS

John J. Ryan Explains How He Secured Protection For a Time From Postoffice Authorities.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 26.—Joseph H. Johns, who is charged with complicity in the Miller-Ryan postal scandal, was arrested at Rockville last night and will arrive at Terre Haute at 11:30 this morning. He will at once be arraigned before United States Commissioner Higgins.

Cincinnati, May 26.—John J. Ryan, whose confessions caused the arrest of D. V. Miller, assistant attorney general of the postoffice department at Washington, and of Joseph M. Johns, prosecuting attorney of Parke county, at Rockville, Ind., operated his "get rich quick" turf investment concern from here and from St. Louis and ran winter races at Newport, Ky. Other warrants have been issued as a result of the investigation of the postoffice inspectors. Ryan is here now and says:

"I was sore because I heard others doing business like mine, stood in with the postoffice department by giving up $25,000, and I felt that those who were standing in with the department were behind the investigation so as to get me out of the way." After returning from Washington to St. Louis, last November, Ryan says he got a telegram from Attorney Johns of Rockville that Johns could be of service to him with the department at Washington, and later Ryan and Johns met in Terre Haute. There, Ryan says, Johns explained how close he was to Miller, and how Miller had accepted a $2000 job at the postoffice department at Washington with the idea that the job had certain trimmings."

Ryan declared Johns asked $5000 to get from Miller a letter from the attorney general's office, showing Ryan was entitled to use the mails. After a little dickering, Ryan says, Johns came down to $2500, and the proposition was accepted. A proposition to pay $2000 for literature so worded it would pass muster if it was ever taken up in the mails, was later accepted.

Ryan asserts Johns delivered the letter and literauture to him Dec. 16. Ryan says he gave Johns $1100 cash and checks, dated Dec. 17, one for $2000 and one for $1400.

Then Ryan says everything went along smoothly until the trouble of Feb. 9. A week later a fraud order was issued against him, and Ryan says an effort for another shake down was put on foot, but he would not stand for it. He says he received more telegrams from Johns. Ryan says he preserved all the telegrams and letters.

WILD TORNADOES CONTINUE THEIR DEADLY WORK IN IOWA

Vicious Wind Tore a Path 250 Feet Wide Through Monroe County, Killing Two and Injuring Many.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, May 26.—A tornado in Monroe county, and in the southwestern part of Mahaska county last night, resulted in the death of two persons, fatal injury to seven, and minor injuries to a number of others. Coming from the southeast, the tornado swept a path 250 feet wide, first striking a mining settlement on the Chicago & Northwestern. At West Buxton the tornado destroyed several buildings. The dead:

GEORGIA BLAKEY.
HERBERT RHODES.

Partial list, fatally injured: Addison Rhodes, Miss Rhodes, John Blakey, and Mrs. John Blakey.

Owing to the breaking of wires it was impossible to secure adequate medical aid for several hours and then it was extremely difficult. Rain which fell in torrents, following the tornado, increased the distress.

Glenwood, Iowa, May 26.—A tornado struck the state hospital for feebleminded at this place last night. Two persons, Maggie Betnes, aged 11, and Hazel Wright, aged 10, were killed. Eleven were injured, but all will recover. Theold dormitory building and power house were blown down.

All the buildings were damaged more or less. Local physicians went to the scene from Des Moines to assist in taking care of the injured. Wires are down and details are meager.

Abilene, Kans., May 26.—A cloudburst struck the northern part of this county last night. Great damage to crops was done. One-third of this city is flooded No lives were lost.

Omaha, May 26.—A heavy rain and wind storm early today caused some damage in Omaha. An engine pulling the Union Pacific fast mail, eastbound, was derailed by the soft tracks, blocking westbound trains. Several houses were unroofed. No one is reported hurt.

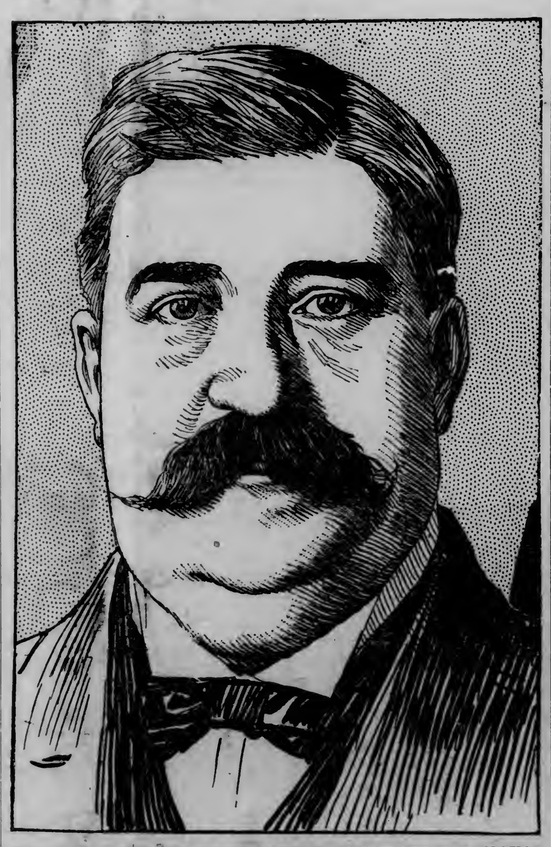
Lincoln, Neb., May 26.—A special to the Star from Hastings, Neb., says: A tornado struck Hastings early today, wrecking many residences and damaging several business blocks. No deaths are reported.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, May 26.—A semi-cloudburst visited this county this morning. Three and a half inches of water fell and much damage was done by flood. Penn college was damaged by lightning.

A FARCE AT LOUISVILLE

Democratic Primary Held Endorsed Only By One Faction.

Louisville, May 26.—Under conditions bordering on the farcical, the polls opened at 6 o'clock this morning to receive votes in a Democratic primary for city and county officers, which was called off by one faction of the Democrats and endorsed by another. Policemen and tellers were on duty at each polling place, but owing to the uncertainty existing as to the legality of the election, the attendance of voters was small. Nearly every saloonkeeper in the city opened opened his place of business as usual, but at 9 o'clock the police, acting on orders of Mayor Grainger, closed all saloons and arrested a number of proprietors. The saloon men, in opening, acted on a ruling by Judge McCann in the police court, who recognized the state committee and announced that the primary was not legal and that the saloons could remain open. Early this morning, however, Mayor Garinger issued a proclamation ordering all saloons closed and insisted on its enforcement.



WILLIAM S. DEVERY, INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK CITY.

WILLIAM S. DEVERY, ex-chief of police of New York, who recently accepted an independent nomination for mayor of that city, is one of the most picturesque characters of Gotham. He is at present directing all his batteries against Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany, who is responsible for his exclusion from the inner councils of the "Hall," to which he had been chosen. Devery does not hope to be elected, but the most thoughtful politicians admit that his candidature may have an important bearing upon the result of the election in the fall.

PROMINENT MEN

Will Speak at Meeting In Aid of Jews.

New York, May 26.—Grover Cleveland has telegraphed to the committee in charge that he will be present at the mass meeting tomorrow evening at Carnegie hall in aid of the Jews who suffered by the Kishineff massacre.

Mayor Low will preside. Among those who will speak in addition to Mr. Cleveland and the mayor will be Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn; President Jacob Schurman of Cornell university; the Rev. Robert S. McArthur, Bishop Potter and Archbishop Farley.

REPORTS ARE DENIED.

St. Petersburg, May 26.—An explicit denial appears in today's Official Messenger of the allegation that Interior Minister Von Plumhe sent a confidential letter to the governor of Bessarabin shortly before the anti-Semitic outbreak at Kishineff, in which he referred to the possibility of disorders there and the steps to be taken to suppress them. The paper says the reports were inventions.

A GRAPHIC STORY OF AUTOMOBILE HORROR

The Strain on the Drivers Was Most Agonizing.

Conduct of the Authorities Was Incredible.

London, May 26.—Joseph Pennell, the artist and writer, has sent a most graphic description of the first stage of the Paris-Madrid automobile race to the Daily Chronicle from Chartres.

After describing the assembling of the crowds and how, finally, the racers were seen coming from the top of a hill, he continues:

"As the cars fel,—there is no other word for it—down the slopes and approached the narrow bridge, jumped with a bound across and flew with a scream up the rise beyond, one could see by the twitch of the wheels, not half of which was caused by the road, how agonizing was the strain on the diver, forced to make his way through the endless, uncontrolled crowds which littered the road from Paris to Bordeaux. Much as one may esteem the broad-minded views of the French government in encouraging the motor industry, the government's neglect to protect the course was criminal and nothing else. Though on the streets of eight kilometers between Chartres and the first village we were from 5000 to 10,000 people and 500 to 1000 cars, no attempt was made to control the crowds, mostly made up of peasants and people from Paris who knew nothing about automobiles. The horse-drawn traffic was stopped during the race, but the fools on bicycles and the imbeciles on motors careened about and drew up anywhere all over the road and only escaped killing themselves and the racing men by the sheer dumb luck which is said to protect drunken men, children and fools. Yet people wonder why accidents happen. The conduct of the military authorities was incredible. From Chartres to the narrow bridge at the foot of the hill the road was kept by a regiment of infantry and some gendarmes, and though pedestrians were not permitted to cross the bridge, but had to pass through the stream below, thus making a jam at both ends of the bridge, ordinary motor cars and motor cycles were allowed free passage, of which they took such advantage that one of the racing cars was stopped dead in order that a person on an ordinary car might crawl over.

As for the motor cycles in the race, they were simply used near Chartres as pacing machines by any stray scorcher who wanted to take them on. Measures for preserving the safety of the public were either non-existent or of the most ridiculous character.

Mr. Pennell then describes the scenes at the headquarters at Chartres and the appearance and often hysterical demeanor of the drivers who were out of the race, and says:

"Further up the street was another car with a huge gash in the tire of one wheel, the other tire down, and the whole twisted and bent, in the hands of a dozen workmen. Walking away therefrom was a being with a part of a cap over one ear and part of a pair of goggles over the other, plastered with mud and oil, in rags and tatters of what had once been a suit of clothes. It opened its mouth and said in a voice choked with tears, and in the American language: 'I do not mind breaking down again, but it makes me so very angry.'

"It was Mr. Vanderbilt and he had been in a ditch."

TWENTIETH CENTURY LIMITED MAKES A REMARKABLE RUN

Covers a Distance of 307 Miles In 292 Minutes, an Average Speed of 66 Miles an Hour, Equaling the Record of Road.

Cleveland, May 26.—A remarkable run was made by the Twentieth Century Limited over the Lake Shore road between this city and Dune Park, 35 miles east of Chicago yesterday. The distance 307 miles, was made in 292 minutes. The entire distance was covered at a speed averaging sixty-six miles an hour, equaling the record made on this road in 1893, between Chicago and Buffalo. The train reached Cleveland from the East, an hour and thirty-two minutes late. Between Toledo and Cleveland, 108 miles, the run was made in one hour and forty-five minutes. The grade for six miles out of Cleveland is up and there are a number of slowdowns along the route. At intervals the speed between Toledo and Elkhart was ninety miles an hour. Into Elkhart, the train was but fourteen minutes late, and the entire time that it was late out of Cleveland was made up before Dune Park was reached. Other bursts of unusual speed were: Sixteen miles between Kendalville and Ligonier, Ind., at the rate of seventy-eight miles an hour, thirty-two miles from Kendallville to Goshen, Ind., at the rate of eighty miles an hour; six miles between Archbold and Stryker at ninety-seven miles an hour. The train got into Chicago at 5:45 a. m. on time. There were four Pullman cars to the train all well filled. The locomotive used east of Toledo was the the "fast type" and that west of Toledo one of the big ten wheelers.

INTENDED TO SHOOT PRESIDENT

Walla Walla, May 26.—Joseph Becker, a radical Socialist, is in the city jail here on suspicion of having intended to kill President Roosevelt yesterday. The episode was kept quiet until after the president's departure. Becker is accused of having remarked in Pendleton, Ore., last week, that he had but one bullet for President Roosevelt and another for Emperor William of Germany. He left for Walla Walla with a Winchester, and his Pendleton partner, Pat Kine followed him here notifying the police. Becker was located working in a butcher shop. He was arrested and on being sweated disclosed the location of his rifle, which was placed away in a farmer's barn along the line of march. Becker is a Swiss. The police here think that a tragedy was narrowly averted.

M'GOVERN ASKS A POSTPONEMENT

New York, May 26.—Terry McGovern will not be in condition to fight Abe Attel at Fort Erie on Memorial day, and Sam Harris, his manager, has asked Manager Hermann of the Canadian club for a two weeks' postponement.

McGovern, who has been training here, has been ailing since Friday. He did not work Saturday or Sunday. Feeling better yesterday, he went out for a spin. After going a few miles he broke down completely and was scarcely able to get back to his quarters. He sent for a physician, who said McGovern was suffering from malaria and would have to stop training.

Manager Harris says he can send him to Mount Clemens and get him in condition to fight two weeks after next Saturday if he can get the match put off until that time.

BET $1500 TO $1000 ON RELIANCE

New York, May 26.—Not a possible chance for the America's cup is conceded to the Shamrock III by a yacht owner and member of the New York Yacht club, who has wagered $1500 to $1000 that the Reliance will win in one, two, three order. David Barrie, Sir Thomas Lipton's commercial manager in this country, took the bet. Mr. Barrie was somewhat astonished when the American, in discussing the chances of the yachts, made the bold statement that Shamrock III would not take one of the series of the races, but when the offer was made to back the opinion at the odds quoted, the wager was promptly covered. Mr. Barrie acknowledged that his wager had been made, but refused to name the member of the New York Yacht club whose money he expects to win.

ST. PETERSBURG JEWS FEARFUL

Berlin, May 26.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Lokal Anzeiger confirms the news that the Jews in that city are in fear that similar outrages to those which occurred at Kishineff may occur in the Russian capital during the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the foundation of St. Petersburg, which will be held on May 29. All the Jews who are possessed of means are preparing to go to Finland, while the poor Jews are panic-stricken. The authorities hope to avoid rioting by diverting the attention of the masses with free shows at the theaters and other entertainments.

But if You Have Kidney, Liver or Bladder Trouble, You Will Find the Great Remedy Swamp-Root, Just What You Need.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the d hese most important organs.
when your kidneys are weak or o you can understand how quickly body is affected, and how every to fail to do its duty.
If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking te famous new discovery, Dr. Kilmer's wamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys re well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

(Swamp-Root is pleasant to take.)

Doctors Prescribe Swamp-Root.

Gentlemen:—"I have prescribed that wonderful remedy for kidney and bladder complaints, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, with most beneficial effect and know of many cures by its use. These patients have kidney trouble, as diagnosed by other physicians, and treated without benefit. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root effected a cure. I am a liberal man and accept a specific wherever I find it, in an accepted school or out of it. For desperate cases of kidney and bladder complaint under treatment with unsatisfactory results I turn to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root with most flattering results. I shall continue to prescribe it, and from personal observation state that Swamp-Root has great curative properties."

L. Bentow Smith M.D.

276 9th St., Borough of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, and if permitted to continue, much suffering with fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable; makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; makes your head ache and back ache, causes indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, makes you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising, about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

No matter how many doctors you have tried—no matter how much money you may have spent on other medicines, you really owe it to yourself to at least give Swamp-Root a trial. Its staunchest friends today are those who had almost given up hope of ever becoming well again.

If you the already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Sample Bottle of Swamp-Root Sent Free by Mail.

EDITORIAL NOTE—If you have the slightest symptoms of kidney or bladder troubles, or if there is a trace of it in your family history, send at once to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who will gladly send you by mail, immediately and without cost to you, a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, and a book containing many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. In writing, be sure to say that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Daily Herald.

BUSY TIME AHEAD

Dr. Forbes Has Many Dates to Fill Before Leaving.

Will Leave For Philadelphia Thursday of Next Week.

Dr. Robert Forbes will leave a week from Thursday for Philadelphia, to take up the new duties that have devolved upon him there. Some idea of whether or not a presiding elder has anything to do may be gathered from his itinerary for the meantime. He left today for Minneapolis, and Thursday he will dedicate a new church at Ogilvie, Minn. Friday he will address the inmates of the state reform school at Red Wing, Saturday he will give the Memorial day address at Alexandria. He will return here Sunday to give the graduating sermon for the normal school in the afternoon. In the morning he will preach at the Endion church in the East End, and in the evening he will preach at Asbury church, in West Duluth. Monday night he will lecture at Mora Minn., Tuesday night he will lecture at Elk River, and Wednesday evening he has a lecture date at Two Harbors. After this breathing spell he will leave Thursday for Philadelphia.

EXPEDITION ORGANIZED

To Search For Buried Treasure In Southern Texas.

Guthrie, Okla., May 26.—The story of an immense fortune, the search for which an expedition is now being formde in Oklahoma, dates back to the early part of the nineteenth century, when it is claimed Aaron Burr conceived the idea of invading Mexico. The exact year is given as 1813.

The leader of this expedition now in progress of formation is W. S. Glenn, an old pioneer and buffalo hunter, who recently brought suit against the United States to recover $20,000 in the court of claims for 5000 buffalo hides which were destroyed by the Comanche Indians in a raid in Southern Texas in 1866. He has with him the maps and outlines showing where the treasure is located in the side of a creek called Lannan, in Southern Texas. If his documents count for aught, there is but little doubt that $120,000 in gold is buried on this creek. He expects to start his company in the near future.

For years Glenn has been collecting evidence to introduce into court on which to secure the money value of the buffalo hides destroyed by the Indians. In this work he has associated almost entirely with Indians, plainsmen and other pioneers, from whom he has secured much additional evidence regarding the secretion of the lost treasure. He first heard the story many years ago from the Indians, but knowing their superstitions, he did not place great credit in their tale until in recent years. He is now confident that the money is hidden in the bank of the creek and expects to return with the fortune.

It is stated that the plans of Aaron Burr became so formidable and so near realization that Gen. Herria, an officer in the Mexican army and acting for the Mexican government, offered to give Gen. Wilkinson, in command of a division of the American army, a reward of $300,000 if he would defeat Burr's plans. The provisions of the contract were that the American commander should receive $120,000 down, the rest to be paid when he had accomplished the task of defeating Burr.

Gen. Herria dispatched a party with a pack train to take the first payment of the reward from San Antonio to Nachatosch, where Gen. Wilkinson had his headquarters. It was a long and dangerous trip, through a region infested with robbers and bandits, and before the train had covered half the distance it was attacked by a band of organized robbers. The pack train and escare were defeated and the money stolen. The news of the robbery soon reached the headquarters of Gen. Wilkinson, who immediately sent a company of American soldiers in pursuit. At the head of Lannan creek the band of robbers was overtaken, and realizing that they would lose the booty, they buried it in the bank of the creek. A running fight between the soldiers and robbers followed, several being killed on both sides. The warfare against this organized band was then continued by the Americans until the gang was demoralized and the remnants forced to leave the country.

Although not knowing the exact location of the buried gold, Glenn believes his maps will guide him to the spot. He has issued a general invitation to parties who might desire to join him on such a trip, and now has a number of recruits. He says he is certain the gold is still there, because every member of the organized robber gang was killed. Game is plentiful during this season of the year in that locality, and he believes the trip will be one of great pleasure as well as adventure.

SECURED A JURY

Members of the Second Tanko Jury Obtained at Noon.

Took Three Hours to Land Eleventh Impartial Juror.

The jury in the second trial of the Tanko murder case was not complete until this noon, when the twelfth juror was sworn. The drawing of jurors commenced at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and up to adjournment of court ten jurors were secured.

It took three hours this morning to get the eleventh juror. Forty-nine jurors in all were examined before the twelfth man was accepted. The special venire of forty jurors issued last Saturday was exhausted yesterday afternoon and another special venire for twenty-five jurors was issued yesterday afternoon, fifteen answering the summons this morning, five being excused, and five of those to be summoned not being found.

The jury in the Tanko case for the second trial is composed as follows: Alexander H. Domaid, 23 Sixty-third avenue west; George H. Cannon, 11 Fourth avenue east; Jacob P. Pulaski, 131 West Ninth street; Andrew Andren, 1904 West Second street; B. C. Church, 5217 London road; W. A. Bennett, 229 Eleventh avenue east; Henry Folz, Superior street; W. B. Doig, Glen Avon; Robert D. Haig, 230 Sixteenth avenue east; John W. Bowers, 316 East Fourth street; John M. J. Burbank, 102 Fifty-eighth avenue west; Gustav Hinz, Sixth avenue east and Fourth street.

The triers selected for the trial were Judge Edson, Judge Ayer and George R. Laybourn.

The state began introducing its evidence this afternoon.

A large number of jurors excused from consideration of the case this morning stated that they had serious objections to the death penalty in this state, and did not believe that they would convict a man of murder in the first degree, no matter how strong the evidence indicating premeditated murder, knowing that the punishment on conviction would be death.

AT WEST DULUTH

A sensational attempt to commit suicide occurred last evening in West Duluth.

Charles H. Greve, Jr., who resides with his parents at their home, 129 North Fifty-sixth avenue, was calling at the home of the Misses Campbell, 214 Fifty-seventh avenue west. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Greve and the two daughters were seated about the table in the sitting room talking, when Greve, without warning, pulled a 32-caliber revolver from his pocket and attempted to aim it at his head. As he raised it from beneath the table it was discharged, the bullet entering his right hand and passing through it.

Greve then rose to his feet and again attempted to point the gun at his head. This time Mr. Campbell interfered, knocking the young man's arm up and diverting the bullet. Mr. Campbell then disarmed the young man and summoned medical aid. Dr. Olson answered the call and a quieting potion was administered, after which Greve was taken to his home.

The news of the shooting quickly spread and Lieut. Briggs called at the home of the young man, but upon being promised that no further attempt would be made, and knowing that the young man had no arms or ammunition, he did not take him into custody.

"The boy was intoxicated when the affair occurred," said Mr. Greve, the father of the young man, today. "There was no question of money matters concerned in it. He was infatuated with the young lady, and having become more or less intoxicated during the day, he simply did not know what he was doing."

Greve declared his intention of committing suicide several times during the day in the presence of witnesses, but no attention was paid to the threats. At one time he declared his intention of cutting his throat. He also visited Wieland & Wade's hardware store in an attempt to purchase a revolver and some cartridges. Mr. Wade had heard of the threats the young man had made and refused to sell him the revolver. He then tried to borrow one at several places and finally succeeded, securing one from an acquaintance who had not heard of his intentions.

Mr. Greve, the father of the young man, is well known in West Duluth, owning considerable property here and also a ranch in Dakota. The young man was formerly employed in the fire department, running engine No. 8. Since leaving the department he has been employed in papering and painting the different houses owned by his father in West Duluth.

It is reported by several young men in West Dulutth with whom he was well acquainted that he had been infatuated with Miss Campbell for several months, and upon not receiving the encouragement he wished, had become despondent.

FENCE IN PASTURES.

Complaints Against Presumption of Cow Owners.

A number of complaints have been made to the West Duluth police of the manner in which the vacant lots in the outskirts of the city are being fenced off for pasture lands by milk dealers and small truck farmers.

It is claimed that thousands of acres have been appropriated in this manner by those who do not pay rent for the ground thus fenced in and have no right farther than the right of a greater amount of self-assurance than their neighbors. Citizens who keep cows to supply milk for private consumption only are the principal complainants. They claim that all the suitable pasture lands to the western part of the city have been enclosed in this manner and ask the police to take some action to remove the fences.

In one case a farmer living in the neighborhood of New Duluth fenced in a large tract of land for pasture. Some cows belonging to his neighbors wandered into the field through a hole in the fence and he refused to allow them to leave until the owner had paid him $1 a head for the pasturing of the animals.

Even land that has been platted for streets, it is claimed, is thus enclosed.

The manner in which cattle wander about the streets is claimed to be largely due to this condition of affairs as small owners of cattle living in the outlying parts of the city have no place to send them to pasture.

Jones Leaves Sixty Millions to His Family.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 26.—The will of Benjamin P. Jones, the well known steel manufacturer, was filed for probate before Register George H. Stengel late yesterday afternoon. No estimate is made of the value of the estate, but it is said by those who should know to be not less than $60,000,000.

The will is dated January 14, 1902, and named as executors and trustees are Major George McLaughlin, Willis S. King and B. J. Jones, Jr. The widow is to get the insome from the bulk of the estate, the balance going to the four children. At Mrs. Jones' death the income from her estate is to be divided equally each year among the children. These trusts are to continue until the death of the last of the four children, when the principal is to be divided equally among all the testator's grand children.

CLEANING DEVICE

Attracts Crowds of People to English Furnishing House.

With Its Aid House Cleaning Is Made Easy.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The sidewalk in front of a large furnishing house in Nottingham, England, is daily blocked by crowds of people watching through the windows a new house cleaning device," says Frank W. Mahin, United States consul, in a report given out today at the state department. "The first inquiry," continues Consul Mahin, "of the surprised and admiring spectator usually is 'Is that an American idea?'

"So far as is known here, there is nothing like this cleaner outside of England—not even in America—for the firm (Smart & Brown) exhibiting it informs me that it recently received from a Chicago dry goods house an inquiry for a cleaning device on this same general principle. The system was invented by H. C. Booth, of London, and last year was taken over by a company which experimented with it in various metropolitan hotels, theaters and other public places. Lately it has been tested in railway carriages and now, its practicability being assured, agencies are being established throughout the British provinces.

"The apparatus consists, in the first place, of a machine composed of a two to four horse power motor—oil or electric—and an air pump, serving to maintain an 'exhaust' of several pounds to the square inch. The machine may be portable, on wheels, or stationary. To it is attached a filter—the dust receptacle—a tightly closed metallic vessel, with a capacity of a peck or more. From the filter extends a one and a half inch rubber hose, which may be of any desired length up to about 700 feet. The hose terminates in a 'cleaner' or 'renovator,' which is a tube flattened out at the end into a kind of long slit. This rubbed over the carpet or up and down the cloth covering of settees or chairs, from which it quickly sucks all the dust, extracting it not only from the surface, but also from the body of the substance and from underneath it—the underfelt being thus cleaned. Not a particle of dust can be detected if the carpet is then beaten. Indeed, in an experiment made in this city with a carpet returned as clean from a power beater, a considerable amount of dust was extracted by the vacuum process. The severe test of sprinkling a carpet with flour and thoroughly rubbing it in has been made, the vacuum cleaner removing every particle of the flour. No dust is raised in a room. All is sucked through the hose into the filter, whence it is composed of many deleterious substances. The pile and color of a carpet are restored by this process, and it is claimed that there is no injurious effect whatever. In a similar way, walls may be cleaned of dust, the cleaner being a brush of horseshoe shape, with an exhaust tube in the center.

"In hotels, theaters, large business houses and the like, it is proposed to install permanent stationary plants, so that cleaning can take place daily, thus practically abolishing sweeping. Such a plant would be in the basement, with an iron pipe of small diameter leading to fixed points on each floor. At these points flexible hose would be attached, and the plant would be operated, collecting the dust in the basement. No skilled operators are required. Railroad and street cars, vehicles and ships' cabins and saloons could all be cleaned daily by stationary plants.

"To clean residences, the portable machine can be placed in the yard or street and the hose extended into the different rooms. It is stated that the carpets, tapestry, upholstered furniture, mattresses and bed clothing can all be cleansed of dust in a day, one man cleaning six or eight rooms. There are half a dozen different renovators attachable to the hose, adapted for carpets, chairs, walls or bedding, as the case may be.

"Nothing is said about cleaning clothing, but there is no perceptible reason why the process would not serve that purpose. The sanitary feature of this mode of cleaning, is that it removes dust from the house and destroys it, is dwelt upon. The London Lancet considers the system of sufficient importance to particularly describe and approve it. The machines and apparatus are at present only leased and in no case sold by the cleaner company."

MRS. DURKEE TO WED.

Rich Widow to Be Married to Singer.

Paris, May 26.—Mrs. Joseph Durkee, the rich and pretty widow from New Orleans, whose husband was lost on the Bourgogne, is engaged to be married to an Englishman named Hardythe. Mrs. Durkee has lived in Paris for the past two years and has taken an active part in the society doings of the American colony. She met Hardythe at musicales given chiefly by Sebastian, Schlesinger, herself and Miss Fanny Reed.

Both being musical, the friendship quickly ripened into love. Hardythe is described in Tout Paris and in Bottin-Mondal as being a lyric artist—in other words, a singer. He is a professor of vocal music and has a villa near Dinard. The wealthy American widow is considered to be a great catch for the music teacher.

Last year Mrs. Durkee gained some notoriety in literary circles by claiming to be the author of two books well known in America—"Eve, the Victorious," and "The Triumphant American." Mrs. Durkee subsequently apologized to the real author, "Pierre de Coulevain," whose name is Mlle. Fabre. The law presumes that after seven years a man who has been drowned is really dead. Hence, as this period has almost elapsed, Mrs. Durkee will soon carry out her engagement with Hardythe.

Her fiance brings to his salons more celebrities than if he were in the social swim. At a musical given since his engagement he has had present the Infanta Eulalie, Prince and Princess de Lachinge, Prince Dela Rocca and numerous counts, countesses and barons. The future Mme. Hardythe will not be lonely for lack of titled acquaintances.

The Beginning of Trouble.

A disordered stomach may cause no end of trouble. When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged and the liver and kidneys congested, causing numerous diseases, the most fatal of which are painless, therefore the more to be dreaded. The important thing is to restore the stomach and liver to a healthy condition, and for this purpose no better preparation can be used than Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. TO OBSERVE THE DAY

Union Clothing and Shoe Stores to Close Saturday.

Is First Time Holiday Has Fallen on a Saturday.

Most if not all of the union clothing and shoe stores of the city will close up all of Saturday to observe Memorial day.

This is in accordance with an agreement entered into a couple of years ago between the Retail Clerks' union and the union clothing and shoe dealers of the city. The agreement was to observe six holidays in the year by closing all day—New Year's day, Memorial day, Fourth of July, Labor day, Thanksgiving day and Christmas.

This is the first time that any of these holidays have happened to fall on a Saturday, and this year both Memorial day and the Fourth of July come that way. There is no objection to the latter holiday, but one of two of the stores have exhibited some objections to closing this coming Saturday.

"There are only two stores that have entered objections," said Victor Johnson, president of the union, this morning, "and we expect them to close. The stores have all observed the day for two years, and I do not believe any of them will fail this time.

"All it means is that Saturday will be pushed back a day. Instead of keeping open Saturday night until 10:30 o'clock, we will keep open Friday night until that hour, and Saturday's business will come in on that day. We do not believe that it means the loss of any business to any merchant of the city."

SUGAR DEALERS PROTEST.

Washington, May 26.—The secretary of the interior has received by wire, a protest from sugar dealers of San Francisco against the award of the contract for supplying sugar for the Indian service to a New York firm. The award was made because the New York bid was the lowest on its face, but the San Francisco dealers claim that with freight added it is not the lowest. The complaint will be investigated.

OBSERVES THE DAY.

Great Eastern Honors the Country's Martyred Dead.

The Great Eastern clothing house will be closed all day Saturday, Memorial day, in order that the occasion may be fittingly celebrated by its employes and the public.

While Saturday is a heavy business day in the clothing line, as well as in many others, the sentiment of the management is pronounced for a proper observation of the day that has been set apart for paying a tribute to the dead heroes of the war of 1861-65, and even at a considerable sacrifice it was decided to observe the occasion by closing the store all day.

Mr. S. Burrows, proprietor of the store, has expressed himself as being very strongly in favor of a proper observance of the day.

"The spirit of commercialism, in this materialistic age," he said, "is altogether too apt to overcome and submerge the proper spirit of patriotism that should actuate the heart of every true American citizen. The heroes of the civil and Spanish-American wars, to whose memory we pause on Saturday to pay a heartfelt tribute, gave up years and finally their lives for their country, and it should be a small tribute, paid without the slightest hesitation, to suspend our business for one day in the year in their honor."

WALKING IN VOGUE

Street Car Service Is Crippled During the Noon Hour.

Hot Pinion Knocks Out Big Engine at Powerhouse.

Walking was very fashionable today among the street car patrons, even though it might not have been what would be termed popular.

A hot pinion caused a breakdown in the big engine at the power house at Eleventh avenue west, about 10:30 o'clock, and from that time on until well into the afternoon the street car service was first entirely suspended and then materially reduced.

The cars were all stopped for nearly an hour shortly before noon, and then some of them moved spasmodically, in a manner puzzling to the uninitiated. This was because the small reserve engine had been started up, and the power was being distributed over the system.

Much of the trouble came about the noon hour, when thousands were thinking of going home to lunch. Many waited for a considerable time on the street corners for their usual cars, some of them got their cars and were then held up on the way home. The result was that a lot of people had invigorating walks that did them good, whether they approved of them or not, and that sharpened their appetites for lunch.

The small engine, not long after noon, took up the work of propelling the cars and did the best it could. Meanwhile repairs on the large engine, which was not seriously hurt, were in progress, and it was expected that they would be completed this afternoon.

Personal Injury Cases.

The personal injury case of Eliza Brahaney against the village of Hibbing, went to the jury in Judge Cant's room at noon today. The action was brought by the plaintiff to recover $5000 for injuries alleged to have been received in falling through a defective sidewalk. At the first trial the plaintiff was awarded a verdict of $1000, but the defendant secured a new trial.

The personal injury action of Charles Schiller, administrator against the Duluth Iron Range Railway company is noted for trial in Judge Cant's room this afternoon.

TO DESTROY THEIR RIVALS

Real Motive of Politicians Behind the Postoffice Scandals.

Chicago, May 26.—Walter Wellman, in a Washington special to the Record-Herald, says:

In the guise of reform, a plot to punish and destroy political and official rivals and to wreak personal revenges. This is the real scandal in the postoffice department. Compared with it the other scandal—the alleged wrongdoings of various officials with which the newspapers have been filled for several months is of minor "orgie of corruption" in the postoffice has not been uncovered, and by this time it is fair to conclude it does not exist, and never did exist. There is the best of authority for saying that up to date the investigation set on foot by the instriguers who have been trying to pull down other people, no matter at what cost or by what methods, has resulted in a water haul so far as any criminal acts by officials are concerned.

Small irregularities, some extravagance, a long string of expense accounts and a great deal of taking care of politics and personal friends through appointments, have been unearthed. But the "seething mass of fraud and robbery" which was alleged to exist in the department has not been discovered, for the simple reason that it was not there to be discovered.

The chief conspirator in this so-called effort to correct abuses in the postoffice department is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. Supporting him are those two shining lights in the cause of reform and good government, Senators Quay and Penrose, of Pennsylvania.

Their principal instrument is First Assistant Postmaster General Robert J. Wynne, whose appointment was secured through Senator Lodge.

The principal aims of the conspiracy are:

To drive out of the public service Machen and Beavers, officials who fell under the displeasure of Mr. Wynne and refused to bow the knee to his ambition to be boss of the postoffice department.

To smirch the administration of Charles Emory Smith, former postmaster general, and thus satisfy the longings of his political enemies, Quay and Penrose.

To involve Perry Heath, formerly assistant postmaster general, and through him, if possible, his political sponsor, Mark Hanna, who is most cordially hated by Lodge and Quay.

To make so much trouble for Postmaster General Payne that he may be driven from office, leaving Lodge in possession of the field as President Roosevelt's chief political adviser and affording an opportunity for the promotion of Lodge's man Wynne to the postmaster generalship, or the appointment of some other tool of Lodge, if Wynne should not be regarded as big enough for the place.

WERE NEAR SOUTH POLE.

Report on Progress of Antarctic Exploration Expedition.

San Francisco, May 26.—Lieut. B. H. Shakelton, R. N., has arrived here on the steamer Ventura from Australia on his way to England to make a report upon the progress of Antarctic exploration expedition of the Royal Geological society. The ship Discovery sailed from England Nov. 16, 1901, in quest of scientific information. Three of the party on board have succeeded in getting nearer the south pole than has ever been done before. These men are Captain R. F. Scott, in command of the expedition; Lieut. Shakelton and Mr. Woolson. They were 94 days on the ship with the temperature throughout at 50 degrees below zero. The most important discovery made so far, is that of a chain of mountains from 7000 to 9000 feet high extending for 200 miles and it is believed to the south pole.

CUPID AMONG THE INDIANS

Love Is Interfering With Study at an Oklahoma School.

Washington, May 26.—According to reports to the Indian bureau, Cupid has designs upon an Indian school in Oklahoma. The children of Rainy Mountain school, forty miles from Anadarko, spend their time in the exchange of languishing glances and in billing and cooing when they should be learning to read and write. Charles W. Dickson, a supervisor of education, in a report to Commissioner Jones, tells of conditions at the school. The pupils are 108 in number, sixty boys and forty-eight girls. All are children of the Kiowa band. Originally, Mr. Dickson says, he found the Kiowas were not only indifferent to educational advantages, but some of them showed decided hostility. Of late, however, their feeling against the school has been overcome, and now many of them compel their children to attend. The supervisor deplores the fact that few of the boys and girls can be kept in school after they reach the ages of 15 and 16 years, as nearly all of them get married. He says in the last vacation the school lost between twenty and thirty pupils in this way. They are subject to no parental restraint whatever, which the supervisor thinks is a matter of much regret, as many of them are bright and promising. The difficulties of the teachers in dealing with the Kiowas are increased by the fact that their incomes from their lands are far in excess of their needs. There is a brass band at the school, the leader of which is a woman, the principal, Mrs. Cora M. Dunn. It is composed of forty Indian boys. Secretary Hitchcock visited the school recently and heard the band. He complimented the boys.

The supervisor, Mr. Dickson, also has made a report on the Fort Sill Indian school on the Kiowa and Comanche reservation two miles from Lawton. He states that although the capacity of that school is only 125 pupils, it is crowded with 165-86 boys and 79 girls. Of these all are Comanche fullbloods except six, who are half-bloods. The opening of the Kiowa country to settlement, the supervisor says, will give the school a set-back, as the influx of white settlers has a tendency to give the Indians false notions and thus create a spirit of unrest. In the words of the supervisor, "The coming of the whites created a condition of temporary bewilderment." They have now practically recovered from this and conditions are again as they were before the opening. The supervisor finds encouragement from the Comanches, as they are in hearty accord with the school authorities and voluntarily bring their children to school and compel them to attend regularly. He says the dormitories are in a very bad shape and that congress should make an appropriation for new ones. He also recommends that a new laundry and quarters for employes be built.

LAY IT TO CITY

Plumbers' Combine Attributes Higher Prices to Plumbing Ordinance.

Intimate That City Is Getting Dose of Its Own Medicine.

Sizzling interest is manifested in the council's declaration of war against alleged excessive charges of the local plumbing combine.

Citizens say the aldermen are engaged in a noble cause, and if they break the combine by awarding city plumbing contracts to concerns from Superior, Minneapolis or St. Paul, the individual builders will follow the lead and go elsewhere for their work.

Proprietors of plumbing establishments say the aldermen are simply unable to swallow a nostrum of their own mixture—intimating that the new plumbing ordinance is the sole cause of the high prices for city work which the aldermen declare are exorbitant and a mild form of robbery.

In the meantime the board of fire commissioners, acting on instructions from the council, will advertise the new No. 4 fire hall plumbing contract in the Twin Cities and in West Superior. Duluth plumbers will have the opportunity of bidding again, but it is not known whether or not they will avail themselves of the opportunity.

A master plumber, in discussing the council's action in rejecting local bids for No. 4 fire hall plumbing, says:

"Fully one-half of that new plumbing ordinance introduced by Alderman McEwen and which other aldermen voted for is darn foolishness and absolutely detrimental to the building interests of the city.

"The aldermen should not find fault with the high prices they are being asked to pay for the work at No. 4 fire hall, in view of the fact that the ordinance of their own creation has made that job cost from 30 to 40 per cent more than it would cost before the new ordinance went in effect.

"As for going outside for the work I think they will find that we do the work here just as cheaply as elsewhere. In fact, I think that the job will eventually cost the city more than the amount of the bid rejected last night, for the reason that the wages of journeymen plumbers are advancing, and of course the master plumbers do not propose to pay this advance out of their own pockets."

The city has not had a very successful record in going outside after bids. Several years ago the aldermen decided that the figures of the local job printing combine were excessive in a large contract for printing reports of city officers.

Bids were received from other cities at about half the Duluth bid, but the contract was never awarded and the city officers' reports for that year are still unpublished.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Duluth People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Duluth residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. 'Tis emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Mr. G. Henry Le Sage, of 731 Second street west, with offices at 401 Palladio building, says: "As a result of a cold settling in my kidneys I suffered for a long time with heavy, dull aching pains across the small of my back. Plasters and other remedies seemed to relieve me temporarily but did not remove the trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I determined to try them, and procuring a box at W. A. Abbett's drug store, I used them. A few days sufficed to entirely remove the trouble and since that time I have had no bother at all. I now rest well at nights and rise in the morning feeling refreshed.

RIVAL LOVERS FIGHT.

One Impaled Upon His Antagonist's Pitchfork.

Chicago, May 26.—A fierce duel between rivals for a girl's love, with a club and a pitchfork as weapons, was only ended when J. H. Vicker, a hostler, received a mortal wound in the abdomen from the sharp-pronged weapon wielded by Henry Lamb. Although Lamb escaped, he was so badly beaten as scarcely to be able to drag himself from the scene of the combat.

The fight took place in the stable of Vicker's employer, at 16 Sangamon street, where Vicker was accosted by Lamb. According to Vicker's story, told before he lost consciousness at the county hospital, Lamb accused him of having paid attention to his sweetheart at a dance the previous evening. Vicker ordered Lamb to leave the barn and Lamb seized a club and felled the hostler.

Vicker regained his feet and wrested the club from his assailant, and Lamb thereupon seized a pitchfork lying on the stable floor and resumed the battle. For some time the two men parried desperately, Vicker raining blows on his opponent's head and shoulders, and Lamb striving to impale the hostler on the pitchfork. The duel ended when Lamb, so weak from the punishment he had received as scarcely to be able to stand, succeeded in thrusting the pitchfork into his rival's body.

WHIST AS BAD AS CRAPS.

That Is Opinion of a Georgia Clergyman.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26.—"The woman who plays bridge whist and takes part in a whist congress," exclaimed Dr. Leon Broughton in a sermon at the Baptist tabernacle last Sunday night, "is no better than the negro crap shooter."

Dr. Broughton's attack was provoked by the Southern whist congress composed of society women, which was in session here last week and which occupied considerable space in the Atlanta papers.

"Yes, these women are no better than crap shooters," continued Dr. Broughton, "and they should have been arrested just as the police arrest negroes who are caught shooting craps in back alleys.

"The fact that gambling is in the homes of the wealthy does not make it respectable. The authorities are as much bound to arrest women gamblers in mansions as the crap shooters in the alleys."

DROP TWO GAMES

Winnipeg Smothers the Duluth Aggregation on Victoria Day.

Manager Bryan Still Signing Pitchers—Will Be Home Monday.

	Won.	Lost.	Per Ct.
Grand Forks..	4	0	1,000
Winnipeg..	5	1	.833
Fargo..	3	2	.600
Crookston..	1	3	.250
Superior..	1	4	.200
Duluth..	1	5	.166

The way the wicked impose on good nature is a crime.

In an overly enthusiastic celebration of Victoria day, the Winnipegs took both games yesterday.

Lured by fine weather 10,000 people turned out to see the contests and that helped some, but even at that it was the cruelest, saddest and most blighting day for the Cardinals since the opening.

The Duluth team only made four runs and eight hits in the two games, as against fifteen runs and eighteen hits for the Champions. The afternoon game was a shut-out affair, Corbett, farmed out by the St. Paul team, holding Duluth down to three hits. Gehring twirled a good game for Duluth, but luck was against him. The score was 7 to 0.

Volz, who was to have pitched for Duluth at Winnipeg, was doing great stunts in St. Paul instead and shut out Toledo. Now it is announced that under a new ruling of the protective association of professional baseball clubs he must stay with St. Paul or else revert to the Manchester team of the New England league, from which he came. He is lost to Duluth for good.

The backers of the local club, however, are determined to turn out a winning agregation despite continued hard luck. President Bryan wires from Winnipeg that he has signed Freeman, a pitcher well thought of around the Northern league circuit. He pitched for Cavalier last season and was greatly desired by Winnipeg for this year. It is possible that he may pitch today's game for Duluth.

Crookston beat Fargo yesterday by a score of 7 to 4. Martin pitched for Crookston and allowed Fargo seven scattering hits while Crookston hit Julian and Mehl freely.

Strange as it may seem Superior lost to Grand Forks yesterday, the score being 8 to 3. McCarthy, the new pitcher for the Forks team, showed up well, allowing Superior but four hits. Hutter and Davis did the pitching for Superior.

Tim Keefe will be back in the game tomorrow, President Laxdal having agreed to raise his suspension on that day.

Dellar, signed by Duluth early in the season, and then traded to Crookston for Mueller, has refused to report to Crookston and is now pitching for Bloomington of the Three-Eye league.

Duluth plays the last game of the Winnipeg series this afternoon. Tomorrow will be an open date, unless an exhibition game should be arranged. On Thursday the Cardinals are at Grand Forks for four games, including Memorial day events. In the latter shift Superior will go to Crookston and Winnipeg to Fargo.

Next Monday Duluth will open the season at home with Winnipeg and Superior will open at home with Grand Forks. Fargo will play at Crookston for the first June series.

Mueller merely had an off day yesterday, such as the best of them have at intervals.

SIXTEEN YEARS OF CATARRH

Well Known Massachusetts Woman Cured By Hyomei.

How to cure catarrh has been a problem in medicine for many years that was not solved until the discovery of Hyomei. This remarkable treatment makes it possible for any one to breathe an air at home which is almost identical with that of the Adirondacks, the Carolinas or other health resorts where the air is impregnated with healing balsams from health giving trees and plants.

Simply place a little Hyomei in the inhaler, which comes with every outfit, breathe it occasionally during the day and benefit will be seen after its use for only two or three times, while perseverance for a few days or weeks will effect a complete cure of even the worst case of catarrh.

Mrs. Elvira E. A. Gibson, who holds a responsible position in the great dry goods store of Jordan, Marsh & Co., of Boston, wrote in April: "I had catarrh for twenty years, and the last ten years (all of which time has been passed in this great establishment) I suffered fearfully. One half dozen handkerchiefs per day would be used. It extended to my throat; the use of my tongue was badly affected. I constantly kept in my mouth cardamom seeds, or some such breath purifier. I could not sleep with my mouth closed. I began using Hyomei in December and in two weeks I was entirely—and now, after four months and no return of the disease, I can say, permanently—cured. The head of this firm, Mr. Jordan, endorses this statement."

S. F. Boyce has sold hundreds of Hyomei outfits, consisting of an inhaler, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei, and with every purchase has given his personal guarantee to refund the money if Hyomei did not cure. He will sell the treatment on that plan and every catarrh sufferer ought to take advantage of his fair proposition.

PROFIT IN COTTON

Vanishes When Yield Is Below One-Half Bale an Acre.

May Abandon Cotton Raising For Truck-Gardens In Mississippi.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—With cotton at 10 cents, a proposition to turn what is popularly regarded as the most fertile cotton region in he great cotton state, Mississippi, into a truck-garden and stock raising community is certain to attract attention. Yet Milton Whitney, chief of the bureau of soils of the department of agriculture, believes that the future prosperity of a large portion of the famous Yazoo delta area of Mississippi depends on the abandonment of cotton for other crops.

Mississippi stands second to Texas as a cotton producing state, and native Mississippians are proud of her "two bale" cotton land, lying in the Yazoo delta, and John Sharpe Williams, the eloquent member of congress from that district, once referred in glowing terms in a speech on the floor, to the productive acres of the Yazoo delta. But he omitted to state, and this is a general failing with Mississippians, that only 17 per cent of the delta portion is of the "two bale" class, and even here the average is less than two bales; the remainder is land which produces from half a bale to a bale, or is lost to agriculture in swamp land. Here is a region known as the Yazoo area, covering 420,120 acres, or 656 square miles, taking its name from the Yazoo river. The "delta," which comprises the most fertile land, lies between the Yazoo and Mississippi rivers, with Memphis to the north and Vicksburg to the south, the arable land hugging closely to the river banks, or being found in the higher places in the interior. The remainder is swamp land, 184,380 acres of it, known as the "Sharkey clay," the redemption of which is strongly urged by the bureau of soils, and which, it is predicted, would, when drained, equal the finest cotton producing land in the world, with a yearly capacity of hundreds of thousands of bales.

Nowhere else in the United States, it is believed, is there so great a region devoted exclusively to agriculture—no mining, no stock-raising, no manufacturing—and, strange to say, this region is devoted to one crop—cotton. On the uplands, the Cane hills and the Flat hills, whites and blacks are in about the usual proportion for Mississippi, the farms being cultivated by their owners; in the "delta," the "black belt," are the plantations owned by the whites and rented to thousands of negro tenants. The distinctive method of farm management is the subdivision of the farm or plantation into small tracts or "cuts," which are all under the supervision of a single manager, but are farmed on the share system by colored laborers. A one horse or mule "cut" comprises 12 to 20 acres; a two-horse cut about double that amount. A single family can run the smallest cut, while outside labor must be hired on the larger tract. The owner in each case furnishes all the tools, the work animals and their feed and usually the seed. It is the laborers' duty to furnish subsistence for himself and family and hired hands. First lien on the crop is given to the owner, and a second lien to the merchant furnishing the provisions, the balance, when the crop is sold going to the renter. An acre of land, renting from $3 to $9 per acre, will produce from three-eighths bale to one and one quarter bales, with the cost of cultivation, team and implements about $5 per acre, and the cost of ginning, $2.50 per bale. The yield will give two pounds of seed to one pound of lint, whatever the production. The expense of cultivation is about equal for good and poor lands. Below a yield of one-half bale per acre there is bare profit on the rent system, even with 8-cent cotton, while with the yield of a bale or more there is good profit. In the Cane hills region the yield has shrunk to or below a one-half bale, so that only about 25 per cent of the land is cultivated. The soil experts who have made a systematic study of this areea advise that the cultivation of cotton in the Cane hills region be abandoned, and that alfalfa be raised instead. They find the soil is the same as that in Southern Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, where alfalfa is raised so successfully, and experiments at the New Orleans experiment station show that alfalfa can be successfully raised in this climate. An additional advantage accrues to this region in the fact that stock can be out of doors at least ten months in the year, and the weather is inclement for only a few days of the remaining two months.

In discussing the future of the Yazoo area yesterday, Mr. Whitney stated that the soils of the delta portion that are capable of cultivation lie in narrow strips along the rivers, with an average width of one-half mile to a mile, with three types of soil, the Yazoo sandy loam, the Yazoo loam and the Yazoo clay. The first covers 26,670 acres or about 9 per cent of the delta, and produces about half a bale to the acre; the Yazoo loam, covering 16,080 acres or about 6 per cent, yields from three-fourths of a bale to a bale per acre. The Yazoo clay, covering 45,080 acres or nearly 17 per cent of the delta, yields from one and a third to one and two-thirds bales per acre, or even more under the best methods of cultivation.

"Even with 10 cent cotton," said Mr. Whitney yesterday, "I consider the farmers on the Yazoo sandy loam and Yazoo loam lands would be vastly better off if they would turn their attention to early truck gardening. At present they subsist principally on corn and cotton, and yet their lands, as our field party reports, are admirably adapted to the raising of the finest truck. Trainloads of early vegetables, berries and melons pass their very doors on the Illinois Central, coming from as far away as Texas and destined for Louisville, Cincinnati and Chicago and elsewhere, while they scarcely raise enough truck for home consumption. Experiments have shown that Irish potatoes can be harvested here by June 1 with an approximate profit of $200 per acre, while berries, peas, melons, sweet potatoes and tomatoes and cucumbers, if raised under intensive cultivation, and with adequate and well-chosen fertilizers, would doubtless yield a greater profit."

Mr. Whitney also spoke at length and with earnestness on the project of adding to the great cotton producing area a region containing the swamp land or Sharkey clay region. "The Sharkey clay," he said, "has been built up by slow accumulations of mineral matter carried by the flood waters from the upland portions of Mississippi and several other states. It represents the accumulations of thoroughly prepared soils carried off from the hill country to the advantage of the alluvial plain. Buried by each successive layer of this mineral matter are considerable amounts of leaf mold and other organic matter derived from the local forest. This combination of materials produces one of those alluvial soils universally esteemed for fertility and durability. At present it is subject to an annual overflow, and the water does not drain off until about June 1, too late for cotton planting. The question of draining off the surplus precipitation may be solved, as in the Louisiana cane fields, by the excavation of deep, broad ditches, with smaller more frequent laterals, which would facilitate the natural drainage. Even in case this alone were insufficient, valuable crops like cotton, cane or rice could be further guarded by pumping systems such as are employed in Holland. The case of general inundation can only be guarded against by a general system of levees developed along the minor streams in the manner of those which shut out the main flood waters of the Mississippi rivers or the tide waters along the meadows of the New Jersey coast. Either state or national aid, or at least the use of large private means, is necessary to such a dike system."

It is Mr. Whitney's opinion, based on the reports of his field parties, that the reclamation of the Sharkey clay region would ultimately prove financially profitable.

GIFTS FOR THE PRESIDENT

The White House Attic Is Now Stored With Plunder.

Washington, May 26.—President Roosevelt will confront a domestic crisis on his arrival at the White House. There is enough jewelry and odd Indian trinkets stacked in out-of-the-way places in the White House and stables to establish a novelty store. Pelts of wild animals have come from Western admirers and cowboys have contributed blankets and bridles. A sufficient number of wild animals have arrived or been promised to make a respectable side show. Of books there is no end.

The president's family of boys, with their playmates, already have decided what they are going to do with most of the articles which compose the miscellaneous collection, and have made life interesting for Colonel Symonds, who has succeeded up to this time in preserving the presidential plunder. The president's western trip has been more prolific in small gifts than any junket ever taken by an executive. The aggregate in dollars and cents will not reach the total of the gifts to Grant, made in his tour abroad after he had retired from office, but the president's circle of friends is altogether unique and their contributions are characteristic.

The collection of Indian blankets, pipes and trinkets makes an interesting exhibit, but all presidents have received these. When it comes to the collection of American literary works President Roosevelt already has succeeded in capturing more than all the presidents who have preceded him. The president is a voracious reader. Where and how he finds the time to keep up his reading no one pretends to know. Every time he meets an author, either well known or obscure, he proves in two minutes' conversation that he is familiar with the latter's literary output. This pleases the author, of course, who "will be delighted" to send the president copies of everything he has written. The collection of books began the week the president took the oath of office. There has not been a day since that time which has not added from five to 100 books to the president's library. Since the president arrived in the West all records of receipts have been broken. Being "one of them literary fellers" himself, every author who has come within range of the president has insisted upon an introduction and has attempted to bind the friendship by forwarding a copy of everything he has ever written.

Colonel Symonds, who has charge of the things which come to the White House, will not permit any of them to be taken until the president returns. He does not know what gifts will be especially prized, and, as a result, the president will be permitted to gaze on the miscellaneous collection on his return much after the fashion of a small boy that Santa Claus has not overlooked.

HAS TURNED CHAFFEUSE

Miss Alice Roosevelt Buys $2500 Long Distance Touring Car.

Washington, May 26.—Miss Roosevelt has just ordered her long-talked-of automobile and it will arrive before she goes to Groton the last of the week. She has selected a long distance touring car, red in color and profusely decorated in darker shades. The trimmings are of brass and everything about the car has been given her special attention. The price paid for the machine was $2500. There is room in it for four passengers. Miss Roosevelt has been one of the most conspicuous figures about the capital of late, running a machine just like the one ordered, watching intently every move of the chauffeur, and frequently asking him questions about the mechanical part of the machine.

She has become one of the most enthusiastic advocates of the automobile fad and has not only gone out with her girl friends when they call at the white house for her, but has rented a big red touring car and returned the compliments by giving her friends runs over the country roads and about the city. Miss Roosevelt when she goes automobiling, generally wears a white duck suit, a white hat and heavy white gloves. With this costume she always wears white canvas shoes with large gilt colonial buckles.

She has an assured way of guiding her machine which gives her friends confidence in her and she is one of the most expert drivers in town. Her ambition is to give the president a long run on his arrival here.

PAYING OF TAXES

County Treasurer's Office Is Now Flooded With the Receipts.

Fewer Persons Taking Advantage of the Half Payment Plan.

Saturday of this week will be the last day for the payment of real estate taxes for 1902, without the 10 per cent penalty attached. As the last day of the month, which is the usual date set by law for the payment of the tax falls on a Sunday, County Treasurer Whipple will keep his office open all day Saturday, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., although it will be Memorial day and a legal holiday. The office, however, will not be open on Sunday.

Under the new law one-half of the real estate taxes may be paid Saturday, where the whole tax is over $1, and the other half can run on until the end of October without any penalty, but if the first half is not paid by the time the county treasurer's office is closed Saturday afternoon, next Monday morning the tardy taxpayers will have to pay an added 10 per cent to the whole tax. The law is mandatory on the county treasurer and he has no alternative but to treat all alike, whether their delinquent tax is $1 or more than $1000.

All of last week, and particularly yesterday, the county treasurer's office was working under high pressure. Every available foot of space inside the railing was taken up by the regular force, reinforced by special clerks, and even this additional force was hardly able at times to keep up with the steady stream of taxpayers.

The daily receipts over Deputy Williamson's counter are very large. Day before yesterday the county treasurer deposited something over $32,000 in cash in the bank as receipts from taxpayers.

It is something of a surprise to find that the majority of the taxpayers this year are paying their entire realty tax on the date set by law for the first payment, instead of going to the trouble to make the first half payment now and the other in October. This applies not only to those persons whose taxes represent a moderate amount, but to nearly all of those whose amounts run up to larger figures. Such persons tell the county officials that even while it is optional with them to pay half their taxes now and wait until the end of next October to pay the other half, they find the money just as easy now as it will be next fall, and they prefer to pay their taxes in full and have all the bother over for the year.

That little clause in the law which makes it optional with the taxpayer whether he pays his whole tax at once, or pays half now and the other half next fall, is said to have caused an endless amount of trouble and work for the county treasurer's offices throughout the state. It is claimed by the office employes that the scheme of having two days for the payment of taxes more than doubles the work of the office.

It is noted, however, that while most people in this county are preferring to pay their taxes in full, there are still many who are glad of the privilege of paying only half now and the other half later, when they are better able to meet the payment.

Deputy County Treasurer Williamson predicts that the office will have the apportionment made this year by July 1, instead of from two to three weeks later, as has been customary in previous years. He says the treasurer's office will be enabled this year to save quite an amount to the county through interest money by the reason of the quicker deposits of county funds.

County Treasurer Whipple remarks that one of the peculiarities about the tax collection this season, one that is not only noticeable here, but has been commented on by county treasurers all over the state, is that a greater amount of the taxes is being paid in specie instead of checks. The office here has been receiving more gold in the payment of taxes than it ever did before, while the payments in other specie are correspondingly heavy.

NOT ASKED FOR SUPPORT.

President Issues Statement Concerning Ohio Developments

Wallawalla, Wash., May 26.—Secretary to the President Loeb yesterday afternoon gave out the following statement:

"In speaking of the sudden political developments in Ohio, the president said:

"'I have not asked any man for his support. I have had nothing whatever to do with raising the issue as to my endorsement. Sooner or later it was bound to arise, and inasmuch as it has now arisen, of course those who favor my administration and nomination will endorse them and those who do not will oppose them.'

"The president also said he was deeply touched by the action of President McKinley's home county, in which Canton is situated, in instructing so heartily in his favor. Nothing could have pleased him more."

OLD ACTRESS DYING.

New York, May 26.—Mrs. Agnes Ethel Tray, who as Agnes Ethel was known to theater-goers of three decades ago as the most promising exponent of emotional roles, and who left the stage at the height of her success for quiet domesticity, lies dying at her hotel in this city. An affection of the heart, which developed a serious phase a year ago, has reappeared, and yesterday it was feared she would not survive the night. Her charities have been many and generous to struggling actors and actresses.

MORE POWER NEEDED.

Fosston Electric and Water Plants Being Increased.

Fosston, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council has awarded the contract to J. G. Robertson, of St. Paul, to furnish the village with a new Ideal engine of 125-horse power, and also an electric generator capable of furnishing 1500 16-candle power lights. This new equipment to the present electric light and water power plant, which is owned by the village, has been found necessary, in order to furnish the additional requirements in the way of power. The present plant of the village was installed during the fall of 1898, and at that time it was thought it would be sufficient for many years to come. Owing to the rapid growth and development of the village, and the fact that the electric plant furnisher power for several manufacturing institutions of the city, the present plant has been greatly overloaded, and the installing of additional machinerw was imperative. The new apparatus, together with the present plant, will furnish power sufficient for 2300 16-candle power lights, besides furnishing power in the day time for the woolen mill, flax fiiber mill and several other concerns in the city. It is expected that the new engine and generator will be installed and in operation within the next ninety days.

LEAK AT THE POSTOFFICE

Stirs Up the Fighting Blood of President Roosevelt.

Tacoma, Wash., May 26.—There was a stormy scene on President Roosevelt's private car just after the party left Portland, Ore., on Friday. The day before a Seattle paper printed a scare head article declaring that Seattle was temporarily the seat of the national government because the president's mail was arriving at the local office.

It went on to show how two letters from Mrs. Roosevelt were addressed and commented on her handwriting, intimating that she was careless, inasmuch as the final "e" in her husband's name was all but omitted. Speculation was also indulged in as to what articles had been marked for the president's eye in a daily paper sent by Mrs. Roosevelt to her husband. The addresses on other letters were also given.

The article was shown to the president and he promptly called Secretary Loeb to him and denounced the official of the Seattle office who had dared to permit his private correspondence to be made a matter of public comment, and said he would at once order the postmaster general to make a rigid examination in an effort to ascertain who was responsible for the gross breach of trust.

It is reported that the president was much exercised over the criticism of his wife's chirography. There is a fight over the reappointment of the present postmaster and this incident is not likely to help his cause.

THREE WENT FISHING.

One Was Drowned and One Severely Hurt.

Ames, Iowa, May 26.—Emmett Compton, of Ames, a middle-aged violinist and piano tuner, was found drowned in Skunk river. The body caught in a wire fence across the stream. It had apparently been in the water eighteen hours. He was last seen Friday evening when he went fishing with two companions. One returned during the night, not knowing the whereabouts of his companions. Another was found at 9 a. m. under a bridge with a broken leg, where he had laid all night. He knew nothing of Compton. Search being made after dinner, a hat was found on the river bank by the railroad bridge, and the body was found sixty yards down the stream. His watch, filled with water, had stopped at 10 p. m. An investigation is being made.

It means Ostracism.—Foul breath and disgusting discharges due to Catarrh make thousands of people objects of aversion. Hon. George James, of Scranton, Pa., says: "I have been a martyr to catarrh for twenty years, constant hawking and dropping in the throat and pain in the head, very offensive breath. I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application gave instant relief. After using a few bottles I was cured. Sold by Max Wirth, 13 West Superior street.

A GLARING OUTRAGE.

The village of Parkers Prairie, in Ottertail county, has waited for twenty-five years for a railroad. It has secured a railroad and at the same time more trouble than during all the years of its existence. The Soo road built an extension of its line which runs through Parkers Prairie, and the residents of the village felt that they were about to realize the great benefits of railroad communication with the rest of the world. But they did not dream that a railroad could pass through the village and not stop its trains there. That is what the Soo road has done. Some people connected with its management are interested in a new townsite half a mile or more away from Parkers Prairie, and the Soo station, instead of being located at the old village, has been established at the new townsite, and the merchants have been invited to move their stores to the new station. Naturally they have refused to move, and the townsite company has threatened to "parallel every line of business in the village."

This is a deliberate scheme to enrich the owners of the new townsite at the expense of the village of Parkers Prairie, and there should be some way to prevent this scheme of the Soo road to destroy an old-established village. It appears to The Herald that the railroad and warehouse commission has power to order the railroad company to establish a station in the old village and furnish the people there with adequate passenger and freight service. If this had happened on an extension of either the Great Northern or the Northern Pacific, what a howl would have been raised by Governor Van Sant and others about the "crushing tendencies of the merger," and "its brazen disregard of the public interests." But, inasmuch as this glaring instance of injustice has happened on the Soo road, of which that eminent anti-mergerite, Mr. Munn, is the salaried attorney, they are as dumb as oysters.

REGISTERED MAIL LOSSES.

A childish quarrel is going on between two assistant postmaster generals over the question of indemnity for loss of registered mail. Taken in connection with the present postoffice scandals it adds to the general opinion that the whole department is rotten from top to bottom, and is in need of a thorough renovation. The question at issue is whether postoffice employes shall be held responsible for the loss of mail matter when it is shown that the loss of a letter is due to carelessness or negligence on the part of a carrier or clerk. Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden is of the opinion that the employe who through carelessness or inattention to business, allows a registered letter to go astray, should be held to a strict accountability and should make good the loss. Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger thinks differently, and would let the employe go scot free. Mr. Madden is charged with the general supervision and management of the registered mail service and was disposed at first to insist on carrying out his views regarding responsibility for the loss of letters. But when he attempted to collect the value of lost packages from employes in the service he ran up against a snag. Most of the men who handle registered mail matter are under the direction of Mr. Shallenberger, and the latter refused to permit them to be assessed. For some months the two assistants worked at cross purposes, and in the meantime the service was getting more or less demoralized. A great many complaints began to come in from persons who had lost registered letters and who could get no satisfaction from the government in the shape of indemnity. Finally the matter was laid before Postmaster General Payne for decision. The latter is so engrossed in probing the scandals elsewhere in the department that he had no time to give to the consideration of this quarrel. Consequently he directed Mr. Madden to name two men from his division to represent his views, while Mr. Shallenberger received the same instructions. These four men are now endeavoring to figure on a compromise that will be satisfactory to all.

From what can be learned at the department, there is now no rule in force to indemnify persons for the loss of registered mail matter. Until quite recently it was the custom to insure senders of this class of mail to the extent of $25, the limit formerly being $10. As all employes who handle letters, except those in the railway mail service, are under bond, it was an easy matter for the department to collect the indemnity as long as there was harmony on the subject among the different chiefs having charge of this branch of work. But it seems that some little time ago Mr. Shallenberger shut down on the practice of requiring the men under his division to make good the loss of registered mail up to the limit of $25. This decision immediately caused trouble. Mr. Shallenberger controls the great bulk of persons who handle mail by contract, and when he exempted them from responsibility for loss of mail he practically destroyed the former system of the government.

That there should be any quarrel whatever on this point is preposterous. People pay the government for registering letters to insure their safety. Even though the indemnity has been small, there is no reason why it should not be paid or else the government is obtaining money by fraud. If a clerk is negligent he should make up any loss caused by his carelessness. That is what he is placed under bonds for. The whole department at Washington is in very bad odor and should be thoroughly overhauled from the postmaster general down.

The Pall Mall poet who writes of the May light, the gray light, that is not dark nor daylight, must be writing in a fog.

ROOSEVELT AND HANNA.

President Roosevelt has spoken regarding the fight in Ohio over the endorsement of his candidacy for a second term. Those who are not for him are against him, he says, and this defines the issue between Senators Hanna and Foraker. "Those who favor my administration and nomination," says the president, "will endorse them and those who do not will oppose them."

Senator Hanna opposes any endorsement at the coming state convention, but at the same time says, while he favors President Roosevent's administration and nomination, he does not believe in taking action which would "cause just criticism on the part of any other person who might aspire to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1904." This would indicate that Hanna expects another aspirant for the nomination. Yet if he favors Roosevelt why should be oppose his endorsement because there may be another aspirant? Mr. Hanna's position is inconsistent. If he based his objection to endorsement upon opposition to Roosevelt's nomination, his attitude would be intelligible, but when in one breath he protests friendliness to Roosevelt and in the other opposes an endorsement because it might offend some other aspirant,, he lays himself open to the charge of double-dealing.

It is claimed that Hanna can prevent the endorsement of Roosevelt if he so determines, but whether he will care to make a strenuous fight is the question. Roosevelt sentiment is strong among Ohio Republicans, and a fight on this point may be Hanna's Waterloo.

AFRICA'S DEVELOPMENT.

Rapid progress is being made in the development of Africa and it will not be many years before results will be apparent which will astonish the civilized world. Readers are all more or less familiar with Rhodesia, with its gold mines and varied industries, but of the other portions of the continent not so much is known. In Uganda, the great railway built at so much trouble and expense, is now practically completed. All the steel viaducts for the road, including twenty-seven bridges from the United States, have been finished, and there only remains the substitution of steel structures for a few small and unimportant temporary bridges. Trading vessels are being placed on Victoria Nyanza. At present, there is a through train twice weekly in each direction between Mambasa and Port Florence.

In Ethiopia and the Soudan, the work of development and exploration is progressing apace. The treaty recently concluded between King Menelik and the British government probably means the early construction of the Berber-Suakin railroad via Kassala (costing some $15,000,000) and the subsequent extension of the Kassala line southward to Lake Rudolph, where eventually it will form a junction with the Uganda railway, at the same time marking a long step toward the realization of the Cape-to-Cairo scheme. A few days ago the Djibouti-Harrar railway was opened; thus Ethiopia is to be exploited from the east. It is, however, not unlikely that a large part of the future trade of this virgin kingdom will be drawn toward Khartoum. English and American capitalists recently dispatched a corps of engineers to survey a railway from Khartoum to Addis Abeda, and in June an expedition will start for Abyssinia to descend the Blue Nile, in order to test its value as a commercial waterway, in view of diverting a portion of the traffic passing via Djibouti.

The general impression as to the natural resources of Ethiopia and the Soudan is that they are rich, but undeveloped. With particular reference to the Soudan, the Egyptian Gazette says editorially: "On the whole, although the Soudan will take several more years to develop, there are practically no limits to the possibilities for outside capital which the recovered provinces afford. With great tracts of fertile soil now producing little but jungle and with a water supply only needing scientific storage and distribution to fulfil all requirements, there is no reason why the Soudan should not become one of the world's greatest granaries. All of these and other treasures are placed at the disposal of humanity at large by the extermination of the Dervishes, and British enterprise must have lamentably deteriorated if it hangs back in the competition to cater for the wants of 25,000,000 people."

There is a great future for Africa and those who get in there first and exploit the territory will reap a rich harvest.

WEST INDIAN FORTIFICATIONS.

It seems evident from the recent order of the Danish government sending a warship to the Western Indies to establish a permanent station, that she does not propose to sell the Danish West Indies to the United States. It is a much mooted question as to whether the United States would ever be benefited in a general way by possession of these islands, but that they offered advantages from a naval point of view was undisputed. For some time past European powers have shown considerable interest in this locality due to the proposed construction of the Panama canal and have been providing themselves with well-fortified ports. Great Britain has strong fortifications there already, but she continues to expend large sums in increasing and improving them. Jamaica is well situated to command the canal, as ships going and coming would pass within a short distance of Port Royal. That port has very strong fortifications, constructed so that they can not be recognized from the sea. No one is ever permitted to visit these fortifications, and no British soldier or officer acquainted with them is allowed to talk on the subject. But more work is being done on these fortifications, new forts are planned and larger guns are to be used. The port of Castries, in St. Lucia, was designated by the last royal commission on coaling stations to be fortified, and that is being done.

The French have spent large sums at Martinique and continue to strengthen it. A graving, or floating, dock, at a cost of $2,500,000, is to be constructed at Port Royal, in Jamaica. France already has such a dock at Martinique. Port of Spain, in Trinidad, is a point of activity and more troops are to be stationed there by the British. The British West Indian squadron is to be doubled in size. France is to spend more money in fortifying Martinique and Guadeloupe and will strengthen her squadron in those waters. Holland is improving her fortifications at Curacoa and Surinam, and Denmark at Christianstad. Germany is seeking naval stations in those waters and is said to have in mind Guanta.

The United States will soon have naval stations on Cuba and Porto Rico, and on the latter island can build fortifications of importance. While there is no particular significance in the work of the powers in that locality the United States must not be behind in its own territory.

The governor of Pennsylvania would destroy the liberty of the American press, and yet when William Penn planted his colony of Philadelphia he did it "to afford an asylum to the good and oppressed of all nations; to frame a government which might be an example to show men as free and happy as they could be."

One postoffice official at Washington has been arted for accepting a bribe. Let the good work go on.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A very plain and unassuming envelope lay in the "B" box at the St. Louis hotel key and mail rack.

It was an ordinary whitish envelope, unsealed, but with two rubber bands about it, one on either end.

On the face of it there was marked "C. L. Baird."

As it was in the general delivery mail, it was handed out to the patrons of the hotel who would just arrive and ask if any mail awaited them.

The custom is for all mail to be put in lettered boxes to be held, as the mail for traveling men generally preceded them a few days on their trip, and for instance if a firm should fire a man at La Crosse, they would wire him there, while if they were sending his expense check they would send it to Duluth, five days away.

Therefore when a traveling man comes into a hotel, he makes a hot foot for the mail box to see if there's any money waiting for him. A hundred or two step up to the desk and ask for mail every day at the St. Louis, and the "B's" are as numerous as any.

Ever since late Saturday night the line of seekers went to the desk, asked for mail, the package in the "B" box was handed out and they moistened their fingers, and thumbed the collection, sorting out their own, and handing back what wasn't theirs.

This morning Mr. Baird stepped to the desk. He said:

"I'd like to get a package of money I left here Saturday night."

The clerk looked through the safe, but could find nothing ticketed "Baird."

"I had something over $1000 in bills in it," said the applicant, turning a few shades paler.

"When did you turn it in?" was asked.

"Late Saturday night," said the man.

"Well, that's funny," said the clerk, looking through the vault again.

"The h— it is," said the man-out-of-money. "That's about the meaniest hit I ever heard of."

There were two cases of nervous prostration threatened, one in front and the other behind the desk.

Baird hopped into the envelope and displayed a stack of yellow boys that would choke an elephant, and sighed.

"How did they happen to be in there?" The astonished clerk spoke.

"I remember now. I didn't tell the clerk what was in the envelope, and simply asked him to keep this. He probably thought it was mail and stuck it in the mail box."

All of which goes to show a little moral, viz: There is as much money as $1000 in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Douson, of Miles City, Mont., were in Duluth yesterday, and took the Tionesta for Detroit last night. They were passing through Duluth on their way to their home in England, and finding the Tionesta ready to sail if she could break through the fog that settled over Duluth some time ago, decided to take chances.

Mr. Douson is a wealthy ranchman in Montana, and is a native of England. He said last night that the fogs of London were a mild and childish matter compared with the one he wended his way through coming from the Union station to the Spalding hotel yesterday morning. In fact, he believed, if he had not seen several persons awake and smoking Turkish cigarettes, when he came into the lobby, he might have been convinced he had completed his journey to England without knowing it.

"Down in the vicinity of Miles City," said he, "we have been having a very mild winter. We left there two days ago, and although there was a raging storm in the northern part of the state down in our section it was balmy and summer like, and has been for weeks.

"Our ranch is a large one and has been a successful enterprise. I have spent several years in this country, and am on my annual visit to England for the early summer months."

The Tionesta and small party of passengers left last night at 10 o'clock for the trip back to Buffalo. The next time she comes to Duluth she will carry a party of Millers' association members.

Nothing Cheap About That.

Chicago Chronicle: Common notions of "Chinese cheap labor" are likely to require revising since it is known that the Mongolian washmen in Lee Moy's laundry were receiving $18 to $18 per week and struck for a 100 per cent advance. These Confucians do not seem likely to impair the labor market to any alarming extent.

Flies as Fever Carriers.

American Medicine: The causes of the recent epidemic of typhoid in Chicago, as investigated by residents of Hull house, is a grand piece of work and illustrates the practical co-operation of science and benevolence in a way that deserves all praise. The pamphlet is filled with tables, diagrams and reports, which show that the house-to-house investigation by Misses Gernon and Howe, and by Dr. Alice Hamliton, was thorough-going. This is the kind of a "union of medicine and morals" which promises and prophesies great things for the future. The demonstration is perfect that the distribution of the disease germs was largely through the agency of flies. The wind could not have been the means of scattering the germ-laden dust, because of the constant rains before the time of the greatest virulence of the outbreak. The actual catching of the flies "on the spot" and their bacteriologic investigation brought out the proof with convincing

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department Weather Bureau, Duluth, Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (central time), May 26.—The barometer remains low in the Southwest and Northwest and high in Atlantic and Pacific coast districts, causing a continuance of warm weather in middle states and the South, and showery weather or thunder-storms in the central valleys, lake region, the Northwest, and Pacific states. POINTED PLEASANTRIES.

Puck: Mrs. Newrocks—Why, those are genuine antiques!

Mr. Newrocks—Are they? They look to me like second-hand stuff.

Philadelphia Press: "Gents," said the trolley conductor, "you mustn't stand on the back platform. Yer breaking the rules."

"Some of them ain't, conductor," piped the little man; "they're standing on my feet."

Atlanta Constitution: "You reckon hell gits too hot for de devil in summer?"

"Dunno. But you kin bet on one thing."

"Wha's dat?"

"Hit don't freeze over in de winter time!"

Harper's Bazar: "What a pure, serene face Miss Fairchild has!"

"Yes, she does look as though she had never been to the theater in her life."

Things drifted. There came a day when Delavan spoke of returning home; suggesting that Mrs. Morton Marinx be asked to accompany them. Katrina wrinkled her fair brows in a puzzled frown—"John, I do not even like that woman. Why should I ask her to visit me?"

To the end of his life, Delavan could never forgive himself the answer that leapt to his lips: "For the same reason that Forsythe will be my guest. I do not like Forsythe."

He never forgot the whiteness that went over her face; as if a brush had wiped out all the youth and sweetness. For one long minute, she stood there, one hand clutching the portierre, her soft eyes flared wide with horror. Katrine understood. And then—he was alone.

Fate makes footballs of men in the game of love and life. Sometimes comes a deadlock that requires nothing short of a moral earthquake to release the football. The upheaval came in the shape of little Alice Marinx, who chose this most inopportune moment to come down with diphtheria, malignant diphtheria. As before stated, Mrs. Morton Marinx was not voted a desirable person by her sex, therefore, no one felt under the necessity of going to her assistance in this crisis. In justice, be it said, she did not flinch; but met the doctor's verdict bravely. All the love that her arid soul knew was given to the little form tossing to and fro on the small white bed, and for once self was forgotten, as the woman battled with death for her child.

Katrina had been very quiet since that brief scene of the day before. It had been so sudden, so utterly beyond her scope, that she was helpless, powerless to grasp the future for a time. Delavan felt that he must do, say something; but her stony calm froze his faint effort. Then came the illness of the Marinx baby. He saw that Katrina would have none of him, and feeling somewhat at a loss to account for himself, wandered out and down the dim old streets, in the effort to forget himself. He did not notice where his steps were leading him until he found himself at the fort. Like a man in a dream, he mounted the ramparts and stood gazing out over the sea. A slight noise behind him, and a hand fell lightly on his shoulder. He turned to find Forsythe at his elbow.

"Asleep Delavan? I have been tracking you this last hour. I am off for home tonight, and thought I would call around and say goodby, but they told me at the hotel that Mrs. Delavan was not visible. I am glad I found you, old man, you will tell her how grateful—hasn't she told you?"

"Not a word," says Delavan, slowly, his eyes fixed upon the other man's face. Forsythe gave a low whistle. "Then it is time that you learned it from me. You may think I am joking, but it is entirely owing to her influence that I am going that I am going home to the prodigal's reward, not only that, but—" he stopped a moment, looking out to sea, a flush dimly stealing through the bronze on his cheek—"she has convinced a certain little girl that even so black a sheep as myself may become a respectable pearl gray in time." There is a note of deep feeling, and an almost boyish gladness in the careless voice. Delavan swung round, the light of great joy irradating his homely face, almost paralyzing Forsythe's hand in his mighty grip; and the other, knowing not, takes it all unto himself departing with Delavan's heartfelt blessing, and the inward assurance that "Delavan was a good fellow after all, when you found the right spot."

Delavan wondered if those sunny scented streets around the plaza were the same that had seemed a very desert but two short hours before. He tore down the corridor, in nervous haste to reach Katrina; and found—an empty room; and out the emptiness, a blow contained in the brief note without beginning or end—"I am going to Mrs. Marinx to help her with the child." There came a day when the doctor told him that Katrina was very ill, and he feared that it would prove a serious case.

Ten minutes later he knelt at her bedside. He had a hazy recollection of men that protested—and were not of a nurse; also a doctor, that said things; they might still be saying them; but he held Katrina in his arms, and the world was a bagatelle.

Mrs. Morton Marinx came out nobly in the dark days that followed. Night and day she tended Katrina, while just across the hall her baby daughter struggled back to life that would not have been but for the mad moment when in defiance of the doctor's commands, Katrina drew the poison from the child's throat to her own. Through the long nights, that scene dwelt with the mother, who alone knew how much of Katrina's trouble was of her making. It went further still, and the cords of a broken home were drawn together once more.

Perhaps it was generosity on the part of that young woman, when she turned back from the carriage to say: "Mrs. Marinx, I trust you will give me a

THE TWO VILLAGES.

Over the river on the hill,
Lieth a village, white and still;
All around it the forest trees
Shiver and whisper in the breeze;
Over it sailing shadows go
Of soaring hawk and screaming crow,
And mountain grasses, low and sweet,
Grow in the middle of every street.

Over the river, under the hill,
Another village lieth, still;
There I see in the cloudy night
Twinkling stars of household light,
Fires that gleam from the smithy's door,
Mists that curl on the river shore,
And in the road no grasses grow
For the wheels that hasten to and fro.

In that village on the hill
Never is sound of smithy or mill;
The houses are thatched with grass and flowers;
Never a clock to toll the hours;
The marble doors are always shut;
You cannot enter in hall or hut;
All the villagers lie asleep;
Never a grain to sow or reap;
Never in dreams to moan and sigh;
Silent and idle and low they lie.

In that village under the hill,
When the night is starry and still,
Many a weary soul in prayer
Looks to the other village there,
And, weeping and sighing, longs to go
Up to that home from this below;
Longs to sleep in the forest wild,
Whither have vanished wife and child;
And heareth, praying, this answer fall;
"Patience! That village shall hold ye all."

Discouraging Experience.

Buffalo Express: The experience of Governor Pennypacker will be somewhat discouraging to future politicians who fancy they can quiet criticism by legislative enactment and executive threat.

Straighten Out the Crooks.

Indianapolis News: Of course, as Postmaster General Payne says, a government official may be guilty of irregularities without being crooked, but it should be remembered that irregularities are not good for the service in general, and that it would probably be better, on the whole to have employes who are not irregular.

Good In Any Climate.

New York Tribune: When a man changes his residence from the United States to one of the new tropical possessions, one of the first bits of advice he receives from people who have been there or who know something about climatic peculiarities of the country is: "Leave drink alone." The little tipple which may do no harm here cannot be indulged in there without serious risk. Hence it was an act of wisdom on the part of the Philippine commission to prohibit the sale of liquor at any port or within two miles of it. General Davis' order directing the strict enforcement of the act shows that the authorities are determined to protect the men against themselves, and that the traffic in liquor will be made difficult and expensive, even if it cannot be prevented.

Growth of Rural Telephony.

Rochester (N. Y.) Express: Almost every day dispatches from suburban villages bring the news that independent telephone companies have been incorporated, or that their circuits are in operation. In a few years the farmer, who, no matter how remote may be his dwelling, is without his telephone will be the obscure exception. A flying machine whizzing twenty feet from the ground over western New York would be like a pickerel in a gill net in two minutes.

A PROVIDENCE OF FOOLS

By Curran R. Greenley.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Katrinna was troublesome; according to her mother, who had puzzled vainly through the years of aborted training, when the child traditions at naught and persisted in her passion for the creatures of the highways and byways.

Beautiful, gifted, highly accomplished; what more could be asked; but the madness of altruism lurking in her veins led to troublesome sympathies; and as the child became a woman, to still more troublesome friendships. Her mother sternly repressed these tendencies. To the mind of Madam Van Verck there was more of the crass love of notoriety than benevolence in the slumming fad.

Externally, Katrina was all that the most exacting mother could have asked; yet somewhere, deep down under the modish exterior, there lurked a Gypsy strain, that at times played upon her mood in a fashion that was maddening to a conventional household. This invasion of well-ordered Philistia was fast becoming a matter of comment in their particular cult when Madam Van Verck took Katrina abroad for a tour of the continent.

It is said that heaven helps those that help themselves; and Madam Van Verck welcomed John Delavan as a direct interposition of Providence—the providence that takes charge of social affairs.

Delavan stood on the deck of the "Belgic" — as the gang plank swung in. All around him, an atmosphere of farewells, mingled with the language of the inevitable person whose luggage failed to arrive. One group aroused his interest, a stately old gentleman and his wife, a feminine edition of the same school, and following them, a tall, elastic young figure, deeply veiled, but with a girls eagerness manifested in every swirl of the human tide about her, and the lingering backward glance at the lights of Liverpool, now growing dim.

The little tug puffed nolselessly back to her offing, and Delavan settled down to a quiet smoke. At the sound of a footstep behind him, he turned quickly, to find the girl whose personality had haunted him from the first moment. She sprang back with a little startled cry, her foot catching in a loose coil of rope, and Delavan caught her as she slipped dangerously near the bulwark, and for a brief instant her head lay on his breast as she struggled to regain her balance.

Delavan surrendered in the disgracefully short period of three days, and Katrina was duly appreciative. Fortunately, there were none of his set, or hers, to witness the downfall of this veteran of the market places. A few weeks later, Delavan's world suffered an earthquake in the guise of some innocent appearing white squares, bidding them to witness the passing of Katrina Van Verck into Mrs. John Delavan.

According to formula, these two should have lived happy ever after; but the human animal is strangely averse to living by formula. Neither knew the beginning but that winter in Florida bade fair to be the finish. Delavan objected—mildly in the beginning—to Jack Forsythe still haunted their footsteps, he grew explosive; and Katrina, in her first tempest of outraged love and dignity, answered not softly. There came a lull in which Delavan was dangerously quiet, saying little; but making up to Forsythe to a degree that went beyond the brotherly. Katrina could not understand, and too proud to question, remained silent.

Things drifted. There came a day when Delavan spoke of returning home; suggesting that Mrs. Morton Marinx be asked to accompany them. Katrina wrinkled her fair brows in a puzzled frown—"John, I do not even like that woman. Why should I ask her to visit me?"

HUGO FOR GOVERNOR.

St. Paul Review: The Waseca Journal Radical has observed the political comment of the state press upon the Republican candidate for governor and wants a Duluth man:

It is interesting to note the vast amount of prophetic wisdom displayed by the editors and correspondents of the press of the state, but it is clear that most of them are mistaken in their guesses. The fact is that no one knows or is authorized to announce who the winner will be. If we were asked to say who, in our judgment, was likely to any one to get the nomination, we would mention a man whose name is seldom heard in this connection, and that is Mayor Hugo of Duluth. He is a man of good ability, widely esteemed, whose administration of the executive affairs of the great city at the head of our great inland sea has made a profound impression on all political students who have watched his career. Then, too, he comes from a growing section of the state and has received scant recognition from the party. We advise to keep an eye on Mayor Hugo when making up your gubernatorial list."

Whether she is specially dressed at the top or the bottom, a woman will let a man find out so naturally he will think he did it himself.

Possibilities of Injunction.

Minneapolis Journal: And now the employers of Omaha have been hit by an injunction that restrains them from doing anything to interfere with the purpose of the unions to run business to suit themselves. The temporary injunction is evidently boundless in its possibilities.

Appalling Modesty.

Baltimore American: Colombia must be only fooling. All she asks of the United States is an indemnity of $25,000,000 outright, an annual rental of $1,000,000 for the strip or ground whereon the canal is to be constructed, and a recognition of that republic's supremacy. Such modesty is appalling.

Large Mileage, Small Investment.

Springfield Republican: The consolidation of the St. Louis & San Francisco with the Rock Island system brings under the control of the Rock Island company over 15,000 miles of line—making about the largest railroad system under a single control in the country. The Rock Island company itself is controlled by a small minority of the stock interest, and thus presents the double feature of controlling the most mileage through the smallest relative investment known in the railroad world.

Baltimore American: If he runs amuck of any more universities and colleges on his tour President Roosevelt will be a greater man by several degrees when he gets back from the West.

GUNBOAT GOES TO BOTTOM.

Plymouth, England, May 26.—The Peruvian gunboat Loreto sprung a leak forty miles northeast of the Scilly Islands yesterday evening and sank in an hour. The crew were picked up by a French trawler and were landed at Plymouth today. The Loreto is a new vessel. She left Liverpool May 23 for Para, Brazil.

Mme. Yale's Skin Food

Removes Wrinkles Rejuvenates the Countenance

Mme. Yale's Skin Food is an external nourishment absorbed by the skin, which supplies essential fattening and invigorating elements present in childhood, the lack of which in later years causes shriveling of the skin, shrinkage or flabbiness of the tissue and consequent loss of beauty. It removes wrinkles and performs feats of beautifying seemingly impossible merely by building up firm, healthy, elastic flesh and stimulating its natural forces. It obliterates the marks of age, worry and care; fills out sunken cheeks, hollow eyes and all unnatural facial depressions; gives dimpled roundness to the chin and harmony to the features. It enhances the beauty of the young, and restores and preserves a youthful appearance. Of priceless value to all. No reflecting man or woman will neglect to use it. Beware of imitations; the genuine manufactured only by Madame Yale; no one else knows its formula. Prices, $1.50 and $3.00.

BATHERS FIRED UPON.

Crowd Was Scattered and Tea Party Jarred.

La Crosse, Wis., May 26.—Five young men, members of prominent families in La Crosse, were fired upon while bathing by Mrs. Mary Depper, and a dash down the beach, without their apparel, was all that saved them.

Mrs. Depper was entertaining a party of ladies at tea, and asked the young men, who had disrobed almost at her dooryard, to go away. Upon receiving impertinent replies she emptied the contents of a large revolver into the crowd. No one was hit, but the prominence of the persons interested gives a sensational color.

BOOM FOR BAILEY.

Houston Chronicle Suggests Him For the Presidency.

Houston, Tex., May 26.—The Houston Chronicle has come out squarely for United States Senator J. W. Bailey for the Democratic nomination for president. The Chronicle is financially backed by John H. Kirby, and the close social, political and business relations between him and Bailey lead to the conclusion in many minds that Kirby inspired the Chronicle editorial. Among other things the editorial says:

"He is conservative and sound. He advocates no vagaries and is not influenced by the clamor of the demagogue or the screech of the theorist. He will some day be the party's leader and will win where Bryan lost."

I paid out over $500, writes Mrs. S. P. Jones, Atlanta, for merchandise, but nothing did me any good until I used Rocky Mountain Tea. Made me entirely well. S. P. BOYCE.

IN MINING CIRCLES

Explorations on the Vermilion Range Causing Much Interest.

Mesaba Work Limited Only By Possibility of Getting Drills.

Explorations are now under way on three propositions on the Vermilion range which are exciting much interest. The Bishop Iron company, one of the companies controlled by the Steel corporation, is at work on the extension of the famous Hyde forty which lies in section 20 on the Vermilion range and which was the subject of litigation for many years, but which involved a question entirely distinct from that which entered into the controversy with what has become generally known as the section 30 case. The Bishop Iron company after many years of litigation found itself in possession of a 15-25ths interest in the Warren eighty acres of which the Hyde forty is the west half. It has since then bought most of the remaining interests and has a lease for the rest at the rate of 25 cents a ton royalty and no minimum or time in which mining must be commenced.

The section 30 company has a drill at work on the tract immediately north of that upon which the Bishop company has put its drill at work on the Hyde forty. Its drill is pointing to the southward while the Bishop company's drill points northerly. The section 30 company is now putting on more drills on lot 6, where there are said to be excellent indications.

The third proposition is the Macomber land in section 11, 62-14, a few miles east of Ely. The Mahoning Iron and Steel company has added a second drill and is said to be well satisfied with the showing thus far.

There has been talk for some time that the Duluth & Iron Range road may build a new line to Ely, shortening the distance by cutting off hills between the Mesaba range and Soudan. There has been no official notice of the work, but it is expected that it will be carried out in due time. The finding of ore bodies on any of the explorations now in progress would hasten the construction of the cut off.

The new Leonard mine, owned by the J. J. Hill interests is not expected to ship this year. The mine is near Hibbing. At the point where the work of stripping is now beginning there is a thickness of overburden of about 70 feet and it will take a year to get this off. The average stripping from the property will not be as great as this, but it will be one of the largest stripping operations ever undertaken on the Mesaba range.

Shipments from the Sharon mine have begun. This mine is near Buhl and is owned by the Minnesota Iron company of the Steel corporation. The ore body is very large, but the grade is not high although the ore is well adapted for furnace use. The mine is stripped for a large output and is considered an important one, much more so than it used to be.

The Biwabik and Stephens mines are now shipping. The former has been stripped considerably more than formerly and has been thereby increased in importance. The latter has been in course of preparation for two years for mining on a large scale.

Explorations on the Mesaba are limited only by the possibility of securing drills and operators. Considerable work has had to be postponed because of the lack of machines and men. The larger companies have drawn heavily on the supply of drills for work around Hibbing, proving the extent of properties already known to exist.

A. O. U. W. Banquet.

A banquet was tendered the members of Lakeside lodge, No. 272, A. O. U. W., last evening, by Grand Master Workman White, Stephenson and a delegation of the different uptown lodges. This lodge was organized about three months ago, and the steady increase in membership since then has made the members and officers enthusiastic. Grand Master Workman White says he will continue to give these banquets every month if there is as much interest manifested and progress taken in the growth of the new lodge as there has been in the past.

JURY ACTS PROMPTLY

Jett and White Indicted For Murder of Marcum.

Jackson, Ky., May 26.—After an all-day session of the special grand jury to and from which the principal witness was escorted under protection of a guard of soldiers, Curtis Jett and Thomas White were last night indicted for the assassination of James B. Marcum. The action taken by the grand jury was prompt and decisive and there is a growing impression that justice will at last be administered in the Hargis-Crockell feud, of which Attorney Marcum was the latest victim.

Aside from the protection accorded Capt. J. B. Ewen by the militia, the proceedings were unmarked by any unusual incident. This work of selecting a grand jury was brief. Only eight witnesses were examined. Capt. Ewen, the principal witness, has been a prisoner in his home since it became known that he would testify. At the time that Marcum was killed he was beside him in the court house door with his hand on the attorney's shoulder. A squad of soldiers escorted him from his home to the court house and back again after he had been for two hours before the grand jury giving testimony. The streets were crowded during the journey, but no demonstration was made.

The indictment was returned last evening after the jury had spent two hours weighing the evidence.

YOU CAN SEE HAIR GROW

AFTER WASHING THE SCALP WITH

MUNYON'S WITCH-HAZEL SOAP

IT MAKES THE HAIR GROW THICK
IT MAKES THE HAIR GROW STRONG
IT MAKES THE HAIR GROW BEAUTIFUL

Munyon's Witch Hazel Soap is truly a blessing to those who are losing their hair and becoming bald. This soap is a food and vitalizer; it stimulates and acts as a gentle tonic to the weak and sick roots, and gives them new life and vigor. It promptly removes dandruff, scales, humors and all sores of the scalp. Give this soap a fair trial, and if there is a particle of life in the roots, this soap will stimulate and invigorate them into new life and healthy growth. Of course, you know that Munyon's Witch Hazel Soap for the complexion and for the toilet is superior to any high-priced French soap made. It makes the skin soft as velvet and keeps one free from pimples, blotches and most skin eruptions.

If your blood is out of order, take Munyon's Blood Cure. It will drive all impurities from the system and make good, rich, red blood.

If your liver is sluggish and you have a sallow complexion, use Munyon's Liver Cure. These two remedies, taken in alternation, will soon rid the blood and system of all impurities, and give life and vigor to the whole body, and when used in conjunction with the soap, makes the skin glow with youthful freshness.

Rev. Mooney's Lecture.

Ireland's contributions to literature, music and the drama, her manifold achievements and her beautiful scenery, will be treated by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney in his lecture on "Ireland" in the high school assembly hall tomorrow evening. The lecture will be illustrated by eighty stereopticon views from photographs taken by Mr. Mooney on a recent tour of Ireland. Mr. Mooney is a graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, and a close student and observer of Irish national affairs. Irish melodies—songs sung the world over—will be sung tomorrow evening by Mrs. James McAuliff, accompanied by Miss Theresa Linn. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Duluth Lodge of Elks and the advance demand for tickets assures a large attendance.

NEW INFORMATION BUREAUS

George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent of the New York Central, Booming Resorts.

To boom pleasure and health resorts along the New York Central and associated lines and thereby increase the earnings of his department, George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the Central, has installed information bureaus throughout the country. He is trying this plan of advertising for the first time.

The function of these bureaus is to convey information concerning the Central and the pleasure resorts, and also to sell tickets to any one who may wish to buy.

These bureaus have been established in this city, Brooklyn, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Montreal, Toronto, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland, Ore.—From the New York Herald.

Week End Excursions.

The Great Northern will sell on every Friday and Saturday, up to September 26th, tickets to Grand Rapids, Deer River, Cass Lake, etc., at one fare for the round trip, good to return on the following Monday. These week-end excursions give fishermen an excellent opportunity of having a fine day's fishing at these notable resorts. Ticket office, Spalding Hotel corner, 432 West Superior street.

DR. M'CLINTOCK IS DEAD.

Pastor of Presbyterian Church at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 26.—Rev. Dr. John C. McClintock, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, died at noon of hemorrhage of the brain. He was stated clerk of the Iowa synod and one of the leading Presbyterians in Iowa. He had secured a three months' leave of absence and had his ticket bought for California when taken sick ten days ago. He was pastor at Burlington, Iowa, twenty-five years and in Sioux City over seven. One of his four sons is Will McClintock, professor of physical science in the St. Paul high school. Mr. and Mrs. Will McClintock are here. The doctor was 59 years of age. He was born in Carmichael, Pa., and was a neighbor of Governor Cummins of Iowa and attended school with him.

TO TRIFLE NO MORE

City Will Sue Canal Bridge Company on Its Bond.

Will Get After Plumbing Combine By Asking Outside Bids.

The council last night:

Authorized suit on Duluth bridge company's bond for failure to build aerial ferry.

Directed new advertisement for building the bridge, barring the old company from competing.

Authorized fire commission to get plumbing bids from outside cities on account of excessive local bids.

Received a strong protest against cow and pig pen within seventy-five feet of Franklin school.

Authorized the paving of Superior street avenue intersections with Kettle river sandstone.

Received long communication detailing possible future improvements on easterly side of Rice's Point.

Authorized resurfacing of West Superior street, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth avenues with crushed rock.

Received estimates for paving of Garfield avenue from viaduct to Pine avenue.

Allowed Joseph Sheehy a license to conduct an employment bureau on the Bowery.

Received and accepted invitations to participate in parades of ball club and commercial travelers.

Adopted resolution declaring Saturday municipal half holiday until next October.

Requested an engineering estimate on cost of improving Tenth avenue east below Fourth street.

Allowed a saloon license in Metropolitan Opera house building, providing bar has no door opening into theater.

Received information as to cost of lighting the ship canal piers as urged by many taxpayers and visitors.

New porposals for building the aerial ferry will now be received by the city.

The time limit having expired on May 1, the original contract of the Duluth Canal Bridge company is declared at an end, and the city attorney has been authorized to begin action on the $25,000 surety bond of that corporation, owing to its failure to carry out the bridge building contract awarded two years ago.

Although the council's action in this respect was of unusual importance, there was nothing in the way of discussion and the vote severing all connection with the Duluth Canal Bridge company and its now expired contract was unanimous.

Plumbers made bids for fire hall plumbing and heating which the aldermen considered excessive. As a result there is likely to be a highly interesting fight between the city and the combine.

The bids were for plumbing and heating work in No. 4 fire hall, at Fourteenth avenue east and Second street. This building cost $7000 and the plumbing and heating, according to the combine prices, should cost $1700.

Aldermen Krumsieg, Sang and Cullum urged readvertising for bids, asking the plumbers of Superior, St. Paul and Minneapolis to enter into competition with the Duluth plumbers and generally serve notice that if the local combine cares to do business for the city, it must be content to bid a fair price for all municipal work. Finally Alderman Krumsieg put this suggestion in the form of a resolution, which carried almost unanimously.

Many neighbors of Andrew Anderson, who lives near Eighth street and Fifth avenue east, complained to the council of what they term "a strong, offensive, unbearable stench and filthy, dirty, horrible conditions generally arising from keeping cows, calves and pigs" in their neighborhood.

The neighbors also stated that the noise of the fog horn was sweet and heavenly music at night compared with the slumber-disturbing, bellowing cattle. For the health and peace of the neighborhood the council was asked to take immediate action, and the complaint was referred to the health department.

Sandstone will replace the vitrified brick paving on Superior street, at the intersections of Second avenue east, First avenue west and Fifth avenue west.

Alderman George Tischer secured the adoption of a resolution bringing about this change in the interest of better teaming with heavy loads from the wholesale district and elsewhere.

It has been found that the vitrified brick paving is too slippery for a footing when teams are taking heavy loads up the steep avenues and frequently business men and others have urged the council to pave avenue intersections with sandstone.

The three experiments will first be tried on the avenues named by Alderman Tischer last evening, and may later be put down on the remaining avenues, between Second avenue east Eighth avenue west.

Another important street improvement, especially to West End merchants, was secured through the efforts of Alderman Olson, the council passing a resolution providing for a crushed rock surfacing on Superior street, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth avenues west. Last year this method of improving the street was tried between Thirteenth and Eighth avenues west, and the experiment has worked very satisfactorily.

For some time past the council has been considering a petition for a general vacation of public rights-of-way on the easterly side of Rice's Point. Before acting it was decided to ask the petitioners to indicate what improvemenss would be made to the property thus vacated, and received replies that within the next few years it was the intention to improve existing elevated facilities on the Peavey system and build three new grain storing houses at an approximate cost of $750,000, and increase the grain storing capacity of this port by nearly 4,000,000 bushels. Three replies to the council's request for information were as follows:

Eastern Elevator company—Workhouse and tank storage having a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels, dredging and crib construction in the slip; cost, $225,000.

Pioneer Steel Elevator company—Steel elevator having an estimated capacity of 1,000,000 bushels; cost, approximately $250,000.

McCarthy Bros. & Co.—Steel Elevator with a sorage capacity of 1,500,000; cost estimated at $275,000.

After the meeting last night a number of aldermen signed a statement to the effect that they would vote for an employment license for Joseph Sheehy. This license had been refused last week and the week before, but at the request of Alderman McEwen the council voted to reconsider the license last evening, and it was declared granted, despite a well-established rule of parliamentary procedure that a motion cannot be reconsidered a second time after a first reconsideration has failed.

After the meeting this error was discovered, and it was agreed that Mr. Sheehy should not be barred from conducting his business during the two or three weeks that would be required in getting a new license through.

City Engineer Patton submitted an estimate for the paving of Garfield avenue from the viaduct to Pine street, as requested by Alderman Olson. With bituminous macadam this improvement would cost $73,626; with sandstone, $72,663, and with Telford macadam, $44,267.

The aldermen accepted invitations to participate in parades of the Duluth Baseball club at the opening of the Northern league season here on June 1, and also to take part in the parade of the commercial travelers on the morning of June 13.

From now till next October all city hall offices will have a half holiday on Saturday. The various offices will close promptly at 1 o'clock.

Alderman Krumsieg secured the adoption of a resolution calling for an engineering estimate for a storm sewer in Tenth avenue east from Fourth street to Superior street, and also the cost of macadamizing that avenue from Fourth street to London road.

A liquor license was last night granted Joseph Kenney to conduct a saloon in the Metropolitan Opera house building. This is the license opposed by the Ministerial association and others. It was explained that the saloon was not to be run in connection with the theater, and that the door opening between the bar and the opera house entrance would be closed up permanently.

Alderman Walker's ordinance providing house numbers for Minnesota Point south of the canal was passed.

Alderman Haven's resolution asking the city engineer for an estimate of the cost of improving Twenty-ninth avenue west by graveling, grading and guttering between Superior and Third streets was passed.

President Martz of the board of public works informed the council that there were 144 lights on the ship canal piers, and that these could be illuminated during the summer months from 8 o'clock in the evening until 3 o'clock in the morning for $4.23 per light.

The Northern Pacific Railway company asked better fire protection for its big dock at the foot of Seventh avenue west.

CONDITIONS AT BREMERTON

Near Navy Yard Are Disapproved By Naval Officials.

Washington, May 26.—Until he is satisfied with conditions at Bremerton, Wash., in the vicinity of the navy yard, Acting Secretary Darling will direct that no more ships be ordered there for repairs or docking.

This work, so far as practicable, will be done at the Mare Island navy yards. Ships too large for docking at Mare Island will come to the Atlantic coast. Telegraphic instructions have been sent to the Pacific squadron, which was about to proceed to Bremerton for repairs, to remain at San Francisco until further orders, and Mr. Darling has wired Capt. Bleecker, the acting commandant at Bremerton, regarding the truth of newspaper reports that the Bremerton town council had determined not to approve the revoking of the licenses of the saloons and gambling houses on Front street, and that these places were still in operation.

If these reports be true, Acting Secretary Darling says the department has been misled. Some tome ago, because of the evil influences which investigation showed existed directly outside the Bremerton yard, an order was issued that no more ships be sent there until this condition was remedied. Although powerful political influence was brought to bear on the department to revoke this order, Acting Secretary Darling stood his ground, and not until the Bremerton authorities officially informed him that the licenses for all saloons and gambling houses on Front street had been revoked and these places closed did he consent that the gunboat Ranger go there for docking. The vessel has just arrived at Bremerton.

Mr. Darling desires that whenever practicable the yard at Bremerton shall be kept busy, but he is determined that American sailors shall not be subjected to evil influences, such as have existed just outside the gates of the Brementon.

If it be found that the town council has refused to revoke the licenses for saloons, etc., the department will discontinue all work at Bremerton until assured that Front street has been cleaned up to its satisfaction, regardless of any and all political pressure. It was announced that the orders recently issued to Capt. Charles J. Barclay to take command of the Bremerton yard will not be revoked in favor of Capt. Bleecher, the present active member.

MRS. KEMP GETS DIVORCE.

Newport, R. I., May 26.—After a brief hearing in the appelate division of the supreme court yesterday, a divorce was granted Mary Isabel Kemp from Arthur T. Kemp. Mrs. Kemp is a daughter of Mrs. Frederick Neilson and the sister of Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt. Neither of the principals appeared in court, the case being heard entirely on depositions. Mrs. Kamp charged neglect and failure to provide the necessary support. The decree will not become effective until six months have elapsed.

LUNDEN IS FREE

Jury Acquits Him of Criminality In Killing Mrs. Mattson.

Belief That the Prosecution Will Have a Beneficial Effect.

Oscar Lunden, of Garfield avenue, who accidentally shot and killed Mrs. Hannah Mattson at a charivari on the evening of April 9 is a free man. The jury in the case for which he was being tried for manslaughter in the second degree, retired at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and returned a verdict of not guilty at 11 o'clock last evening.

Judge Dibell was notified at 10 o'clock last evening that the jury had reached a verdict, and he immediately convened court to receive it. Lunden was there, and the manner in which he received the news indicated that he had been exceedingly nervous over the outcome. He was freed from the bond furnished by his relatives and friends and left for his home to hear the news of his acquittal to the rest of his family.

The verdict did not come in the nature of a surprise to those who heard the testimony, for all the way through it was clearly shown that Lunden was a simple, hardworking man, harmless in nature, and one whose ignorance of the danger in one of the modern far-shooting rifles was largely responsible for the deplorable accident. The fact that the case has been brought to trial and thoroughly investigated is believed to have had a beneficial effect on others who are inclined to be careless through ignorance or rank thoughtlessness in the handling of guns and revolvers within the city limits.

The testimony at the trial was to the effect that four other Garfield young men, whose names are now known to the authorities, took part in the charivari party on the evening of the fatality, and fired something over 100 shots in the air from revolvers. County Attorney McClintock, during the trial, brought out strongly the fact that such promiscuous shooting near the center of a combined population in the two cities of over 100,000 people, was a culpable act and one which public sentiment will not favor, that no matter how much shooting is done in the air the bullets must fall back to the earth, and should one of them chance to fall on the head of a person, another fatality would result through such carlessness and disregard of the laws.

COAL DEPOT FOR ALASKA.

Washington, May 26.—Admiral Dewey, as president of the general board has made a report to Secretary Moody, recommending the immediate establishment of a coal station at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and the erection there of a coal depot with an initial capacity of 5000 tons. The estimated cost of the work is about $51,000. The money is now available. Believing the establishment of a coal depot at this strategic point will strengthen the United States on the Pacific ocean, the president has heartily approved the plan and preliminary steps in the work have been taken already. Dutch Harbor is located on one of the Aleutian islands and is the direct commercial route between the ports of Behring sea and Southern Alaska and the Pacific coast of the United States.

TEACHERS MAY GO

Some Duluthians May Take Examination For Philippine Service.

To Be Held In St. Paul at the Close of June.

Some Duuth teachers with an adventurous spirit and a desire to see distant portions of the world are taking considerable interest in the approaching examinations for teachers to be sent to the Philippines, which will be held in St. Paul June 29 and 30.

The pay is not at all bad, and the prospect of a voyage to a remote quarter of the globe makes the proposition attractive to many teachers, so it is likely that a large number will take the examinations, including some from Duluth.

The examinations will be held in the federal building at St. Paul, and the successful competitors will be expected to begin their work of educating Filipinos early in the fall. They must sign agreements to work at this occupation for two years, and they will be paid salaries running from $900 to $1200. They will be expected to pay the expenses of their trips to the Philippines, but if it is necessary the government will pay a part of them, taking out 10 per cent of their monthly salary until the amount is realized and the government is made good for its advances. If the teacher gives two years of satisfactory service, the expenses of the trip will be refunded.

Successful competitors will receive half pay from the date of their embarkation at San Francisco, and full pay will date from their arrival in Manila. If they serve three years, they will get free transportation back to San Francisco. Medical attendance will be free throughout their term of service.

The teachers will be in the employ of the civil service commission of the Philippines.

MUCH ALARM AT CLOQUET

Report That Dam Had Gone Out Caused Considerable.

Considerable alarm was felt along the Cloquet and St. Louis rivers, particularly at the village of Cloquet, over the report that the dam over he Cloquet at Island lake had gone out yesterday.

The rivers are already much more than normally high, owing to the large amount of rain that has been falling all spring, and if the big dam at Island lake should give out, there would no doubt be considerable damage all along the route.

"The first reports that reached us at Cloquet," said Fred D. Vibert, of the Cloquet Pine Knot, "were very much exaggerated, and everybody was sure that the dam had given way and that a wall of water that would not be less than four feet high was sweeping down the rivers toward us. The water is already high at Cloquet, and an increase such as would be expected to follow such a catastrophe as the breaking of the Island lake dam would be a serious matter. Fortunately the reports that we received turned out to be incorrect, and the alarm of the people of Cloquet subsided."

ARE UP AGAINST IT.

Superior Policemen Cannot Ride Free on Street Cars.

Mayor C. N. O'Hare, West Superior's chief executive, has been conferring with Manager Warren of the Duluth-Superior Traction company with reference to some means by which the policemen of that city may have free transportation on the street cars.

The Wisconsin state law prevents any city, county or state official from accepting free transportation of any kind and it has been held time and again that the policemen and firemen, as city officials, are not entitled to free rides even though the street railway company has stood ready to give them such when it can be shown that the company itself is not laying itself liable to the law.

Manager Warren has notified the Superior officials that if they can figure out any way whereby he can permit the policemen to ride free of charge and not be violating the state law, he will be glad to make such arrangements.

The Superior policemen claim that their salaries are not large enough to warrant the payment of street car fares and the city refuses to pay them owing to the possibility that there might be an abuse of the privilege and it would be practically impossible for the city to keep a check on the rides taken by the officers.

FOR A HIGH SCHOOL.

Citizens of Virginia Vote Bonds of $50,000.

The taxpayers in school district No. 32, the new district which was formed recently by the county board to include Virginia, held a special election yesterday and voted the issuance of bonds in the amount of $50,000 for a new high school building.

The proposition is said to have carried by a large majority. Some time ago before Virginia was separated from the district including Eveleth a proposition to build a $30,000 high school building was carried but dissatisfaction arose between the Virginia and Eveleth factions which finally resulted in the division of the district and the formation of the new district known as No. 32.

AT CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dixon spent Monday in Duluth.

A. C. Bruce, of Floodwood, transacted business in Cloquet yesterday.

Mrs. Edna Fletcher was calling on friends in Scanlon Saturday.

Mrs. Joseph Morrissey and son Evelin, of West Duluth, spent Sunday with friends in the city.

G. H. Prince, of St. Paul, spent Sunday in Cloquet.

Mrs. Robert McFarland, of Carlton, was in the city on business Monday.

C. T. Ekstrand, who has been quite ill of late, has again resumed his work at the First National bank.

C. M. Erskine was called from the city on Saturday by the sudden illness of his father.

Dennis Morrissey, of West Duluth, spent Sunday with friends in the city.

The marriage of Miss Rosina Sarette, of this city to Albert H. Lee, of Carlton, is announced to take place in the Roman Catholic church on Wednesday, June 3.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met yesterday with Mrs. L. H. Leely and officers were elected for next term.

Miss Tina McMillan entertained a number of her little friends Friday evening. Games and music made up the evening's entertainment.

Bob Dedyea, while riding his wheel Friday evening, ran into another bicycle and received injuries which has kept him confined to the house for the past three days.

Hints To Advertisers

Printers' Ink: Competition will not trouble you if you devote your whole energy to your own business and advertise.

Everyone has something to sell, buy or exchange. Herald want ads do the business at a very small cost.

It is no use advertising, says Tengwall Talk, unless you have the goods; but it is no use having the goods unless you advertise.

Cutting down an advertising appropriation for economy's sake is like dispensing with a good salesman when there's lots for him to do.

Mahin's Magazine: Hold a dime close to your eye with your right hand and a bright silver dollar a few inches away with your left; you can not see the dollar because the smaller coin obscures your vision. So it is with some advertisers; in their eagerness to save a dollar they often lose sight of the fifty within their reach.

"The early bird catches the worm"—early copy catches The Herald's first or range editions.

Jed Scarboro: The advertiser who is better than his word is better than the man who just barely fills the measure of his promises.

What is the essential that most advertisers who have not made a success lack?—necessity. With the most progressive houses there have been "off days" but, that is the time above all others when advertising is necessary, and the wise merchant uses additional space.

National Advertiser: Advertising is a question of brains. It is not the chap who starts in with the largest amount of capital who scoops in the biggest income. The man who starts in with a good supply of common sense to back his capital is the fellow who gets his reward.

Ad Sense: The daily paper contains two separate and distinct kinds of news. It is a newspaper in fact, and contains nothing but news. The chronicling the happenings of the world at large, as well as of the local events, is not second in importance to the advertising news that occurs upon its pages. Advertising is news, pure and simple. It is the detail of chronicling of the arrival of new goods and old store happenings generally. It is the woman's guide to bargains and the man's help in purchasing. Advertising is news, and it should be kept as news. There is no more reason for an advertiser to allow his advertising to stand day in and day out than there is for an editor to allow the happenings for two days previous to be published for two days in succession. Your truly bright, newsy and interesting paper is one in which the advertisements are changed from time to time. This change stimulates interest and educates the people to look from time to time for something new.

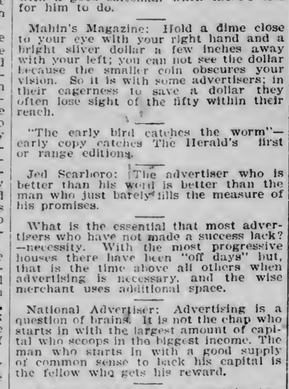
GLAD TO SEE BOWEN.

United States Minister Warmly Welcomed to Venezuela.

Caracas, May 26.—United States Minister Bowen arrived at La Guiara yesterday on the Red Line steamer Philadelphia. He was enthusiastically received by the populace and the local authorities. Learning that a demonstration would take place on his arrival at Caracas, Minister Bowen signified to the authorities his desire to be received quietly. On his arrival at Caracas, however, he was met at the station by President Castro, the members of the cabinet and all the foreign residents.

W. C. Bainbridge, the United States representative, and Senor Dureef, M. Ruhl, Senor Ryanos and Signor Ologni, respectively the Mexican, Dutch, Spanish and Italian representatives on the mixed tribunal, which is to adjust the claims of foreigners against Venezuela, arrived here today.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN.



Mrs. E. B. Bradshaw, of Guthrie, Okla., cured of a severe case by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary medical treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects as well.

Thousands of testimonial letters prove beyond question that nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It always works in harmony with the female system.

Mrs. Pinkham advises sick women free. Address Lynn, Mass.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. J. W. Dinsdale, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I use your Castoria and advise its use in all families where there are children."

Dr. Alexander E. Mintie, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria and have found it a reliable and pleasant remedy for children."

Dr. J. S. Alexander, of Omaha, Neb., says: "A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is, deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."

Dr. J. A. McClellan, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria for children and always got good results. In fact I use Castoria for my own children."

Dr. J. W. Allen, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I heartily endorse your Castoria. I have frequently prescribed it in my medical practice, and have always found it to do all that is claimed for it."

Dr. C. H. Glidden, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "My experience as a practitioner with your Castoria has been highly satisfactory, and I consider it an excellent remedy for the young."

Dr. H. D. Benner, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with the most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy."

Dr. J. A. Boarman, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Dr. J. J. Mackey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I consider your Castoria an excellent preparation for children, being composed of reliable medicines and pleasant to the taste. A good remedy for all disturbances of the digestive organs."

Dr. Howard James, of New York City, says: "It is with great pleasure that I desire to testify to the medicinal virtue of your Castoria. I have used it with marked benefit in the case of my own daughter, and have obtained excellent results from its administration to other children in my practice."

CANADA IS DIVIDED

On Trade Policy, Being Stirred By Chamberlain's Utterance.

Conservatives Would Restrict United States and German Commerce.

Ottawa, May 26.—The recent utterance of the British colonial secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, in favor of a preferential trade policy within the empire has stirred the people of Canada from sea to sea. In political circles at the Canadian capital Mr. Chamberlain's speech has excited the keenest interest, and it is being debated with a hopeful yet anxious expectancy by all classes in the political and business communities of the dominion.

Liberals and Conservatives alike in Canada hail with unfeigned satisfaction the present trend of events in respect to trade matters in the old country. The declaration of Mr. Chamberlain that the Canadian government has led the way in a policy which has since been indorsed by Australia and South Africa and that had his opinions prevailed with his colleagues in the imperial cabinet, he would have made Canada's preferential offer a reciprocal one, is regarded with great satisfaction in government circles here. Conservatives, too, are loudly claiming that Mr. Chamberlain's utterances were but an indorsement of the Conservative trade policy as enunciated by Sir Charles Tupper in 1900, when a quid pro quo was demanded from Great Britain for Canada's preferential treatment. The Conservative party of Canada has declared for a practically prohibitive tariff against the United States and Germany and for the establishment of a system of mutual trade preference between the United Kingdom and the colonies.

The attitude of the Canadian government and its supporters throughout the country in regard to preferential trade was clearly and explicitly stated, both at the colonial conference in London last summer and on the occasion of the Canadian finance minister's budget speech recently delivered in the Dominion parliament. It was then intimated in unmistaken language that if Great Britain continued to be unresponsive to the advances made by Canada the British preference would be withdrawn. The present Dominion government has been working to obtain an imperial trade preference, but their policy is not to increase the protective features of the present tariff to any material extent as against the United States, the natural and the principal market of this country.

The speech of the colonial secretary is generally commended here for its bold tone and comprehensive grasp of the situation. It is felt that in all the various lines of business activities in the dominion, the establishment of an interimperial trade system would largely tend to the upbuilding and expansion of this country, and an increased demand from the United Kingdom for Canadian wheat and dairy products would mean a speedy and enormous development of the Canadian West. There is so great a feeling of doubt and uncertainty at present prevailing here that the opinion is freely expressed that the realization of an imperial preferential trade policy is yet some distance away.

Mr. Chamberlains strength and position in his party is fully recognized; nevertheless, in parliamentary circles here, the proposition is considered too radical a departure from the present policy and political convictions of the British people to make its enactment possible for some time to come. None of the members of the Canadian ministry will allow themselves to be interviewed upon the matter, but some of their most prominent supporters in parliament are not so reticent. Mr. John Charlton, M. P., a leading Liberal, does not believe that Canada will obtain a substantial preference from Great Britain. Should Canada give a further preference to the mother country, it would, he thinks, render more remote the chances of reciprocal trade between Canada and the United States. He advocates the abolition of a maximum and minimum tariff. "If then," he said, "we apply the minimum tariff to both Great Britain and the United States, the latter should not complain that we were according differential treatment to Great Britain, and we should be free to make a reciprocal arrangement with our neighbors across the line. That would be better than extending the benefits of the preference to the United States."

Present indications strongly corborate the report, which has been current for some time, that there is to be an early dissolution of the Canadian Parliament. Both political parties in Canada are now atively preparing to enter upon an election campaign immediately upon the close of the present session of parliament and it is thought that an appeal to the country will be made by the government at the end of the coming harvest season.

There are many good and sufficient reasons why the government desires to bring on a general election this year, although the life of the present parliament does not expire by effluxion of time until the close of the year 1905. One such reason is found in the fact that the census has called for a redistribution of parliamentary seats of more than ordinary magnitude. The Canadian West is to have its representation largely increased in the next parliament, and it will not be satisfied to wait two years to realize this great advantage.

The probably deciding factor in the matter, however, which influences the government to make an early appeal to the people lies within the dominion cabinet itself. The health of the premier is not such as his friends would wish it to be; the secretary of state is over 80 years of age; the minister of trade is a martyr to rheumatism, and it is said a reconstruction of the cabinet is imminent. Hon. Mr. Tarte, who was dismissed from the Laurier ministry a few months ago, is gradually but surely drifting back into the ranks of the Conservative party, of which he was formerly a prominent member.

With Sir Wilfrid Laurier retired from active political life, it is thought by many that Mr. Tarte would carry a large following from the province of Quebec, whence the main support of the present government is drawn. Should the government decide to go to the country now, with Laurier leading, his cabinet presenting an unbroken front and with the whole country enjoying a period of remarkable prosperity, he would secure for the Liberals another overwhelming victory at the polls.

Farmer Cured of Rheumatism.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely, and if not satisfied after using it, he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Rayder, of Pattens Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar, saying, 'Give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time, for it cured me.'" For sale by all druggists.

EMERSON DINNER

Given By Society of American Authors at New York.

Chancellor MacCracken's Address on "The Fame of Emerson."

New York, May 26.—A dinner in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson was given by the Society of American Authors at the Waldorf-Astoria last night.

A collection of books, portraits, manuscripts and other relics, including rare editions of Emerson's books, and a large group of English portraits, including the first small Frazer octavo of 1841, with Carlyle's eulogistic preface, were on exhibition.

Chancellor MacCracken, in responding to the toast, "The Fame of Emerson," said in part:

It is precisely half a century this month since in 1853, when a sub-freshman of twelve years of age, I was appointed to declaim in public some rhymes upon Emerson, which from that day to this have never left my memory. I am happy upon the completion of fifty years during which I have had knowledge of at least the name of Ralph Waldo Emerson, to bring my tribtue to his great fame.

The fame of Emerson is the fame of a pioneer. It reminds me of the fame of John Hancock, also a citizen of Massachusetts. Hancock's is the fame of a man who was the first to sign with his big handwriting the Declaration of Independence in politics. The fame of Emerson, in like manner, is the fame of a man who was the first to publish in his books of sixty years ago, the declaration of our independence in letters. Indeed it is three-score and six years since in his address on the American scholar he said: "Our day of dependence, our ing apprenticeship to learning of other lands, draws to a close." The earliest published poem of Emerson, written when he was only twenty-eight, begins with these two lines:

Right upward on the road of fame,
With sounding steps the poet came.

This describes the progress of Emerson. But when we seek an explanation of this progress, we must attribute it in a very considerable degree to the time when he appeared. He is a literary father of America.

It is true that his writings are not peculiarly related to his generation, which was the generation of Andrew Jackson and James Buchanan. Nevertheless, if their publication had been delayed forty years, the impression made by them upon America, would have been far less significant.

The office that Emerson took up was an office which his generation demanded. It was the office of poet preacher. He started in life as a prose preacher. The first article in his volume of Miscellanies is a sermon on the Lord's Supper, when he was twenty-nine years of age. He was the parson of a church in Boston for several years before he was thirty. But he was not cut out for a prose preacher, and he was fortunate to discover this. The country was full of prose preachers. Nor were the people at all tired of them. They supported them liberally. Emerson thought the people were tired of them, but he was mistaken. They have been better supported in Boston in recent years than ever before, also a larger number of them have been supported. The people wanted preachers. And they wanted Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The fame of Emerson arises from his being a preacher, but not a prose preacher. He freed himself from the trammels of preaching in prose; he became a poet preacher. Indeed, I may say he became the poet preacher of his age, taking as a definition of preaching his own words when he says, "preaching is the expression of the moral sentiment in application to the duties of life." This definition of Emerson's serves admirably as a description in brief part of the sum and substance of his work.

But before I dwell on the substance of Emerson's thought, I venture a word upon his style. Matthew Arnold denies that he was a great man of letters because he lacked a genius for style. Yet this same thinker decares that his essays were the most important prose work of the nineteenth century. I will admit that Emerson did not have the style of a John Milton, either in poetry or prose. His utterances are often disconnected. Like a collection of maxims they may sometimes be read backward as well as forward. They are not builded upon any large plan. They are more like stepping stones in a brook than like a suspension bridge that helps you across the East River or the chasm of Niagara. But taken as paragraphs and sentences his sayings are wonderful specimens of English. They stand up clear and well-defined. They are compact, solid and graceful. They have hardly a superfluous word. They tell you clearly what he means to express and also what he meant to keep back. Emerson's manner is largely that of the preacher. Most of his writings are successions of discourses which average just about the length of the old-fashioned sermon. In truth a large part of them were delivered upon the platform. The platform of forty years ago was a week-day counterpart of the pulpit. Just because people had been trained to listen to sermons, they were ready for lectures, and they were willing to listen to them, for an hour. Therefore, Emerson's essays average nearly an hour long. But the sermons of Emerson have lived, while tens of thousands of sermons have perished, and they have endured largely because of style. I fancy that when it was demanded by Jackson that he should either write an epic like John Milton or a system of philosophy like Kant, that he was ready to reply as he does reply in his fable of the mountain and the squirrel:

"For I think it no disgrace
To occupy my place,
If I am not so large as you,
You are not so small as I
And not half so spry."

I say then then that the form of Emerson's thought is unique and admirable for its purpose. If he was not a great man of letters, he was, as some one has said, a great man who was teaching by means of letters. He makes it apparent that he meant more to teach than to please. His art was not high enough to conceal his art. He is therefore more the teacher than the poet. More the teacher than the man of letters. His style is the best style of a poet preacher that the English language has known.

Now let us come to the substance of his work. I have already defined this in his own words. "The expression of the moral sentiment in the application of the duties of life." The expression of moral sentiment by a poet preacher must not be expected to exhibit logical consistency. It would then become philosophy and theology. Emerson meant to put forth neither a body of doctrine nor a system of philosophy. He meant to express feeling, moral feeling.

Nearly forty years ago a remark was made to me by the foremost theologian of Germany which applies here. I was telling this theologian, Dr. Dorner, of Berlin, how a few days before I had visited Dr. Tholuck of Halle, who had talked to me at length of the preacher Krummacher and how inconsistent he was showing himself. Dr. Dorner at once exclaimed, "that does not signify. Krummacher is just a preacher, he is nt a Doctor of Theology." In like manner I say in reply to the charge of inconsistency against Emerson. Emerson was a poet preacher. He was not an exact philosopher or a doctor of Theology. Take his teaching about God. How devoid of exact doctrine. Sometimes he seems to imbued with the New England Democracy as to refuse any place in the universe to a personal God. He says in one place "Christianity has dwelt with toxious exaggeration about the person of Jesus, but the soul knows no persons." He is hardly ready to admit a God who is a personage. He prefers a composite Townsmeting sort of a God, of which everybody is an equal constitutent part. At one time he calls God a great and divine and public soul. He says to every man:

"Draw if thou canst the mystic line
Severing rightly his from thine."

Hence it is not strange that a recent number of the Atlantic Monthly declares "Religious persons are never sure whether Emerson is Theist or Pantheist."

I would say, like Dr. Dorner of Krummacher, Emerson is just a preacher, he is not a doctor of theology.

Emerson was a most religious man, defining religion as he defined it, "Religion is the emotion of reverence which the presence of the universal mind ever excites in the individual." What has been said of Spinoza, namely that he was a God-intoxicated man, can be said far more truly of Emerson. For the God of the former was substance without attributes. The God of the latter is much more. Emerson says "God is existence. Take him from men and they would not be. Every fact is an Epiphany of God." But he also says "The moral cause of the world lies behind all else in the mind. The one miracle which God works evermore in nature is imparting himself to the mind. The Divine mind imparts itself to the single person."

"There is a universal mind identical in all men. We belong to it, not it to us."

"Now and then a soul is born which offers no impediment to the Divine Spirit."

He quotes approvingly the prayer of Augustine, "Oh, Eternal Verity and True Charity and Dear Eternity, Thou art my God."

Emerson declares "The world is made up of moral forces." Thus to Emerson as to St. Paul, God is he "in whom we live and love and have our being."

His God was surely immanent. It is doubtful if he was also transcendent. He would not call him the power not ourselves which makes for righteousness. He would call him the power including ourselves which makes for righteousness.

Thus Emerson, as a poet preacher offers every human spirit much that it needs. He offers to him the unseen and eternal. It often seems to me that the one whom Emerson preaches, compared with the God of the Hebrew psalms, is like air compared with a spring of water. But the air is a universal need. When Emerson therefore, surrounds us with God as with an atmosphere, he meets the wants of thinking men. Even if he does not give streams of living water or abundant bread to our spirits, he gives us what is precious. For this reason thinking men give him fame. Stedman says about Emerson, "This is the best fame, to impress the selected minds which redistribute the effect in steadfast circles of extension."

The second and more extensive part of preaching as defined by Emerson is the application of moral sentiment to the duties of life. Emerson here also meets the universal need. His volumes form a treatise on applied ethics. He does better work by far in his applications than in his theories. Take the index of his works and count under how many aspects he discusses self. There are a score and a half of titles, every one of which begins with self. No marvel then, that he is found exceedingly fascinating by yourself and myself. If, leaving self behind, we look away to society we find hardly a relation or obligation that is neglected by him. He is filled with moral vehemence.

There are a score of poetic yet practical sermons in his books, which those who are called society in America would do well to learn by heart.

Time forbids my dwelling on Emerson's marvellous unfolding of duty, which is after all his chief title to fame. Instead of argument, I offer in closing, a single illustration of Emerson as a teacher of everyday morality.

Here on Fifth avenue, in the Waldorf-Astoria, where within a short mile is the centre of American club life, of American fashion, of American social movements, I think it fit to repeat what he teaches on a universally acknowledged duty, the duty of patriotism. Emerson says "If a temperate wise man should look over our American society, the first danger that would excite his alarm would be the European influences upon this country."

Yet when Emerson said this, American young women were not expatriating themselves by dozens as now, in order to clutch foreign titles, regardless of what it may cost, whether in money, in sneers against fathers and mothers who earned the money, or in self-respect. Nor had any New York landlord, then disowned his birthright in America while still holding fast to his inherited increment of American real estate.

Emerson, like a prophet, cries out "Let the passion for America cast out the passion for Europe." Let the good citizen perform the duties put on him here and now." "Let us realize that this country the last found, is the great charity of God to the human race."

Other speakers were: President Schurman, of Cornell university, William C. Harris, Charles R. Haswell and Moncure D. Conway.

ACCEPTED BRIBE

Assistant Attorney Miller of Postoffice Department Dismissed.

Allowed "Get-Rich-Quick" Schemers to Use Mails.

Washington, May 26.—Postmaster General Payne today summarily dismissed Daniel V. Miller, assistant attorney in the office of the assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, for accepting a bribe in connection with the case of John J. Ryan & Co., charged with fraudulent use of the mails. A warrant has been issued for Miller's arrest.

Another warrant has been issued for the arrest of a man who is charged with being the partner of a go-between in the transaction.

Miller came here from Terre Haute, Ind., about two years ago. He was appointed by former Assistant Attorney General James N. Tyner.

The charge against Miller has been under investigation for three months. The Ryan company was a turf investment concern which operated at St. Louis and Covington, Ky. Its methods and working operations are said to be similar to those of the Arnold company which has figured conspicuously in the postoffice investigation. The inspectors have been quietly at work on the case, and action was deferred so they might get together all papers and evidence which was necessary. Postoffice Inspector in Charge W. F. Wickery, at Cincinnati, and Postoffice Inspector R. M. Fulton, of St. Louis, reasently were given full charge of the case. Complaint was made by Inspector Fulton before a United States commissioner in Cincinnati Saturday, and then a warrant was issued for Miller and the other party.

Inspector Fulton immediately came to Washington while another inspector went west from Cincinnati to make the other arrest. Inspector Fulton yesterday exhibited the papers in the case to United States District Attorney Beach.

Miller was at his desk all day yesterday. He was called into the office of Assistant Attorney General Robb shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and notified of his immediate dismissal and of the steps that had been taken. He was allowed to draw his salary and then returned to the private office of the assistant attorney general, where inspectors were in waiting.

The Ryan company were the beneficiaries under a decision of the assistant attorney general of the postoffice department, made several months ago, subsequent to the decision in the Arnold case and couched in practically the same terms as that decision.

Those decisions declared the concerns named to be free to use the mails. The Arnold decision, it is stated, was signed by Assistant Attorney General Tyner and the Ryan decision by George A. Christiancy, the law clerk of the department, who was then acting assistant attorney general on account of Mr. Tyner's protracted illness. Mr. Christiancy was at the postoffice department on a summons from the department and was closely examined regarding the case.

It is stated that the amount offered Miller as a bribe aggregated several thousand dollars and was in form of a cash payment, followed by a check. This payment is alleged to have taken place in Cincinnati, so the case will be tried there, probably in the October term of the court. Mr. Miller probably will give bail for his appearance at that time.

The penalty is prescribed in section 5501 in the revised statutes, which says: "Every official of the United States and every person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity under or by virtue of the authority of any department or office of the government, who asks, accepts or receives any money or any contract, promise, undertaking, obligation, gratuity or security for the payment of money, or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value with intent to have his decision or action on any question, matter cause or proceedings which may at any time be pending or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity or in his place of trust or profit influenced thereby, shall be punished by a fine not more than three times the amount of the bribe offered or accepted and by imprisonment of not less than three months.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Alies Kaldy, who was taking two camels and an elephant to Minneapolis to join a circus, was trampled to death by the elephant in a car at Medicine Bow station Monday.

One man was killed and another seriously injured by the collapse of a building under construction at West Forty-eighth avenue and North avenue, Chicago, late Monday. Both were laborers employed upon the structure. The cause of the disaster is not known. It occurred in the heighth of a severe thunderstorm.

About 150 members of the Minnesota Editorial association, many of them accompanied by their wives, arrived in Washington Monday. They will remain four days and will be entertained handsomely by Minnesotans, residents in that city. The party will visit all points of interest in and about the national capital. On Thursday evening the local Minnesota association will tender the visitors a reception.

Triumphant Over Female Diseases!

Paine's Celery Compound

Home Treatment with the Famous Prescription Has Brought Happiness and Health to Hosts of Suffering Women.

Intelligent and thoughtful women are now using the best and most reliable of all spring medicines, Paine's Celery Compound, and are getting back nervous vigor, pure blood, bodily strength, and a ruddy and clear complexion. The women of our land who silently suffer from female irregularities and dangerous ills, and who spend fully half their time in misery, will find in Paine's Celery Compound all the virtues and elements that lead to health and true happiness. Paine's Celery Compound possesses peculiar powers for the strengthening of the female organism. It braces the nervous system, makes strong the weak muscles of every important organ. Victims of suppressed, profuse or painful mensturation, hichorrhoea, chlorosis, uterine inflammation and other ailments common with females, are quickly cured of these troubles and annoyances, are made vigorous and active, and rejoice in permanent health. Mrs. M. A. Morris, Tilton, Ark., writes for women as follows:

"I was afflicted with the whites and irregular menstruation, and tried several doctors, but found no relief. A lady friend of mine advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used two bottles of your great medicine and I am now a sound woman, and I give your wonderful remedy all the credit. I will forever praise Paine's Celery Compound, it did me so much good."

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Fort Yates to Be Abandoned In About Two Weeks.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Cannonball—The military post at Fort Yates has been ordered abandoned in two weeks. The cavalry will go to the Yellowstone park, and the infantry to Fort Lincoln at Bismarck. Fort Lincoln will then be the only military post in North Dakota.

Men from Superior, Wis., are here investigating the fall of the Missouri and Cannonball rivers, with a view of using the immense power which is going to waste.

The Indians will receive this week their per capita money amounting to $5 each. The total is about $30,000.

Dawson—Many new settlers have opened farms in Kidder county, and many are yet to come. Dawson is looking forward to the early commencement of grading on the new Northern Pacific cutoff to the Twin Cities, the survey of which has been completed.

Minnewaukan—Herman Sylvester, aged 16, accidentally shot and killed the 13-year-old son of Leahs Engelhorn near Churches Ferry with a gopher gun supposed to be unloaded.

Jamestown—The libel case against M. T. O'Connor, a well known attorney, is to be dropped, it is stated. He was sued by Attorney H. M. Mattson, who based the suit on charges made by O'Connor in a communication to the New Rockford Transcript. In his article O'Connor alleged that Attorney Mattson was a confederate of blindpiggers, blacklegs and gamblers. Last week he had a retraction published in which he stated that the statements were wholly false and made while he was angry.

William Nugent, employed in the wardware store of E. B. Thornhill, has disappeared.

Bert Denny, employed in the restaurant of W. J. Brown, attacked his employer and the latter was badly disfigured. Denny also smashed furniture and dishes in the restaurant. He was arrested and in default of a fine of $25, was sent to jail for ten days.

Fargo—In the case of Sonneyson vs. Akin the jury awarded a verdict of $10,600. Sonneyson traded Akin some Cass county property and took part in cash and some real estate in Iowa. He alleged fraud and brought suit.

James Berry was arrested on the charge of robbing Joe Haddad of money and a watch. He was bound over in the justice court and before Judge Pollock entered a plea of guilty to grand larceny and will be given a penitentiary sentence. He says he is the son of a former minister at Bloomington, Ill.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Canton—The Indian insane asylum established in this city by the federal government is rapidly being filled, and when all the Indians reported insane shall have been translated to the institution it will be full to overflowing. Great improvements have been made on the ground this spring, and where less than two years ago was nothing but treeless prairie now stands one of the most unique humane institutions in the world. The grounds are composed of 160 acres, most of which has been fenced and otherwise improved. Many thousands of fruit, forest and evergreen trees have been planted. The greater portion of the asylum farm is being cultivated.

Mrs. J. P. Hawn, an old-time resident, died at the age of 45. She was born in Dodge county, Wis., and came to Canton with her husband in the early eighties. She was a member of the W. R. C. and the Eastern Star.

Aberdeen—City Assessor Campbell has completed the assessment of the property of Aberdeen and while doing the work made a count of the population and finds 6612, exclusive of a large number who live in hotels and are in town only a part of the time, but who are voters here. Taking the actual count of those listed it gives the city an increase of 62 per cent in population since the census of 1900, which was taken by Mr. Campbell, and which showed 4087. He estimates from the best figures to be obtained that the hotel dwellers not reached by him will bring the total up to over 7000. There are eleven of the hotels from which he believes that over 400 would be secured if he should take the time to follow the count as closely as he did when taking the census three years ago. This has not been done, as the count was only incidental to the assessing.

Deadwood—Walter Gesellus, 9 years old, the son of Mrs. William Stevens, was instantly killed by falling from "Brown Rocks," a cliff over fifty feet high in the lower part of Deadwood. His neck was broken and his skull crushed. The lad fell over forty feet, and a boulder that he dislodged fell upon him, crushing him badly. His mother was married a few weeks ago to William Stevens.

Watertown—The jury in the case of Ludwig Ericson vs. S. M. Owsley returned a verdict of $758 80 for the plaintiff. Mr. Owsley is one of the most prominent mercnants in this city and the action grew out of an incident which happened in 1901. The defendant came to town in an intoxicated condition and entered the store of the defendant. He was somewhat noisy and was thrown out by a clerk, falling into the gutter and sustaining a broken wrist and an injury to the shoulder which has proved to be permanent. He brought an action for damages in the sum of $10,180.

Sturgis—Philip J. Shannon, of E Troop, Thirteenth cavalry, was caught robbing the place of business of Fruth & Co. He says two other soldiers induced him to commit the crime.

PROF. HARVEY WOODMAN DEAD

Was a World Famous Authority on Natural History.

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., May 26.—Professor Harvey Woodman, of this city, whose death is announced here at the age of 76, was a world famous authority on natural history and scientific research. For more than forty years he was engaged in the collection of shells and pre-historic relics and fossils for museums, colleges and private collections.

Professor Woodman helped to guild the college museums of natural history of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell and other universities, and was also one of the experts of the Smithsonian institution. He also planned and remodeled Castle Garden into the present aquarium.

Later in life he went to St. Louis, where he remained for some time, and then came to New York. He was engaged by the Smithsonian institution to conduct many of its expeditions and researches. He studied the coral reefs of Florida for the government for thirteen years and spent several years investigating the gulf stream and currents at Dry Tortugas.

Years ago Professor Woodman gained international fame by his theory that America populated Europe and not Europe this country.

While in St. Louis Professor Woodman married Miss Catherine Dawson, who died about a year ago. Their children are Mrs. Joseph Babcock, wife of Representative Babcock of Wisconsin, Mrs. George E. Waesche, wife of Professor Waesche, who has the chair of civil engineering of Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.; Mrs. Frederick W. Watkins, Harvey T. Woodman and Mrs. L Padden, of Mt. Vernon.

SAMOAN LAND DISPUTE

Settled By the High Court of Tutuila.

Tutuila, Samoa, May 11, via San Francisco, May 26.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The high court of Tutila has settled the land disputes which caused the extreme excitement among the natives in the early part of the year. There were eleven claimants. These afterwards formed themselves into parties, two being from Upolu, one from Savaii and one purely Tutuila. The decision awards half the value of the property to the Tutuila claimants, one fourth to the Savaiians and one-fourth to Upolu.

Owing to the late hurricane the production of the copra is estimated to be reduced to about 150,000 pounds.

BANK MERGER IS OFF.

New York, May 26.—It was learned from official sources that the proposed merger of the National Bank of Commerce in New York and the Western National bank will not take place.

Woman's Nightmare

No woman's happiness can be complete without children; it is her nature to love and want them as much so as it is to love the beautiful and pure. Twenty-Five Now at Driving Park to Train For the Fair.

Outlook Fine For Great Race Meet—A Curiosity Among Runners.

The owners of twenty-five horses that are boarding out at the Driving park to train for the county fair races are anxiously scanning the weather reports waiting for weather that will permit their horses to get out on the track. The number of horses that are boarding there, waiting for a chance to train for the fair, is growing constantly. There are some from Carlton, some from the range towns and half a dozen from Superior. The rest are from Duluth.

The management of the county fair, which is to be held Aug. 17 to 22, has just booked an interesting string of five running horses for the race meets that will be held during fair week. They belong to Allie Wooster, of Westford, Wis., who is taking them out on circuit during the summer. They are all speedy horses, but one of them, T. H. McNutt, is unique. He enters running races on his own hook, and needs no jockey to direct him. He does his own scoring, going back if there is a false start and the bell rings, and entering the race for all there is in it at the word "go." He never starts unless the rest of the field is well up. He has aroused a great deal of interest wherever he has raced on account of this accomplishment.

THE STAGE

One of the largest Monday night houses since the opening here, twenty-one weeks ago, greeted the Ferris Comedians at the Metropolitan last night when they gave a good presentation of the four-act drama, "At Valley Forge." The play is well scened and costumed, the climaxes are exciting and brought forth much applause and numerous curtain calls. The entire cast, with the exception of one or two, gave excellent renditions of their parts. Specialties were given by William A. Zang and Mr. Fiske, which were thoroughly enjoyed. "At Valley Forge" will be the bill again tonight and tomorrow.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY.

Miss Mary A. Parker to Come to the Y. W. C. A.

The work of the Young Women's Christian association is increasing, and through the national committee, Miss Mary A. Parker has been called as assistant secretary of the local association. Miss Parker will graduate this year from the the State university and has had special training in association work. Her brother is assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian association work in Chicago.

The office of the general secretary, Miss Kemper, has been much improved by the addition of a handsome couch, the gift of the W. C. T. U. of West Duluth.

TO FIGHT DIVORCE LAWS.

Plan of United Catholic and Protestant Churches.

New York, May 26.—At a secret meeting held in this city at which leading men from the Protestant Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian churches were present, it was decided to enter upon a vigorous campaign against divorce.

It was in accordance with the decision reached by this meeting that a letter was addressed to Archbishop Farley of the Roman Catholic church, asking his co-operation in the movement. Neither temperance, Sabbath breaking, smoking nor gambling has sufficed to bring the Protestant and the Roman Catholic churches upon a common platform, but upon the issue of divorce it has been decided to attempt to bring all religious sects together.

Father Hayes, secretary for Archbishop Farley, said:

"I know Archbishop Farley is glad to see the Protestant churches preparing to take a firmer stand against divorce, but I do not see how he can enter into any conference on the subject except for the purpose of advising adherence to the fixed rule of the Roman Catholic church."

A LITTLE HILL FARM.

Senator Spooner Tells of New Hampshire Purchase.

Washington, May 26—Senator Spooner of Wisconsin is very much amused at the publication of reports to the effect that he has purchased an estate, practically covering the entire town of Pittsburg, in Northern New Hampshire, and that he intended to convert it into a game preserve. When his attention was called to the report the senator said:

"The story as published is absurd. The town of Pittsburg is about the size of an ordinary county. I certainly have had no thought of acquiring a game preserve. The whole region in Northern New Hampshire is a game preserve, abounding in deer and fish. The only foundation for the story is that I have bought, very cheaply, the old Blanchard farm of several hundred acres of hills, stone and nonarable lands, very high up and commanding a beautiful view of the Connecticut river and hills in Canada and Maine. It is an interesting spot. The nights are cool and, open-air life, which I need, is delightful. I gave up going to Nantucket some years ago, and recently disposed of my place there. Wisconsin men would laugh at the Blanchard farm as a farm."

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

William Bang, Well Known Menominee Contractor, Commits Suicide.

Menominee—William Bang, aged 41 years, one of the best known contractors in the upper peninsula, committed suicide Monday morning by shooting himself in the right temple with a 32-caliber revolver. His body was found near the Milwaukee railroad tracks, with the revolver near his head. Only one chamber of the revolver had been discharged. No motive for the deed is known, but it is supposed he had overworked. A large roll of money and various articles were found in his pockets. Mr. Bang built many large buildings in Northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula and seemed to be making money. He had not been home since Thursday. He returned Sunday night from Escanaba, but did not go to his home. He is survived by his wife and nine children.

Mrs. Archie V. Freeman is making efforts to secure a petition to present to the state board of pardons at its next meeting for the pardon of her husband, Archie V. Freeman, formerly manager of Ruber & Watson, cedar yard, in this city, who is serving a four-year term in the branch state prison at Marquette for conspiracy to defraud. Many well-known citizens of Menominee and Judge Chittenden, of the southern peninsula, are doing all they can to assist Mrs. Freeman. Freeman is chief steward of the hospital department of the prison and is one of the most trusted prisoners in the place.

The lumber, shingle and lath mill of Perron Bros., of Perronville, was destroyed by fire. Two carloads of lumber burned and it was with difficulty that the lumber in the yard was saved.

Escanaba—Charles Miller, a laundryman of this city, and his brother Isadore, have been otified by Sacramento (Cal.) attorneys that they, with seven other nephews and neices, are the heirs to the estate of Mrs. Charles Miller, who died in that city recently. The estate is worth in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Mrs. Miller's husband was the uncle of the Miller brothers of Escanaba. When he died the estate passed to his wife with the provision that at her death it was to divert to his nine nephews and neices.

Newberry—The body of Rory McLeod, a woodsman, formerly of the Soo, was found burned to a crisp in the little cabin he had occupied. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Kimball & Kerr, logging operators, have closed a contract with the Michigan Iron company, operators of the Newberry blast furnace, that will keep a large force of men employed for two years or more in the woods near Newberry. The contract calls for the lumbering of the hemlock and pine timber scattered through the iron company's extensive hardwood holdings north of town. There is at least 20,000,000 feet of hemlock alone on the tract.

Iron Mountain—In response to a call of the mayor for volunteers, searching parties have been organized for Nels Nelson, who disappeared last week. Some think he has been murdered or committed suicide.

Houghton—Arrangements are being made by John H. Hill, of Escanaba, to take a party of Houghton county ad iron country mining men and investors to the Sturgeon Lake country in Ontario June 2.

Hancock—It is believed the common council will grant Harry T. Ingersoll and William Mercer, of Laurium, a franchise to supply Hancock with gas for heating and lighting purposes.

Wakefield—All the buildings at the Meteor mine, two miles east of here, will be moved to this place, the mine being permanently closed.

DELEGATES ARE SICK

Quite a Number of Trainmen Have Pneumonia at Denver.

Denver, May 26.—The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which is in national convention in this city, has voted to increase its protection fund from $100,000 to $500,000. This fund is used when strikes are called by that body. The provision of the constitution limiting the payment of committees by local and grand lodges has been changed so as to give them power to increase the pay and also to settle with the committees in less time than formerly required.

The convention is considering the adoption of a rule making it compulsory upon the order to pay insurance claims, based upon death or total disability, within thirty days instead of sixty days as now.

A number of delegates are ill. G. A. Hayes, of Windsor, Ont., is reported in a serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital. He is suffering from pneumonia. Five others are afflicted with pneumonia, but their condition is causing no alar mat present.

H. E. Lewis, of Ashland, Wis., has the grip in mild form.

STRIKERS ARRESTED

Montreal, May 26.—Nearly fifty arrests have been made of strikers who were concerned in the attacks upon the cars on St. Catherine and St. Denis streets, Sunday afternoon. Among the men arrested was Business Manager E. Aub, of the local union, who is charged with intimidation. Instructions were given by Attorney General Archambault that bail was not to be accepted for anyone arrested in connection with the strike until they had appeared in court. As a result, yesterday being a legal holiday, the cells of the police station have been fairly well filled. Those arrested will be brought up this morning in the police court.

TRAGIC END OF PARTY.

Arras, France, May 26.—A wedding party at the Citadel barracks here las night ended tragically with the death of three women and the injury of 27 other persons. At the dance of the wedding, a lamp was overturned and set fire to the curtains. A panic ensued, the doors were blocked and three of the women were unable to escape and perished in the flames.

MRS. McCORMICK INDICTED.

Memphis, May 26.—The grand jury this afternoon returned an indictment against Mrs. Lizzie McCormick, charging murder in the first degree. Mrs. McCormick has been under arrest here for some time charged with sending a bottle of poisoned whisky to a woman in Cincinnati, and which caused the death of one person.

RACE WAS CLOSE

The Reliance Defeats the Constitution By Small Margin.

The Columbia Was In the Rear During Entire Race.

Matinicock Point, L. I., May 26.—After a pretty thorough testing of the Reliance and the Columbia in light, uncertain airs, in which the new boat certainly showed superiority, the yachting fraternity hailed with some satisfaction this morning a nice, steady breeze of about five knots strength blowing in from the southeast. As a similar breeze held all day yesterday, there was hope that it would continue today and give the third contest between the yachts some semblance to a race. It is somewhat singular that in but few of the preliminary races and cup contests for eight years has the wind been of more than ordinary strength, and that the oldest of the three boats, the Columbia, has never raced in a breeze of more than twenty knots' velocity. The strong southwesters, such as well nigh wrecked the Independence while rounding Cape Cod two years ago, and which sent the New York Yacht club fleet from Newport to Vineyard Haven, and then round to Provincetown last August, have been absent when the time came to race the cup yachts.

The day from a spectator's standpoint was delightful. The sky was clear, the air cool and invigorating, and there were no indications of rain from any quarter.

With the wind from the southeast it looked as if the committee would send the yachts over a small equilateral triangular course of fifteen miles, with a broad reach across the sound to Great Captain's island, a beat of six miles to Oyster bay and another reach to the finish. With so little windward work and so much reaching it looked like a day for the Reliance.

Still, the loyal adherents of the older yacht seemed satisfied, although several frankly admitted heir desire to see the boats setn away on a good long thrash to windward and a run home with spinnakers set, conditions which have not obtained so far this season.

At 9 o'clock the Columbia and the Constitution lay moored in Hemstead harbor, while the Reliance was at anchorage at City island. The crew of the Constitution were about early after breakfast, and before 8 o'clock the headsails were sent aloft in stops. The Columbia's crew were not far behind of her competitor and a lively brush it was between them in hoisting the great mainsails. The Columbia's crew won out by a few minutes' time. The foreboom was well advanced when the first of the excursion fleet appeared beyond execution rock. About the same time the Reliance was observed near the shore of the mainland, under sail. Soon the excursion fleet began to appear in larger numbers, and some lively bursts of speed were made by the big steam yachts in their rush for advantageous positions at the startling line. Following these were a long line of small sailing craft, and the regatta's committee boat, the Privateer.

The wind increased as the morning advanced, and at 10 a. m. had freshened to nine knots.

At 10:20 there was every indication that the race would start on time and finish early in the afternoon. The wind was freshening rapidly and was hauling around to a light west of south, so that there was some doubt of the course to be sailed.

All three of the yachts were ready to get under way before 11 o'clock and at about the same time the tug with the turning marks arrived off the point.

The preliminary gun was fired at 12 o'clock mean time and 15 minutes later the starting gun boomed forth.

The buoy for the starting line was set by the course tug at 10:45, when the Privateer took up her position. The Reliance was then heading across the sound toward the committee boat.

The starting time, unofficial, was: Reliance, 12:15:05; Columbia, 12:15:08; Constitution, 12:15:28.

After the start the Constitution took up her position on the weather of the two other boats, and during the first five minutes of the race held the new boat in good shape.

All three boats went across the line on the starboard tack, with jib topsails set, the first leg being a reach. Off Oak Neck, the Reliance was just ahead of the Constitution and in a few minutes held established herself at the head. The two boats, however, indulged in a luffing match which took them well in shore, while the Columbia kept off further into the sound. All three boats were footing very fast but from shore it looked as if the Reliance was dropping her competitors, although not as rapidly as in the other two races.

On the first leg the Reliance beat the Constitution less than half a minute. The turning time from shore unofficial was: Reliance, 12:43:20; Constitution, 12:43:48; Columbia, 12:45:22.

The boats had a strong wind all the way to the first mark and the showing of the new boat on this leg was somewhat of a disappointment. The Reliance turned the second mark at 1:34:07; Constitution 1:35:01. At this time the Columbia was about a mile and a half astern. A slight gain of the Reliance over the Constitution was apparently due to better sail handling. The Columbia rounded the second mark at 1:23:43.

The Reliance turned the home stake at 1:44:28; Constitution 1:47:30. Both boats were badly handicapped by two long tows, one of which carried away the homestake. The yachts started off by agreement to sail the course twice, although the program provided for sailing over it but once. The Columbia was still away astern. The Columbia turned the starting stake at 1:59:05. The boats started over the course for the second time with a strong puffy wind.

The boats turned the first mark on the second round: Reliance, 2:12:15; Constitution, 2:15:20. The Columbia was still some distance astern.

On the second leg of the second round the Constitution gained 1¼ minutes on the Reliance. The times, unofficial at the second mark of the second round: Reliance, 2:40:28; Constitution, 2:41:19; Columbia, 2:53:32.

The Reliance beat the Constitution over the thirty mile course in a twelve knot breeze by one minute 53 seconds, and the Columbia by about two miles.

The Reliance finished at 3:12:17. The Constitution finished at 3:14:10. The Columbia was two miles astern.

As the Reliance started 25 seconds ahead of the Constitution, the new boat defeated the old one by 1 minute, 28 seconds.

TEN THOUSAND ARE HOMELESS

Berlin, May 26.—The German-Jewish Relief society which is seeking to relieve the Kishineff sufferers has sent an agent to Kishineff, who reports that 700 houses were destroyed, that 600 shops were sacked and that about 10,000 persons, or 2000 families, are homeless as a result of the massacre of last month. Forty-five persons were killed outright during the massacre, 84 were severely wounded and 500 were slightly injured.

The widows at Kishineff have declined to receive money, fearing fresh attacks during the Russian Whitsuntide.

The number of persons affected through the loss of positions or otherwise is estimated at 20,000, mostly belonging to the poorer classes. The rich Jews were not attacked and the Tageblatt asserts that they purchased exemption by paying the governor money.

TO BE TRIED WITH MILLER

Washington, May 26.—United States Marshal Pettit, at Rockville, Ind., today notified the department by telegraph of the arrest of Joseph M. Johns, the man charged with conspiracy in the alleged bribery of Daniel V. Miller, the assistant attorney for the postoffice department, who was arrested last night. Johns will be tried with Miller at Cincinnati. Their cases will be presented to the federal grand jury, which meets Oct. 1. According to evidence in possession of the postal authorities, Johns received $4500 as a result of the decision of Acting Attorney General Christiancy, that the Ryan Investment company was entitled to use the mails. Miller was an assistant of Christiancy. The authorities here say that Johns was not an attorney of the Ryan concern, but has been a lifelong friend and political associate of Miler. The exact division of the $4500 is not known. Miller was at the postoffice department today in conference with Assistant Attorney General Robb, who questioned him closely regarding the case. The case of the Arnold company, the turf investment concern, which was responsible for the first charges against the office of the assistant attorney general, and which despite the adverse report of postoffice inspectors, secured a favorable decision from the office, is still under investigation.

Is Entered Knocking Out the "Beef Trust."

Chicago, May 26.—Judge Grosscup, in federal court, today entered the final order in the so-called "beef trust" case, restraining the packers from combining to regulate the trade. The order covers all the points in the previous decision and is regarded as a complete victory for the government. An appeal will be taken.

The order covers all the large packing concerns doing business in this district, and in substance permanently enjoins them from doing anything in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The name of the late Gustavus F. Swift was eliminated from the list, though the firm of Swift & Co. is still covered by the decree.

KILLED BY TORNADO.

Two Persons Lose Lives at Buxton, Iowa.

Des Moines, May 26.—Baxton, a small town 50 miles southeast of Des Moines, was partially wiped out by a tornado at 9:30 o'clock today. Two persons were killed outright, one was fatally injured, and eight others more or less seriously injured.

HAD LIVELY TRIP.

Government Launch Vidette Out In the Storm.

Assistant United States Engineer J. H. Darling, who is out on a trip in the government launch Vidette, to inspect the Ontanagon river and the breakwater at Grand Marais, Minn., writes the local office that the Vidette had an eventful trip across the lake from Ontanagon, to the north shore, last Sunday. Up to that day fine weather was encountered but the Vidette ran into the storm that was central over Lake Superior Sunday and the passage was so rough that it was practically impossible for any of the party to stay in their births.

The Vidette is now at Grand Marais and is not expected to leave that port on the return trip until the weather is settled. Captain D. D. Gaillard, former engineer in charge of this district, is expected to arrive from Washington, D. C., tomorrow or Thursday, on his way to his new station at Vancouver barracks on the Pacific coast.

RACE NOT CONTINUED.

Interdiction of Government Stopped the Automobilists.

Paris, May 26.—The second stretch of the Paris-Madrid automobile race was not started this morning owing to the interdiction of the French and Spanish governments. Many of the contestants withdrew and some of them proceeded leisurely.

Marcel Renault, one of the injured contestants, had a sinking spell early this morning. Later, however, he revived, and renewed hope was held out for his recovery. The other injured persons are progressing favorably.

Maurice Farman and other prominent drivers have announced their permanent withdrawal from racing.

KILLED FOUR INSTANTLY

Disastrous Explosion of Gas In Mine at Federal, Pa.

Pittsburg, May 26.—An explosion of gas in the Chartiers Coal and Coke company's mine at Federal, Pa., about noon today, killed four men instantly, badly burned seven and slightly injured a number of others. Several more are missing and are believed to be still in the mine. As the mine is on fire it is feared they will be burned to death or suffocated by smoke.

The dead:
JAMES NELSON.
WILLIAM NELSON.
JOSEPH SALER.
JOSEPH JONAK.

The injured are foreigners and their names are not known. Five are believed to be fatally hurt.

About seventy-five men were at work when the explosion occurred. It is thought it was due to an accumulation of fire damp from an open lamp.

BANKER AND BROKER

Indulge In Shooting Scrape Over Two Women.

Chicago, May 26.—William H. Robinson, a New York bank clerk, living at a downtown hotel here, was shot above the heart and severely wounded early today by Lawrence L. Curtis, a broker. The affair was the result of a fight in a South Side resort. Curtis was arrested and charged with assault to kill. Robinson's condition is not believed to be dangerous. The men were said to have been in the company of two women and that the quarrel resulted from a discussion which they engaged in. After the shooting Curtis is said to have endeavored to escape by jumping into a cab, but was stopped by the police.

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY

Brought Out at the Trial Of La Crosse Broker.

La Crosse, Wis., May 26.—There was considerable sensational testimony introduced this morning in the trial of J. L. Van Wormer, who is charged with embezzling $10,000 of Finley, Barrell & Co., the Chicago brokers, whom he represented in this city.

Manager J. Thompson, of Finley, Barrell & Co., testified that after he had been called to this city to make an effort to settle the shortage of Mr. Van Wormer, the latter admitted to him that he had been running a bucket shop in connection with his legitimate brokerage business; that he was short about $1,000, could make no settlement, and the firm could send him to the penitentiary if it wished. Mr. Thompson further stated that Van Wormer kept two sets of books, and while examining these containing a record of the bucket shop trades, he ran across an account which showed that Mr. Van Wormer had been bucket shopping his brother-in-law's trades instead of sending them into Chicago to be executed on the board of trade floor.

Attorney Edward Everett, of Chicago, also testified that Van Wormer had admitted his guilt to him.

E. B. Noyes, one of the employes of Finley, Barrell & Co., testified in detail the operations of the board of trade as contrasted with a bucket shop.

Diseases Cured!

PAY NO MONEY IN ADVANCE.

Many sick people have suffered so much from unskilled and unscrupulous specialists that they have lost all faith in doctors. Many have paid large fees and have taken medicine for years to no benefit. They want to get well and are willing to pay a good price to be cured, but they very justly object to paying a large fee in advance. They want a trial treatment on a trial bottle of medicine.

To all such I make this REMARKABLE OFFER:

Simply write me, giving your name and address and stating as clearly as possible your trouble. When I have made a careful examination and diagnosis of your case and entered it in my case book, I will send you one package of medicine on trial, which you can take at my risk. If it gives any relief the cost will be $5. If it fails to help you it costs you nothing, and you shall be the judge.

ALL THE RISK IS MINE.

Can anything be fairer than this? I am making an offer which no other physician will make. They can't afford to. I refer to any bank in Duluth as to my financial standing and responsibility. This offer proves that I have great faith in my remedies. I KNOW they will cure, otherwise I wouldn't dare make this offer. It would ruin me, as I ship a hundred packages every day. I have tested this system for twenty years and I know that nine people out of ten are willing to pay where they get any benefit.

NO CURE, NO PAY.

is my motto. I do this to convince you who hesitate—who doubt all men's claims. I carry a line of specific medicines which cannot be had anywhere else in the state. Their power to cure disease is simply marvelous.

Syphilis, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Skin Affections, Disease of the Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Nervous Troubles, Sexual Weakness, Varicocele and Throat and Lung Troubles cured as if by magic.

Call or write. Office private; no exposure. Consultation free. Hours, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Address,

DECLINE IN WHEAT

Market Is Dull and Dragging and Lower Level Reached.

Foreign Demand Dull—Flax Lower and Price Declines.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 26.—The wheat market started out easy this morning and although the opening loss was largely recovered the market ruled dull and weak. The fine weather in the wheat district and an increase in receipts caused the weakness. The May option was generally stronger than the July and in the Duluth market the September was stronger than July.

The Liverpool market closed unchanged, Paris unchanged to ¼c lower and Antwerp unchanged. There was no foreign demand to speak of and local shippers found the foreign tone extremely dull.

The market was influenced somewhat during the morning by a tip that Bradstreet's report of the visible supply would show a decrease of 5,000,000 bushels out later it was announced that the report would not be out until tomorrow.

Primary receipts of wheat were about the same as last year 330,000 bushels, against 365,000 bus. last year. Shipments 267,000 bus. last year, 511,000 bus. Clearances were 406,000 bus.

In the Liverpool market corn closed ⅜@½d higher and in Chicago July corn was ¼c higher. July oats also made an advance of the same amount. Primary receipts of corn were 967,000 bus., last year 320,000 bus. Shipments 336,000 bus., last year 570,000 bus. Clearances were 58,000 bus.

Trading in wheat was quiet on the Duluth board. July was weak at the opening at 72c and was 5c off at 73¾c, and it sold up to 75⅝c at 10:05. From there it fell off to 75¾c at 11:35 and closed at 75¾c. This was a decline of ⅝@¾c. September was stronger than July closing unchanged. May declined ¼c. In Chicago the May was unchanged and July ⅛c lower. In Minneapolis May closed ⅛c up and July ⅛@¼c off. New York May was also up ⅛c and July ⅜c lower.

Cash sales were but a few cars and prices continued at 8c over July for No. 1 northern and 6c under No. 1 for No. 2.

Flax trading was light and the market lower. July sold ½c off to $1.16¾, reacted to $1.18⅛ and closed at $1.18⅛. September and October also declined ½c. Flax receipts were 22 cars at Duluth and 9 at Minneapolis.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—To arrive, No. 1 hard, 80¾c; No. 1 northern, 78¾c; No. 2 northern, 76¾c; May, No. 1 northern, 78¾c; July, 78¾c; September, 73¾c. Flax—In store, $1.18¾; to arrive, $1.18⅛; on track, $1.18⅛; May, $1.18¾; July, $1.16¾; September, $1.17½; October, $1.16½; November, $1.16¼. Oats—To arrive, 34½@35c; on track, 34½-36c; May 34c. Rye—To arrive, 66c; on track, 56c; May, 50c. Barley, 35@55c.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 33; last year, 10; oats, 1; rye, 2; flax, 22; last year 4.

Receipts: Wheat, 25,877; oats, 7,257; flax 6717.

Shipments: Wheat, 114,871; oats, 38,853; flax, 63,335.

market last week lost slightly. The close was unchanged to ⅛c under the week previous, but the only material decline was on the May. There was improved weather at home and in Europe. There was a slower export demand, but there were large clearances. The cash people generally, both the wheat and the flour, had nothing to urge in favor of immediately higher prices.

There was a good deal from the Southwest as to the crop losses which had been incurred. The news from the Northwest was of good weather. The Pacific coast was still without the rain it has been needing. The statisticians are estimating a drop in the wheat condition of 9 points since May 1. That would leave the prospect for about 675,000,000 bus. winter wheat. A year ago the same authorities were estimating 800,000,000 bus., and the outcome was around 700,000,000 bus. There is still the general belief the winter wheat crop will be the largest ever grown. The present prospect is for a large area of spring wheat. The start has been a good one. The views as to prices depend most on theories as to the foreign demand. Prices abroad are higher than they were a year ago, although the quotations on the active futures here are lower. The grain people with foreign connections expect a fine wheat business this summer with the other world. The unanimity of the exporters on this point has had most to do with the swing of the general sentiment of late from radical bearishness to moderate bullishness.

The immediate speculative situations is involved. There is a large holding of May, and Armour is moving out the contract stock. If there is to be a change May price the July is likely to be some influenced. But the market is not far from the period of crop movement; and logically that is one of weak prices; unless there is something out of the ordinary to outweigh the appearance of new supplies. There were crop complaints from abroad last year of about the same character as this; and there was nervousness about the rains even early in June. Yet the wheat price last year lost 2c to 3c in the first half of June; and there was no strength until it became apparent there was to be a wet harvest.

There is the prospect this season of the effect of the early movement being offset by a lack of contract stock here. If the present local contract wheat supply is moved away, there is uncertainty about it being renewed by July. It is believed the cold weather of May delayed the crop somewhat. The July trading has been on a large scale. The price of this future may be decided in part by the operations of the short interest and the amount of deliverable wheat here.

There is nothing which will influence the market for the next thirty days any much as the weather. The harvest begins next week in Texas; and in a fortnight more will be under way in southern Kansas, southern Illinois and Missouri. The French harvest is about simultaneous with the winter wheat harvesting in this country. All over the world, beginning a fortnight from now, growers and speculators will have thoughts mostly on harvest conditions in the winter wheat sections.

Harris, Gates & Co., Chicago.: There does not seem to be much doubt but that there will be a large European demand for our wheat crop this year. The European wheat crops are reported to be in an exceptionally poor state. The Australian crop promises to be an almost total failure. The Venezuelan crop is reported late and of inferior grade. The yield of wheat in Victoria falls short of the worst estimates yet. It is now stated, according to official returns published by the government at only 2,386,000 bushels, which represents an average of but 1.26 bus. per acre in the area sown. The present crop is the smallest since 1895, all of which should naturally have an important and beneficial bearing on our export trade.

In regard to the claimed discrepancy of 6,000,000 bus. in a Canadian estimate of the wheat crop there a Canadian authority says:

"In this statement there is no mention of the Manitoba wheat shipped off the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern lines to Duluth and Minneapolis, aggregating 1,750,000 bushels. The statement also overlooks the quantity of wheat shipped to Australia via Vancouver and Seattle aggregating half a million bushels. Neither does it take into account the wheat consumed by the Manitoba mills west of and including Keewatin. I think it will be found that the estimate of 64,000,000 bushels will be shown to be correct when the total is counted up at the end of the crop year."

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf to Coe Commission Company: It is natural following such a weak market as prevailed yesterday that sentiment should seriously dampen and especially among the rank and file of professional traders. Yet in influential financial circles there is a strong feeling that barring accidents the market will get no serious decline from its present level. It is a well known fact and experience teaches that stocks go lower than they ought and vice versa. The present instance the decline has exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine bears. By both bulls and bears prices are admitted to be very low, it is also agreed that there has been no such decrease in intrinsic values the past three or four months as has taken place in prices, the fall in which represents a shrinkage of over $27,000,000. The inference is that powerful manipulation has been at work and that some great coup is in progress. The nature of which will not be revealed till the financial atmosphere is cleared up. It is believed it will be found that the control of one or two important railroad systems has passed and that the Rockefellers and Goulds will have become through enormous purchases of stocks, notably New York Central, and Eries, one of the dominant influences in the Grand Trunk line situation. Whether this consummation will mark the beginning of a bull movement is for the future to determine. Conservative belief is that it will and in the meantime both the Trunk line stocks and the Grangers should be bought on every drive. The drop in St. Paul is regarded as part of the manipulation above referred. It is said the movement of this stock is no longer a mystery, but that the liquidation started with heavy selling by the Moores of stock bought above 180. This was followed by heavy pressure from interests working for a decline in the general list.

Ridgeley to W. H. Laidley & Co.: A certain prominent party who was heavy buyer of St. Paul supposed to be acting for insiders has last few days been selling it heavily secretly and now openly selling, and perhaps secretly buying, in order to induce outsiders to let go. On the other hand the newspapers are now bearish enough to indicate that bottom has been reached. New York Central and Pennsylvania were almost the only stocks that held. They are the pair that began to decline first way back in August and again in January. Perhaps they will be the first to have a rise. The underwriting of Pennsylvania indicates that stock will be supported if possible around 126 but it is hard to see a bull argument in this. Tuesday is rally day even in a bear market and stocks should be a purchase for a turn at least. Whether the rally will be only temporary is too much for me. Certainly prices are already much too low. The violent break yesterday looks like a finish up but then it looked the same before.

Coe Commission company: The market opened strong with small gains. London prices for American stocks were very strong, this combined with some covering by shorts gave the market a strong upward tendency. Looks as if the strong interests who have been quietly accumulating the better class of stocks on this break have the market well in hand and that we are due for a general reaction and that values will gradually work much higher.

Town Topics: There are times when conditions do not govern stock fluctuations; this is one of them. The market is dealing with individuals and not conditions. There is no reason for the present decline except that millionaires are being compelled to sacrifice their high class holdings to protect the undersigned. We believe there is considerable truth in the story of a Standard Oil-Gould attack on the Pennsylvania-Morgan interests. Those who can afford to buy and take stocks returning 5 per cent or more on the investment, but we don't pretend to say that they will not go lower although a rally is due and according to all precedent the market should turn on the 1,200,000 share day.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 26.—Trading was fairly active in the cotton market at the opening today but there was comparatively little of the rush and excitement that has marked the last two weeks. Still dabbles were better than during the local closing of yesterday and while the movement continued heavy and the weather recently has been considered more favorable. The market opened firm at a decline of 2 points on May to an advance of 1 points with the new crop months again exhibiting the greatest strength. Speculation early was quite general, the transactions being in smaller lots, but coming from a great number of sources. Even the south and commission houses bought the last month's on the theory that the weekly bureau report due at noon would make a bullish showing while there is also a disposition to look for a bullish monthly report on June. The New Orleans market was a leading factor, being especially strong and enthusiastic with a private wire stating that the bull leader was bidding 12 points for 20,000 after having bid the market up from 11.88 and getting little cotton on the advance. Locally trading became less active after the call, but sentiment was very nervous and the market continued very firm at prices about 8 to 10 points over yesterday's closing.

Spot cotton closed quiet, 20 points lower; middling uplands, 11.70; middling gulf, 11.95; sales, 4012 bales. Cotton futures closed firm: May, 11.23; June, 11.23; July, 11.25; August, 10.81; September, 9.99; October, 9.61; November, 9.50; December, 9.49; January, 9.49.

A NATIVE "BOOZE."

Experiments Are Being Made With Ti Root.

Honolulu, May 19, via San Francisco, May 26.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The military authorities have received word that the Kahauiki tract of land is not desired for a military post at the present time. Options on the tract were secured a short time ago by a government agent.

Experiments are being made here with the Ti Root a producer of alcoholic liquors. The native drink of okolehao is made from this root and it is claimed that it has valuable qualities. Permission was secured to the treasury department for the distillation of enough liquor for experimentation. The liquor is a pure water color, like gin, and is very strong. There are thousands of acres of Ti root on the islands and some local business men plan to introduce the liquor on the mainland if the local laws are amended so as to allow its manufacture, which is now prohibited.

IN MARINE CIRCLES

Supervising Inspectors Will Meet In Washington June 3.

Dense Fog Has Material Effect on Iron Ore Shipments.

The new head of the United States steamboat inspection service, George Uhler, has called a meeting of the supervising inspectors of the various districts in Washington for June 3.

This is a special meeting, the regular annual meeting of the supervising inspectors taking place in January.

It is several years since a special meeting has been called and it is believed that important changes in the steamboat inspection rules will be made.

An official notice of the meeting has been received at the local office of the bureau. The reason for calling the meeting is given in the notice which reads in part as follows:

"The department being in receipt of letters from the large marine boiler manufacturing companies, and many other marine associations—calling for a revision of many of the rules and regulations governing the construction of marine boilers, also the inadequacy of the present laws to meet the growing marine interests of the country—has deemed it advisable to call an extra session of the Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels to meet in the city of Washington on Wednesday, June 3, for the purpose of joint consultation relative to the revising of the said rules and regulations——

"The rules will be revised with reference to the thickness of the shell spacing of braces, riveting and all the other requirements entering into the construction of marine boilers. The purpose of Mr. Uhler is to have the marine boilers and all the equipment of steam vessels over which the government has jurisdiction conform to modern practice. New laws have been found to be necessary in order to see that vessel owners are prompt in securing modern apparatus and appliances.

STURGEON BAY CANAL.

Big Dredging Operations To Be Conducted There.

Four big contracting companies are to unite this year in deepening the Sturgeon Bay ship canal connecting Lake Michigan and Green Bay. Nearly 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth will be dredged away and the government will spend $175,000 on the improvement.

When the work has been completed the ship canal will have been widened from 17 to 21 feet. The first step in the improvement was taken Thursday when the tug Andrew J. Green started from Chicago with a huge dredge. Coaling stations for tugs and dredges will be established along the canal. It will take about eight months to complete the work. With a twenty-one foot channel engineers estimate that the government need do no more work there for half a century to come.

Work will also be commenced this week toward forming a new harbor of refuge on the east shore of Lake Michigan which will be large enough to accommodate the largest lake vessels. The new harbor will be at Portake Lake, ten miles north of Manistee where there is already a harbor for smaller lake craft. The work contemplated includes the dredging of a deep entrance to the harbor. The Fitzsimmons and Cornell company of Chicago has the work in charge. The company has chartered the tug James Hay for the season and she will be sent to the scene of operations. Portage lake is connected with Lake Michigan by a straight channel built by the government and being completely land locked is splendidly adapted for a harbor refuge.

SHORTENS SHIPMENTS.

Fog Lessens Ore Shipments To the Docks.

Ore shipments to the docks at Two Harbors and this city as well as to Allouez Bay, are being shortened, on account of the sticky, impenetrable fogs that have been hanging around the head of the lakes for the past four days, and which are considered a hazard by boatmen.

The fog does not extend so very far out into the lake, but hovers about Duluth, while a few miles either way from here the sun is shining brightly, and the weather is warm.

The boats arriving here in the afternoon, in the ore carrying trade, do not attempt to go out the same night, and in that way there is some congestion of the boats at the docks, and the transportation of ore from the mines to the docks is somewhat slower.

LITTLE MORE GRAIN IN SIGHT.

Chicago, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A little more grain arrived today than for several days past, but still there was not enough to supply cargoes for vessels that had been chartered, and at least one was withdrawn today and sent for iron ore. The owner refused to let his boat lie at the elevators until farmers had brought in their grain to country stations.

MARINE BRIEFS.

Capt. Dackey, of the tug Sarah Smith, was compelled to pay an extra $5 yesterday to have his license renewed, having failed to surrender the old license at the time of its expiration, May 1.

The steamer Milwaukee, of the Western Transit line, which is at present in the harbor, narrowly escaped a bad accident at Hancock Saturday. While attempting to land at a dock in a high wind the cleat to which her line was fastened pulled out. She crushed into a bridge across the canal and only the combined efforts of three tugs which were near the spot saved the bridge and the boat from serious damage.

The Tionesta cleared late last evening for Buffalo with a good cargo of freight and a fair list of passengers.

PORT OF DULUTH.

Arrived—Empire City, Ericsson, Matasafa, light for ore. Lake Erie: J. W. Moore, Bransford, Sacramento, Granada, coal, Lake Erie; Boyce, Keewenaw, Leland, Planet, Racine, light for lumber. Lake Erie: Traverse, Osceola, merchandise, Chicago; China, merchandise, Buffalo.

Departed—Hesper, Corralia, Negaunee, ore, Lake Erie; Eber Ward, Northern Light, Muncy, merchandise, Buffalo, Tionesta, passengers and merchandise, Buffalo; Parker, Gates, light, Lake Superior ports.

SHORTENING TIME.

Burlington Falls In Line With Other Roads.

St. Paul, May 26.—The announcement was made at the Burlington offices that Sunday evening, May 31, and thereafter the night passenger train to Chicago would leave at 9 o'clock instead of at 8 and would arrive at 9 a. m. in Chicago. Effective, the same day, the morning train, hitherto an "except Sunday train," will leave St. Paul daily. If the demand requires it, a new train will be put on in the evening to accommodate local business. The change is a result of the shortening of the time on the Chicago trips of the other lines.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Decline In Wheat Checked By Commission Houses.

Chicago, May 26.—The opening in wheat was easier, liquidation in May on account of fine weather here and abroad having affected the other deliveries. July was ⅛c to ¾c lower at 73¼c to 73⅝c, and on selling by longs sold a shade lower during the first hour. Commission houses supported the market later and checked the decline. Trade was small and receipts showed some increase. Duluth and Minneapolis reported receipts of 148 cars, which, with local receipts of 84 cars, one of contract grade, made a total for the three points of 232 cars, against 158 last week and 126 a year ago.

Good buying by St. Louis houses and by the leading longs gave strength to the market and July advanced to ¾@¾c, near the close, when liquidation caused prices to recede, final figures being 73⅝c, a gain of ⅛c.

Corn opened steady, the mood being influenced somewhat by the possibility of a railroad strike and the consequent embargo on grain movement. July was unchanged to ⅛c lower, at 45c to 45⅛c. There was a good scattered demand and not much offered. Prices showed the influence of the wheat market early, but showed no weakness. Reports that country offerings are decreasing also helped to sustain prices which soon showed an upward tendency. Local receipts were 482 cars, with 50 of contract grade.

Buying on crop damage reports soon brought about a reaction and during the remainder of the day there appeared little disposition to sell. July closed at 45¼@45⅜c, an advance of ⅛@¼c after having sold up to 45½c. Trade was light and the tone firm.

Oats were about steady, with little feature in the trading. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 33⅜c on a fair demand which absorbed the offerings, although the market showed some inclination to sympathize with wheat, and early sales were made at a slight decline from the opening. Local receipts 280 cars.

Provisions were steady to a little easier on the hog situation and there was but little trade. July pork showed a loss of 5c at $16.75, with lard unchanged to 2½c lower at $8.35 to $8.57½ and ribs off 2½c at $9.32½.

Close: Wheat—May, 75¾c; July, 73⅝c; September, 70⅞@71c; December, 71⅝@71¾c. Corn, May, 46c; July, 45⅝@45¾c; September, 44⅞c. Oats, May, 35¾c; July, 34@34½c; September, 31⅜c; December, 31½c. Memorial Day Proclamation!

To the Citizens of Duluth:

The Hon. S. R. Van Sant, governor of the State of Minnesota, having issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to fitly observe Saturday, May 30th, 1903, as and taking counsel with our own sense of obligation to those who by unselfish devotion to their country's cause have earned our gratitude and respect, let us celebrate this day in such a manner as the solemnity of the occasion and the regular program of the old soldiers and sailors will warrant.

With the governor I suggest that "all factories, mills, stores, mercantile houses and offices be closed and all business be suspended."

Given under my hand and seal of the City of Duluth, at the City Hall, in the City of Duluth, this 25th day of May, 1903.

T. W. HUGO,
Mayor.

TAKE LEASE OF SARGENT DOCKS

Jones & Adams Coal Company Locates on Sixth Avenue.

The Jones & Adams Coal company, of Superior, which has been in the negotiations with local parties for docks for some time, has secured a lease on the docks known as the Sargent docks, at the foot of Sixth avenue west, on the bay.

The company will receive coal upon this dock this summer and will probably use it for the landing of coal that must be shipped out on railroads running into Duluth and which are hard to reach at the Superior end.

The company will not abandon its docks at Superior, and the new acquisition in Duluth is for the purpose of taking care of new and increasing business. It is likely that the company will arrange for some more permanent dock property on this side in the near future.

The Jones & Adams company is considered one of the largest independent coal wholesale dealers at the head of the lakes.

COLONY IS LARGE

Three Theatrical Companies Are Now Living In Duluth.

Wilbur Company Arrives Bringing Metropolitan War to Head.

Principals and others of the Wilbur Opera company arrived in Duluth this afternoon over the Wisconsin Central road, having come across Lake Michigan from Saginaw.

The members of the company quartered themselves at various hotels, arranging for long stays. The rest of the company will get here tomorrow morning, and the rehearsals will probably be dispensed with until Sunday.

The appearance of the members of the Wilbur company certainly brings the theatrical managers' fight over the possession of the Metropolitan Opera house to a well-developed head.

There are now two companies in the city, both claiming the right and the night, too, of playing in the Metropolitan Opera house after June 1.

Until Friday night there will be a good deal of dressing by the members of both companies, for up to that time there is absolutely no way to ascertain what the outcome of the dispute will be. It is certain that one company, at least, will have to leave.

Mr. Ferris, whose company is now in the house, has secured a restraining order against the owners of the house, enjoining them from moving or interfering with his stage properties, egress or entrance to the theater, or of the members of his company. The justice of this order will be the subject of argument before the court Friday.

It appears to be a day of ill-omen for someone, and the question is which company will be in a position to change the accepted significance of Friday in the future.

In the meantime the members of the Northwestern Opera company, which opens June 8 at the Lyceum, are coming in, and the theatrical colony in Duluth is reaching large proportions.

The Fastest Warship Afloat.

The new torpedo boat destroyer recently built for the Swedish government is acknowledged to be the fastest warship afloat. Besides its wonderful speed, it is also one of the strongest fighting vessels ever constructed. While such remarkable progress is being made in the production of these life-destroying instruments, it is well to consider the more remarkable progress made in discoveries that save life, the foremost of them being the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. By strengthening the system and curing ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, it has established a record as a life saver unequalled by any other medicine. Are you a sufferer from insomnia, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and want to be cured? Then try the Bitters. It never fails.

The Silberstein & Bondy Company Announce For Tomorrow a Sale of This High Class Tailor Made Suits—Fine Costumes—Jackets and Coats For Women at Exactly Half Price.

Everybody who has ever bought garments of any kind there knows the character of the things this firm sells, so it is needless to go into detail over that. They are now readjusting their stocks, cleaning up on their various lines, and this is their usual way of doing so. The sale begins tomorrow morning at 9 and none will be sold before that hour. No garment will be laid by or reserved for anyone; none will be exchanged after once sold, and alterations are to be charged for.

BACK TO IRELAND

But Husband and Family Will Travel Separately.

Thomas Rankin, of Woodland, will stay in the county jail for a few days, while his wife and children start on their journey to Ireland.

After they are well on their way, Rankin will have his fine paid by friends, who will then start him for Ireland. The primary object of his imprisonment is to arrange matters so that his family can get away on their long journey without trouble and also so that they will have to take different boats.

Mr. Rankin was arrested for assaulting his wife and usually the court is very severe in such cases. A fine of $10 was imposed and in default he was committed to jail for a period of ten days.

Friends who are quietly engineering the family back to Ireland, where they have wealthy and influential relatives, advised Rankin that he had better plead guilty to the charge of assault. He is somewhat deaf and entering the court room saw the judge looking at him and supposed it was up to him to plead, despite the fact the judge had not uttered a word.

"I am guilty, your honor," said the prisoner, without so much as waiting for a charge to be made.

Stopped the Game.

Detective Frank Schulte was an interested spectator during a big mitt card game in a Bowery saloon last night. Albert Ebert and Thomas Neilon found a prospective victim in John Frank. They steered him into a game and the detective quietly watched the two "sharks" deal a couple of hands from a cold deck and then he reached over the heads of the surprised gamblers and raked in the chips, at the same time advising the trio that they were under arrest.

In the municipal court this morning Ebert and Neilon paid fines and costs agregating $17 and Frank's experience cost him $12.

EDITORS AT WASHINGTON

Minnesota Party Taking In Sights of the Capitol City.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota Editorial association, some 150 strong, accompanied in many instances by wives and daughters, arrived in Washington at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and are guests at the Riggs house. The majority of the party, after removing the soil of travel and getting dinner, spent the evening at the famous congressional library, which is now open to the reading public until 10 o'clock each night. This morning the visitors were abroad early and were given a comprehensive and general view of the downtown and residential districts of the capital through a ride on an open electric car. This occupied the forenoon, and this afternoon the various departments, the capitol, the White House, the Washington monument and the bureau of engraving and printing were visited. Tonight those who feel so inclined will take in the several theaters. Tomorrow the majority of the party will visit Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington, and thence across the Potomac to Marshall Hall, a resort famous at this season for planked shad dinners. This program will occupy the major portion of the day. The famous Cabin John Bridge resort will also attract many of the editors and their ladies, as well as Arlington cemetery, where the nation's heroic soldiers and sailors are interred, and probably many of the older members of the party who served during the civil war will take occasion to visit some of the famous battlefields about the capitol city, Bull Run and historic places in Alexandria, Va. Thursday night the visiting editors will be tendered a reception by the Minnesota association, composed of Minnesotans now residing in Washington. This reception will take place in the offices of the St. Paul Dispatch, and it is aimed by those having it in charge to make it a climax to the visit of the Minnesota editors that they will long remember.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

President McGonagle Appoints a Number Authorized at Last Meeting.

President W. A. McGonagle of the Commercial club today announced several of the committees that he was instructed to appoint at the last meeting of he club.

The committee to assist the women's council in the matter of the awards for the best kept lawns in the city is comprised of the following: W. S. Moore, First ward, chairman; J. D. Howard, Second ward; Col. C. H. Graves, Third ward; Thomas E. Hill, Fourth ward; D. W. Scott, Fifth ward; J. J. Moe, Sixth ward; L. A. Barnes, Seventh ward; Dr. David Graham, Eighth ward.

The committee to act as judges in the competition for the most characteristic phrase for the city of Duluth, and to decide to what use the prize winning phrase shall be put, is Julius H. Barnes, chairman; W. S. Bishop and Judge W. A. Cant.

The committee on arrangements for the annual convention of the United Commercial Travelers' association, which will meet in this city June 12 and 13, has extended the Commercial club an invitation to appoint two club members to act with the committee in showing the city to the visitors. President McGonagle has appointed for that committee E. L. Millar and A. W. Kuehnow.

MEAL TIME CONSCIENCE.

What Do the Children Drink?

There are times when mother or father feeds the youngsters something that they know children should not have. Perhaps it is some rich dessert but more often it is tea or coffee. Some compromise by putting in so much hot water that there is not much tea or coffee left, but even that little is pretty certain to do harm. It leads to bigger doses. Then come the coffee ills.

It is better to have some delicious, hot, food drink that you can take yourself and feed to your children conscious that it will help and strengthen and never hurt them. A lady of Oneida, N. Y., says: "I used coffee many years in spite of the conviction that it injured my nervous system and produced my nervous headaches. While visiting a friend I was served with Postum, but it was not well made, still I determined to get a package and try it myself, and after following directions carefully the result was all that could be desired; a delicious, finely flavored, richly colored beverage. Since I quit coffee Postum has worked wonders for me.

"My husband, who always suffered from kidney trouble when drinking coffee, quit the coffee and took up Postum with me and since drinking Postum he has felt stronger and better with no indication of kidney trouble.

"You may be sure I find it a great comfort to have a warm drink at meals that I can give my children with a clear conscience that will help them and not hurt them as coffee or tea would." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

HOLDS OUT NO HOPE

Forecaster Richardson Sees Little Chance For Change In Weather.

All Signs Point to Continuance of the Cold and Fog.

No hope is held out to the shivering, sneezing, fog-covered citizens of Duluth by the obdurate weather man.

"There is no hope for warm, dry weather for several days to come," said H. W. Richardson, of the local weather bureau today. "In fact, there are no signs of a clearing up unless the wind changes and the chances for this are very small at present."

For six days the wind has blown from the northeast bringing with it the cold mist and fog from the lake and even the warmest admirer of Duluth's climate admits that it has its drawbacks.

The temperature has varied from 37 above last Sunday morning to about 55 above, the average being about 45 degrees. The wind has held steady from the northeast varying in velocity from 25 to 40 miles an hour to very light. For nearly a week the sun has not shown his smiling countenance to Duluthians and his warm pleasant smile is almost a forgotten quantity.

"The less said about the weather the better," said Mr. Richardson as he calmly handed out his weather prediction, condemning Duluthians to at least two more days of rain and fog. "I am lying low these days fearing a popular upheaval. Such spells of weather are not unknown here, however, although it is some time since we have had one of such duration. This spring has not been an unpleasant one on the whole. We are merely getting all our disagreeable weather in a bunch."

But every cloud has a silver lining and Duluthians may congratulate themselves as they read the accounts of the "doings" in Iowa and other Middle Western states where cyclones and tornadoes are leveling things and reports from Oklahoma where cloud bursts are destroying thousands of dollars worth of property and endangering hundreds of lives.

Weather observers generally have much contempt for such a personage as Rev. Ira B. Hicks, who assumes to predict the weather changes, but "the Rev. Hicks hit it pretty close this month. He said:

"The last regular storm period for May reaches from the 22d to 28th, merging really with the reactionary disturbances due on the last three days of the month. This is another period, in which heavy and dangerous storms are entirely probable. Monday, the 25th, to Thursday, the 28th, will be the time of greatest violence and probable danger, although general daily disturbances may continue to the end of the month.

"The moon is at new on the 26th, at greatest declination north on the 27th, and in perigee on the 28th. These facts, added to other existing causes, lead us to say that storms of wide and dangerous proportions are very probable on and touching the 26th, 27th and 28th. Phenomenally high temperatures, high humidity and very low barometer will precede the storms, serving effectually as premonitions and warnings of coming storms. Many parts of the country will get heavy downpours of rain and hail at this and other May periods."

He also predicts that June will be a wet month.

ST. PAUL FLYER IN THE DITCH

Engineer Killed, Four Injured In Wreck Near Whiting, Ia.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 26.—Following are the victims of the wreck of the St. Paul flyer on the Chicago & Northwestern at Whiting, Iowa, twenty-eight miles south of here, last night:

The dead:

GEORGE COLEMAN, engineer, Sioux City.

Injured: Oscar Larson, fireman, Kiron, Iowa, three ribs broken, spine badly injured. John Thompson, fireman's helper, Davenport, Iowa, ribs broken, arm broken, head cut. Peter Parsons, mail clerk, Minneapolis, rib broken, arm broken. Isaac Dayhuff, Council Bluffs, baggageman and express messenger. Sliver driven in neck, head and face, seriously cut.

Engineer Coleman died as the relief train pulled into Sioux City this morning. The injured were taken to the Samaritan hospital. All the cars, except the last coach were ditched. The passengers escaped with a severe shaking up. The accident was caused by a box car being blown onto the main track.

LOST HIS LIFE.

Big Buck Drowned While Swimming Across the Lake.

Evidently trying to swim across Lake Superior in the teeth of the current northeast storm a big buck was drowned and the carcass washed up on Minnesota Point at South Twenty-seventh street.

Such occurrences are not infrequent, but several that saw the body of the buck say he was an exceptionally fine specimen, and sportsmen all agree that he must have made a fight of many hours before finally going down under the lashing of the furious seas kicked up by the storm.

A vessel captain recently reported sighting a deer swimming across Lake Superior at a point where the water was fully eighty miles across.

GONE TO HITCHCOCK.

Rules For Sale of Leech Lake Timber.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. A. Richards, commissioner of the land office, this morning went carefully over the rules and regulations which have been prepared for the government of the sale of timber at Leech Lake and contiguous territory, and they were sent over to Secretary Hitchcock this afternoon for approval.

The probabilities are that Secretary Hitchcock will at once approve them, and advertisements will be immediately sent out so as to appear in the papers on or before June 1.

ROCKSAND WON DERBY GREAT DAY AT EPSOM

Enormous Crowds Testify to Old Traditions.

Royal Family Was There In Full Force.

London, May 27.—The result of the race for the Derby stakes for 3-year-olds was that Sir J. Miller's Rocksand won, Vicinius was second and Flotsam was third. Seven horses started.

London, May 27.—The crowded state of the roads to Epsom this morning bore eloquent testimony to the devotion of the Londoners to the traditions of derby day. The weather, the presence of members of royal family and the international character of the field for the great race, all contributed to ensure something like a record attendance. The aristocratic and democratic levels of society, with all the intervening strata, were early on the move. By 8:30 a. m. a never-ending stream of vehicles of every conceivable kind was in full flood. Four-in-hands, motors, brakes, hansoms and other carriages intermingled with the common cavalcade, which emptied Whitechapel of half its donkey population. None of the customary diversions along the road were missing. The king and queen, accompanied by Princess Victoria, the prince and princess of Wales, the duke of Cambridge, the duke and duchess of Connaught took a special train to Epsom and their example was followed by many thousands. The railway stations were thronged throughout the morning by stately dressed women and men.

ROOSEVELT ENDORSED

By Pennsylvania Republican State Convention Held at Harrisburg.

Platform Declared Against Any Change In Tariff Schedules.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 27.—The Republican state convention today endorsed President Roosevelt for renomination and declared against any change in the tariff schedules.

The state administration was strongly endorsed and no mention was made in the platform of the Grady-Salus libel law enacted by the recent legislature. United States Senator Quay declined to accept re-election as chairman of the state committee and his colleague Senator Boies Penrose was chosen his successor.

The convention was remarkable for the unanimity with which it disposed of its business and the lack of contest for the places on the state ticket. Senator Snyder, of Chester county, was named for auditor general; William L. Matthues, of Delaware county, for state treasurer, and Judges Thomas A. Morrison of McKean county and John J. Henderson, of Crawford county, for superrior court judges. Judges Morrison and Henderson are at present members of the superior court by appointment of the governor and their nomination is for the full term of ten years.

The convention was held much earlier than usual on "off years" on account of the desire of Senator Quay and other party leaders to be away during the summer. Mr. Quay was not here during the convention and his interests were in charge of Senator Penrose and other lieutenants, who have been on the ground since Monday. Henry P. Walton, of Philadelphia, speaker of the house of representatives was permanent chairman of the convention, and Congressman Henry H. Bingham, of Philadelphia, was chairman of the resolutions committee.

HEAD CAME OFF

Lynchers Gave Clifton a Drop of Over Forty Feet.

Murder of Mr. and Mrs. Church Avenged By Mob.

Denver, May 27.—A special to the Post from New Castle, Wyo., says: W. C. Clifton, murderer of Mr. and Mrs. John Church, was lynched by a mob from Gillette last night. The mob battered down the jail door, holding up the sheriff and deputy the while, and hung Clifton to a bridge west of town. Clifton's head was cut off by the fall of forty feet.

John W. Church and his wife, who lived on a homestead claim seventy-five miles southwest of New Castle, were never seen alive after March 14 last. Clifton, whose ranch adjoins Church's, was arrested April 7 on suspicion, and on April 17 he confessed he had killed Mr. and Mrs. Church. Their bodies were found at the place indicated by him. Clifton claimed he had killed the couple in self-defense. He had given Church a bill of sale covering personal property to secure repayment of $600 advanced to him by Church.

He said he had repaid this sum and obtained the bill of sale, and that Mrs. Church had threatened him with a six-shooter, demanding the return of the papers. He shot her, he admitted, and being then attacked by Church, killed him also. This story was discredited, as Mrs. Church was a slender little woman only 22 years old.

Church was formerly a stenographer in the Union Pacific offices in Omaha. His family and Clifton's reside in Council Bluffs.

About a year ago Church and Clifton made an agreement to go into the cattle business in Wyoming together, and Church then took up a homestead adjoining Cliftons. Clifton was 31 years old.

MACHEN IS ARRESTED FOR RECEIVING BRIBES

The Former Superintendent Got About $22,000.

Dismissed at Once By Postmaster General.

Washington, May 27.—A. W. Machen, superintendent of the free delivery, who was relieved from duty some time ago, was arrested today at the instigation of the postoffice department charged with receiving bribes from contractors. These bribes are supposed to aggregate $20,000.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow this afternoon issued the following statement:

"A. W. Machen, general superintendent of the free delivery service, was arrested at 1 o'clock today. He is charged with receiving bribes amounting in all to about $22,000 in connection with a contract held by Groff Bros., of Washington, D. C., for a patent fastener used on street letter boxes, known as the Groff fastener. The postoffice department in the past ten years has used about $160,000 worth of these fasteners, and it is shown by ample evidence that for the past three years, at least, Mr. Machen has been receiving 40 per cent of the amounts paid to the Groffs. The transaction of the business was conducted by Dillon B. Groff, who controls the patent of his brother, Samuel M., a policeman."

The arrest of Mr. Machen was the concluding act of an examination of him, which was conducted for three hours today by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, Inspector Fosnes, who relieved Mr. Machen as chief of the free delivery system, and Postoffice Inspector Myer. At the conclusion of the examination Deputy United States Marshal Springman was called into General Bristow's office and made the arrest. The warrant on which Machen was arrested charges him with receiving a bribe. It is understood that other arrests are to follow. Machen was immediately dismissed by the postmaster general. The amount of money paid during the past ten years to Groff Bros. in Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow's statement, was subsequently changed to $140,000.

Mr. Machen was taken before United States Commissioner Taylor and through his attorneys, Douglas & Douglas, demanded an immediate hearing. The district attorney said he was not ready to proceed and asked for postponement for ten days. The preliminary hearing was set for Friday, June 6. Bond was fixed in the sum of $20,000, and Mr. Machen made arrangements with the Union Security & Guarantee company, of Philadelphia to secure bond in that amount. He declined to make any statement but his attorneys stated that they feel confident that they would be able to show conclusively at the proper time, that their client had been guilty of no wrong doing in connection with the Groff contracts, but on the contrary Mr. Machen's administration had been honest and upright. Postmaster General Payne had dismissed Mr. Machen in the following order:

"A. W. Machen is this day removed from the position of general superintendent of free delivery service. His removal is made by reason of malefeasance on his part in the discharge of the duties of his office."

A. W. MACHEN.

TRAINMEN WIN

Demand For Increased Wages Granted By Wisconsin Central.

Men Will Be Reinstated on Mobile & Ohio Road.

Denver, May 27.—Grand Master Morrissey of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which is holding national convention here, has received a telegram from Milwaukee to the effect that the Wisconsin Central system has granted the demands of its trainmen for an increase in wages. Conferences concerning this have been in progress for more than three weeks. The demand was for an increase of 15 per cent for the freight men and 12 per cent for the passenger men.

First Grand Master W. G. Lee has set at rest the rumors about the management of the Mobile & Ohio road refusing to reinstate the men who were on strike, in accordance with the recent contract which ended the four months' strike. In reply to a message he sent to General Manager C. S. Clarke, the latter replied as follows:

"We have no purpose other than kindly intentions based on years of fair dealing and association together. Justice will be done to all concerned, as stipulated in our agreement."

CLUBMEN OF ARDSLEY DOUBT STATEMENT OF DYING MAN

Coachman Who Was Shot Declared Before His Death That His Assailant Was One of the Most Prominent Members of the Club.

New York, May 27.—When it became known that John Hefferman, who was shot on the lawn of the Ardsley club, near Irvington, last Sunday night, had made a statement before he died, naming a prominent member of the club as the man who had shot him, the greatest doubt was expressed by the people of Tarrytown and vicinity.

It could not be possible, they all said, that a man of such social position as the one named was the slayer, and it was tacitly agreed among the club members and the owners of villas around Ardsley-on-the-Hudson to guard his name with great secrecy.

But the fact was brought out last night before Coroner Russell at the inquest that such a statement was made by Hefferman before he died, and the coroner adjourned the inquest until Thursday, when he will resume the hearing of testimony on the premises of the Ardsley club, in view of the scene of the murder.

Dr. Dennison, of Ardsley, who was the first physician called to attend the wounded coachman, said on the witness stand:

"There is one thing Hefferman said to me before he became unconscious, and I feel it my duty to tell it here. He said that he recognized his assailant as a prominent member of the club."

Dr. Dennison had told of his asking the wounded man how he was shot and of sending him to Dobbs Ferry hospital and he added the statement just given as if with reluctance. Coroner Russell did not ask him to reveal the name.

Meanwhile the colony around Ardsley is greatly excited. The police who have been working on the murder mystery believe that if the man named by Hefferman did the shooting he was mistaken in his man—that he really meant to kill some one else and, seeing Hefferman dimly in the dark with a woman on the club terrace, took him for the man he may have suspected.

Mammilian E. Sand, by whom Hefferman was employed as a coachman, is quoted as saying: "The coachman could not have been himself when he made the accusation. He was dying and could not be expected to speak calmly or even correctly. Besides the man named by Hefferman was in the crowd that gathered after the shots were heard in the club house and was one of those who carried Hefferman from the spot where he was shot to the railroad station to be treated by the physician."

FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

New York Club Women Put Themselves on Record.

New York, May 27.—Club women of New York show themselves believers in higher education by condemning the course of the Belleville, Ill., women who recently announced their desire to abolish high schools for girls on the ground that the highly educated girls will not work as servants, and that the servant market is being depleted rapidly. Naturally this movement to abolish the Belleville high school caused an endless amount of comment among the club women, and while some agree with the ideas of the Belleville women, a large majority are strong in their opposition. One prominent club woman, speaking of the proposal, says:

"This is the first time I ever heard of education an an evil. It remained for Belleville, Ill., to give that idea to the world. Education never ruined a woman, and surely a woman is better off with than without knowledge. Why should the comfort of a few women, who have trouble with servants, be compared to the advantage of and future of American women?"

COAT OF TAR AND FEATHERS FOR BREMERTON COUNCILMEN

They Are Held Responsible For Order Closing Navy Yard There and the Citizens of the City Threaten to Treat Them Roughly.

Seattle, May 27.—After six months of temporizing, the people of Bremerton have taken steps to comply fully with all requirements of the government regarding the closing of saloons.

In a written communication to the commandant of the Bremerton navy yard, Mayor Croxton has notified that official that the council has passed resolutions which will not only result in the removal of every saloon in the near future, but which place the council on record as pledged against the issuance of any more saloon licenses.

The citizens of Bremerton threaten a coat of tar and feathers and the forcible expulsion from town of several members of the council, who are held responsible for an order issued yesterday by the navy department practically closing the Puget sound navy yard. Mayor Croxton is authority for this statement, and his expression of the community's sentiment is endorsed by many prominent citizens. By yesterday's order the fleet of warships now in California waters is directed not to sail for Bremerton, where extensive repairs to the vessels were to be made. Besides this, work on the gunboat Ranger, now in the navy yard, will be discontinued and the vessel will be sent to Mare Island, unless the wishes of the department are heeded regarding the closing of a half dozen saloons on Front street.

FOUR PERSONS SUFFOCATED IN FIRE OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN

Miscreant Set Fire to a Tenement House In New York Causing Death of Mother and Three Children and Fatal Injury to Two.

New York, May 27.—Four persons were suffocated to death and three others were so badly burned that it is feared they will die in a fire early today in the 5-story apartment house at No. 306 West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street. The fire is said to have been of incendiary origin. The dead:

MRS. JULIA WANDLING.

Three children of Mrs. Wandling, as follows: George, aged 6; Helene, Aged 4, and Charles, aged 9 years.

Those believed to have been fatally burned are: George Wandling and Victor Johnson. They were removed to a hospital. Johnson discovered the fire and avers to have seen the man who is said to have started it.

Johnson said he saw a man lighting some shavings and waste at the front of the stairs in the house. The stairs had been soaked with kerosene and some of the oil dropped on Johnson's clothing. With his clothes burning, Johnson asserts he chased the incendiary for several blocks before he fell exhausted. Other persons say they saw the man run from the house pursued by Johnson. Mrs. Wandling was found dead with her children on the top floor where they lived.

HAYTIEN CABINET

Will Remain If Frauds Are Thoroughly Investigated.

Port au Prince, Hayti, May 27.—President Nord has refused to accept the resignation of the Haytien cabinet, which was tendered Monday. The ministers retain their portfolios, with the understanding that the cabinet will continue the investigation into the alleged extensive frauds in the issuing of Haytien government securities, amounting to $2,000,000. It was the opposition of the cabinet to a continuance of this investigation which caused the ministers to tender their resignations.

MONTREAL STREET CAR MEN BEATEN IN THEIR STRIKE

Montreal, May 27.—The fourth day of the street railway men's strike accentuated the general recognition of the fact that the men are beaten. The leading event of yesterday's proceedings was the sentence of six months' imprisonment with hard labor, imposed upon Joseph Limoges, a conductor? for his part in the trouble in St. Denis street on Sunday evening. Limoges took a signboard off the car and with it proceeded to belabor a policeman. Limoges was formerly a policeman.

Twenty-six other cases were before the court. The cases were principally on charges of intimidation.

A large batch of additional warrants has been issued. The strikers have attempted to secure the good offices of the aldermen in securing recognition of a local union, provided the men dropped connection with the international association. The aldermen decline to interfere and President Forget subsequently intimated that there would be no interference.

The company would accept nothing but absolute surrender. Quite a number have returned to work. The car service showed a great improvement and another advance is promised with a complete service by Saturday.

GRAND STAMPEDE

Caused By Blowing Out of Fuse In Car.

New York, May 27.—Four men were badly injured, one perhaps fatally, in a stampede that followed the explosion of a fuse in a Fulton street, Brooklyn, car last night. The men hurt were near the door of the car, and were thrown from the platform by the rush of the crowd and trampled upon.

The car was crowded, there being fifteen or twenty women among the passengers. When the fuse blew out with a loud report, all the lights went out. The car caught fire immediately. The men standing up made a rush for the door. The women acted with remarkable coolness, and some of them went to the sucor of the injured men. The fire was extinguished by the motorman and conductor.

FIRE ISLAND HOTEL BURNED.

New York, May 27.—The new hotel on Fire island, built by Sire Brothers, of New York, was destroyed by fire early today. The only ocupant at the time was J. A. Bailey, the care taker, who had a narrow escape from death. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

GIRL DRAGGED TO DEATH BY COLT

Rome, N. Y., May 27.—With a halter rope tied around her wrist and a frightened colt running at top speed, Rena Webster, of Northwestern, was dragged a half mile over a rough highway and killed. Miss Webster, who was 20 years old, led the colt out to allow it to eat in the highway, and to prevent it from getting away while she sat sewing by the roadside, she tied the rope about her wrist. The colt became frightened and ran, dragging the girl headlong over the rough road to the village of Northwestern.

UNION MEN MUST BUILD CHURCH

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 27.—Fearing that his congregation would not attend the new $40,000 church given by Adrian Iselin to the Italian Catholics of this place if non-union labor was employed, Father Manzello, a nephew of Cardinal Satolli, has ordered all the men at work on the building to cease operations. It is said the priest took this action after he had held a consultation with Mr. Iselin and the contractors. The latter had ignored the strike in the building trades and was employing non-union men. This angered the Italians and they told the priest that if the church was built by non-union men they would shun it. The church probably will remain as it is, with the foundation only half completed, until the strike is ended.

TWO TRAINS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Birmingham, Ala., May 27.—Two freights on the Southern railroad, one of them a double-header, collided near Bryan, Ala., this morning.

The dead:

ENGINEER ACTION.

Missing: Engineer Chester; three firemen, names unknown. Fatally hurt: Engineer Johnson, Brakeman J. D. Hill. Both trains were destroyed by fire.

A SCORE OF EMIGRANTS DROWNED

Antwerp, May 27.—The British steamer Huddersfield, which sailed from this port yesterday for Grimsby, England, collided with the Norwegian steamer Uto. The Huddersfield is reported to have foundered. From fifteen to twenty of her passengers are said to have lost their lives. The crew were saved. The passengers were mostly seamen returning to England. It is believed that they were crushed in the collision. The bows of the Uto were damaged.

It was ascertained here later that twenty-two Austrian and Italian emigrants perished when the Huddersfield sank.

London, May 27.—A telegram from Grimsby says the Hudderfield carried twenty-nine emigrants and five other steerage passengers. Twenty of the emigrants are missing. The remainder were taken ashore in boats with the crew of the Huddersfield.

GREAT NEGRO EXODUS IS PLANNED

Boston, May 27.—Plans have been completed by a secret organization, with headquarters here, for a great Negro exodus from the South. The plan of the society, which numbers 500 members, is to deuopplate the entire South and Southwest of Negroes, who will be brought north to Boston and thence distributed throughout the West in agricultural and mining communities. The first great body of emigrants, 5000, will land in Boston about the first of July, the society's leaders say.

The Southern headquarters of the society are in Georgia, but the precise location is kept secret in fear of mob violence, or interference from the whites.

Secret agents of the society are now gathering Negroes from all parts of the South.

THE PRESIDENT MEETS MANY OLD FRIENDS AT HELENA, MONT.

Helena, Mont., May 27.—President Roosevelt's special train arrived here over the Northern Pacific at 8:30 o'clock this morning. An immense crowd was at the station to greet the president. Around the station, a cordon of soldiers had been stationed, while a battalion of the Twenty-sixth United States infantry was drawn up by the train. Battery A., national guard, commenced firing a presidential salute on the arrival of the train. Among the delegation at the station were many old time western friends of the president. One of the first persons he inquired about was John Willis, hunter and trapper of Thompson, Mont., with whom he had camped years ago in this state.

After an informal reception at the station, President Roosevelt and Secretary Loeb, accompanied by Governor Toole and Mayor Edwards entered carriages and the parade moved to the capitol. On the way the procession passed several thousand school children massed in front of the high school building. The main audience was at the capitol, where the president made a thirty minutes speech from the grand stairway of the main entrance.

After the address, the president was escorted to the state house, where took place an informal reception in which former Senator Carter and others took part. After a short drive over the city, the president and party boarded the special train, which had been transferred to the Great Northern tracks and at 12:30 the train left for Buttte.

THE CONSTITUTION STRICTLY IN IT

Glencove, L. I., May 27.—That Capt. Rhodes of the Constitution believes, with other observers of yesterday's yacht race, that the Belmont boat is a formidable candidate for cup defender is evident from his comment today. He said:

"The margin of victory was slender enough to make future contests an interesting uncertainty. We hope to do better next time, but we realize that the Reliance is a wonderful boat."

Tomorrow and Saturday the three boats will again race off Glencove.

THE STATE'S CASE

Evidence Against John Tanko Submitted For a Second Time.

Practically the Same as It Was on Former Trial.

For the second time the evidence in the case of the state against John Tanko, charged with murder in the first degree, is being threshed out before a jury.

Two witnesses were examined for the state yesterday morning and one this morning. C. P. Frank, county surveyor, was called to testify relative to a plat which has been prepared of the location where George Bollich was shot.

Michael Zekovitch, one of the men alleged to have witnessed the shooting of Bollich by Tanko, and Joseph Harnek, a brother-in-law of Tanko, in whose home Tanko had been staying previous to the shooting, were other state witnesses. Harnek was on the stand a long time this morning explaining the relative positions of the parties to the shooting.

Practically the only new thing brought into the case thus far on the second trial has been the shirt and some of the clothing of Bollich, the deceased. The shirt has a large jagged hole where the charge from Tanko's shotgun tore through it into Bollich's body. Previous to its being brought to Duluth the clothing was thoroughly fumigated by the health authorities, and the attendant smells caused the county attorney to hang the articles out of the court house window while they were not in use before the jury.

As in the first trial the testimony comes along slowly on view of the fact that an interpreter has to be used in connection with all the witnesses.

Frank Painter, one of Tanko's chums, who was with him on the night of the shooting of Bollich, and who was one of the witnesses for the state and defense at the first trial, did not appear yesterday, although summoned in regular form, and Judge Dibell ordered an attachment issued for him. Painter will have to appear in court and answer to the charge of contempt. A deputy sheriff was sent out for him last evening and he will probably be brought in today. In case he wishes to be released his bail will be fixed at $250.

HAUNTED TUG

Record Said to Be Visited By Her Victims' Ghosts.

Doors Open and Close Mysteriously—Uncanny Noises Heard.

Duluth has experienced the hair-raising episode of a haunted house. The tugmen in the employ of the Great Lakes company do not propose to be outdone by any mere land-lubbers, and come forward with an up-to-date ghost which haunts a tug, and includes in his repertoire, in addition to the rappings which characterized the house ghost, the shocking habits of extinguishing lanterns and opening and closing doors.

The tug Record is the object of the attentions of the midnight visitor, and she is said to be pursued by the spirits of the men who have met their death while employed on her.

So say the tugmen in the employ of the Great Lakes company, and during the past two or three weeks one man who was employed on the Record has left and others have asked to be transferred to other tugs.

One evening last week one of the men who is employed on the Record come rushing up to the tug office; his face was blanched with fear, and he was trembling like a victim of the fever. He had been watching on the Record while she was laid up at her dock for the night.

He declared that a lantern which he had left in a part of the boat where it was perfectly sheltered from the wind had been extinguished by an unseen hand, and that there were strange noises heard ascending from the hold of the vessel. He refused to return to the tug until one of the other men volunteered to go with him.

Doors which have been left closed were found open, and doors which were left open have been mysteriously closed. The phenomenon of the light being extinguished has been repeated several times and the noises the men declare can be heard nearly every night.

Other men have been terrified while on watch and th "haunt" has come to be one of the principal topics of discussion among the tugmen. Several of the men declare they would resign their situations rather than accept a transfer to the Record.

The ghost or ghosts which are supposed to haunt the Record are those of the men who have met their death while on her. The list comprises four. The ill-fated tug has been sunk three times in the fourteen years of her existence. The first time one man was killed, the second time two met their death and last year when the Record was sunk at the Great Northern ore dock in Superior one man, Thomas McAllister, was fatally scalded by escaping steam. There are thus four ghosts that are licensed to haunt the Record.

Just which one of these four men refuses to rest quietly in his grave is not definitely known. Nothing has yet occurred which might fix the identity of the midnight prowler.

A Noted Knight Templar Owes His Health to Pe-ru-na

Colonel T. P. Moody, of Chicago, Had Catarrh Twenty-five Years and Was Cured By Peruna.

Colonel T. P. Moody, a prominent Knight Templar, is well known in every city in the United States west of Buffalo, N. Y., as a Jeweler's Auctioneer. In the city of Chicago as a prominent lodge man, being a member of the K. T.'s and also of the Masons. The cut shows Colonel Moody in the costume of the Oriental Consistory Masons, 32nd degree.

In a recent letter from 5000 Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill., Mr. Moody says the following:

"For over twenty-five years I suffered from catarrh, and for over ten years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach terribly.

"I have taken all kinds of medicines and have been treated by all kinds of doctors, as thousands of my acquaintances are aware in different parts of the United States, where I have traveled, but my relief was only temporary, until a little over a year ago I started to take Peruna, and at the present time I am better than I have been for twenty years.

"The soreness has left my stomach entirely and I am free from indigestion and dyspepsia and will say to all who are troubled with catarrh or stomach trouble of any kind, don't put it off and suffer, but begin to take Peruna right away, and keep it up until you are cured, as you surely will be if you persevers.

"My wife, as many in the Southwest can say, was troubled with a bad cough and bronchial trouble, and doctors all over the country gave her up to die, as they could do nothing more for her. She began taking Peruna with the result that she is better now than she has been in years, and her cough has almost left her entirely. The soreness has left her lungs and she is as well as she ever was in her life, with thanks, as she says, to Peruna.

"Yours very truly,

"T. P. MOODY."

Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a general curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Prominent men have come to know of its virtues, and are making public utterances on the subject. To save the country we must save the people. To save the people we must protect them from disease. The disease that is at once the most prevalent and stubborn of cure is catarrh.

If one were to make a list of the different names that have been applied to catarrh in different locations and organs, the result would be astonishing. We have often published a partial list of these names, and the surprise caused by the first publication of it to all people, both professional and non-professional, was amusing. And yet we have never enumerated all of the diseases which are classed as catarrh. It must be confessed, however, to see even this partial list drawn up in battle array is rather appalling. If the reader desires to see this list, together with a short exposition of each one, send for our free catarrh book. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

CITY LOSES A CASE

One Garfield Avenue Viaduct Case Decided For the Plaintiff.

In Former Case of Similar Nature City Won Out.

Won one and lost one.

That is the status of the city regarding the Garfield avenue viaduct damage cases. This morning a sealed verdict was returned in district court in the case of Robert Smith against the city of Duluth, giving the plaintiff a judgment of $350. He sued for $2500 for damages alleged to have been done his property by the building of the new viaduct.

In the first case in which the city won out, th plaintiff was Lyman T. Willie, who sued for damages in the amount of $5000.

The third of the series, that of Cyrus B. Thomas against the city, was started for trial in Judge Ensign's room this morning. The complaint is very similar to those in the two other cases except that the property is not improved, and smaller damages are asked.

In Judge Cant's room the trial of the civil action of Margaret Brisconet against J. C. Ferguson was started this morning. The plaintiff alleges that in 1893 a judgment was rendered against the defendant in the sum of $522, which he has never paid. She alleges that in 1900, when she resided in Wisconsin, the defendant took advantage of the bankruptcy act, without giving her notice, and that in 1901 and 1902 he made repeated promises to pay her, but did not fulfill his promise other than at one time to mail her $10 when she was at Medford on business. She asks judgment for the balance due on the former judgment, together with interest.

The personal injury action of Charles Schiller, administrator, against the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company, was called for trial in Judge Cant's room, and on motion of the defendant was dismissed.

ORE CAR JUMPS TRACK.

Causes Excitement But Fortunately Does No Damage.

Considerable excitement was caused at the Duluth, Missabe & Northern ore docks in Oneota this morning by a loaded ore car jumping the tracks. The accident occurred at an early hour this morning.

The car, after running a short distance over the trestle work, was overturned and the contents dumped out on the tracks, a quantity falling through to the ground below. A brakeman who was on the car at the time the car left the tracks, jumped in time to escape injury.

The wrecking car was called out and the car righted.

REORGANIZATION PLANS

For United States Shipbuilding Company Perfected.

New York, May 27.—The plans for the reorganization of the United States Shipbuilding company have been completed by George R. Sheldon and will probably be announced this afternoon. Lewis Nixon, president of the company, said today:

"The reorganization is, of course, in the hands of security holders and as an official of the company I shall take no part.

"The impossibility of using the treasury bonds for working capital, and the urgent need of greater facilities would have used up all earnings for several years. Now money earned will be available for dividends and I shall recommend to security holders the acceptance of the new plans as being in their interest as they provide the needed facilities and ample cash working capacity."

RENAULT IS DEAD.

Automobile Maker Finally Succumbed to His Injuries.

Poitiers, France, May 27.—Marcel Renault, the well known racer and maker of automobiles, who was injured by the overturning of his machine during the first stage of the Paris-Madrid race, died suddenly after midnight at Couve Verac. Renault never recovered full consciousness from the time he was found stretched out beside the roadway.

BUBONIC PLAGUE AT CHILE.

Santiago, Chile, May 27.—The report that cases of bubonic plague had been discovered at the Chilean seaport of Iquique is confirmed. There were ten cases Monday, six of which were fatal. The authorities have taken all the steps possible to prevent a spread of the plague. The disease was brought to Iquique in a cargo of rice from India.

EFFECT ON DISEASES.

Foggy Weather Aggrevates Throat and Lung Troubles.

Physicians say the present depressing and foggy weather is responsible for an unusual amount of sickness that has developed within the past few days.

Persons having throat or lung trouble are especially affected, but the increase in sickness has not been confined to these alone, the doctors claiming that the entire absence of sunshine and pleasant weather has had an extremely detrimental effect upon prsons suffering from nervous affections.

During the past month there were eighty-seven deaths in Duluth, but the health office records shows that twenty-nine of these deaths were the result of disease contracted outside the city and brought here for treatment.

Pneumonia claimed fifteen victims during the past month. Of this number only four were under one year of age, indicating a very material decrease in the number of fatilities among infants from this cause.

During the winter months deaths from pneumonia ran as high as ten and fifteen among children less than a year old. Last month eleven adults succumbed to the disease.

Typhoid fever resulted in seven deaths during the past month, but as has been noticed in the past all were from outside towns or else from places where city water is not used for drinking purposes.

Duluth water continues to be the purest of any city in the United States and the doctors say that they cannot trace a single cause of sickness to it since the water supply has been furnished by the municipal ownership system.

Health Commissioner Robinson's campaign against uncleanliness in dairies has resulted in a general improvement in the purity of the milk supply and the physicians say that disease among babies is noticeably less as a result.

HEARING POSTPONED

In Cases of Curtis Jett and Tom White.

Jackson, Ky., May 27.—The hearing of the cases of Curtis Jett and Tom White, under indictment on the charge of murdering Lawyer J. B. Marcum, has been postponed until tomorrow. Their cases may be again reset the next term of court, which begins next week.

The delay is the result of the non-arrival of witnesses. The town is quiet.

NEW POSTMASTER.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry M. Dye has been appointed postmaster at Flak, Crow Wing county, Minn., vice C. A. Nelson, resigned.

COST HIM MONEY.

David Wright Paid $6 For Making Threats.

David Wright, the striking and indicted freight handler, arrested yesterday for threatening the life of Private Detective Baker, of the Northern Pacific road, was found guilty of making threats this morning and it cost him $6.

Wright is now under bonds to keep the peace and Judge Windom decided that in view of this fact he would not put the man under another bond, saying that Mr. Baker could take this alleged breach of peace before the district court in which Wright had put up the bond.

TOWN SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Shut Until Fall Because of Smallpox Cases.

The development of a few mild cases of smallpox at Tower, Minn., has caused the authorities there to close up the schools without waiting for the closing exercises and final examinations, which were to have come off this week. The school was closed Monday evening and will not be opened again until fall, as the summer vacition is so close at hand.

The Arnold school closed Friday evening with combined graduation and Memorial day exercises. Three graduates received diplomas. Several veterans took part in the exercises.

SEEKS A DIVORCE.

Mrs. Reilly Charges Michael Reilly With Drunkenness.

Norah Reilly seeks a divorce from Michael Reilly and, with that end in view, has brought action in district court on the grounds of habitual drunkenness on the part of the defendant. The plaintiff claims they have two daughters, aged 14 and 15 years, and as she says the defendant is a person of bad moral character, she asks custody of the children. The complaint states that they were married in Eau Claire, Wis., April 1, 1883. The plaintiff is 42 and the defendant 43 years of age.

DOCTOR ON FOOD.

Experimented on Himself.

A physician of Gallion, O., says: "For the last few years I have been a sufferer from indigestion and although I have used various remedies and prepared foods with some benefit it was not until I tried Grape-Nuts that I was completely cured.

"As a food it is pleasant and agreeable, very nutritious and is digested and assimilated with very little effort on the part of the digestive organs. As a nerve food and restorer it has no equal and as such is especially adapted to students and other brain workers. It contains the elements necessary for the building of nerve tissue and by so doing maintains an equilibrium of waste and repair.

"It also enriches the blood by giving an increased number of red blood corpuscles and in this way strengthens all the organs, providing a vital fluid made more nearly perfect. I take great pleasure in recommending its use to my patients for I value it as a food and know it will benefit all who use it." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

TORNADOES IN IOWA CAUSED GREATER LOSS THAN REPORTED

Opening of Wire Communication Shows That the Town of Botna, In Shelby County, Was Completely Demolished By Awful Winds.

Des Moines, May 27.—When wire communiaction with interior towns was opened up today it became apparent that yesterday's tornado caused far greater loss than was at first reported. A report early today from Botna, in Shelby county, received by way of Audubon, says that the town of Botna was completely demolished and that many farm houses near that place were wrecked. At Botna a large church and the Great Western depot are among the buildings wrecked. No definite news of casualties from there had been received up to 11 o'clock today.

At Creston, ten dwellings weer blown off their foundations, and Mis. S. E. Troop and daughter were injured in the wreckage of their home.

Ten miles north of Gray, in Audubon county, two children are reported killed and five others injured seriously. All were occupants of one house.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 27.—A severe storm damaged the hospital of the Iowa Soldiers' home last night. A large brick smokestack was blown down, crashing through the roof, the inmates narrowly escaping injury. Trees in all parts of the city were blown down and many telegraph and telephone wires broken. Heavy rains caused the Iowa river to leave its banks and much damage is threatened in the lowlands.

Des Moines, May 27.—Another death was reported today as a result of the tornado in South Des Moines last night. The home of Richard Wallace was destroyed, and in a fire that resulted from the kitchen stove being overturned, a 3-year-old child was burned to death, being buried under the debris. The Des Moines river is rising an inch every two hours today, with every prospect of exceeding the high water mark of a year ago. Many persons are leaving their homes in the bottoms and stocks are being removed from factories with all possible speed.

La Crosse, Wis., May 27.—Ten miles of farming country south of here are inundated and the loss is heavy. Several clam diggers' houses have been swept away. Landslides and washouts are reported on all railroads, and traffic is practically blocked. The weather bureau predicts a rise of two feet in the river, which will mean a heavy loss to the farmers.

CLOSE EXAMINATION OF BIG GUNS

New York, May 27.—All the guns on the battleships in the navyyard are being examined by an expert from Washington. Rumor has it that the examination is the result of the recent explosion on board the Iowa, and that the Washington authorities are not satisfied with the condition of the ordnance. Among the vessels which the experts will examine is the Iowa. He will make an exhaustive search for the cause of the recent fatal accident. It has been decided that the repairs to the Iowa will cost $100,000. The new gun that is to replace the one shattered has arrived at the yard.

SERVANT PROVED A CLEVER CROOK

New York, May 27.—A thief in the guise of a servant has robbed the residence of George H. Morgan, of this city, of bric-a-brac, silverware and objects of art valued at $10,000 or more. Two valises and the loot which they contained have been recovered. The robbery was committed by a man who had been engaged by Mr. Morgan as a servant. This man went into service Sunday and the police say he is one of the cleverest crooks in America. Whether all the property had been taken at one time or not, is not known. Portions of it may have been taken from the Morgan residence Sunday night and the remainder on Monday night. The articles missing included among the stolen articles were pieces of ornaments, silverware, rare bits of China and small works of art, such as statuettes, clocks, gold and silver cups of ancient design and manufacture, and many of them had been picked up by Mr. Morgan during the twenty-five years that he has been collecting works of art.

LONG LOST BODY

Missing Since Last October, Found In River Near Gowan.

Is That of Stessanes Huttnen, a Prosperous Floodwood Farmer.

Missing since last October, the body of Stessanes Huttnen was taken from the St. Louis river near Gowan yesterday.

Mr. Huttnen was an apparently well-to-do farmer in Floodwood township, and his disappearance created considerable excitement at the time, as it was feared he had met with foul play.

A search was made for him during the fall, and several persons testified to seeing the missing farmer going in the direction of home, and that he had a jug of whisky with him.

Yesterday, while working on a log jam not far from Gowan, a number of rivermen ran across the body securely wedged in between heavy sticks of timber.

Coroner Boyer was notified of the case and detailed John Flood to look after the care of the body. It was decided to have the burial near the point where the body was recovered.

A widow and two children survive the drowned man, they retaining possession of the farm in Floodwood.

The body found inside the ship canal Monday, and supposed to have been one of the nine sailors that lost their lives a year ago by the sinking of the ill-fated whaleback Wilson, has positively been identified as that of Eric Erickson, a young farmer living near Arnold, who came to Duluth four weeks ago to attend a saloon opening.

He was last seen in a saloon in Lake Avenue, and the supposition is that while intoxicated he wandered off a dock in the Lake avenue district.

His body was buried this morning in Park Hill cemetery. He was 23 years of age and unmarried.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING

Held By R. R. Forward & Co., West End.

Large crowds attended the opening of R. R. Forward & Co.'s West End furniture and hardware store yesterday afternoon and evening. A most enjoyable program was rendered by Flaaten's orchestra from 8 to 10 p. m., and every visitor was presented with a numbered ticket good for one chance on a three-piece parlor suite. The firm announces for the remainder of the week some of the greatest values ever given by the store.

IRREGULARITIES.

Charged Against Customs Collector at San Juan.

San Juan, P. R., May 27.—As a result of the visit here of Customs Inspector Leslie M. Cullum, charges have been filed at Washington against Collector Cruzen, alleging irregularities in the conduct of the San Juan office.

According to affidavits submitted with the charges, Collector Cruzen received unlawful emoluments, permitted ships to visit Island ports without an inspector on board in return for presents made to him, and unlawfully demanded cigars from shippers. The collector is absent now, but on his return a reply from him is expected.

Washington, May 27.—The treasury department today made the following statement regarding the report cabled from San Juan to the effect that Collector Cruzen had been charged by Inspector Cullom with smuggling, etc.:

"The investigation referred to at San Juan was the regular one for the port of San Juan ordered by the treasury department, as it orders investigations of all other ports at least once a year. Irregularities were reported by the agent. The collector was accused of receiving presents of tobacco and liquors. In explanation the agent said that they were given to him voluntarily. The collector has been severely censured by the department for his indiscretions and the irregularities of administration disclosed by the report of the investigating officer has been corrected. That report did not disclose any overt act of dishonesty."

ON THE EVE OF A CRISIS

Attorney General and British Columbia Commissioner Removed.

St. Paul, May 27.—A Winnipeg, Man., special to the Dispatch, says: A private telegram from Victoria, B. C., says that Premier Prior has dismissed Attorney General Eberts and Commissioner Wells, as a result of land investigations. A crisis has therefore been reached.

Victoria, B. C., May 27.—British Columbia is on the eve of a political crisis, presumably resulting from the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the Columbia & Western land grants. It is said that D. M. Eberts, attorney general, and W. C. Wells, commissioner of lands and works, have resigned or are on the point of resigning. It is generally believed that a dissolution and general election will follow. The legislature will meet tomorrow, when Premier Prior is expected to make a statement outlining the situation.

TO ADVERTISE THE CARNIVAL

Much of the Printing Matter and Buttons Received.

The Duluth Carnival and Amusement company has received 50,000 circulars to be distributed among the jobbing houses for shipment out of the city with every bill of goods during the few weeks up to the big July fair and carnival.

Over 20,000 envelopes with the carnival colored advertisement were given out to prominent busines houses today and others will be furnished with a stock as fast as they apply at the carnival headquarters. A large number of the 16,000 buttons and flags are already finding their places on the lapels of the carnival boosters.

In the $300 piano contest for the most popular young lady in Duluth, the carnival management has made conditions that the contestants must have the endorsement of some organization and be an acceptable candidate to the board of directors of the carnival company. All organizations are being requested to send in the name of their candidate as the coupon books are now ready for distribution.

The management of the carnival expects a daily attendance of 10,000 people if the weather is at all favorable and all business houses will be requested to decorate all the carnival week with the carnival colors of red, yellow and purple.

THEY WANT TO KNOW

East Superior Street Owners Object to Too Early Assessment.

Would Not Pay Unless Improvement Is Made This Year.

First notice cards are out for the assessment of property to be benefited by the improving of Superior street, between Sixteenth and Twenty-third avenues east.

The estimates for this improvement are:

Vitrified brick	$40,463
Bituminous macadam	45,139
Sheet asphalt	51,801
Sandstone	52,012

In sending out the notice that the assessment will be made next Monday morning, the board of public works takes advatage of the recent charter amendment permitting the levying and collecting of 85 per cent of the estimated cost of an improvement as soon as petitioned for.

It is probable that many property owners in this district will appear before the board next Monday morning to ascertain the probability of having the improvement made this year. There is apparently not much desire on their part to have their money tied up in the city treasury all winter without a tap of work on the improvement, as was the case in the asphalt improvement, between Eighth and Sixteenth avenues, which should have been finished last October and is now just begun.

The figures on bituminous macadam paving are used by the board of public works in sending out the first notice cards, and there is every indication that the bitulithic material will be used, the property owners being very strong against asphalt and not caring to have the noise of vitrified brick in a resident district.

If the assessment is made next Monday it will not be confirmed before June 10 or 15 and will not be due for payment before the early part of July.

Severay city officers today expressed the opinion that there would be enough money available in the permanent revolving fund to take this paving up in August or September, providing the council does not order in too many minor improvements in the way of sewers.

END OF WET WEATHER NEAR

Weather Man Says That Better Things Are In Prospect.

Today is the seventh and probably the last day of the wet, foggy weather.

"The backbone of the cold, wet spell is broken," said Mr. Richardson, of the Local weather bureau, today. "The sky will partly clear tonight, and tomorrow we will have comparatively decent weather. The winds will continue from the northeast, but will be light and variable.

"In the western portion of the state the weather is generally fair, and the temperature rather higher than at Duluth.

"We will probably get rid of our wet, cold weather before Decoration day. At present the chances are all in favor of fine weather for the holiday, so the wet spell was not an unadulterated evil."

THOSE WHO HAVE DIED

Tiffin, Ohio, May 27.—Col. Albert Brewer, Tiffin's millionaire, aged 43 years, died of heart disease this morning. He was in bed with a severe attack of rheumatism. Brewer was under indictment for manslaughter, being charged with killing Luther A. Hershey, in a saloon row. His trial which was put off from time to time, was set for June 15. Today is the anniversary of the death of Hershey and rumors were current that Col. Brewer committed suicide, but they were denied by the attending physician. Col. Brewer was a prominent manufacturer. He served on the state fish and game commission and on Governor Bushnell's staff.

Oakland, Cal., May 27.—Henry K. Belden, of the firm of Belden & Palache, Pacific coast managers of the Hartford Fire Insurance company of Connecticut, is dead in this city, aged 54. He was born in New York city and came west early in life, residing in Milwaukee until 1870, when he came to San Francisco.

New York, May 26.—Mrs. Agnes Ethel Tracey, who as Agnes Ethel was known on the stage three decades ago, died at her home yesterday. She was noted for her charity to unfortunate members of the theatrical profession.

Chicago, May 27.—Isaac S. Lauck, auditor of disbursements of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, whose home is in Topeka, Kan., died suddenly today at the Grand Pacific hotel. He was found in his room unconscious.

ORGANIZE OTHERS

Minnesota Branch of Reciprocity League to Push Campaign.

Will Organize Branches In Every State of the Union.

The campaign for freer commercial relations with Canada, in the prosecution of which business interests in Duluth are so enthusiastically interested, is to be extended throughout the entire United States. This action was determined upon at a meeting of the Minnesota branch of the National Reciprocity League held at Minneapolis yesterday. Duluth was represented by John Miller, president of the Minnesota branch and Ward Ames, member of the finance committee.

The Minnesota branch has been foremost in taking up the matter of securing reciprocal trade relations with Canada and is pushing it with vigor and intelligence. Some time ago it employed Eugene G. Hay, one of the brightest attorneys of Minneapolis, and a many thoroughly conversant with public questions, to make an investigation of the subject. He went into it thoroughly, visiting Ottawa and conferring with the Canadian officials and also Washington, where he investigated the congressional sentiment to some extent. The result of his labors was the issuance of a report presenting the attitude of the United States and Canada upon the question and the action necessary to the accomplishment of the object of the league.

The report of Mr. Hay has caused much new interest in the subject, limited as has been its circulation up to this time.

The Minnesota branch does not, however, intend to rest content with this action. It was determined at the meeting yesterday to conduct a vigorous campaign in other states. Steps will at once be taken toward the organization of similar branches in all of the important states of the Union. The object for which each union will be urged to work will be the same as in this state. As the matter is a congressional one, the votes of congressmen are necessary, and the lines upon which the branches will work will be to get the votes of the congressmen of their states.

The Minnesota branch has reason to believe that there is a most encouraging growth of the sentiment in favor of reciprocity with Canada. The manufacturers of the country are coming to see that it will mean wider markets for them, and it is predicted that they will be found arrayed almost solidly for it.

The agricultural interests are also learning that the 25 cents duty on grain means nothing to them, even though it was established as a measure of protection. Altogether the league is very hopeful, and will work without interruption toward its end.

ORDERED FROM STORE.

Hargis and Little Have Scrap at Jackson.

Jackson, Ky., May 27.—Former State Senator Alex. Hargis and Ellsor Little had an altercation this morning. Hargis finaly ordering Little from his store. No cause is known. The men were friendly before Little relieved Callahan as sheriff. A Gatling gun has been placed in the court house yard covering the jail.

STORY OF MASSACRE

Told by Native of Kishineff Who Saw All That Happened.

New York, May 27.—Mandel Schuelmeister, twenty years old and a native of Kishineff, was among the steerage passengers landed at Ellis Island today from the North German Lloyd liner Grosser Kurfurst. He left Kishineff the Monday after the massacre and says Russia never saw anything to equal the outrage. Questioned, he said: "On the Jewish passover there was much rioting. The houses of Jews were stoned and threats made to kill them. The next day when the Jews came from church the crowd armed with stones attacked the Jews in the street, killing men, women and children. I saw the mob enter the yard of the house next to ours where they stoned a shoemaker to death. While I was hidden in the cellar with my family, I heard the mob enter our house and break its furniture and smash the windows.

"We were released from the cellar by our landlord. The next day the chief of police announced that the rioting must stop, and that we would be safe in the streets. I saw in the cemetery many bodies of men and women waiting to be buried. These were badly mutilated, some with crushed heads and some with large holes through the head made by spikes that were driven through them.

Schulmeister said that the left Kishineff and was smuggled across the border, where "an agent" helped him to get to Bremen.

BETRAYED BY HIS OPERATOR

Notified Firm of What Van Wormer Was Doing.

La Crosse, May 27.—John Parks, who was telegraph operator for J. L. Van Wormer, while he represented Finley, Barrell & Co. in this city, testified this morning as to how the customers were deceived by Van Wormer and given the impression that they were actually doing business on the Chicago board of trade. Witness alleged that when Van Wormer desired to bucket shop a trade he made a cross on the order and laid it on Mr. Parks desk along with other orders which were actually being sent to Chicago. When the operator came to the order with a cross he simply did not send it according to instructions he had previously been given. This continued for several months, but finally Parks refused to accept the bucket shop orders and wrote the firm what Van Wormer was doing. The investigation and the latter's subsequent arrest on the charge of embezzlement followed.

NO CONCESSIONS.

Chicago, May 27.—No concessions will be made by the 12,000 cooks, waiters, waitresses, kitchen helpers and porters, according to a statement issued by their union today. If the wage cale is not accepted by Monday, it is declared that a strike will be called. The workers are asking for a ten-hour day and about the same wages that are paid for twelve and fourteen hours now in the better class of establishments. The Restaurant Keepers' association, on the other hand, announce that the strike in one restaurant will be the signal for a general lockout.

HANNA CONGRATULATED.

Cleveland, May 27.—Senator Hanna received a large number of congratulation telegrams today concerning his decision not to further oppose an endorsement of President Roosevelt's candidacy for a second term at the coming state convention. Senator Hanna steadfastly refused to discuss the subject today insisting that it was a closed incident.

RICH FINDS OF ORE

Millions of Tons of Iron Ore In Sight at Baraboo.

Great Corporations Have Secured Large Tracts of Land.

Milwaukee, May 27.—G. E. Vandercook, a Sentinel sta ffcorrespondent, sent to investigate reports of great discoveries or iron ore near Baraboo, wires the following:

"One hardly can conveive of the Baraboo river valley, one of the beauty spots of Wisconsin, being transferred from a region of fertile fields and gently sloping hillside into one of the important mining centers of this country, but this conception will find its realization in actual fact within the next ten years. Deposits of high-grade ore hundreds of acres in extent have been located in the vicinity of North Freedom. Similar work is being done from a point west of North Freedom to within a few miles of Baraboo, and explorations are soon to be made in territory east of Baraboo.

"The principal operator in the iron fields at the present time is the Illinois Iron Mining company, consisting of stockholders of the Deering Harvester company, of Chicago. While the work of actual mining has not begun, between 4000 and 5000 tons of high grade ore have been taken from this mine and can be seen on the dump pile. This ore was taken from the mine in the work incidental to drifting and cross-cutting. The exploration of this property was made with a diamond drill and the ore deposit was encountered at varying depths, ranging from 100 to 300 feet. At the present time the work is being done upon a deposit 100 feet wide, consisting of forty feet of high grade ore and sixty feet of shipping ore. From the surveys and developments made at this mine it is estimated that the Illinois Iron Mining company has at least 2,000,000 tons of high grade ore in sight and many million tons of lower grade commercial ore.

"The Wisconsin Iron Mining company, of which B. C. Dean is president, H. H. Thomas secretary and M. L. Patterson treasurer, and with whom other Baraboo men are associated, has one of the richest as well as most extensive deposits that has been located. The deposits controlled by this company are said to aggregate 7,000,000 tons of ore.

"The Iroquois Iron company of Chicago in which some of the principal iron men of Chicago are interested, including M. C. Armour, William A. Rogers and George A. Tripp, has also made extensive explorations and expended many thousands of dollars in drilling operations. It is claimed that the company has developed deposits of some two or three million tons of high-grade ore on its holdings.

"The Flewelling Development company is carrying on considerable work and is said to be operating in the interest of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, the leases being transferred to President Earling. There are a number of smaller concerns and many of the large steel and iron companies, including the United States Steel corporation. The Pittsburg Steel works, John C. Spry of Chicago, and others have representatives in the field."

EMBARRASSING POSITION.

"Absent-minded!" exclaimed the clothing salesman, as he dealt the cards to a group of his brother travelers in a smoking car, according to the New York Times. "Say, I'm the limit in that direction, and I haven't thoroughly recovered from the shock I received from my last stunt in the trance line.

"It was this way: About two weeks ago, while I was trying to do some business, and incidentally having a little sport, in a small town in Pennsylvania, I got a rush order from my house in New York to report without delay.

"The thing couldn't have struck me at a more inopportune time, for the night before I had receiven an awful jolt from the boys in the hotel, who had trimmed me at poker until my roll looked as though it had been dallying with a Kansas cyclone. But when the 'old man' says 'rush' he means it, and I had to get out so eaarly in the morning that there was no time to 'touch up' any of my acquaintances in the town. After I had settled at the hotel and bought my ticket—I didn't even have a mileage book over the road—I had just a measly 50 coppers to the good, and a five-hour trip staring me in the face.

"The train was pretty well filled, and there wasn't a vacant seat in any of the cars, so I finally planked myself down alongside of a stunning-looking girl in about the middle of the coach. I wasn't feeling any too gay under the circumstances, as you may imagine, for, aside from my shattered financial condition, I was just a trifle uneasy as to the meaning of the 'old man's' telegram to appear, at headquarters post-haste. It was a toss-up in my mind whether it meant an important commission or a 'roast,' as things hadn't been coming my way any too smoothly for some time.

"I tried to steer my thoughts into more cheerful channels by looking over a paper I had bought at the station, and was just becoming interested when the forward door of the coach slammed and the stentorian 'All tickets, please!' of a husky conductor jarred me back to my previous moorings. My seat mate dug into her chatelaine bag in a business like way and hauled out her ticket without even raising her eyes from the novel she was reading.

"Listlessly I reached up into my vest pocket to get my tickets. Funny! I certainly thought I put my ticket in that pocket. I usually carried my mileage book there. But no ticket. I tried the opposite upper vest pocket with the same result. Then the two lower pockets. Nary a ticket. 'Well, well!' I thought 'what can I have done with that blooming thing?'

"Into the inside pocket of my vest without result, and then I dove through my coat pockets. But that pasteboard was mainly conspicuous by its absence. The situation was becoming decidedly alarming by this time, and all the while the conductor was working his way nearer my seat. I didn't feel a bit better, either, when I caught an amused twinkle from the side of the girl's eye next me, although she apparently kept on reading her book.

"The search through my trousers pockets was fruitless. I had little hope of finding it there, anyway, as I never carry my tickets in my trousers pockets. Well, I was completely stumped, and I could feel the drops of perspiration running down my face as big as tears. This certainly was the worst ever. About 200 miles away from home, my ticket lost, no money to pay my fare! I had never seen the conductor before in my life, and there wasn't a soul on the car who knew me.

"Visions of being fired off at the first stop as a 'beat,' and the reception I would get from the 'old man' if I ever succeeded in making my way back to New York, chased themselves through my mind. 'Oh, bosh,' I exclaimed, mentally only, 'that ticket is in my pockets somewhere, so her goes to find it!'

"With the desperation born of necessity and haste induced by the rapidly approaching conductor I went through those pockets like a sheaf of wheat through a thrashing machine. I dumped the contents of every pocket out into my lap, peering into letters, and groping through time tables and the other accumulated truck, buth no use—that ticket had flown. Whew! I wouldn't go through those few minutes again for—well, a whole lot. A nightmare was a two weeks' vacation compared to it!

"The conductor was now collecting the tickets from the passengers in the seat ahead, and I was frantically going through my pockets for a long search, hoping against hope, and trying to think of some way to convince the conductor, who appeared to be a very unsympathetic looking chap, of the honesty of my story and my ability to pay if he would carry me through.

"Now he was in front of me, and talk about man-killing dragons! That 'con' loomed up before me like two or three avenging spirits. I braced myself to reel off my little tale of woe, and had just started to mumble a few apologetic words, for I was 'down ad out,' and had completely lost my nerve, when he reached over, collected the ticket from my seat mate, who was giggling furiously, and then, without turning a hair, calmly reached out his hand and plucked my ticket from the hand of my hat!

"Wow! The reaction was something awful. I just simply collapsed, and I hope never to feel so cheap again. But when I recovered my equilibrium sufficiently to find my way to the buffet you can lay your last dollar that I invested that 50 cents to the best advantage. Incidentally, I finished the trip in the smoker, as the memory of that giggle still haunted me."

COPPER IS FIRM

Metal Market Steady, Though the London Trade Is Bearish.

Lake Superior Speculation In Arizona Depressing Copper Shares.

George L. Walker in his weekly copper letter says:

Copper is holding firm, and prices are unchanged. Lake is 15 to 15½ cents, and electrolytic is similarly quoted. There is a little more activity on the part of consumers, and the prospect is that some heavy sales will be made by the end of this month or the first of next. So far as can be learned there have been no sales made below 15 cents per pound, and only small lots have changed hands at that price. There continues to be a marked scarcity of electrolytic copper, and it will not be surprising if this grade continues to sell as high as Lake for some time to come.

Advices from London state that the trade there is bearish on the metal market, and that consumers are inconveniencing themselves in an effort to stave off purchases a few weeks, believing that prices will soon be lower. Copper for immediate consumption is selling 7s 6d higher than future deliveries. It is generally admitted there, however, that more copper will go into consumption in Europe this summer than ever before, and also that the prospect strongly favors a steadily increasing demand for the metal for years to come.

Attention has been called several times in these letters to the fact that recent inventions have made possible the transmission of electricity for lighting and power purposes to a great distance without appreciable loss. These developments have already resulted in the purchase of numerous suburban electric plants by interests associated with the Edison Electric Illuminating company, of this city, the plan being to generate the power used in a great central plant located at tide water, saving the cost of transporting coal and of maintaining the numerous isolated plants. Now it is announced that the Old Colony Street Railway company, a sister-company of the Massachusetts Electric companies, will install eleven steam turbines in three stations, located at tide water, at Newport, Fall River and Quincy, and with them generate the power used on its entire system. One statement is that thirteen existing power plants will be displaced by these three new plants.

The importance of this reform that is going on in the electrical world can hardly be overestimated. It means that copper wire is taking the place of the coal train, which has been depended upon to carry fuel to mills, factories and power plants in the interior. It means also that electrical power, already a quite successful competitor of the steam engine, has received new reinforcement. The whole question of the relative economy of operating the railroads by locomotives and by electric power has been reopened, and the matter has come up this time under especially favorable conditions, the railroads having within a few months suffered an immense loss of earnings by reason of the high prices paid for coal. There are some good authorities who believe that the work of equipping the steam railroads of the eastern half of the United States with electricity will be well under way a year or two hence. If they are right, the chances strongly favor 20-cent copper.

COPPER SHARES.

Coppers have continued dull and almost devoid of feature. Amalgamated has been very active at times; but has fluctuated within too narrow a range to have any marked influence on the copper stocks. During the early part of the week, while London metal quotations were steadily advancing, the coppers showed a fair degree of strength. With the first reaction in the metal market, however, the copper shares weakened and sold off, and at this writing the whole list is lower than a week ago.

One influence that has steadily operated against advancing prices for months past has been the constant selling of copper stocks in this market for Lake Superior account. As almost everyone knows by this time there has been an Arizona mining share flotation and boom on in the Michigan copper country, and millions of dollars' worth of new securities have been put upon the market and sold there. Most of these securities have represented "development companies," which have held simply options for the purchase of mining lands, and money has been raised in this way to pay the cost of shaft-sinking and exploration. As a result the money has been paid over in cash. The banks of that district have not assisted in financing the deals by loaning money on the new securities. The only thing gto be lost when the present fever of excitement terminates, therefore, is the money already invested and paid in.

Lake people have been enchanted by the stories of the wealth of the mines located at distant Bisbee, Arizona; and having seen their neighbors made rich by the advance in the shares of Calumet & Arizona from $10 to $30 within a comparatively few months. Many of them have sold their holdings of Lake Superior mining stocks, which represented demonstrated value, in order that they might take a chance in the prospects of the "Bisbees." The stocks that they have sold once they cannot sell again, and the influence of their selling on this market has already been pretty well exhausted. Their stocks are going into very strong hands here in the East, and when they get ready to reenter the market to buy them back again they will almost surely find prices very much higher than when they sold.

Despite the unsatisfactory action of the market, local interests are bullish on coppers almost to a man. It is the consensus of the best opinion on State street that the improved condition of the metal market will sooner or later assert itself, and that between now and July 1st coppers will be active at a higher level of prices.

CHOATE, McCORMICK AND SCOTT.

London, May 27.—A crowd of friends assembled at Waterloo railroad station here today to bid farewell to Ambassador Choate, who is making a flying trip to America. Mr. McCormick, the American ambassador to Russia, and Senator Scott are fellow passengers of Mr. Choate on the North German Lloyd steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm, which sailed from Southampton shortly after noon today.

TEN INJURED

In the Trolley Car Collision at New Baltimore.

New Baltimore, Mich., May 26.—Ten people were injured today in a collision between a rapid railway electric passenger car and a steam freight train that runs on the company's tracks during the night and early morning. The tender of the freight engine was driven half way through the passenger car, smashing it to splinters.

The seriously injured: James Johnstone, aged 70 years, Lima, Ohio, may die; John Rose, Marine City, Mich., may die; Motorman Axtell, internal injuries; Rev. Father Jerry, Algonac, leg broken. A mistake in orders is said to have caused the accident.

BULL FIGHTER KILLED.

El Paso, Tex., May 27.—Marionia Rengal, a celebrated bull fighter, was shot and killed yesterday by Salvador Del Castillo, an officer of the Mexican custom guard. Rengal battered down the door of the house where Castillo was calling on his sweetheart, she having locked the door in order to keep out Rengal, who was enamored of the girl and had sent word that he was coming to kill Castillo. Castillo fired, instantly killing Rengal.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

A Sensational Scandal Case on Trial at Watertown.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Watertown—Probably one of the most sensational cases ever tried in Watertown was commenced Monday afternoon. The plaintiff is Mrs. Rose Eddington, a prominent society woman and the best soprano singer Watertown ever had. Until the last year or so she was a member of the Episcopal choir. The defendant is the wife of S. B. Sheldon, cashier of the First National bank, the finest alto singer in the city. There is no more prominent family in the city than the Sheldons. The cause of the action is several anonymous letters which were received by prominent citizens at different times last fall. The letters were signed "One Who Knows," and the woman referred to in them was Mrs. Eddington, the plaintiff, and the gentleman was E. J. Evans, who was formerly rector of the Episcopal church in this city. The latter was charged with being too attentive to Mrs. Eddington, who was spoken of as a "bad egg." At the trial it was alleged by the plaintiff that the defendant is extremely jealous of her singing ability and for the purpose of injuring her standing in society wrote the anonymous letters referred to above. The defendant denies the authorship of the letters, but in her answer alleges that the statements of the letters are practically true and that the plaintiff is in ill repute in Watertown; that she has been in the habit of posing in the window of the Eddington studio for the purpose of commanding the admiration of men, and that she is unchaste and impure. The case promises to be the raciest in Watertown's history. The amount of damages demanded is $15,000.

Armour—C. M. Renshaw, living near Lake Andes, in Charles Mix county, has brought suit against E. W. Pecant, a deputy sheriff of Goodbury county, Iowa, for $10,000 for false imprisonment. Service was secured on the deputy sheriff in Charles Mix county, and he must come to South Dakota to defend the case. It seems that Renshaw bought 200 head of cattle from C. F. Gill, of Sioux City, in 1902, giving a mortgage on the stock in part payment. During the heavy snows of last winter many of the cattle died and the rest were sold, Renshaw turning the money received from the sale over to Gill. Among the cattle sold were twenty-five head belonging to Renshaw, on which there was no mortgage, and this money he used in meeting the expenses of last year's herd bills. Gill contended he should have turned this money over to him, too, and applied to the governor of Iowa for requisition papers, which the governor of South Dakota honored. Renshaw was accordingly placed under arrest by the Iowa deputy sheriff, but upon legal advice Pecant decided not to push the matter, and Renshaw immediately served papers on him for damages to the amount of $10,000. The merits of the case will develop in the next term of circuit court, which convenes in Charles Mix county in June.

Vermillion—Freight traffic on the Missouri river through South Dakota has been revived during the past few months. Joseph Leach, a former university student, is identified with the Missouri River Transportation company, which owns and operates a line of freight and passenger boats between Niobrara and Sioux City. He reports that the company has five boats on the river, and that one passes either up or down every day. The business is steadily increasing, farmers giving their patronage in stock shipping, etc., rather than drive several miles to a railroad town.

Arlington—The 3-year-old son of Senator and Mrs. A. Royhl died from getting a tin whistle in his throat. A surgical operation was performed, but it was unsuccessful.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—Officer Gorman, of the police force, is in trouble. He is charged with being drunk on duty and is under suspension by Mayor Sweet till the matter can be investigated. The officials say that Gorman will not be able to secure reinstatement.

William Rea, who was caught with a 5-year-old girl, was convicted on the charge of kidnaping. The child had not been injured and a more serious charge could not be brought. As this is Rea's second offense it is presumed the court will give him an extended sentence.

Buffalo—Matthew Wylie, aged 100 years and 5 months, is dead. He was born in 1803 at Brumbane, Ireland. In 1884 he came to Buffalo and had since lived on his farm. Up to a few days before his death he retained the use of all his factulties to a remarkable degree.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

Formal Protest By Marquette Debaters Against Ishpeming Men.

Marquette—A stir in upper peninsula scholastic circles has been caused by charges of plagiarism against the debaters who represented the Ishpeming high school in the recent debate with Marquette. It is alleged by the Marquette school that two of the Ishpeming orators drew largely and to a great extent verbatim from the subject matter prepared some time ago on the same question by Cornell debaters, who won a joint debate in which they supported the same side as did Ishpeming.

The question was: "Resolved, that compulsory arbitration between employes and employers should be required in the cases of all corporations operating under franchises of a public nature." Marquette had the affirmative and lost by a fair margin of points.

The incident has been made the occasion of a conference of the Marquette teachers, and a formal protest has been registered.

Sault Ste. Marie—William P. Spaulding, now past 80 and still hale and hearty, who has seen the Soo grow from a straggling village of 150 to its present commanding proportions, predicts a population of more than 50,000 for the lock city within the next ten years. With the big water power canal and the manufacturing industries which line its banks soon to go into commission, and with the Algoma Central road opening up the vast resources of the country to the north, he believes the Soo destined to become the metropolis of Northern Michigan. Mr. Spaulding is the oldest settler at the Soo. He came to the city in June, 1846, on a small trading schooner, and has been a resident ever since.

Ishpeming—An important find of iron ore has been made by two prospectors who for some time have been exploring a short distance from Republic, Marquette county. The ore has been encountered by test pits, and the indications are the deposit is of some extent. It is a hematite of Bessemer grade.

The location of the find is to the east of the Republic mine, and in all likelihood one new mine, and probably others, will be developed in a section not hitherto believed to possess great mineral value. Diamond drill operations are now being arranged for to prove up the discovery.

Escanaba—State Senator O. B. Fuller, of this district, presiding officer of the upper branch of the Michigan legislature, possesses a packet of papers of much historical interest. They are documents issued to sailing masters in the early days of the republic, and bear the signatures of all the presidents from Washington to Buchanan, in addition to the autographs of Randolph, Clay, Webster and other noted personages, in their official capacity.

The papers were collected by Mr. Fuller's father and came into the son's possession when the latter became of age.

SHOOTING AT FLORENCE, WIS.

Florence, Wis., May 27.—Oscar Frederickson was shot and instantly killed at Homestead, this county, by Louis Nelson, who was arrested and brought to this city where he is now in confinement awaiting the verdict of the coroner's jury. The weapon was discharged during a scrimmage. Nelson claims the affair was an accident, but it is now believed that evidence will be presented to the coroner jury warranting the holding of Nelson on a charge of manslaughter.

GIRL STOPS A FUNERAL

Appeals to Coroner and Police, Making Poison Charge.

Chicago, May 27.—While the body of Mrs. Sophia Taylor Griswold lay in an undertaker's office at 322 Ogden avenue awaiting burial, son and daughter struggled for its possession. The funeral was stopped, the police were summoned, charges of poisoning made and the coroner appealed to. He ordered a post-mortem. Not till then was the funeral procession allowed to move through the storm to Rosehill, where the aged woman was finally laid to rest.

The unusual scenes were the result of three years of family discord, during which time Mrs. Griswold, the widow of Dr. W. R. Griswold, lived with her son and daughter, Eva, at 1172 Washington boulevard. Another daughter, May Griswold, has lived at 17 Park avenue. It was she who halted the burial.

"I have just as much right to my mother's body as you or anybody else," she told her brother. "I will prevent the funeral with my life unless I am given a written guarantee that after the services at the church the body be taken to my home."

Her request was ignored and then she appealed to the coroner, saying that she believed that her mother had died from poison. The coroner, though he doubted her story, telephoned to the Lake street police.

The funeral was ordered stopped and a hurried consultation ended in an agreement to have a post-mortem at once.

Miss Griswold reiterated her charges that her mother had been poisoned, and said the object was to secure possession of her property worth between $50,000 and $100,000.

Dr. Lewke, of the coroner's office, conducted the post-mortem examination, but as the body had been embalmed the physician could reach no definite results. Dr. Lewke announced that the digestive organs would be submitted to a misceroscopic examination. Deputy Coroner Buckley continued the inquest until June 2.

Fearing that the young woman would secure an injunction stopping the burial, the body was then hurried to SS. Peter and Paul's cathedral. Miss Griswold made a rush as if to interfere, then entered a carriage and drove to the church, where she sat apart from her brother and sister.

This was not the first open quarrel in the family. Several years ago when they were living in Los Angeles, young Griswold sought to have his sister declared insane. He failed, and she sued him for $50,000. She was given judgment for $6000, but her brother took an appeal and the case is still pending.

No "fake" sales tolerated by Glass Block

"What we say we'll do we do do." That's what made our anniversary sale such a wonderful success. That's what made the Glass Block grow to three times the size of older stores. Price tickets are not tampered with when we offer goods at "half price." And our regular prices will be found to be as low or lower than the so-called "half price" of little shops driven to desperation in mid-season. Compare our regular prices with all such offerings before you spend your money. You'll do better here in style and in value.

ANOTHER IS LOST

Duluth Ball Team Continues Its Toboggan Course at Winnipeg.

Tries Red Hanley In the Box With Fatal Effect.

NORTHERN LEAGUE.

Clubs—	W.	L.	Pct.
Grand Forks	5	0	1.000
Winnipeg	6	1	.857
Fargo	4	2	.666
Crookston	1	4	.200
Superior	1	5	.166

With "Red" Hanley pitching the Cardinals lost a gorgeous crimson game to the Maroons yesterday.

It was played in a drizzling rain and called in the fifth inning with the score 9 to 2 against Duluth.

Bartos, widely advertised as the star performer of the Northern league was pitching for Winnipeg, and was being hit hard just toward the close—however Hanley was getting bumped some too, and it is just as well the game was not played out.

Kelly, of Winnipeg, distinguished himself by a home run, two singles and a double out of four times at the bat.

Hanley who pitched for Duluth is a West Superior boy and capable of doing much better work than he was credited with yesterday. He has held teams as strong as Winnipeg down to less than five hits—all of which goes to prove that the Cardinals are being pursued by a long, low, rakish streak of yellow luck.

		R.	H.	E.
Winnipeg	2 0 3 4—9	12	0
Duluth	0 0 2 0—2	5	1

Grand Forks continued the remarkable winning streak by beating Superior in a close and exciting game. Up to the eighth it looked bright for Superior, but just about that time the Grand Forks team bunched hits on Daniels and won out. Slette pitched a fairly good game for the league leaders. The score:

		R.	H.	E.

Fargo won a slugging match from Crookston despite the fact that Lycan's men outpaylyed the North Dakota favorites. Kaukes who was such a puzzling proposition for Duluth was hammered for sixteen safe ones and Fargo managed to land on Collette for thirteen.

		R.	H.	E.
Fargo	2 0 3 1 0 0 3 0 0—9	13	4

Lee Quillin who played short stop for Minneapolis last season has signed a Duluth contract and will probably be seen in the infield during the series at Grand Forks beginning tomorrow. Quillin is a good sticker and in the fast American association had a fielding average of .833 last season.

"Looie" Kline is just beginning to hit the ball safely. During the Winnipeg series he has been about the only man on the team able to connect safely and regularly.

Randall, the Duluth boy, playing left field for Winnipeg, is hitting the ball regularly and tops off the Canadian batting order.

A new man named Whalen played first for Duluth in the Winnipeg series and hit and fielded well. Lagger was shifted over to right field, McCoy to center and Lambert played left.

Lambert accepted sixty chances before the first error was recorded against him.

Duluth will not lose today. The Cardinals are on a train somewhere between Winnipeg and Grand Forks, opening a four game series at the latter place tomorrow.

Mueller and Sessions will probably do the pitching in tomorrow's game.

Spellicsy, the former college football player, is catching a fine game for Superior and doing good work with the stick.

Superior has taken a wonderful brace with the stick and in the field. All that is needed over there now is a few steady twirlers.

Gehring is all right in Duluth's pitching department. He has won the only victory of the Cardinals and according to Winnipeg papers he pitched ball that would win three times out of five on Victoria day, but was not given proper support.

FOR THE WOMEN.

Great Fashion Show Planned at Madison Garden.

New York, May 27.—A great fashion show has been planned to open in this city on Sept. 1 at Madison Square garden, to continue until September 14. This will be the opening attraction at the big garden for the coming season.

The exhibition is designed to show every kind of apparel worn by women, in process of manufacture, and in finished form. Not an article on exhibition will be sold. Everything will be presented in so attractive a form, from the point of the wearer as to be educational in value.

Already manufacturers all over the country and Europe have expressed confidence in the purpose of the exhibition and have signified their willingness to exhibit their goods. From all commercial centers throughout the country, manufacturers and buyers attached to the leading business houses will attend the exhibition.

It's folly to suffer from that horrible plague of the night, itching piles. Doan's Ointment cures quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50 cents.

BRIDE OF NINETEEN

Accused of Poisoning Her Aged Husband.

Gainesville, Ga., May 27.—Wedded just six weeks ago, Mrs. Clara Tanner is under arrest, charged with killing her husband by poisoning. There was a dinner party at the Tanners attended by several guests. Soon after the ice cream was served all became violently ill except Mrs. Tanner, who ate none of the cream.

Her husband son died, and two of the guests may die. Physicians declared the symptoms those of strychnine poisoning, and when the cream was examined it was found to contain quantities of that poison. Mrs. Tanner was arrested. It is said she lived unhappily with her husband, having been forced to marry him by her parents when she loved another man. Mrs. Tanner is 19 years old. Her husband was aged 60 years.

FORCED TO WALK

Stoppage of Street Cars Causes Inconvenience at Rush Hours.

Big Engine Again In Shape and Full Schedule Maintained.

During the rush hour on the street railway lines last night crowds of discontented people on every corner down town showed that the trouble at the power house had not yet been remedied, and that the car system was still crippled.

In fact, it was not until this morning that the big engine came into full play again and the cars resumed operations on regular schedule time.

The crowds on the streets from 5:30 to 7 o'clock last night were surrounded by an atmosphere of ill-temper and perturbation of mind, not to mention the fog. Visions of cooling dinners, affronted stomachs and the cold drizzle that the fog settled into every little while did not tend to make people any happier or to sweeten their tempers.

Hundreds of people stood on every corner in the downtown business districts during the hours when the shops and offices yield up their armies of employes. The few cars that passed were loaded to the roofs, and in many cases anxious patrons faced the rain while they clung to precarious holds on the steps or couplers of the cars.

All the service there was fell upon the small engine, which was utterly inadequate to the demands upon it, the repairs upon the big one taking more time than had been expected.

Withal, the crowds were fairly good tempered, though a surplus of mean weather, which had been wearing their equanimity into frazzles for a week, added to the uncertainties and delays of the street car service, produced a rather widespread epidemic of profanity and grouchiness.

It was reported at the office of the Duluth-Superior Traction company this morning that the injuries to the big engine had been fully repaired, that the full schedule was in operation, and that the cars were running on their regular time. Furthermore, it was promised that this was permanent, and that no further trouble was looked for.

One effect of the conditions that prevailed on the street railway lines yesterday was to develop discussion that showed that the equipment of the company's power house is just the same as it was seven or eight years ago, though the traffic must have increased enormously. The number of cars operated is larger, and with the increase in population o fthe city, the patronage must have multiplied itself. The opinion seemed to be that such episodes as yesterday are likely to happen with increasing frequency until the Duluth power house is equipped with a plant or with power enough to meet the demands of the traffic.

THE CHURCH IS GROWING

English Evangelical Lutheran Ministers Meet In Conference.

St. Paul, May 27.—The annual meeting of the central mission conference of the English Evaugelical Lutheran synod of the Northwest, began yesterday in the Memorial English Evangelical Lutheran church, the opening session being devoted to reports from the field.

Those in attendance were Rev. Dr. G. H. Trabet, Minneapolis; Rev. A. Ramsey, Minneapolis; Rev. D. W. Michael, Duluth; Rev. J. A. Zundel, Fargo; Rev. A. C. Carty, La Crosse; Rev. J. J. Clemens, Ellsworth, Wis.; Rev. J. E. Jensen, Lindstrom; Rev. A. J. Reichert, Red Wing; Revs. C. L. Warstler, F. S. Beistel and A. J. D. Haupt, of St. Paul.

Rev. Mr. Warstler persided. Rev. Mr. Reichert acted as secretary.

The reports from the field showed a considerable gain in membership since the last conference, held at Lindstrom. The gain during the last twelve months was estimated to have exceeded over 1000.

There are sixteen congregations in the conference, and the English Evangelical movement was reported to be growing. The object in introducing the English services nineteen years ago was to preserve for the Lutheran church the children of those who were born into it in European countries. It was noticed that while the older settlers from foreign countries clung to the faith tenaciously, their children, growing up and speaking English almost to the exclusion of the language of the parents, showed a tendency to drift to English-speaking denominations, or away from all church connections whatever. The English Evangelical church has arrested this movement and the church is doubling its membership each year.

Two papers were read at the afternoon session, both dealing with practical Christian life. One entitled "The Glory of Christian Life," was read by Rev. Mr. Warstler, and the other, "The Glory of the Christian," by Rev. A. J. D. Haupt.

Holy communion was administered last evening, after which Rev. F. S. Beisdel delivered a sermon.

Messrs. Beistel and Zundel are recent accessions to the ministerial strength of the church, they having come from the East at Easter this year.

WILL PAY ALIMONY.

Found Residence in the Jail Unpleasant.

Chicago, May 27.—Two days and nights spent in jail on a rough diet was accounted an unsavory experience by Jacob N. Groven, well known in Evanston and Ravenswood society circles, who was arrested last Thursday on complaint of his wife, Mrs. Bertha Groven, for non-payment of alimony.

As soon as released, Groven proceeded to straighten out the alimony matters, and vows he will not be caught in the same predicament again for some time.

Groven and his wife, who lived in Evanston up to last March, separated two months ago. Mrs. Groven began proceedings to obtain a divorce. In the meantime Groven has been supposed to be paying alimony to his wife. A week ago he neglected to send the customary remittance, and Mrs. Groven promptly swore out a warrant for his arrest.

Sensational developments in the divorce case are promised by Mrs. Groven when the matter comes up in the courts the last week of June. People who are prominent in Ravenswood and Evanston will be implicated, she says, in the evidence which she will introduce against her husband.

MULES ONLY ASSETS.

Texas Oil Line Railroad Bubble Busts.

New York, May 27.—Assets, eighteen mules, certified by the attorney general of Texas to be "alive and kicking." Liabilities, the wrath of several hundred thousand investors, equally "alive and kicking." Such is the present status of the $3,000,000 "King-Crowther Texas Oil Well Pipe Line railroad bubble.

It is reported that at least $2,000,000 worth of stock has been sold to thousands of individuals willing to amass wealth through the methods outlined by C. F. King, in Boston, Chicago, St. Paul, San Diego, Tacoma, San Francisco and other cities where his private car was halted during the last three years.

Crowther was a Texan oil digger whom King knew slightly some years ago. They combined and King started a campaign of publicity which carried him even to Thread Neddle street, London, and included the maintenance of offices in New York, Boston and other large cities.

ALABAMA FOR HANNA.

Lily White Republicans Are Opposed to Roosevelt.

Mobile, Ala., May 27.—It has come to a show down between the lily white and black and tan Republicans of Alabama. The fight has been on for some time, the negroes seeking to indorse President Roosevelt, but in the late convention the lily whites won the fight and now the following telegram comes to show up the real situation.

Birmingham, Ala.—Nine-tenths of the Republican voters of this state are for Senator Hanna for president in 1904, whether he is a candidate or not. Should his name not be presented to the convention the delegates from this state will support Spooner, Fairbanks, Odell or some other Republican more satisfactory than Mr. Roosevelt.

This is signed by William Vaughn, late chairman of the state committee; J. W. A. Smith, late Republican nominee for governor, and Julius W. Davidson, chairman of the state convention of 1902.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The separator in the Elm Grove creamery in Benton county, Minn., exploded, killing Frank Karnovitsch, the buttermaker, and probably fatally injuring a young man named Knijawa. The building was wrecked.

Commissioner Richards, of the general land office, has prepared a statement giving the exact amount of the fund set apart for the reclamation of arid lands under the irrigation act of 1902. It shows a total of $7,350,338 for the fiscal years 1901 and 1902.

The severe gale which swept the Newfoundland coast last Sunday did much damage to the fishing vessels on the Grank Banks. One vessel, the Peerless of Lunenburg, N. S., has run into St. John's and reports having lost twelve men during the storm. Other fishing boats report smaller losses.

Nine horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed one of the old barns at the race track at Terre Haute Tuesday. Among them was a 2-year-old Axtell colt, dam by Dr. Herr, owned by Alexander Wishard, superintendent of the grounds, and which had promise of much speed.

The St. Louis court of appeals handed down a decision in the case of John H. King vs. the Phoenix Insurance company, that a verbal contract of insurance by an authorized agent is binding.

HANNA'S BACKDOWN.

Senator Mark Hanna has quit the fight to prevent the Ohio Republican convention endorsing President Roosevelt for the nomination in 1904. Until the president's statement was issued at Walla Walla, the senator was apparently very determined to fight out the question with the Foraker forces, and in view of his strong grip on the "machine" in Ohio, he might have carried his point. But the president's cleverly worded statement was in the nature of a challenge, and Hanna concluded not to continue the fight. If he had won, the victory would have been of little value to him. He would have had nothing except the satisfaction of having his own way. It was a losing game, viewed from any standpoint, because the nomination of President Roosevelt at the Republican national convention next year is as certain as it can possibly be at this time. Only some huge blunder or unfortunate move on the part of the president himself, or a commercial crisis, can prevent it, and the failure of Ohio to endorse could not defeat him for the nomination. Senator Hanna has acted sensibly, and his first attitude was a surprising mistake on the part of so clever a politician.

JAPAN'S MONETARY SYSTEM.

The financial system of Japan is of special interest to the merchants of the United States, in view of the gradual increase of commercial intercourse with the people of the Mikado. As long ago as 1606, more than 200 years before Japan opened her doors to commercial relations with the Western world, the government then in power established a system of coinage which endured without legal change for a period of 260 years, or until 1868. During this period the emperor was a mere figurehead—the real power being wielded by nobles, while subject to them were about 270 princes from the several provinces. Whenever the nobles found themselves in financial difficulties it was their custom to order a recoinage of the money of the realm, and the embarrassments of the government were removed by making the new coins of smaller size, or of poorer quality than those of the preceding issue, although the same denominations and pretended values. Some of the nobles also secretly coined money and issued a paper currency within their respective jurisdictions. The rebellion came in 1868, and when the emperor was restored to temporal power the currency was in a deplorable condition. One of the first matters to receive attention by the new imperial government was that of monetary reform.

Soon after the visit of Commodore Perry to Japan in 1863 a foreign commerce began to develop and this made more urgent the need of a circulating medium that could be used with the traders of other nations. The government mint did not begin operations until 1870, and in the interim the new government had given attention to the currency systems of England, America and Continental Europe with a view to their application to the condition and the wants of the people of Japan. The mint was made free to any citizen who would take bullion or old coin and have it recast into money of standard weight and fineness. Later came the inevitable trouble that must of necessity result from the issue of paper currency. It began to depreciate in value, and with the depreciation, the gold coins went out of circulation, and rapidly out of the country.—Then came a banking system patterned somewhat after the national banking system of the United States, with the exception that the bank notes, instead of being redeemable in specie, were redeemable in the government inconvertible notes. From this there has grown up, during the last thirty years, a modern banking system with seven banks in different parts of the empire.

These are essentially "national banks," but in addition there are numerous private banks doing business under a general law. They are reported to be strong institutions, with abundant capital and able managers. Many of them have branches in the commercial centers of the world. The business of the country is said to be assisted very materially by foreign banks which have branches in the treaty ports of the world.

It can be easily seen that this little nation has all appliances for maintaining extensive commercial relations and can do business on a modern basis.

The army officer whose wedding arrangements have been upset by the demand of a Filipino lady that his temporary marriage be made permanent, is receiving considerable sympathy. Do not the perquisites of imperialism include the privilege of American soldiers and sailors leaving wives in every port?

All sidewalk signs should go, and if the aldermen act wisely they will refuse to change the ordinance in favor of any person on the specious plea that signs are a public utility. The Superior street sidewalks are too narrow anyway, and no obstructions of any kind should be permitted.

A Missouri girl, instead of petting a poodle, is leading about with her by a silken cord a pretty white pig. This may suggest to Harry Lehr a new fad for Newport society.

Mr. Roosevelt has made over 200 speeches since he became president.

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY.

There is hardly any subject which more vitally concerns the interest of Duluth than that of reciprocity with Canada. The high tariff wall erected at the boundary line is a commercial barrier to trade. In view of the rapid growth of the Canadian Northwest, and the effect which its development will have upon the prosperity of the whole of the great Northwestern country, the value to Duluth of an open door can hardly be over-estimated. With a lowering of the tariffs of the two countries, with reciprocal arrangements that would remove to a large extent the present barrier that prevents the growth of mutual trade relations, Duluth could obtain a volume of business that would run yearly into the millions. The settlement of the Canadian Northwest presents an opportunity for trade that should not be ignored. It may be difficult to secure reciprocity, but if the people of Duluth and other cities in the Northwest that have a vital interest in removing the tariff barrier will work unitedly and energetically, the difficulties can be overcome.

One of the obstacles which must be removed is the objection raised by the farming industry of this country. This opposition is based upon ignorance of the conditions. The farmers do not understand the question, and no time should be lost in laying the facts before them and showing them how reciprocity with Canada would not injure our agricultural interests. The farmers are fearful that reciprocity would open the door to a flood of Canadian wheat that would break the price of wheat in our markets and lessen the sale of American wheat. The idea that this would be the result is altogether erroneous. In fact, the result would be the exact revedse. The price of wheat is fixed in Liverpool—not in Duluth, Minneapolis, Chicago or New York. The Canadian wheat goes to Liverpool now and being dumped on the market there seriously affects prices and lessens the demand at that point for American wheat. If a large part of this wheat could be brought to Duluth elevators and handled here, the market at Liverpool would not be demoralized by periodical floods of that grain, because it would be shipped from the elevators here only in accordance with the demand. The result would be better prices at Liverpool and in this way the American wheat raiser would be benefited. It is safe to assert that with Canadian reciprocity the American farmers would receive practically the same prices for their wheat as now. Indeed, it is the opinion of the best-posted grain men that they would obtain better prices. But the farmers do not understand the situation, and consequently object. There must be a campaign of education that will remove the erroneous views they now hold, before the reciprocity movement can succeed. It should be the constant effort of the business men of Duluth and all others who appreciate the importance of establishing trade relations with Canada to show the farming communities that reciprocity would be to their interest also.

THE RUSSIAN MASSACRES.

Many people are inclined to blame the state department of the United States for at least not expressing strong approval of the massacres, which have accrued at Kishineff. This is because they do not understand the relations which exist between different governments. The relations of nations being governed by well-established principles of international law and comity, there has been no opportunity for this country to protest against the treatment which the Jews in parts of Russia have received. The laws governing the intercourse of Russia and the United States are as clearly established as those which govern the conduct of an individual. The secretary of state has shown his personal sympathy to the Jews by sending in his personal capacity as a citizen a check for $200 for the relief of suffering.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, has defended his country. He has not hesitated to make clear that, while he is willing and ready to give the state department any information which comes to him as to the conditions in relation to the Jews in Russia, he does not welcome a representation to his government which could be construed as an effort to meddle with the internal affairs of Russia. No such hint is necessary to our secretary of state, who realizes fully that we could only intervene or make diplomatic representations if some citizen of the United States was involved by the riots. The Russian ambassador speaks of the anti-Semite disturbances in France and in Austria, which at times have reached such proportions as to shock the civilized world, and yet no other nation thought of interfering or of even offering suggestions. The count takes the criticism to which he has been subjected in a philosophical way. His mail has brought to him frequent sermons and interviews directed at his quoted utterances in relation to the Jewish disturbances, but he quietly files them away, so that the secretary of the embassy may make excerpts of them for forwarding to his home government. The count also gives repeated assurances that the imperial government has issued strict orders to the local authorities to suppress further disturbances, and to use the imperial troops in the work and in bringing the guilty parties to justice.

The United States cannot ask any more. It is impossible under international courtesy to go behind the assurances of Russia, and all that can be done is to hope for the best for the down-trodden people.

COST OF THE BOER WAR.

If anyone had forecasted the cost of the subjugation of the Boers at $1,000,000,000, he would have been hooted from the stand, yet the war in South Africa cost Great Britain $1,059,535,000 up to March 31, 1903, according to a report made in parliament. A little over a third of this, or $375,000,000, has already been paid in the shape of increased taxation levied for war purposes. The cost of defeating the two little republics was much greater than was anticipated by the most optimistic. When an emergency appropriation of $50,000,000 was granted at the start of the war in the latter part of 1899 the general opinion was that not a great deal more than that would be required to finish up the conquest of South Africa. The men who, in the latter part of October, 1899, were predicting that they would take their Christmas dinners in the capitals of the two little republics, thought their forecast was safe. So did the majority of their countrymen. It took two years and a half more fighting, however, to end the war, and the early estimated expenditure was multiplied several times.

In addition to the monetary loss in the conquest in South Africa, the great loss of life must be added. It went up into thousands, chiefly, however, from disease incident to the war. Nor are the returns thus far what was expected. The output of the mines is only about half what it was just before the war began four years ago. An increase in the production is being scored every month, but it is much slower than was expected. The inrush of settlers to the new territory is not quite so great, either, as was looked for. Reconstruction is proceeding, perhaps, as rapidly as ought to have been expected, but much remains to be done before anything like the old conditions of industry are restored. These new colonies may in time prove valuable to the British, but it will be many years before they pay what they have cost.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

The passenger steamer Huronic, from Port Arthur, put in five hours feeling around outside the harbor this morning, and did not come in to its docks until nearly 9 o'clock.

There were a number of passengers aboard and among them was W. S. Beaver, of Port Arthur, who registered at the Spalding, accompanied by Mrs. Beaver.

"There was a heavy fog at Port Arthur," said Mr. Beaver, "and it has been more or less thick all the way to Duluth. It is not worse here than when we started, and the trip was a rather hazardous one. When we came near the Duluth harbor, it was deemed wise to proceed slowly and the boat had a hard time finding the canal opening.

"The captain was taking no chances, and the fog was like a stone wall. He simply moved around slowly and waited until the fog cleared a little before entering."

At last the old weather dogs around the hotels have found the culprit.

The weather started to clear early this morning.

Why?

Because HE was gone.

Gentle zephyrs, balmy kisses of June's warm lips, floated about at 11:11 o'clock last night.

HE left at 11:10 on the Northern Pacific for St. Paul.

HE and HIS PANAMA HAT!

That's the story.

And HE is Fred Bagley, of St. Paul, a representative of the National Enameling and Stamping company.

HE had the supreme and colossal nerve to come into this town with a Panama hat.

It was on a Friday morning, and it clouded up and started to rain before noon. The rain let up when he put the hat in his trunk that night. It looked like clear weather the next morning, and he took it out again. It became foggy.

"Come one fog or come twenty," said the valiant Mr. Bagley, "I'll wear this hat aplenty. Stay on, stay on, but you shall go, from your 'poolsh' 'fore this clingeau. I'll see this town free from fogs rid, before I'll blow this lid."

Little did he reck the convex consequentials.

That afternoon somebody broke a butcher knife trying to cut a hole in the fog.

The same evening the common council decided to hurry the building of the aerial bridge.

Later that evening the streets of Superior were enlivened by the adjournment of the monthly meeting of the ladies' guild, and the members rushing through the saturated atmosphere, made the streets look as if a circus was in town.

Next day it fogged.

Next day.

That night, ditto.

Last night a committee waited on Mr. Bagley at the Spalding. Would he please go way and let us thaw out?

He finally decided to go, and accompanied by a state official, who made the allegations of conspiracy with attempt to beat Duluth out of fair weather, left on the night train.

Wherefore the almost fair weather today.

An ungainly, long and sorrowful individual, with long white hair and a partner who looked as if he were afraid of himself, staggered into the Spalding hotel the other night, and made their way through the fog laden revolving doors and to the desk.

They registered, after some laborious efforts, and then stood back and surveyed their handiwork with evident pride and satisfaction.

They were in from somewhere near Grand Rapids, and they wanted the whole works.

"Will you be here to breakfast?" asked the polite clerk.

Yes, they would be here that length of time, at least.

"Would you like to go up to your room?" was asked.

The visitors said no, they thought they would go out and look around town a little.

"What time do you lock up the doors?" one of them asked. "We want to be back before you lock up."

"Oh, we'll keep open all night, if you want to stay out," the clerk said. "Generally it's 10 o'clock."

"We're much obliged, but we don't want to put you to too much trouble, so if you will keep open till 11 we'll be in by that time."

Then they went away, and returned at 2 minutes before 11 o'clock, and said "good night" to the night clerk.

The Shrewd Manager.

Baltimore Herald: It was the matinee performance of the play, and the audience was composed of the usual crowd of gushing matinee girls.

"Fire!" cried a stagehand, hoarsely.

It was a terrible moment. Already faint streamers of smoke were drifting out into the audience and the consequence of a panic would be dreadful.

To dismiss the audience quietly but quickly would save that vast concourse of women.

"I have it!" cried the manager, and in a moment he was addressing the audience.

"The management has prepared souvenir boxes of fudge and caramels and they are now being distributed to patrons in the lobby!"

The theater cleared as if by magic. Saved!

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department Weather Bureau, Duluth, Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (central time), May 27.—Warm weather continues in the central valleys and southeastern states. It is lightly cooler in districts immediately west of the Mississippi river. Showers or heavy thunder-storms occurred in the lake region, central valleys, and extreme Northwest. The Kansas-New Mexico "lowv" has moved to Wisconsin but pressures remain low in western Canada and high over Atlantic and Pacific coast states. The winds in the lake region are variable on Lake Superior and fresh to brisk southerly elsewhere. There was more or less fog this morning over southwestern Lake Superior and southern Lake Michigan.

SMILING REMARKS.

Detroit Free Press: He—Did you have any idea before hand that I was going to kiss you?

She—I never allow myself to anticipate anything.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "They say Mame is openly running after that alleged French count."

"Then she'll catch him all right. Mame was the champion sprinter of her junior year."

Chicago Tribune: "Your husband doesn't use any kind of alcoholic beverages, does he?" asked the caller.

"No," said Mrs. Lapsling, "as far as that is concerned he is all right, but he's the worst tobacconist you ever saw."

Atlanta Constitution: "I can't convict you on the evidence," said the backwoods justice, "but I'm going to fine you $10 for contempt for looking like I couldn't."

Philadelphia Press: "It's easy enough to make money," said Nuritch, with a self-satisfied air.

"That's so," replied the counterfeiter, absent-mindedly; "the trouble is to get it into circulation."

Boston Transcript: Musician—I don't suppose you heard what I was playing last evening—you and the others kept up such a chatter.

One of the Chatterers—No; but then I don't suppose you heard what we were talking about; so I guess you lost more than we did.

Washington Star: "Is my daughter familiar with the great composers?" asked Mrs. Cumrox.

"Madame," said the music teacher, with a look of desperation, "she is not merely familiar with them; she is empertinent."

New York Times: He—That's absurd. Do you think I'm as big a fool as I look?

She—I think that if you aren't you have a great deal to be thankful for.

Boston Commercial Bulletin: Wife—Do you know men don't possess an ounce of common sense?

Husband—That's why we marry you women, my dear.

Chicago Tribune: "But," persisted the person with the notebook, "haven't you some theory or hypothesis by which to account for your extraordinary logevity?"

"'Deed, yes, I has, suh," said Aunt Chloe, the centenarian. "Of co'se I has. I t'ought yo' was gwine ax me et I done knowed any reason why I live so long. I couldn't tole ye nuttin' 'bout dat, boss."

EDDY'S CANDIDACY.

St. Vincent New Era: The only excuse the city papers have for commenting upon the candidacy of ex-Congressman F. M. Eddy, of this district, for governor, is the scarcity of exciting news, so they change one for a ridiculous. It is a notorious fact that Mr. Eddy during his terms in congress, for this district was the creature, the willing creature of the "machine" and that any present congressman's election would have been an impossibility had the "machine" continued to work, instead of being knocked out by the primary law.

In congress he steadfastly opposed the views of Minnesota's great statesmen Senators Davis and Nelson, on the Porto Rican question, and delivered a set speech against their convictions, which for absurdity was only equalled by its stupidity. During his last term, and while congress was in session, he wandered off to Europe in the employ of a corporation, flagrantly neglecting his duty and the least said about that trip the better for Mr. Eddy. To "boom" such a dead politician, against such a living, strenuous, popular and deserving public servant as ex-Auditor Dunn has been, is not only an insult to that gentleman, but also to the intelligence of the Republican party of Minnesota.

Wants No Assistance.

Cincinnati Enquirer: It is doubtful if Col. Bryan would now permit even the Hon. Charles A. Towne to help him to pick out a Democratic candidate for the presidency.

But Bricks Are Plentiful.

Anaconda Standard: All by his lonesome the Governor of Pennsylvania is admitting that it is a long time between journalistic bouquets.

THROUGH NIGHT INTO MORNING

By C. M. Williams.

(Copyright 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

An uncle whom he had never known died in the city and left Paul Dompierre, assistant to Dr. Moreau, the physician to the French Canadians settled in a town in Maine, $3000. The possession of wealth went to the young man's head like strong wine. He proceeded to play with the money, throwing it here and there, like a child, despite Annette Gastonguay's advice and pleadings.

"You is too hard, Annette," he would say, lightly. "I haf plenty money, now—why not haf little fun? I may be dead tomorrow, me!"

He wished to have his little fling, to sow his crop of wild oats and then settle down and marry Annette. But Annette had a will of her own. They quarreled; there were angry words spoken on both sides and they parted. Paul, with a 'flea in his ear,' and blind, unreasoning anger in his heart, went to Onesime Laperre's hotel to drink with the loungers there. Annette went home to weep and pray for Paul; the little turquoise ring she had been so proud of no longer on her finger.

Paul needed her prayers. He had engaged in a poker game in which Mr. Jack Murray was banker. Murray was a burly, big-voiced wanderer. Nobody knew what his real occupation was. Sometimes he sold books, sometimes he solicited insurance. Always he played cards, especially when there were young men like Paul to play with.

At midnight the game broke up with Paul a winner. As the other men filed out of the smoke-filled room Murray said provokingly: "Well, Dompierre, a two-handed game for awhile? But I suppose as you are ahead you want to stop?"

"I quit? Non, non!" cried Paul. 'Tak' your revenge, if you can, m'soo!"

"You're a dead game sport," said Murray, and Paul tried to hide his pleased and happy look. That was what he hoped he was.

An hour later he was trying with ill success, to conceal his excitement and consternation. Murray had begun to play in earnest. Paul had been showing, with an assumption of indifference, the money he carried, and now the little Canadian was more than $200 "out."

And then the trouble occurred. Murray, flushed by easy success, grew careless in the plucking of his gull, and the gull observed his methods. Paul was not a fool—he was merely foolish. And he had awakened to his folly. Suddenly he put his hand down upon the cards as they were dealt.

"Just one little moment by Gar!" he cried. "You ask for dree cards he cried. "You ask for dree cards. M'soo Murray?"

"I did. What's up with you?"

"You call for dree cards in' you deal the dree an' you only discard two—you cheat, by Gar! Dat's what I mean!"

The phlegmatic bearing of the gambler changed in a twinkling. One big hand came down upon the money on the table and with the other he flung his cards into Paul's face, roaring out: "You little Frenchy, prove it!"

The next moment he was facing Dompierre's revolver, for, in keeping with his lately assumed character of a "dead game sport," the little doctor's assistant went armed like a wild westerner.

"Tak' you hands off dat money, t'row up those hands, quick!" he cried, and there was a new quality in his voice that made the gambler obey. "You t'row your cards away so dat dey can't be counted," continued Paul, furiously. "you is a cheat, M'soo, and I knows it. An' I will haf my money back."

With a curse the gambler handed back Dompierre's money and Paul put it into his pocket with his disengaged hand. But his eyes left the gambler's for a moment and quick as light the gambler's fist shot out and struck the little Frenchman on the head, knocking him, half stunned, to the floor. Roaring out, "I've got you now!" Murray made for him, but Dompierre, mad with rage, raised himself upon his elbow, pointed his revolver and the next moment it exploded, exactly how Dompierre could never afterward tell. Without a moan the gambler fell heavily.

The shot filled the room with pungent smoke. Murray lay still, in grotesque, contorted attitude. Dompierre got to his feet and stared in horror upon the gambler. There was the sound of hurrying footsteps outside the room.

"W'at haf I done? W'at haf I done?" groaned Paul. Panic and fear overpowered him in a rush. He cast away the smoking revolver and hatless and coatless as he was leaped from the low window into the garden below, climbed the fence and ran like a deer for the woods beyond the town. There was not a light in the town, save in the hotel. There was not a soul abroad. Soon the dark spruce and hemlock trees surrounded him. He tripped and stumbled over roots and shrubs and branches stunk his face as he ran, panting heavily, his heart thumping, his brain wirling wildly. At last, completely exhausted with exertion and emotion, he threw himself, face down to the ground and lay still.

He could not think, only feel. He groaned and writhed in a passion of regret, remorse and fear. He, Paul Dompierre, yesterday so careless, free, gay, was now a murderer, a hunted criminal. He lifted his head to listen for the hunters.

"I mus' try to think, me," he muttered with dry lips, getting to his feet and pressing his trembling hands to his throbbing brow. "I mus' try to get away I will not go to prison. Yes, I mus' get away. I mus', I mus'!"

What should he do, where go, to whom should he turn in this his dire extremity?—Ah, Annette would save him. Annette would save him, for, after all, Annette loved him!

"Ah, Annette!" he cried aloud to the calm stars. "If I had only listened to you!"

With despair strengthened resolution he started back toward the town, and every step was dogged by fear, every moment he expected to hear the sounds of pursuit. He hurried on, keeping in the shadows of fences and trees.

Annette's cottage stood near the hotel, but an orchard of apple trees gave him shelter. He picked up a handful of earth and threw it gently at Annette's window. His hand shook so that the earth missed the mark and the sound of it rattling against the house, sounding startlingly loud in the stillness, gave him a pang of stabbing fear. The second trial was successful. He heard a stir in the room and although he could see nothing, he divined that Annette was up and looking through the curtain.

"Annette!" he whispered.

"Paul!" she cried, appearing.

"Hush, hush, speak low, Annette!"

"Paul, w'at des dis mean?" demanded the bewildered girl.

"Annette, I haf killed a man," Paul whispered in a broken voice.

"Paul!" she gasped.

"Yes, I haf killed dat Murray for cheating me at de cards. Come down to me, Annette," he pleaded.

In a few minutes she came gliding toward him through the trees. "Is dat true?" she asked, coming close to him, her eyes wide open with terror. He turned from her and hid his face.

"Yes, sit is true," he said. "An' if dey catch me dey will hang me. Ah, Annette w'at mus' I do? Tell me. I'll do just w'at you tell me. Mus' I give myself up? Or mus' I run away? P'raps it would be better to give myself up—an' let dem do w'at dey like wif me, for I haf kill a man—but, oh, Annette, dey would hang me!"

"Non! Non!" she cried, throwing her arms around him. "You mus' go away you mus' hide, yes, yes, yes!" She clung to him. "Let us go to Jean Laporte, he will tak' you to sea in his boat, an' carry you across to Canada. Come, come, Paul, let us go."

They made stealthy way down the straggling street toward the wharves. Across the street was the hotel. Paul shuddered. They were nearly opposite it when the door opened, letting out a stream of lamplight. The fugutives shrank back into the shadow of a house. Three men left the place together. The first carried valises. The next was Laperre, the innkeeper, and leaning upon him (Paul gasped) was Murray, his head tied up in a cloth. They walked down the street and turned the corner toward the railway station. Just then the whistle of the train shrilled out. Paul jumped from the shadow with a face illumined with joy.

"Annette, I did not kill him, after all. Oh, Annette!" he cried.

The girl flew to his arms and then, of course, but not till then, she broke down and wept and shuddered in the stress of her emotions.

"Jus' t'ink, jus' t'ink, Paul, if it had been true!"

"Annette, de light is comin' in de east" said Paul. "Father D'Entremont will soon be sayin' de mass. Let us go to de church and t'ank God it was not true, and I—I will give de promise dere at de altar, dat will mak' it so dat never again can it be true; yes, Annette!"

His words were mixed but his meaning was clear. Hand in hand the happy lovers made their way to the little church on the hill overlooking the waters of the harbor. The rose and gold banner of a new day were uplifted in the east, and a sweet-toned bell began to ring from the church.

The night was gone.

COAL RATE CASE

The Railroad and Warehouse Commission Will Hear It.

Will Hold Its Meeting For That Purpose Here June 10.

The state railroad and warehouse commission will meet in Duluth on June 10.

Among the matters that will be taken up at that time, it is said, will be the Litchfield rate case.

This case is the hearing on the justness of rates on coal and lumber from Duluth to Minnesota points, Litchfield especially.

Some interesting matter has developed in the progress of the case, which was brought to the notice of the commission by Henry Klauser of Litchfield.

Among other things submitted were the following figures on lumber rates in Minnesota and Duluth.

It developed in the hearing at St. Paul that the freight rate on soft coal from eastern mines to Duluth, plus the price of the coal, making the figure the cost of coal at Duluth docks, is $2.40 a ton. It was shown farther that the freight rate on coal from Duluth to Litchfield, 75 miles transportation is $2.20 a ton, making the cost of this kind of coal at Litchfield $4.60.

Another thing brought out was that while the rate from Duluth to Litchfield is $2.20 a ton, the rate from Streator, Ill., to Litchfield is but $2.02.

The railroads interested were not prepared to make an answer to the query as to why such conditions could exist, and it is expected that the reply will be ready for the session to be held here June 10.

DIFFERENTIAL RATE.

The Wisconsin Central Wants One of $1.50.

The Wisconsin Central road, it is said, will ask for a differential of $1.50 on the passenger rate between the Twin Cities and Chicago. This action is important to all the longer lines, which cannot put on a twelve-hour train to Chicago to meet the cut in time made by the Omaha, Milwaukee and Burlington lines, as the Wisconsin Central is in better position to ask a differential than other roads running from the Twin Cities to Chicago.

The road is not connected with any system which would dislike to see any part of its road classed as a differential line, and is more generally classed as a strictly freight line than any other road operating between the two points.

Officials of the Omaha and Milwaukee said they had heard of no request for differential and do not seem to think that one would be demanded.

JUDGE MORRIS AT CAPITOL

Wants Authorities to Waive Defect In Spencer's Eyesight.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Page Morris arrived in Washington last evening. Judge Morris comes to Washington in an effort to secure some slight modifications in favor of Herbert Spencer, whom he named as midshipman at Annapolis, and who, upon examination, was found to have a slight defect in his sight. Judge Morris hopes to prevail upon the authorities to waive this slight defect in young Spencer's eyesight and pass him.

The Minnesota Editorial association is spending the day down the Potomac visiting, first, Mount Vernon, thence across the river to Marshall Hall, where a planked shad dinner will be served. On the return trip this afternoon the excursionists will visit historic points at Alexandria and then go through Arlington cemetery, where a private view of the statue erected to the memory of the late Senator C. K. Davis will be given them.

Congressmen Adam Bede and Buckman, Auditor Castle, Judge Morris and many other distinguished Minnesotans are with the Editorial association today.

Representative Tawney arrived in Washington this morning from Pittsburg and will remain here until the end of the week, when he goes to St. Louis.

MINNEAPOLIS SHOW.

Alfred Davies Says Carnival Will Be Big.

Alfred Davies, of Minneapolis, proprietor of the Davies Lyceum bureau, which presents Rev. R. J. Mooney tonight under the auspices of the Elks at the High School, where he talks on "A Tour in Ireland," came to town this morning and registered not only at the Hotel McKay, but, as the special emissary of the Minneapolis carnival, registered with the tri-colored pennants on the business men around town.

"Great thing, great thing," shouted Mr. Davies at the Commercial club this noon. "The Minneapolis carnival is going to be a whale, and everybody that lives there will get out and whoop things up between June 1 and June 13. We want to see Duluth there in big numbers, and the Commercial club there will have a warm welcome to all who come."

Mr. Davies is here arranging for his series of entertainments for next winter, when he will present, among others, the Mozart Symphony club of New York, Eli Perkins, Rev. Sam Jones, Charles J. Carter and the Bostonian Sextet.

Mr. Davies is organizing an entertainment company of Minnesota people to travel over his circuit. Mrs. James McAuliffe, of Duluth, he says, will be one of the members, and others are the Misses Mabel and Hazel Runge, of Minneapolis, both well known here; Josephine Noudin and Anna Braun, as soloists, and Bessie Mackeen and Katie Watson, of Wadena, as readers.

BIG LEASE MADE

Johnson People Lease Cook County Lands Contingently.

Deal Depends on Success of Smelting Titanic Ore.

The Johnson Nickel Mining company claims to hold the secret of making Swedish steel by a one-smelt process, have executed a contingent lease on their propety in township 63, range 3, west, Cook county.

The lease is made to a syndicate of five Eastern independent furnace concerns, the names of which are not made public.

The terms of the lease are said to be that the companies take out 1,000,000 tons of ore a year for twenty years.

The lease, it is said, hinges on the rusit of the tests of the Johnson pig steel process, to be made at a plant to be built in Duluth or near here.

In case the tests are successful, and it is shown that the steel can be made from the Cook county titanic ore at one smelt, the syndicate is said to be ready to proceed to operations.

The object of this enterprise is to use the hard steel which is run out in this process for steel rails.

Another proopsed action is the construction of a railroad to Grand Marais, providing things come out right, which is to be between twenty-two and twenty-five miles in length. Besides which there are also plans for docks and dredging at that place.

Mr. Johnson has not been in the city for some weeks, but is expected to be along in a few days, when he will announce the intention of his company and definitely explain what the plans are.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES,

According to Statistics, Faster Than Wages.

Just now, with the memories of last summer's great coal strike fresh in the public mind, the country seems to be plunging head foremost into a perfect sea of strikes. Yet capital leans back in its easy chair and says, "Wages never were so high," and virtuously quote statistics to prove the statement, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

And statistics do prove it, all right, but there are other statistics, which capital carefully refrains from quoting, that prove equally and even more convincingly that the cost of living never was anything like so high, and that the vaunted national prosperities of plenty of work and good pay wont bear examination, if one turns on it the search light of the cost of living. For while wages have been slowly crawling upward, the cost of living has been climbing by leaps and bounds; and while it is perfectly true perhaps that a man now earns perhaps $11 where he used to earn $..., he spends $12 where he used to spend $9. And the price of human necessities is still increasing much more rapidly than the price of human labor.

United States Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright says: "The wages paid now in the United States are higher than ever before in the history of the country, which may be literally true, but practically untrue in view of the purchasing power of said wages. According to the Thirty-second Annual Report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor the cost of living in Massachusetts has increased from 30 to 52 per cent between 1897 and 1902. And what is true of Massachusetts is not far from being true in New York, where conditions are approximately the same. That is, the increase had been: in fuel, 30 per cent; in food, 11 per cent; in clothing, 16 per cent; in rent, 52 per cent. Those are not luxuries; they are life's necessities, and they show an average increase in the cost of living of 22 pr cent.

"The figures were obtained by an inquiry into the expenses of 104 workingmen's families living under normal conditions. The incomes of the families were ascertained and an effort made to determine whether the families were better or worse off than they were five years before. Economically they were not better off; socially they were, in that more of the men, fthers and grown sons, were employed, and fewer of the mothers and children were contributing to the family support.

"It is figured that at least 3,000,000 workmen will receive higher wages this year than they did last. But no onehas figured how much more these 3,000,000 are likely to have to pay to live. Coal miners are demanding an increase of from 15 to 25 per cent in their wages and the great corporations from whom the increase has been unwillingly wrung are feeling virtuous and pointing to the fact that the men demanded and got an increase of 10 per cent in 1900. But President John Mitchell, who seems to have a way of dealing with the facts, which are "stubborn things," says that because of the 30 to 40 per cent increase in the cost of living in the mining districts "the purchasing power of a miner's wages is less than before the strike of 1900."

Saturday We Close

our store all day in memory of the American soldiers and sailors who have fought their last fight and have won their last victory—whose heroic acts are kept afresh in the observance of the day dedicated to the decoration of the graves of the boys in blue and gray—a day sacred to every patriotic citizen. To accomodate our customers the store will remain open until 10 o'clock Friday evening.

Anent the Wash Goods Sale.

The weather of the past few days has not been at all suggestive of summer or of warm weather dressing—but there are days to follow when to be attired in the light dainty wash goods we are offering this week means comfortable and charming dressing. It was fortunate that we secured an additional quantity of these goods as the first shipment did not fill our order and we would have been out of many of the patterns but we insisted on the full quantity which we bought being shipped. We do not blame the jobbers for reducing the amount—it was a shamefully low figure that they made us—the reason we can sell at these prices. Tuesday we received the balance of the order—this adds additional patterns for your selection. Two days more of unusual prices in Wash Goods—for Saturday we close the store.

3½c A few patterns remaining of the dimities and lawns, which at 6c and 8c are bargains. Your choice 3½c.

5½c For dimities and lawns which others are advertising as worth 12½c and 15c—we never asked as much.

7½c For fine Waist and Dress Fabrics that have sold at 12½c—Don't fail to see the assortment tomorrow.

9½c Not a yard worth less than 15c—many patterns have sold at other stores in the city for 19c.

12½c A superb line of 25c tissues, lenox, batistes and other popular fabrics for dainty dresses.

15c These are the wash goods which other stores say are worth 35c—our former price was 29c.

SEVEN ARE DEAD

Smallpox Carries Off That Many People at Hibbing.

Dr. Bracken Says Disease Is Thoroughly Under Control Now.

Seven deaths so far have resulted out of eighteen cases of smallpox at Hibbing.

Five deaths were the result of the unusual severity of the disease.

One who died took internally a solution prepared for him by a physician, who directed him to rub it on the skin to prevent itching.

An infant of two weeks died, probably as a result of lack of nourishment, but afflicted with smallpox. Its mother was ill from the disease when the child was born.

Dr. H. M. Bracken of St. Paul, secretary of the state board of health, returned from a trip of investigation to the range at noon today. He will report to the office of the state health board tomorrow his findings, which are as above.

He stopped over at the Spalding for an hour and went to St. Paul on the afternoon train. He said that there was little or no danger of a spread of the disease, and no cause whatever for alarm.

"There are eighteen cases of smallpox recorded in Hibbing, and I believe all that have not died are under quarantine.

"Seven of those aflicted with the disease have died and the high morality tended toward demoralization of the place. But I do not think there is any danger now, as the quarantine is rigidly enforced and there have been but few new cases. Yesterday the marshall picked up two cases on the street and took them to the isolation hospital. The civil authorities have become so used to the disease they can tell it at a glance now.

"Of the seven deaths, five were due directly to the disease, while a man died from poisoning and an infant from lack of nourishment."

The case of the man who drank the skin lotion was peculiar. He was a foreigner, and was found by the authorities playing ball last Sunday afternoon. He was broken out, and he was taken to the residence of a physician, who gave him a solution of some kind to run on the portions of the cuticle where the eruption appeared, which would allay the itching.

The man took it and started to the isolation hospital. On the way he began to itch, it is believed, and finding that he had a cure, drank it. He was taken to the city hospital where everything possible was done for him and later removed to the isolation hospital, where he died.

"The mistake made," said Dr. Bracken, "was leaving the first cases in the business block where they were taken sick. I say mistake—I do not mean it, for they could not have moved the patients without endangering their lives. The rooms occupied by them, over a store, were quarantined. After that the cases were taken to the hospital all right."

"The isolation hospital is in good shape. It is only a shanty, but good enough for the purpose this weather. It is good enough for men, though there is no place for women. It is occupied mostly by homeless men. Homes of others are quarantined.

"I ascertained that there are a few cases at Tower. The rumor that the Vermilion hotel is under quarantine is erroneous. Some of the present cases were taken ill at the hotel. The physicians confined them to their rooms before rash appeared, and when the disease really appeared, they were taken to the isolation. The hotel was disinfected and is perfectly safe for occupancy.

"At Virginia there are three cases, a family, but there is no danger of spread.

"I do not think there is any danger of the spread of the disease at Highland, and feel that everything that could be done was faithfully carried out by the physicians there. Things are in very good shape and I am glad to be able to make the report I have prepared after the investigation, which has lasted since Monday morning, when I went up on the range."

The statement of Dr. Bracken is practically an official report, and shows the conditions in the true light, and without prejudice. He believes Hibbing will be free from the disease in a week or so, excepting for strolling cases from the woods, which are common in all cities in the Northwest.

"The severe type of smallpox has been expected for some time," said Dr. Bracken, commenting on the severity of the disease and the high rate of mortality. "Those who are informed regarding small pox have wondered that it has not appeared before. For the past three or four years the disease has appeared in a very light form, almost nothing but a rash, and no other physical deranagement. But it is the history of the disease that it does not remain in that form long, and the severe type appears about every so often.

"The appearance of the severe type at Hibbing is not remarkable, if the theory can be considered sound, and all men learned in that special disease hold that theory."

CARNEGIE FINDS HIS SHIP.

An interesting touch of sentiment lies behind Andrew Carnegie's recently-announced gift to the little Maine seacoast village of Wiscasset of $4000 with which to erect a library building, for it was for this village that the ship in which Mr. Carnegie and his parents came to America was named, says the New York World.

The fact that the Carnegie ship was so named was only recently discovered by R. K. Sewall, a prominent lawyer of Wiscasset and a local historian of note, who, in reading a copy of the London Standard of May 17, 1901, came across the following extract from a letter of Mr. Carnegie's:

"Kneaderry Castle, County of Dumbartonshire.

"My Dear Lord Provost—It will give me pleasure to provide the £100 pounds needed for branch libraries, which are sure to prove of great advantage to the masses of the people.

"It is just fifty-two years since my parents, with their two little boys, sailed from the Broomielaw for New York in the bark Wiscasset. It is delightful to be permitted to commemorate the event."

A careful search of the marine registers, old and new, under any flag, named Wiscasset, was a ship built at Wiscasset, Me., in 1833-34, and named for the town.

Wiscasset is built upon land purchased by Massachusets colonists from the Wawenock Indians in 1662. The Indian name of the locality was Whacaseke.

From the beginning of the eighteenth century down to the latter part of the nineteenth century, when steamers crowded sailing vessels out of many trades, Wiscasset was a prosperous seaport town and at one time was largely engaged in the whale fisheries. In 1853 the Wiscasset Whale Fishing company was formed and built the ship Wiscasset, which was launched in the early part of 1834. Many of the townspeople invested in the enterprise, which was a great success.

This ship made several voyages from Wiscasset to the whaling grounds of the South Pacific, each voyage being of about three years' duration, and she was afterward sold to a New York firm. In 1849, the time of the emigration of the Carnegies, she was very likely a merchantman, engaged in the general carrying trade, and rigged over into a bark, as was often done with old ships.

A unique souvenir of the Wiscasset's first voyage is a carving made by one of her crew upon a tooth taken from the jawbone of a whale. The ship sailed on this first voyage on March 24, 1834, and during the trip struck a school of large whales, capturing one that yielded ninety barrels of oil.

Upon a tooth taken from this whale a sailor carved a picture representing the scene of the capture—the ship lying by and her boats out chasing the school. This carved tooth is now in the possession of Nathaniel Lincoln, a merchant of Wiscasset.

A newspaper man of Bangor, acquainted with these facts, wrote to Mr. Carnegie, sending a brief statement and a photograph of the carved whale tooth, whereupon Mr. Carnegie, through his secretary, replied as follows:

"Skibo Castle, Ardgay, N. B.

"Dear Sir—Mr. Carnegie thanks you sincerely for sending him a picture of the Wiscasset, which is no doubt the bark in which his parents sailed, with himself and his brother, in 1848. He remembers the master was Capt. Long, and there was a sailor on board who was a great favorite, called Barryman. Mr. Carnegie has often said if he could find him he would like to be of service. He became a little sailor, and was sorry to leave the ship after seven weeks upon it. Very truly yours.

"JAMES BERTRAM,
"Private Secretary."

TURNING a CALLIOPE.

It is with deep distress that we realize that the piano in the parlor must be tuned, for we know it means hours of dreary thumping far more fretting than the running of the scales by ambitious young feminine persons who intend to be made music teachers and who are found, or, rather heard, at the side of their instrument of torture at 6 o'clock in the morning, as the dairy maid of former times was found at the side of her cow, says the St. Louis Globe Democrat. But what if you, reader, dwelt within four blocks of the circus ground when the steam pianist decided to tune his calliope? Well, he did. We are not complaining of the steam pianist. No better one ever visited St. Louis. His "Good Old Summer Time" is a dream, and the calliope needed tuning. You can't let a calliope run down and get rusty until each valve has as many unsuspected notes as a steamboat whistle; one that shrieks B flat when it should be B sharp, or one that becomes the dominant ninth—that is, the ninth steam whistle becomes dominant and stays dominant, or insists on being heard all the time, like the tenor in some singing societies we have known. Then, too, if it isn't kept tuneful and oily, what if the whole thing should blow up within one block. So each one of those toots tried its voice over and over again, till the neighborhood sounded like a steam conservatory of music and one particular voice failed to hit the bull's eye with such unfailing precision that everybody felt tempted to go down there and drive a rat-tail file into it and see if that wouldn't make it behave itself. First it howled too low, just about half a note off, so exasperatingly close that you felt it must be real perversity that prevented it from landing on its proper tone with both feet. Slowly the notes climbed the scale, as if laboriously ascending a ladder, and the listener found himself breathlessly waiting to hear if that recreant steam whistle had settled down to its natural vocalization. No; missed again. Over and over it essayed, and when all seemed black and hopeless, suddenly it caught step in the procession, and the pianist, in a great burst of exultation, broke out with "The Holy City," which felicitously reconciled an audience of at least 10,000 scattered and involuntarily listeners.

WHEELER IS HURT

Was Persona Non Grata at the Confederate Reunion.

Old Comrades Objected to "Fighting Joe's" Blue Uniform.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27.—"Fighting Joe" Wheeler, the dashing cavalry leader of the South in the war between the states, was persona grata at the recent Confederate reunion in New Orleans, because he appeared in the uniform of a general of the United States army. Heretofore Gen. Wheeler has divided honors with Gen. John B. Gordon at Confederate reunions, but there were no honors for him at the New Orleans gathering.

The old soldiers of the "Lost Cause" resented the appearance of Gen. Wheeler among them in a uniform of blue and they made him keenly feel their resentment. Veterans who were at New Orleans state that Wheeler was treated almost as if he were an enemy.

When he appeared in reunion hall clad in the uniform of a United States general not a single cheer was heard. Even veterans who had served under Wheeler had no greeting for the man whom they had followed in many a desperate charge. So far did the veterans carry their resentment that no provision was made for Gen. Wheeler in the parade, the ex-Confederates vowing that they would not march behind a man clad in a uniform which had been worn by their foes in four years of bloody war. One of the ex-Confederate generals present even rebuked Wheeler for appearing at the reunion in the uniform of the United States army.

"What do you think?" this general asked Wheeler, "Lee and Jackson would say to your appearance at a Confederate reunion in that uniform?"

When Gen. Wheeler realized the situation he hastily left New Orleans. Wheeler, it is said, is deeply hurt by the attitude of his old comrades.

The general says that he appeared in the uniform he wore in the Spanish-American war to show the veterans that sectionalism was indeed over when a general officer of the Confederacy had the right to wear the uniform of a general of the United States army. The veterans think, however, that the uniform was out of place at their reunion. All of the veterans wear Confederate gray on these occasions, the officers appearing in the uniforms they wore in the '60s, and they march beneath Confederate battle flags.

The Sale of High Class Tailored Suits, Costumes, Coats and Wraps at the Silberstein & Bondy Co. Store.

The second floor of the Silberstein & Bondy Co.'s store was a mecca for fashionable women today—the announcement of a sale of high class garments, at half regular prices, is the magnet that drew. The firm is carrying out their usual custom of cleaning up and readjusting the stocks at about this season of the year, and women appreciate the opportunity and the values offered, as is shown by the quick response to their announcement. Tomorrow is the second day, and the selling promises to be even heavier than yesterday, for the news is just being passed around. Not only have they included some of the most fashionable tailored suits, coats and jackets in this sale, but some handsome costumes as well.

ESCAPED YEARS AGO.

Seattle, May 27.—His life nearing a close through disease, John Josie, alias John Phillips, was identified as a convict who escaped from the Kingston, Ont., penitentiary twenty-eight years ago, after serving nine years for the murder of a woman. Last night on a bed in a hospital Josie admitted his identity. The facts regarding the murder came to light through the suit of Phillips' wife for divorce.

MUSEUM WILL COST MILLIONS

Is Designed to House the Government's Scientific Collections.

Washington, May 27.—Plans have been completed for the new $3,500,000 structure that is to be erected for the national museum in Washington, says the Star, and bids for its construction will soon be called for. The regents of the Smithsonian institution are superintending the work, and it is their idea when the new building is completed to have a complete rearrangement of the exhibits now in the national museum and the Smithsonian institution buildings.

The new structure is to be devoted to the scientific collections of the government, the present national museum building to the industrial arts, and the old Smithsonian building to the Smithsonian and National museum library and art collections. The regents propose that the scientific collection in the new building shall be the finest in the world, and an officer of the institution makes the statement that already many of the branches to be covered have reached a perfection that is not equaled in any other museum in the world, even the great British museum.

The chief subjects to be covered are biology, anthropology, geology, zoology, botany and American history. The present National museum building will be given up to a great exposition of industrial art, including the already immense and unique collection of the museum, and many additions that the regents are planning to secure as rapidly as possible. The museum will be modeled in its scope and general plan after the Victoria and Albert museum of Great Britain. Among the chief departments will be those of land transportation, boat models, implements of war, and electricti apparatus, of which the museum already has rien collections.

The plans for the Smithsonian building contemplate the creation in time of a magnificent library and art gallery. The scientific library of the institution is already one of the finest in the world. Its scope will be broadened, and it will become a much more important unit in the general scheme of the institution. The plans for the art gallery are as yet tentative. The new structure will be 488 feet long and 345 feet broad, with a height of four stories.

SUPREME COURT OF HONOR

Holds Sixth Triennial Conference and Elects Officers.

Kansas City, May 27.—The sixth triennial conference of the supreme court of honor, in session in this city, elected the following officers for the ensuing three years: Supreme chancellor, A. L. Hereford, Springfield, Ill., re-elected; supreme vice chancellor, J. T. Smith, Burlington, Iowa; supreme recorder, W. E. Robinson, Springfield, Ill., re-elected; supreme treasurer, E. F. Workman, Auburn, Ill., re-elected; supreme chaplain, Rev. D. H. Hatfield, Tarkio, Mo., re-elected; supreme guard, Mrs. Addie Allen, Creston, Iowa, re-elected; supreme conductor, Mae F. Tarkin, Illinois; supreme directors, C. L. Simmons, Indiana, and G. B. Metcalf, Illinois; Hall H. Smith, of Michigan; J. R. Black, of Illinois; Fred R. Hanlon, of Illinois; Taylor Fry, of Missouri, and Frank E. Dooling, of Illinois; supreme medical directors, Dr. J. M. Compton, of Indiana; F. S. Turner, of Missouri; J. E. White, of Illinois, and J. D. Myers, of Illinois.

The annual report of the chancellor called attention to the need of increased death rates, showing the costs of maintenance, which last year was 77 cents per capita, and compared favorably women with men as risks. He also highly commended the emergency fund started only three years ago. The recorder's report showed 340 new charters in the last three years and 60,200 regular and 1323 associate members Dec. 31 last. The treasury showed $60,963 in the general fund, $7213 in the benefit fund and $3315 in the emergency fund.

AT WEST DULUTH

Because Frank Mills showed a partiality to a new spring overcoat and a buck-saw belonging to H. Hutchinson, superintendent of the Scott-Graff Lumber company, he will spend twenty-gve days as a guest of St. Louis county, rusticating on the rock-pile.

Mr. Mills was engaged by Mr. Hutchinson to saw some wood. After completing the job he had become so attached to the saw which he had been using that he could not bear to part with it. Mr. Hutchinson missed the saw, and also an overcoat. He telephoned Lieut. Briggs and the West Duluth police, and Justice Stone did the rest.

W. F. Wimby, a resident of Proctorknott, was brough down by the village marshal last evening and arraigned before Justice Stone this morning. He was accused of imbibing too freely of intoxicants and attemping to clean out one of Proctorknot's thirst parlors. He was allowed to go after paying a nominal fine.

Leander Mustafa, who was arraigned yesterday afternoon on a charge of allowing his chickens to become a nuisance to his neighbors, was allowed to go after paying the costs of the court and promising that his hens would be model in their behavior in future.

FATHER DUNNE

To Deliver Three Lectures at Great Eastern Hall.

Rev. Arthur B. C. Dunne arrived from Eau Claire today and will lecture this evening at Great Eastern hall. This will be the first of three lectures to be delivered under the auspices of St. James court, No. 614, C. O. F., for the benefit of St. James church. In addition to the lecture there will be a fine program of music and some of the best talent in the city has been arranged for. The Eau Claire Leader says of Father Dunne:

"Rev. Father Dunne's arguments are massive and concrete. One does not tire listening. Father Dunne is one of the ablest pulpit and platform orators in the Northwest. His language is always happily chosen and there is an exquisite felicity in some of his phrases and expressions, his illustrations are various and are always well-timed and effective; they are drawn from poetry, from the drama, from the experience of real life. He seems a man who could not if he tried, put anything in a commonplace way. His arguments are ingeniously persuasive and almost always convincing."

Subject—"THE AVERAGE MAN," by REV. ARTHUR B. C. DUNNE.

BECOMES A BRIDE.

Miss Augusta Peterson Is Now Mrs. Andrew Fingal.

Miss Augusta Peterson, the victim of the mysterious shooting affair, has been Mrs. Andrew L. Fingal for nearly a week.

The wedding, which occurred last Thursday in Proctorknott, was a very quiet one, no one but the immediate relatives of the bride and groom being present. No wedding trip was taken, the young couple having secured a home in Proctoknott which they occupied immediately after the ceremony.

The wedding ceremony was conducted with the utmost quietness and secrecy, on account of the weak physical condition of the bride, who has been but a short time out of the hospital.

The wedding had been set for the day after the shooting occurred, and all the preparations had been made. During the time that Miss Peterson was in the hospital Mr. Fingal was a constant visitor there and made every effort to aid the police in their search for the assailant.

Nothing further has been heard of the man who committed the crime. All the clues have been run down by the police and the search has been practically abandoned.

PATTERSON GETS PLACE

Appointed Boiler Inspector Under Law Passed Last Winter.

Governor Van Sant yesterday afternoon announced the appointment of Robert E. Patterson, of this city, as boiler inspector for the Duluth district, which consists of St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties.

Mr. Patterson has been boiler inspector for the old Sixth congressional district ever since Governor Van Sant entered upon his first term. When the matter of his appointment came up in January an opposition candidate made his appearance, and made showing enough to hang up the appointment for a time. Then the legislature made at a little uncertain what sort of a deal the boiler inspectors were going to have, several bills being introduced on the subject, and this held the matter up again until this point was settled. It is said that the determination to appoint Mr. Patterson again was made early in he game, but it was not announced until yesterday. In the meantime he has been acting, and his reappointment will meet with favor both among Republican politicians and among those who have dealing with the office.

The new law passed by the legislature creates fifty-three boiler inspectors, instead of seven, the former number. The bill as first introduced provided for an inspector for each senatorial district, which would have provided sixty-three inspectors, and would have given Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis counties an embarrassingly large number of them. Duluth would have had three. This was amended so as to provide that there should be but one in each county. The inspectors hold for two years, and they may appoint deputies if they are needed.

EXILED ALBANIAN CHIEFS.

Constantinople, May 27.—Forty-seven Albanian chiefs who have been exiled to Asia Minor passed through the Bosphorus Monday evening on board a transport bound for a Black sea port. The Servian legation has notified the Porte that the situation in Old Servia is compelling families to seek refuge in Servia.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Will Hold Annual Encampment at New Haven.

Washington, May 27.—Col. M. E. Urrell, commander-in-chief of the Spanish war veterans, announced today that the national encampment of the organization this year would be held in New Haven, Conn. The dates of the encampment have not been fixed definitely, but they will probably be Sept. 28 and 30. It is expected that campment. The cities which were candidates for the encampment were Cleveland, Asheville, N. C., and New Haven. The council of administration voted three for Cleveland, three for Asheville and seven for New Haven. The council was impelled to select an Eastern city for its encampment this year because of the desire that next year the encampment be held in St. Louis.

CITY IS LIABLE

For Explosion of Fireworks In Madison Square.

New York, May 27.—The test suit to fix liability for damages to the families of the victims and persons injured by the explosion of fireworks in Madison Square last election night has been decided against the city.

Solomon Landau brought suit against the city of New York, claiming $10,000 damages for the death of his 7-year-old boy. A verdict for $1612, which included interest, was awarded him by the jury. The case will be appealed.

LACK OF SCHOOLS

One Influence That Is Working Against the Negro.

Tuskegee, Ala., May 27.—Booker T. Washington today submitted his annual report to the board of trustees of the Tuskegee Institute. It is in part as follows:

"There are several influences that are constantly exerting themselves against the negro growing up on the soil at present. One of these is the lack of public school facilities in the country district and the frequent and unwise agitation about dividing the school fund in proportion to the tax paid by each race. In the cities and larger towns the negro parent finds a comfortable school house and a school in session eight or nine months. Another thing which sends a larger number of negroes to the cities than many realize, is the surety of getting police protection in the city when one is charged with crime. I think I do not overstate the matter when I say that for every lynching or attempt at lynching that takes place in the country, a score of colored people leave the country for the city. This whole question is one that should receive very serious attention."

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over my body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Filbridge, West Cornwell, Conn.

PRESIDENT'S SUMMER TRIPS

Will Go to Cleveland For Hanna Wedding June 10.

Washington, May 26.—The work of arranging the executive offices of the president prior to his return has already been undertaken, although it is said he will not reach this city until June 5. The big tennis court just outside and back of the offices is nearing completion, but the workmen were told that the nets around it would have to be all stretched and every vestige of tool or rubbish removed.

President Roosevelt is scheduled to make three more trips almost immediately after getting back to Washington. He has accepted the invitation of Senator Hanna to attend the wedding of his daughter and Mr. McCormick of Chicago, and will go to Cleveland on the 10th of June. He will have little time in his office before he makes the Cleveland trip. Directly after getting back from Cleveland he is to go to Baltimore to take part in the festival of the saengerfest. The day of his visit to Baltimore is June 15. The next day, June 16, the president is to attend the commencement exercises of the university of Virginia, at Charlottesville. The two last trips will be short ones, but will prevent the president attending to business in his office for several days. It is probable that the president will have a meeting of his cabinet between the time of his return here two weeks from now and before leaving for the Hanna-McCormick wedding. He has seen a few of his cabinet advisers since leaving Washington, but the majority of them have not bothered him with business and will want to present some matters for his advice and decision soon after he resumes his duties in the executive offices.

Mr. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, will leave here some time this week to join the president for a few days prior to his return. He will spent three or four days with the president on the return trip of the chief executive.

Mrs. Roosevelt will have all preparations made for the family at Oyster Bay before July 1, and will doubtless go there with her children before that date if the president is detained here. The children will all be out of school after the middle of June and will want to get away from Washington as much as their parents.

Oyster Bay is a delightful place to them, with the president they hunt and fish and swim and sail and enjoy their summer vacation to the utmost. The president accompanies them on many excursions.

I paid out over $500, writes Mrs. S. P. Jones, Atlanta, for merchandise, but nothing did me any good until I used Rocky Mountain Tea. Made me entirely well. S. F. BOYCE.

The Innocent Suffer With The Guilty

The world to-day is full of innocent sufferers from that most loathsome disease, Contagious Blood Poison. People know in a general way that it is a bad disease, but if all its horrors could be brought before them they would shun it as they do the Leprosy. Not only the person who contracts it suffers, but the awful taint is transmitted to children, and the fearful sores and eruptions, weak eyes, Catarrh, and other evidences of poisoned blood show these little innocents are suffering the awful consequences of some body's sin. So highly contagious is this form of blood poison that one may be contaminated by handling the clothing or other articles in use by a person afflicted with this miserable disease. There is danger even in drinking from the same vessel or eating out of the same tableware, as many pure and innocent men and women have found to their sorrow. The virus of Contagious Blood Poison is so powerful and penetrating that within a short time after the first little sore appears the whole system is infected and every drop of blood in the body is tainted with the poison, and the skin is soon covered with a red rash, ulcers break out in the mouth and throat, swellings appear in the groins, the hair and eyebrows fall out, and unless the ravages of the disease are checked at this stage, more violent and dangerous symptoms appear in the form of deep and offensive sores, copper colored splotches, terrible pains in bones and muscles, and general breaking down of the system.

BLOOD POISON IS NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS

S. S. S. is a specific for Contagious Blood Poison and the only remedy that antidotes this peculiar virus and makes a radical and complete cure of the disease. Mercury and Potash hold it in check so long as the system is under their influence, but when the medicine is left off the poison breaks out again as bad or worse than ever. Besides, the use of these minerals bring on Rheumatism and stomach troubles of the worst kind, and frequently produce bleeding and sponginess of the gums and decay of the teeth. S. S. S. cures Blood Poison in all stages and even reaches down to hereditary taints and removes all traces of the poison and saves the victim from the pitiable consequences of this monster scourge. As long as a drop of the virus is left in the blood it is liable to break out, and there is danger of transmitting the disease to others. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and can be taken without any injurious effects to health, and an experience of nearly fifty years proves beyond doubt that it cures Contagious Blood Poison completely and permanently. Write for our "Home Treatment Book," which describes fully the different stages and symptoms of the disease.

FORTUNE FOR JOURNALIST

Louis Fournier Finds a Bride and Inherits $6,000,000.

Paris, May 26.—Quite a flutter around the tea tables of American residents has been caused by the romantic love tale and timely inheritance of a hero, who is a comely and intelligent Englishman only 21 years old, who is a painter of merit and who has for the past three years been earning a living in Paris as sub-editor to the English and American Gazette and at present correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette. The name of the lucky youth is Louis Fournier. He at various times did occasional work for New York papers and recently became engaged to an exceedingly attractive young woman of 18, Mlle. Majendie, who is a talented sculptress. A few days ago Louis Fournier's happiness was completed by a windfall in the shape of a fortune estimated at $6,000,000 left him unexpectedly by his friend, Harold Barker, late of Sydney, Australia, whose acquaintance young Fournier made casually in Switzerland when Barker wished to buy a portrait that Fournier had finished of Sarah Bernhardt, but was forestalled by the Countess de Majendie, mother of his fiancee.

The young journalist says that when the news of the legacy reached him he had spent his last franc of his week's salary and was about to borrow a few dollars of a friend to make a trip to Trouville to see Mlle. Majendie, who is stopping there with her mother.

Barker, who left him the fortune, was only 35 years old when he died last week at Rennes of typhoid fever.

Fournier intends to stick to his double-barreled profession of newspaper man and artist. He shows no signs of losing his head by his sudden stroke of fortune and has completed arrangements for his wedding with Mlle. Eliz de Majendie in November. Fournier showed a substantial check forwarded him as an advance by a London solicitor of the Borker estate, and has taken a modest little country house near Montigny, in Fontainebleau forest, to pass the summer months in rest and quiet.

A STARTLING TEST.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for gentle stomach and liver troubles, so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists.

STATUE OF SHERMAN

To Be Unveiled In Central Park, New York, Saturday.

Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard Writes About His Old Chief.

New York, May 27.—On next Saturday Augustus St. Gauden's statue of Gen. W. T. Sherman will be unveiled in Central park. Mrs. Thorndyke, a daughter of Gen. Sherman, will pull the cord and unveil the statue. Mayor Low will receive the statue on behalf of the city from the chamber of commerce, which purchased it. Many addresses will be made, among them one by Secretary Root.

Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, who served with Sherman, has written the following regarding his old comrade:

Gen. Sherman and myself each commanded a brigade in the first battle of Bull Run. I had heard much about Capt Sherman, formerly of the artillery in the regular service, but I had with him only a passing acquaintance, while we were in the East. When he first came to Washington from Louisiana he could not understand the apparent apathy of the war department. He knew that secession was a reality and that a terrible war was upon us.

The expression he used at the calling out of only 75,000 three months' men was circulated among us in McDowell's provisional force: "Why," he cried, "you might as well undertake to extinguish the flames of a burning building with a squirt gun as to put down this rebellion with three months' troops." The impulse of Sherman's patriotic soul was at that time in everything that he did or said.

When we met my first meeting with Sherman was at Chattanooga, in a large upper room of a private house, where, before his coming, Gen. Grant had brought together a bevy of Western generals, among them Thomas Palmer, Gordon Granger and myself. We were talking in a social way when Sherman, who had come up from Bridgeport, Ala., a distance of twenty miles from his head of column, to report progress to Grant, burst in upon us.

His tall, sinewy figure, never for a moment still, his high head and handsome brow, with a few wrinkles at the corners of his eyes and across his forehead, his keen, bright, searching look and his deep toned, melodious voice, presented a man once seen never to be forgotten. Gen. Grant and he met like brothers who loved each other. Their first noticeable attitude consisted of the interchange of humorous expressions.

After Grant went East to command the armies of the United States, Sherman, having the three armies of the West, called the military division of the Mississippi, which embraced all the troops from Cincinnati to Mobile, was always moving forward with ceaseless activity.

Our spring campaign of 1664, by these movements under the untiring, indefatigable general, was continued for 113 days, during which we were under fire of artillery or musketry every day except three. These three were occasioned by Gen. Joe Johnston, the Confederate commander, passing suddenly and unexpectedly below the Etowah river. It was during these three days of rest that I recall two instances of which I always think when these days are mentioned.

The first was when someone invited Sherman and his commanders to go to a large dining tent for luncheon with drinking refreshments. For some reason I asked to be excused. One of the generals, always full of humor, turned to me and said: "Now, Howard, be a man and go along with us," with some other expressions of disapproval of my ways.

Sherman suddenly turned upon him and, calling him by name, said: "Let Howard alone; I want one officer that doesn't drink." I was touched by his gentle protection and sympathy, and, if it were possible, my loyalty to him was deepened by this favor.

The other instance was this: The next day being Sunday, Sherman was at Kingston, in a room at the railroad station, very busily engaged in writing orders and dispatches. Gen. Corse was at that time his chief of staff and near at hand. Gen. Sherman heard the bell ringing from the belfry of a little chapel opposite the station, and was annoyed by it and said to Corse, "Send a guard over there and arrest the man who is ringing that bell."

My special friend, the Rev. E. P. Smith, then of the Christian commission, was taking advantage of the rest interval for the army and was calling the soldiers to the church. He himself was ringing the bell, when suddenly the long rope caught the bottom of his trousers near his foot, and, taking a sudden leap toward the second story of the belfry, ripped his garment from bottom to top, putting him in a most unpresentable predicament. Just then the sergeant, with four men, arrived and said to my friend, "Fall in." He demurred and laughingly said that he wasn't in fit condition to go with the guard. The sergeant said: "Them's not the orders. Fall in."

So he fell in between the ranks and was marched over to the station. He had been there some little time when Corse came up to him and said: "Were you ringing that bell?"

He answered "Yes."

"Why?" asked Corse.

"Because it is Sunday and time for service," said Smith. Corse then led him near to Sherman, and when he looked up Corse said: "Here's Mr. Smith. It is Sunday and he was ringing the bell for service."

Sherman scarcely stopped the swift movement of his pen, but said: "Sunday, Sunday; didn't know it was Sunday. Let him go."

So Mr. Smith was immediately released and fixed himself up the best he could to lead a service of praise and worship in the chapel.

The night before Sherman entered Atlanta in person he was near my headquarters in the vicinity of Jonesboro, Ga. He was too restless to sleep. About midnight he heard from the north "sounds of shells exploding and other sounds like that of musketry." He walked over to a farm house and called the farmer out "to listen to the reverberations which came from Atlanta." The distance was twenty miles.

Sherman asked the farmer if he had lived there for any length of time. He answered that he had, and that these sounds were like those of a battle. After these reverberations there was quiet till about dawn, when Sherman heard again a renewal of the explosions. He could not determine in his mind whether or not there was a real battle.

Not long after sunrise rumors came in that Hood had abandoned his position and was in retreat. At last, as the day wore on, a dispatch came from Gen. Slocum stating that Hood had gone and that the Twentieth corps had marched into the city. As soon as this news was in his hand, Sherman mounted his horse and rode back to Atlanta.

Then he sent that memorable telegram: "Atlanta is ours and fairly won."

To the administration at Washington and to the people at large Sherman had really burst from the clouds. "Atlanta won!" was, indeed, a bow of promise set in the Southern sky—a bow of promise to America and to the world that right and justice would soon prevail, and that the American Union would be restored.

Again, on Dec. 23, 1864, Sherman, who had been away in the harbor visiting the admiral of the navy there in charge, came back and joined Gen. Slocum and myself, who had entered Savannah a day before, the next morning after Hardee's evacuation of the city.

Sherman was delighted that we were not obliged either to make a siege or attempt to carry Savannah by assault. A siege would have taken much time, and an assault, owing to the few approaches, would have been a very costly one to our troops. He had hardly spoken to me before he turned away to prepare a dispatch for the president. Here is the message he sent:

"I beg to present to you as a Christmas gift to the city of Savannah, with 150 heavy guns and plenty of ammunition and also about 2500 bales of cotton."

The armies under Sherman had a very refreshing rest for a few days. On Jan. 1, 1865, when I was paying my respects to Gen. Frank Blair at Blair's headquarters, Sherman came in in his usual brisk style, and, sitting down beside me with some memoranda in his hand, he said quietly, "Howard, I want you to transport your army of the Tennessee by water to Beaufort, S. C.; march northward, cross to the main land and be at Pocataligo by the 15th of this month. Can you do it?"

I did not take time to make more than a rough calculation, but said: "The time is rather short, but we will be there if it can be done."

He added that Slocum would march layed by the high water at Sisters' Ferry, and be at Robertsville about the same time that I should reach Pocataligo. I may remark that six divisions of the Army of the Tennessee were at Pocataligo at the required time. The other division went with Gen. Slocum, who was very much delayed by theh igh water at Sisters' Ferry, so that we had to wait several days for the left wing to get into position. Thus began the memorable march through the Carolinas. After that difficult march, with all its skirmishing, accidents and battles, Sherman sent us a congratulatory order which covered the whole field of operations. It seems now a little boastful, but it expresses the simple truth:

"So complete a success in military operations, extending over half a continent, is an achevement that entitles it to a place in the military history of the world."

My estimate of Gen. Sherman is high. His intellect furnished a mine rich in pearls, sparkling with diamonds, yet completed after nature's own order. He was ever at home in science or commerce or art, and never failed to interest a votary in his own field of research. His perception was like a flash of light. Stand him upon a hilltop and instantly he took in the topography of the country. As the hills and valleys and roads of Georgia demonstrated, where in youth he had once mentally grasped the situation, the map always remained photographed upon the tablet of his memory.

His memory was phenomenal. He had acquired knowledge with intense rapidity from observation and from books, from childhood to age, and surely, by a thousand tests, he showed that he had forgotten nothing that he had once learned. He led his quartermasters in their plans and estimates for his army. He was quicker than his chief commissary in figuring the rations for a month's supply.

AID FOR COLLEGES.

Report of Committee Presented to Assembly,

Los Angeles, May 26.—The important subject of home missions and its corollary—evangelical work among the churches—occupied the morning session of the Presbyterian general assembly. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the report of the standing committee on aid for colleges was considered and discussed. Moderator Coyle has announced his appointments of chairmen for the various boards and standing committees. The report of the committee on aid for colleges stated:

We need an educated ministry, and this for two reasons: first, to keep ministers in the truth, since undisciplined and uninstructed minds are more easily led into doctrinal vagaries; second, to enable ministers to hold the intelligent and educated people found in their congregation.

It is well known that state and undenominational institutions do not supply us adequately with ministers or with consecrated laymen and women.

In 1901-2 ten state universities had one candidate to two thirty-six university men; two Presbyterian universities one to thirty-four; eight Presbyterian colleges, one to twelve college men, and fourteen small Presbyterian colleges one to five.

Such facts seem to warrant the conclusions: As a source of supply for our ministry, the Presbyterian university is better than the State university, the Presbyterian college is better than the Presbyterian university; and the small Western Presbyterian college is best of all. What is our church doing to secure such sources of supply for her ministry?

It is believed that our church fairly equals or surpasses other great denominations in all lines of church affinity excepting this college work alone. Only money is lacking, and our church has it. The number of colleges can be increased at any time, as there are outstanding offers of land and buildings, provided we can help the new institutions to meet current expenses until endowment is secured. More than one-half of the whole number of our churches gave nothing for this cause last year. The board aided last year thirty-five institutions—twelve colleges, twelve academies and one special. There has been general increase in students' attendance, often to an embarrassing degree; buildings, faculties and apparatus are insufficient for the demand, and the board is not able to furnish sufficient money for more teachers or buildings. The receipts in 1901-2 were $185,955, as compared with $222,436 in 1901-2.

MISS PECK HOPES

To Break Mountain Scaling Record In South America.

In August Will Begin Ascent of Mount Sorata.

New York, May 27.—Miss Annie S. Peck, of Boston, a renowned mountain climber and lecturer, will sail from New York June 16 to South America, where she goes to make the highest ascent ever made by any mountain climber. Miss Peck is going to undertake a no less daring feat than the ascension of Mount Sorata to its peak, which has an altitude estimated as high as 25,000 feet above the sea level.

This high peak, towering above any on this hemisphere, with perhaps the exception of one or two others in South America, is in the northern extremity of Bollvia, near Lake Titicaca. It has never been ascended, Sir Martin S. Conway, who last attempted it, failing on account of the lateness of the season when he began its ascent.

"I expect to begin my ascent some time in July or early in August," said Miss Peck yesterday in discussing her planned expedition with an Eagle reporter. "Sir Martin Conway began his climb late in September or October, I believe, and this was one of the reasons he failed in attaining the summit. I will have the best possible season for my climb.

"Of course there are many difficulties to be overcome. There are the dangers of the altitude, for instance, and the mountain is covered on top with snow and glaciers. I will be accompanied on my scaling expedition by Dr. W. G. Tight, president of the university of Mexico, and two guides from Valtournanche, Italy. One of these will be Antoine Maquignaz, who was the guide who accompanied Conway when he attempted to scale the mountain. Dr. Tight will assist me in the scientific work, and he is well suited for this. In addition to the climb, I will make archaeological examinations on the summit of Chachani, in Peru, near Arequipa, and at a Pigmy city near Lima.

"If I succeed in reaching the summit of Mount Sorata I will have attained the highest altitude ever attained on either continent by peak scaling. Mount Sorata is the highest mountain of this hemisphere, although there are higher ones among the Himalayas. None of these higher ones has yet been scaled, however, and to me will belong the distinction of having scaled the highest peak, if no one on the other hemisphere gets ahead of me in the meantime."

Mount Sorata, also known as Illampu, is in the Eastern Cordillera, and is believed to be the highest mountain in the Bolivian Andes, though this honor is also claimed for Illimani. It is probably exceeded by the Cerro de Huascan in Peru and by Aconcagua in Chili. Seen from Lake Titicaca, it is the grandest mountain in America. It is a magnificent mass, with three great peaks.

Miss Peck is now staying in Manhattan, although her home is in Boston. In her long experience as a mountain climber Miss Peck has gone to the summit of the Matterhorn and many other famous peaks in Switzerland, Mexico and other countries. In 1900 she was the official delegate of the United States to the international congress of Alpinists, and during that year she scaled the Funflingerspitze, which is known as the most difficult rock climb in Europe.

Case of Mary Boggs Against Chief Troyer, Is Dismissed.

Plaintiff Failed to Be on Hand to Prosecute Case.

The civil action of Mary Boggs against Chauncey M. Troyer, to recover $1760 which the plaintiff claimed the defendant wrongfully withheld from her, was dismissed in district court yesterday afternoon, on motion of the defendant's attorney, the plaintiff failing to put in an appearance.

Thus ends an interesting chapter in local police circles, which began about two years ago, when an old farmer, by the name of Henderson, got off a train at the little town of Charlton, Minn., and was taken through his paces by a young colored woman named Etta Hickman. She managed to get the farmer's money, consisting of three $1000 bills and three $100 bills away from him, and in company with another colored woman, named Mary Boggs, walked thirty miles across the country and caught a train into Duluth.

The Hickman woman had a cousin here named Gregory and with whom she stopped. The Boggs woman became insistent on getting a share of the spoils which, she claimed, the Hickman woman agreed to give her, but she received only $300. The Hickman woman and the Gregories planned to get away with the rest of the boodle themselves, and with that end in view quietly slipped out of the city one night bound for the West.

The Boggs woman was not caught napping, and she immediately gave the whole deal away to the local police, and the Hickman party was caught just over the Minnesota line, in North Dakota. Gregory and Etta Hickman were brought back to Duluth, but Mrs. Gregory was taken sick and was taken off the train at Brainerd. One of the $1000 bills was discovered by the authorities in her wrapper and some $800 of the rest of the money was afterward recovered. All that was recovered was turned over to the old farmer who, on account of his prominent family connections, refused to prosecute.

The Boggs woman was very much put out because she never got part of the money stolen from Henderson, and she made a formal demand on Chief Troyer for $1760, which he held for a time, claiming the amount that belonged to her. This was refused and she brought suit to recover it by due process of law, but did not appear when the case was called for trial yesterday.

GETS LARGE VERDICT.

Mrs. Eliza Brahaney Awarded $1700 Against Hibbing.

Mrs. Eliza Brahaney has been awarded damages in the amount of $1700 against the village of Hibbing, for injuries which she alleges to have received in falling through a defective sidewalk. The jury in the case, which was completed in district court at noon yesterday, returned a verdict for the plaintiff late in the afternoon. This is the second trial of the case, the plaintiff having received a verdict of $1000 at the first trial. The defendant village had the judgment in the first trial set aside and secured an order for a new trial.

THE WEATHER FAVORABLE

Crops Benefited By Rains, Though Storms Do Some Damage.

North Dakota had much-needed rains last week, and they have greatly benefited crops. The weekly reports of the condition of the crops, issued by the weather service, say:

"Warm weather the fore part of the week, followed by heavy rains in all sections, has greatly improved the condition of crops, which were, particularly in the western and northern parts of the state, suffering for rain. Although too much rain fell in some few places in the Red River valley, it is not thought that any serious damage will result.

"Wheat, oats and barley are up and growing rapidly, with a good stand. Corn planting is well advanced, and that planted early is now coming up. Flax seeding is partly finished, but the rains delayed seeding for from two to three days; that sown before the warm weather and rains is now coming up.

"Minor damage from various causes, principally from high winds, which prevailed the fore part of the week, blowing light and sandy soil, uncovering some seed, and covering other too deep for it to come up, is reported, but the effect on the entire crop is too small to be taken into consideration."

The Minnesota report tells of some damage by storms and hail. It says:

"In the middle of the week the weather was warm; at other times it was moderate. There was rainfall in some parts of the state every day in the week. The rains were heavy in many parts, and the weekly amounts were large, Worthington reporting 5.39 inches, Grand Meadow 3.43, Moorhead 3.06, Detroit City 2.62, Montevideo 2.46 and Park Rapids 2.38. Most of the rains were accompanied by lightning and thunder, the thunder storms of the evenings of the 22d and 24th being especially severe, with high winds which caused considerable damage in the counties on each side of the Minnesota river, and thence southward, with local damage to buildings, wind mills, shade and fruit trees which will aggregate many thousands of dollars. On the 19th there was hail in Western Sherbourne and Northern Wright counties which caused damage to growing crops and fruit. The low places are flooded in the south, and all the streams are full or overflowing their banks. The warmth and abundant moisture have caused a luxurious growth of the small grains, pastures, clover and other grasses, and the rapid germination of corn, flax and barley recently seeded, but the rains have seriously hindered or entirely stopped farm work, so that corn planting and the seeding of the small areas still intended for flax and barley have to wait for drier weather. Rye is heading. Early planted corn, potatoes and flax are coming up nicely."

HEATWOLE REMEMBERED.

Former Congressman Is Presented With Silver Service.

Northfield, Minn., May 27.—When former Congressman Joel P. Heatwole returned home from his three weeks' absence, he found that he is still remembered in the Third district, even if he is an "ex-member." Fifty-eight of his friends in the Third congressional district presented him with a magnificent solid silver tea set and a solid silver water set of eight pieces. The silverware is very elaborate in design, with heavy garlands for decorations. On the water pitcher is the inscription: "Hon. Joel P. Heatwole, from friends in the Third congressional district of Minnesota, 1903." The pieces are engraved with the letter "H" in old English. The list of donors comprises prominent men in every county of the Third district, men prominent in business and political life. While it is from men who have been close political friends of Mr. Heatwole, the gift is a personal tribtue.

HAVE PLURAL WIVES.

Grand Jury Gets Busy With Leading Mormons.

Salt Lake, Utah, May 27.—An investigation into the polygamy charges made by Charles Russell against Judge Henry Tanner has been started by a special grand jury. Russell charged that Tanner had made Miss Clarice Thatcher one of his plural wives. Russel said that while he was away on a mission Judge Tanner won Miss Thatcher's heart away from Russell. Today Russell, Miss Thatcher, Moses Thatcher, Mrs. Thatcher and other witnesses were examined by the jury. Miss Thatcher is a daughter of Moses Thatcher, a millionaire banker, who had several plural wives.

The jury is summoning witnesses to inquire into the charge that President Smith, head of the Mormon church, and several of the apostles are openly practicing polygamy. The investigation promises to be thorough, especially in the Tanner case.

In addition to the Thatcher charges, it is alleged that Tanner contracted a plural marriage with Miss Richards, daughter of former State Auditor Richards. All the parties involved are prominent and wealthy. It was hinted today that a trip by President Smith to the dedication ceremonies of the St. Louis fair would be probed. The official photograph of the crowd that attended the dedication of the Utah site is said to show that a plural wife accompanied President Smith to St. Louis.

MRS. HADLEY LEAVES.

Found Conditions In Indianapolis Were Unpleasant.

Indianapolis, May 27.—Mrs. Lula Hadley, erstwhile chambermaid at the Hotel English, who refused to make the bed of Booker T. Washington, and has received a small fortune for not doing so from Southern people roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm, has left town for good, as she informed friends who live in the neighborhood of her former home on Fulton street. The neighborhood became a trifle warm for Mrs. Hadley, so much so that even the daily arrival of checks from the South was no tonic for chills and fever brought about by the glowerings of colored people on every side. She has gone to Paris, Ill., where relatives live.

Don't Waste Your Money!

Buying ordinary diamonds when a writer like Prof. Max O'Rell says the following in last Sunday's N. Y. Journal:

WHY WEAR THE GENUINE WHEN TRANSVAAL DIAMONDS, PEARLS AND RUBIES ANSWER THE PURPOSE AT ONE-TWENTIETH OF THE COST.

SHOULD WOMEN WEAR JEWELRY?

By MAX O'RELL.

Great Britain rights reserved. Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.

Do women wear jewels in order to look more beautiful or in order to advertise their wealth or the prosperity of their husbands?

Most people, I think, will answer, "Yes, they do, for either of these purposes or for both."

This being granted without any contradiction, let us examine the case more closely. We all know that diamonds and pearls, to mention only two among all precious stones, are now imitated with such perfection that only experts can distinguish between real and imitation jewelry, and that after close examination, and very often after being obliged to submit them to the test; that is to say that nobody, at the theater, at a ball or a dinner party, or, in other words, placed near a woman or far from her, can positively affirm whether it is real jewelry or only imitation she is wearing.

This being the case, I cannot for the life of me understand why real pearls and diamonds should be worn and paid the extravagant prices that are demanded for them, for only the rarity of things or their inimitability should explain their forbidding prices.

I understand why a picture, a piece of china, an old medal, an old book, an old manuscript, even a stamp should fetch a fabulous price. It is rare, unique, no imitation of it exists; no imitation, at all events, which could be mistaken for the original. The signature of a picture, the year of the publication of a book, the authenticity of a manuscript, or even a single autograph I understand that you should pay fancy prices for. But what would you give for a beautifully imitated signature of Washington or Napoleon I? If you cannot have the real article you would do without it, and you would offer nothing for an imitation. In dealing with precious stones, however, we have to think otherwise, because, I repeat it, we all agree that women wear diamonds to enhance their beauty or to advertise their wealth.

This being the case, if women wear diamonds and pearls in order to look more beautiful, why should they spend fortunes on real stones, since imitation ones would produce exactly the same result?

It is well known that most women of the old aristocracy who possess heirloom jewels that have to go from duchess to duchess have them admirably copied, and invariably wear these copies in public instead of the real ones, which remain locked in the safes and which are only worn on very rare occasions, such as a coronation and such ceremonies. These ladies find no difference in their appearance whether they wear the real ones or the others.

DON'T BE FOOLED BY JEWELERS

who try to sell you genuine diamonds at high prices by using the argument that they are a good investment, and that you can always realize within a small per cent of their cost. How many have tried this experiment, only to discover, when compelled to part with their jewels for cash, that $20 was all they could realize on a diamond that cost them $100? If you want to invest your money, buy Government bonds, or something equally secure and marketable, which will pay a dividend, on money so invested. But if you want diamond jewelry simply for ornament, buy Transval Diamonds. They answer

NEW BOARD MEETS.

Uri L. Lamprey Again Heads State Game Board.

St. Paul, May 27.—The new fish and game commission held its first meeting yesterday and organized by electing the following officers:

President—Uri L. Lamprey, St. Paul.

First vice president—H. G. Smith, Winona.

Second vice president—William Bird, Fairmont.

Secretary—D. W. Meeker, Moorhead.

Executive agent—S. F. Fullerton, Duluth.

It was decided, after some discussion, that, under the new law, a treasurer was not necessary, as the law provides that vouchers shall be presented to the state auditor.

The executive agent was authorized to advertise for bids for the completion of the two new ponds at the fish hatchery.

Representative Ofsthun, of Glenwood, brought before the board the new fish hatchery to be erected at Glenwood, for which the legislature appropriated $20,000.

The board decided that it was essential that work be commenced, and the first thing necessary is the selection of a site. The board will visit Glenwood on June 10, remaining two or three days for the purpose of selecting a site.

The patriotism of Glenwood seems suddenly to have cooled in one respect.

Before the passage of the bill it was represented that the people would be willing to give the state a site almost.

Since the passage of the bill all available land for a site has more than doubled in price in the estimation of owners.

Every site so far "mentioned" as a likely one has been arbitrarily valued at $5000. Land which has been selling for $40 and $50 an acre is now quoted to the commission at $100 an acre. If Glenwood wants a fish hatchery this year there must be a drop in real estate values.

Arrested For Embezzlement During His Honeymoon.

Milwaukee, May 27.—In order to obtain money to prepare for his wedding to a Chicago society girl and provide a suitable home, William A. Schacht, representing George W. Heath & Co., of New York, embezzled about $1060 from the firm, according to his own confession, and further operations by him along the line were prevented only by the fact that his employers became suspicious.

Schacht was arrested at Whitefish bay, two miles north of the city limits. He had been at the village for the last three days living in seclusion on his honeymoon, and the officers took him completely by surprise. Schacht's wife is still in ignorance of his arrest.

According to Detective Marlow, who was placed in charge of the case several weeks ago, Schacht was assigned to the district comprising Wisconsin and Northern Michigan. He had a case of samples worth about $400, and when he reached this state he pawned the goods at Eau Claire, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and the pawn tickets were still in his possession yesterday. He also drew on his firm for sums varying from $25 to $15. This continued until early this month, when the firm decided that something must be wrong, inasmuch as he was making no sales. He was refused further loans, and Marlow was put to work on the case.

RAY DENIES

He Has Been Selected to Oppose La Follette.

La Crosse, Wis., May 27.—Assemblyman George H. Ray, who has been prominently mentioned by the stalwart faction of the Republican party as a candidate for governor in 1904 in opposition to Governor La Follette, denies that any such movement has been started. He says no conference has been held with him regarding the matter.

CROP CONDITIONS

Shown By Weekly Report of Weather Bureau.

Washington, May 26.—The weekly crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau is as follows:

Respecting temperature the week ending May 25, in the east of the Rockies, was the most favorable of the season and the first of which there has been no complaint of lack of warmth in some part of this area.

Heavy rains from Oklahoma and Arkansas northward to Minnesota and the Dakotas, have retarded work.

Drought has been largely relieved in the Ohio valley, lake region and southern portions of the Middle Atlantic states, but continues with severity over the northern portions of the last named district and in New England, while light grains would be beneficial generally throughout the gulf states. In the Rocky mountains and Pacific coast regions the week has been abnormally cool, with heavy frosts and considerable snow in the central and northern districts. Good progress has been made with corn planting in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, but to the westward wet weather has prevented the completion of this work, which is much delayed, while drought has prevented germination and planting in the Middle Atlantic states and New England.

In the Southern states, the crop has made favorable progress. In the southern portions of Missouri and Kansas winter wheat has suffered some deterioration but elsewhere in these states and in Nebraska, the crop continues in promising condition. In Michigan and Wisconsin decided improvement is reported and in Pennsylvania it has withstood the drought better than other crops. Winter wheat is now heading in the more northerly districts, the reports from the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic states indicating that it is heading low. On the Pacific coast the crop is backward in Washington and Oregon, but has improved in the first named states; in California slight damage has been done by drying winds.

In the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska, spring wheat has made rapid, and is in very promising condition. In the North Pacific coast states, the crop is backward.

WORKMEN INJURED.

Train Collides With Box Cars at Columbus.

Columbus, O., May 26.—A Big Four work train with a gang of Italian laborers on board collided with a cut of boxcars, near Armstrong street, in the local yards at 10:45 a. m., and the following persons were injured: James Rose, Italian, married, will die; Antonio Rose, Italian, probably fatally hurt; five other Italians were less seriously injured; Engineer George W. Shermer, badly hurt; Fireman James Storey, stuck to post, badly shaken and bruised; Brakeman George Greenwell, married, back wrenched and probably slight internal injuries.

KILLING INSURGENTS.

Manila, May 26.—Lieut. Javier, commanding a force of constabulary and volunteers has defeated 250 fanatical insurgents in the Island of Cebu, killing sixty-eight of them and capturing twenty-nine. The fight occurred in the mountains near Tabogon. No details of the engagement have been received and the government losses are not known.

EUROPEAN CITIES

Grieve Because Morgan's Art Treasures Are Coming Here.

Pieces of His Holdings In a Dozen Public Galleries.

London, May 27.—There will be much wailing and sorrow in a score of European cities when J. Pierpont Morgan succeeds in getting his famous art collection into the United States, as it seems he will do in a few months. There is much interest here in art circles over the fight he has made so unsuccessfully and in the reported project to found a national gallery of art in Washington, and start it with his collection, probably worth close to $8,000,000. Many of his most valuable pieces, especially paintings, are in London museums, and their removal will make a big hole, not only here, but in half a dozen galleries in Europe.

There is much comment, even among the common people, over the way Mr. Morgan started out to buy enough to equip a first-class museum of art, knowing that he probably would have trouble in getting them to his home without paying excessive duties. Yet he has gone right on and has picked up choice bits wherever he happened to find them. He has several commissioners here and on the continent, looking out for valuable works of art, and it is seldom that the New York millionaire has squealed at the prices. There is no doubt that he has been bled most unmercifully and in most instances in the most open-faced way, yet he never has been revengeful.

There also is no doubt that Mr. Morgan has some of the choicest pieces of art to be found outside the Louvre. He has invaded old and conservative museums and private collections and carried off his objects of interest with unheard of prices when none thought a purchase was possible. This has been what has made him the most interesting American in the art circles of Europe. It is getting hard to fool him now, for he buys the opinion of half a dozen experts to pass judgment on each new purchase. It is said that he will decide on the purchase of a couple of million dollars' worth more of art objects on his visit here this year. This will make his collection cost $10,000,000.

The public is the gainer by the tariff fight, for pieces of Morgan's collection are filling niches among public galleries from Athens to Glasgow. A list of only the most important of his acquisitions will show the magnitude of his operations, which result in a wholesale exodus of works of art from their ancient homes in England, Italy, France, Germany, Spain and Greece.

Perhaps the most famous picture in Mr. Morgan's possession is the Raphael known as the "Colonna Madonna," because it was a family portrait of the house of Colonna in Rome for many generations. The price he paid for it to Mr. Seillmeyer in Paris reached the sensational figure of $500,000. The same amount he paid to Mr. Duveen for the Gothic tapestry, now at the Victoria and Albert museum, which hails from Aygalades, a delightful country seat in the neighborhood of Marseilles. This tapestry is supposed to belong to the Van Eyck series at the Madrid royal palace, but there is no record to prove that any piece is missing from this series. On the other hand, it is known that Cardinal Mazarin brought it to Paris from Spain and left it to his nephew, at whose death it was bought by Marshal Villars.

From the south of France—Grasse—comes the wondrously beautiful decorative panels by Fragonard known as the "Roman d'Amour de la Jeunesse." The majority of these were originally painted for Mme. du Barry, Louis le Bienaime's famous favorite, and represent the love romance of the king. The chief panels represent "The Pursuit," "The Rendezvous," "Recollections," and "The Crowned Lover." The last of the series, "Forsaken," could hardly have been painted for Mme du Barry, since the artist could scarcely have been bold enough to undertake the part of a preacher of morals to his powerful patroness. These decorations caused a great stir when they were exhibited a few years back at Agnew's, from whom Mr. Morgan eventually bought them for $335,000.

Houdon takes among the sculptors of France much the same position as Fragonard among the painters. His two busts which Mr. Morgan bought from Duveen's for $100,000 come from the Muhlbacher collection in Paris, and represent "The Given Kiss" and "The Bought Kiss." They are marvelous studies of expression, modeled with a great sculptor's feeling for form. The idea is carried out even in the accessories, garlands of roses being introduced into the first, vines into the second, in which the man has the coarse features and long pointed ears of a faun, while the woman is arranged like a Bacchante.

But Mr. Morgan has not by any means concentrated his attention upon the French eighteenth century school. His collection includes an exquisite relief by Donatello, a Madonna and child, from an English private collection, and a fine ancient Greek bronze figure of a boy, carried off from classic soil. It includes the Pfungst collection of small fifteenth century bronzes, bought for the sum of $200,000; the unique Mannheim collection of Italian majolica, bronzes, German silver and Limoges enamels, for which he paid a similar sum; the famous Limoges triptych, by Nadon Penicault, representing the "Entombment," surrounded by smaller enamel pictures of "Christ Carrying the Cross," "The Crucifixion," "The Descent From the Cross," "The Resurrection" and "Christ's Descent Into Hell;" $100,000 was the price paid for this masterpiece.

From Germany Mr. Morgan drew the collection of Consul Gutman, director of the Dresden bank in Berlin. The sum of $200,000 was paid for this rare collection of sixteenth and seventeenth century goldsmith and silversmith work.

Of other notable objects should be mentioned a set of three Rose du Barry Sevres vases from the Good and Lord Coventry collections, bought for the trifle of $75,000, a landscape by Hobbema from Capt. Holford's collection ($150,000), and the "Duchess of Devonshire," by Gainsborough, with its romantic story of theft and recovery, which is recent history. Mr. Morgan bought this historical picture from Agnew's for $200,000. His collections of snuff boxes and of miniatures by the greatest masters of this delicate art, by Cosway, Plimer and Engleheart are unique. Their value may be gauged from the fact that he had to pay not very long ago $15,000 for a set of four miniatures by Plimer, which are not by any means the finest or the most valuable of his collection.

FOUR YEARS FOR HUSSNER

Ensign Punished For Killing Soldier Who Failed to Salute.

Berlin, May 27.—The attention of Germany is centered on the public court-martial of Naval Ensign Hussner, which begun and ended yesterday in Kiel, when he was convicted and sentenced to four years in prison and degradation. Hussner's replies to the president's questions were straightforward. He said that while regretting that his sword strokes killed the artilleryman, he affirmed that he acted according to service instructions and that he was obliged by honor to compel obedience.

"But," said the president, "you said you withdrew your weapon without using it."

"Yes," replied the prisoner answered, "I so ordered in the regulations."

"You were seen loosening your sword before Hartmann left your side," continued the president.

"Yes," the prisoner answered, "I thought of ——"

Hussner mentioned the name of an officer who, after having been struck by a private, was obliged to resign because he was unable to loosen his sword, and the private, who was not identified, ran away.

Hussner admitted that he became interested at the police station, immediately after the killing of Hartmann, in a discussion over the different classes of shoulder straps.

The impression made by the prolonged examination of Hussner on the hearers was that his action was the result of the system of training on material which was dull, though passionate, and which affected a mind filled by the exaggerated ideas of honor.

The court read a letter which Hussner wrote to his mother from prison, and in which he said:

"God Almighty will not desert me because I only acted as I had to do. If I am punished I shall have the glad consciousness of having maintained my honor unimpaired. It is, after all, the highest gift that a man possesses. I trust in my redeemer, Jesus Christ.

"My cell was opened this moment and my dinner was brought in. The food is quite good. My fellow prisoners look with envy upon it. It is said that they lock up a man preparing to be an officer."

THE CELEBRATION OF NEW YORK'S TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY AS A CITY.

New York, May 27.—New York yesterday officially commemorated the 250th anniversary of the establishment of municipal government in New Amsterdam, afterwards called by force of treaty between Holland and England, New York. The whole city was gay with bunting. The city hall, where the main exercises were held, and city hall park were the center of attraction, the decorations there being especially elaborate. In the public schools half a million children took part in special patriotic exercises.

Mayor Low presided over the ceremonies at the city hall. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Cornelius T. Wells, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church of Flatbush, the oldest church of that denomination here. Mayor Low delivered a brief address, referring especially to the city's marvelous growth and the open-handed charity of its people.

"Our special pride," said he, "is that we are an American city, and our chief ambition is to show how the greatest American city can greatly serve the world."

Gen. James Grant Wilson of the New York Historical society delivered the oration of the day, and was followed by Elihu Root, secretary of war, who prefaced his remarks with a letter from President Roosevelt. After expressing his regret at his inability to be present, the president wrote:

"The changes in New York city during the 250 years which have just elapsed are such as could be paralleled nowhere else in the world. We now have in New York the second largest city in the world, and it is no idle compliment to you and those associated with you, Mr. Mayor, for me to say that there is now no other city, either here or abroad, of whose governing officials its people have more just reason to feel proud."

In his address Secretary Root said: "The people of the city are able to show their capacity to govern themselves—slaves to no ruler and to no party. The men who, 250 years ago, founded this municipal government were sound and wholesome men, and their spirit of freedom, of toleration, of civic pride and good citizenship survives, permitting the whole increasing mass of the great metropolis. I am proud to come back from the councils of the nation to my own home; proud to be a citizen of New York."

Addresses were also made by Governor Odell, Judge John Clinton Gray of the state court of appeals, Rev. Pereira Mendes, rabbi of Congregation Shearith Israel, and Bishop Henry C. Potter, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York. The Rt. Rev. John M. Farley, archbishop of New York, pronounced the benediction.

COUNTY'S SHARE

May Pay Half or None of Bills For Fighting Contagious Diseases.

Provisions of the New Law Bearing on This Matter.

One of the laws passed by the last legislature that is of much interest to St. Louis county is that which provides for the expense incurred by towns and villages through contagious diseases. Under the old law the expenses incurred through contagious diseases in the towns and villages of the county were paid by the county, but hereafter the county is to pay only half the expense, or in case the board of county commissioners so orders, less than one-half the amount, or refuse to pay any part of it. The town or village presenting the bill has recourse to the courts, however, in case the county disallows its bills.

The law provides that all necessary expenses incurred by the board of health or health officer of any town, borough, village or city, in the general control of infectious or contagious diseases, shall, in the first instance, be charged against the town or village where it exists, and the claim shall be allowed as any other claim against the town or village.

The town clerk or village recorder shall then send the county auditor a certified statement of all such expenses, and this statement shall come before the board of county commissioners at its next meeting.

The county commissioners may audit not to exceed one-half such claim, or they may disallow it and notify the town clerk or village recorder who sent it in, within ten days. The village officer has the privilege within thirty days of starting a civil action against the county, in district court, and if the court sustains the determination of the board of county comissioners, the appealing party must pay the costs.

If the court decides for the village or town making the appeal, the county must pay such amount as the court shall designate, together with the costs of the action. No bond will be required by the appellant.

That part of the expense of contagious diseases which the county shall incur is to be paid out of the general revenue fund, and the money will be paid out on orders in a manner similar to the payment of any other legal claims against the county.

In the case of the cities, villages, towns or boroughs in the county which must bear the other half of the general expense incurred relative to contagious diseases, the law authorizes, in addition to all other taxes, the levying of a tax not to exceed 1 mill on the dollar of taxable property in one year, the taxes so collected to go into the general fund of such city, town or village, and to be available for the payment of claims arising from the care or suppression of contagious or infectious diseases.

A provision is made in the new law that it shall not apply to cases where the person having infectious or contagious disease is not a legal resident of the town or village. This is taken to mean that the county commissioners will, in such case, refuse to allow any part of the claim presented by a village or town.

Inquiry at the county auditor's office yesterday developed the fact that the new law is now effective, and under its provisions the town and villages of the county should make a levy this year for the purpose of meeting the expenses incurred by contagious diseases. This is not likely to be done, however, as many of the town clerks have already filed their levies with the county auditor. It is held that another town meeting could be called in such towns where the levy is already made, and a new levy could be authorized, but this is not generally regarded as practicable. The town or village share of the expense incurred will come out of the geenral funds already provided for, and ample notice will be given next year in time to permit of the special levy, should the conditions demand it.

MURDERED HIS WIFE.

Brutal Deed of Farmer Near Martins's Ferry, Ohio.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 27.—Samuel Ashby, of Portland, near Martin's Ferry, Ohio, killed his wife at their home in that place yesterday. Ashby, Monday night, turned his wife out of the house, but yesterday she returned. Ashby was there and after some conversation he drew a revolver and shot her three times. Any one of the wounds would have been fatal, but not satisfied, Ashby thrust a knife three times into his victim's breast. With the blood streaming from her wounds, the woman ran screaming from the house and reache dthe woods nearby before she sank exhausted. She was found there dead a few minutes later by a searching party.

After inflicting the wounds the husband ran from his home, escaping to the country and had not been captured up to a late hour. A posse of angry citzens is searching for him. The Ashbys had a family of six children, four girls and two boys. Ashby and his wife, it is said, have been having trouble for a long time owing to jealousy on the husband's part.

HANNA FOR ROOSEVELT

Senator Withdraws Opposition to Resolution of Endorsement.

Cleveland, May 27.—Senator Hanna has decided to offer no further opposition to a proposed resolution in the coming state convention endorsing the candidacy of President Roosevelt for another term. This action was decided upon late yesterday afternoon. When asked if he had heard from President Roosevelt with reference to the decision concerning his attitude in connection with the resolution, Senator Hanna made the following statement to the Associated Press correspondent: "I am in receipt of a communication from the president, which indicates to me his desire to have the endorsement of the Ohio state Republican convention of his administration and candidacy. In view of this I shall not oppose the resolution and I have telegraphed President Roosevelt to that effect."

Senator Hanna declined further to discuss the subject, stating that the brief announcement above covered the matter.

Those close to the senator say that he doubts the wisdom of such a resolution at this time, but it is pointed out in deference to the president's judgment and expressed wish Senator Hanna demonstrated that his original opposition to the resolution was at no time caused by personal antagonism to the president.

Washington, May 27.—When the dispatch announcing that Senator Hanna would oppose an endorsement of President Roosevelt at the coming Ohio state convention, was shown to Senator Foraker, he dictated the following statement:

"I am very much gratified to learn that Senator Hanna has withdrawn his opposition to the endorsement of President Roosevelt's candidacy in 1904, not on any personal grounds, for I have not at any time had any personal interest in the matter, but solely because I think the endorsement good for Senator Hanna and the party as well as for President Roosevelt, who has well earned a second term by the splendid administration he has given us.

"The result will be a harmonious convention and an enthusiastic and unanimous endorsement of Senator Hanna in the senate."

The senator added that the votes of Ohio, added to the states that have declared heretofore for President Roosevelt, gave the president a majority of the votes in the next Republican national convention.

JONES AND OAKLEY

Selected For the Cass Lake Land Office.

Washington, May 27.—Senator Nelson and Congressman Buckman have recommended the appointment of J. D. Jones, of Long Prairie, and Egbert S. Oakley, of Buffalo, to be register and receiver, respectively, of the new Cass Lake land office, and upon the return of President Roosevelt to Washington, it is expected that their appointments will be formally announced.

There is some surprise over the selection of Oakley, as it was expected A. G. Bernard, of Cass Lake, would be recommended for receiver.

FOR SHEPARD OR PARKER

Bryan Believes Democrats Will Nominate One or Other.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 27.—William Jennings Bryan expects to support the next Democratic nominee for president.

He expects the nominee will be an Eastern man, a New York man, and a "sound money" man.

He expects the nominee will be elected.

And he expects the nominee will be either Edward M. Shepard or Judge Alton B. Parker.

Mr. Bryan's personal preference is Mr. Shepard, but he has stated definitely that he would support either of these two men.

These statements can be made as a result of conversations recently had with Mr. Bryan, in which he has frankly discussed his views of the situation and told his reasons for the positions he takes.

Mr. Bryan does not expect to be a candidate for the nomination, but he does expect to have a large part in determining who shall be the nominee. He expects to eliminate the men who are not satisfactory to himself, and that his process of elimination will leave in the field only the two men named.

Either of these two, Mr. Bryan is positive, is satisfactory to the Eastern wing of the party, and it is Mr. Bryan's expectation that either of them, once endorsed by himself and his friends, will also be satisfactory to the party in the West.

Mr. Bryan believes the political situation is today highly favorable to the Democracy. He wants Mr. Shepard nominated for mayor of Greater New York the coming fall, because he has no doubt of the election of the Democratic candidate by a very large majority. With a majority of 100,000 for mayor at his back, Mr. Bryan is positive that Mr. Shepard will be invincible for president, so far as concerns getting the electoral vote of the empire state.

Along with New York, Mr. Bryan looks for the nominee to get the votes of the solid South, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Colorado and Indiana, at least, which makes a total of 224, exactly enough to elect. Besides, there is the chance, which he considers good, to carry Montana, which voted for him in 1900. Nebraska, his home state, Idaho and Nevada, which he also carried, and Connecticut. This entire list would give a total of 247, only 224 being necessary.

Mr. Bryan considers that Cleveland, Hill and others of their class cannot be nominated with his opposition, because party leaders will realize the uselessness of the attempt to make the fight with the Bryan following opposed to the nominee.

Inasmuch as Mr. Bryan's conditions leave two strong and prominent New York men still eligible, he is confident one or the other of these will be named.

FELL AMONG THIEVES.

Man Loses Large Sum to Chance Acquaintances.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 27.—Sheriff Sawyer has received a telephone message from New York Mills to the effect that Joseph Balamach, of Bluffton, had been drugged and robbed there. Balamach came into the village to make some payments, and had $300 in currency and $400 in checks and notes on his person. He fell in with two strangers, one of whom had been in town for a day or two, buying some painting, and after taking a few drinks with them lost consciousness. When he came to he was out some distance in the country, and was minus his watch, chain, currency and papers.

And all sufferers who call on him will receive a free examination, and, if curable, will be treated at a low price. No high fees are asked the sick and helpless and no incurable case accepted.

There is no question of the Doctor's sincerity in his claim that disease can be cured, and one can not doubt his ability to carry out his claim after having talked with people whom he has cured quickly and safely of all kidney and liver disease, lung and stomach or heart trouble, constipation, rheumatism, neuralgia, blood and skin diseases, catarrh, bronchitis, paralysis, diabetis, lost vitality, nervous debility, insomnia, blood poison, anaemia, female weakness, eczema, headaches, backache, nervousness, coughs, asthma and any disease or weakness of the vital organs. It matters not what the disease nor of how long standing, nor how many doctors or remedies have failed; he has repeatedly renewed the youth of old men and women—has often instilled into jaded men and women new vitality, health and strength. To weak, weary women he has brought the light and happiness of health. For worn-out men he has relighted the sparkling vitality of youth. He has cured the crippled and healed the sick, and he has gone about this quietly, unostentatiously, but, nevertheless, with the unbounded success that is winning the gratitude of all sick and helpless men and women.

MARKET IS FIRMER

Wheat Dull and Prices Better—Snow's Report Regarded as Bullish.

Crop Damage Reports Continue—Flax Dull and Slightly Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 27.—The wheat market started out with better prices this morning, the strength being due to steady cables and reports of too much rain in the West and Southwest. The market eased off somewhat and until after the noon hour held steady.

The announcement that Snow makes the condition of winter wheat .8 instead of .73 as it was on May 1, caused an upturn notwithstanding the fact that he estimated a crop of 500,000,000 bus. There was a reaction from the high point, however, but the market closed higher than yesterday. St. Louis was sending in bullish news and there was considerable in the way of crop damage reports from winter wheat sections. The Missouri report was bullish.

The Liverpool market closed ½d higher, Paris ¾c lower to ¼c higher, Berlin ½c higher and Buda Pest ¼c lower.

Local shippers report no break in the daily demand for wheat. Foreigners are taking absolutely nothing and Eastern millers but little. They apparently are having trouble in disposing of their flour, which of course, makes the demand from them very slack.

Primary receipts of wheat were 255,000 bus last year, 252,000 bus. Shipments, 280,000 bus, last year 296,000 bus. Clearances were 732,000 bus.

The rumored decrease of 5,000,000 bus in the world's visible did not materialize entirely for Bradstreet reported a decrease of 3,834,000 bus.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis 186 cars, and at Chicago, 28, a total of 400 cars, against 122 last week and 146 last year.

Corn in the Liverpool market was unchanged and ¼d higher. In the Chicago market July corn closed without change and July oats a shade stronger. Primary receipts of corn were 572,000 bus last year 310,000. Shipments, 386,000 bus; last year, 191,000 bus. Clearances were 136,000 bus. Bradstreet reported a decrease of 874,000 bus in the world's visible supply of corn.

Trading in the Duluth wheat market was very quiet. July opened ¼c up at 78¾c, sold off to 78¾c a few moments later, then held steady at that price until after the noon hour. It sold up to 79c an hour. It sold 78¾c at 12:30, but again turned weaker and closed at 78¾c. This was a net advance of ¼c. May had the same advance and September was up ¼c. In Chicago May wheat was 1c up and July ¼-¾c up. In Minneapolis, May advanced ¾-⅞c and July ¾c. Owing to wire trouble New York figures were not obtainable toward the close of the Duluth market.

Cash sales of wheat were 2340 bus, and for No. 1 northern ¾c over July was the price. No. 2 selling at 2c under No. 1.

Flax was fairly active and steady although the bid price at the close was ¼c off from yesterday for July. It sold up ¼c to $1.16 at one time during the morning, but fell back to $1.61¼. The close was at $1.16. Minneapolis has 7 cars and Duluth 5.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat to arrive, No. 1 hard, 80¾c; No. 1 northern, 78¾c; No. 2 northern, 76¾c; May, 78¾c; July, 78¾c; September, 71¾c. Oats to arrive, 34½-35c; on track, 34½-35c; May, 34c. Rye to arrive, 50c; on track, 50c; May, 50c. Flax in store, $1.15½; on track, $1.15½; to arrive, $1.15½; May, $1.15½; July, $1.16; September, $1.17½; October, $1.16; November, $1.16. Barley, 35@51c.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 16; last year, 11; oats, 1; flax, 6.

Receipts: Wheat, 12,824; oats, 2114; rye, 1691; flax, 12,177.

Shipments: Wheat, 50,660; oats, 198.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Strong on Cables and Weather Reports.

Chicago, May 27.—Wheat opened strong and higher on steady cables and reports of too much rain west and southwest, with July up a shade to ⅛c at 73⅝@¾c to 73¾c. There was a good scattered demand and small receipts, resulting in a still further advance. Outside markets were higher and helped the strength here. Early trade was of fair volume. Duluth and Minneapolis reported receipts of 108 cars which with local receipts of 28 cars, two of contract grade, made a total for the three points of 136 cars against 122 last week and 146 a year ago.

Selling by pit traders at the advance brought about an easier feeling temporarily and July broke to 73⅝c, but further decline was prevented by a demand from brkers thought to be acting for the leading long. On their support July rallied to 74⅝c, and the close was firm, with a gain of ⅛@⅝c at 73⅞@74c.

English crop advices and decreasing receipts caused a very strong feeling in corn at the opening and July showed an advance of a shade to ⅛@¼c at 45⅝c to ½c. There was good demand from scattered sources and shorts covered in a small way, holding the market steady at the advance. Crop advices were bullish. Local receipts were 274 cars with 19 of contract grade.

The advance was fairly well maintained throughout the day, although at times the feeling was nervous. Local traders bought, the wet weather being the factor and July sold up to 45⅝, but eased off on liquidation, the close being steady and unchanged at 45½@⅝c.

Oats opened steady in sympathy with other grains with July ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, at 34c to 34¼c. Trading was quiet and featureless and with a light cash demand. Local receipts were 139 cars.

There was an easy feeling in provisions due to the large receipts of hogs at the yards and prices as a rule were a trifle lower. September pork was off at the opening 2½ at $16.72½. Lard was unchanged to 2½c higher at $8.80 to $8.82½, with ribs 2½c lower at $8.20.

Close: Wheat—May, 76¾c; July, 73⅝@74c; September, 71c; December, ...c. Corn—May, 46¾c; July, 45¼@⅜c; September, 45c; December, 42⅝c. Oats—May, 36c; July, 34¾c; September, 31⅜c; December, 31⅝c. Pork—May, $19.65; July, $17.40; September, $16.67½. Lard—May, $8.77½; July, $8.85; September, $8.82½; October, $8.62½. Ribs—May, $9.32½; July, $9.10@42½; September, $9.20. Rye—May, 50c; July, 52¾c. Flax—Cash, northwestern, $1.16; southwestern, $1.12; May, $1.12; July, $1.14. Timothy—May, $3.45. Clover—May, $11.50. Barley—Cash, 42@56c. Cash wheat—2 red, 78@79c; 2 hard winter, 73@75c; 3 hard winter, 71@75c; 1 northern spring, 79@80c; 2 northern, 78@79c; 3 spring, 73@75c. Corn—2, 45½c; 3, 45@45¼c. Oats—2, 33c; 3, 32¾c.

GRAIN GOSSIP.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago: Wheat—The market is very quiet and steady. Pit operations were in the main featureless. The Southwestern advices continue rather bullish as to crop outlook, but no fun induces but little speculative confidence. On the other hand, stocks are light and decreasing, and the market seems to be without selling pressure. Accept an occasional rally to sell brakes. European weather is on the whole favorable and the cables are dull and the export demand slow. It is a tiresome market and without tendency. Estimated cars, 250.

Corn—The market was only moderately active. There is nothing in the cash position to influence prices materially. Country offerings seem to have decreased some and the demand is moderate. Weather conditions in the West are, however, unfavorable. Iowa and Nebraska and in fact Missouri also, are complaining of too much rain and the inability to plant. These reports also indicate that there is a considerable percentage of the acreage in those States are not yetp lanted. Buying orders from these sections are increasing. The volume is not yet sufficient to maintain a bull market. Estimated cars, 220.

Oats—The market is very quiet and steady. Any sympathy the market might have had with the little firmness in corn, was offset by the apparent break in the drought in the middle and Western states. Conditions of supply and demand are not urgent either way. Estimated cars, 90.

Ryeroft, Chicago: The estimates on the winter wheat crop are being cut down so that I believe the next government report will show prospects of less than 475,000,000 and might possibly be reduced to 450,000,000 bushels.

St. Louis wires: A writer to Ballard from Lewisburg, Ky., says: "I don't think Kentucky and Tennessee will average over 6 or 7 per cent of crop, on account of rust and uneven stand. We believe a half crop is nearer right for the two states."

Peoria wires: A reliable party just back from the best wheat territory in southern Illinois says the wheat fields are full of fly. Wheat looks poorly, turning brown in spots and the millers and farmers say they don't expect over half a crop. Some millers say they will have to bring supplies in from outside early in the game."

Kansas City wires: "We have a little complaint about wheat on low lands and along streams on account of rain, but think our wheat is in good shape generally. Corn planting greatly delayed and condition improving little. However, with good weather from now on think conditions should soon be all right."

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Market Closed Weak and Prices Were a Little Off.

Free Selling of Rock Island Undermined Early Firmness.

New York May 27.—Buying orders of a considerable scale were executed at the opening for some of the prominent speculative stocks causing large fractional advances. United States Steel preferred rose ⅞ and St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and National of Mexico pfd gained upwards of ½. Consolidated gas selling ex dividend rose ¼. There were a few fractional declines, but the general tone of the market was firm.

The firmness of the market was undermined by free selling of Rock Island, the large offerings of this stock arousssome misgivings. Realizing in the United States Steel stocks and Southern Pacific also contributed to a general reactionary movement, but the losses were small outside of Rock Island, which yielded a point from the highest. Purchases of large blocks of Pennsylvania carried it above 28.—Some of the trans-continental stocks recovered to the opening level, Rock Island, however, continued heavy. Important gains were scored in minor properties, Minneapolis & St. Louis rising 4 and National of Mexico pfd, Delaware & Hudson, the Iowa Centrals, Southern Railway pfd, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Soo, General Electric, Twin City Rapid Transit and Tennessee Coal 1 to 1⅜.

St. Paul and Pennsylvania were well sustained, the former rising 1⅛, but the active list generally was sluggish and irregular. Rock Island was under pressure and sagged below 27 and there were heavy spots among the coalers, trunk lines and Pacifics. A rise of 2 in Western Union was ascribed to the injunction against further cutting of its poles along part of the Pennsylvia route. A number of specialties and low priced stocks rose from 1 to 2 or over including Hocking Valley pfd, Colorado & Southern first and second pfd, St. Louis & San Francisco second pfd, the Toledo, St. Louis & Western stocks, Wisconsin Central, Evansville & Terre Haute, Detroit United Railway, Continental Tobacco pfd, Republic Steel pfd and Virginia-Carolina Chemical. Kanawha & Michigan dropped 2. Bonds were irregular at noon.

Free buying of Reading lifted it across 60 and the active list firmed up for a time. Large selling orders were executed in al favorites later and most of them declined to the lowest. Rock Island and Southern Pacific felt the pressure most, the former declining to 26½, and the latter to 50⅞. United States Express advanced 6½.

Prices were pushed up again, St. Paul making an exceptional rally to 151½. Prices again sagged all around owing to the practical stagnation of the demand. Rock Island went a shade lower than before and the general list about reached a parity with the low level of an hour ago.

Selling orders appeared in United States Leather stocks, depressing the common 2¾ and the preferred 2½, and making the general market heavy in sympathy. Rock Island and preferred, St. Louis Southwestern preferred and Sugar lost about a point each. Trading was almost idle and the drift of prices very sluggish at the low level of the day. Baltimore & Ohio and Union Pacific fell nearly a point under last night. St. Paul lost its gain and the whole market fell below last night's nevel. The closing was weak.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Dow-Jones to W. H. Laidley & Co.: We understand plans for the readjustment of Mexican Central capital have been submitted to prominent banking form which will have charge of reorganization. English holders agreed to support the plan. We understand it is proposed to scale generat montgage bonds 25 per cent, thus reducing fixed charges nearly $700,000 per annum. There will be an isue of preferred stock to be given bond holders in lieu of 4 per cent they release and preferred stock will also be given for $10 per share assessment upon common stock. Income bonds will be retired through payment of part cash and part securities. New stock will probably be placed in voting trust. There is no doubt as to the successful consummation of plans when finally agreed upon.

Harriman to Paine, Webber & Co.: The flooor is bearish on Rock Island because it is selling a basis of 175 for old stock while Northwestern is 176 and St. Paul 151. There has been no support by insiders that we can see. At the same time don't think they have sold any stock below forty.

Waldorf to Coe Commission Co.: Brokers actively in the leading stocks agree the market acts if the turn was at hand. While this opinion may prove incorrect it is shared by representative houses, many of which feel that current quotations stocks are cheap. They argue that prices are so low that liquidation has about run its course and that securities are in strong hands, having passed in immense volume into the tin boxes of such wealthy interests as Rockefeller, Gould, Morgan and Harriman. The buying of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was extensive and is said to be for Mr. Harriman. J. R. Keene also credited with large purchases of these stocks. The strength of Erie is attributed to buying by the above men. Atchison increase in gross for April $536,000 and increase in net $91,000 was also regarded as a strong card, for it is believed to be the beginning of a general recovery in the net earnings of western roads. It is concluded from this exhibit of the Atchison that higher rates are counteracting increased expenses.

Harriman to Paine, Webber & Co.: The only favorable development is the strength of sterling exchange, indicateing further gold shipments.

Strenberger, Sinn & Co. to W. H. Laidley & Co.: If there is a continuation of yesterday's good banking support and investment buying a further rally can be expected especially as there is indication that supply of stocks is small. Amalgamated ought to work higher on trade conditions and expected increase in dividend. All the standard dividend payers appear cheap at these figures, but after such a severe decline and at this time it seems impossible to look for a sustained upward movement.

Town Topics: We do not expect to see any sustained substantial advance at present. The bears are likely to make a small drive at stocks again before a rise of large proportions occur. There are indications that Mexican Central, Erie second preferred and Wabash preferred will go up independently. We also expect to see Mexican Central, Mexican National preferred go higher within the next few days. The action of the market yesterday showed that investment buying and purchases by large interests had absorbed the floating supply of stocks to a large extent and it further demonstrated that a large miscellaneous short interest existed.

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market closese weak and most stocks are a little off from yesterday. There is nothing new in the frieght handlers' matters, awaiting reply of the men. There was talk of a cut of $1 per ton in pig iron and of a bond issue in Leather. There are evidences of further liquidation in Rock Island. There is no improvement in the character of buying. Sterling Exchange continues strong, with probability of further gold exports. On the whole, except that prices are lower, we see no change in the situation, and it does not look for a bull market. Crop prospects are not improving, and this may also later become a factor. Would sell stocks on the rallies.

SINALOA IS COMING.

The bill of sale of the new steamer Sinaloa has been filed at the local marine customs office.

The bill notes the transfer of the steamer from the West Bay City Shipbuilding company to the Superior Shipbuilding company, of which G. A. Tomlinson, of Duluth, is the managing owner.

The Sinaloa is a steel freighter of 4529 gross tons and 2563 net tons. She is 430 feet in length, 50 feet in beam and 24 feet in depth. The amount paid for the steamer is not mentioned in the bill of sale.

She is due to arrive in Duluth this evening or tomorrow morning on her maiden trip, coming light for a load of ore.

COMING SATURDAY.

The steamer Easton, which is to take the place of the Iroquois in the Lake Superior trade for the White Line Transportation company, will arrive in Duluth Saturday morning. Saturday afternoon she will take an excursion to Two Harbors and return, and she will immediately take over her run to Lake Superior. She is a large, handsome and speedy vessel, and will make an important addition to the fleet of vessels in the Lake Superior traffic.

ORE RATE CUT.

Cleveland, May 27.—The steel trust has cut the rate on ore from ports at the head of Lake Superior to 80 cents and has secured a half dozen ships at that figure. Offerings of tonnage are liberal but other shippers have made no effort to pound down rates. Local owners say they will send their boats to the dock rather than place them for ore at reduced rates, as they claim they cannot do much better than break even at the present rates with the poor dispatch their boats have been getting. Considerable tonnage has been placed this week at 85 cents from the head of Lake Superior and 65 cents from Escanaba. Among the vessels chartered were the Oronoko, Philip Minch, Neptune, Steel King, Merida, Lake Shore, Neosho and Columbia. Some of these will not be ready to load until next week.

VESSEL MOVEMENTS.

Marquette—Cleared: Maruba, Matoa, Watt, 126, Cleveland.

South Chicago—Cleared: Oil—Barge 86, Superior.

UNIVERSAL PEACE

Ex Secretary Foster Talks of Events Tending In That Direction.

Opening of the Lake Mohonk Conference on Arbitration.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 27.—The principal speaker at the Lake Mohonk conference on arbitration today was Hon. John W. Foster, former secretary of state. Mr. Foster spoke as follows:

We assemble today for the ninth annual conference of the friends of international arbitration under most encouraging auspices. Very significant events have taken place since we separated at this beautiful spot one year ago. And these events have tended in the direction of universal peace and have greatly strengthened the cause of arbitration.

At our last conference it was announced that the governments of the United States and Mexico were just concluding an agreement for the submission to The Hague tribunal of a question much discussed and of long standing. That case has already been submitted to the tribunal, and with a promptness and celerity almost unknown in international judicatures a decision has been rendered. Although the amount of the award is large, the debtor nation has cheerfully accepted the result. Even for her the result was so much more satisfactory than the constant irritation growing out of the continued agitation of the question, that it was better to pay the award, even though regarded as inequitable, and be at peace with its neighbor.

Probably the most edifying and auspicious event has occurred in a quarter of the world which Anglo-Saxons have not been inclined to look for helpful examples in good government and salutary public law. In the extreme of the South American continent there have arisen into prominence during the last century two prosperous and aspiring republics. As a race they have sustained good administration maintained excellent foreign credit and have greatly advanced in wealth and resources. For a time they arrayed themselves in a rivalry for supremacy on that continent, and following the example of the greater nations they largely increased their armies and navies. A controversy over a boundary line threatened to light the torch of war and thrust those two peaceful, prosperous and industrious peoples into a sanguinary and exhaustive conflict. But better counsels prevailed, and Chili and Argentina agreed to submit the boundary question to the arbitration of the King of England. His award has been rendered and accepted by both nations.

But that is only the beginning of the narrative. The two nations have entered into a treaty whereby they agree to submit all questions which cannot be settled by diplomacy to arbitration, the only exception being those involving principles of their constitutions. They further agreed to stop the construction of more naval vessels and to sell those which were ordered at the time the war fever was raging—and as a result there are now in the naval dockyards of Europe several war vessels of the two nations seeking customers. They also agreed to reduce their armies to a peace footing and to so maintain them, and to practically disarm their naval vessels at home.

As a result of this disarmament, we are informed by recent press news from Buenos Aires that the minister of marine has tendered to the minister of agriculture two of his unoccupied men-of-war, to transport grain and meat products to South Africa, where the government is seeking to open up a new market for their superabundant harvests. With a slight change in the biblical metaphor, may me regard this as the beginning of that millenium era, foretold by the ancient prophet when the people "shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

From these far away countries, where we have been so prone to expect war and disorder, comes this inspiring and hopeful example. They are a people, too, of a different religion and race from the most of us—Catholics, not Protestants; Spanish Americans of the Latin race, not the boastful Anglo-Saxon. May we not learn from this to be a little more charitable in our criticism of the countries to the south of us, in their struggles to free themselves from the customs which enchained them during so many centuries of misrule?

Some notice must be taken of the Venezuela complication, for in it there may be found edification for this conference. Three of the most powerful nations of the world combined in a hostile demonstration against one of the feeblest of the smaller nations. The alleged cause of this combined armed expedition was one for which neither of them, nor all three combined, would even moderate military resources. When in 1861 the United States was solicited by three of the great nations of Europe for a similar reason, Secretary Seward replied that our government was not disposed to enter upon warlike measures to enforce claims against a friendly power. Such a reason for hostilities has certainly not gained in strength with the lapse of half a century of enlightenment. The point which I wish to emphasize is that the public sentiment of the world, and especially of the British people, brought those three powerful nations to a halt. It is encouraging to know that in this era it is not so easy to inaugurate or prosecute an unjust war as it was a century or more ago.

On the other hand, the event shows some of the evil effects of transforming the populous nations into great military powers. While the vast naval armaments and standing armies of Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and other nations make them very cautious about provoking each other to a conflict, they offer a temptation to occupy these forces in expeditions and adventures against weaker nations. There was little risk to Germany, Great Britain and Italy in seizing or sinking the infantile flotilla of Venezuela and in bombarding its antiquated forts. Hence, in the interests of the weaker nations and of the world's peace, it is of the utmost importance that a public sentiment created among the enlightened nations, which will restrain the greater military powers from entering upon schemes of adventure of oppression, and which will support the smaller independent nations in their appeal to the arbitration of their differences with the more powerful. In this connection it is gratifying to us Americans to note the attitude of our government in the last quarrel controversy of the European nations with China. After they by their territorial aggressions upon that empire, had provoked its people to rise in blind resentment against foreigners, and then punished them by the levy of an enormous indemnity, they insisted with this helpless nation upon exaction of the last "pound of flesh" by a technical construction of the protocol, which made it annually more and more difficult for the empire to comply with its terms. It was a generous and magnanimous act on the part of Secretary Hay to construe the protocol most favorably for China, and to heartily support that government in its appeal for submission of the question in dispute to The Hague tribunal. How it would exalt the Christian nations in the eyes of those whom we style the heathen, if this appeal should be granted.

The Venezuela embroglio has also served to bring into prominence the value of arbitration and the utility of The Hague tribunal. It was a high compliment to President Roosevelt to be solicited to act as arbitrator of that dispute. But it enhanced his reputation still more to decline the offer, and to refer the contending parties to the tribunal which his own government has done so much to create.

In no country did this act of President Roosevelt receive greater commendation than in France, some of whose representatives at The Hague Conference being the most ardent supporters of the scheme adopted by that body. Only a few days ago the press announced that the parliamentary arbitration organization of senators had received some notable accessories from the ranks of its public men, and that the cause of international arbitration had been given a new impetus in that enlightened country.

Not the least of the events of the past year tending to peace is the treaty between the governments of the United States and Great Britain to refer the controverted question of the Alaskan boundary to a mixed tribunal of American and British jurists. It is not an arbitration, and, from the state of the question and of public sentiment in the United States, it could not well be such. It is an illustration of the fact that even so excellent a principle as arbitration has its limitations in practice. It was not possible to have secured a treaty to entrust the settlement of the Alaskan boundary to the award of a neutral foreign arbitrator. It may sound strange to be told that some of the most earnest objectors of The Hague tribunal were strongly opposed to the Alaskan boundary treaty. But I regard it as a wise measure and one which redounds to the credit of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay. It provides a safe method of adjusting a long pending and vexed question, which threatened to disturb the relations of neighbors who ought to be the closest friends—and I entertain the confident expectation that the six distinguished jurists to whom the matter is referred will find a solution honorable to both parties.

Should it have this greatly to be desired outcome, it cannot fail to increase the prospects of a permanent arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain. It will be remembered that six years ago Secretary Olney and Lord Pauncefote signed a general arbitration convention to continue for five years only, but it failed to receive the approval of the senate largely because of this boundary dispute. The Alaskan boundary treaty, approved by the senate last February, is the method of settlement provided in the Olney-Pauncefote convention. If it shall prove effective, we may have renewed hope of seeing at no distant day a general arbitration treaty between these two kindred peoples who have a common heritage and a common mission in the world. It must not be that the twin Latin republics of South America shall put us to very shame, when we are claiming to hold aloft as a model for all peoples our much vaunted Anglo-Saxon Christian civilization. One of the chief objects of the present conference is to influence public opinion in favor of arbitration and I trust that one of the subjects to be discussed will be the best methods of creating a growing and widespread sentiment throughout the country in support of this beneficient measure. Let us concentrate our efforts in favor of a general arbitration treaty between the American and British governments on the plan of the unratified convention of 1897. To this end public sentiment should be brought to bear upon the senate of the United States. That distinguished body is a fair representation of the American people, and when the latter shall express themselves as favorable to such a treaty, the senate will ratify their verdict. Let us concentrate our efforts to bring about that greatly desired result.

BEAR MISCALCULATED.

"The B'ar had made his date all right," said the man from the Knob country, "to the New York Sun, "but he hadn't calc'lated on 'Biram's brother-in-law Silas, and consequently he jest wilted right down, and that was the end of him.

"It was onfort-nate for the b'ar, but it ain't no more than fair for me to say that 'Biram didn't play it on to him that way a purpose. It come around providential, as it were. Providential for 'Biram, but consider'ble onfort'nate for the b'ar.

"'Biram was a b'ar hunter who b'ar hunted peculiar. He'd foller the trail of a b'ar, day in and day out, for six days in a week, but never for seven.

"Early in life 'Biram was convicted o' the idee that Saturday was the right an' proper day o' the week, accordin' to his readin' o' the Scriptures, for to remember that Sabbath day and kep it on, and he kep' it so persistent and so strict that a bull drove o' b'ar mowt a come along on Saturday and run all over him and he wouldn't a raised a finger ag'in 'em.

"A big, impident b'ar had been hangin' 'round 'Biram's clearin' for three or four days. He had his eyes on to a fat young pig that 'Biram was countin' on killin' before long, and 'Biram was keepin' his eyes on the b'ar. The b'ar hadn't made no reg'lar go for the pig, but jest hung around.

"'The b'ar knows that pig is mine,' says 'Biram, 'and the b'ar knows me, which is a mighty good thing for the pig,' says he.

"'And the b'ar did know 'Biram, sure enough, and if he hadn't a made that little mistake'shun as to Silas, it'd 'a' been a mighty bad thing for the pig, for when Saturday came' round bruin come a sa'nterin' outen the woods as bold as a soldier and as cool as if he was paradin' in front o' the holler tree where he lived, mebbe five mile back in the woods, strolled to'rd the pigpen as if he was 'Biram himself goin' out to look his property over, and begun to make his preparations for takin' the pig, as deliberate as could be—showin' what the amazin' b'ar knowed.

"He knowed it was Saturday, and that 'Biram wa'n't no more danger to b'ars on Saturday than a spring lamb would be. That b'ar knowed that 'Biram carried a gun to 'Biram's clearin' on a Saturday and carry off the hull caboodle o' pigs and sheep and calves if he wanted to, and 'Biram wouldn't as much as go out and holler 'Shoo!' at him.

"That's what that amazin' b'ar knowed. I tell you, b'ars is tremendous when it comes to knowin'.

"When 'Biram looked up from the pages o' the good book he was readin' and see through the winder the comin' o' the b'ar he put his finger on the place where he was readin' so as to keep the place, and he says:

"'That b'ar is payin' a compliment to my plousness that is tetchin,' he says; 'but I'm afeard he ain't exac'ly wise,' says he.

"'Silas,' says 'Biram, wakin' him up, 'you hain't got no partic-lar over-powerin' scruples ag'in carryin' a gun on Saturday, have you?'

"'Me!' says Silas. 'Not a durn scruple. Nor on Sunday, neither!' says he.

"'Look outen the winder, Silas,' says 'Biram quietly, and keepin' his finger no the line so as he wouldn't lose his place, 'and see if there's anything headin' for my pigpen,' says he.

"Silas looked outen the winder.

"'B'ar, by the great horn spoon,' says Silas.

"'Is that a gun I see out yender in the kitchen?' says 'Biram, quiet and onsartin-like, and keepin' his finger on his place.

"It was a gun, sure enough, and Silas found it, grabbed it, and hurried outen the house with it.

"'That b'ar is paying a compliment to my plousness that's tetchin,' says 'Biram, takin' his finger offen his place and goin' on with his readin', 'but I'm afeard he ain't exac'ly wise,' says he.

"When that b'ar seen a man with a gun and 'Biram's on a Saturday he was so surprised and likewise pained that he couldn't move. He jest wilted right down. When 'Biram heerd the gun go off he whooped a little.

"'Ah!' says he, 'I was afeard so. The b'ar's compilmentariness was tetchin' but not exac'ly wise. Onregenrit brother-in-laws,' says he, 'ain't no respecters o' nothin'.'

"'Biram went on with his readin', and Silas drug the b'ar into the woodshed. Yes, the b'ar had made his date all right, but hadn't calc'lated on 'Biram's brother-in-law, Silas.

"But it ain't no more than fair to say that 'Biram didn't play it on him that way a purpose. It came around providential, so to speak. Providential for 'Biram, but considerable onfortunate for the b'ar, which, when 'Biram went out Sunday mornin' and weighed him, pulled the stillyards down to the 400-pound notch."

EX-GOVERNOR VON RAABEN OF BESSARABIA.

Governor Von Raaben of Bessarabia had at his disposal at the time of the massacre of the Jews at Kishineff more than 12,000 troops. Despite that fact he gave no orders looking to the termination of the horror, and the military very naturally took that as a quasi indorsement of the action of the populace. Von Raaben, however, evidently misconstrued the temper of the czar, who has recently deprived him of the office of governor because of his contemptibly supine attitude during the Kishineff slaughter.

NOTICE OF EXPIRATION OF REDEMPTION PERIOD—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. —ss.

To Hattie W. Backus:

Take notice, that the following described piece or parcel of land, situated in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, to-wit: Lot twenty-seven (27), block six (6), Princeton Place addition to Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof, was on the second day of May, A. D. 1899, bid in for the state for the sum of one dollar and nine cents, pursuant to a real estate tax judgment entered in the district court in the said county of St. Louis on the twenty-first day of March, A. D. 1899, in proceedings to enforce payment of taxes delinquent upon real estate for the year 1897, for the said county of St. Louis, and was on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1903, sold by the state of Minnesota for four dollars and five cents. That the amount required to redeem such lands from such sale exclusive of the cost to accrue upon this notice is the said sum four dollars and five cents with interest thereon at the rate of one per cent per month from said fourth day of April, 1903, to the time of such redemption. That said amount required to redeem calculated to the date of this notice is the sum of $4.11, and the time within which said land can be redeemed from said sale will expire sixty days after service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in the office of the county auditor in and for said St. Louis county, Minnesota, in manner prescribed by Section 37 of Chapter 6, General Laws of Minnesota, for the year 1877 and amendments thereto.

Dated, Duluth, this nineteenth day of May, A. D. 1903.

Your Last Chance to Get a Good Iron Claim.

Many people in St. Louis county have become very wealthy during the last few years by securing homestead or timber and stone claims on one of the ranges in this county, but a far greater number failed to "catch on," and so have made nothing out of either of these ranges.

Of course it is possible that other fairly good mines may yet be found on our two ranges, but that the cream of them have already been secured there is no doubt.

Fortunately, however, for those who have never yet "caught on" to an iron mine, all the first-class iron claims in Minnesota do not lie in St. Louis county. Many practical iron men believe that Lake and Cook counties will yet prove to be among the best iron-producing counties in the country. That Cook county especially has some enormous deposits of marvelously rich, merchantable iron is now known to be a fact, and the exploration there have, as it were, just begun.

During the past winter one of the most experienced explorers in the state has been engaged in looking up vacant land directly on what is conceded to be the great iron belt in the above region, and he now has for sale twenty of the most promising claims that can be found in that country. Added to the mineral that it is believed these claims contain there is hardly one of them which does not contain at least $1000 worth of spruce, cedar and pine. These claims can be taken either as homesteads or under the timber and stone act.

The cost of each of these claims is $150 cash, the money to be paid before leaving Duluth to visit the lands, as required by law under either of the above acts. As these claims will certainly not last long at that price those wishing one of them should apply at once and should make a deposit sufficient to secure them, and should arrange to leave with the party to visit the claims on next Tuesday morning. Remember, too, that most of these lands are valuable even for their timber and that some of them are very fine agricultural lands.

Better cut this advertisement out, as it will not appear again. Apply to or address immediately, C. B. Smith & Co., 211 Torrey building.

HUNDREDS OF FAMILIES DRIVEN FROM HOMES

City of Des Moines, Ia., Is Swept By a Flood.

The Waters Are Coming Up at Rapid Rate.

Des Moines, May 28.— Hundreds of families were driven from their homes by floods which today closely approached the unprecedented record of last year and continued to rise with such rapidity as to render it apparent that last year's record would soon be surpassed. At the Sixth street bridge in north Des Moines the gauge is within six inches of last year's record of 21.4 feet. In the heart of the city the gauge indicated approximately 19 feet. The water today is rising at the rate of two inches an hour. Reports from above Des Moines indicate that last year's record has been surpassed and the water is rising at a startling rate.

All night scores of men patrolled the river banks, strengthening the levees, while many more were employed in removing inhabitants and household goods from the botoms.

At 3 o'clock this morning the levees on Morris avenue gave way flooding many houses in an incredibly short time, forcing the inmates to run for their lives. The Raccoon river is keeping pace with the Des Moines and has devasted many square miles of territory in the southwest portion of the state.

At 9:45 the center span of the $65,000 Melan arch bridge, in process of construction on Sixth street, was carried away and it was apparent the south span could not long withstand the mighty current. The wreckage was swept against the street railway bridge and that structure had a narrow escape. The loss to the bridge is estimated at $30,000.

At noon the Des Moines river, in the heart of the city, was 20.4 feet above the low water mark, exactly a foot under last year's record and still rising rapidly. At 11 o'clock a break occurred in the North Des Moines levee, inundating a large residence district. News from over the state was not reassuring. At Cedar Falls the Cedar river rose suddenly during the night, so that a large number of persons had to be rescued in boats from upper floors. Middle river, the Little Sioux and Nishna Botna are the highest in their history. News comes from Schaller of the drowning of Curtis Zeek. Communication was reopened with Audubon, and it was learned that seven children were seriously hurt in a tornado Tuesday and that five persons were injured at Brooks.

Salina, Kans., May 28.—The flood situation here today is worse than it was yesterday. Another heavy rain fell early today and the river is still rising. No trains can get out of town West and many families have been shut off from supplies. Much suffering will result.

Abilene, Kans., May 28.—A four hours' rain, the heaviest downpour in years, fell here this forenoon. Great damage has been done to all crops by the excessive rainfall of the past week and streams are out of their banks.

Topeka, Kan., May 28.—The Kansas river at this point is 16 1-3 feet above official low water mark at noon and rising steadily. The water is spreading out over the city park, flooding the settlement known as "Little Russia" and several houses in that district have been abandoned. The city railroad bridge is endangered and traffic across it probably will cease today. More rain is predicted.

La Crosse, May 28.—Reports received by the local weather bureau are that a rise of two feet and a half in twenty-four hours in the Chippewa river is going to do much damage in this vicinity. The river has already begun to rise here and at noon today was 10.9, the highest of the year. Many farms are now entirely submerged and live stock is being moved to high lands. Residents in the lower parts of the city are preparing to move out.

ARMED MEN ATTEMPT TO TAKE PRISONERS FROM JACKSON JAIL

People In a Panic Over Attack on Sentries.

Several Shots Were Fired Into the Assailants.

Jackson, Ky., May 28.—There was a night of terror here and almost a panic among the troops as well as the people. The attack on the jail was repulsed. Hundreds of shots were fired during the night.

Jackson, Ky., May 28.—Early last evening a body of about 60 armed men were noticed in Jackson. They were not together, but kept close to each other. At midnight, the prowlers began to sneak across the street from the bank south of the jail. The guards commanded them to halt. They refused and in reply fired several shots. The guards returned the fire. The prowlers ran about a hundred yards further and fired again. The guards then poured three volleys into them in rapid succession. Moving objects were discovered on the north side of the jail and the guards fired again and killed a cow. A few moments before the firing, a flash of lightning revealed a squad of men in the hills in the rear of the jail. It was expected that concerted action was to be made to reach the jail and the troops prepared to give any comers a hot reception, but a terrific storm was raging and it was so dark that no further demonstrations were made. The bullet marks this morning showed that the firing was accurate and numerous although no one was hurt.

Louisville, May 28.—A staff correspondent of the Evening Post telegraphs his paper as follows from Jackson:

Last night was one of those "wild nights" to which the perturbed population of Jackson is gradually becoming much accustomed. There was firing at intervals all night by the soldiers and the mob, but daylight brought the comforting assurance that nobody had been hurt.

The night was intensely hot and the sky heavily overcast. Jackson boasts no street lights and citizens and soldiers, as they passed in the inky darkness, were keyed to the keenest edge. The calm that has hung ominously over the locality for several days had, if anything, intensified the anxiety. As midnight neared, flashes of lightning revealed to the guard of militiamen around the jail, the figures of several men carrying Winchesters gradually approaching. The challenge was given, but there was no response. Several of the guards stated this morning that they saw a number of men creeping towards the jail, but this cannot be confirmed. The guards fired upon approaching men and there was a response. Then quiet reigned and for some time the soldiers were thinking the trouble was over for the night. There was firing in all parts of the valley at frequent intervals until daylight.

Many believed that an attempt was to be made to take Jett and White from the jail, but that the alertness of the militiamen prevented a consummation of the plans.

STORM WHICH SWEPT INDIANA DID GREAT AMOUNT OF DAMAGE

At Alexandria Steel Stacks Were Blown Down and Workman Killed—At Hammond Several Met Death and Property Loss Was Enormous.

Indianapolis, May 28.—Details of the work of the storm which swept almost every part of the state were received today. The wires were so badly crippled that details were meagre until today.

At Alexandria, the Penn-American Plate Glass company were severe sufferers, seven large steel stacks being wrecked. William C. Gray, a machinist helper, was killed. A part of the Republic steel mill roof was lifted and some damage was inflicted on the east side window house. The aggregate property loss is large.

At Walton, Manford Stevenson was killed by lightning and four other men were severely injured.

At Hammond, the wind wrecked the home of Policeman William Bunde and Bunde was severely injured by falling timbers. Edward Brennan, a railroad engineer, died of shock. Christopher Hodel and his son, while working in a field were struck by lightning. The boy was killed and the father fatally injured. At Greensburg, the county buildings were unroofed. Heavy damage was done at Frankfort, Thornton, Decatur, Windfall Camden and Geneva.

In this city and surrounding territory telephone wires were wrecked. Property loss in Howard county alone is estimated at $100,000.

MISERLY PRIEST LEFT THOUSANDS

Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 28.—Lawyers who have just completed an adjustment of the estate of the Rev. Joseph Albinger, pastor of the Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of Victory, who died five years ago, found that Father Albinger, who was called a miser and went about the streets of Mount Vernon in rags, left $57,000. Of this amount $30,000 in gold was in safe deposit vaults in New York. The remainder was invested in real estate.

DEATH DEALING WEAPONS TESTED

New York, May 28.—Tests were made yesterday at the Sandy Hook proving grounds of two pieces of ordnance which have been under consideration by the United States army and naval boards for some time. The weapons tested were the McLean automatic one-pound gun, and the Luger automatic pistol. The McLean gun can fire 800 shots a minute, each pull of the trigger discharging twenty-five one-pound projectiles. After dark a test was made of big guns which discharged what appeared to be a huge ball of fire. The army officers at Sandy Hook refused to furnish information regarding the night tests, but it is understood that experiments were being made with an illuminated shell intended for night use.

MICKEY HAS DECLINED

To Take Action on Application For Murderer Rhea.

Lincoln, Neb., May 28.—Governor will be taken on the application for a will taken on the application for a commutation of the sentence of William Rhea, who was recently convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. He also says that a thorough investigation of Rhea's crime will be made before the sentence of the court is carried out.

The text of this answer was today transmitted to Gvernor Durbin, of Indiana, who, with Congressman Hemenway, of the First Indiana district, and Maj. G. V. Mensies, of Mount Vernon, Ind., interceded with the governor for the young man. Rhea is a native of Mount Vernon and comes of an old and respected family of that city. His father has employed eminent counsel and spent a fortune in Rhea's behalf.

MACK NOT GUILTY.

Chicago, May 28.—Judge Chetlain of the circuit court today ordered the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the policy shop case of George W. Mack, on the ground that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant any action. One hundred and twenty-seven other policy shop cases were stricken from the calendar.

YOUNG EDISON'S GROWING FAME

Results Obtained Through His "Vitalizer" Heralded Across Seas.

New York, May 28.—A news cable from London received here today, says: "So much interest has been excited in scientific circles by the reports of the marvelous results obtained from his Magno-Electric Vitalizer by Mr. Thos. A. Edison, Jr., that an invitation has been addressed to the young scientist by the Medical Societies of England, asking him to exhibit the powers of his remarkable invention before them. The English newspapers in reporting this action remark that Englishmen, as a class, will be far more interested in the fact that young Mr. Edison's invention cures such intractable diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, locomotor ataxia and nervous prostration, than in the discovery that it quickens thought. The medical newspapers also refer to the Magno-Electric Vitalizer in eulogistic terms, saying that physicians have long sought a reliable remedy for the common and troublesome diseases which afflict mankind. They also commend young Edison's action in refusing to sell the Vitalizer to a mercantile syndicate.

Considerable public interest is being displayed in young Mr. Edison's proposed visit and a programme of receptions, banquets and entertainments is already being prepared for him."

"Well," said Thomas A. Edison, Jr., when he was shown this dispatch, in his laboratory, at No. 14 Stone street, New York, "This is news to me. The invitation referred to, will, of course, come by mail, but I am afraid I shall have to decline it. Much as I appreciate the honors offered to me, I feel that I should be acting unworthily towards the thousands of sick people in this country if I deserted them now. Since the newspapers published my invitation to those afflicted with rheumatism, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous disease and all the other so-called "incurable" complaints, I have received thousands of letters from sufferers asking my advice concerning the applicability of my Magno-Electric Vitalizer to the treatment of their cases. These people rely upon me for help, and trust to me to restore them to health. It would not be fair to desert them for he sake of foreign honors, and I will not do it. You can say, emphatically, that I am going to help my own people first. The American people have the strongest claim upon me, and I recognize their right. I want the people who write to me here, at No. 14 Stone street, New York, to feel sure that their letters reach me, and that their inquiries concerning the cure of their diseases by means of the Vitalizer will be answered. This would not be the case if I went abroad, and therefore I shall not go.

LADY SOMERSET RETIRES.

London, May 28.—Lady Henry Somerset has retired from the presidency of the National British Woman's Temperance association on account of her health.

MANY CHILDREN DROWNED.

Posen Prussia, May 28.—The Posener Tageblatt publishes a report that a ferry boat having on board forty-five children, capsized on the River Warthe, near Dembrro. The ferry man and twenty of the children, the paper says, were drowned.

JEFFREYS GETS DIVORCE.

London, May 28.—Ellis Jeffreys, the actress, has been granted a divorce from the Hon. F. G. Curzon, on the ground of brutal treatment and misconduct. Curzon is a son of the late Lord Howe.

NEW POSTMASTER.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edwin G. Fletcher has been appointed postmaster at Latona, Hubbard county, Minn., vice Otis Beardsley, resigned.

PROJECTION ON MARS.

Cambridge, Mass., May 28.—A telegram has been received at the Harvard college observatory from Prof. Percival Lowell at Flagstaff, Ariz., stating that a large projection on Mars was found by Slipper May 26 at 15h 35m Greenwich mean time The position angle was 200 degrees and the projection lasted 35 m.

SENSATIONAL SCENES OCCUR IN THE LEGISLATURE OF B. C.

The Government Was Defeated But Was Enabled By Timely Assistance, to Secure an Adjournment, So as to Arrange For Regular Bills.

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—Sensational scenes in the house yesterday following the dismissal of W. C. Wells, commissioner of lands and works, and Attorney General Eberts, culminated in the defeat of the government and the announcement that the legislature would be dissolved. A motion by Premier Prior was defeated by a vote of 16 to 13. Finance Minister Prentice made a sensational speech in which he referred to Eberts as a "blackguard," and said Premier Prior had for colleagues "men untrue and unfaithful, cowards and liars." Later W. W. B. McInnis, provincial secretary, tendered his resignation. Although the government was defeated they were enabled, with the support of Joseph Martin and his followers, who hold the balance of power, to secure an adjournment during which arrangements will be made for the passage of supply and non-contentious legislation before the legislature is dissolved, and an appeal made to the country. The crisis was brought about as a result of the investigation into the granting of lands to the Canadian Pacific railroad and the subsequent revocation of these grants.

GAMBLERS COULD DO NO BUSINESS

New York, May 28.—The steamer Oceanic here from Liverpool had not left Queenstown before this warning was posted in the smoking room:

"Special Notice: The attention of the managers has been called to the fact that certain individuals believed to be professional gamblers have recently been travelling to and fro in Atlantic steamships and it is deemed right in the interests of passengers to bring it to their notice."

Two of the gamblers one a tall, clean shaven man, in a pepper and salt frock coat, boarded the ship at Queenstown and three others at Liverpool. They lost at dice and cards fabulous sums to each other. Among others whom, the officers of the ship said, they tried unsuccessfully to inveigle into their games was William A. Hayward, the polo player When the Oceanic reached here the five card players rushed off the ship. They showed anxiety to get their baggage examined and leave. They had been able to do no business on board. The leader has been on the ship's blacklist for more than two years.

POSTMASTER STOLE SAFE ALSO

Washington, May 28.—The Philippines are having their postal scandals, as well as Washington. Two cases are reported by mail to the war department. One is that of former Postmaster Milne at Tacloban, Leyte, who is accused not only of taking $2000 current coin of the United States, but even the 400-pound safe which is supposed to have contained the money. When the robbery was first reported Nov. 24 last, suspicion was directed by Milne to certain discharged soldiers engaged in business in Tacloban. Investigation proved their innocence and resulted in Milne's arrest.

LIVES WITH BULLET IN HIS BRAIN

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 28.—A case, which is exciting the interest of the medical profession in northern New York, is that of Joseph Bailey of Glens Falls, who since November has lived with a 22 calibre bullet in his brain. Bailey, who is 19 years old, was shot in a street fight. He was taken to the hospital and after a month had recovered his health, but his mind was a blank and he is an imbecile. Dr. W. C. Macdonald of the city hospital, will take Bailey to Albany, where an attempt will be made to locate the bullet by means of the X-ray. If removed it is predicted that Bailey will recover his reason.

EDISON WORKING WITH MARCONI

New York, May 28.—It has been formally announced, says the World, that Thomas A. Edison has been taken into the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, as a member of its board of technical directors. Marconi is the only other member of this board at present, but arrangements are being made to engage a third electrical expert—Prof. Michael I. Pupin, of Columbia university, inventor of the submarine telephone. The arrangements upon which Edison and Marconi join forces are not made public. Mr. Edison admitted that he was at work on certain inventions to be applied to the Marconi system. Of their nature he declines to talk.

WILL BE EXPLAINED.

The Big Discrepancy In Cuban Financial Reports.

New York, May 28.—Regarding the statement published in New York that there is a $3,000,000 discrepancy between the reports of General Leonard Wood and his secretary of finance of the total disbursements of the American military government in Cuba, it is stated on the highest authority, says the Tribune's Havana reporter, that the discrepancy will be accounted for in the final settlement between the war department and Senor Quesada, Cuban minister at Washington.

STOLE MANY GUNS.

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., May 28.—Herman T Rotzell, arrested for the alleged theft in Chicago of thirty guns and eight revolvers from the Rock Island railroad, will be taken to Chicago today by an officer, who has arrived here with requisition papers.

AGAINST PUBLIC INTEREST

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—The special committee of the British Columbia legislature inquiring into the Columbia & Western subsidy deal reported that the award of South Kootenai lands on the Canadian Pacific railroad, was against the public interest.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN IN THE CONSTABULARY

War Department Is Thinking of Sending Over Graduates of Military Schools to Be Officers In the Philippine Constabulary Service.

Washington, May 28.—The war department is giving serious consideration to a proposition that has come through Col. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, from Gen. Henry T. Allen, chief of the Philippine constabulary, looking to the improvement of that service. Gen. Allen believes that a fine career offers in the constabulary for graduates of the American military schools who have any special aptitude for military work. He believes that fifteen or twenty such men annually could be placed in the constabulary as officers, to the advantage of the service and of those selected. While at first the men appointed would not be as valuable as the highest grade of non-commissioned officers who already have had service in the islands, Gen. Allen feels that in the long run they would be superior to the class of men who are now entering the service. The pay and emoluments are to be increased. At present the pay runs from $800 to $900 for a lieutenant and $1400 to $1600 for a captain, besides which the allowances are ample for house rent, and there are no hospital expenses.

Owing to the number of stations, the percentage of officers in the constabulary is large. Their dutles are much more responsible and varied than those of corresponding grades in the regular service. Heretofore the department has pursued the plan of allowing the Philippine government to select all its constabulary officers, preference being given to discharged soldiers who have picked up a knowledge of Spanish and Tagalong and have become acquainted with the country through their military service. It is not intended to depart from this policy to any considerable degree, but it is probable that Gen. Allen's suggestions will be accepted as a means of elevating the personnel of the constabulary.

FIFTY ESCAPED PRISONERS TERRORIZED ALL ARGENTINA

Murders Have Become So Common In Some of South American Cities That Orders Were Issued to Shoot Desperadoes on Sight.

San Francisco, May 28.—Capt. J. K. Wiggins, formerly of the Forty-fourth volunteer infantry in the Philippines, has arrived here on the Cosmos liner Menes from Patagonia, where he has been gold mining for a year past. He says that the Argentine republic has a penal colony made up of life-termers from the military and civil courts located on Staten island. A short time ago, while moving the prison to Ushuaiah, fifty of the prisoners escaped, secured arms and ammunition and have since been terrorizing the residents. Murders have been of daily occurrence, and the situation became so serious that the government issued orders that the desperadoes were to be shot on sight. The day before he took the steamer at Punta Arenas the chief of police was killed. The government has also offered a reward of £1 sterling for every head of an Omaha, a savage tribe in the interior that are unsubdued.

J. K. Riffel, a sheep rancher from Terra del Fuego, another arrival on the same steamer, says that average is about a wreck a week on the Terra del Fuego shore, and just before he left for California a British bark was broken up in his vicinity.

TWO THOUSAND LOSE THEIR LIVES

Constantinople, May 28.—Advices which reached here today from Asiatic Turkey show that a terrible earthquake occurred April 29 at Melazgherd, in the vilayet of Van, eighty miles southeast of Erzeroom, on the Euphrates. The town was totally destroyed, with its entire population, numbering 2000 souls, including 700 Armenians, as well as the troops forming the garrison of Melazgherd. In addition over 400 houses in neighboring villages collapsed. A severe earth shock was felt here this morning, but no damage was done.

London, May 28.—The foreign office here today, received some details from the British consul at Erzroom regaring the recent earthquake at Melazgherd, according to which a strong earthshock lasting thirty seconds, was felt in the morning of April 29 throughout the entire district between Lake Van and the Russian frontier and as far west as Kharput. The town of Melazgherd, consisting of 600 houses, was destroyed and much havoc was wrought in the surrounding villages. Col Ghalit Bey, commanding the garrison of Melazgherd with his whole family; three officers and eighty soldiers, perished in the ruins. Lieut. Col. Tayib Bey, whose family perished, became insane.

The telegraph operator who sent the news of the catastrophe said he himself was badly injured and that his wife and sister had been killed. The foreign office has appealed for subscriptions for the relief of the destitute Mohammedans and Christians, of the Melazgherd district.

ROBBED HIS UNCLE.

Police Looking For Casper Kline and $44,500.

Chicago, May 28.—Lying on a cot at the Mercy hospital, George Cline raised his hand and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his nephew, Casper Cline, on the charge of disappearing with $44,500. The $44,500 was procured through a sale of South Chicago property that belonged to the complainant. George Cline had completed negotiations for the sale when he became ill and went to a hospital. He then sent for his nephew to close the transactions. He says the nephew sold the property for $50,000, paid $5500 for legal advice and departed.

The nephew is thought to be in Frederick, Md. His attorneys admit that he has the money, but he understood that he was to take it.

WANTS INVESTIGATION.

Denver Reporter Would Have Gen. Baldwin Sworn.

Denver, Col., May 28.—An open letter has been addressed to Secretary of War Root by William Hunt, the local reporter, who wrote the recent sensational interview with Gen. Frank D. Baldwin, demanding as a right an investigation of the case.

Hunt insists he is entitled to have Gen. Baldwin placed on oath in his denial that he made the statement denouncing negroes and Filipinos as soldiers. Hunt says if Baldwin makes affidavit that the interview was false, he will have the officer indicted for perjury, and he also says that if the department still upholds the general its duty is to have the reporter indicted for perjury.

Should the department fail to act, Hunt says he will demand an investigation by congress.

TO COMPETE WITH TRUST.

Striking Glass Workers to Open Factories.

Hartford City, Ind., May 28.—Union workmen who were recently discharged by the window glass trust are planning to open co-operative factories to pit hand labor against machines. A union committee appointed to investigate the natural gas fields of Kansas, Indian Territory and West Virginia has returned and reports that a contract would be accepted from Fairmont, W. Va., where a free site for a plant and fuel for five years will be furnished at 5 cents a 1000 cubic feet. The plant will consist of two ten-pot concerns and one-thirty blower tank. It will cost nearly $100,000 and take fully 500 workers from the gas belt. It will be a co-operative plant, and the stockholders say that they will make window glass for $1.50 a day if necessary to compete with the trust's machines.

PROPERTY BOOMING.

Port Arthur Values Are on the Increase.

George N. Lyman, a prominent lumberman of Minneapolis, was in the city for a short time yesterday on his return from Port Arthur, where he has disposed of some of the real estate he owns at that place. Mr. Lyman says that realty values are booming at Port Arthur, that he sold his property at an advance over the price he has previously asked for it and that conditions are such that he will hold on to the rest for some time.

Mr. Lyman left Duluth in the fog for the trip up the lake and rode all the way up and back in the fog. He says he will pay another visit later when he is sure of good weather.

NORTHERN LEAGUE

Duluth Will Next Try Conclusions With Grand Forks Aggregation.

Duluth and Superior Are Fighting Closely For Last Place.

NORTHERN LEAGUE.

	W.	L.	Per.
Grand Forks	6	0	1.000
Winnipeg	5	1	.857
Fargo	4	3	.571
Crookston	2	4	.333
Duluth	1	6	.143
Superior	1	6	.143

Today Duluth opens a four-round battle with the fastest and gamiest outfit in the Northern League.

After winning six straight victories the Grand Forks fanatics are betting that they will make it ten straight by walloping the Cardinals today, tomorrow and twice on Decoration day.

Duluth is certainly about due to arrive, and unfortunately for Grand Forks fans, the winning streak is apparently to begin in that festive burg. Up to the present time Grand Forks has not had to play the last half of the ninth inning, but even at that the league leaders are not impossible to beat.

Mueller or Gerbing is likely to pitch for Duluth and it is announced that McCarthy, a new comer recently graduated from the Chicago corner lots, will push over sundry wierd little perplexing twisters for the Cardinals to straighten out.

Martin pitched his usual steady and excellent game for Crookston yesterday and Fargo only got one tally and five scattered hits. Crookston touched paying swats in the seventh and won out with four runs to spare. Rose, of Fargo, touched up Martin for three doubles.

The score:

With Tim Keefe back in the game Superior stopped its streak of snappy, fast playing and lost to Grand Forks by a score of 2 to 1. Gordon, the Superior pitcher, gave ten bases on balls before he was replaced by Davis. The feature of the game was the pitching of Sessions and the batting of Schamweber, the Grand Forks short stop, who is putting up about the heaviest stick work in the league.

It is a lovely race for last place between Duluth and Superior, but the chances are about ten to one that Superior will win out in that position.

Fans that are inclined to kick on Duluth losing six out of seven games should remember that Minneapolis lost nine straight before striking the proper pace and has been beating the best of them ever since. Cincinnati started in losing seven out of the first eight games played in the National league, but since that bad streak has been winning regularly.

W. H. McNeil, the catcher that had his nose broken by a swift inshoot from Cummings in that memorable high school and league candidate exhibition, is now catching for Stephens, N. D.

Fargi is trying to sign another good, speedy pitcher. Against a hard-hitting team the Fargoites seem worse off for first-class pitching material than Superior.

Local fans would like to see Mueller pitching about every other game. He is one of the kind that does his best work when twirling three games a week.

Superior is at Crookston today and Winnipeg is at Fargo.

BARBERS TO CLOSE

Will Observe Memorial Day By Closing Early.

All men who do not shave themselves will have to get their Sunday smooth faces on Saturday, for the barber shops have agreed to observe Memorial day. They will close at 1 o'clock p. m. Saturday, but to make up for this they will keep open until 11 o'clock Friday night. As most of the stores expect to close all day Saturday and keep open on Friday night, that evening will bear a decidedly close resemblance on Superior street to the customary Saturday night.

Slightly earlier closing on Saturday nights has also been agreed upon by the barbers. Beginning on Saturday, June 6, and continuing thenceforth, the shops will all close at 11 o'clock p. m. instead of keeping open until midnight, as they have usually done in the past.

VENGEANCE IS MINE.

So Sayeth the Inhabitants of Ten Strike.

It is understood that the citizens of the new town of Tenstrike, north of Bemidji, on the line of the Minnesota & International road, will get in training to receive, on his next visit, a prominent Minneapolis lumberman, who described the place as follows:

"Tenstrike is a northern metropolis of some forty-four inhabitants, sixteen saloons and a few other odds and ends, located on the Mosquito & Insect road."

BUFFALO IS NAMED

As Next Place of Meeting of Presbyterian Assembly.

Report of Special Committee on Divorce and Re-Marriage.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—Rapid progress was made by the Presbyterian general assembly yesterday in the disposition of reports of special committees and standing boards. Buffalo was selected as the next place of meeting, and the way was cleared for the hearing of the most important subjects that are on the program, namely, the reports on the revision of faith, divorce and re-marriage, and the consideration of the Tennessee overture on the question of seperate presbyteries for colored people. These three reports were set for hearing today and the day is the big day of the present year.

The decision of the Tennessee overture will close or leave open the doors of the Presbyterian church to the colored race. It proposes to establish separate presbyteries for the whites and blacks in the South. The fight today was made for the immediate consideration of the overture. The sub-committee on the subject recommended that the entire matter be referred to a special committee to report to the next assembly. The recommendation was opposed by the colored commissioners on the floor, who desire action by the present assembly.

The special committee on divorce and re-marriage was in part as follows:

The question is serious enough. The state is imperiled, the family is threatened, and the church, the guardian of both, too frequently puts its seal and sanction upon unrighteous relationships, does not refuse its sacrament to those who lightly regard the sacred bonds of marriage, and for reasons not recognized in God's word, separate themselves of the social condition of persons proposing marriage, and strictly conform to the laws of God regarding divorce and remarriage, revealed in the scriptures, and unless professing Christians strictly regard such laws in their own conduct, how can we hope through the influence of the church, to correct the evils that are made possible by immoral legislation. The conviction is deepening that something should be done to save society and the state from the terrible consequences of lax legislation, which disregards the law of God and the protests of the church.

The divorce laws enacted in many states entirely disregard the sacredness of marriage, and serious complications are occasioned by the contradictory legislation that prevails in our country. A recent decision of the supreme court of the United States has brought to the attention of citizens the deplorable conditions that exist, and some of the serious consequences of such conflicting legislation.

Without the united influence of those who profess to regard the laws of God and the morality taught by Jesus Christ, it will be impossible to secure such legislation as will enact righteous laws regarding divorce and marriage. But we believe that Christian law-givers, if supported by Christian opinion, are ready to test the power of this Christian nation to so amend its constitution that its citizens shall be protected in their homes and in their estates, from the terrible wrongs that are being inflicted by unrighteous legislation. It is the desire of all good citizens that virtue and domestic happiness shroudl be defended against all those who disregard their solemn vows, deny their obligations, pollute the very foundations of life, and destroy the foundations of society.

The committee recommended the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, that this general assembly favors every lawful endeavor to correct the evils of lax legislation regarding the subjects of divorce and re-marriage, and to secure such uniformity of legislation thereon as may best promote the purity of society.

Resolved, that this general assembly hereby enjoins all ministers under its care and authority to refuse to perform the marriage ceremony in the cases of divorced persons, except as such persons have been divorced upon grounds and causes recognized as scriptural in the standards of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America.

Resolved, that the committee appointed by the general assembly of 1902 is continued, with instructions to diligently pursue the work entrusted to it, and to report to the next general assembly.

The report of the board of the church erection fund was in substance as follows:

The advance in church building, which was so manifest in the preceding year, still continues. In the report a year ago it was stated that the applications in number and in the amount desired, were larger than for any one of the ten years immediately preceding it. That large demand has, however been exceeded during the past year, for while the total number of application in all departments was less by nine, the amount asked was $1473 greater. The applications numbered 258, and the aggregate amount was $256,526.

It is gratifying both as indicating a growing desire upon the part of the churches to bear their own burdens, and also an ability to do so that the increase in the demand has been for loans and not for grants.

The total resources for the year ending March 21, 1903, were $210,524.

It is encouraging to note that the contributions from the churches ($58,256) slightly exceeded the total of last year, and also that a few more congregations responded; but an advance of $2,736 and 92 in number is not such as to afford the satisfaction which a more general recognition of the needs of the work could afford.

The total number of appropriations, either grants or loans, was 209 to 228 different churches, and the amount thus appropriated, $194,209, which is less than last years by 23 in the number of churches and $8669 in amount. Adding special gifts amounting to $1666 to eight churches, of which five were not otherwise aided, we have as a total result, $195,276, appropriated to 233 churches. These appropriations have been distributed through 39 states and territories, including Porto Rico and among 18 Presbyteries.

During the year there have been reported as completed without debt 221 churches and manses, the aggregate value of which is computed as not less than $886,902. The total receipts in all departments were $228,169, and the disbursements $226,240.

At the present time the board holds approximately 4500 mortgages, aggregating $2,800,000.

Not only has the board not refused any worthy application and does not close the year in debt, but has a small balance.

INJUNCTION IS REFUSED

The Duluth Directory Company vs. C. P. McCormick, Et. Al.

St. Paul, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Lochren, of the United States circuit court, has refused to grant the injunction sought by the Duluth Directory company against C. P. McCormick and the Pioneer Press Printing company. The complainant alleges that the defendants were engaged in getting out a publication which was substantially a pirated edition after its copyrighted directory. The defendants stated that only a small proportion of the names in the directory were being used by them, and that the publication being a sort of credit list for merchants, could not in any event enter into competition with the directory.

SIR THOMAS' BIG FLOTILLA

Sails For Sandy Hook—He Brings 170 Men.

Gourock, Scotland, May 28.—Sir Thomas Lipton's flotilla, consisting of Shamrock III, the Shamrock I, the steam yacht Erin and the ocean tug Cruiser, whose combined crews number 170 men, sailed from here for Sandy Hook at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Great crowds of people bade them farewell, flags were everywhere displayed and bands, whistles and sirens combined with the cheering of the spectators to give the cup challenger a great sendoff.

MET BY INDIANS.

The Red Men Escort President Into Pocatello.

Pocatello, Idaho, May 28.—President Roosevelt re-entered Idaho this morning and received a warm welcome here. He was met several miles outside of the city by a band of Indians from the Blackfoot reservation, who raced alongside the train into Pocatello. The president was met at the depot by a large crowd and escorted by cowboys and Indians, he was driven to a stand from which he delivered an address.

BEAUTY IN DISTRESS.

Officers Nearly Become Heroes Saving Her Dog.

A mezzo soprano shriek of beauty in distress caused policemen to dash breathlessly toward the Park Point ferry dock, and heavily-laden ore carriers to sheer off nine points from their course this afternoon.

Reaching the dock the officers saw a woman—a hysterical study in agonies and anguish—pointing into the pellucid depths of the strange fluid that laves the beach of Minnesota Point.

Another glance and the officers saw bubbles coming to the surface. It flashed through their minds that the woman's child or husband was inhabiting the moisture underneath, and they began peeling clothing preparatory to becoming life-savers, when a mite of a dog came sputtering to the surface and struck out for the shore.

The woman and the dog were crossing to Park Point on the ferry Carrington and the dog tried to arrive before the boat. He missed the dock by three feet, and then his feminine owner began calling for help.

When the officers realized that the woman in her excitement nearly caused them to become heroes, they were indignant, and inquired if the woman could show a license for the dogiette.

SILBERSTEIN & BONDY Co | SILBERSTEIN & BONDY Co

Store Closes Decoration Day at Noon.

Tailored Suits, Jackets, Wraps and Coats at Half Price

for Decoration Day—Tomorrow will be the time to prepare—the store will be open only until noon Saturday—it's the best chance of the year to get high grade, fashionable garments for so little—Half the regular selling prices means that you can buy garments that formerly sold for $10 at $5—those that sold for $15 at $7.50—$20 ones at $10—$30 ones at $15—and so on right up to some magnificent costumes that have sold for $75, $100 and more which have also been reduced to half—

It is following our usual custom of cleaning up and readjusting stocks at this season of the year—and we prefer doing it rather than wait until the season is about over.

Every garment is from our regular selling lines and bears the Silberstein-Bondy label—which is a guarantee of its worthiness.

Everybody knows that half price here means half price—no juggling with price tickets—no marking up to mark-down—every price in this store is reliable and every reduction is legitimate—A fact that can be vouched for by hundreds of customers of the house, and by the many who took advantage of the sale yesterday and today.

You remember the old saying—"People who cry thief loudest usually bear the closest watching"—don't you? It seems to be the favorite pastime of a certain "job lot," "tin shop" masquerading under the title of department store to cry "thief" every time another store does something that does not quite suit them, and they immediately jump into print and cry thief, "fakir" or whatever other low or degrading language they may happen to think of—They are beneath the notice of any self-respecting house—The public in general however, should know facts—some who may not be familiar with the usual mud-slinging methods of this "tin shop" (who also sell "cod liver oil" and step ladders—and, as an additional inducement conduct a "menagerie" and monkey exhibit)—should know that this is a common occurence with the self-styled "public benefactors."

They owe it to the other stores of this city as well as to the public to come out from under cover like men and tell WHO the Fakirs are!

It is the duty of "Public Benefactors" to show up any business house whose methods are not straight or honest!

If you know that any house has been "faking," come out like men and say so—but it is un-businesslike—un-gentlemanly — and dishonorable to accuse any merchant or merchants of Duluth of making an assertion of this kind without knowledge!

We were the only house we know of that had advertised a half price sale of Tailored Garments—that was on Tuesday evening—and their insinuating announcement appeared last night—which is an insult not only to ourselves, but to every legitimate business house in Duluth, as well as to the judgment of Duluthians.

Nearly thirty-four years of successful and honorable business in Duluth can not be tainted by anything thoughtless and careless competitors may say, but we do wish to say right now that we shall at any time be prepared to protect our reputation from the slurs and indignities of thoughtless competitors.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH

Capt. Singer Wants It Between Michigan and Isle Royale.

The first wireless telegraph stations on Lake Superior are to be established at Houghton and Hancock and at Isle Royale. The steamer Easton, which was recently purchased by Capt. Singer, will also probably be the first boat on Lake Superior to be equipped with the service.

A dispatch from Chicago says:

Capt. W. H. Singer, of Duluth, was in the city yesterday negotiating with the De Forest Wireless Telegraph company for the installation of a wireless system between the copper country of Michigan and Isle Royale. The stations are to be located at Houghton and Hancock on the Michigan side and at Washington Harbor on the island. Negotiations were also made to continue the service on to Fort Arthur on the north shore of Lake Superior, but Mr. Singer thinks it more probable that he will run a short cable line to the mainland and connect with the Dominion service along the Canadian Pacific road. Contracting Engineer G. H. Barbour of the De Forest system, also presented figures to include the service in the installation of the service on the steamer Easton of the White line, which is to ply between the above ports.

BUILDING COLLAPSED.

Five Laborers Were Hurt At Topeka, Kan.

Topeka, Kan., May 28.—A two-story brick building in Kansas avenue, within one block of the Rock Island depot, collapsed early today. Five laborers sleeping in the building were injured, as follows: M. O. Charlesburg, body mashed and injured internally; Edward Larsen, head and back injured; John Jackson, head cut and back injured; John Thomas, body bruised; Carl Johnson, head bruised.

It is believed all will recover.

RESTRAINING ORDER

Asked By Western Union Against Pennsylvania Road.

Philadelphia, May 28.—The Western Union company has asked the United States court of appeals to issue an order restraining the Pennsylvania company from continuing the removal of Western Union poles and wires from the lines of the railroad. The request is made on the ground that the telegraph company has appealed to the United States supreme court from a recent decision of the court of appeals, which held that the railroad company had a legal right to remove the poles and wires from along its right of way.

NON-UNION MEN HURT.

Pitched Battle Occurs at Galluns' Tannery, Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, May 28.—The first serious trouble in the nature of violence as an outgrowth of the tanners' strike occurred today, when a pitched battle in front of Gallun's tannery resulted in two non-union men being severely handled by a mob of 150 strikers, and one striker, James Batum, receiving a bad cut over the left temple. The non-union men's injuries consisted of several broken bones. It was necessary to call the police to quell the trouble. Both parties in the labor controversy are standing firm.

NOT ASKED DIFFERENTIAL.

St. Paul, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A telegram received in this city today from J. C. Pond, general passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central road, denies the report that his company had asked or would request a differential on Chicago business if further reduction of running time was ordered by other lines. He says no such request will be made.

TROUBLE AT WORONESCH.

Berlin, May 28—The Tageblatt says it learns that serious troubles have broken out in the government of Woronesch, Russia. The paper adds that 10,000 strikers are assembled, threatening violence and the governor has asked for a big military force to disperse them. The strikers are circulating many revolutionary handbills.

ALL IN THE POINT OF VIEW.

Nothing in particular reminds me of it. It is merely a story that they used to tell about Hagenbeck, the menagerie man at the time of the world's fair in Chicago, says the Brooklyn Eagle. It seems that he had been out with some particularly thirsty friends in the evening and deemed it prudent not to go home. So, since the night was rather cool, he went to the fair grounds and crawled into one of his lion cages. Snuggled close to his largest and most dangerous beast, he slept until morning, when he felt something prodding him in the ribs. Opening his eyes, he saw his wife standing in front of the cage, jabbing him with her parasol and scornfully saying: "Oh, you miserable coward!"

A VALID CLAIM.

The man came in and presented a bill. The other looked at him in astonishment, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

"Well, you've got nerve," said the latter. "As a matter of fact, I ought to sue for damages. In fact, I have been considering just that course."

"No case," said the man with the bill.

"But I have a valid claim."

"You hit me on the jaw, didn't you?" asked the man at the desk.

"Sure."

"It was a terrible blow, wasn't it?"

"It was a dandy, for a fact."

"Well, it looks to me as if I were the one to make claims."

"Not at all, not at all. Why, according to the latest scientific theories, I must have jarred the life out of more than a million germs that would have made all kinds of trouble for you later. Yes, sir, that was a regular health treatment I gave you, and I ought to be paid for it, and paid well."

WEATHER MIXES THINGS

Is Making High School Field Day Date Uncertain.

Continuous bad weather has interfered with the high school preliminary field day, which was set for last Saturday and then postponed to some time this week, to such an extent that it will probably not be pulled off until next week.

Track plans are considerably mixed at present. Cloquet is not able to enter the three-cornered meet which is set for June 6, because of local discord. Definite arrangements have not been completed as yet with the Nelson-Dewey high school of Superior. The trouble in holding the preliminary field day will bring the two meets close together, which is another difficulty.

Manager Kane has met with great difficulty in completing his plans because the uncertainty both of weather and of schools which are to enter the big meet, but it is probable that in a day or two the matter will be finally settled.

No training has been done by the track men during the last week because of the cold, damp weather and their work of preparation has been interrupted seriously.

CHARGES NOT SUSTAINED

Secretary of War Returns Findings In Howse Case.

Washington, May 28.—The secretary of war will today make public his findings in the case of charges by Major G. K. Hunter against Major Robert L. Howse of alleged cruelties in the Philippines. The secretary finds that the charges are not sustained and the evidence is based upon exparte affidavits instead of oral examinations of those making the charges. The secretary finds that no beating occurred such as was charged. The secretary does not grant the request for a court of inquiry by Major Howse because of the difficulty in assembling such a court and obtaining the evidence. The court would have to be held in the Philippines to obtain Filipino testimony.

The secretary has decided to appoint a board of officers in the islands to make a further inquiry and to ascertain the sources of the testimony adduced, and inquire whether any malice was shown in the action of Major Hunter against Howse.

IS PLEASING TO CITIZENS

Decision of Northern Pacific to Give the Fond du Lac Service.

Expressions of gratification are heard about the city today relative to the announcement of the Northern Pacific company that it will improve its passenger train service between Duluth and Fond du Lac, beginning June 1. A great many Duluth people have been acquiring interests at upriver points during the last two years and others are contemplating purchasing property there.

Among those who have been especially active in the matter of getting the new service are T. E. Blanche, general agent of the Northern Pacific road, Judge Cant, Judge Windom, A. C. Volk and others. Mr. Volk circulated the petitions that were sent to the company by citizens and various other interests and brought the matter to the attention of the city council.

The new passenger train service will be given in addition to the present mixed train service of the Northern Pacific road to New Duluth and Fond du Lac, and it is understood that the round trip fare is to be put at the popular price of 25 cents.

NO HOPE IN SIGHT

Weather Man Promises Wet Weather to Continue Indefinitely.

Some Other Months That Have Been Long on Wetness.

Rain, fog, cold weather and northeast winds which are promised for another indefinite length of time. The spell of pleasant weather which was promised for today and tomorrow wore itself out in a few hours and the weather switched back to its unpleasant condition.

Since May 22 Duluth has been fog wrapped and the coming spell of wet weather promises tomake May, 1903, one of the record months for wet cold weather.

Forecaster Richardson of the local weather bureau has spent what time he could snatch from appeasing angry citizens in compiling a list of similar spells of wet weather in former years and finds that this month is not a record breaker as to the length of time which the wet weather has lasted but in the quality of the weather served up it takes its place in the front rank.

In may, 1902, there were ten days of rain with one clear day sandwiched in.

In July, 1902, it rained every day from July 1 to July 14, although the sun showed its face occasionally during that time.

June, 1901, was one of the prize months in the history of the local weather bureau for wet weather. During that month there were but eight days on which it did not rain. March of the same year had nine consecutive days on which rain fell.

The present spell has completed its seventh day and is still coming strong.

SAYS DILKE IS MISCHIEFMAKER

Premier Balfour Prefaces a Reply In That Manner.

London, May 28.—On the motion being made for the Whitsuntide adjournment of the house of commons, Sir Charles Dilke, Advanced Liberal, today raised a discussion on the fiscal views recently enunciated by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain. Sir Charles maintained that Mr. Chamberlain had suggested a revolutionary change in the government's policy, which was opposed to all the traditions and to the opinions of an overwhelming majority majority in parliament. He considered that while the policy of the government as outlined at the recent colonial conference was dangerous, it fell far short of the policy now suggested.

Premier Balfour prefaced his reply with the remark that Sir Charles Dilke had attempted to make mischief between the colonial secretary and himself, but any such attempt would fail. He contended that after the resolution of the colonial conference, Mr. Chamberlain was bound to raise the subject of preferential trade for public discussion. Mr. Balfour deprecated "waving the ragged, moth-eaten flags of either the protectionist or the free trade side in the controversy, now as far removed as the poles from the controversy of half a century ago." The premier then proceeded to argue that the tendency was to raise a tariff wall against British goods.

BROOKLYN HANDICAP

Won By Irish Lad, Gunfire Second and Heno Third.

New York, May 28.—An overcast sky, with occasional showers during the early part of the day, caused many sighs of discontent among the thousands of lovers of the race horse, who had for weeks looked forward to this, Brooklyn handicap day. While the weather was threatening, however, the sun came out at itnervals to lend hope to those who were anxious that perfect conditions should prevail for the classic event of the Gravesend meeting. The early showers were only sufficient to lay the dust, cool the atmosphere and to add to the pleasure of those who, in crowded trains and by carriage and automobile, traveled Gravesend ward. Eighteen horses were scheduled to start, among them a number that have won laurels during the present and past seasons. William C. Whitney's Gunfire, as a result of her victory in the Metropolitan in the fastest on record, was the favorite with the general public, while E. R. Thomas, the latest acquisition to the ranks of the wealthy supporters of the "sport of kings" with Yardarm, attracted interest. Foxhall Keene was also a bidder with Injunction, and others which carried considerable money were Frank Farrell's Blues, L. V. Bell's Col. Bill, and W. C. De Lopez' Articulate. The Brooklyn handicap was the fourth race on the card. It was for 3-year-olds and upwards, sweepstakes of $100 each, with $10,000 added, at a mile and a quarter. This year it is worth $17,000, of which $12,000 goes to the winner.

Irish Lad won the race; Gunfire, second; Heno, third. Time, 2:05 2-5.

Irish Lad was a 12 to 1 shot. The time broke the record for the handicap. Best previous record was 2:06¾, made by Banastar in 1899.

A SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Walter Stewart Found Dead In His Room.

Walter Stewart, a well known lumber camp foreman, was found dead in his room at the Scandia hotel this morning.

Report had it that he was a suicide but the authorities are of the impression that death came to him very suddenly last night as he was preparing for bed as a result of organic heart trouble.

The body was removed to Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms, where a post mortem examination will be held. Mr. Stewart was from Alpena, Mich., and aside from that little is known of his past life or family.

Dr. Forbes Will Speak Three Times Sunday.

Dr. Robert Forbes will deliver his last sermon to Duluth people at Asbury M. E. chuch Sunday evening.

Dr. Forbes will preside at three services during the day.

At 10:30 o'clock in the morning he will preach at the Endion M. E. church, and in the afternoon will address the members of the graduating class of the state normal school.

The final sermon will be at Asbury in the evening and Dr. Forbes will leave for Philadelphia on June 4.

AMONG THE ROADS

May Be New Freight Position on Great Northern Road.

Northern Pacific to Give Fond du Lac Service This Season.

Rumors are being circulated here to the effect that a new official, an assistant general freight agent for the whole Great Northern system, is to be appointed soon by W. W. Broughton, recently made general freight agent of the road.

Mr. Broughton was in town yesterday and spent the day about the city, but as near as can be learned, said nothing about his appointment.

It is believed, from statements Mr. Broughton has made in the past, that F. H. Fogarty, now in the employ of the Northern Pacific road at Chicago, will be tendered the position.

The rumor is vague, but apparently has some foundation, for railroad men are talking it seriously, and it seems to be a matter of some criticism among them because the position is to go to a man off the road.

Mr. Broughton has always had an exalted opinion of the capabilities of Mr. Fogarty and it is said, believes him to be one of the best men for the position of that kind in the West.

GOES TO PITTSBURG.

D. G. Black Will Leave on Monday.

David G. Black, who has been traffic manager for the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, for the past five years, will leave Monday for Pittsburg, where he will assume his new duties as general agent of the Great Northern railway.

The Marshall-Wells company has not as yet appointed Mr. Black's successor, but several applicants are after the position, which is considered the best position as traffic manager aside from Chicago and St. Louis in the West.

An announcement of his successor is looked for in a day or two.

TO FOND DU LAC.

Northern Pacific to Give Improved Service There.

Word was received from the Northern Pacific's general offices at St. Paul last evening that a double train service would be put on from Duluth to Fond du Lac this summer.

The message was meager and all there was to it was that Mr. Mellen had sent word that he was agreeable to the request of the Duluth common council and citizens represented on a petition.

The stations that will probably be on the time card are Twentieth avenue, West Duluth, Oneota, West End, West End Junction, New Duluth and Fond du Lac.

The service is to be daily, and the train will make two trips a day, the run out of Duluth being as early as 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning.

The service will be Sundays also, and a large excursion business will probably be done, as the route of the road to Fond du Lac is picturesque and beautiful in the summer months.

The residents and owners of property for a summer resort proposed in Fond du Lac and New Duluth, are much gratified over the action of the railroad company.

MRS. SINCLAIR GETS THE FARM

The Downfall and Disgrace of an Iowa Ex-Official.

Webster City, Iowa, May 28.—The supreme court of Iowa has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the celebrated case of William Sinclair vs. Elnora D. Sinclair. This decision forever settles the title to the big Sinclair farm in Cass township, of this county, in favor of Mrs. Sinclair.

The case had its beginning six years ago when Mr. Sinclair was sheriff of Hamilton county and deals with the disgrace and downfall of a man whose standing in the community was so high that for a long time his infamy found few believers.

It was during Sinclair's second term that it began to be whispered about that the sheriff was guilty of associating with one of the female characters whom he had often confined in the county jail as a prisoner. This association finally ripened into intimacy and soon it became a matter of common knowledge that the twain were living practicaly in open infamy. Before his term of office closed William Sinclair's desertion of his family shocked the city and community, furnishing the biggest scandal in the history of the county.

The woman who caused his downfall was the notorious Nellie Hand, who for years was the keeper of one of the vilest resorts in the city. After going to the depths with this woman, Sinclair finally made an attempt to rally his manhood and leave her. Then began an interesting run of justice court cases and preliminary hearings. Sinclair went back to his wife, who forgave him.

The Hand woman became furious at this turn of affairs and threatened Sinclair's life unless he at once returned to her. Lest she should, through some legal process, secure a share of the place, Sinclair gave his wife a warranty deed to the farm and a bill of sale to the personal property. After the matter had gone through several justice court hearings the Hand woman finally regained her hold upon Sinclair and the second fall of the man was greater than the first. He left his wife for the second time an dagain lived in open shame with Nellie Hand.

Sinclair and his paramour left the city together, made a long tour through Colorado and for a time lived in Boulder, Colo. Later they returned to Iowa and lived at Marshalltown for a time and then went to Boone, where they now reside. In November, 1901, Sinclair brought suit against his wife, asking that a receiver be appointed for the farm and that he be adjudged a half owner of the estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair have never been divorced. She still resides on the home farm north of the city.

THE CASE IS COMPROMISED

Garfield Avenue Viaduct Action Is Settled By the City.

The Garfield avenue viaduct damage action brought against the city by Cyrus B. Thomas, which was called for trial in district court yesterday morning, was compromised without going to the jury, settlement being made on the basis of the verdict rendered against the city in the case brought against it by Robert Smith, the plaintiff recovering a judgment of $350. The Thomas and Smith cases were similar, as the two properties claimed to have been damaged by the viaduct are adjoining. Shortly before the noon recess the jury was taken down to view the premises, and when court convened in the afternoon the case was dismissed, the settlement having been effected during the interval.

The fourth and last damage action against the city on account of the viaduct was started for trial yesterday afternoon, the plaintiff being G. C. Dickerman.

In Judge Cant's room yesterday afternoon the jury in the civil action of Margaret Briscornet against J. C. Ferguson brought in a verdict of $835.38 for the plaintiff. The action was brought to recover on a former contract, judgment having been rendered against the defendant for $522 in 1893 and never satisfied. The verdict was for the full amount of the former verdict, with interest.

The action of H. A. Hall & Co. against Jeneatte Palmer to recover $500 alleged to be due for painting and papering in defendant's house is now on trial in Judge Cant's room. The defendant claims the bill is excessive and should not have been over $300.

Judge Cant has granted a twenty days' stay of judgment in the case of George H. Craig, administrator, against the Benedictine Sisters' Hospital association. The plaintiff sued to recover damages for the death of his son in an elevator accident at St. Mary's hospital, and the jury last week returned a verdict in his favor, assessing the damages at $1.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

Ishpeming—Great indignation has been caused here by the charge, made by the Marquette high school faculty and students, that in the recent debate with Marquette on the subject of compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, the Ishpeming debators resorted to dishonest tactics in delivering almost verbatim the argument of the Cornell team in a debate on the same question some time ago. The allegations are emphatically and specifically denied and are supported by ample proof. The line of thought followed was obtained from various reference books, some obtained from the state university, supplemented by letters and pamphlets furnished by Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell. It was not known at Ishpeming that Cornell had debated the same question, nor is there a copy of that debate in the city. All the speeches were prepared under the direction of Superintendent Scribner. The decision of the judges was unanimous for Ishpeming.

Escanaba—Frenchmen from all over the Upper Peninsula will congregate at Menominee on June 24 to attend the annual celebration of the St. Jean Baptiste societies of Northern Michigan and Wisconsin. Several thousand visitors are expected.

Menominee—Edward Stephenson, a fisherman, on visiting his nets in Green bay, found entangled in one of them a large loon, one of the largest ever seen in the city. The bird has been presented to A. C. Marryman, who has placed it in his pond.

Iron Mountain—Superintendent Wells of the Dunbar & Wausaukee road, has received advices that seventy families from Illinois, Iowa and Indiana will arrive here early in June to settle in the Popple river district.

Haughton—Graham Pope, a Houghton capitalist, will organize a company to develop a tract of land comprising a portion of the bed of the Feather river in the central northern part of California. The dredging process, the simplest and best method of mining gold, will be used. Mr. Pope holds the property under option and it is said to be rich in gold.

Preliminary plans for the new gymnasium for the Michigan College of Mines have been submitted and passed upon by the board of control. The faculty and students have not been idle and so far $31,000 of the $50,000 required has been subscribed.

Nick Thomas, recently arrested at the Arcadian on a charge of insanity, believes he is full of electricity that is burning him up. The heat from his body makes the floor so hot that he cannot stand on it and he keeps moving about. Papers placed in his pockets, he believes, burn. The case is one of the most peculiar ever seen in the county jail.

Albert Mason and William Mudge, teamsters fr Close & Bawden, were arrested charged with hauling powder through the city in violation of the city ordinance.

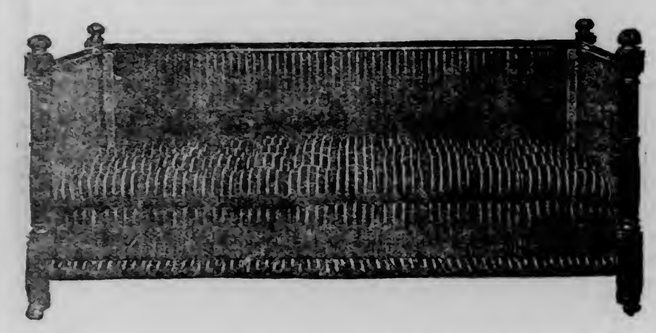
Colonial Sofas, $23.50.



Are six feet long, good and deep, upholstered in best grade of figured velour, with deep tufting—have very heavy frames, in either golden oak or mahogany finish—a good, massive sofa, with large post front; its equal would be priced at $35 or $40 by other Duluth dealers. We sell it for $23.50.

A Great $5 Sale of Lace Curtains.

Monday morning we placed on sale 100 pairs of fine lace curtains, of which we have only 1 or 2 pairs of a pattern left, at $5.00 a Pair.

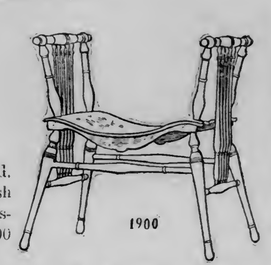
They are all new spring styles and are in Brussels, Irish Point, Arabian and Renaissance laces, and are all regular $6.50 to $10.00 a pair, but to close out the lot we offer them at $5 a pair.

If you are thinking of buying new curtains don't let this opportunity pass. The early buyer gets the best selection.

Cobbler Rockers, $1.85.

Made of hardwood, cobbler seats, high backs, fancy turned spindles, neatly carved back, may be had in either golden oak or mahogany finish. Any other dealer would ask $4.50 for its equal. We sell this for $1.85.

Corner Chair, $4.85.



The neatest article you ever saw of its kind. Good and substantial frames in mahogany finish—upholstered in satin damask in various assorted patterns—other dealers would ask $9.00 for its equal. We sell it for $4.85.

OUTING FOR BOYS

Colony of Fifty to Be Taken to Itasca Woods.

Camp Will Be on the Shore of Lake Pokegama.

St. Paul, May 28.—A camp for school boys, far up in the Northern Minnesota woods, is the institution that has been established by Hiram W. Stack, of this city. Such a one was located at Lake Pokegama last summer and was inhabited for some months by about fifty boys, ranging from 11 to 16 years of age.

Another such camp will be located at the same place this summer, the season to begin June 20, and end Aug. 28.

Nine months in the school room often leaves boys pale, jagged, listless and without appetites, and much in need of the outdoor tonic of hunting, fishing, rowing and plenty of fresh air, such as can be obtained by camping out. The feature of this scheme is that the boys can be given good care while their parents have not the opportunity to share the outing with them.

Last year's little colony was gathered together from St. Paul, Toledo, Ohio; Kansas City, Hot Springs, Winona and Minneapolis.

The party was organized here, and traveled together to Duluth, and from there about 130 miles northwest to the beauty spot, where the camp is situated.

On the way a day was spent in Duluth. The party investigated the shipping interests of the city. The great freight steamers were a revelation to many of the boys, and the amount of grain and iron and other ores, shipped from that point, impressed upon them forcibly the resources of the state.

Many of the mines were afterward visited, and, as the camp is well within the pine land region, both the commercial and artistic possibilities of the state were appreciated to the utmost.

The boys lived in tents, and had their meals served by an expert cook, who was able to give them such information as to the proper preparation of game and fish, as they needed, and in their tramps and canoeing trips, sometimes of two or three days' duration, they learned about camp fires, as well as many of the more subtle things of value to the woodsman.

They learned the signs infallible and omnipresent, by which the Indians knew direction, detected approaching storms, or trailed their game.

They learned of geography, natural history and botany, and acquired a generous store of philosophy. Living on the shores of the lake, and under the watchful eye of older men, they learned to swim, and became fearless and expert in the handling of boats. They were taught all the most successful methods of fishing, and received rigorous instruction in the proper and improper use of firearms.

The benefits of such a season for a boy are almost incalculable. They live close to the heart of nature. They are thrown into associations with newcomers, strangers from different parts of the country. Every movement of the day is filled with something new, and at night, tired out with healthful physical exercises, they sleep the sweet invigorating slumber which follows days of existence out of doors, and they wake in the morning to devour the eggs, bacon, fish and wild fruits which are spread for them, with an appetite which would scorn the trifling orange, toast and coffee of their city breakfast.

The camp on the shores of Lake Pokegama, about four miles from the village of Grand Rapids, which is the base of supplies, and to which point mail is sent for and dispatched several times a week. The boys take banjos, mandolins, violins and horns with them, and tennis and baseball furnish occupation for the hours when there is no other matter on hand. The director supplies books and magazines, and reading aloud and singing serve to while away the days which are rainy or dull. The average age of the boys last year was 15, and there was not one serious accident, nor illness to disturb the season.

HIGHLAND MOVE

More Interest Awakened By the Going In of Drills.

Less Skepticism About Prospects—Some Deals Are Being Made.

The two churn drills, with diamond drill attachments which the Northern Pacific land department has sent upon its lands in the Highland county, are both working, and now there are three drills boring into the range within a short distance.

The drills were sent in last week, and they were set up at once. They have just got down to work and now those who are interested in the Highland country are standing about nervously waiting to see what the boring will bring forth.

The two drills are on section 3, 54-11, not on 51-11, as a mistake in the type caused The Herald to say the other day. There may be iron on 51-11, but it will be a little difficult to get at, as it is out in the lake a considerable distance.

There seems to be a little strengthening noticeable in the sentiment on the Highland iron range in Duluth. There is not quite so much skepticism as there was awhile ago, and while nothing has been shown up to warrant the change in feeling, the fact that enough people believe in the range to send in three drills has had something to do with it.

"It will not do to condemn the Highland iron range yet," said an iron man, who is not interested there, yesterday afternoon. "The indications are sufficient to warrant explorations, especially as it can be done at comparatively small expense with the churn drills. While it is, of course, questionable whether the results will be large or not, there is always a chance, and people should heed the advice of The Herald in its write up of the range several weeks ago and 'Remember the Mesaba,' which was condemned for a long time before it developed its marvelous possibilities."

A few deals in Highland range lands are being made pending the developments that are looked for from the operation of the three drills. No very large prices have been asked or received so far, as dealing there is purely speculative, but the prices have all been much larger, of course, than they would have been for purely wild land in that location.

All three of the drills that are working are within a small compass. The Northern Pacific drills are working on land adjoining the McLeod property, on which a drill is working, and nearby is the property owned by W. F. King and others, who expect to put in a drill shortly.

UNITED STATES MUST PAY

For Steamer Fosscolia, Sunk By the Columbia.

New York, May 28.—Judge Adams, in the United States district court, has decided that the United States must pay for the British steamship Fosscolia, which was rammed and sunk by the United States cruiser Columbia, on the night of May 18, 1898, in a dense fog off Fire Island. The Columbia was one of the patrol squadron looking for Cervera's fleet, which had sailed from Cape Verde. The question of responsibility having been decided, the matter of damages will now go to a referee. The owners claim $288,899.86.

IN DULUTH SATURDAY

St. Paul Lacrosse Team Will Meet Zenith City Men Then.

That St. Paul will be represented this season by one of the strongest lacrosse teams in America is a forgone conclusion, says the St. Paul News. During the past two weeks the players have been practicing hard and the wonderful improvement in the individual work and the team play speaks well for the game in this part of the country.

The first real effort of the team will be made Saturday, when the boys go to Duluth for the opening game of the season. The Zenith City men expect a tough struggle and consequently will put forth an unusual effort to get in condition for the Saints. Their proximity to the Canadian border line and the large number of enthusiasts in the city give them a great advantage over the St. Paul team.

On June 7 the Duluth team will come here for a return match, and it is expected that St. Paul will then show her appreciation of the hard work done by the St. Paul players. Much also depends on this game, as the St. Paul club will then know what encouragement to expect in the game with the famous Chicago club, which visits here on June 14.

A special business meeting of the St. Paul club was held Tuesday evening in the office of Dr. Burdette. Final arrangements for the trip to Duluth were made and plans alked over for bringing to St. Paul several of the famous Canadian teams.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Mitchell Man Sent to the Pasteur Institute, Chicago.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Mitchell—Adolph Hart, a laboring man, was bitten by a mad dog and badly injured over the eye, the dog's teeth going into the bone. He was bit again on the arm. Mr. Haut grappled with the vicious animal and for twenty minutes held him on the ground until help arrived. The dog was dispatched by having its throat cut. It had been running loose and big a dozen other animals in the city. Mayor Silsby issued an order requiring all dogs in the city to be muzzled. Mr. Haut is a poor man and his friends took up a subscription and sent him to the Pasteur institute in Chicago.

Elkton—Commencement exercises at the convent of "Our Lady of Good Counsel" will be held June 2, at which time a large class will be graduated. Rev. Dean Sheehan, under whose guidance this institution has been brought to a high standard of efficiency, returned this week from St. Louis, where he went as a delegate to the national convention of Knights. Father Coyne, who is in charge during the dean's absence, is arranging for a Memorial day celebration, which will surpass any similar event in Elkton's history. Next week Father Coyne will depart for Chicago to be present at a reunion of the alumni of Maynooth college.

Sioux Falls—John Loftus, late yardmaster of the Omaha, has been bound over to answer to the charge of selling property of the company and putting the proceeds in his own pockets.

Pierre—One of the features of the homestead movement to this part of the state is the small number of foreigners who are coming. The new settlement is practically from the states of Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The calls from the permanent school fund have been light for a week, Yankton county taking out $2200 and Jerauld and Hyde $852. Applications for cash on bonds are already in for June and the first of July, and a large amount will be taken out before the middle of the summer.

Chamberlain artesian wellborers discovered a small flow of gas in the last well sunk in that city and hopes have been built of a supply of gas for that city as well as here. The artesian flow is reached at Chamberlain at less than 1000 feet, while here the flow is about 1100 feet and the character of the water is entirely different. Chamberlain people believe that a well sent to the same depth as in this city would bring them the same flow as here and with the supply of gas.

NORTH DAKOTA.

New Rockford—Judge S. L. Glaspell of Jamestown is holding the regular spring term of court for this county. There are many civil cases on the calendar and two criminal cases. One, the case of the state against Theodore Doyon, for assault and battery upon the person of Michael Pfau, was disposed of, the defendant pleading guilty and being fined $100. The second criminal case is that of William Cahill for the murder of his brother, Richard. The state is represented by State's Attorney James A. Manley and the defense by S. E. Ellsworth of Jamestown and C. J. Maddux of this city.

Wahpeton—The cornor stone of new Wahpeton high school building was laid with impressive services this week. The pupils of the schools, headed by the Wahpeton band, marched from the old school to the site of the building now being erected, where addresses were made by Mayor Bade, State Superintendent Stockwell, Senator McCumber and President Robertson of the Red River Valley university. The high school sang a selection and the entire school and audience joined in singing "America." The building will be one of the finest schools in the state. It will cost $30,000 and contain a fine auditorium.

Mayville—The state training school for the teachers of North Dakota will convene here on July 6 and will continue in session for six weeks. Five counties unite this year with the state normal school. They are Traill, Steele, Nelson, Richland and Towner. This is a gain of one county over that of last year, Towner being the new county.

The Ferris comedians will present at the Metropolitan tonight the beautiful drama in four acts "Tennessee's Partner." The play will be given in its entirety, in the way of costuming and scenic effects. This play, it is planned, will surpass any yet given by the company, as the entire strength of the company will be seen at their best. Mr. Ferris will arrive in the city tonight and will tomorrow personally rehearse his company in the "Silver King" the big production which he announces for next Monday night.

EMERALD ISLE

Rev. Roderick J. Mooney Gives Charming Glimpses of Beautiful Land.

Believes New Land Bill Will Do Much For Ireland.

Despite rain and fog a fair sized audience greeted Rev. Roderick J. Mooney at the High school assembly hall last evening. The subject of Mr. Mooney's illustrated lecture was "A Tour in Ireland" and judging from the bursts of applause with which the pictures of Irish heroes and saints were greeted admirers of the Emerald Isle were out in force.

Rev. Mr. Mooney, who is a graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, is a very fluent and eloquent speaker, and like all true Irishmen a patriot. Mr. Mooney was introduced by Mayor Hugo.

"Mr. Mooney" said Mayor Hugo "is thoroughly competent to speak on this subject being a graduate of one of the three great colleges in Great Britain and having lived long enough in this country to have become civilized."

"It is always a great pleasure" said Mr. Mooney in opening his address "for a man who loves his country to tell citizens of another country of the greatness of his own land. Ireland is a small country when you judge it from its actual area. It is smaller than many counties in Minnesota, having an area of but 32,000 acres and a population of between three and four millions. But the Irish people have ever been among the foremost in the affairs of the world, prominent in many countries beside their own. Here in this country many Irishmen have found a home when driven by stress of circumstances from their native land and here many of them have reached the highest positions of honor.

"I am pleased the time has come when the representation of Irishmen on the stage as cheap buffoons has been frowned down upon by the American people. As an Irishman I protest against it. The Irishmen in this country have helped to raise the American flag so high that every nation in the world today looks up to it.

"The new land bill will do much for Ireland. It provides for the purchasing of the land of the Irish tenants by the English government which will in turn sell it back to the Irish people on easy terms. Then indeed will the sunburst of Ireland's glory come upon the people."

Mr. Mooney illustrated his address with steroptican views of choice glimpses of Irish scenery explaining each views and relating some of the principal legends in connection with the various localities pictured.

During the course of the evening, Mrs. James McAuliffe rendered three delightful Irish songs, "Killarney," "The Kerry Dance" and "Come Back to Erin." She was warmly applauded.

Miss Theresa Lynn rendered a charming piano solo preceding the lecture and also acted as accompanist to Mrs. McAuliffe.

After the lecture a short informal reception was held many coming on to the platform to meet Mr. Mooney and congratulate him on his address.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Duluth lodge, No. 133, B. P. O. E. The Elks were present in large numbers together with a delegation from the Duluth lodge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

LOVING CUP FOR DE YOUNG

Presented By Citizens' Committee of San Francisco.

San Fraicisco, May 28.—A pleasing sequel to President Roosevelt's visit to San Francisco, was a banquet to M. H. DeYoung last night. He was the honored guest of the executive committee of the recent Roosevelt reception. During the evening eclat was given the occasion by the presentation to him of a large silver loving cup. The motive of the presentation was told by the inscription, as follows: "A souvenir from the citizens' executive committee to the Hon. M. H. DeYoung in acknowledgement of his executive ability and the masterful and successful manner in which he handled the functions given in honor of the visit of President Roosevelt to San Francisco, May 1903."

THE PEOPLE RULE

Our Government One of Liberty Under the Law.

President Makes Speech to the Citizens of Butte.

Butte, Mont., May 28.—President Roosevelt arrived here at 3:52 yesterday afternoon over the Great Northern railroad from Helena. He was met at the station by Mayor Mullins, escorted by a company of militia, a platoon of police and the Spanish war veterans, who are holding their state convention at Butte.

United States Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana, was one of the first to greet the president. Mr. Roosevelt then entered a carriage in which the senator, Mayor Mullins and a secret service man were seated. The drive through the streets of Butte was one long ovation. Such a crowd never has been seen in the history of this city. The neighboring towns for fifty miles had poured in their thousands, and the line of march was crowded to suffocation.

From the station the president was driven to the court house. Veterans of civil and Spanish-American war, militia and police formed the escort. Carriages containing a hundred distinguished citizens brought up the rear. The Spanish war veterans were the guard of honor.

At the court house 2000 school children, appropriately dressed in the national colors, saluted the president. He stopped a few minutes and spoke kindly words to the little ones.

Two squares further down Granite street, citizens of Anaconda, who had come over 150 strong, presented to the president a handsome vase made of silver, copper and sapphires. The line of march was then started to the Finley hotel, where the president made a five-minute speech.

A banquet, at which 150 plates were laid was given at the Thornton hotel. Mayor Mullins presided, and the guests included Senator Clark and other distinguished Montanans.

From the banquet table the president was driven to Columbia gardens, where the principal speech of the day was made. Here a handsome souvenir, his photograph engraved on copper and framed in a copper frame, was presented to him in the name of the citizens of Butte.

In his address President Roosevelt said:

"My fellow Americans and countrymen: I am in a city at the gateway of this state with the great railroad system of the state running through it. On the western edge of this state is Puget Sound, where I have seen the homing palaces of the great steamship lines which in connection with great railroads, are doing so much to develop the oriental trade of this country and this state.

"This state will owe no small part of its future greatness to the fact that it is thus doing its share in acquiring for the United States the dominance of the Pacific. These railroads, the men and the corporations that have built them, have rendered a very great service to the community. The men who are building the great steamship lines, have likewise rendered a very great service to the community. Every man who has made wealth or used it in developing legitimate business enterprises has been of benefit and not harm to the country at large. Great good has come from the development of our railroad systems; great good has been done by the individuals and corporations that have made that development possible; and in return, good has been done to them and not harm when they are required to obey the law.

"Ours is a government of liberty through and under the law. No man is above it and no man is below it. The crime of cunning, the crime of greed, the crime of violence, are all equally crimes and against them all always the law must set its face. This never shall be a government of plutocracy or the mob. It is as it has been and as it will be, a government of the people, including alike the people of great wealth, of moderate wealth, the people who employ others, the people who are employed, the wage workers, the lawyer, the mechanic, the banker, the farmer, including them all, protecting each and everyone if he acts decently and squarely, and discriminating against any one of them, no matter from what class he comes. If he does not act squarely and fairly, if he does not obey the law. While all people are foolish if they violate or rebel against the law, wicked as well as foolish, but all foolish, yet the most foolish man in this republic is the man of wealth who complains because the law is administered with impartial justice against or for him.

"His folly is greater than the folly of any other man who so complains, for he lives and moves and has his being because the law does in fact protect him and his property. We have the right to ask every decent American citizen to rally to the support of the law if it is ever broken against the interest of the rich man, and we have the same right to ask that every rich man cheerfully and gladly acquiesce in the enforcement against his seeming interest of the law. Incidentally whether he acquiesces or not the law will be enforced. Whoever he may be, great or small, at which ever end of the social scale he may be, whether his offense take the shape of a crime of greed, and cunning, or whether it take the shape of a physical violence; if it is an offense against the law it must be stopped, and if need be, punished.

BROTHERS MAKE UP

John D. and William Rockefeller Patch Up Their Troubles.

Difficulty Caused Decline of Millions In Stock Values.

New York, May 28.—Wall street is discussing an amazing story of a war in the stock market between John D. Rockefeller and his brother, William Rockefeller, which has finally been patched up after a decline in stock values of several hundred millions of dollars.

The recent bitter fight between the Pennsylvania railroad and the Western Union Telegraph company, owned by George Gould, John D. Rockefeller's ally, the bear attack on Pennsylvania and on St. Paul and the resignation from the directorate of the City bank of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are incidents of the contest. By the peace compact arranged between John D. Rockefeller and A. J. Cassatt, the Western Union will not be molested further. Mr. Rockefeller becomes the largest subscriber to the $75,000,000 syndicate to underwrite the new Pennsylvania stock issue and the stock market fight ceases.

In quarters where the news became known the greatest surprise was expressed, and it was thought that under this impression the public would subscribe liberally for the stock at par, and as a matter of fact before its issue it sold at 139 on the curb. It was freely predicted that it would become a second "Standard Oil stock." The stock had paid 8 per cent dividend for many years. In 1901 the dividend was cut to 1 per cent quarterly and subsequently to one-half of 1 per cent quarterly. The stock broke from 130 to 53. This break extended over a period of nearly two years.

When the dividend was first passed rumors became current that there had been a quarrel between John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and his brother William over the part the latter had played in the Amalgamated Copper affair. It was said that John D. Rockefeller blamed his brother for having allowed his name to be connected with the scheme. Men in the financial district believe that the bitterness of the fight between the Pennsylvania and the Western Union was really caused by the split between the two Rockefellers.

The friction which is said to have existed between John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and his brother, William Rockefeller, began at the time of the famous bear raid on Amalgamated Copper, generally attributed to William Rockefeller. The Amalgamated Copper company was floated by the National City bank. The promoters of the company gave the public to understand that the project was one of Rockefeller, Sr.'s, and had his support.

John D. Rockefeller has been lending his whole influence to support Mr. Gould and the Western Union, while William Rockefeller, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., allied with the National City bank, have recently formed a syndicate to underwrite the last issue of Pennsylvania stock and to protect it in the stock market from attacks led by John D. Rockefeller, George Gould and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Now it is said peace has been made between the warring factions and that John D. Rockefeller joins the Pennsylvania syndicate.

CATASTROPHE IS AVERTED

By Coolness of Supt. Brady, Armed With a Revolver.

New York, May 28.—By drawing a revolver and threatening to kill any man who dared to open the doors of a compartment in which a gang of men were working in the northern tube of the North river tunnel, Superintendent Brady saved his own life and the lives of fourteen other men in the compartment and prevented the flooding of the tunnel.

Brady had been expecting a break in the roof of the "black hole" and when it came and the water began pouring in he quickly pushed his coat, vest and hat into the aperture. Nearly all of the men were Italians and became panic stricken. They made a rush for the door of the compartment. Brady, pointing his revolver at the man nearest the door, threatened to kill him if he moved another step.

The opening of the doors would have permitted the compressed air in the compartment, 38 pounds to the square inch, to escape, the break would have enlarged instantly and the water would have drowned all hands.

Calling upon one of the more experienced workmen, Brady instructed him to telephone to the Jersey City terminal for more air pressure and to send him a carload of sawdust bags. He had the Italians thoroughly cowed, and when the bags arrived under the persuasive influence of the drawn revolver the Italians pushed the bags into the hole and then put a jack underneath to hold them in place.

The break in the tunnel was caused by boring shield hitting a rock formation, which jarred the roof and weakened it. The apron which protrudes in front of the shield was bent and the boring was suspended until this morning, when the machinists completed repairs.

THIS YEAR OR NEXT?

It is not surprising to learn that property-owners on East Superior street between Sixteenth and Twenty-third avenues are raising objections to the levying and collecting at the present time of 85 per cent of the estimated cost of paving the street unless it is definitely settled that the pavement will be laid this summer. There is no sense nor justice in making this assessment simply because the improvement has been petitioned for and forcing the property-owners to pay their money into the city treasury, if the work of paving the street is not to be done during the present year. There appears to be considerable doubt on this point. Some of the city officials think there will be a sufficient amount in the permanent improvement revolving fund to permit the council to let the contract for the paving and have the work done this year, but there are others who believe that the fund will be insufficient. If the latter view is correct, and the paving cannot be laid until next spring, why should the 85 per cent assessment be made at this time?

The Herald understands that the sentiment among the property-owners in favor of having the paving done as soon as possible is nearly unanimous and that the great majority prefer a bituminous macadam pavement, but naturally they are opposed to paying the assessment now and having their money tied up all summer and winter without any work being done on the pavement. With the example of the delay in the paving of the section of East Superior street between Eighth and Sixteenth avenues fresh in their minds, they want to know now whether the paving is to be laid this summer or next year. If the assessment should be levied and the work of paving postponed until next summer, there would certainly be some strenuous kicking, and already there are threats being made that, in that event, the matter would be taken into the courts and a fight made to have the assessment upset as illegal. The board of public works and the council should not take any action toward assessing any portion of the cost of the improvement unless it is definitely known that the pavement can be laid this summer.

NEW YORK'S GROWTH.

New York has been celebrating this week the 250th anniversary of its existuce, at its birth New Amsterdam, by reason of certain privileges granted by Peter Stuyvesant of Holland's colony of New Netherlands. In 1653 New Amsterdam was a town of 1000 population. There was nothing at that time to foreshadow that it was to be America's metropolis. Indeed, it was not until comparatively recent times that it gave assurance that such was its destiny. There was a time when Philadelphia had more population than New York and all its suburbs. Boston, Baltimore and Charleston once were rivals of New York, and any one of them apparently stood as good a chance of supremacy as New York.

What more than any other one thing gave New York its decisive lead was the building in 1825 of the Erie canal, which, connecting the waters of the Hudson with those of Lake Erie, gave New York direct cheap access to the West. The railroads came later and did their part in building up the city. In 1820 New York's population was only 123,000. Its wonderful growth began with the completion of the canal, and has continued without interruption. In 1900, just after its limits had been enlarged, its population in round numbers was 3,500,000. Among the cities of the world it is second only to London—it is first in wealth, in volume of business and extent and variety of activities. In population, New York would rank well up with London now were it free to annex New Jersey suburbs, with their 600,000 or 700,000 inhabitants, which are really a part of New York's general business community.

The celebration has been marked by many interesting features and all goes to show the wonderful progress of the metropolis from the time of Governor Stuyvesant to that of Mayor Low. The transition has certainly been wonderful.

New laws in Germany recognize the rights of a mother to a much greater extent than ever before. Whereas formerly the law recognized only the father's sovereignty, now, under the head of parental rights, the duties and privileges of both father and mother are clearly defined. The parental right of the mother is, during marriage, the same as that of the father. If the father dies, the mother immediately takes his place. It is no longer required that she have a guardian for her children. The parental right of the mother ends if she marries again, though in that case she may be appointed the guardian of her children. In divorce the guilty party forfeits his or her parental rights. If both are at fault, the sons over 6 years of age are assigned to the father, the rest of the children to the mother.

The Minneapolis Journal says a man with a family and only $15 a week salary in New York city would have to "live pretty close to the ground." "Pretty close to the sky" would probably be his abiding place.

Amid all his admiration for Emerson, says the Boston Globe, it is well to recall that his teaching was that it is better to be yourself than to be the best man who ever lived.

The Philadelphia bootblack who returned a $10,000 bill that he found on the street must excite surprise in that nest of political corruptionists.

THE POSTOFFICE SCANDAL.

The postoffice department scandal is increasing. The arrest of A. W. Machen, the general superintendent of the free delivery service, on a charge of malfeasance in office, being accused of receiving about $22,000 in bribes in connection with a patent fastener used on street letter boxes, is the latest sensation. It follows close upon the arrest of D. V. Miller, an assistant attorney in the department, for receiving a bribe for giving a favorable decision for a get-rich-quick concern by virtue of which it retained the use of the mails for swindling the public. It is rumored that more arrests are to follow. Beavers, who was the head of the salaries and allowances division, resigned a short time ago, and several thousand promotions made by his orders have been cancelled, and Tyner, the attorney general of the department, who was dragged into the investigation as a side issue, was summarily removed, when his wife broke into the safe in his office at the department and carried off the documents it contained. While Tyner was removed, there has been nothing made public that connects him personally with any irregularities, and his worst offense may have been to permit subordinates to use their positions for their own gain. It shows that, at least, he was unfit for the position.

Machen's arrest on a serious charge of bribe-taking is a surprise, as it has not been generally suspected that he was engaged in crooked work. He had powerful friends among the Republicans and Democrats in congress. Machen and Beavers built up their power by giving congressmen what they wanted in the way of appointments and increased salaries and allowances, and in return they got big appropriations from congress for their branches of the service and retained their grip. They ran all the branches of the first assistant postmaster general's department to suit themselves, and encountered no opposition until Robert J. Wynne was appointed first assistant. Then the trouble began. They had things all arranged to sidetrack him, as they had his predecessors, but he refused to be side-tracked. He discovered enough to satisfy him that there was something rotten, and the investigation resulted which brought to light the scandalous state of affairs that has existed. Mr. Wynne deserves the chief credit for having exposed the methods of the crooked officials, yet it is reported that Postmastr General Payne wants him removed on the ground that he sacrificed the good name of the department in order to get rid of the accused officials. If this be true, it will be interesting to see what President Roosevelt will do. Will he agree with Mr. Payne that Mr. Wynne should retire, or will he stand by the man who is primarily responsible for bringing to light the crooked work that has been going on for years?

MACARONI WHEAT.

It would seem from recent exhaustive experiments that macaroni wheat is destined to become an important factor in the future agriculture of the United States. It was five years ago that the first macaroni wheat was brought to the country from Russia and distributed in various parts of the Northwest for trial. It found quick favor in the Dakotas, where it took well in the soil and produced highly satisfactory crops. The grain was milled and converted into paste for the manufacture of macaroni. A new industry was established in this way, but it was not big enough to take up all the product of the Russian wheat, which showed a tendency to spread and multiply similar to the baneful thistle from the same country. The farmers looked about for an opportunity to dispose of their surplus stock of the new wheat. Just at this time Secretary Wilson appointed Mark H. Carleton a special agent to make some experiments with macaroni wheat to see if it could be utilized in the making of bread. Carleton took up the matter with enthusiasm. He got the millers of the Northwest to make some tests of grinding the wheat in their factories. It was found that, at very little cost, the machinery used for milling the ordinary soft wheat could be altered so as to reduce the harder species.

Having obtained a suitable flour Carleton proceeded to mix it up into bread. After a series of trials he recently turned out some loaves that rivaled the best wheat bread ever baked. He had loaves of bread made of ordinary wheat and others made of macaroni wheat shipped to some 300 different authorities on values of bread, with requests for reports thereon. There was nothing about the two loaves to indicate that one was made from macaroni wheat and the other from the plain, everyday product, the only means of differential being a label A and a label B. The samples went to experts on nutrition in food products, to bakers, chemists and other authorities whose opinions would be of value. Out of the 300 that were appealed to for reports about 275 made replies. Out of this total 177 reported favorably on the macaroni loaf, quality and taste to the plain wheat bread loaf.

From this remarkable showing of the cereal it is evident that it is only a matter of time when macaroni wheat bread will be sold all over the country. It has already converted large arid tracts in the Dakotas into highly valuable farming land. Long stretches of land that were formerly regarded as worthless and barren—not being suitable for grazing purposes—are now utilized for growing macaroni wheat. This cereal requires very little cultivation and is not injuriously affected by the severe winters of that region. The tests in raising it proved that it grows in almost unlimited quantities, yielding twice as much per acre as the ordinary wheat. Some idea of the way it thrives may be gained from the statement that last year the crop of the Dakotas was 1,500,000 bus; this year it will be 10,000,000 bushels, and next year Mr. Carleton believes that it will amount to 20,000,000 bushels. There are already fourteen or fifteen mills in North Dakota erected for the sole purpose of grinding macaroni wheat.

The value of this cereal for arid land cannot be overestimated. In a nutshell it renders land highly valuable that was heretofore worthless.

The Atlanta Constitution, the genuiness of whose Democracy cannot be questioned, submits the following recipe for Democratic harmony: "Let the dead issue—the issue that all men know to be dead—be silently interred. There need be no post-mortem discussions, no formal burying. Just let the cadaver pass out of sight, and let all who call themselves Democrats get together on living issues. That is the obligation which the Democracy owes to the country. It ought to have courage and patriotism though to rehabilitate itself and make a fresh start. It has much lost ground to recover before it can be fully reinstated."

HOTEL GOSSIP.

United States Senator Moses E. Clapp arrived in Duluth on a morning train today, and left at 9:30 o'clock for Crookston, where he says he is going on private business.

He averred that the baseball game to be played this afternoon between Superior and Crookston teams had no significance. Besides that he said he was in no mood to talk; he was traveling as a citizen and private individual and was not talking for publicaton, because he didn't feel like it—and besides there wasn't anything to talk about.

Senator Clapp, "the Black Eagle of Minnesota, colossal in stature, stentorian in tone," as they say up at Beltrami, carried a cane to beat off interviewers this morning, and was successful up to the time his train left for Crookston, at 9:30 o'clock.

The senator stopped at the St. Louis hotel while in town. Few were aware of his presence. John Megins and a few acquaintances, who happened to be in the lobby when he came, chatted a few minutes, all informally.

The senator walked briskly up to the hotel from the sleeping car, his cane clicking on the sidewalk, his head back, and that noted eagle-eye gathering in the beauties of the spring morning in Duluth.

He stepped briskly, and meeting one or two acquaintances, bade them a crisp good morning as he hurried.

He had a worried look upon his face.

He was trying to think of what he had forgotten. He knew he was to have thought of something, but couldn't remember what it was. He scowled and gathered his face into knots, but couldn't open the particular cell that held the secret.

As he stepped up to the desk of the hotel, he was still worried, and as he placed his bold signature on the register, he was thinking.

Suddenly his face lighted up with a dawn of remembrance. It grew brighter, and he heaved a sigh as he said:

"Why, I remember now, I was to have wound my watch."

The senator felt in his pocket, and from the recesses of his waistcoat drew forth a watch of questionable case. He held it in his left hand and his fingers reached for the stem-winding knob.

It was not there. The senator's face blanched.

"Where can it be" he muttered.

He looked at it and jumped for the telephone. He telephoned the Union station to have the porter look through his berth and the car. He walked part way back thinking it might have dropped from his pocket.

No results.

He finally sent the watch over to Day's and told them to put a winder on it.

It was a noid-fashioned watch, and there was little chance of their having anything to fit it.

The senator stood before the desk, talking strenuously, and telling about it. In the midst of his talk and gestures, one hand slipped into a pocket.

He stopped short and heaved a deep sigh, or fetched it, as Mark Twain would say.

He drew out his hand, and there between the thumb and forefinger was the winder.

The senator then said:

"xzrwtarsye avsaaqwuenlakd qwasavxxz aregdtafa."

Later he said:

"I am not in the mood for interview this morning. I don't know anything to tell, and besides there isn't anything. I am traveling on private business."

At a few minutes after 9 o'clock the senator started to the station and got his train for Crookston.

POSITION IN ADVERTISING.

Grand Forks Herald: There is a tendency on the part of many advertisers to pay undue attention to the position of their announcements in the papers. They ask that their advertisements be placed at the top of column, next to pure reading matter, that there shall be no other das on the page, that they shall be surrounded by reading matter, and make a lot of other provisions, with which all advertising men are familiar.

The advertising that depends for its value on its ability to obtrude itself by virtue of its position where it is not wanted, is not good advertising. Any man who is in a legitimate business and is conducting it as it ought to be conducted has something to say to the public that the public wants to know. If the public wants to know it, and the story is properly told, there need be no fear that it will not be read if published in any part of a good newspaper.

There is a tendency on the part of many advertisers to regard the public as a child to be dosed, advertising as a nauseous mass that must be crammed down its throat in some way, and a few paragraphs of "pure reading matter" as the sugar coating which is to cover up the vile compound in the interior of the pill.

Advertising should be so prepared that people will want to read it, and it should be grouped as all the other contents of the paper are grouped.

It is an insult to the public to present for its consumption what purports to be a story or a scientific paragraph, and which ends in an invitation to buy somebody's corn cure.

This is another case of the sugar coated pill. The presumption is always against the contents. The two classes of matter should be kept separate. If the reader wants to mix them, he can do so for himself, but most people prefer them straight.

THE WEATHER.

LAUGHING GAS.

Brooklyn Life: "How long have you been in New York, Uncle?"

"Long enough to know better."

Smart Set: "It's hard to lose one's relatives," said the poor man, insinuatingly.

"Hard?" growled the millionaire, "Why, it's almost impossible!"

Detroit Free Press: "He's horribly gruff, isn't he?"

"Frightfully so."

"Regular old pirate, I guess."

"No; he's a civil engineer."

Ram's Horn: A western paper refuses to publish eulogies gratis, but adds: "We will publish the simple announcement of the death of any of our friends with pleasure."

Town Topics: "You should sleep on your right side, madam."

"I really can't do it, doctor; my husband talks in his sleep and I can't hear a thing with my left ear."

Philadelphia Press: "You seem to forget," said the plodder, "that all men are born equal."

"Not at all," replied the conceited parvenue. "It's because I've beaten the men that had the same start as me that I'm stuck on myself."

Baltimore American: Sympathizing Friend—Cheer up, old boy, remember she's not the only girl in the world.

Rejected Suitor—Yes, I know. She'll tell all the others.

Harvard Lampoon: Mrs. Malaprop—I walked twenty-five miles yesterday.

Mr. Parlormop—Did you wear a pedometer?

Miss Malaprop—Oh, no, indeed—just a short skirt.

Judge: First Picket—What's this strike about, anyway—more pay, less work? What's it for?

Second Picket—Nah! The boss didn't take his hat off or take his cig outen his mouth when de walkin' delegate went in ter see him.

Did He Save His Hair?

Washington Post: We are still without information as to what happened to the Omaha sheriff who served the papers on the woman who was enjoined from gossiping about her neighbors.

Unrest of the Jokesmith.

Boston Transcript: It is just a bit ominous that so little has been heard from the meetings of the Amalgamated Order of Jokesmiths and Paragraphers which has been holding its annual convention in Baltimore. One may only pray that no serious labor trouble is brewing in that direction, for a strike of the funny men would be tragic at this juncture. In the midst of strikes of laundrymen the nation cannot afford to be left without some saving scents of humor.

Era of Direct Legislation.

Atlanta Constitution: In California, Colorado, Missouri and other western states, direct legislation is on the eve of becoming the supreme fundamental law. The reason for this is obvious. Public sentiment is incensed and outraged by the corruption and misrepresentation of machine politics and the "boss" idea of governmental control. The pathfinders in this species of intended political reform have assumed a responsibility, the success of which may mean momentous changes in the whole fabric of American political economy.

Hayes Didn't See Joke.

Kansas City Journal: Mr. Hayes was the greatest handshaker of all the presidents. He always took the initiative. He had the art of making the particular man with whom he was shaking hands feel that he was the one individual the president had come to visit. In 1879 he visited Kansas and was received everywhere with great acclaim. At Hutchinson a large crowd had gathered to greet him. In Hutchinson at the time was one Bill Graham, a cattle man much given to the use of intoxicating liquor. Bill joined the crowd without knowing what it was all about. He fell in line and gradually approached the president, who was standing on the lower step of his car and shaking hands with all who came. As Bill came near, the president reached over grasped him by the hand, shook it vigorously, and said: "My friend, I am delighted to see you."

"Thash all right, pard," said Bill, "but b'gosh yer got the advantage of me!"

Hayes turned away much offended. He probably was never able to see the slightest humor in the situation. But how such a thing would delight Roosevelt! If Roosevelt should have an encounter of this kind he would tell about it from one end of the country to the other and laugh every time until he had to wipe his glasses.

Marie shook her head a little sadly. "Of course I care a great deal for you," she said, "but not in the way you ask." She knew she was saying something very stereotyped, but she did not know how else to express herself.

"Then I supposo there is nothing more to be said," answered James Willis, with the comfortable indecision characteristic of the rejected suitor.

"There is much more to be said," asserted Marie, vehemently. "I don't want you to think that I have been—been leading you on, because I have shown such a thorough appreciation of your society for two years. It has been very pleasant, and I don't want this—this to make any difference. We are not going to be foolish, as some people might; we are going to be the same good chums, are we not?"

"Yes," he answered, listlessly, "we won't let this interfere." But he knew very well that this would thereafter decidedly interfere with the spirit of good comradeship which had made them enjoy the hours they had spent together.

"I have so much for which to thank you," she stumbled on, not knowing how this expression of gratitude hurt him until she looked up into his eyes.

"O, I don't know just what I wish to say," she cried helplessly; "but you have been to me what no one else could have been—you have taught me how to live and to enjoy myself without parting with my principles. You know what I mean. When my father died and I came to live with my uncle, I knew nothing but the knowledge to be found in books. I looked aghast at the world in which I found myself. I thought everything saxoring of the world was wicked; I thought it a sin to dress too prettily—in fact, I was a silly little prude. You made me to know that some things that glitter are gold.

"I understand what you mean," he said very gently; "but if I have helped you any I must disclaim the credit of having done so from purely unselfish motives. You do not know how an unspoiled, noble girl such as you are appeals to a man who has seen much of the shallow mockery of life. It was not altogether your fresh young beauty which first attracted me; and if I have been the means of your forming a taste for innocent frivolity, I am your debtor, for you have taught me one thing at least."

"And that is—?" she inquired, wonderingly.

"That there are women who will not sacrifice everything for the sake of that which glitters and is not gold," he answered.

"You have been disappointed in someone," she said, lowering her voice.

"Yes," he acknowledged, with a little laugh. "I loved madly, desperately, and the girl loved me; but she married a fellow who had more money than I. That's the story in a nut shell. Needless to add that I ceased to care for her after she threw me over. But somehow my faith in all women was shattered until I met and loved you."

"I don't believe the heart ever truly loves but once," she said with conviction. "If you really loved her you don't love me—not with all the strength of your nature."

"What do you know of love, child?" he demanded.

"I loved once," she confessed, a warm flush glowing in her fair face.

"Then, according to your theory, you love him yet," he said a trifle bitterly.

"Yes," she answered simply: "I have not heard from him directly for more than two years. He was away when my father died, and uncle took me home with him immediately. He—he worked as assistant bookkeeper to my father. I was very young and he was very poor; we knew we had to wait; we were not formally engaged, but we loved and understood each other."

"And during all this time he has made no effort to see you or to correspond with you?" asked Willis, a strange expression flitting across his face.

"He is too proud to seek me now," she answered, valiantly. "My uncle is rich, and he is poor. But my heart tells me he is waiting for me and he will seek me when he has something more than his love to offer."

"I hope he will," said Willis, a little brokenly. "I hope he will be everything you expect. But don't make the mistake of cherishing a romantic idea which may be no more tangible than the will-o'-the-wisp. To my mind his long silence suggests the thought that he has given you up, realizing that your paths now lie so far apart."

"Mr. Willis!" she exclaimed, indignantly, "I am surprised to hear such an expression from you; under the circumstances I should——"

"I have only your happiness at heart," he interrupted, "and I only wish that Heaven had decreed that I should be the one to inspire such marvelous faith in man's love and fidelity."

"I ask you pardon for doubting you," she said with downcast eyes.

"Granted," he returned quickly, and he rose to go. "I may be out of town for a week or two, but I'll see you at Mrs. Scott's, won't I? While I am not to be one of the house party I'll be there the night of the ball."

"I shall be there," she answered, and they parted.

It was seven o'clock, and Marie Allen was the only one of all the guests at Scott's Towers who was dressed for dinner. She stood on the broad piazza and looked anxiously down the long carriage drive, for the afternoon train would bring James Willis to Scottville. Finally her impatience mastered her, and throwing a scarf about her bare shoulders, she walked down the driveway. She She reached the gate just as it was opened to admit the expected guest.

He greeted her pleasantly, though with some degree of formality. "I walked up from the station," he explained. "A June evening in the country is irresistible—but I hope I'll not keep dinner waiting."

"Dinner is at eight," she said. "I dressed early, and—and came to meet you." She brought the words out with a jerk, and looked at him appealingly.

Without a word he led her to a rustic bench near by and seated himself beside her.

"You wished to see me alone, then?" he asked.

"Yes," she said with a little gasp. "I knew it would be next to impossible to talk with you unless I met you here, and I could not wait to tell you."

"To tell me what?" he asked, trying in vain to conceal his eagerness.

"I have seen him," she answered with a little laugh, "and you are right and I am wrong."

He pressed her hand encouragingly.

"I came on the morning train," she continued, "and it stopped at a little town for several minutes—and I saw him. His store is near the railroad crossing; he sells plows and things. He looked the same, and yet different. He was talking to a country girl as pretty as a wild rose—"

Willis began to laugh in spite of himself.

"You know all without my telling you," she said, joining in the laugh. "I don't suppose he has given me a thought since I passed out of his life. He looked contented and prosperous, and he had eyes for no one but his pretty companion. I had dreamed of him toiling and striving for my sake, when doubtless, as you suggested, he ceased to care for me long ago. It is inevitable that the change in our circumstances should have left its mark on both, but believe me, that is not the only reason I could not love him now. It is true that a look into the hazy distance often discloses a beautiful picture which a closer view would dissipate; and I have had the closer view. But—but that is not the reason I do not love him now."

"And the heart never truly loves but once," said Willis, hopelessly.

"Ah! but it does," she said softly, "and he has long been supplanted, only I did not know it until today."

And then, in spite of all the windows of Scott's Towers staring through the twilight—he kissed her.

Influence of Foresis.

Youth's Companion: When a balloon passes over a forest it descends and ballast must be thrown out to keep it up. This is explained by Professor Mouillefert of the French National Agricultural college of Grignon as being due to the existence above every forest of a prism of cool, moist air, produced by the abundant transpiration of the trees and extending to a height of from 2000 to 5000 feet above the tree tops. Professor Mouillefert also says that while forests drain the soil underneath them they keep the upper layer to a depth of four or five inches moist.

Remarkable Immigration Records.

Springfield Republican: Remarkable records are being established in immigration. One ship brought 2726 immigrants to the port of New York Thursday, the biggest load of the kind ever carried by a single vessel. Some 5000 immigrants were waiting off Ellis island to land one day last week. The April immigrants at all ports of the United States numbered 128,286, the largest number ever recorded of a single month. For the ten months of the fiscal year arrivals numbered 620,711, and the May and June influx promises to carry the figure above that of 788,992, which was reached in the fiscal year 1882, and for twenty years had stood as the high record of immigration.

Popularizing the Injunction.

Atlanta Constitution: An Omaha judge has just taken a step designed to greatly popularize a practice at one time pretty generally condemned—the interference of the courts by injunction—in the private affairs of the people. The name of the eminent jurist who has thus demonstrated his right to that tablet in the Hall of Fame so much desired by all of us is Baxter. All honor be to him. For, in open defiance of all that has since the days of Mr. Adam been most dreaded, this new Solomon has dared issue an injunction restraining a woman from talking! It only remains for some equally wise and brave judge to place a permanent restraining order upon the operations of death and taxes to entirely vindicate the injunction in the eyes of all mankind.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Alimony drives many a man to happiness.

Most women love praise because they hate to see truth go astray.

Contentment is often a big asset in the fortunes of a new widow.

It's not half as bad to be a father as to be a father twice on the same day.

When you take the skin off advertised virtue a deodorizer is not a bad thing to have with you.

The Source of Supply.

New York Times: At last the doctor consented to smile; the nurse was already laughing; the shadow had lifted from the sick room, and everything was well; and after profusely bathing her eyes Aunt Jennie came down to the breakfast table, where her two small nieces were seated, wondering what had turned the house so topsy-turvy that morning.

"Guess what I know, girlies!" she said, gayly. "There is a little baby brother upstairs. He came this morning when you were asleep. What do you think of that?"

"Did he?" exclaimed the sharp-eyed Edith. "Then I know who brought him."

"You do?"

"Yes; it was the milkman. It said so on his cart yesterday."

"Said what?" said Aunt Jennie in astonishment.

"Why, 'Families supplied daily!'" was the quick reply.

Plain Enough.

Atlanta Constitution: "It's a-goin' to cost me a power o' money to graduate John this year," said the old man.

"Reckon so?"

"I know it! Here's the program he sent me:

" 'Dress suit, $50.
" 'Two new hats, $16.
" 'Three pair o' shoes, $18.
" 'Cigars, $50.
" 'Wine supper, $100.'

"He don't write that in Greek, does he?"

"No, by thunder! It's in plain Georgia, with 'God bless our home,' an' 'How's all the family?' at the end!"

THE OPERA SEASON

Northwestern Company Has First Singing Rehearsal at Lyceum.

Manager Wall Believes That the Elements of Success Are Here.

The first singing rehearsal of the Northwestern Opera company was held on the stage of the Lyceum theater last night. Twenty of the thirty-six, who will form the company, were present and the score of "The Black Hussar," the opening opera of the repertoire, gone through.

Nearly all the principals have arrived and those who are detained as yet, by present engagements, will come along within the next few days. The whole company will be on hand by the middle of next week, and all but one or two by Sunday.

Manager Al. Walle, of the company, is closing the detail work of organization, and the company will be in working shape within the next three days. Manager Charles Marshall, of the Lyceum, who has been in New York, engaged in business regarding the next theatrical season for the Duluth house, will return tomorrow or next day, and the public will then be let into a lot of secrets about the building of an opera company in ten days' time, of material from all four corners of the United States.

The rehearsal last evening was an extremely informal affair and the members of the company got acquainted with each other as well as the music, which will be rendered at the first performance.

From comparison with the general run of opera companies, which have visited Duluth this winter, and there have been some bang-up good organizations, it can be seen that the Northwestern company will be made up of singers of a great deal of prominence in the country at large and the operatic world in particular.

"Of course, the people of Duluth cannot be expected to judge of the merits of our company in a 'critical way,'" said Mr. Walle last night," until they have seen the singers together and under full swing. We are so absolutely sure of what they can do, however, that we look forward to the public's verdict with warm anticipation, and are sure that the music-loving people of Duluth will be taken by a storm of pleasureable surprise, for we know what the company is."

Speaking of the prospects for the season, Mr. Walle said:

"It rests with the Northwestern Opera company to determine whether or not its venture in Duluth will be a success. There certainly are music-lovers enough in this town to make an extended season of opera at popular prices a success if the public is convinced it is getting its money's worth. If the operas are judiciously selected, if they are adequately sung and acted, if the chorus is large enough and well drilled enough, and if the proper attention is paid to scenery, costuming and general effect, there is no reason why the public will not lend sufficient encouragement.

"There is no doubt of the Lyceum being the place for such a venture. The big field of stage and the rearrangement of seating facilities and other improvements made will make this theater one of the most desirable in this country for such productions as the Northwestern Opera company will attempt.

"Viewed from one point, the selection of 'The Black Hussar' is very darling, for comparisons will be inevitable. On the other hand, the management declares it courts these very comparisons, being confident that the Northwestern company's production will not suffer thereby. Besides the story and music of the opera are so well known and so generally linked that it is a popular selection. At any rate, it is one that will enable the musical public to pretty accurately gauge the abilities of the company's singers.

"The principals are by no means unknown; they come here with well-established reputations as artists of high abilities. The chorus is a very strong one, recruited from the best singing organizations in the country, and further strengthened from the ranks of local singers."

FUN AMONG LAKESIDERS

Old Fashioned Candy Pull Arranged By the Presbyterian Church.

There will be fun in store for the Lakesiders tomorrow evening. A real, old-fashioned candy pull, or, as its promoters have uniquely termed it, "Time, tide and maple sugar wait for no man," will be given by the Lakeside Presbyterian church at the town hall. Rev. H. B. Sutherland is chief sap-boiler and sugar maker extraordinary, while J. Cook Howard is peace officer. The committee list is a "crackerjack," consisting of 150 names, not a woman among the lot, and comprises the following occupations: Paddle makers, scene shifters, sugar testers, town criers, errand boys, waiters, nightingales, trained nurses, tappers, biscuit builders, pickelers, sap boilers, dish washers, fuel foragers, wasp workers, sap carriers, stokers, physicians-in-charge. The errand boys, eight in number, certainly ought to be experienced in the business, their average age being a trifle over 60 years.

The object is for the purpose of bringing the members and friends of the church together in a social capacity and to give them a real good time. Mr. Sutherland has been a little over a year in the pastorate, in which he has been very successful, and this entertainment is given with the view of creating more interest in church work. That there will be a rousing crowd there can be no doubt, as an invitation has been extended to every householder in Lakeside.

It's the dispenser of cheerfulness, the distributor of sunshine. One sees bright rainbows across the clouds of despair after taking Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. S. F. BOYCE.

MOVEMENT IN IRON

Steel Corporation Buys a Lot of Bessemer Pig.

A Good Tonnage Coming Up In Structural Material.

New York, May 28.—In its review of the iron and steel market, the Iron Age today says: The purchases of Bessemer pig by the United States Steel corporation recently made, appear to have been about 50,000 tons for delivery during the third quarter at $18.50 at furnace, equivalent to $19.35 Pittsburg, and about 10,000 to 15,000 tons for May and June delivery at $19 at furnace. This is understood to be on the basis of $3 per ton for coke at ovens. It is believed that this does not cover the requirements of the corporation and that the additional tonnage for the quarter may rise to 40,000 tons. The corporation is believed to be self contained as to basic pig.

In the Eastern markets, the only large transaction in steel making pig has been the sale of a lot of 10,000 tons of basic pig to a plate mill by three furnace interests in the Schuylkill and Lehigh valleys. So far as foundry iron is concerned, buyers and sellers are apparently far apart. In Chicago the absence of further sales by consumers has created a better feeling. But outside interests are still showing some anxiety, and $15 for No. 2 foundry at Birmingham is being done.

The influence of foreign iron may well be dismissed from a serious consideration of the situation. In the steel market values continue steady. One lot of about 6000 tons of German steel purchased last summer by an Eastern plant, which has not yet started, has been resold, the material going to Pittsburg.

There has been some talk among the steel makers of an early meeting to discuss the question of prices for 1904 delivery. It is stated that some of the railroads are getting ready to place orders running into next year.

A very good tonnage is still coming up in structural material in spite of the labor troubles. Interesting negotiations are underway by which large agricultural implement makers expect to arrange for the importation of the special steel shapes to be used by them in the manufacture of implements for export under the drawback system.

SOUTH DAKOTA CROPS.

Last Week Brought Rather Heavy Rains.

The South Dakota crop report for the week ending Monday is as follows:

The temperature during the week averaged somewhat above the normal. There were frequent rains the latter part of the week. The amount of rainfall was excessive in some extreme southeastern counties, but elsewhere generous to moderate, leaving the soil generally amply moist, and some lowlands in the extreme southeastern counties too wet and damage to crops thereon apprehended.

The rain was especially beneficial in the middle and Upper Missouri and James River valleys, where at the close of the preceding week need of moisture was becoming apparent.

On the whole, wheat, oats, barley, rye, speltz and grasses made vigorous and very satisfactory growth. Early wheat, oats and barley are stooling very well, fall sown rye is beginning to head and late sown grain is doing nicely. Seeding, except of flax and millet, is finished.

Corn planting was interrupted by the rains, but on the whole it is far advanced. The most material interruption was on lowlands in the extreme southeastern counties, which are very wet, and some under water, due to excessive rains. Early corn is coming up generally, and on the whole indicates good stand.

Flax and millet seeding made favorable progress the fore part of the week. Some early sown is up and looking well.

Potato planting is nearing completion and the early planted are up and generally making good growth.

Pasturage is much improved, and the condition of range live stock is steadily improving. The condition of alfalfa is very good generally.

There was some local hail and also some high wind, but no injury of any consequence to crops therefrom is reported.

On the whole, the outlook for tree fruits is better than was expected after the cold weather of the latter part of April.

THE EAGLE WILL SCREAM.

Big Celebration of the Fourth at Fosston.

Fosston, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fosston will observe the Fourth of July with a monster celebration that bids fair to excel any in the previous history of the town. A large sum of money has been raised, and at a well attended mass meeting the various committees were appointed and other preliminary work for the celebration mapped out. It is the intention of the committee having the matter in charge to secure Congressman Halvor Steenerson to deliver the oration. There will be a long program of sports, for which liberal prizes will be hung up, and there will be a game of baseball between the Fosston team and a team from an outside town yet to be selected for a large purse. It is also very probable that a balloon ascension will be one of the features of the day, if a balloonist can be secured. It is also expected that a large number of the White Earth Indians will participate in the celebration.

The commencement exercises of the Fosston high school will be held at the opera house this evening, when a graduating class of four will be given their diplomas, and a very interesting program will be rendered. The address of the evening will be delivered by United States Senator Clapp. This is the first graduating class in the history of the Fosston school, and is composed of the following: Aleda Hersehberger, Martha Tyndall, Lizzie Nesdal and Martin B. Ruud. Next year there will be a class of seven members.

GLAD HE IS NOT WEALTHY

Home Life and Comfort Better Than Riches, Says Long.

Rockland, Mass., May 28.—"I am glad I am not a rich man. I would not exchange my freedom, home life and content of heart for the wealth of a Morgan or a Carnegie," said John D. Long, former secretary of the navy, at the Rockland Commercial banquet, at which he was the guest of honor.

In speaking of Socialism, Mr. Long said there has been respect for the rights of property in the past and there always would be. If the reward is taken away there will be no incentive to work.

"Our mothers and grandmothers worked like slaves," he continued, "but the life of the people of today is rendered much easier by the accumulation of wealth. We live better and have more advantages than they had.

"We are living in an age of socialism, as I understand socialism. I fear no theories, no fanatics and no millionaires, but I do believe in and trust in the judgment of good every day, people of this country to work out these problems. The advances that are being made will work for the benefit of mankind."

NOTICE TO CAMPERS

On Star Island Given By Maj. Scott.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Major G. L. Scott, acting Indian agent, has issued the following notice:

"Parties desiring to camp upon Star Island will be required to obtain a pass from the local sub-agent in charge at Cass Lake. No green timber of any kind will be cut. Firewood must be taken from the dead and down unmerchantable timber on the island. All fires must be completely extinguished by those building them and care must be taken at all times to prevent forest fires. The laws governing the introduction of intoxicating liquor upon Indian lands will be strictly complied with."

This island was reserved by the Morris' bill and is one of the most beautiful stops and camping grounds in the Northwest and from its shores fishing is excellent, the Mississippi running at one side.

The Chippewa Indians are greatly pleased at the abundance of the bloom on the blueberry bushes which, if not frozen within the next few days, will give them an abundant blueberry crop. Last season they shipped from this district over 29,000 crates and one local crate maker has contracted for three car loads of material to make crates. The fields are covered with the beautiful white flowers of the blueberry and the strawberry.

BARRED FROM THE CHURCH

Excommunication of Minneapolis Preacher Sustained By Assembly.

Los Angeles, May 28.—A case of intense interest to the church came up yesterday morning before the Presbyterian general assembly. It was the appeal of Rev. Richter, of Minneapolis, from the action of his presbytery and the synod of Minnesota from deposing him from the ministry and excommunicating him from the church. The charge against Mr. Richter, was that he as a Presbyterian minister, had occupied a post as agent for the dissemination of literature for the brewery trust.

It was also charged that after citation of his presbytery he appealed by circulars to the saloons and breweries to contribute a fund to enable him to prosecute his case before the general assembly. The case was tried by a judicial committee appointed by the assembly and which was headed by Rev. Dr. Samuel McCormick as chairman. This committee reported to the assembly this morning, sustained the action of the Minnesota synod. It was adopted by the assembly and Rev. Richter by that means was barred from the church.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—In speaking of the decision of the general assembly in session at Los Angeles, Cal., in excommunicating Rev. Louis Richter, of this city, Rev. Richter said in an interview:

"I was not surprised at the decision of the assembly in excommunicating me. The decision cannot harm me. I am 73 years of age, too old to fill a pulpit, and they can deprive me of nothing. I still maintain that I am a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ and regard myself in every way vested with power to perform any ordinary functions as minister such as I might be called upon to administer. The church law is not the highest law. There still remains the civil law, and I am advised that I cannot be divested of my profession, even by the general assembly, except in so far as it is in keeping with the civil law of the land. I have not yet done with the matter and shall still be heard from in the future, the Lord willing."

MANY MEN WILL BE WANTED.

Topeka, Kan., May 26.—State Employment Agent Begrow says Kansas will need at least 25,000 men and 4000 teams for the wheat harvest. His estimates are made from reports received from every township in the state. There are no idle men in Kansas, so it will be necessary to import harvest hands from the neighboring states. There is a great scarcity of horses and mules in the state. This is caused because of the fact that during the Boer war thousands of Kansas animals were purchased by the British and taken to Africa.

GOVERNOR GOES SOUTH.

St. Paul, May 28.—Gov. Van Sant left last night for Chattanooga, Tenn., where on memorial day he delivers an address at the National cemetery where 14,000 soldiers are bured. On the Sunday 14,000 soldiers are buried. On the Sunday the First Methodist church in Chattanooga by special request. He will then go to Kentucky to be the guest of the mayor of Lexington for a few days and will visit several southern battlefields.

CHICAGOANS ARE SAVING.

Chicago, May 28.—Savings deposits in Chicago banks have passed the $100,000,000 mark. In the past year they have increased upward of $22,000,000 or more than 25 per cent. The savings held by Chicago banks in 1890 footed up only $12,353,088. In 1897 they had only doubled the amount held seven years earlier, while in the last six years the amount has been more than quadrupled. The increase in savings in the last twelve months has been the most remarkable in the history of Chicago savings institutions with the exception of that in the calendar year of 1902. And even during the last month, while several strikes have interfered seriously with the earnings of thousands of wage-workers, the increase has gone on steadily.

THE STATE'S CASE

Against Merger to Be Argued In June.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—The case of the state of Minnesota against the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Northern Securities companies, another of the so-called merger cases, will be argued June 1 or 2, the exact date to be announced later. Argument will be before Judge Loehren in the United States circuit court. An attempt was made to take the case at once to the United States circuit court of appeals, as was done in the government suit against the same defendants, but agreement could not be reached on this point. It is hoped, however, that the state's case may get to the United States supreme court at about the same time that the appeal in the government suit is taken up—probably in October or November.

AFRICANDER WINS RACE.

New York, May 28.—Africander, running in the colors of the Hampton stable, won the Belmont stakes at Morris Park yesterday. He was heavily played, opening at even money, and was steadily pounded down until 3 to 5 was the best price obtained against him at post time.

Whirler, from the Westbury stable, was second, and also second choice in the betting. Red Knight, an added starter, finished third. Africander's time, 2:13¾, was very good, being within three-quarters of a second of the record made by Commando in 1901.

BABY HUMOURS

Eczema, Milk Crust, Scalled Head, Tetter, Rashes, Itchings and Chafings Instantly Relieved and SPEEDILY CURED BY CUTICURA.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies and rest for tired, fretted mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and purest of emollients, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scalp humours, eczemas, rashes and irritations with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies and physicians fail. Parents, think of the future of such afflicted children and act now. Cures made in childhood are speedy and permanent.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures of the civilized world.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the civilized world. PRICES: Cuticura Resolvent, 50c. per bottle (in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60); Cuticura Ointment, 50c. per box, and Cuticura Soap, 25c. per cake. GREAT SUIT STARTED Involving Property Valued at Over Four Million Dollars.

Action Taken on Behalf of Heirs of Harmony Society.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 28.—Attorney G. C. Buell, of New York, representing the collateral heirs of John Rapp, founder of the famous Harmony society at Economy, Beaver county, Pa., is preparing papers for a suit to recover property valued at over $4,000,000 which has been disposed of by John S. Duss, the sole trustee of the society. Mr. Duss is the famous composer and leader of the Duss band.

The suit will become notable because the American Bridge company is now building a big plant, and the town of Ambridge is on part of the property, and the Carnegie Steel company is building a plant and city on another large tract.

The Harmonites, 200 in number, came from Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1804, under the leadership of George Rapp and founded the Harmony society in Buller county, Pa.

They believed in the second coming of Christ and the beginning of the Millenium, and later celibacy became one of the society's tenets. The lands were held in common and one family.

In 1815 the society moved to Posey county, Indiana, but returned to Pennsylvania in ten years and founded the town of Economy in the heart of 3000 acres of land in Allegheny and Beaver counties. The land is fertile and the society prospered. George Rapp held title to all the property, and before his death dedicated it in trust to the Harmony society.

A serious defection occurred in the society in 1831 when "Count" Maximilian de Leon, claiming to be the "Divine Messenger," obtained admission to the society and sought to obtain control of the same. Failing in this, he undertook to disrupt the organization. The trouble was finally settled and de Leon withdrew with a few followers and settled elsewhere.

From 1847 to 1892 Father Jacob Henrici managed the affairs of the society. John S. Duss succeeded in becoming a member of the society, and when Henrici became senior trustee. He organized the Union company and disposed of the property of the society. In an interview relative to the suit he will file Mr. Buell said:

"The plaintiffs in the case are G. L. Rapp, of Keyport, N. J.; Mrs. Ada Everitt, of Jersey City, N. J.; Mrs. Louisa R. Tyron, Mrs. Eliza B. Mumm, of Bayonne, N. J.; Mrs. Jessie Wright, Mrs. Christie Rodgers, of New York city, and Mrs. Carrie Hudson, of Chicago. The bill is left open for other heirs to join in the proceedings. The defendants will include the Harmony society, John S. Duss, his wife, Christine Schoeneman, aged 82 years; Barbara Rosch, aged 86 years; Franz Gillman, aged 82 years (only surviving members of the society), the Union company and Liberty Land company, the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust company, the American Bridge company and all other parties who have in any way had any recent business transactions with the Harmony society in attempted dispositions of its properties in Beaver county, Pa., deeds of which have recently been filed at Beaver.

"The complainants will ask the court to declare all such deeds void. It will also be contended that no conveyance can be made of these trust properties that will pass title except upon a dissolution of the society and direct orders of sale by the court. The courts will be asked to declare the trust at an end and for a distribution of the property to the complainants.

"Outside of Duss and his wife there are only three surviving members of the society, all of whom are over 80 years of age, and for whom, on distribution of the property, the courts will be asked to make suitable provisions for the remainder of their lives.

"The bill will allege conspiracy on the part of the defendants, it being alleged that all of the recent acts and doings of the parties of the Harmony society have been for the direct purpose of securing control of the same for private gain. The bill will even go so far as to allege that certain suits instituted within the last few years were instituted by Duss (and his associates), for the purpose of creating a color of right to alienate the property and secure the considerations for themselves, and that the recent alleged sales of the property are sequences to collusive litigations.

"Since the recent deeding of the property by Duss and the Union company for an alleged consideration of $2,500,000 the Rapp heirs are claiming that that is the last straw that will break the camel's back, and will call upon all parties to those transactions for an accounting. They have private advices to the effect that should this attempted sale hold good Duss is to receive $1,500,000 as a bonus for effecting the unlawful alienation of the property.

"The complainants will also show that the Union company and the Liberty Land company are merely catspaws, and are being used as means of manipulating this property in the unlawful manner designated for private gain. Prayers for injunctions and restraining orders for further transfers pending this suit will be inserted in the bill and applied for to the court, and the court will be asked to compel an accounting from all of the parties defendant, to the bill.

"The complainants will advise the court that there are other property interests belonging to the Harmony society in other counties in Pennsylvania and in other states, and corporate stock and other interests which the complainants will ask the court to assume jurisdiction over and take possession of, by receiver or otherwise, and carry into the general distribution of assets of the society upon its dissolution by the court.

"The property immediately involved in the recent transfers by Duss and the Union company comprises all of Harmony Township, Beaver county, Penn., containing about 3000 acres, including 150 acres conveyed to the American Bridge company, on a part of which the latter company is erecting its mammoth bridge works, and on the remaining portion they have laid out a town called "Ambridge," lots in which are now being advertised and offered for sale.

"The tract conveyed by a pretended deed to the Liberty Land company of 2500 acres for the alleged price of $2,500,000 has by pretense been bonded to the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust company, of Pittsburg, for $4,000,000, and it is contended that this land will soon be open for sale and extended developments in the establishment of a great city and under the direction of the Carnegie Steel company. The bill will allege that the pretended considerations for the property are ridiculously low and show prima facie evidence of alleged fraud."

TUMULT OF CHEERS

Greet Cleveland as He Enters Carnegie Hall.

New York, May 28.—There was a great and representative gathering at Carnegie hall last night, called to protest against the massacre of Hebrews at Kishineff. The announcement that Former President Grover Cleveland would speak lent additional interest to the gathering. While Mayor Low was delivering the opening address, expressive of the hope that Russia would give more liberty to her Jewish subjects, Mr. Cleveland entered and was greeted with a tumult of cheers.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Book containing valuable information free.

FOSTER IS CHOSEN

President of the Arbitration Congress Held at Mohonk.

Dr. Trueblood Reviews the Year's Progress In Arbitration.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 28.—The attendance at the arbitration congress is nearly 30 members, the largest in the history of Mohonk meetings. The following officers were elected: President, John W. Foster; secretaries, Clinton Rogers Woodruff and H. C. Phillips; treasurer, Alexander C. Wood; chairman of business committee, John Crosby Brown; chairman of finance committee, John B. Garrott; chairman of publication committee, Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood.

Dr. Trueblood gave a review of the year's progress in arbitration, saying in part:

The past years has not been one of surprises in arbitration events, but it has been one of steady and most encouraging progress. When we met here at Mohonk a year ago, the agreement of the United States and Mexico to refer the pious fund controversy to the Hague court had just been announced. A few weeks later a tribunal consisting of five of the ablest living international jurists was chosen from the court, and the case was quickly and inexpensively determined.

The ink was scarcely dry by which this decision was written when an agreement was reached between Japan on the one hand, and Great Britain, France and Germany on the other, to carry the so-called Japanese house tax case to the court. This case, in which is involved the question of the right under international law to tax improvements on land held by foreigners under perpetual lease, and bringing as it does four of the great powers of the world before the tribunal, will make it of even greater weight in giving prestige to the court than the pious fund case. This house tax case is now actually before a tribunal of three of The Hague judges.

In additon to these cases a protocol for the reference of the question of preferential treatment, growing out of the recent Venezuelan trouble, has just been signed. The principle involved in this case, like that in the Japanese house tax case, is sure to be of far-reaching importance in the future relations of the nations. The practically universal demand throughout the civilized world for the reference of the whole Venezuela difficulty to The Hague court, and the vigorous support of this demand by the government of the United States, makes the victory gained by arbitration in connection with it one of the most signal ever won in the field of diplomacy. The result is almost certain to be the greater willingness of the powers in general to submit their differences to The Hague court.

Within a few weeks it has been announced from Paris that the French government and that of Guatemala have reached an agreement to refer to The Hague the question of the claims of a French engineer against Guatemala.

The reference of these four cases during the year and within two years from the opening of the court for business, is proof enough that this great international institution is not to die of neglect, as some have feared, but is sure to come with comparative rapidity into general use.

While it is not to be expected that the nations would immediately submit to The Hague all controversies arising between them after the court's inauguration, or at any rate only those ill-informed and lacking in historic sense supposed that such would be the case. Within the past year the following controversies have been referred to special arbitrators or arbitratal commissions, namely:

The controversy between Italy and Guatemala as to the treatment of Italian emigrants.

The question of claims of citzens of France against Venezuela.

The boundary dispute between Bolicia and Peru.

The controversy between the United States and San Domingo over claims of the San Domingo improvement company.

The question between Great Britain and Portugal of any difficulties that may arise in locating their colonial boundaries in South Africa.

The question of the claims of Sala & Commany, of New York, against the republic of San Domingo.

The Alaskan boundary dispute between the United States and Great Britain, which has been referred to a new mixed commission.

The year has been most fruitful in the decision of cases referred to arbitration before The Hague court was set up. The most important of these cases are:

The long pending boundary disputes between Chili and the Argentine republic, involving an area of 80,000 square miles.

The controversy between the United States and Russia over the seizure of American sealing vessels in Bering sea.

The Samoan claims question between the United States, Great Britain and Germany and citizens of those countries.

Two controversies between Great Britain and France—the "Waima" affair and the "Sergent Halamine" dispute.

The El Triunfo case between the United States and Salvator, out of the decision of which has grown great dissatisfaction on the part of the latter company.

It is not possible to give any very definite information as to the progress made in the ratification of the arbitration conventions drawn at the international American conference held something over a year ago at Mexico City. Very little seems to have been done in this direction, due in large measure to the disturbed conditions in parts of South America and in part also to the fact that time is always required for the completion of such conventions when a large group of nations is involved. The delay must not, however, be interpreted to mean that the protocols, at least the most important ones—that of adhesion to The Hague conventions—will not ultimately be ratified. We may reasonably expect that in the near future the ratification of these conventions will be carried out by the governments whose representatives signed them at Mexico City.

Turning to the general arbitration movement, a good deal of valuable work has been done within the last twelve months. All the arbitration and peace societies have kept prominently before their constituency and the general public, so far as possible, the great importance of bringing The Hague court into general use, as nearly as practicable for all cases of international disagreement, and of inducing the various governments to enter into special treaties by which they shall obligate themselves to refer their differences to The Hague. The national groups of the Interparliamentary Peace union in Europe have also been active, and effort in the same direction has been put forth by any other organizations and by prominent individuals in this and other countries.

A strong movement has also been going on in France and England among commercial bodies in the large cities in favor of an Anglo-French arbitration treaty. This movement, valuable as it is, is not receiving the support of many leading friends of arbitration, as its principal movers are also pleading for a special Anglo-French tribunal, with only Englishmen and Frenchmen as judges. This sort of tribunal is earnestly opposed by many in both countries as needless and a great weakening of the value and prestige of The Hague tribunal.

A recent movement has also taken place in the French chamber of deputies. A number of the leading members of the chamber, under the initiative of Mr. d'Estournellez de Constant, who represented France at The Hague conference and is now a member of The Hague court, have formed themselves into an association to be called the International Arbitration group. The remarkable strength of arbitration in the French parliament is shown by the fact that nearly 200 members have connected themselves with this association. The sole purpose of the group is to promote international arbitration.

Interesting as all these events are in themselves, their force and significance cannot properly be understood without keeping in mind the long series of influences in the past which have led up to them and made them possible. One must recall the famous rescript of the czar of Russia, the great popular crusade in Western Europe and America which followed it, the work of bar associations and special conferences, magnificent services of the hundred men who gathered at The Hague and labored for ten weeks with great intelligence, practical wisdom and harmony in drafting the convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes, the action of the government in ratifying this convention and their wisdom in selecting capable men to represent them in the court. One must recall also the long list of arbitrations during the past century, some 200 in number, in which nearly every conceivable kind of dispute was successfully adjusted by special arbitration.

CURES CHRONIC CATARRH.

Hyomei Cures Worst Forms of This Disease In Any Part of the System.

It is the height of folly to continue doctoring a catarrhal disease by stomach drugging, when the whole troubles in the respiratory organs where nothing can reach the germs but a local direct treatment by inhalation. Hyomei is Nature's remedy for the cure of catarrh. Just breathe it a few times daily and it will effect a cure.

You may have catarrh of the stomach, liver or kidneys, and Hyomei will as surely cure it as it will catarrh of the head and throat. The catarrhal germs are in the mucous membrane or tissues, and Hyomei not only kills the germs along the air passages, but enters the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood.

The medicated dry air that goes through the air passages and into the lungs when Hyomei is breathed through the inhaler that accompanies every outfit, is rich in ozone, purely vegetable and filled with marvelous healing and strength-giving qualities.

If you are tired of stomach drugging and seem to grow weaker all the time, "throw physic to the dogs" and get well with the health-giving Hyomei treatment that is Nature's own method.

Rev. J. B. Cook, of Holliston, Mass., says: "My wife has suffered greatly from catarrh for fifteen years. Nearly four weeks ago she commenced to use Hyomei, and the beneficial effect was immediate. It is very seldom that she needs to clear her head and throat, and she is able to rest quietly at night. For years past she had been troubled with pain in her limbs, which we supposed was rheumatism, but since she has used Hyomei that affliction has disappeared."

S. F. Boyce will return your money if Hyomei does not cure you of catarrh. This shows his faith in the remedy.

WHITE FLAG

A Suitable Emblem For Labor, Says Cleveland.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 28.—H. C. Collins, chairman of the local labor day celebration, who wrote to ex-President Grover Cleveland for some suggestions which might be made a feature of the day, has received the following reply:

Princeton, N. J., May 23.—I have received your letter asking me to make some suggestion concerning a desirable display for your celebration of Labor day. I am much interested in fair and peaceful relations between employed and employer, and desire above all things that there should be an end to the unfotunate quarrels and misunderstandings which have so often occurred between these elements of our social system.

"I hesitate to make any suggestion in the line of which you present to me, but I should be very guad to know that your parade carried some banner indicative of the laboringman's desire to preserve peaceful relations with those who employ labor. I wish it might enter your minds, if consistent with your situation, to carry in your parade some insignia which means peace, something like a white flag of truce. Yours very truly, Grover Cleveland."

Diseases Cured!

PAY NO MONEY IN ADVANCE.

Many sick people have suffered so much from unskilled and unscrupulous specialists that they have lost all faith in doctors. Many have paid large fees and have taken medicine for years to no benefit. They want to get well and are willing to pay a good price to be cured, but they very justly object to paying a large fee in advance. They want a trial treatment on a trial bottle of medicine.

To all such I make this REMARKABLE OFFER:

Simply write me, giving your name and address and stating as clearly as possible your trouble. When I have made a careful examination and diagnosis of your case and entered it in my case book, I will send you one package of medicine on trial, which you can take at my risk. If it gives any relief the cost will be $5. If it fails to help you it costs you nothing, and you shall be the judge.

ALL THE RISK IS MINE.

Can anything be fairer than this? I am making an offer which no other physician will make. They can't afford to. I refer to any bank in Duluth as to my financial standing and responsibility. This offer proves that I have great faith in my remedies. I KNOW they will cure, otherwise I wouldn't dare make this offer. It would ruin me, as I ship a hundred packages every day. I have tested this system for twenty years and I know that nine people out of ten are willing to pay where they get any benefit.

NO CURE, NO PAY.

Is my motto. I do this to convince you who hesitate—who doubt all men's claims. I carry a line of specific medicines which cannot be had anywhere else in the state. Their power to cure disease is simply marvelous.

Syphilis, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Skin Affections, Disease of the Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Nervous Troubles, Sexual Weakness, Varicocele and Throat and Lung Troubles cured as if by magic.

Call or write. Office private; no exposure. Consultation free. Hours, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Address,

DR. T. J. PIERCE

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Saturday next is Memorial day and a legal holiday, but to accommodate the public, as the last day of the month comes on Sunday, the county treasurer will keep his office open on Saturday from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m.

The law now allows one-half of the tax to be paid on or before May 31, provided the whole tax is over one dollar, and then the other half can run until the end of October without any penalty, but if the first half is not paid by Saturday, ten (10) per cent must be added to the whole tax Monday morning.

This law is mandatory on the treasurer and admits of no alternative. The office is not open on Sunday.

L. H. WHIPPLE, County Treasurer.

PATHETIC STORY

Behind Cuban In the Indiana Reform School For Boys.

His Father and Mother Butchered By Weyler's Soldiers.

Plainfield, Ind., May 28.—Three years ago there came to the Indiana reform school for boys a little Cuban, Florentino Alvacaro, pronounced incorrigible. Next month he leaves the institution, instilled with American spirit and possessed of an American ambition.

There is a story full of pathos behind this child of the land of Gomez. Born near Havana in 1886, the child grew to be old enough to witness the atrocities of Spanish rule, visited upon his parents, brothers, sisters and his friends. Photographed in his child mind are the terrible scenes that Weyler caused to be enacted in the blood-stained isle of Cuba.

Young Alvacaro remembers seeing his father and mother butchered by Weyler's villains. Sisters and brothers fell before the murderers, and only he—a babe in years—was left unslain. Homeless and friendless, the orphan soon afterward heard, for the first time, the strains of "Marching Through Georgia" and "Dixie" and saw the soldier boys of Uncle Sam come marching in to save him and to avenge the murder of his loved ones.

With the American army of invasion came Lieut William Carpenter, of Princeton, Ind., connected with the engineering corps. Lieut. Carpenter found the little Cuban crouching near the ruins of his father's shoe shop and took him to the American camp. The boy was made a servant in the officers' quarters and remained there until the close of the war. He learned to love the Indiana lieutenant, and in his broken Spanish lisped his name.

The close of the war was to separate the soldier and his servant. Lieut. Carpenter bade his protege good bye and hurried to the transport. Running along after the departing army went the little Cuban. Lieut. Carpenter had bade him stay in Havana. Their farewell had been tearful. When Lieut. Carpenter turned to take his last look at Havana he saw crouching at his feet little Florentino, pleading:

"Please, lieutenant; me go. Me go."

The lieutenant was half induced to take him, yet he feared. The order was given to cut the ship away and lift anchor. The transport put into the bay and was off for home. When the transport entered Savannah Lieut. Carpenter marched from the ship. While he stood on the dock he turned to find a boy tugging at his trousers. "Me, lieutenant, me. Florentino come, too."

Carpenter was dumbfounded, but it took him only a moment to decide to take his little Cuban "Friday" home with him. Florentino was put on the train and came to Indiana.

The boy went to Mr. Carpenter's home. There he began to adopt American customs. The children's games of the neighborhood quickly appealed to the boy and he soon became an adept at baseball, hide and seek and blind man's buff. He was in everything all of the time.

But he had faults. He liked chicken. He began hitting the high places in hen roosts and chickens disappeared. Other little indiscretions of boyhood followed and it was finally decided that the reform school ought to be his abiding place for a time. Judge Welborn, of the Gibson circuit court, sent him to the school here.

After a year he was paroled and to him was given a badge of honor. He was an ideal inmate and student. Superintendent York became interested in the little fellow, and did all in his power to make an ideal citizen of him.

The Cuban went back to Princeton and there became a factor in a public school controversy. One element in Princeton classed him with negroes and said he should not enter a white school. Others declared him to be of Spanish blood, a foreigner in a foreign land, and urged that he be taken in the white schools. It was finally decided that he be re-committed to the reform school, not because of incorrigibility, but because of his desire for an education. Thus a factional school fight in Princeton was avoided.

The boy is to be paroled early in June, and will go to Indianapolis, where a position has been obtained for him by friends. He has proved an ideal student and is now in the sixth grade. He is on his twenty-second model in the manual training department of the school. He has not developed as rapidly in the trades, however, as in the musical department. He is a member of the school band and the instructor calls him promising. He seems to incline toward music.

Alvacaro is anxious to become thoroughly acquainted with American life and customs, and in his peculiar tongue expresses a desire to go back to Cuba and make "home like America."

The Beginning of Trouble.

A disordered stomach may cause no end of trouble. When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged and the liver and kidneys congested, causing numerous diseases, the most fatal of which are painless, therefore the more to be dreaded. The important thing is to restore the stomach and liver to a healthy condition, and for this purpose no better preparation can be used than Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. THE TRAGIC HISTORY

Of Prominent Kentucky Family Recalled By a Divorce.

Edyth Newcomb Legally Separated From "Count" Reggie Ward.

New York, May 28.—The announcement is made that Mrs. Edyth Newcomb Ward has secured a divorce from Reginald Henshaw Ward. Judge Fitzgerald granted an interlocutory decree and ordered the papers sealed. Mrs. Ward is the daughter of H. Victor Newcomb, and Ward was the great grandson of the famous revolutionary soldier, Gen. Artemus Ward.

The Wards have been estranged, or at least have lived apart, for a long time, and rumors of a divorce have arisen from time to time. Society gossips have even gone so far as to select new partners for both. Rumor has it that Mrs. Ward is to wed Nathaniel Gibbs, of this city, after the three months "interlocutory" period, and that "Count" Ward will make the Dowager Lady Howe his second wife, although he is forbidden by the decree ever to marry again.

To those who know the history of the Newcombs this dissolution of Edyth's marriage will seem but another chapter is a tragic history. Her grandfather, Herman D. Newcomb, son of one of the most prominent of Kentucky's families, was attentive to a Miss Reed, who was sent for him from what was supposed to be her deathbed in Louisville. At her dying request he married her. She recovered her physical health and became the mother of a family. Then she developed insanity. One of her sons was H. Victor Newcomb, the brilliant banker and financier, who was one of the masters of Wall street until some years ago his mental balance was shaken, and he was sent to a sanitarium, and the management of the vast fortune which he accumulated was taken from him. He recovered his mental equilibrium, but it was a fight of years before he again secured control of the remnant of his fortune.

The wedding of the couple in Boston, March 26, 1889, was a brilliant event, Edyth Newcomb was only 18, and "Reggie" Ward was 24. He soon made himself heard in the financial world. The young couple shone in society in London, Paris and New York.

In England their receptions and dinners were reported by the cable to the New York papers. They had for intimates King Edward's friends, Mr. Ronalds, the Countess Romney and Guilford, Lady Parker, Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. Arthur Paget and the cream of the American colony. Ward had the distinction of being the only American to occupy the seat once occupied by Charles Dickens as chairman of the annual dinner in London for the Dramatic and Musical Benevolent Fund. He was one of those who banqueted Sir Thomas Lipton, and, with Eugene Zimmerman, father of the Duchess of Manchester, did the honors for America on that occasion. Ward is a member of the Union, Metropolitan, Country and Racquet Clubs.

Ward got his title through decorations from several potentates.

WIDOW KILLED BLACK SNAKE

That Charmed Her Cat, Then Died of Apoplexy.

Gallipolis, Ohio, May 28.—Mrs. Cecilia Bandy, of Rio Grande, a small village in Gallia county, met death in a peculiar manner. Mrs. Bandy was a widow living alone. She noticed her pet cat intently watching something in the garden, and it did not move.

She went out into the garden, and was in the act of picking up the animal when she was horrified to see a large black snake a few inches away with its small bead-like eyes riveted on the cat. Mrs. Bandy realized that the snake had charmed the cat, and hastened to the woodpile where she secured a stout stick. When she returned the snake, which had never once taken its eyes from the cat, had crawled closer, so that the mouth of the snake was only an inch or two from the cat's head. Mrs. Bandy raised the club and struck the snake across the back about a foot from the head. It tried to bite her, but she kept out of reach of its fangs. The cat regained its senses when the snake died.

Just as Mrs. Bandy struck the last blow she fainted away. Neighbors who witnessed the fight hastened to her assistance. She was taken into the house, and died a few hours later from apoplexy. She was 62 years old and owned considerable property. The snake was of the black species and was a little more than five feet in length.

AT CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. C. Peterson, of Scanlon, transacted business in the city Tuesday.

Jas. Madney has resumed his work in the express office of the Great Northern railway after an extended trip to the Pacific coast.

Rev. J. W. Heard made a trip to Duluth Tuesday.

F. Kling is having a new residence built on the corner of Third street and Carlton avenue.

Miss Bertha Fortin returned on Monday from Minneapolis where she was confined to a hospital with appendicitis. She is again enjoying her usual health.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clican are rejoicing over the advent of a baby girl.

Mrs. James W. Dwyer is reported quite ill.

O. W. Topping, of Duluth, was looking over business in the city this week.

S. S. Johnson transacted business in Duluth Wednesday.

Mrs. John McManus returned to her home in the city yesterday after a short visit with friends in West Superior.

John Dorsey left this week for the range where he will be employed by the McAlpon Co. as foreman.

The baseball game scheduled for last Sunday between Cloquet and West Duluth failed to come off, owing to the non-appearance of West Duluth. No reason for their non-appearance is known unless they were afraid of Manager La Londe's strong team, as their transportation was telegraphed them Thursday. Not wishing to disappoint the gathering crowd, the high school boys agreed to a game, which resulted 6 to 2 in favor of Cloquet. Seheu, Rashe and Houle did the battery for Cloquet and Bonneville and Bentz for the high school.

H. McDevitt, of Duluth, spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. La Salle made a trip to Carlton Tuesday.

E. Graham of Bemidji, formerly of this city, has recently resigned his position with the Crookston Lumber company and left this week for Spokane, where he expects to make his future home. Mrs. Graham is at present in the city, the guest of her mother and will join her husband as soon as he is located.

Mars. Edward Walsh, of Scanlon, was in the city yesterday.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Bavor on Thursday.

ROCK HE HID BEHIND

During Gettysburg Battle to Be Tombstone.

Gettysburg, Penn., May 28.—H. P. Patterson, of Aurora, Ind., a veteran of the Civil war, while on a visit to Gettysburg recently succeeded in locating a large howitzer behind which he sought shelter during the furious attack of the Confederate troops on the exposed position of the Union ranks. Mr. Patterson was so well pleased with his find that, notwithstanding the fact that the rock weighed between six and eight tons, he has purchased it from the Culp estate and had it shipped to his Western home, where he intends to use it as a monument to mark his grave after his death.

DAMAGES ARE ASKED.

Wife of Elks' Exalted Ruler Is Sued.

Chicago, May 28.—A damage suit for $10,000 is the sequel to the sensational attack of Mrs. Elizabeth V. Cronk on Mrs. Cora Lathrop Patterson in Omaha last week. The papers were served on Mrs. Cronk as she was returning with her husband from a trip to Bedford City, Va., where Mr. Cronk, who is Exalted Ruler of the Elks, had gone to dedicate the new Elks' Home.

Mrs. Patterson comes from the aristocratic Lathrop family of Virginia.

She secured a divorce from her husband, who is the son of a millionaire Richmond (Va.) tobacconist, last fall, in Omaha, after a sensational trial. In her bill Mrs. Patterson charges that Mrs. Cronk assaulted her as she was boarding a train at Council Bluffs, accusing her of alienating her husband's affections and leaving Omaha on the same train to meet him. Mrs. Cronk is also charged with flourishing a revolver.

Mrs. Patterson declares she was unaware Cronk was on the train.

WAS NOT LOST

Girl Supposed to Have Been Foully Dealt With Appears.

She Says She Merely Went Camping With Some Friends.

A feminine vision of glowing radiance fluffed jauntily into police headquarters today, giggled blithesomely and murmured that she was not lost, never had been lost, and never expected to be lost.

The headquarters force was perplexed, dazzled and silent. With a rippling razzle-dazzle laugh that threatened to disarrange her back hair, she again remarked:

"I'm not lost and I never will be—"

"Should say you won't and never was," came a flaxen-gray voice from the telephone operator's room.

"Why, you know I never had any intention of getting lost."

"Show me the person that said you were lost and I'll break his—"

"Why, I was only out camping with a few friends."

"So you were, and I'll lick any person that insinuates that you were not."

"Then, what are you looking for me for?"

"Did not know we were—who are you?"

"Why, I'm Ida Rosaille—d-o-n-'t you know. I'm the girl you people are looking for." (Soft music from the detectives' room.)

"Oh, yes! You are Miss 'Rossuillex.' Sure! Didn't recognize you."

She of the charming features smiled and nodded acquiescence and drifted out of the room as gracefully and swiftly as she entered.

She proved to be a girl from Cloquet whom the police and others feared had met with foul play. Recently securing a position with a family on Ninth avenue, she came down town to have her trunk sent to that address.

The trunk reached the house, but the girl did not, and the matter was immediately reported to the police, who did everything possible to locate the missing one.

According to the girl's story she met a party of friends that were going out camping near Skibo and went with them. When she saw she was lost she hurried back to Duluth and reported at headquarters.

TANKO TELLS STORY AGAIN

Says Bollich Was Shot In Struggle For the Gun.

John Tanko was called again to the witness stand this morning to testify in his own behalf relative to the murder charge which is hanging over him. Tanko's story of the shooting affray in which George Bollich met his death, as told through the interpreter, did not vary much, if any from the story he told the first jury, when his case was tried last week. Tanko maintains that he did not intend to Kill Bollish and that he did not shoot at Bollich's house to attract him out so as to get a shot at him. Tanko claims Bollich was shot during a scuffle to get control of the gun in Tanke's hands, and that he, Tanko, was much frightened for fear Bollich would harm him.

The defense commenced its case to the jury this morning and the indications today were that the testimony will not all be in before tomorrow afternoon.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Gunnison, Col., May 28.—The coroner's jury in the case of John Post, who was shot and killed by Thomas Treizize on Tuesday in a quarrel over household goods returned a verdict charging Treizize with premeditated murder. Mrs. Post, wife of the murdered man was charged witht being an accessory to the crime.

ASSURANCE WANTED

The East Superior Street Property Owners Want to Know.

Do Not Want Money Tied Up Too Far Ahead.

Assurance that the improvement will be made this year, is the desire of property owners interested in the paving of Superior street between Sixteenth and Twenty-third avenues East.

If the city cannot give this assurance then it is probable that the property owners will oppose the attempt to collect any assessment for the improvement this season.

Many of the property owners in this district have become so much interested in the situation that they have urged Bishop Morrison to call a general meeting of effected property owners, and this meeting has been called for 4:30 tomorrow afternoon in The Herald building.

It is expected that nearly all of the property owners that petitioned for the improvement will be present, talk the situation over and be prepared to go before the board of public works Monday morning when the assessment is to be made, and, if possible secure the improvement for this year.

According to the estimates it will cost $345 per 50-foot lot to pave this section of Superior street with bituminous macadam and the lot owners say that they do not propose to be dealt with like their neighbors were between Eighth and Sixteenth avenues—be called on to pay for the improvement and have their money tied up in the city treasury for eight months before a tap of work is done.

The paving of the district between Eighth and Sixteenth will be well under way next week when the asphalt will be put down between the street car tracks and it is expected that the East End street car service can be resumed within a day after the asphalt is laid.

It Will Never Be Known
how old you are for your years (numbered by cents) will be tied up in a bag. Musical and literary program followed by refreshments and social time at First M. E. church Friday evening, May 29. Come and enjoy the fun.

GIVEN A WATCH.

Harry Langdon Surprised By Admiring Friends.

At the Metropolitan theater last night there was a feature that was not on the program. Harry Langdon, who has been with the Ferris comedians since their arrival in this city, was given a beautiful gold watch and chain by a number of friends and admirers in this city. As he stepped forward on the stage to make the usual evening announcement he was handed a package. On opening it he found the gift with a card: "To Harry Langdon from his many friends and admirers in this city." Mr. Langdon could not find words to thank his unknown friends and said that wherever he goes he shall always have a warm spot for Duluth, and shall treasure the little token of their esteem and good will. It was a complete surprise to him, and who the donors are he does not know, but he has suspicions of the guilty parties. Since coming to the city Mr. Langdon has made many friends who have admired his work and who took this means of showing their appreciation.

JAILED AT WICHITA.

DRAW NEW JURY

Discovery Made After Case Had Started to Trial.

One of Plaintiffs Was Family Physician of Several Jurors.

Because one of the parties plaintiff happened to be the family physician of several of the jurors, a sudden halt was called this morning in the civil action of H. A Hall & Co. against Jeanette Palmer, after the trial was well under way and witnesses had been examined.

The circumstances are somewhat unusual owing to the fact that up to the middle of the forenoon nothing had been said in the case relative to the "company," who is Dr. Robert Graham.

When the jurors were examined yesterday afternoon nothing was said of the "company" and when it was divulged, the defendant claimed the right to select new jurors who might not be liable to prejudice because of close business relations.

The jurors in the case were excused and an adjournment was taken until this afternoon when a new jury will be drawn.

The case of Arthur Rogers against Corrigan, McKinney & Co., which was to have been tried the present term, has been settled and dismissed.

The case of M. Norris, et al., against Simon Clark, et al., has been continued.

GROFFS ARE UNDER BOND

Their Hearing Has Been Arranged For June Ninth.

Washington, May 28.—Diller B. Groff, senior member of the firm of Groff Bros., manufacturers of letter box fasteners, who was arrested last night for alleged bribery of former Superintendent A. W. Machen, of the free delivery system, postoffice department, appeared before United States Commissioner Taylor today for preliminary examination. He was accompanied by fasteners, who was attorney, and his son, Diller F. Groff. Postoffice Inspector Meyer appeared as the complainant for the government.

After consultation by telephone with Assistant District Attorney Hugh Taggart, the preliminary hearing was postponed until Tuesday, June 9. Mr. Taggart desired the hearing to be set for Saturday, June 6, but Mr. Maddox insisted that it go over until June 9. To this the government agreed.

Mr. Groff then renewed his bond of $10,000 given last night, Attorney Maddox and Diller F. Groff qualifying as bondsmen. Samuel A. Groff, the junior member of the firm, who also was arrested last night, charged with the same offense as his brother, will appear before Commissioner Taylor tomorrow given last night. His preliminary hearing will be set for Tuesday, June 9, also, as the complaint against the brothers Groff, charges them jointly with the offense. He simply will renew his bond as did his brother.

Charles A. Douglass, of counsel for Machen, today gave out the following statement of the present status of the Machen case, and also about the course of proceedings in the immediate future:

Mr. Machen cannot fight out his case in the newspapers, but this much can, with propriety, be stated: The charges, seemingly made with deliberation, are of the gravest character, and if the government succeds in establishing them, Mr. Machen and every one connected with them ought to be severely punished. If, however, they have been made improvidentially and without sufficient evidence, public censure, swift and strong, should fall upon the heads of the responsible parties. Mr. Machen has been a long time in the public service and he is widely and favorably known throughout the United States, and it is due him that the public should not prejudice his case, but should patiently await developments, which are sure to come. Mr. Machen is ready to meet in the clearest and most satisfactory way, the charges now specifically made against him and he now generally and publicly invites the most rigid investigation into every act and transaction connected with his official life. More than this should not now be said.

Mr. Machen, under advice of his counsel, refused to discuss the case.

NO ENDORSEMENT

Of Presidential Candidate By Hamilton Republicans Made.

Cincinnati, May 28.—The Republicans of Hamilton county in convention today, selected 98 delegates to the state convention at Columbus next Wednesday and endorsed Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland for governor and Wade H. Ellis of Cincinnati for attorney-general. No action was taken on presidential preferences. There was nothing in the resolutions in reference to the candidacy of President Roosevelt or anyone else.

RELIANCE WINS

In Fourth Race For Selection of a Cup Defender.

The Constitution Lost Topmast and Did Not Finish.

Matinicock Point, May 28.—It was dull and lowering when the crews of the cup yachts, Reliance, Constitution and Columbia came on deck this morning, to prepare for the fourth race over the course, but half a gale was blowing out of the southwest and there was every indication of some grand spurt in the sound with free sheets, smooth seas and winds that follow fast.

In fact, it looked early in the morning as if the yachts would have another contest over the same course as was sailed on Tuesday. It was hoped, however, that the breeze today would change to the westward, so that the yachts might have a longer trial in the wind as the narrow confines of the sound prevents much windward work in southerly or northerly breezes.

Before the crews of the yachts had finished their breakfast, the clouds had seemingly shut in closer and it looked at that time as if a rain storm was about to begin, but it held off and the men about 8 o'clock began to get up the big main sails. The skippers scenting live work and plenty of wind, ordered on deck the small club top sails and the crews made preparations to set these sails as soon as the mainsails were up.

When the committee boat arrived at the starting point the wind had shifted more to the southwest and had flattened to about eight knots' strength.

A 10 or 12-knot wind at the start was from the south-southwest. The 25-mile triangular course for today's race will be a run almost off the wind of eleven miles, a reach of three miles across the sound and a run home of eleven miles.

At the start there was a sharp contest for position between the Reliance and Constitution, the Columbia keeping away and crossing the line first. The official time was: Columbia, 12:15:21; Reliance, 12:16:43; Constitution, 12:17:00.

A half mile from the start the Reliance and the Constitution passed the Columbia to windward, and the Constitution had drawn up on the Reliance until she was almost on her weather quarter. Before the yachts had sailed half the first leg the wind dropped off to about seven knots. At Lloyds neck it looked from shore as if the Reliance was leading the Constitution by a short distance.

At 12:55 a schooner came between the boats and the observers on shore. When she moved away the Constitution had down her club topsail and was heading for Huntington harbor. She appeared to have met with an accident. The other yachts continued the race. The turning time at the first mark as seen from shore was: Reliance, 1:13:28; Columbia, 1:16:10.

LONG TIME
To Get Over Hurt of Coffee.

It sometimes takes a long period to get over the effects of coffee drinking. A little woman in Wadesboro, N. C., says: "I was a coffee drinker and a sufferer from dyspepsia, stomach trouble, nervousness and the train of disorders that follow.

"On the advice of an eminent physician I cut off my coffee allowance to one cup a day at breakfast. That helped me a little, but I gradually got worse, and finally became ill, badly run down, and so depressed in mind that I did not care how the scales turned.

"At this time I was induced to leave off coffee altogether and take Postum Food Coffee. That was in September. I had also a dish of Grape-Nuts for breakfast. I practically lived on Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts for some time. In November I had made considerable improvement and knew that at last I was on the road to health. At Christmas time I felt well enough to go through the glorious feast with comfort and happiness. In January I was much improved over the previous month and had gained very considerable in flesh, how many pounds I don't know. My strength and color were much improved. My appetite and digestion in every way good. I ate what I pleased and with much enjoyment.

"About that time a clergyman friend visited us, and on Sunday morning when he was going to preach I had a strong cup of coffee made for him because he was in a run-down, nervous condition and said that he needed the stimulant. Well, that was a sad day for me. I thought I was well enough to drink a cup of coffee with him, and did so. It was strong but did not taste right. I was interested in his conversation, and found that I was adding, from time to time, more cream and sugar, for some way I realized the beverage did not taste as it should. Then I remembered it was coffee and not Postum. I like Postum better than I do coffee.

"That day the old symptoms of stomach trouble came on, and while it seems almost impossible, it is nevertheless true, that I never got back again to my state of health for about two months. The coffee acted as an active poison that went all through my system. However, I have recovered by leaving it off entirely and using Postum, and now that I am well, happy and contented, you could not get me to take a cup of coffee, no not for a king's ransom. I believe I am one of the kind that know when I have had enough." Name given by Postum company, Battle Creek, Mich.

The exact nature of the accident to the Constitution could not be determined from here, because of a thick haze, but it appeared certain that at least her topmast had been carried away. She made no attempt to continue in the race.

The Reliance won, beating the Columbia about a mile and three quarters. Time: Reliance, 2:26:27.

As the Constitution drew near it was seen that the topmast was gone, but that the mainmast was still standing.

The Columbia crossed the line second at 2:33:38.

The Reliance won by 8 min. 33 sec., allowing 1 min. 22 sec. which the Columbia led the Reliance at the start.

Is Stricken With Paralysis at Los Angeles.

Isaiah H. McCollum of this city was stricken with paralysis yesterday at Los Angelos, Cal., where he was attending the Presbyterian general assembly as a lay delegate, and is in a serious condition. He was removed to the California hospital.

Mr. McCollum lived at Lakeside and he has been a resident of Duluth for sixteen years. He left here May 13, accompanied by Rev. S. A. Jamison, who was the clerical delegate. He intended remaining in California until some time in July, visiting relatives and friends in Los Angelos and other cities He is 54 years, and came here from Michigan, where he was engaged in banking and the real estate business for many years. He devoted much time to church work. He is a widower, and his only daughter is Mrs. Frank Blackmarr, of this city. Mrs. L. N. Case, also of Duluth, is a niece.

GOING TO BREMERTON.

The Boston Will Be Repaired at That Yard.

Vallejo, Cal., May 28.—Notwithstanding Washington dispatches to the effect that no more vessels will be sent to Bremerton until the moral condition of that town is improved, the cruiser Boston has started for San Francisco, from which place she will proceed to Bremerton, June 2. Several thousand dollars worth of work is to be done in the boiler-room of the Boston and this work will be done at the Puget Sound navy yard unless the present orders are countermanded.

GERMANS PLEASED

That United States Squadron Will Visit Kiel.

Berlin, May 28.—The German foreign office has been informed officially that the United States European squadron will arrive at Kiel June 25. Chancellor Von Buelow was much gratified, and said Emperor William would be much pleased. The foreign office and the navy department, owing to the press telegrams, had been expecting for some time to hear that the fleet had been directed to visit Kiel. It is intended to make its reception impressive. The emperor, Prince Henry and Count Von Buelow will take part in the entertainment of the American officers. The Imperial Yacht club has already set apart $10,000 for the week's expenses, which will largely be spent on a dinner at the end of the yacht races.

Ambassadors Tower and Meyer will participate in the reception to the American fleet at Kiel.

STRIKE IMMINENT.

Chicago Freight Handlers Likely to Go Out.

Chicago, May 28.—Indications today are that there will be no immediate strike of freight handlers here. According to an interview given by the president of the union, no official action will be taken until employes of the individual railroads have been notified of the action of their respective general managers with regard to the demands made upon them, and have reported to the executive committee of the union. The earliest date at which he believed trouble might occur was June 1.

St. Louis, May 28.—The teamsters of St. Louis, who last night declared a strike, went out this forenoon and this was followed by more freight handlers walking out in sympathy. It is said the strike was not a complete lockout, as the railroad and mercantile houses continued to handle freight, although somewhat handicapped.

Attractions Of Sheffield Plate.

Looking for Sheffield plate is one of the pastimes of those who love rare and beautiful specimens of metal work and have the means to indulge their fancy. To most persons the privilege of indulging their taste in this direction is limited to gazing in at the shop windows where quaint old platters and curious dishes tempt the eye. The prices are prohibitive for all but those who have plethoric pocketbooks.

Until recently the word "plate" was sufficient to repel the average person, but the seal of approbation given by the collector and the connoisseur and the growth of knowledge as to what Sheffield plate really is have changed all that.

There are many persons, however, who know now only that the name Sheffield plate indicates a costly kind of metal ware, but are ignorant of the why.

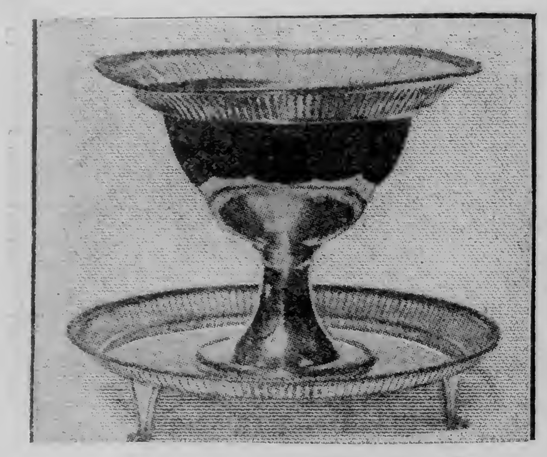
"Its attractions are twofold," explains an English authority. "In the first place, much of it is beautiful in itself, as may well be seen in our illustrations; in the second, specimens in good condition are not easy to find, partly because the manufacture of it lasted for barely a century; partly because much of what was then made was melted down later, when silver was of more worth than now, and partly because wear and tear, and in especially the thorough going housekeeping methods of past generations, as exemplified in constant cleaning, have so worn away most of what remains that its interest in the eyes of the connoisseur has departed. One may often see in the window of a bric-a-brac shop some article marked 'real Sheffield plate,' the edges and angles of which glow dull red, and the dealer on occasion will point proudly to this fact as proof positive of its genuineness; such, indeed, it is, but at the same time it shows the expert that its value is small.

To make this clear it will be necessary to glance briefly at the manner in which it was originally made. "Plating" consists in applying a thin coating of gold or silver to a base of stouter and cheaper metal, and, speaking thus broadly, the process is of considerable antiquity, having been invented, according to tradition, by a maker of spurs in Birmingham, who found pure silver too soft for his purpose and introduced a core of iron to endow his wares with greater rigidity. The use as well as the economy of the proceeding made it popular, and the method was subsequently extended to a great variety of objects. In all these cases, however, the article was made first, and its precious coating was applied afterward by means of solder, heat and hammer work.

It was not until 1742 that Thomas Bolsover discovered the art of uniting silver and copper in the mass by binding with wire a sheet of silver to a sheet of copper, mixed with a small proportion of brass, of the same size, though of greater thickness, and raising both to such a temperature that the two contiguous surfaces became inseparably blended. All that then remained to be done was to pass the ingot so obtained between heavy rollers and a sheet, silver on the one side, copper on the other, of any desired thickness was obtained. The inevitable wearing away of the outer silver, and consequent exposure of the copper below, is the unforgivable sin to the collector. When once the raw material was thus easily and cheaply obtained little time passed before it was exploited to the full. The original inventor, as has so often been the case, does not appear to have profited greatly by his ingenuity, for it was a certain Joseph Hancock who established himself in Sheffield and started a business which was destined to grow to vast proportions before the whirligig of time brought its revenges, and by means of a later discovery destroyed it forever. The manufacture, in fact, had not been carried on for 50 years before the worm which was fated to eat out the root of its prosperity was hatched.

As early as 1800 a Mr. Cruikshank was making experiments in the art of electro-plating, and in 1837 and 1838 Mr. Spencer, in England, and Professor Jacobi, in Russia, succeeded in obtaining commercially practicable results. Two years later Mr. Elkington and Mr. Ruolz began the production and sale of goods so made, and the more cumbrous and costly Sheffield process perished incontinently. A large amount of good and beautiful work had, nevertheless, been turned out before the end came. To begin with, the sheets were silvered on one side only, and the purposes to which they could be applied were necessarily limited, but it was a simple forward step to silver both sides alike, and thenceforward anything that could be made in the more precious metal could be fashioned equally well in the imitation. Sauceboats, candlesticks, epergnes, decanter sliders or coasters, and trays, as shown in our illustrations, reproduced from excellent examples in the collection of Miss M. B. Hudson, at present temporarily on exhibition in the Victoria and Albert Museum, form but a tithe of the articles of use or ornament evolved from this adaptable material, but before the art of working in it had been brought to this stage of perfection two difficulties had to be surmounted.

The first arose from the fact that, though the two surfaces were silver, any section, such as was displayed on the edges of a piece cut out of a sheet, displayed the supporting copper, but to this a silver thread or band, soldered along the face, afforded an effectual remedy. The second was due to the limit beyond which it was impossible to mold the surface in raised relief, and to overcome this was a less simple matter. It was accomplished by stamping the required designs separately in thin silver, filling the hollows with a blend of tin and lead, and soldering the resulting ornament on to its appropriate place in the design. These two details of construction are of further importance, inasmuch as they constitute the sole guide to the identity of the ware which is sufficiently delicate to be conveyed in words. For the rest the would be collector must trust to his own knowledge and taste, to the style and finish and to a certain indescribable peculiarity of color in the silver, which, when once it has been recognized, remains an infallible distinction between Sheffield and electro-plate, even when, as not infrequently happens, the object is genuine Sheffield ware replated recently.



Old Sheffield Chestnut Basin and Stand.

The Lily Skirt—The Correct Foundation Skirt For 1903.

So long as clinging skirts maintain their unwonted popularity the question of the foundation, or "slip," skirt is one of vital importance. It must be fitted with the same precision as the top skirt and have the proper cut and swing.

The skirt here illustrated answers all these requirements, and is named the "lily skirt," so called from its resemblance to the inverted lily. It is also known as the "windproof skirt," and among its manifold virtues is the paramount one that it defies the wind even of the Flatiron Building.

The spring and summer of 1903 have brought many changes in the feminine form, and this particular model is being accepted as the proper skirt for what is termed the "new figure." It is an undisputed fact that a well-fitting skirt is essential to the general makeup of the smartly gowned woman, since it gives freedom in walking and allows the wearer to step well out on the toe, resting on the ball of the foot and lightly on the heel, keeping the knees stiff so as to give the form the proper poise and balance.

The graceful appearance of the top skirt depends largely on the foundation skirt, and all the arts and devices known to the clever modiste or tailor will count for naught in the fitting of a gown so long as the foundation skirt is not properly hung.

No woman is eligible to the rank and file of well-dressed women who persists in wearing a slipshod skirt. The lily, or windproof, skirt is a three-piece model, having a narrow front gore and circular sides and back combined. The upper portion fits closely to a point well below the knees; from here there is a tendency to flare, and the sweep at the lower edge is further augmented by the addition of a circular flounce about eight inches wide. Two small ruffles are added to the circular flounce, one five and a half inches wide and the other two and a half inches.

These two small ruffles are ornamented with narrow plaited ruches of ribbon. To protect the lower edge a binding of velveteen is used, which can be quickly attached, thus affording a neat finish and a perfect protection as well.

The circular flounce has a facing of haircloth equally wide, but the haircloth must be shrunk before using and cut with the hair in the cloth running around the skirt and not up and down. Lining the flounce with the haircloth gives style and elegance to the skirt, and no matter what position the wearer may assume or how long it has been in use it will always retain its shape.

The two small ruffles below the haircloth give freedom in walking, and therein lies the virtue of haircloth.

High-class dressmakers are using haircloth, notwithstanding predictions to the contrary, the satisfactory results depending solely on the quality of the haircloth and the proper adjustment of the same.

Owing to the depth of the flounce there is absolutely no additional weight by the use of the haircloth, and the result is to promote the flare and to keep the bottom of the skirt away from the feet.

The lily skirt can be built as economically as you desire and of any material of light or medium weight. It may be used in various ways, either for a slip skirt, petticoat or solid lined skirt. If made in taffetas it will require from 12 to 15 yards, 20 inches wide. If the lower or flounced portion of the skirt is made of the taffetas and the upper part of percaline or farmer satin, it will require five and one-half yards of taffetas and four and one-half yards of the other material, with one and three-eighths yards of soft French haircloth 24 inches wide.

Recipes For Cold Sweets.

Maitoise a la Chantilly.—Make some lemon cream with one pint of lemon jelly (cold but still liquid) and half a pint of cream. Divide it into three portions, color one pale pink, the second pale green (using carmine and sap green), and leave the third a pale yellow. Line a fluted mold with lemon jelly about one-eighth of an inch thick all round, and then with a layer of the creams, lining one flute with pink cream, the next with green, the third with yellow, and so on till all the mold is lined. The cream should be just on the point of setting, but liquid enough to slip along the flutes. When it has set the following filling (on the verge of setting) should be poured in, and the mold placed on ice until the sweet is required. For the filling eight Tangerine oranges are required, one pint of water, a wineglassful of maraschino, a wineglassful of white rum, one and a quarter ounces of gelatine, a tablespoonful of apricot jam, one gill of whipped cream and three ounces of lump sugar. Rub the sugar on the oranges and make it as yellow as possible, then put it and the gelatine on to boil, and boil till reduced to half a pint. Strain it and set aside till cool, then add the orange jelly to the pulp and juice of the oranges, also the apricot jam, and rub all through a hair sieve. Add the rum and maraschino to the puree and the whipped cream, and color with a little saffron or apricot yellow if necessary.

Creme a la Clifton.—One tin of apricots, a quarter of a pound of caster sugar, quarter of a pound of ratafia biscuits, half a pound of Savoy finger biscuits (both of these must be crushed with a rolling pin), one wineglassful of sherry, half a wineglassful of maraschino, three-quarters of a pint of thick cream, some vanilla essence, little apricot yellow, and some crystallized violets. Separate the juice from the fruit and rub the apricots through the sieve; put the pulp into a basin with the biscuit crumbs, wine and sugar, and add enough of the apricot juice to make the mixture of the consistency of porridge. Whip the cream and add two large tablespoonfuls of it to the biscuit mixture, pile it on a glass dish in pyramid form, sweeten the rest of the cream with one tablespoonful of sugar, and flavor with a few drops of vanilla. Divide it into two portions and color one of them yellow; put both side by side into a forcing bag with a rose pipe and decorate the pyramid with it; then sprinkle with crystallized violets.

Germs that sometimes lurk in cheese are destroyed by cooking. Therefore those who are fond and fearful of this article of diet may eat the following dishes with impunity:

Cheese and Salsify Patties.—Make half a pint (or more, according to the number of dishes required) of thick white sauce; season it well and add by degrees a tablespoonful of white wine or a squeeze of lemon juice and three ounces of grated Parmesan cheese. Have ready some salsify or celery which has been boiled until perfectly tender in salted, acidulated water, and cut into small dice shaped pieces; mask it liberally with the sauce and use for the patties. Roll out some light puff paste moderately thin and cut it into rounds with a plain cutter. Place about a teaspoonful of the prepared salsify on some of the rounds, moisten the edges lightly with water or egg and cover in the salsify with a round of paste of the same size; press each little patty lightly with an inverted cutter a size smaller than that used so that the edges are closed and the patties given an oval shape. When the requisite number have been made brush them over with beaten egg, then sprinkle them thickly with very fine bread crumbs and fry them in a wire basket until they are a golden brown. Serve the patties garnished with fried parsley, or, if celery is used, the young green tops fried in the same way as parsley.

Scalloped Eggs with Cheese.—Rub a French fireproof china gratin dish with a freshly cut shallot; then arrange a layer of sliced hard boiled eggs in it, cover them with a sauce made according to the directions given in the previous recipe, only substitute a large tablespoonful of tomato catsup for the white wine. Then add more eggs and sauce in the same way until the dish is full; pour a little warm butter over the top, and sprinkle the surface moderately thick with fine dry bread crumbs and grated Parmesan cheese mixed together in equal quantities, and bake at once in a quick oven until the scallop is evenly browned.

Cheese and Tomato Omelet.—Rub a basin with a freshly cut onion; break four new laid eggs into it and beat them with a patent egg beater until they are very frothy, then stir in some salt, black pepper, a little grated nutmeg and cayenne, and two ounces of grated cheese. Have in readiness a medium sized tomato which has been skinned, freed from seeds and cut into small pieces, add it to the beaten eggs, etc., and pour the mixture into an omelet pan of suitable size containing one ounce of boiling butter, and place the pan over a clear, bright fire (or, better still, over a small gas stove). Loosen the sides of the omelet with a pointed knife as soon as the eggs begin to set, and prick it all over so that the uncooked mixture on the surface may run through and come into contact with the hot pan. Directly the eggs are sufficiently set (this will, of course, depend on the heat, but three or four minutes should be sufficient), shake the pan, fold the omelet over and serve it at once on a very hot dish with some good meat glaze which has been slightly diluted poured over it.

Cheese and Semolina Fritters.—Put a teacupful of semolina into a saucepan with a pint of milk and an ounce of butter and let it cook gently until it is thoroughly done. Then add the yolks of two eggs, beating them separately into the mixture, some celery salt and cayenne and two ounces of grated cheese. Spread the paste evenly on a flat buttered dish, and when it is cold and firm cut it into rounds with a small cutter. Dip the fritters into beaten egg, cover them with finely sifted bread crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper and mixed with an equal quantity of grated Parmesan cheese and fry them in deep boiling fat until they are a golden brown. Serve them very hot, arranged in a neat pile on a fancy doylie and garnished with small sprays of watercress.

Cheese Filberts—Make a cheese paste according to the directions given below: Divide it into small pieces of equal sizes and roll each into the shape of a tiny baton; split them across at one end and insert a strip of devilled almond. Take three of the batons at a time and join the unsplit ends (using some raw egg to moisten them before pinching the paste together), so as to form a triangle, then place a fourth piece upright in the center (using egg as before) and the "filbert" is formed. When all are ready brush them over with egg and bake in a quick oven until they are a deep golden color. Serve them cold, with a little very finely chopped parsley sprinkled over them, and surround them with a border of grated cheese also sprinkled with parsley. For the paste rub three ounces of butter and four ounces of grated cheese into a quarter of a pound of flour which has been dried and sifted; season with salt and cayenne, then add the yolk of an egg and sufficient cream (or water) to form a stiff paste.

Tomatoes With Cheese Cream.—Put half a pint of thick cream into a basin and whip it until it is stiff; season it with celery salt and Nepaul pepper and add three ounces of grated cheese (preferably Gruyen and Parmesan mixed in equal quantities), then whisk in by degrees a quarter of a pint of cool, but liquid, aspic jelly, which has been flavored with Tarragon vinegar. Continue to whisk the mixture until it begins to stiffen, then fill the halves of some small, round tomatoes with it, using a forcing bag and small rose pipe for the purpose. The seeds must, of course, be removed from the tomatoes when they are cut open, and they should be drained for a little while on a hair sieve before being used. Place each piece of tomato, when filled, on a cheese biscuit (made with cheese paste) of suitable size, and ornament it round the edge with a piping of the cheese cream. Garnish the dish with small cress, and stick a tiny bunch into the middle of the cream with which the tomatoes are filled.

MARKET IS WEAKER

Trading In Wheat Very Dull and the Prices Work Lower.

Liquidation In July Flax Causes Heavy Slump In Price.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 28.—The wheat market started out firm and unchanged this morning, the strengthening influences being steady cables, but trading was very dull and selling orders forced down the price. The weather reports were very favorable, the portions where drouth has been the rule getting showers. The Southwest which has been arrayed on the bull side of late was selling. The Price Current of Cincinnati reported the wheat condition as maintained. Some interest still centers in the May option but not a great lead and it is generally believed that it will go out without any sensational developments. New York May, however, showed signs of congestion and there was an advance in the May price there of 2½c. The export demand is not good but New York reported 18 loads of wheat worked for export. Local shippers worked nothing and found bid prices too low.

The Liverpool market was ¼d higher, Paris ½c higher and Antwerp unchanged. Primary receipts of wheat were 268,000 bus, last year 214,000 bus. Shipments 243,000 bus, last year 224,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 280,000 bus.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth and Minneapolis, 189 cars, and at Chicago, 38, a total of 181 cars, against 139 last week and 234 last year.

Corn in the Liverpool market closed unchanged. The July option in Chicago was generally firmer but closed unchanged. July oats declined ¼c. Primary receipts of corn were 522,000 bus., last year 323,000 bus. Shipments 331,000 bus., last year 254,000 bus. Clearances were 161,000 bus.

Trading in wheat on the Duluth market was dead. July opened unchanged at 73⅞c, sold at 73⅝c at 9:42 at 73¾c at 10:30 and rallied to 73⅞c at 12:30. The close was ¼c off at 73¼c. May declined ⅝c and September the same. In Chicago May was up ⅛c and July off the same amount. In Minneapolis May remained ¼c and July ⅜-⅝c. New York May advanced 2½c and July fell off ¼c.

Cash sales were 5000 bushels and price were at ⅛c bid and ¼c asked over July for No. 1 northern most of the morning, the trading being mostly at ⅜c. No. 2 sold at 2c under No. 1.

Flax was the sensational feature of the market and the trading was heavier than it has been for weeks. There was heavy liquidation and the source from which it came was difficult to trace, any rumor had it that a line of July held for Chicago was being liquidated. The July opened firm and sold ⅛c up to $1.10¼ but quickly turned weak and sold down and once started there seemed to be no turning point. It went off to $1.13½ before there was a rally and then it worked back to $1.14¼, and closed there, a decline of 1¼c. September fell the same amount and October 9½c. Receipt of flax were light. Duluth having only one car and Minneapolis reporting 5.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat to arrive, No. 1 hard, 80½c; No. 1 northern, 78½c; No. 2 northern, 76¾c; May, 78¾c; July, 73¾c; September, 71¾c. Oats to arrive, 34½@35c; on track, 34½@35c; May, 34c. Rye to arrive, 50c; on track, 50c; May, 50c. Flax in store, $1.13½; on track, $1.13½; to arrive, $1.13½; May, $1.12¾; July, $1.14¼; September, $1.15¾; October, $1.14½; November, $1.14. Barley, 35@51c.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 9; last year, 16; oats, 3; rye, 1; flax, 1; last year 1.

Receipts: Wheat, 23,216; oats, 1500; flax 9654.

Shipments: Wheat, 67,577; oats, 1567.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Market Lacked Features With Trading Light.

Chicago, May 28.—Wheat opened firm on steady cables with July unchanged to a shade higher, at 73⅝@74c to 74c, but the volume of trading was light and the market lacked any features. Commission houses were fair buyers of July and September while shorts were good buyers of May. Later in the day an easier tone developed on selling by St. Louis houses and July sold off to 73⅝c, after touching 74¼c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 143 cars, which, with local receipts of 38 cars, none of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 181 cars, against 139 cars last week and 234 cars a year ago.

The market held steady at the decline and the close was easier with July ¼c lower at 73⅝@⅞c.

Corn was firm in spite of the free selling of wheat, but trading was light. July was a shade lower to a shade higher, at the start, opening at 45¼@45⅜c, but the market soon became strong on the report of a strike of the freight handlers at East St. Louis and July advanced to 45⅝c. Local receipts were 246 cars, with 22 of contract grade.

In sympathy with wheat, corn eased off a trifle, but closed steady, with July unchanged at 45¼@45⅜c.

Oats opened easier on favorable weather and July was off ¼c at 34c, but a better demand soon developed on the small receipts and the market became firmer, July advancing to 34⅜c. Local receipts were 96 cars.

Provisions were firm in sympathy with the strong tone in the hog market, but there were no early features. A good demand from brokers caused a slight advance over the opening figures. September pork was unchanged at $16.77½. September lard was unchanged to 5c higher at $8.82½@8.87½, and ribs unchanged to 5c higher at $9.20@9.25.

Close: Wheat—May, 77c; July, 73⅝@¾c; September, 70¾c; December, 71@¼c. Corn—May, 45½c; July, 45⅝@⅝c; September, 44⅞@45c; December, 43⅝c. Oats—May, 35¾c; July, 33⅝c; September, 31¼c; December, 31⅝@¾c. Pork—May, $19.00; July, $17.35; September, $16.75. Lard—May, $8.82½; July, $8.90; September, $8.80; October, $8.62½. Ribs—May, $9.32½; July, $9.42½; September, $8.40. Rye—July, 50¼@½c. Flax—Cash N. DECLINE IN STOCKS

Liquidation Was Again Controlling Feature of the Market.

Bears Made Fierce Attacks and Forced Down Prices.

New York May 28.—There was evidence of a renewal of liquidation in the opening dealings in stocks causing fractional declines throughout the list. The weakness of the London market increased the selling pressure here. Amalgamated Copper dropped 1⅜ and realizing in national of Mexico preferred depressed that stock 1½. Losses of about a point were scored by Rock Island and Leather preferred and Union Pacific decline ¾.

Rock Island was poured out on a descending price scale until it reached 34⅜, a loss of 1⅜. The liquidation was apparently checked and it steadied around 35. Further losses were made in other active stocks before the market turned, but only in L. & N. was the loss important, that stock declining 1½. Prices hardened only a trifle except for a two point rally in Leather preferred before the decline was renewed with violence. On the second break St. aPul, Union Pacific, Atchison and Amalgamated Copper sold lower than before and the general list came back to about the opening range. St. Joe & Grand Island first preferred lost 5, Hocking Valley 2 and Union Pacific, Pacific Mail, General Electric and Pressed Steel about a point. The market steadied and became dull after the first hour expired.

The character of the selling in evidence encouraged bear traders to attack prices with the purpose of dislodging vulnerable accounts. On the decline there was indications of heavy unloading by leading standing pools and prices broke rapidly. Amalgamated ran off 3½ under a continuous stream of offerings and its subsidiary stock, Anaconda broke 1½. Rock Island was under severe pressure and was forced down 2¼. Canadian Pacific slumped 2½, Union Pacific ran off 1⅝, Northwestern 2 and the active list generally 1@2 or more. There was a drop of 2 in Sloss-Sheffield steel, 2⅛ in United Railway Investment preferred and 3 in U. S. Rubber preferred. Short covering rallied Amalgamated 1⅜, Canadian Pacific 1 and Anaconda 2. Missouri Pacific made a good recovery but the rally generally was feverish and led to dull trading at once. Rock Island bonds were weak and the bond market generally irregular at noon.

Selling was resumed from all quarters after the midday period of dullness and earlier losses were extended a fraction in the Pacifics, St. Paul, Amalgamated and United States Steel preferred. Other stocks showed little signs of recovery. Sugar broke 2¼, Gas 3½ and St. Louis & San Francisco 3, but the last named rallied 1½. Texas & Pacific land trust advanced 4. A period of quiet in the selling brought only a feeble rally to prices outside of Baltimore & Ohio, which recovered fully. Bear professionals, noting the futile attempts to force a rally attacked the market again and forced the level of prices substantially lower than before. Declines below yesterday's close reached 4¾ in Copper, 3¼ in Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and Kansas City Southern, 3¼ in Pullman and 2 to 2⅝ in Rock Island Union Pacific, St. Paul, Tennessee Coal and Brooklyn Transit. Rallies of a point were made by a few stocks, but were not well held.

Further declines were made in less active stocks, reaching in St. Joe & Grand Island preferred 7, Hocking Valley second preferred 3, Central of New Jersey 6, General Electric 3¼, Soo preferred 2⅞, National of Mexico preferred 2⅝, Delaware & Hudson 2 and United States Leather 1. Brooklyn Union Gas and Third Avenue made gains of about 2. Reading second preferred 1⅜ and New York, Chicago & St. Louis 1. A final drive was made against the market which carried Union Pacific ⅛ lower than before. Otherwise the eagerness of the shorts to cover sustained prices on the break. Rumors of freight handlers' strike in the West, were assigned as a cause of the weakness. There were recoveries in St. Paul, Rock Island, the various Pacifics, National of Mexico, United States Steel preferred, Amalgamated, Sugar and Brooklynh Transit of 1 to 1⅝, the latter for Rock Island. There was some slight wavering at the last but the closing was active and generally steady.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf to Coe Commission Co.: Comment made last night that the weakness of Rock Island prevented a recovery in the general market. It was said the selling of this stock is by Western interests. Followers in St. Louis of the men who sold the 'Frisco system to the Rock Island, and who bought the latter on the announcement of the deal are now liquidating. The Moore-Reid-Leeds elements is also reported to have supplied stock though its friends declare that such rumors are untrue, adding that crops on the big systems territory are above the average and that for the current fiscal year the Rock Island will earn about eight per cent on its common stocks. The decline, however, does not lessen confidence in the theory that as a rule the market is grounding on bottom. It is an old Wall Street saying that "it is a hard matter to bull stocks at the bottom as it is to bear them at the top," and it is recalled that traders who fought the re-rise last August lost a lot of money before the speculative tide turned their way. Therefore, the fact that following their big decline of the past few months stocks rally sluggishly being slow to respond both to earnings and efforts to put them up is not regarded as an indication that the outcome will be other than an advance from the present low level of prices. Talk of the refunding of back dividends on Leather preferred was used as a bear argument on the Leather stocks as was also the fact that these issues had not participated in the general decline. On the other hand the buying of United States Steel stocks, Eries, Reading, Atchison, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific was called very good.

New York to Coe Commission Co.: Rock Island stock is now being attacked, but it is the general opinion that the rest of the market will break from it as the list is too strong to be affected by the drive against the above stock subsequent to the opening.

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: It looks as though the insiders have employed brokers to sell stock in order to pull the market down so as to catch stop orders which a great many brokers and specialists have. Think Amalgamated Copper is a purchase on all drives.

New York to W. H. Laidley & Co.: Harrison's selling of 20,000 shares of Amalgamated was credited to Lewisohns who appear to have abandoned the attempt to establish a higher price for the metal. Foreign houses report that a Liverpool operator of prominence had been forced to liquidate.

COPPER GOSSIP.

Paine, Webber & Co.: We believe the coppers generally a big purchase. The weakness today is caused by a London operator in both stocks and metal becoming embarrassed and forced to sell. Purchases of Range and Centennial will show good profit before long at present prices.

STRANDED SHIP

Tugs Inman and Schenck Go to W. P. Palmer's Relief.

Independent Tug Company Is Negotiating For Fourth Tug.

The tugs Inman and Schenck, of the Great Lakes Towing company, have been dispatched to Sand Island, where the steamer W. P. Palmer, of the Pittsburg Steamship company, is ashore.

The Palmer was bound down with a load of ore and ran ashore in the fog. The news reached Duluth at an early hours this morning in a message from Bayfield.

Sand Island is one of the Apostle group, between sixty and seventy miles from Duluth.

At the office of the Pittsburg Steamship company this morning only the most meager information regarding the stranded steamship had been received.

Assistant General Manager Harvey, of the Pittsburg company, said that he expected to hear from the tugs late this afternoon. He believed they would reach Sand Island this noon or shortly afterwards, but as it is about thirty miles from a point where communication can be established with this office, it is doubtful if word can be secured here before night.

AFTER FOURTH TUG.

Independent Tug Company Is Branching Out.

The Independent tug line is conducting negotiations for a fourth tug which will be added to its fleet within a few weeks. The Independent line at present has three tugs in commission, the Bowling, Carpenter, and Merrill. It was announced by the officials of the company at the opening of navigation that they would have four or five tugs in commission during the summer months, and steps are now being taken to secure the fourth one.

The towing business in the harbor has been active during the past month and both companies have found plenty of business for their tugs. The three tugs of the Independent line have been found insufficient to meet the demands which have been placed upon them.

The name of the new tug has not yet been made public. It will be brought from one of the lower lake ports and is said to be a powerful and modern boat.

The Great Lakes company now has nine tugs in commission: Schenck, Zenith, Excelsior, Superior, Inman, Record, Carrington, Abbott and Buffalo. This makes a total of thirteen tugs which are at present in commission in the harbor, the new tug of the Independent line making the fourteenth.

COAL BOATS ARRIVE.

Eight coal-laden boats have arrived in Duluth during the past twenty-four hours carrying between 25,000 and 30,000 tons of coal.

THE W. J. CARTER ASHORE.

Port Colborne, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer W. J. Carter, owned by R. & J. W. Greenwood of this place, is ashore near Killarney, in Georgian bay. A dispatch from Little Current says that tug and lighter have gone from there to the stranded boat. The Carter has a cargo of coal.

GRAIN RATES FALL OFF.

Chicago, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain rates fell off to 1¼ cents on corn and 1⅜ cents on wheat today, after a vain effort on the part of vessemen to prevent it. Three or four boats went in at the decline.

THE PRICE OF COAL

Advance of Ten Cents on Anthracite After This Week.

Difference of Opinion as to Possible Shortage In Supply.

While none of the local coal offices have received notice to that effect, it is expected that the regular monthly increase of 10 cents in the price of hard coal will go on June 1, raising it from $7.35 to $7.45 a ton.

The custom of advancing the price 10 cents a ton each month during the summer, inaugurated a couple of seasons ago, will prevail all through the summer, so that on Sept. 1 the price will be $7.75 a ton.

Coal is not coming in now so freely as it was earlier in the season, the Eastern demand taking up so much of it that comparatively little filters through to the Northwest. At the same time, enough is coming in to supply all present needs, and there appears to be no serious danger of such a shortage as there was last winter.

Local coalmen do not appear to have the same opinion regarding the outlook for next winter. Some of them believe there will be no difficulty in securing ample stocks for next winter, while others believe that, while the shortage will be nothing like it was last winter, it will still not be up to what it should be.

"I can see no reason why stocks should not be ample this winter," said one manager this morning. "The testimony before the arbitration commission showed that the men had been working about four days a week in the past. If they put them to work for six days, I believe there would be no difficulty in making up the accumulated shortage and meeting coming demands."

Another manager had another opinion.

"The annual capacity of the mines is about 60,000,000 tons," he said. "Duluth is cleaned out and could use 1,000,000 tons to produce a fair stock. That is just one place, and there are hundreds of other places where stocks have been cleaned out almost entirely. You can see that 50,000,000 tons will not come near making up the shortage. At the same time, we are in a worse place than the Eastern places, where they are clamoring for coal and offering big spot cash. The nature of our business is such that we cannot do that, and it is easy to see that the spot cash people will get the first call. There are only a few roads that get a longer haul by sending coal this way, and most of them get their long haul in shipping East, so it is natural for them to send their coal where they can get the most freight out of it. I do not imagine that the shortage in the Northwest this winter will be serious, but I do not believe that stocks will be short of what they ought to be."

The Pioneer Fuel company is moving its East End office from the northeast corner of Superior street and Third avenue east, where it has been for thirteen years, to the south side of the street, a little east of Third avenue. This places it just above the company's yards, giving it a shorter and easier haul on coal.

Mr. H. Pierson, of 924 Third street east, a carpenter by trade, says: "For two years I was troubled with kidney complaint and while not severe enough to lay me up it affected my entire system and I felt generally run down. There was an extreme weakness of the kidneys and the secretions were very irregular. I tried a number of different remedies and took a lot of medicines, but nothing seemed suited to my case. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills very highly recommended and being advised to try them, I procured a box at W. A. Abbett's drug store, corner of Superior street and Second avenue west. I had not taken them long before I was satisfied they were doing me good, so I continued their use and improved rapidly. In a short time they thoroughly relieved me of the trouble."

MEMORIAL DAY G. A. R. PROGRAM

Decoration of Graves In Forenoon—Public Meeting In Afternoon.

The program for the observance of Memorial day has been practically completed, and plans are all ready for complying with the duty of paying the annual tribute to the memory of the dead soldiers of the wars of 1861-65 and 1898.

The principal decoration exercises will be held at Forest Hill cemetery, in the department known as Soldiers' Rest, where Willis A. Gorman post will preside. The honored dead are scattered all over among the various cemeteries of the city, and at 10 o'clock all the graves will be visited by comrades detailed for the purpose. After the exercises at the cemeteries, the members of Willis A. Gorman and Joshua B. Culver posts will march to their halls, where, at the noon hour, the Women's Relief corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. will serve lunch.

The public exercises will be held at the High School Assembly hall, and at 1:30 o'clock the veterans will march to the High School building. The exercises there will consist of the usual ritual service, the reading of orders, addresses by Rev. S. P. Long, S. F. White and M. W. Bates, and several musical numbers. Florence Clement will sing "Cover Them Over," by Ormsby. Sylvan Langlois, baritone, and George Lyding, tenor, of the Northwestern Opera company, will sing patriotic numbers through the courtesy of the management of the Lyceum theater.

At the conclusion of the High School exercises the veterans will accompany the members of the Women's Relief corps to the canal, where the ceremony of strewing flowers upon the waters in memory of the dead sailors of the war will be observed.

WORKING HARD TO BE IN FORM

Lacrosse Players Expect to Give St. Paul Men a Stiff Game.

Duluth will be represented this season by one of the strongest lacrosse teams ever organized this side of the Canadian border.

More than two dozen candidates practice almost daily for regular positions and indications are that the men will play a great game against St. Paul's crack team on Decoration day.

The game will be played in the new athletic park being built for the Northern league baseball club at Thirty-fourth avenue west and Jenswold street, and will practically be the opening of that park to the public.

The city contains many former residents of England and Canada that are greatly interested in the sport and the indications are that the attendance will be unusually large.

Americans are not so familiar with this great sport, but in cities where it has been tried it has made many enthusiastic friends and if given proper support here in the St. Paul game it will thrive in Duluth, and result in bringing teams from Winnipeg, Chicago and elsewhere.

The St. Paul players are all said to be experts and men with considerable money in that city are taking up the sport and assisting the team financially in order that St. Paul may claim the American championship at the close of the current season.

One week from Decoration day the Duluth team will go to St. Paul for a return game.

Comparison of What Woodsmen Eat Now and In Past.

Lumbermen in the Northwest have been commenting much in the last few years on the much better treatment afforded woodsmen in their employ, both in the matter of wages and food, than the employes enjoyed ten and twelve years ago. A recent issue of a prominent lumber publication gave a list of the articles of food furnished in the lumber camps of the Northwest twelve years ago in comparison with the invoice of 1902 and the list, which follows contains some interesting items which are claimed to be proof that the lumberjack of today is a much better fed person that were the lumberjacks of former years.

Dried apples, (not evaporated),	Evaporated apples,
Yellow sugar,	Granulated sugar,
Common soap.	Comfort soap,
Tub butter,	Butter (good),
Currants (by the barrel),	Cleaned currants,
No towels.	Crash toweling,
	Tomatoes,
	Corn,
	Cornmeal,
	Jam.

In addition to the 1902 list might be added beans, peas, rice, evaporated apricots, peaches, dates, prunes, figs, raisins and even toilet soap.

"And yet," says the lumber publication, "the lumber jack kicks on the 'grub.'"

TO INTEREST GERMANY

Cambridge, Mass., May 28.—Prof. Hugo Munsterburg of Harvard university will sail Saturday for Germany, where he will officially represent the St. Louis exposition in an effort to secure the co-operation of the German government and educational institutions in the international congress to be held in St. Louis next year.

AT WEST DULUTH

After residing in this country for over a quarter of a century, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Swanson, an aged West Duluth couple, will return to Sweden next week to pass the remainder of their days in their native land.

Mr. Swanson came to America twenty-six years ago, settling in Southern Illinois. He was 38 years of age at the time he landed in this country. His wife came to America with her parents when but a child and has resided here for nearly forty years. She is about six years younger than her hubsand, who is 64.

They were married in 1889, shortly after which they moved to North Dakota and took up a homestead, where they lived for a number of years. Five years ago Mr. Swanson sold his farm in North Dakota and moved to Minneapolis, and last summer moved to West Duluth, in order that his son, who is a millman, might find employment in the mills here.

This spring the son decided to go to the Pacific coast, and the old man, feeling that he was a stranger in a strange city, formed the resolve of going back to the land of his birth to spend the last years of his life. The project was agreeable to his wife, and the aged couple will leave next week for Sweden, which they have not seen for so many years.

REV. FATHER DUNNE.

Lecture on "The Average Man" Creates Fine Impression.

Rev. Arthur B. C. Dunne attracted a large audience to the Great Eastern hall last evening.

The subject of Rev. Dunne's lecture was "The Average Man." It was a discourse on life, and its tendency is to make those who hear it desire to live better lives.

It puts the hearer into right relation with his surroundings and teaches him to properly value the gifts with which nature has endowed him. Health, a sound body, labor and love are, according to the teachings of the lecturer, more to be desired than wealth.

Mr. Dunne is a man of impressive personality, gifted and cultured. He is eloquent and impressive in his delivery, and the subject matter of his lecture shows long and earnest study of the subject and a close acquaintance with mankind in all its different forms.

Those who heard Rev. Dunne last evening owe a debt of gratitude to the officials of the St. Ignatius Catholic church, who were instrumental in bringing him to West Duluth.

This evening Rev. Mr. Dunne will speak on "American Patriotism" and tomorrow evening on "Woman's Debt to Christianity."

RISE OF GREAT INDUTSTRY

The Rapid Development of Sumatra's Tobacco Field.

We buy every year from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 worth of Sumatra leaf for cigar wrappers. Several other nations also buy large quantities of this superior left, says the New York Sun.

We might think from the enormous development of tobacco growing in Sumatra that the industry had been in progress for many years. It is in fact less than forty years old. Octave Collet, who for years has been prominently associated with it, has written a series of articles on "Tobacco in Sumatra," published in the Bulletin of the Societe de Etudes Coloniales and from this authoritative source the following facts are taken about this special development of tobacco growing which has scarcely a parallel.

Practically all the tobacco of Sumatra is grown on the coastal plain stretching along the northeastern and east central parts of the island. The growers do not speak of Sumatra tobacco, but the crop is known as Deli tobacco, the name of the little Sultanate on the east coast where the industry began and most of the crop is raised.

Nearly all the plantations are centered in Deli and the two Sultanates adjoining it on the north and the south. Deli has become almost one vast plantation of tobacco. The low plain where it grows is limited by the sea in the east and the mountains in the west, where the conditions of climate and soil are ideal and the best qualities of leaf are grown.

Forty years ago this year the industry was started by a Dutchman nemed Nienhuys, who will be known to fame as the founder of the great tobacco colony of Sumatra. Up to that time the Dutch had no idea of this opportunity for starting so magnificent an industry.

Early in that year an Arab named Abdulah, appeared at Batavia, pretended to be a prince and said that he had acquired from the sultan of Deli a monopoly of the sale and cultivation of certain products in that country. He told his story to one of the business firms of Batavia and offered, for cash down, to open the way for most profitable business operations in Delhi. He said that 2000 tons of tobacco were being shipped every year to various parts of the East Indies, that the price was low, the quality excellent, and that the industry had a great future.

The firm decided to investigate the matter and accordingly sent Nienhuys, with several other Europeans, to Deli, where it was found that Abdullah was a person of repute, that he had greatly exaggerated the quantity of leaf produced and that the quality was very poor. The disgusted Europeans decided to return to Batavia; all except Nienhuys, who had had much experience in tobacco growing in Java, believed there was a prospect for the industry in Deli and decided to remain there and make a thorough study of the probabalities.

With the aid of the sultan he cleared a forest tract and began to raise tobacco. The entire country was heavily timbered and it has been necessary to clear the land before opening any of the great plantations that now cover that region.

The more Nienhuys experimented the more thoroughly the became convinced that the natural conditions were exceptionally favorable for tobacco growing. His first small crop was of poor quality, but he knew how to improve his crops by the introduction of other varieties of leaf, and in 1886 he sent to Amsterdam about 40,000 pounds of tobacco of superior quality.

The attention of the tobacco trade of Northwest Europe was at once turned to the new source of supply, and in 1870 the now famous Deli Maatschappij, or company was formed. Nienhuys was placed at the head of the company's interests. Today 20,000 laborers are employed on its plantations.

The development of the industry though very rapid was retarded a little at first by the scarcity of labor. The natives in that aregion were not accustomed to regular hours and were too inefficient to be depended upon for the hard work of clearing the lands and preparing them for the seed. It was determined to import Chinese coolies, and today many thousands of them are in the service of the various tobacco companies.

The kings of Malabar are also largely represented among the laborers and so are the Javanese. For years past the labor question has ceased to be perplexing.

There are now forty-four companies engaged in growing Deli tobacco. Many thousands of acres had been cleared of their forests and turned into tobacco fields. The older companies had the advantage of being able to select the best lands, but the later companies were able to profit by the experience of the pioneers and thus avoid many perplexities that annoyed the earlier growers. The pioneer company, the Deli Maatschappij, is now cultivating 200,000 acres, divided into twenty-one plantations.

The profits of the business have been very great. The mean annual dividends of the five oldest companies, for example, have been: Deli company, 58 per cent every year from 1870 to 1900; the Deli Batavia company, 25 per cent, from 1874 to 1900; the Arendsburg company, 68 per cent, from 1889 to 1900; the Amsterdam-Deli company, 45 per cent, from 1882 to 1900, and the Sluembah company, 35 per cent, from 1889 to 1900. Most of these companies were organized in the Netherlands, but six are English, two are Swiss and there are also quite a number of planters of other nationalities, the Germans leading.

Sumatra tobaccos are sold by Dutch and German houses and are consumed throughout the world, but principally in Germany, the United States, Austria and France. The exports have steadily and rapidly grown every year.

In 1886 they amounted to 159 bales of leaf, each bail containing 75 kilogramt of tobacco. In 1869 the export crop was 1281 bales, and in the following year the great development of the industry began. The export crop of 1900 was 223,730 bales. Thus the crop has grown from 106 tons in 1869 to 19,700 tons in 1900.

In opening a plantation the first work done is to mauld a road through the center of it and then to begin felling the trees and cutting down the underbrush on either side of it. Hundreds of men are employed at this labor.

When the axmen have completed their work the ground is covered with a chaotic mass of fallen timber and brush, which is permitted to dry for a few weeks and is then burned. The scrub becomes completely dried and in the burning develops a very high degree of heat, which facilitates the reduction of the larger timber to ashes.

The roots of the stumps are chopped off and the stumps are torn out of the ground by yokes of oxen attached to heavy log chains that are fastened around the stumps. Then the ashes are spread evenly over the ground, the potash they contain being one of the best fertilizers for the tobacco crop. The ground is then ploughed and the work of raising the first crop begins.

When the tobacco is baled it is sent by wagons, railroad, or river boat to the ports of shipment. The first lots that appear on the European market are generally the choicest tobaccos of each plantation.

The United States, which buys every year about 40,000 bales of wrapper leaf, is very early in the market and is by far the largest customer for the lighter shades of the long leaf. The principal market of the Sumatran wrapper leaf is Amsterdam, which has succeeded in maintaining its supremacy in spite of the efforts of Bremen to win the Dutch trade. Most of the tobacco going to Bremen is the harvest of the numerous German plantations established in Sumatra.

In thirty-two years the value of the Deli tobacco sold on the Amsterdam market has amounted to $280,000,000. These figures may be taken as a condensed statement of the wonderful development of Sumatra's tobacco industry in the last decades of the nineteenth century.

A REFORM MEASURE.

Of course, as soon as the first pleasurable features of the engagement had worn off, she wished to reform him, says the Brooklyn Eagle. He really didn't need very much reforming, but that is always the proper thing to do, nevertheless. If a girl can't reform a man, what's the particular pleasure of having him?

But she was a wise girl. To ask him to do it "just for me" hardly seemed to be fair; he should be made to see that it was going to be very much to his advantage—not his prospective advantage but his immediate advantage.

"You smoke," she said.

"A little," he admitted.

"You must give it up," she asserted.

"But an occasional cigar," he protested, "is enjoyable and comforting, and does no harm."

"Still," she persisted, "there are things you like better."

"Yes, indeed," he answered.

"Kisses, for instance." And she blushed.

"Very much better," he asserted.

"Well," she said, "you shall have a kiss for every cigar you would have smoked and didn't."

This seemed to be such a rapturous arrangement that he made haste to inform her that now and then he was in the habit of drinking a glass of beer. Thereupon, to make the reform more complete, the contract was extended.

The next morning he stopped in on his way to the office, much to her distress, for she was not prepared to receive him.

"I have come," he said, "for my after-breakfast cigar."

He got the agreed substitute, but she was heard to protest, "Oh, George, you don't smoke as much as that, do you?"

That evening he collected for his noon-time cigar, those that he would have smoked in the afternoon, two that he would have enjoyed after dinner, and then he began on the beer.

"Why, George," she exclaimed at last, happily, "if I hadn't lured you away from this dreadful habit, you certainly would have been intoxicated by this time."

But she knew she was engaged in a great and good work, and she went about her task with the utmost cheerfulness.

How the facts leaked out it is difficult to say. She explained his numerous calls at unusual and inconvenient times by saying that she was encouraging and strengthening him in an effort to give up some bad habits, but she made no mention of her method. Nevertheless, other members of the family learned it, and one day her father called her to him.

"I believe in reform," he said pleasantly.

"Yes?" she returned, inquiringly.

"Oh, yes. And I appreciate that reforms are not accomplished without some annoyance and discomfort to others than the reformer. But these three or four calls a day—"

"Well?" aggressively.

"Don't you think you'd better let him smoke just a little?"

Every piano in the store will be sold at a reduction during this week and the above list is only an indication of the good things that are offered. If you intend buying a piano any time within a year it will pay you to anticipate your wants at this time.

NOTICE.

All pianos sold during this sale must be delivered on or before Monday, June 1, as the purpose of the sale is to make room at that time and we cannot deviate from this rule when pianos are sold at such sweeping reductions in price.
